SUDDENLY STRICKEN

PROF. ROSENSTENGEL DIES IN FACULTY MEETING.

One of Oldest Professors in the University—Useful Career—Noted German Scholar.

The announcement of the sudden death of Professor William H. Rosenstengel, while attending a meeting of the faculty yesterday afternoon, was a great shock to his large host of friends and has cast a gloom over both University and town circles. He died very suddenly while attending the regular weekly meeting of the faculty in Science Hall. Apoplexy is given as the cause of his death.

Died in Faculty Meeting.

Dean Johnson of the Engineering faculty was addressing the meeting concerning the new engineering building. Professor Owen had just made some comment to Professor Rosenstengel regarding the dean's remarks and had received a reply, when he noticed that the professor's head was slowly falling backward and that he was breathing heavily. His rising to support the head caused a stir among the faculty members. Members near at hand came to his aid and Dr. W. L. Miller applied water to his forehead and other restoratives were applied but to no avail. His pulse fluttered weakly and the stricken man breathed a few times before death came. He had made no sound, and died with no signs of pain and evidently without the knowledge that he was passing away. He was then carried out in his chair into one of the recitation rooms, but he was already dead. Dr. L. R. Head was summoned and shortly afterward the body was removed to the saddened home. Professor Rosenstengel has been suffering from Bright's disease for a year or more. Early last June, before the University closed, he took a rest which benefited him greatly. He spent some time at the sanitarium at Girard, near Waukesha, and a large portion of last summer was passed in watering places on the New England coast. He returned in the fall much improved and was carrying his full amount of work when the end came.

Prof. Rosenstengel has been so long identified with the University that nearly every alumnus living in the state is familiar with the eccentricities of the abrupt-spoken professor.

There are probably more stories afloat regarding happenings in "Rosy's" classes than of any other professor on the hill. He was an abrupt man, who would brook no inattention on the part of his pupils, and was not slow to criticize sharply any student who appeared to attend classes for anything other than downright work. His figure was a prominent one on the campus, and his interest in all things pertaining to university progress never flagged.

Question of His Successor.

The name of Dr. Voss has already been mentioned as Prof. Rosenstengel's logical successor. It is, however, too soon to secure any definite information in regard to the matter. Dr. Voss is fully capable of assuming the duties of the deceased, and it is quite probable that he will receive consideration.

Of all the states in the union, Wisconsin has one of the largest percentages of German population; every community has German tradesmen, teachers or farmers. The German-American cherishes the memories and legends of his fatherland, as does the descendant of the Puritan those of New England. There was probably no man in the state who did more by tongue or pen to satisfy his longings for the stories and doings of Germany as did the head of our German department. Nor are the admirers of his work confined to German-Americans alone; they include all who are interested in the German language and literature.

William Henry Rosenstengel, A. M., was born Sept. 10, 1842, in Barmen, Rhenish Prussia, and had just passed his fifty-eighth birthday. His early education was received in Barmen Realschule. He was a teacher in Elberfeld and Radevormwald. In '65 he came to America and located at St. Louis Mo. There he taught from '66 to '79 being second-assistant in the St. Louis Central High School for nine years. In '79 he was elected Professor of the German Language and Literature in the University of Wisconsin.

His honorary degree of A. M. was received from Williams College. He came here when the University had less than four hundred students and three buildings and he saw it grow to 2,400 students and twelve buildings. Professor Rosenstengel was married to Lena Wirth, who with five children survives. The children are Wm. R. and Rudolph, now in Buffalo, engaged in electrical work; Mrs. Fred A. Johnson, who has been in Europe nearly two years, and Misses Hattie and Helen, who are at home. Mrs. Johnson is now at Paris and has been apprised by cable of the sad occurrence. The sons have also been notified and are expected to arrive today. No other relatives are left in this country.

His duties here have been the teaching of the German language and literature. He has delivered lectures on German literature in various parts of Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and in Chicago and Louisville and was the author of numerous German works, including many text books. He has been a member of the Public School Library of St. Louis, of the Board of Education, Madison; secretary and president of the National German Teachers' association, and for eleven years president of the National German American Teachers' seminary, Milwaukee.

Professor Rosenstengel published many books of general literary interest, including, Die Gebrueder Grimm, Ludwig Uhland, Friedrich Rueckert, Martin Luther and a history of the early German settlers in Madison. But large as this list is, perhaps his general literary work has been done for the periodical press. He was for years assistant editor of the Erziehungslaetter and Lehrer Post of Milwaukee. He was a regular contributor to Brockhaus' Conversations Lexikon of Leipzig, Germany and also to a score or more of the best German periodicals in this country. Few surpassed him in knowledge of the origin, growth and construction of the German language.

