LAW STUDENTS TO HELP TODAY IN FUND DRIVE

"Agrics" Subscribe Over
$2,000 for Memorial Union

Today the members of the Law school will hold sway on the campus in the endeavor to outdo all other schools in putting the $100,000 Union Memorial drive over the top. The law shop students have kept their plans a secret, but they promise to overshadow all marks made.

Yesterday the members of the College of Agriculture and of the Home Economics department held a parade composed of tractors, teams and rough riders. A demonstration of "shooting up" the town was given by several of the "agrics."

A mass meeting was held also, at which Dean H. L. Russell, Prof. G. C. Humphrey, Professor Mortimer and Professor Wright spoke. They emphasized the need for every member of the college to contribute toward the new Memorial Union building.

As a result of the vigorous campaign waged by the "agrics," $2,035.50 was raised by them alone, bringing the total for the day up to $2,141. The total for the drive up to date is only $60,167.46, which means that $40,000 has to be raised among the students in the next four days.

Members of the Union board stated last night that the students must put every ounce of energy behind the drive to put it across. They stated that the spirit of the university would be shown by the results of the drive for funds.

CARDINAL NINE TO BATTLE MEMBERS OF OCTOPUS STAFF

"Fellers—if you know first base from home plate bring out your gloves. Girls—come out and yell."

This summons on the Cardinal bulletin board calls the members of staff to the Octopus-Cardinal baseball game which is to occur Sunday morning on the lower campus at 9 o'clock.

Yesterday as the clock struck 3, the campus jesters received the haughty challenge from the newshounds and were not long in snatching up the glove. "Dick" Loewenthal is marshalling the Cardinal forces as self-appointed captain, and "Bob" Herz is likewise plotting for a decisive Octopus victory.

The small matter of the lineup has not yet been completely decided upon, but Coach Lowman is expected to pick material therefrom for his mightiest stars in the season of 1920. At least so say the scribes themselves, who are noted for shunning publicity and glory.

The scene of the carnage was chosen on the lower campus instead of Camp Randall because the players want to have no one denied the privilege of watching the great match, and 9 o'clock on Sunday morning is not exactly a popular hour. From the hordes of ball players who have been blocking traffic in the streets for the last two weeks, interest would seem to be rather general.

Umpires for the game have been chosen by the Cardinal team, and are "Al" Hamburger, business manager for The Capital Times, and Dean Scott H. Goodnight.

Business Manager for "Mary's Lamb"

RICHARD H. TYRRELL

Richard H. Tyrrell, Lake Geneva, as business manager of "Mary's Lamb," the 1920 Haresfoot production, has had entire charge of the business end of the show, from ordering stamps to renting theaters. In his hands have rested most of the details of the organization of the entire show, and this year's production has been the most smoothly handled of any show in recent years.

"Mary's Lamb" with a cast of sixty, including 20 chorus girls, is considered the biggest fun and comedy show that Haresfoot has ever put out. The show was written and played for several seasons by Richard Carle, the well-known musical comedian. The lines are the most humorous that Haresfoot productions have ever had, and splendidly read by the cast. "Mary's Lamb" plays at the Fuller on April 23-24, and the mail order seat sale is now on.

JAMBOREE HOLDS FORMAL FUNERAL

Committee Finally Announces
Burial of Late-lamented
"Awk"

Proof that the committees aim to leave nothing unburied to make the all-university Jamboree a success Saturday night came yesterday in the black-bordered announcement that formal obsequies are planned in connection with the affair.

The corpse, without which any funeral would be incomplete, on this occasion will be the debt of $270 which survived the demise of the late lamented Awk, campus humorous magazine that expired three years ago, leaving bills behind it to the languishing orphan wards of the student senate.

The debt was painlessly put out of its misery this week with proceeds from the ticket sale of the Jamboree, and the wake will be celebrated Saturday night, when after rehearsing with the corpse for some time, the stunts committee definitely is going to hearse it, once and for all.

The stunts committee has provided pallbearers, mourners and a fleet of crocodiles to shed crocodile tears, and so urges all persons attending the costume party at the armory to "emit flowers" and not come in the spirit of mourning.

Jamboree tickets may be obtained from Clarence Joerndt, Amy Jobse and Wyman Smith.

