PRICE 5 CENTS

DON GREEN CAPS SUNDAY, RULING TO FROSH CLASS

Hazing Violators Will Be Punished

Freshmen will don the green cap again tomorrow morning in compliance with Wisconsin tradition.

The formal regulation was passed at a meeting of the Student senate on March 7 and announced by Maynard Brown '23, president of the Senate yesterday afternoon.

According to traditions, the first year men will wear the caps until cap night in May. The date for cap night will be set by the Senate in the near future.

Indiscriminate hazing of freshmen is not sanctioned by the senate, and all those who comply with the tradition are protected. The violator of this tradition cannot be protected by the senate.

Warning To Violators.

A few freshmen were reported last fall for not wearing the green cap but no action was taken by the Student court. If violators are reported this spring, the court will take definite action, officials declare.

"The Sophomore tradition committee is planning to assist the senate in this policy," Max Brackett '25, chairman of the traditions committee, said last night.

"We want to protect the man that wears the green cap. Provisions will be made for reporting the violators to the court and to uphold this tradition."

Flickinger Appeals.

James Flickinger '26, president of the freshman class, issued the following statement yesterday to all freshmen:

"In accordance with previous customs the Student senate has passed a regulation that all freshmen shall don their green caps on Easter Sunday."

"I feel that the freshmen class should willingly cooperate with the senate in this matter. In recent years the green cap has ceased to be a badge and has become rather a class symbol. It is as much a symbol of the freshmen class as is the cane carried by the senior lawyers."

"It is an old tradition of our university, and I feel that the cheerful acceptance of our class emblem is good proof that we are anxious to maintain the old established custom of the university."

"I am sure that my class mates are with me in this matter and that the green cap will be strongly in evidence Easter morning."

(Signed)

JAMES R. FLICKINGER.

NEW YOUTH' TRIO WILL EXPLAIN WORK TONIGHT

The "New Youth Movement" will be explained by three students from different European universities, at 8 o'clock tonight in Music hall, under the auspices of the Social Science club.

Karl Joachim Friedrich is from Heidelberg university in Germany; Antonia Palecek comes from the University of Prague in Czechoslovakia; and William Robson is a student at the School of Economics at London.

These students were brought to America by the National Student forum. George B. Pratt, secretary of the forum, became acquainted with this movement while touring Europe last summer and thought it of enough interest to have these men bring the message to American colleges.

Wisconsin will be the twentieth university in the United States to be visited by this group. Another group of three students are visiting various other universities in the West.

MASKED FROLIC LETTERS MAILED TO ALL GROUPS

"Plan that masquerade costume during the spring vacation."

That is the appeal of a letter which was sent out yesterday in the mail to all campus social organizations and groups by Oscar Kiessling '23, general chairman of the Varsity jamboree.

"Because the gala event will be held Saturday night, April 14, the week-end after spring vacation, students are urged to make preparations for their costumes as soon as possible," Kiessling stated yesterday.

Many organizations are planning to attend in body. The custom does not necessitate a couple arrangement. The dance price will be only 50 cents.

Announcement of the poster winners will be made tomorrow, Margaret Callsen '24, poster director, states.

EASTER SKIES FAIR, FORECAST

Sun Will Shine For Fashion Parade, Weatherman Declares

"The sun will shine on Easter Sunday," Eric R. Miller, meteorologist, and director of the weather bureau, said yesterday.

"It will not be much warmer," he continued, "but the wind will have died down by that time."

That the Easter fashion parade of mythical importance to university students, men as well as co-eds, may be chilled by another cold blast, was the mournful prediction in Madison last night.

A cold wave hit Duluth by the tune of 12 below zero, and last evening caused the temperature to fall in Madison to a near zero point.

Easter weather with two feet of ice on the lake, large snow banks and severe winter weather is the unusual, it was stated yesterday. "Cap" Isabell's prediction that the lake would be open by April 1 now is destined for another indefinite delay.

