UNION VODVIL MAY CLEAR $1,000 FOR MEMORIAL FUND

Gorgeous Costumes and Stage Drapes Arrive For First -- Dress Rehearsal

Union Vodvil, which will be given at the Parkway theatre on Friday and Saturday, will probably clear as much as $1,000 for the Union Memorial fund, according to Gordon B. Wanzer '24, general chairman.

This can only be done in case that all three performances are played before capacity houses, Wanzer said. Performances will be given Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. Tickets are being sold at the Parkway box office.

Hold Dress Rehearsal
Several hundred dollars worth of costumes and stage drapes will come from Lester, Chicago, late this afternoon. The first dress rehearsal of the show will be held at the Parkway tonight. Bill Purnell '23, production manager, has been rehearsing the acts during the past several weeks at the Lathrop concert room.

One of the brightest and most interesting spots in the entire ten-act show will be the play "The Raft" which will be presented by the Wisconsin university players. The cast will include Miss La Verne Morrison and Thomas McLean whose portrayal of Stephen Leacock's comedy is side-splitting.

Good Lighting Effects
The play opens with McLean represented as being lost on the high seas on a raft. He rescues a woman from the waves and their existence on the raft presents many ideal comedy situations.

Scenery has been prepared specially for the act in Chicago. A raft of large proportions will be seen floating about the stage and the representation is complete in every respect. A crew of three electricians are needed to manage the lighting effects for the act.

DR. BLEYER GIVES JOURNALISM TALK

Explains Development of English Journalism to Press Club

Prof. Willard G. Bleyer last evening addressed members of Press club on the subject of English journalism as it has developed in the last few years.

Dr. Bleyer returned at the end of the summer from a tour of Europe. English and American journalism have much in common, both having advanced according to Dr. Bleyer, while journalism of the continent has changed very little during the past few years, and has advanced very little.

"English newspapers use the biggest possible type of headlines to bulletin the news in news advertisements," said Dr. Bleyer. "These headlines are even larger than those used in the most sensational of American newspapers. There are two types of bulletins, those telling of only one story and those containing short bulletins of all the news."

"English newspapers have advertisements on the front page with the most important news on the middle pages. Some of the papers are definitely modeled on American newspapers, having special features and most of them contain American comics. Most of them sell for four cents."

A popular type of newspaper in England, according to Dr. Bleyer, is the pictorial sheet. An extremely peculiar situation is seen in the fact that no daily papers have Sunday editions. Sunday papers come out independent of dailies.

"The English press is much more capitalist than the American. It has, however, deteriorated greatly since the war and here have been no outstanding editors. Personal journalism has gone," he said.

Winter Sports Await Advent of Snow and Cold Weather

Season Program For Skating, Skiing and Hockey Has Been Completed

"The winter sport season will open in full blast as soon as we have snow and cold weather," George Martin, winter sport director, declared yesterday.

The full program for the winter has just been completed and promises a successful season. Skating, skiing, and hockey will reign in the sport world, aided by the increased facilities which the authorities have provided.

May Import Snow
"The ski jump is all ready for Santa Claus weather," Martin announced. "The hill has just been fixed up and the landing improved, and all that is wanting is a good snow storm. The toboggan slide is also ready. But snow or no snow, we'll hold the International ski tournament on Muir Knoll next February, even if we have to import it."

All who enjoy the sport of skiing will be able to participate this year. Special classes will be held for all men and women who wish to learn the fundamentals, and the

SUMMER STUDY OPENED TO GIRLS

Enable Industrial Women to Enter Summer Session Regardless of Training

It will be possible this year for a number of industrial girls to enter our summer session regardless of previous training or interests, was the message that Alice Corl '25 brought to the Student-Industrial Y. W. C. A. annual banquet last night in Lathrop hall.

Miss Corl explained that the dean of the summer school has given permission for a number of industrial girls to enter the summer session as Florence Sims scholars.

Nell Martinson, who attended the industrial summer school at Bryn Mawr last year, told of the great value of summer school training to the industrial girl. She said that the chief value was in the widening of the point of view that results from contact with other girls and expressed her wish that there could be more such schools.

"There is no fundamental difference between the industrial girl and the student girl; they have the same native range of ability and the same earnest and purposeful outlook on life," said Prof. D. D. Lescohier, who talked on "What's the Use?"

