PREFACE.

1573

N-A

In presenting our second edition of the MADISON CITY DIRECTORY, it is with a view of its being closely scanned and criticised, and that, without the first thought entering the minds of the critics as to its complexity in detail in obtaining. A name may not appear on its pages which rightfully may claim recognition ; yet the reason of its not being there is as much unknown to the publisher as to him who makes the discovery—which should aid, as we look back through our own business channel, that none are infallible.

Aside from the citizen department, following will be found a classification of the different kinds of business conducted, while the front part is devoted to statistics of churches, societies, etc.

For any imperfections or omissions that may occur, the publisher asks the indulgence of the public ; trusting that the work will meet with that satisfaction and approval which it has been his earnest endeavor to achieve.