THREE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS ARE NAMED

Three members of this year's graduating class have been selected to deliver addresses at the annual Commencement Day exercises, which will be held in Agriculture pavilion June 18. They are from the Law school, the College of Engineering and the College of Letters and Science.

The students honored by selection made by the deans of the schools and the faculty are Anthony J. Nerad, Racine, Wis., mechanical engineering school; Clifford G. Mathys, of Madison, Law school; and Miss Dora I. D. Ingraham, College of Letters and Science.

Selection of the students, as in preceding years has been made upon a basis of advanced scholarship, rating and ability to speak, Prof. J. M. O'Neill of the Department of Rhetoric and Oratory, said yesterday. The three honor students have consented to speak.

University Offers Teachers' Courses For Prep Schools

The Wisconsin department of classics is offering special teacher courses in Latin covering problems of Latin in high and junior high schools.

Seminary students will make an intensive study of Caesar's Gallic war. Special emphasis will be laid on the historical significance of the Gallic war.

Undergraduate courses in both Greek and Latin are to be given. An illustrated lecture on Greek art will be given twice a week by Professor Smiley of Grinnell college. These lectures will be open to the public.

'Noted Occult Medium' is Bogus, Prof. Jastrow Says

"The extraordinary feats accomplished by Mrs. John H. Curran of St. Louis in quoting the poems of Patience Worth, who has been dead for 275 years is not spiritualism in any sense of the word," declared Prof. Joseph Jastrow of the department of philosophy yesterday.

"The work of Mrs. Curran is an old story to anyone who keeps abreast of the times in the field of automatic writings. She is a perfectly normal individual.

"There are many peculiar notions as to the source of her activities, but it is nothing more than the result of a very keen, alert mind. "She is better to write in this condition than in her normal condition.

CO-ED CHARTER VOTE PROPOSED

S. G. A. Constitution May Be Revised By Ballot System

Provisions to revise the constitution of S. G. A. whereby all future revisions of the rules and regulations of the organization will be made by secret balloting either through public elections or by means of the district system, is the result of the sentiment expressed after the mass meeting on Thursday evening.

A petition has been filed to request that a second meeting for discussion be called shortly after spring vacation.

"The popular feeling as a result of the mass meeting has been that a gathering of this nature is an excellent manner for bringing out the pros and cons of the questions to be considered," Cleo Parsley '23, president of Keystone, stated yesterday.

Revision Is Remedy

"The majority of the women present and a large number of those who were unable to attend maintain that an open mass meeting is not the most expedient time to ballot on revisions because of the possibility of 'mob spirit' which psychologically makes itself felt at any public gathering of this kind.

"If we remedy the situation by revising the constitution, through establishing the ballot system of voting rather than adopting measures at mass meetings, the women at large will feel better satisfied all around.

After Spring Recess

"Our plan at present is to call a mass meeting of all university women probably a week after spring vacation in order to sound out the exact sentiment of the women in regard to passing a new resolution for revision of rules through the public balloting.

"If polls were open all day, as for elections now, a much larger representative vote would be cast, for many are unable to attend a mass meeting on a particular night, thereby under the present system sacrificing their ballot.

"If a discussion mass meeting was called in advance of the actual voting, it would take care of all the self-expression of opinion that women desired."

The process of taking vote through the S. G. A. district system has been suggested and is under consideration. All women's sorority and rooming houses are divided into certain districts, with an S. G. A. representative in charge of each.

PI-NITE FROLIC OF JOURNALISTS

The annual Pi-Nite frolic of Press club will be held tonight at Lathrop concert rooms starting at 8 o'clock. A four-page "scandal" sheet will be distributed by Oscar N. Riegel '24, editor. Admission is 75 cents.

CASTALIA WINS ANNUAL DEBATE OVER PYTHIANS

Argue on Child Labor Legislation

A two to one decision gave victory to Castalia debating society in its annual contest with Pythia held last evening in Music hall.

Castalia, represented by Eleanor Hansen '25, Frieda Auctor '25 and Fanny Gallas '24, defended the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that the constitution should be so amended as to permit federal child welfare legislation."