Funeral Arrangements.

The funeral will be held Thursday p. m. at 2 o'clock from the residence of the deceased on Francis street. University exercises will be suspended for that afternoon. All the German classes will be suspended until after the funeral.

The funeral will be attended by many well-known Germans of Milwaukee and by the officers of the German Continued on fourth page.

PREPARE FOR CHICAGO

SECRET PRACTICE EVERY DAY THIS WEEK.

Tickets Now on Sale—Prospects of Game With Northwestern—No Change in Illinois Game.

The Varsity practiced behind closed gates last evening and secret practice will be continued from now on until the team leaves for Chicago on Friday morning. Coach McCarthy had charge of the scrubs and drilled them in Chicago formations which were used with good effect against the regulars later in the scrimmage. The men are all in good condition and with the benefit of a few more practices will show the Maroons that "There are no quitters in Wisconsin." Coach Stagg, who was an interested spectator at the Notre Dame game Saturday, says the work of the Badgers is superior to that of last year. Such an admission from a person as taciturn as Stagg usually is, shows that he is fully aware of the strength of Wisconsin and will waste no opportunity to strengthen his team against our style of play.

The railroad tickets and the tickets for the game were placed on sale at Rundell's this morning and the advance sale promises to be large. The tickets include a section of the grandstand, boxes and carriage spaces. The railroad companies have again agreed on the low rate of three dollars for the round trip. Tickets will be good on the special train leaving Madison via the C. & N. W. Ry. at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning and will hold good until Monday night, returning over the St. Paul road.

Negotiations are now pending with Northwestern for a game on Nov. 24. Owing to the high standing of the Purple this year such a game would be a great drawing card and would give us a direct line on our comparison with Iowa. Northwestern meets the Hawkeyes on Thanksgiving day. Hollister's answer had not been received up to the time of going to press. Today contrary to the rumors that are in circulation Manager King definitely states that the Thanksgiving game with Illinois will be played at Madison as originally scheduled.

DAIRY SCHOOL OPENS.

Large Increase in Registration—New Course in Farm Engineering.

The University of Wisconsin Dairy School will open to-morrow, to-day being registration day. Indications point to a more successful year's work than has ever been done before. The registration will reach one hundred and twenty-five. This is a considerable increase over last year's registration and includes students from California, Ohio, Indiana and Ontario, Canada.

A new feature of the school established for the first time this year is the course in farm engineering. This will include practical work in mechanics, farm machinery, plumbing and whatever will prove valuable to the farmer. This work is required of all students in the course. Preparations for the work have been in progress for some time and the dairy students will start in to-morrow with the full course.

The reputation of the Wisconsin Dairy School is world-wide, it being admitted that the school here is unequalled by any in the country with the possible exception the school at Cornell University. With the constant improvement and enlargement that is being made it is probably that Wisconsin will maintain her enviable position.

PICTURES FOR NEW BUILDING.

Engineering Department Receives Many Artistic Donations.

About two months ago, Dean Johnson of the College of Engineering began sending out a series of letters to a multitude of railroad and steamship companies and to manufacturers of engineering products of all kinds. With every letter was enclosed a cut of the new Engineering building. It was explained that our Engineering school was by far the best in the West and that it was destined to become one of the most beautiful in the world. It was further explained that the walls had been especially tinted and special pains taken throughout with the view of decorating them with pictures. Contributions were requested in the latter line. The school offered to pay expressage and to furnish frames. The result has been astonishing. Hundreds of pictures have come to the college and they are still arriving.

The appropriation of $150 by the Board of Regents to frame these pictures has not been called upon as much as was expected. About ninety of the pictures have come beautifully framed, and in most cases expressage paid. Moreover, almost invariably those called upon for contributions have expressed their pleasure in presenting the pictures. Many send their catalogues along and offer to contribute reproductions on a large scale of any cut contained in them. Such as these will prove extremely valuable in the study of such objects as engineers are concerned in.

The pictures are being put all over the building—in the halls, reading rooms, recitation rooms, and laboratories. Over $1,000-worth of pictures are at hand for this purpose. Many of the scenes presented are simply superb. Some are perfect gems of art. Almost without exception the pictures are of finest quality. Many extremely beautiful colored photographs have been presented, and some have already been hung. When the choice of pictures has been made and they have been placed upon the walls of the grand building the rooms will "look like parlors," as has been happily said. The sense of high artistic ideal pervades the whole structure and almost irresistibly affects the beholder. Students will find it worth their while to thoroughly inspect this latest addition to the University, if only to see the handsome pictures found there.