DOLPHIN CLUB IN EXHIBITION MEET

The Dolphin club is planning to hold an exhibition meet in Lathrop tank tonight at 7:45. All women will be admitted and men by invitation.

The meet, which is the first of its kind ever held at Wisconsin, will be a demonstration of diving, swimming, life saving, and resuscitation, with a talk by Miss Brownell of the department of physical education on the last subject.

WISCONSIN TO SEND TEAM TO URBANA MEET

Wrestlers and Gymnasts to Compete Against Conference Squads

Wisconsin will send two teams, wrestling and gymnastic, to compete in the inter-collegiate wrestling, gymnastic, and fencing meet at Champaign, Ill., Friday and Saturday of this week. The semi-finals of the wrestling bouts will be held Friday and the final matches and the gymnastic and fencing meets will be held Saturday.

Eight schools, Ames, Illinois, Chicago, Nebraska, Ohio State, Northwestern, Indiana, and Purdue, are entered in the grappling meet besides Wisconsin, and the Badgers will face Chicago, Illinois, and Ohio State in the gymnastic competition.

First Meet in Three Years

This is to be the first meet of this sort that has been held for three years due to the partial cessation of athletics during the war period, and all contestants in these sports are on edge to make the best possible showing in the struggle for inter-collegiate honors. Last year, although there was no inter-collegiate meet, Ames won the middle-west championship by defeating the various varsities in separate dual engagements.

Coach Joe Steinauer will take four of his best men and will try for honors in five weight classifications. "Herb" Weeks will wrestle in the heavyweight and 175 pound bouts and has a good chance in winning both. Last year he had a claim to the 175-pound middle-west title by throwing the Ames grappler in a dual contest between that school and Wisconsin. He was the only Badger to win his bout in that meet and he is the only man on the present squad who won his "W" last year.

The other three Badger representatives will be Peterman, 145 pounds, Culver, 135 pounds, and Snyder, 125 pounds. All of these men are skilled mat men who have represented the varsity in various meets throughout the year. Peterman and Snyder won their bouts against the Maroon matmen last Saturday afternoon in a dual match with Chicago.

Gym Team to Compete

In spite of the fact that the gym team was defeated last week by Chicago, which has one of the most formidable teams in the conference, a good showing is expected of the varsity acrobats. Hagen, a tumbler, and Golley, strong on the parallel bars, were not able to compete in the last meet because of injuries, but are back on the squad now and are entered in the final fray at Illinois.

Captain Tasche, with a record as high individual scorer in the contest against the Maroons, is the Badger favorite, of whom much is expected, and O'Shea can also be

STUDENT SENATE TO MEET TONIGHT

The April meeting of the student senate will be held tonight in the office of the president of the university. At this time the senate will pass on all organizations that have applied for recognition. Action on freshmen who have failed to comply with the tradition of wearing the green cap will also be taken at this meeting.

WE thought that the Union Vandal period of our existence had passed, but we wake this morning to find that the worst of it is still to come—the awful joking aftermath that always follows in the wake of such blow-outs. The following letter will perfectly elucidate our point.

AND HE SAYS HE'S GOT SOME MORE LIKE IT!

Dear Ed:

I am Sparks Dodge and I think my jokes are so good that I want to contribute the best one to your column. Here it is; read it slow, so you can get it.

There is a boy and a girl. The boy loves the girl and the girl loves the boy. The boy says "Goodnite" to the girl, and the girl says to the boy, "Goodnite, goodnite."

What is the name of our dean?
SPARKS.

WITH the wind blowing harder than it has all winter, and pieces of ice floating over the lake, we recommend ear muffs and elastic under the chin to the shivering Frosh.

There's a Dirty Cut In This

(From the deet)

"Of course," said Prof. Ernst, "there are some who think that bowling and church are sufficient outside interest for the teacher. But—well, that's one question on the matter."

I went to dance with a girl named Moore, And while we were dancing around the floor, I heard something rip, and I knew at a glance That she had lost her desire to dance.

SHED SAD TEARS

Dear Ed:

Oh! how this insidious tea-fight atmosphere is undermining the characters of our staunchest athletes. Shorty Barr has slipped again; we tried to overlook it when he and Scotty started spring practice at the Candy shop a bit early and thought 'Twere the end of sech. But no—yesterday Shorty oscillated down the hill with a female finn in the crook of his arm. 'Twas not premeditated; 'twas not planned. Several of his friends involuntarily greeted him as "Sister Bar." The funeral wreath is laid on the defunct Wisconsin cave man.