Pythia's negative team was composed of Martha Dalrymple '25, Blanche Jandell '26 and Kathryn Bigham '25.

Child Labor Inadequate.

The winning affirmative team based its arguments on the tenets that present state child labor legislation is inadequate, and that federal legislation would remove the inadequacy.

The negative, on the other hand, based their arguments on the facts that the federal government is incapable of child labor legislation, that the individual state is capable of such legislation and that legislation on the part of the federal government would upset the balance of power between the several states and the union now provided for in the constitution.

Legislation Needed.

"It is our purpose to prove that the welfare of children depends on a move by the federal government to establish firmly and to enforce thoroughly a few principles that have been found successful," the affirmative upheld.

"The state government is nearer the people and understands their needs better than the federal government can ever hope to do," the negative replied.

The judges were Prof. Selig Perlman, department of economics, Miss Martha Sell, Madison high school and A. C. Reiss, assistant attorney general. The presiding officer was Mrs. E. C. Hoebel, president of Women's Progressive League of Wisconsin.

"Seven Last Words" Sung By U. Methodist Choir

An annual Good Friday custom was observed last night at the University Methodist church with the choir presentation of the Easter cantata, "The Seven Last Words."

The cantata is a composition based on the seven last words of Christ and the presentation of it works up to a climax of the suffering and agony of the cross.

This concert was the twelfth Lenten program of the University Methodist choir. Direction of the presentation was in charge of Prof. Lowell L. Townsend. Soloists were Earl Brown, Esther Dieter, and Arthur Van Velzer.

DEAN SAYS JACK ISN'T NECESSARY FOR YALE FROSH

You don't need money to go through Yale nowadays. If you have grit and determination you'll pull through, is the opinion expressed by Roswell P. Angier, Freshman dean of Yale university.

Prof. Harry Glicksman, freshman dean here agrees with Dean Angier. "I believe this statement is true," he says.

"Hundreds of young men are now paying their way through Yale with money earned by their own efforts. The Yale bureau of appointments can provide any ambitious undergraduate with lucrative employment. I myself have known excellent scholars in the Yale undergraduate body who worked from five to six hours daily at some form of remunerative labor.

"New Haven, which is an industrial city with expanding industrial resources and opportunities, offers many forms of employment. The "Gold Coast" type of student is not peculiar to any institutions or to institutions in any special region.

"Among successful and popular undergraduates there have been hundreds who have worked their way through college many of whom have been rewarded with distinction at the hands of more opulent classmates. The phrase "Yale Democracy" is based on no idle fiction."

FUEL FROM WATER? SCIENTISTS AT WISCONSIN SCORN "THEORY"

Wouldn't you think that the milenium had just about arrived IF—Five gallons of gas for the little old bus cost as much as five gallons of water?

The landlady forgot the coal problem so far as to warm up your room a bit without adding it to your rent?

If you could head for home every week-end because the C. & N. and the C. M. & St. P. no longer held you up every time you got in one of their trains?

Rachele Jacuzzi, a California inventor, claims he's found the way to do it. He's going to burn water.

Three professors on the hill are not quite so hopeful about it. They expressed very decided opinions about the use of water as a fuel.

"It's all bunk," said Prof. Oliver P. Watts of the chemical engineering.

"It's all bunk," said Van L. Johnson, professor in chemistry.

"It's all bunk," said J. H. Mathews, director of the course in chemistry.

But you'll have to admit that Jacuzzi's plan sounds all right—if you don't know anything about fuels and gases. The method is simple, according to the inventor who discovered it accidentally while working on a motorless airplane. This is how it is done. Water is fed into a small coil and heated by a gas flame. This converts the water into steam. Near the end of the coil the temperature has increased to such a point that the water has been converted to a gas and when augmented by a small flame of acetylene or other inflam-able gas, it burns with intense heat. The inventor is now working to "burn" water without the addition of this gas.

Professor Watts says, "You can't burn water. A dozen such schemes are tried every year. Most of them are newspaper yarns. Of course, it can't be done. Because as much energy is consumed as will be obtained for burning."