"Industrial girls and student girls have different influences and environment which makes them look at the problems they must meet in a different manner. Contact of the two will have a fine influence on both; the industrial girl can bring the student girl up against the absolute facts of life, while the university girl can in her turn bring the theories and training she has gotten from her school education," was the opinion of Prof. Lescohier.

The banquet for the industrial women and the university women is a regular event to further the co-operation between the city Y. W. C. A. and the university branch. The work this year was carried on under the leadership of Alice Corl '25.

STUDENTS TAKE DAILY PLUNGE IN MENDOTA

It may be too cold for some but not too cold for four students to keep them from having their usual plunge in Lake Mendota. George W. Martin, Grad, Leo Sorenson '24, Henry Huber '25, and Charles Hartling '26, still take their daily dip in the lake and apparently shiver less while doing it than the spectators do.

Judges Selected For Junior Prom Fox Trot Contest

Judges for the '25 Prom fox trot are Thomas Moroney, Thomas MacLean, Harold Buell, Grace Malott, Katherine Cromer, Mary DeVine, Clifford Benson, and Clara Hertzberg, chairman of the Prom Fox trot committee.

The $50 to be paid for the best fox trot is being solicited from Madison merchants, as has been the custom in past years.

Every student in school is qualified to try out for the prize. Any number of persons may work on a composition, some may write the music, others the words, but the piece must be submitted as one. The winning number is selected on a purely competitive basis, the committee announces.

COOLIDGE'S STAND PRAISED BY OGG

Favors No Interest, Party or Section of Country Says Ogg

"The message of President Coolidge to congress last week is, on the whole a very admirable piece of work," Prof. F. A. Ogg, of the political science department said in an interview yesterday.

"It is frank and fair to every section and interest of the country, and favors no party, labor or capital. Clarity of thought and language, a keen, considerate conception of economic questions, grasp of business affairs and the interests wants and efforts of the people mark the message throughout."

"Undoubtedly the message and its very favorable reception by the people will further President Coolidge's chances for re-election in 1924, although I do not believe that he intentionally attempted to make it favorable to himself."

"I agree with him absolutely on his stand against the soldier bonus. Such a bonus would involve an enormous expense and scandal, probably a repetition of the old Civil War pension scandal. Only about half the men in service ever left this country, and not half of them saw active service in the trenches. Compensation should of course be made to the injured, but only to the injured. President's plans for tax reduction are adequate and sensible."

THETA TAU INITIATES ELEVEN NEW MEMBERS

The welcoming speech was given by Bowman Breed '24. William Schubert '25 gave the response.

PHI KAPPA PHI WILL INITIATE 44 TOMORROW NIGHT

Professors Leith, Mead, Mason and Turneure Made Honorary Members

Four members of the faculty have been elected to honorary membership of Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic and activities fraternity which will initiate 40 members of the senior class in addition to the faculty men at the initiation banquet at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the University club.

The members of the faculty who have been honored by the election are Prof. C. K. Leith, head of the department of geology, Prof. D. W. Mead, professor of hydraulic engineering, Professor Max Mason, professor of physics, and Dean F. E. Turneure, dean of the College of Engineering.

Pick Largest Number

These men were picked because of their outstanding work and for the reputation which they have brought to Wisconsin for their achievements, according to Prof. R. H. Whitbeck, president of Phi Kappa Phi. This is the largest number which has been picked at any time from the faculty body.

The 40 seniors who were announced for election last week will be initiated at the same time as the professors at the initiation banquet tomorrow evening.

Scholarship Necessary

The Phi Kappa Phi address at the banquet will be delivered by President Birge. Invitations for the banquet have been sent out to all the faculty and student members and to the initiates by R. E. Ramsay, secretary of the organization.

Phi Kappa Phi is the only honor society which picks all of its members from all the colleges of the university and considers both activities and scholarship. In order to qualify for membership a student must have maintained an average of "good" in his scholastic work and have successfully participated in some recognized field of student activity. The organization is a national one and is several years old.

FINAL TRYOUTS IN DEBATES THURSDAY

25 Students to Compete in Subject on Chicago Drainage Canal

With the prospects of 25 students competing in the finals of the intercollegiate debate tryouts Thursday afternoon and evening, the judges are planning to set a definite time for each candidate to speak either in the afternoon or evening.

Those eligible to try-out are the 15 survivors of the semi-annual tryouts, members of the recent joint debate teams and former intercollegiate debaters.

The try-out subject deals with the guarantee of sufficient water to provide adequate sanitation to the city of Chicago by means of the Chicago drainage canal. This same subject has also been chosen by the coaches of the Midwest debating league institutions—Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin—as the question for debate between the three schools. The subject for the triangular debate has not been chosen.