TALES OF MONONA

"Hello. Hello. Hello, Dorothy May.

We looked up from the last contribution to see Monona beaming at us.

"Oh, are you writing Skyrockets? Oh, won't you say something about my economics instructor; he's so nice. Um. And yesterday he said the funniest thing.....'A flock of cows'! Imagine! And he got so fussed and blushed. Oh, he was funny."

We finally dissuaded the girl that that did not make skyrockets, when she burst out with the fact that she did know one that would get by. We packed our pipe and told her to spring it.

"Well, today when I was coming down the hill, Bill and Helen walked just ahead of me. Bill was telling about his dates for the week-end, when Helen busts in with fact that Frances was fussing her French instructor that Friday night. Helen then hollers that she had nothin' on her, 'cause she was vampin' her French instructor, too, in fact she had a bet with the girls at the house that she'd be out with him in two weeks. Bill says then, 'Y'know, he's an Oxford man, and loves to talk about England. Hand him a hot line and he'll fall. We had him over to dinner last week, and he loves it.' 'Oh, I can do that,' says Helen, 'One of the girls at the house has been there, and she'll tell me.'"

Here Monona stops to giggle. We looks askance, and she concludes:

"The funny part of it is that Mr. Wilson don't care for the girl and won't fuss her anyway."

With that we still looks unhappy over it, and she flies out in kind of a rage.

We don't think it makes Rockets.

WE hope we won't have to resort to Harvey T. Woodruff tactics to fill the col.

WORK OF OUIJA DENOUNCED BY PROF. JASTROW

Ends Series of Lectures on the Occult Yesterday Afternoon

"Never before has the ouija board been such a popular indoor sport as it is at the present time," said Prof. Joseph Jastrow, speaking yesterday afternoon in the chemistry auditorium on "The Psychic Side of Spiritualism."

This lecture, which is the last of a series of seven talks which Prof. Jastrow has delivered on the general subject of "Occult Systems, Past and Present," dealt with the importance of involuntary movements in the modern spiritualistic idea, mediumistic phenomena of communication, trance states, and dissociated personalities.

Prof. Jastrow pointed out the importance that is attached to the gyrations of the ouija board in the discovery of influences which the operator does not suspect that he himself imparts to the mechanism by involuntary movement. He traced the history of the planchette, which is the direct forerunner of the ouija board and pointed out the contradictory state of affairs which converted it to the use of the mediumistic movements which was the very thing its inventor, Michael Faraday, the eminent physicist, intended it to discover and disclose.

"The ouija board," said Prof. Jastrow, "is unquestionably a very interesting device. When it is operated by two people the interesting question is the discovery for the person who is the real motive power. Shrewdness in mediumistic communications exists in getting the other person to commit himself. This is where the real power of the medium makes itself felt."

The history of the study of psychic phenomena was traced through the experiments performed in the early '80s down through the investigation carried on at Stanford university at which time it was found that the average of correct results was always what pure chance would account for and no more. "The fact that some people feel themselves to be peculiarly gifted along psychic lines is no index that they have any supernatural power. We all feel that we are independent, original, and peculiarly different from the other people, but as a matter of fact we all have certain similar mental habits which result in astonishing coincidences. The number of habits is universal."

Prof. Jastrow discussed the importance of sleep-walking and sleep-talking phenomena which account for many interesting things. He also discussed the interesting actions observed in "psychic horses." He explained that these actions are largely the result of a very acute power that some animals have for recognizing involuntary movements.

In discussing the unusual cases of Mrs. Curran and Patience Worth he pointed out that here we are beginning to deal with true abnormalities. The influence of dissociated personalities depends upon whether or not they are expended in the mediumistic sort of thing here discussed or whether they invade the daily life in the form of hysteria.

"Spiritualistic and psychic beliefs have added greatly to the psychological history of science," said Prof. Jastrow, "even though we admit that they often create states of mind that are not wholesome."

PRICE OF CLOTHING SHOWS INCREASE OF OVER 130 PER CENT

Clothing prices have increased 138 per cent since 1914, according to statistics on the rising cost of living presented by Prof. Emma Conley, of the home economics department, to Wisconsin school board members.