Dr. Johnson declared that "water burning" was a fake.

"Cheap alcohol made from sawdust and similar products is the nearest approach to a cheap fuel," he said.

Professor Mathews said referring to the process of water burning, "It is an impossibility. You put in as much energy converting the water into gas for burning as you obtain in its combustion."

The most promising possibilities, he said, "are through the breaking down of petroleum products, through the drawing off of natural gas and through the production of cheap alcohol."

So it looks as though we'll continue for a while to pay $19 for a ton of coal and 50 cents a gallon for gasoline when summer comes.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

TRACK SEASON'S PLANS CALL FOR 7 DUAL EVENTS

VICTORIES ARE SOUGHT BY VARSITY MEN

Although the middle distance and distance men are occupying the center of the track stage at present because of the coming activities in the Drake and Kansas relay carnivals, April 21 and 28, plans for the entire season are beginning to receive the attention of Coaches Tom Jones and Meade Burke.

The general purpose of the Wisconsin tracksters this spring will be to offset their showing in the indoor conference meet by the maximum number of victories possible.

They have the opportunities of the national intercollegiate meet at Chicago, the Big Ten conference meet at Ann Arbor, and three dual meets with Chicago, Minnesota and Illinois. This does not include the coming relay carnivals mentioned above.

One Team to Drake

Men in all events will be buckled into the harness directly after spring vacation while candidates for the relay teams for Kansas and Drake will be kept here during spring vacation to take workouts twice each day.

One team will be sent to Drake with probably two extra men in order that two teams may be formed in case it is deemed advisable. Most probable combinations are a 2-mile or a 4-mile team.

The runners, making the trip, will be selected from the present assortment of first string distance men: Schneider, Gerry Wade, Tschudy, Sherman, Bergstresser, Valley, Hilberts, Carter, Ramsay and Irving Wade.

Beloit College April 21

While the six selected from this group are in Kansas, the balance will be kept in Madison April 21 for a dual practice meet with Beloit college's squad. Entries in each event will be unlimited in order to give the mentors a chance to place a rating upon early season material.

More emphasis is to be placed upon the Drake relays April 28. Three full teams will represent Wisconsin at Des Moines, not to mention several men in special field events.

A 4-mile, a 1-mile, and a 2-mile team will pit their chances against quartets from other mid-Western schools.

Michigan Event

Besides the Beloit practice meet there will be one other home meet this season when the Badgers oppose Minnesota's squad.

Minnesota swamped Wisconsin by the watery margin of one point at Minnesota last year. The two other dual meets, with Michigan and Illinois, will be at Ann Arbor and Urbana respectively.

There is a scarcity of weight men for the squad this year, although several promising new candidates have reported to reinforce Van Ells and Tom Nichols.

Among the newcomers are Omar Johnson, a former Carleton man, Milton Stangel, Diebold, Harris, Morris, and Sears. They will work out daily during spring vacation.

BASKETBALL SPREAD TO BE HELD TODAY FOR ALL GIRLS

The annual basketball spread for all women who have played the game and who are interested in the sports will be held in Lathrop gym at noon today.

Varsity team will be announced and the final championship of the winning class given again.

This marks the official end of the basketball season for this year and the heads of the sport and the department are very anxious that everyone comes out. The spread will be 35 cents and will be served in the main gym.

ILLINOIS BALL TEAM LEAVES FOR ANNUAL TRAINING TRIP

The baseball team of the University of Illinois left for their annual southern trip last Thursday. Yesterday they played the Mississippi A. and M. "Clif" Jackson, pitcher, had to pass an examination before he could go. Wierman, another pitcher is quarantined.

Senior Women Are Winners In Normal Gym Class Meet
The senior women physical education majors carried off the high honors at the formal meet which was held as a competition between the majors of the different classes, Wednesday evening in the Lathrop gymnasium.

Floor work, marching and apparatus work were considered in making up the final count. The seniors won in the floor work and the apparatus work, and the sophomores carried off first place in the marching.