Prof. A. T. Weaver requests that all candidates for the final tryouts sign up on the bulletin board in front of 206 Bascom hall.

PRIZES OFFERED IN ESSAY CONTEST

Economic Papers By Students to Honor Memory of Elec- trical Wizard

Economics prizes of $200 and $100 are being offered to college students in the essay contest for 1924, by the League for Industrial Democracy, in memory of Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, its late vice president.

The contest is open to any undergraduate of an American college or normal school. No paper is eligible which shall in any way disclose the identity of the author before the reward shall have been made. The papers should be mailed before June 1, 1924.

Topics suggested are: "Problems of Organized Labor," "Problems of Nationalization," and other problems.

Of special interest to college students are the conferences of the intercollegiate department of the League for Industrial Democracy.

The first conference will be held New York at 12 o'clock Saturday, December 29. The main part of the conference will be a symposium by students on "The Collegian—Facing the Present Crisis."

A more extensive conference will be held in Boston and Cambridge from Friday, January 11 to Sunday, January 13, 1924. It will begin Friday afternoon with a session at the Boston university theological seminary on "The Church and Labor." In the evening a dinner conference will deal with "The Brainworkers and the Labor Movement." Other features are discussions of "Social Thinking in American Universities," of "Labor in Politics," of "The Student, and the New Social Order," and a debate between an advocate and an opponent of socialism.

A third conference will probably be held at New York.

The next regular meeting of the Junior Mathematics club will be at 7 o'clock Thursday, December 13, in Room 1, Music hall. The program will consist of piano selections by Prof. Arnold Dresden, a talk on The American Mathematical Society by Prof. E. B. Van Vleck, and Christmas Carols.

Kindergarten Tots To Trim Yuletide Firs About Square

"They are pretty, but don't you want to trim them," seems to be the sentiment concerning the Christmas trees decorating the posts about the square. Now they are to be trimmed properly by children in the kindergartens, who are making tinsel and other decorations with which to deck them. Vari colored paper chains, tinsel, Santa Clauses, angels, stars, baskets, and lot of pretty bright colored things will find their way to beautify the little trees.

The birds will feast on the cranberry chains and pop corn and no one will complain, for these tiny creatures are to learn that Christmas means giving.

The plan was decided upon at a meeting of the council of kindergarten teachers held Monday night. Each tree will bear the name of the school which decorated it.

FORMER STUDENT ON CHAMP DEBATING TEAM

Martin C. Kriewaldt, who graduated from the university in 1922, and is now a law student at Adelaide University, South Australia, was the closer on the debate team which has just proved to be the champion university debater of all Australia.

While at Wisconsin Kriewaldt was prominent in forensic activities. He is a member of Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity.

PROF. GILLEN'S CAR DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Prof. J. L. Gillen, of the sociology department, was the driver of one of the cars which collided at the intersection of North Carroll and West Dayton streets shortly after noon yesterday. The cause of the accident is not known, and apparently neither driver was to blame. The car of Professor Gillen was badly damaged, while the other machine escaped with a few scratches. Neither occupant of the two cars was injured, according to reports.

BADGERS FRIDAYMeanwell Looks Upon Wisconsin-De Pauw Tilt as Tough Game

Wisconsin is in for one of its toughest games of the 1923-24 schedule Friday night when it stacks up against the De Pauw university court squad. Coach Meanwell is looking toward this game as if it were as important as a regular conference championship contest.

"De Pauw has one of the fastest basketball teams in Indiana and the team that beats her can consider itself a strong outfit," Doctor Meanwell said yesterday. "Indiana is the greatest state for basketball in any part of the country. For that reason an Indiana team is always a dangerous opponent."

Take Long Shots

Last year De Pauw broke even with Butler and Wabash and both of these teams took Purdue into camp. The present squad is practically the same outfit and brings a reputation for long distance shooting that is said to keep the spectators continually on the verge of heart failure. If the defense is too tight to filter through for close shots the De Pauw men are just as well satisfied with counters from the center of the floor.

"Friday's game will largely determine the strength of this year's team," Meanwell declared. "If we beat De Pauw we will be able to say that we have a powerful team. If we beat them decisively it will mean that our prospects are very bright."

Franklin is Strong

"The other preliminary games of the season will furnish the stiffest kind of competition, too. Franklin can easily be put in the class of Wabash and De Pauw, and any of these three will give a Big Ten team the game of its life. It is for this reason that a game with a team like De Pauw is a valuable preliminary contest."