Miss Conley's figures, which were taken from the report of the industrial conference board and covered the increase in cost of living from November, 1914, to November, 1919, for the entire country, included the following:

Food cost has increased 92 per cent; cost of shelter, 38 per cent; cost of clothing, 138 per cent; cost of fuel, 48 per cent; cost of heat and light, 65 per cent; cost of sundries, including car fare, motion pictures, medical care, household furnishing, and newspapers, average 75 per cent.

In crease in the cost of various articles of clothing she expressed as follows: hosiery, 108 to 126 per cent; knit underwear, 156 to 163 per cent; muslin underwear, 106 per cent; suits, 110 to 128 per cent; overcoats, 139 to 169 per cent; shirts and blouses, 101 to 124 per cent; shoes, 140 to 176 per cent; gloves, 115 to 159 per cent; and hats, 117 to 132 per cent.

These are reasons, she said, why teachers need a big raise.

ISSUE PERMIT FOR $3,000 BUTLER HOME

LeRoy D. Butler received a permit Tuesday to construct a two-story frame and stucco residence at a cost of $3,000 in block 20 on West Lawn ave. Tony Olson was granted a permit to construct a $4,500 residence in block 25 on Marquette ave. C. W. Constantine is making alterations on his residence at 133 N. Butler st., to the extent of $2,500.

TELLS OF NEED FOR MAIL AD WORK IN TALK

Homer J. Buckley Shows
Advantages of Direct Business

"The realization by manufacturers and dealers that the high cost of distribution is largely responsible for the present high cost of living is bringing the direct by mail advertising business into its own," was the assertion made by Homer J. Buckley, president of the Buckley, Dement company in his talk on "Direct Mail Advertising," before students in the commerce course in the physics auditorium yesterday afternoon.

"The direct by mail advertising service is the most misunderstood and most widely abused of all existing business," Mr. Buckley pointed out.

"It is, however," he explained, "the sole method for 101,000 manufacturers to put their goods before the public, and in the process of doing so, they expend annually over $420,000,000. This amount exceeds all others used for advertising purposes by a large margin, the nearest approach being that used in newspaper copy, which runs well into $220,000,000."

"Many of these manufacturers, writing their own copy, are not getting the best returns for their money, for they send out their material blindly. Their work is amateurish, with no definite plan behind it. Their errors create a need which is the open field for young advertising workers who, with the capital, training, and experience necessary in the business, establish themselves to meet their wants."

Training of a thorough and broad nature is a vital factor for prospective members of the advertising profession, according to Mr. Buckley. Speaking on this point, he took occasion to congratulate the university on its well rounded course, particularly its related subjects of accounting and marketing methods, which he considers basic to a career in the work.

Many specific problems and personal experiences chosen from a wide range of experience in the mail advertising business were presented to show the methods used in present day campaigns. The advantages of the direct by mail advertising method were explained in detail under ten distinct headings.

OUTING CLUB PLANS FOR THREE PARTIES

MEN'S DORMITORIES—AN URGENT NEED

FOR the women of the university two large dormitories have been built. For the 4,500 men enrolled at Wisconsin this year—no dormitories. It is a shortcoming that has become more noticeable each year.

When he enters Wisconsin, the male student is given a list of rooming houses in the university district. With this list in hand he travels miles through streets in an attempt to find a reasonably priced room. A few students secure excellent accommodations. Many are forced to spend the academic year in small rooms at a distance from the campus.

What home environment means to the child, so the student's room and associations spell ambition and success, or discouragement and failure, in his freshman year. The housing situation at Wisconsin is in many cases responsible for failures of first year students and dissatisfaction with university life.

As long as the University of Wisconsin is without provisions for men's dormitories, the university and the state legislature are silent partners in contributing to the failures of students to profit by a university education.

Dormitory life fosters the finest friendships and the highest ideals. The environment is conducive to study. Those who room at a dormitory are associated with friends interested in each other's welfare.

The university will be compelled to turn students away if housing accommodations are not increased soon. If the university is to continue its growth the legislature must make provision for satisfactorily housing the increased enrollment of men.

The need for men's dormitories is just as obvious as the need for the Memorial Union building. When will we see some action on this score from those who profess to have the best interests of the university and of the state at heart?