The exact totals of the different classes were seniors 64.97 out of a possible 70 points; sophomores 61.73; juniors 61.08; and the freshmen 51.

OPEN FINALS IN TANK CONTEST

ALPHA GAMMA RHO TROUNCE BETAS IN FIRST GAME OF SERIES

Enthusiasm ran high last night when the first series of the interfraternity water basketball finals were played off in the gym tank. All through the meet the teams have battled to get to the top position and those successful in staying in the front frame are playing hard to hold their coveted position.

The feature of the first series was the trouncing the strong Alpha Gamma Rho aggregation gave the Betas, trimming them to the tune of 5-0. In the other games played last night the scores were much closer. All were won by a margin of only one point.

The second series of the meet will be played tomorrow afternoon to decide who will enter the finals for the winning cup. Alpha Gamma Rho, Lambda Chi, Deke, and Sig Chi, the four teams not eliminated last night, are all assured of cups, but will have to put some good stuff to cop the first place. The eliminated teams will go into further competition in the consolation series. The teams who will compete are Beta, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Phi, and Theta Xi.

Last night's scores: Alpha Gamma Rho 5, Beta 0; Lambda Chi 5, Phi Gamma 4; Delta Sigma Phi 1, Deke 2; Sig Chi 4, Theta Xi 3.

ILLINOIS COACH SEEKS GRID GAME FOR NOVEMBER 17

Illinois wants a football game with a smaller university or good college team on November 17. Zupke wants this game in the new memorial stadium because he believes the conference will probably approve an eight game schedule.

145-pound class, P. M. Prosepsy vs. G. A. Munkwitz; 175-pound class, H. S. Fries vs. L. J. Pelegram; and heavyweight, M. A. Brackett vs. S. A. Fritag.

AGRICULTURE TROUNCE THETA XI; CINCH 3RD TITLE RUNG

MILLS STARS IN SLOW GAME

Alpha Gamma Rho advanced one step nearer the inter-fraternity basketball championship last night when the fraternity team defeated the strong Theta Xi team by a 15 to 9 score.

As a result of the victory the Alpha Gamma Rho has cinched third place and also has a good chance to win the title.

The game was somewhat shower than others of the semi-final games because of the fact that the Theta Xi team could not get going. The score at the end of the first half was 7 to 2 with Alpha Gamma Rho leading.

MILLS STARS

Theta Xi stepped out in the second half with three long shots near the beginning of the period, but the agrics kept the lead by consistent playing and were never in serious danger.

Mills did the greater part of the scoring for Alpha Gamma Rho with three field goals and five free throws.

Opitz for the Theta Xi team sunk three long ones.

SAID BRER RABBIT—
"APRIL FOOL"

"Oh, won't we have the most delightful time parading on gay Easter day in the warm sunshine and springy air," said the flowered bonnet to the crisp taffeta to the white kid gloves, to the Bolivia cape, to the chiffon hose, and to the new satin slippers reposing in Vivian's closet.

Said Brer Easter rabbit, turning from a nest of colorful Easter eggs with mingled disdain and bewilderment, "April Fool,—both of us."

S. G. A. PROGRESS

The S. G. A. mass meeting of Thursday night was not perfect as a medium for determining self-government opinion, nor was it expected to be. It was a first trial, conducted without precedent. Future meetings will better demonstrate the value of such self-expressive meetings.

Despite rambling wranglings, definite moves were made, and S. G. A. will be better off for the experiment. After all, new rules are only experimental since the same power that made them can again, on evidence of undesirable results, change them.

The future policy of voting by secret ballot should bring better and more representative expression since it approaches more nearly the ideal of self-government. There is danger of establishing lop-sided regulations when there is a possibility for cliques or small groups to bring about changes.

The modifications of the date limit rules or future modifications will not mean necessarily the raising or lowering of women's standards at Wisconsin. In numbers there is safety. And with a politic body of more than two thousand women passing judgment on the self-rule measures, there is scant possibility of anything passing but what is supplemental or vindictive in its relation to high standards. Such is the safety and reward of complete self-government.