Among the contributors of the finest pictures are the Union Pacific, the New York Central, the Colorado and Southern, the Colorado Midland, and the Denver and Rio Grande.

Hall Reception.

The young ladies of the hall have issued invitations for a reception to be held Friday evening at the hall. This is the first reception this year, and promises to be a very pleasant event.

The Madison Literary Club met at the home of Prof. Wood yesterday evening. Prof. Hobbs read a paper. His subject was "Art as the Handmaid of Literature." The paper was discussed by Mrs. Conover, Prof. Kremers, Prof. Stearns and Prof. Wood.

A Sad Loss.

A venerable figure has passed out of University life. In the death of Professor Rosenstengel the University loses one of its oldest professors and one of its most loyal supporters. For many years the German department has had his fostering care and under his direction has developed from insignificant beginnings into its present size and importance. The impress which he has left upon the University can never be effaced.

Personally he commanded a wide respect among students and friends of the University. Under a brusque exterior were hidden kindness and a lofty appreciation of duty. All his work was enhanced by the genuine love and enthusiasm that he brought to its accomplishment. He was one of the few of the old guard who were still left with us and his loss will be a sad blow to the University and to the large circle of lovers of German throughout the state with whom the professor was in contact. The place and manner of his death testify to his devotion to duty. Few men leave so long and so honorable a record behind them. The student body sympathize most heartily with the stricken family and friends in their bereavement.

Reduction of Work.

The announcement by Dean Johnson of the decrease in the amount of work required of engineering students in the lower classes must come as a grateful one to those interested. For several years students of the college of mechanics and engineering have complained that they were burdened with considerably more work than the "hill" men were subjected to. This has to a great extent been true and the reduction of this excessive work is something that has been needed for some time. Dean Johnson is to be congratulated on taking the necessary steps toward making the change.

Chicago.

Jolly up on that Chicago game! The foot ball season isn't over. We want to beat those fellows and beat them by a large score.

Chemical Addresses.

A number of noted chemists have promised to make addresses to the students during the year. Friends of the University and citizens of Waupun have provided the funds necessary to defray the expenses of this course.

The first address will be given next Monday by Dr. Wm. McMurtrie, president of the American Chemical Society and chemist of the Royal Baking Powder company. The subject of the address will be "A Thorough Scientific Training as a Preparation for Industry."

Dr. McMurtrie is a man himself thoroughly trained in scientific chemistry and probably the best industrial chemist of the country. He is an energetic speaker and thoroughly enthusiastic in the line of his address. The address should be of value to engineering students as well as to those more interested in pure science. The address will be at 4 p. m., on Monday, Nov. 19, in the Physics Lecture room.

Important Observations.

Prof. Turneure's work in studying the effect of moving trains on railroad bridges, two years ago, is bearing important fruit. The latest specifications which have been prepared for railroad bridges and which are now being discussed by the leading bridge engineers of America are based upon the results of Prof. Turneure's test. Prof. Turneure's results were published in the transactions of the American Society of C. E. and attracted a great deal of attention at the time. They were the first reliable observations ever taken in America for determining accurately the effects of moving trainloads on bridges. He used an apparatus which was obtained in Europe the previous year. It now appears probable that these results will form the basis of the future practice in this country in designing railroad bridges.

Ernest Seton-Thompson Coming.

Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson has been engaged to deliver two lectures at the Congregational church on the afternoon and evening of November 28th. The subject of his lectures are "The Personality of Wild Animals" and "Wild Animals I have Known." Few men of our time have made a more rapid entry into the world of literature than has Mr. Seton-Thompson, who owes his success quite as much to his pencil as to his pen. Those who have read the delightful stories of "Wild Animals I Have Known" will need no future introduction to this now famous naturalist, artist, author, and lecturer. To others it is perhaps enough to say that Mr. Seton-Thompson's books have out-jungled the "Jungle Books" of Rudyard Kipling.

The members of the Cross Country Club took a short practice run along the University drive yesterday afternoon.

Indiana University is considering the idea of having a trophy Wisconsin has one and it is far from empty.

California and Leland Stanford have agreed to employ as football coaches only alumni of their respective institutions.

—Since President and Mrs. Adams sailed a short time ago no one has heard from them. Their steamer is already due at the port of Genoa and it is supposed that they are sojourning there at present. President Adams has not told of their plans for the winter but it is thought that they will spend the most of their time along the Southern Mediterranean.

—Lester C. Manson, ex-law, '02, now employed in the Census Bureau at Washington, is here for a few days.