THE UNION DRIVE—PUT IT ACROSS

YESTERDAY the university was treated to some genuine enthusiasm, the kind that adds punch to drives and puts them over the top. Under the leadership of the Agricultural College federation, their joint organization, the agrics and home ecs, got squarely behind the Memorial Union drive and pushed hard.

All day the Home Economics girls sold ice cream and buttermilk in Agricultural hall, their total profits going to the Memorial Union fund. At noon a parade of several riders in cowboy attire and half a dozen tractors, followed by two wagonloads of enthusiastic home ec girls, added color as well as zest to the campaign.

Other schools may well take their example to heart. Regardless of how much each college has contributed heretofore, the fact is that the drive is still almost $40,000 short of its goal. All of the colleges have not shown the necessary amount of pep; on Monday, their special day, the engineers did not come up to expectations. But that can still be remedied in the three remaining days of the campaign, if every engineer who has contributed acts as a committee of one to talk up subscriptions among his classmates.

Other colleges are yet to have their special days. Today is Law school day; tomorrow the College of Letters and Science will make an extra effort to boost their amount.

Face the facts squarely. Wisconsin needs a Memorial Union building. A worthy memorial should be erected, and a union building must be provided. The project will be jeopardized if the university falls short of its quota. In order to reach the $100,000 mark, every man and woman is asked to give $24, payable in two years, i. e., $6 a semester for the next two years. Is there a student who honestly believes that he or she cannot afford this amount to aid in upbuilding the university?

There are probably a few students to whom even $6 a semester seems a prohibitive contribution. If so, no discredit to them; but let them give something. Every student should have a personal share in the project.

Volunteer your subscription! Co-operate by subscribing at one of the booths on the upper campus. The drive must go over the top! It can if it is backed with real Wisconsin enthusiasm.

STUDENT INTEREST IN WORLD POLITICS

To the Editor of The Cardinal:

Someone has remarked to the effect that the students of a college or university live in a world entirely their own, alienated to a high degree from the rest of the world, and with little interest in what goes on outside their one small sphere. In the way of politics, what can the average student say concerning the qualifications of the present aspirants for the Presidency of the United States? What can they argue for or against the proposed League of Nations, the Irish question or the Fiume controversy? When any of us entangle ourselves in a discussion of a world question we are able perhaps to make a few firm and convincing remarks in a general way, but as soon as the argument begins to narrow itself down we find ourselves speaking with less conviction and more hesitation. We volunteer a few remarks not so sure that they are true (and if we have a strong opponent against us we are soon swamped, and attempt to cover our embarrassment with our silence and intense interest in what the other has to say.

Wisconsin is termed an institution of higher learning, an institution that will broaden and widen the general scope of the student. May it not be true that we are broadened rather lopsidedly through the medium of specialization, gaining an abundant supply of knowledge concerning a few matters to the detriment and ostracism of the supply of other matters equally as important? Specialization is necessary in these modern times, but to use the words of an ancient creed, "Nothing in excess." We students are supposed to come out of Wisconsin the teachers and leaders in the coming years and yet the greater number of us have but a mere smattering of knowledge concerning one of the most important constituents of good citizenship—that of political machinery and political issues.

It is only the best and most efficient of us that can say they have placed their lives on such a schedule that every moment is advantageously filled. At meal times there are some spare minutes which we may profitably employ by picking up a newspaper and glancing at something else besides the headlines and the sporting sheet. By devoting a little time each day we can obtain in a condensed form from the editorial section the main points concerning the bigger world happenings. Our library is well stocked with the important newspapers of the country, to say nothing of the weekly and monthly periodicals concerning current world events. We must have some well founded background for our convictions; and a little space devoted to profitable reading will form and build up that background so that we can go forth not always on the defensive but sometimes on the offensive, convincing others with our knowledge and deductions concerning the matter at hand.

CONCERNING UNION VODVIL

To the Editor:
It has been brought to my attention that various unfounded and exaggerated rumors have been circulating in regard to the withdrawal of Act C from Union Vodvil. At the request of the fraternity, members of which staged the act I am here giving a correct statement of the reason why the act was withdrawn.