TIME FOR WEARING THE GREEN

Easter and April Fool's day bring besides lilies, rabbits, Easter eggs, new clothes, church, rope candy, puns and pranks, the green gob cap for freshmen.

The whole university and town populace will be watching to see with what integrity the frosh carry out Wisconsin tradition by donning the green to add to the Easter color of tomorrow. Yearlings who have lost or misplaced last fall's lids had better spend some intensive effort today acquiring new ones.

The green cap tradition is an attractive one. There's a lot of chuckles and sport in it for wearer and observer. We know the frosh won't cheat themselves or the rest of us out of some real fun.

LOBBYING

A communication received by The Cardinal decries the lobbying tactics on the part of students to save the use of the capitol for Junior prom and the Military ball.

There are two kinds of legislative lobbies, the pernicious type typified in the activities of parties seeking to protect or to further their financial, political, or special privilege interests and the helpful type designed to give informational service and the suggestions of public opinion to legislators. Political scientists agree that the latter is a wholesome aid to intelligent legislation.

Students who appeared before the senate to urge a reconsideration of the resolution denying the use of the capitol for Wisconsin's prom and ball had no ulterior motives in so doing. It was felt that the resolution had passed without an adequate opportunity for the student and university side of the question to be presented or even for legislators to offer objections. There is more danger in railroading than in deliberation coupled with lobbying.

There is a student side to the question,—that of best achieving student democracy,—an end which the legislature also seeks. The informational facts which show how that end may be furthered through the use of the capitol can come only from the sources best acquainted with those facts,—the students. Hence is the lobby a necessary and a wholesome one.

A JOKE GROWN STALE

With the passing from popular appreciation of the prohibition joke, which brought considerable mirth to the first two years of "Volsteadism," optimists are discerning an encouraging change in the general attitude of the people toward law enforcement.

It is well known that, at the time when cartoonists, vaudeville clowns and popular song writers were at the height of their glory in making fun of America's Sarhara-like situation, the attitude of the public was one of total indifference to prohibition enforcement. The Eighteenth amendment was premature and the average mind at first failed to conceive of its being more than good material for jokers.

A recent occurrence at Washington D. C. upon the issuance of certain invitations to a dinner, to be given by the Washington chapter of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity in honor of the newly-appointed Justice Sutherland of the United States Supreme court, has attracted much comment in Eastern papers. The invitation amounted to a "summons" in which it was required that the "defendants" answer, among other similar questions, whether or not they had a "supply" and how much they intended to bring with them. The "summons-invitations" were not received as a joke but many of those invited openly denounced the idea of making light of a part of the Federal constitution and Justice Sutherland refused to be further identified with the affair. The dinner was cancelled. The joke was on the jokers.

THE TWO SCENES OF AN EDUCATION

It has been said that education does not come from college class rooms nor the text books studied, but that it comes from the arguments and discussions among college chums that take place within their own rooms.

A few congenial friends gather and talk things over earnestly and seriously, formulating their opinions, reasoning, and thinking—striving all the while to arrive at the truth. They learn to know and to understand men through their intercourse with one another,—the men with whom they must deal in life. The man who only knows books, the student who only knows his sciences, is but a misfit in this world of men.

But the class room can claim a just share on the educational credit sheet. It supplies the material for growth. It gives the students the knowledge wherewith to make their arguments sound and valid. It aids them to correct their mistakes, broadens the fields of discussions, and awakens within the individual new hopes and desires, and thus gives greater opportunities for expression. Education to have value must be expressed.

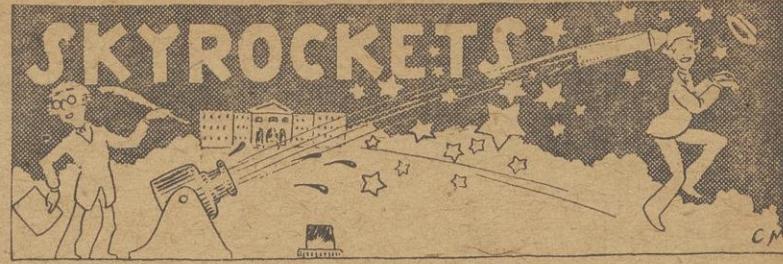

Within the class room the facts are learned—within the students' rooms the art of expression is learned—thus is the stage set in two scenes for the ultimate production, education.

FRAIL WOMAN

(Daily Illini)

Even in this enlightened age, women are the butt of public criticism, ridicule, censure and all matters of condemnation. And in the role of the much-defamed, woman finds herself exalted. It is her fancy to be frivolous, extravagant, independent, indiscreet, lacking in ideals, contemptuous of her former "better", man, vain, artificial and all the other adjectives applying to

Well, at last we have a purpose. We've known all along we'd have to have one sometime. So now we, together with Jack Ryan, the American Magazine, and the European Youth Movement, have a purpose. We exist not to tickle your subconscious, nor even to drive you into unconsciousness; but to develop WISCONSCIOUSNESS. And that's no joke.

Sunday's Easter. The old green caps go on again. But no one believes they will. Sunday's also April Fool's Day. Let's fool 'em, Frosh—we'll put on the old one-cent-stamp Stacom-protectors.

After years of research, Jimmy Walton, Looey Kahlenberg, and Bonny Johnson have perfected the following yell, which is copyrighted for use of the U. W. Chem department:

Wake! For the clock, that scattered with its bell
Our dreams of rising late and lunching well,
Reminds us of that unclosed window which
Lets in a breeze that feels as cold as mud.

As breakfast bell rang, those who still might snore—
For they had 9 o'clock—would loudly roar,
"Let be; you know how little we may sleep,
And that, once risen, we may sleep no more."

tion, urged on and kindled by The Cardinal and other dominating interests on the campus a lobby was organized and turned loose on the senate Thursday morning which was dominated on the floor of the senate as "the worst and most pernicious example of lobbying seen yet this session." That too in the state of Wisconsin, where the powerful lobbies of corporate interests are not yet rendered as helpless as many may think.

It seems that if such conditions continue the legislators will get a very unfavorable impression of our great state educational institution. That is an opinion we should do everything in our power to prevent being formed. The very existence of the university depends upon the good will and co-operation of the legislature. Everything we have was made possible through its enactments. Any attempt, therefore, to prevent the free and natural expression of its will, by lobby, demonstration, or otherwise, is inexpedient.

The senate has expressed its will. It has passed Joint Resolution No 52, S. and part of the student body is now attempting to force through a reconsideration of that vote. Surely that is being done with the best of intentions, but in this day we realize that the end does not justify the means. That lobby is a bad thing. We must keep our own hands clean if we expect others to do the same. In the name of a square deal and common interests we ought to call off the dogs and let the senate consider its action without outside pressure.

THE PROM LOBBY

Editor, The Cardinal:

Is it not possible that some mistake has been made in all of this feverish agitation to prevent the legislature from refusing the use of the state capitol for the use of the Junior prom? Under that agi-

the condemned type of modern woman. She gloats in being thus condemned, for formerly she was not even noticed. And, besides, she knows she is a good little girl after all.

Some of the criticisms which are hurled at the women of today are ridiculous in the light of the facts. For instance, following the years of effort spent by physical culturists to get young girls to live more active, outdoor life and abandon obsolete ideas of feminine frailty in favor of sensible ideals of womanly vigor, we find many supposedly intelligent people protesting at the entrance of young girls into the field of athletics.

A certain lecturer, in speaking before a recent Chicago meeting, asserted that athletics cheapen womanhood in the eyes of man. A thing to be avoided, indeed! He advocated women abandon rifle shooting for their more natural "target practice with the eyes, women's weapon since Adam and Eve." A worthy sport!

The speaker evidenced the desire to return to the sturdy oak and clinging vine-type of relations between men and women. Which would lead only to the conclusion that the man is either hopelessly depraved or a great humorist.