On Saturday last, when members of Act C, in response to my inquiries, admitted to me that on Friday evening some of the members of the cast of that act in the Union Vodvil had drunk intoxicating liquor before going on the stage, I promptly withdrew the act from the program for Saturday afternoon and evening.

It is and shall continue to be my avowed policy to do all in my power to dissociate the use of intoxicating liquor from authorized student activities, and I shall not hesitate to take similar action in such a case at any time.

In justice to the men concerned, and in refutation of rumors current on the campus, I am glad to be able to state that to the best of my knowledge and belief no member of the cast was intoxicated, or acted in any disorderly manner, last Friday evening.

EDITORS PRAISE QUALITY OF LIT

The Midland and Smith College Monthly Laud Articles in Wisconsin Magazine

That The Lit is attracting notice outside of the university is shown by favorable comment of the literary magazine of a great eastern college, and by the interest of the editor of a national magazine.

The Smith College Monthly, while expressing itself disappointed with the literary magazines of Dartmouth, Cornell, Vassar, Wellesley and Bryn Mawr, singles The Lit out for approbation as follows:

"But a word of praise will not come amiss. In The Wisconsin Literary Magazine there is a poem of exceptional merit which deserves special mention. In 'You and I' we find freedom of poetical expression combined with accurate and felicitous phrasing. An exquisite intimacy with nature is shown, and the spirit of romance pervades the whole poem."

The editor of The Midland, John T. Frederick, in a letter to one of The Lit editors, says:

"The copies of the Wisconsin Literary Magazine which you kindly sent me interested me very much. The magazine has much of distinguished achievement and much of promise. It is not far from the ideal which was often in my mind when a university student at Iowa City, a few years ago."

AT THE FULLER

No delusions as to the public's tastes in motion pictures are entertained by Cecil B. De Mille, whose latest Paramount-Artcraft picture "Male and Female," adapted from Sir James M. Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," will be on view at the Fuller theater tomorrow for four days.

"I am not one who would rail at the public if one of my pictures failed to 'get across'," the famous director said recently. "The public knows art. I have never yet been connected with a failure, but, if I were, I would blame myself, not my audiences."

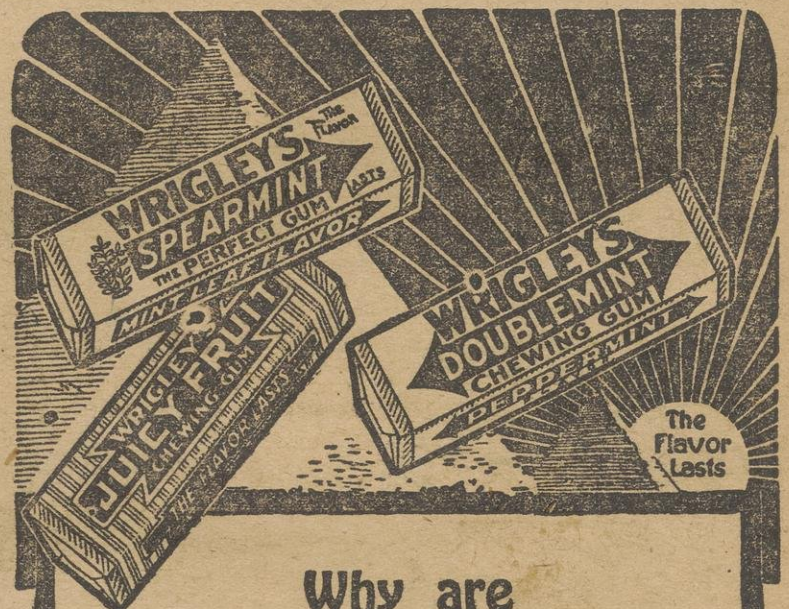

Judging from the lavish scale upon which the Barrie story was produced and the all-star cast assembled to interpret it, Mr. De Mille has no cause to worry about his latest masterpiece. Thomas Meighan has the role of Crichton, the resourceful butler, who became his master on a desert isle. Others in the notable cast are Gloria Swanson, Lila Lee, Theodore Roberts, Bebe Daniels, Raymond Hatton, and Guy Oliver.

The Smarter Set, a musical comedy organization headed by Salem Tutt Whitney and J. Homer Tutt, will be the next road attraction at the Fuller, coming for one performance Tuesday night, April 13.