Vodevil Jazz Band to Give
Benefit Dance

One of the most promising headliners in vaudeville here for many months is the appearance here Sunday of the Henry Santrey of jazz band fame and his noted orchestra of 10 pieces.

Santrey's jazz artists will give a benefit dance at the Cameo room Wednesday night from 11 to 2 o'clock for the sick and health fund of the National Vaudeville Artists, Inc.

A good program in addition to Santrey's sure-fire artists is promised during the observance of National Vaudeville Artists' week in Madison.

Jolt to Madison Jazz

Advocates of modern jazz, ragtime and sheik dancing receive a severe jolt at the Orpheum theater's week-end program ending tonight in the appearance of "Stars of Years Ago."

With the "come-back" of these stage stars of old is a variety of other acts from a troupe of trained rats, cats, dogs and pigeons to a novelty act, "Autumn Three," of comedy, mimicry and whistling.

Rats are unusual performers, and especially so when a number of cats are present. Lady Alice's pets, "tiny tots of the animal kingdom," furnish many augh and surprise.

Two "Hot Steppers"

Two "hot steppers" are Dave and Tressie featuring eccentric, Russian and acrobatic dancing. Joe Bennett in a surprise comedy act furnishes thrills, laughs and mystery.

Even billiards contribute to the present program. An international news reel and adventures of Aesop's Fables complete the bill.

"ENTER MADAME"
Featuring Clara Kimball Young.
Presented at the Parkway.
Directed by Harry Garson.
Released through Metro.

By M. A.
We knew prima donnas were temperamental, but we didn't really know what it meant. Clara Kimball Young, appearing here for the first time in several weeks, cleverly shows us in this picture the worthlessness of a popular opera favorite's existence.

The story taught the old lesson that home and business affairs can not get along together. This time the man was not to blame—something new, isn't it?

Elliott Dexter as Gerald Fitzgerald, "Madame's" unfortunate husband, plays well opposite her. He is a home-loving man but does not care to play the game of marriage as one of solitaire while his talented wife sojourns in the courts of European petty dukes.

In these circumstances can such a home-loving man be blamed for seeking the company of a companion? We do not think so. Wasn't it a surprise to poor Gerald when he found out what his wife really was?

Clara Kimball Young's power of expression is really remarkable. The device employed to set off the superiority of "Madame's" character by contrasting her with the widow Preston was exceedingly clever. It did not take Gerald long to appreciate what a wife he had, and the widow immediately begins to lose favor.

Of course, it ended happily. It was a photo worth while.

SURVEY FAVORS CO-EDUCATION

98 Women Oppose O'Shea's Questionnaire—Men Favorable

Co-education is favored by the women who have been educated in co-educational schools as well as and by both the men and women who are attending co-educational schools at the present.

This is the conclusion reached in a survey conducted recently by Professor O'Shea of department of education on the reaction of women college graduates to co-education.

Four-fifths of the women who answered the questionnaire believe that a girl will receive a better education at a university than at a non-co-ed school. Those who do oppose co-education are very emphatic.

Object to Social Life
"To co-educational colleges my objection is that the women usually have too little of segregated athletics and too much dancing and fraternity," one woman declared.

Of the 98 women who do not favor co-education 90 received their education in segregated schools. In other words only nine out of approximately 500 who were educated in co-educational schools were opposed to co-education.

Quoting from one of the proponents of co-education:

"I favor co-educational schools. One of the things a girl needs to get is the man's point of view."

Co-eds Favor System
Then 100 Wisconsin co-eds were interviewed. Ten were opposed to co-education. Six of the ten had attended non-co-ed schools, the others had not. Nine of the rest were undecided and the other 81 were for co-education.

Finally several hundred Wisconsin men were interviewed. Eighty-seven per cent of the men feel that the presence of women is no disadvantage. The other 13 per cent feel that a man becomes disillusioned concerning women.

The schools of the country, both the universities and the non-co-ed colleges do not train their girls in the care of children, some say. That was the greatest complaint.

Only four of the mothers would elect the same course again if they were in school. The graduates of colleges for women complain of this more than the graduates of the universities.