Cub Reporter Learns Lots at Historical Museum

BY THE "CUB"

Yesterday, growing tired of the museum on the first floor of the libe, we conducted a personal tour through the one on the third floor. Of course the latter has about half as many queer and varied specimens as one sees daily in the former but a change is always a relief.

The early settlers of Madison must have been an awful musical bunch. The first three or four Madison pianos are up there and none of 'em will play a darn note. Maybe the pioneers couldn't play 'em anyway but it must have been an awful bother to import 'em just for ornaments.

Musing thus we mused over to the porcupine quill exhibit and was both astonished and wonder-struck to see how clever our red brothers and sisters was with them quills. It's a shame that they didn't get a chance to develop the industry more, but probably about the time they got it going good they'd run out of porcupines and then there'd be a whole lot of highly developed talent gone to waste.

Speaking of Indians there's some real pretty dinner gowns and war dresses on exhibit up ther and pictures of the owners spread around. The one thing about those Indians is that they're different and you hafta admire that in anybody. The clothes look a bit funny but very useful. Leather pants might not be sneezed at right now by some of us more sensible ones who are wearing out these $90 suits in three months.

Dolls of all sizes, nationalities, and ages, illustrating the costumes and manners of former days, are now to be found in the museum in a collection of foreign and old American dolls donated by Mrs. Lucius Fairchild, of Madison.

The dolls furnish means for a study of costuming in various European countries and among American pioneers, because of their variety, and number. The museum plans to add to them other collections of old-fashioned toys, clothing, story-books, an games, illustrating the history of childhood in pioneer days in Wisconsin and the northwest, and is soliciting such articles and funds for this purpose.

BADGER SKI CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At the last meeting of the Badger Ski club held last night the following officers were elected: Joseph Ihlen, president; George Martin, vice-president; Finn Aanenson, secretary; David Lacey treasurer, and Hans Gude, captain, of next year's team. One new member, David Lacey, was initiated into the club.

The club has completed its second year successfully and now has a membership of 45. Plans for next year's work include the building of a new steel scaffold and the holding of an International Ski tournament here.

The scaffold will be built near the present jump and, as planned, will

FRENCH ARMY IN FRANKFORT

Invading Troops Meet No Opposition by Germans

FRANKFORT — Frankfort was occupied without incident by French troops early Tuesday and with the cavalry in the lead followed by the infantry and artillery the occupying forces pressed rapidly beyond the city. They met with no opposition. By 10 o'clock the cavalry had reached Eckenheim, 63 miles north of Frankfort. The entire operation was expected to be completed during the day.

The occupation takes the form of an extension of the French lines around the Bridgehead of Mayence, a distance of about 18 miles.

The only German troops encountered in Frankfort by the French were Sicherheitswehr, or Volunteers, who surrendered. They probably will be simply disarmed and released.

The occupying force is estimated at from 15,000 to 18,000 men. The neutral zone occupied has no interest from the point of view of military strategy and hence the force has been limited to the number necessary for occupation alone.

be 80 feet high. The take-off will be where the present scaffold now is, making a jump of at least 120 feet. Work will be begun this spring.

The International Ski tournament will include both professional and amateur entries. It will be held some time after Christmas, and will mark the first meet of its kind in the middle west. Some of the world's best skiers are expected to enter, among them Anders Haugen, holder of the world's record.

The Badger Ski club will celebrate the closing of a successful season by an outdoor party to be held some time in May. The club is looking forward to another prosperous year.

BASEBALL BIDS FAIR TO REGAIN FORMER PLACE

Many Try Out for Places
When Colleges Start
Spring Practice

Judging from the sport pages of the college papers, the great American pastime is due for one grand revival this spring. Even before the basketball season was over, the baseball candidates were already working out in the cage.

Most of the colleges report a larger number of men trying out for the nine this spring than ever before. Much promising talent has been discovered, and is being developed under the watchful eye of the college coach, assisted in a great many cases by some big league star borrowed for a week or two.

Maroons Tour Japan

At the University of Chicago the conference schedule was cancelled to permit the baseball team to leave April 1 on its way to the Orient. Games will be played with the Waseda and Keio Universities in Japan, and probably also games in China and Hawaii. The Maroon nines took similar trips in 1910 and 1915. Coach Page has a "C" man for every position on the team.

At Iowa the Hawkeyes have lined up a 13 game schedule but complain that the outlook is not the brightest. Six of last year's players were lost by graduation. Coach Ashmore is handling the baseball men.

Coach Gustav Dorals has built up a good team at Notre Dame. He recently uncovered a find in George Murphy, a pitcher. Lally and Foley both look like comers.

Western Teams Strong

The University of Kansas will play all the Missouri Valley conference teams with the exception of Washington and Grinnell. Coach Leon McCarty reports the prospects as excellent.

Johnny Miller is again coaching the Missouri team, and has 35 men who look good enough for varsity positions. Missouri will play a schedule of sixteen conference games.

Dartmouth Has 16 Pitchers

Coach Lafitte's team at Swarthmore will play twenty-one games. Dartmouth has 16 pitchers, the largest number in years, according to Coach Tesreau. New Hampshire has eight letter men of last year's team back in school.

Coach Andy Coakley is handling one of the largest baseball squads in the history of Columbia university athletics. Norman Meaney is expected to be the pitching star again. Yale is taking a southern trip the first week of April, going as far as North Carolina State.

Coach Kellogg is in charge of baseball at New York university and reports a surplus of battery talent. Ed Delaney is the leading twirler.

Southern Teams Get Early Start

The schools in the Southland got away to a flying start, and some of them are gaining much valuable experience through practice games with league teams from the North on their southern training trips. The Texas university team played a couple of practice games with the San Antonio Aces, and hooked up with the Simmons College Cowboys in the first game of the season.

In the far west the diamond artists have been wielding the bludgeon for some time. Sixty-five men are turning out for the California baseball team and 16 of these are pitchers. The Bears ought to make a good showing against Yale, Harvard, and West Virginia on their eastern invasion this spring.

At Washington State College Coach Schroeder is fortunate in having a raft of candidates for every position on the team.

Montana, Idaho, the University of Washington, and Whitman all report increased interest in baseball, and all four of these opponents will probably meet each other on the diamond.

Fox and Wolf Rivers To Be Open April 15

APPLETON, Wis.—Navigation on the Fox and Wolf rivers and Lake Winnebago will probably be opened April 15, according to A. M. Dier, government engineer, who has made a tour of lakes and rivers in this vicinity and found the ice breaking up rapidly.

Water in the Fox river is rising but has not approached the flood stage. Sluice gates in the Menasha dam are open to permit the water to drain from Lake Winnebago into the Fox river. Land along the Wolf river is still inundated and a spring rain is expected to cause considerable damage. Navigation on the Fox river this year may be greater than ever. The Fox River Navigation company will begin barge transportation of coal from Green Bay to fuel yards in Appleton.

NINE OUT FOR FOUR CARDINAL BOARD PLACES

Vacancies on Control Body to be Filled at Election

Editor's Note—The following article is the second of a series to be published listing the candidates for the various board positions in the coming election, and explaining the election rules in force in each case.

Nine candidates are in the field for the four positions open on the Cardinal Board of Control. The board is composed of five members, three seniors and two juniors. One member from this year's board, Foster Strong, will hold over, leaving two sophomores and two juniors to be elected this year.

The four juniors running are George Crownhart, Clyde Gleason, John Pinney, and Alan Pradt.

Crownhart was on The Cardinal staff 1918, 1919; Badger staff 1919; Octopus staff; business manager of Who's Who, and a member of White Spades.

Gleason is a new man at Wisconsin but has had considerable experience in newspaper work and on the Carrol college daily.

John Pinney is business manager of the Country Magazine, a member of Press club and of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, and participated in the sophomore semi-public debates last year.

Pradt is on The Badger staff, is a member of Mandolin and Glee club, took part in Union Vodvil this year, and has been active in class committees.

The five sophomores out for the two openings on the board are Frederick Beckman, Esther Haven, Caryl Parkinson, Katherine Rosenberry, and Adrian Scolten.

Beckman is a member of The Cardinal staff, Press club, Badger Ski club, 1920 Ice Carnival committee, Haresfoot publicity committee, and circus publicity committee.

Esther Haven is secretary of Red Gauntlet, president of sophomore commission, a member of W. A. A., Y. W. C. A., and Pythia. She handled publicity for the women's Wisconsin-in-China drive.