One more game remains for the Badgers before the holidays, that with Marquette university at Milwaukee next Wednesday night, followed by a preliminary game with Franklin just previous to the opening of the conference season.

The team is in good shape and is probably stronger at this time of the year than was the championship five of last year at the same date. Coach Meanwell is not making any forecasts about the conference season as yet. He refuses to comment on the final outcome of the Badger quintet in the Big Ten race, reserving his opinion until after the team has had a chance to show what it can do against a team of high-class calibre. There will be plenty of teams of such rank in the conference this year Meanwell predicts.

Supreme Court Says Commission Cannot Order Extension Of Utilities

The state railroad commission is without authority to order extensions of public utilities in municipalities, the state supreme court held today in affirming the decision of the lower court in the case of the State vs. the Washburn Water Works Co. It is reported that this decision will not affect the commission's recent order for the extension of the Madison Street Railway Co. tracks out Monroe st.

Hold Soccer Game
Today; Big Spread
Tonight at Y. M.

The first of the inter college soccer games is to be played off this afternoon at four-thirty on the lower campus. The first two teams to enter the competition are the L. & S. and the Agrics. Both teams have varsity material and a hot battle is expected. Captains Zweiger and Klevay of the respective teams urge their men to turn out promptly in order that the game may be started at four thirty sharp and be finished before it gets dark.

The members of the Engineer and the Commerce teams are asked to sign up by Wednesday or Thursday if they are expecting to stay in the competition.

All men who have the soccer spirit should get together tonight at the university Y for the semi-monthly banquet. Plenty of entertainment and fun is in store for all those who attend. Several announcements of vital interest will be made at the same time. Remember the time for the feed is six sharp and the place is the Y.

FROSH FISH COP
INTER-CLASS TILTSteinauer is Still Trying to

The freshmen swimmers won over the three higher classes by such an overwhelming score in the inter-class swimming meet last night that Coach Joe Steinauer is still trying to compile the exact score. Yearling fish took the event by a large count, placing in every event and scoring shutouts in several others. The meet was fast, with a bevy of first year luminaries providing most of the competition among themselves.

The frosh relay team, composed of Stevens, Ratcliff, Thomsen, and Hershberger, took first place, leading the other teams by a safe margin all the way. They negotiated the distance in the fast time of 1 minute, 19 2-5 seconds.

A summary of the meet follows: Relay—Won by freshman team. Stevens, Ratcliff, Thomsen, Hershberger. Time 1:19 2-5.

Diving—Wheatley, frosh, first; Simpkins, soph, second; McGinnis, frosh, third.

GYM TEAM MEETS
SQUAD SATURDAYMatch to Be "Acid Test" of Untried Badger
Squad

The Badger gym team will journey to Milwaukee next Saturday where the men will meet the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. gymnasts in the first outside meet of the season. This meet will be a test of the strength of this year's team which has thus far been unknown.

The Milwaukee team always offers stiff competition and was defeated by only a small margin last year by the varsity which afterwards won the conference championship.

Final tryouts to determine the men who will make the trip will be held at the City Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Thursday night at 7:30.

To Pick Team

"My purpose in having the men tryout at the City Y. M. C. A. is to acquaint them with the apparatus which is the same as that used in the Milwaukee 'Y' gym," said Coach Schlatter.

Schlatter will pick twelve men to make the trip out of those who are eligible. Men eligible are: Baker, Bremer, Hiemeke, Koch, Cress, Krieger, Schmidt, Captain Stevens, Wingender, Hicks, Jackson, and Parsons. Reinhold and Thompson, fencers, are sure to go.

Development is Slow

"The team has been developing very slowly," was the comment of Coach Schlatter in regard to prospects for this year. "Lack of time has handicapped the men a great deal, and I feel that with a rearrangement of schedules next semester we will be able to accomplish more."

The team will leave for Milwaukee Saturday morning and will return Sunday.

While the varsity is away the freshman squad will hold a meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the armory. Competition will be for individual championship of the squad.

Badger Ski club will conduct cross country ski hikes. To add interest to the sport the club will also hold several races for both men and women.

Expect Big Ski Year

Although the Badger Ski club has lost one of its best riders, Sverre Strom, last year's intercollegiate champion, it looks forward to an exciting year. The club has acquired several new members of international fame, including Bjorn Mortensen '27, who has taken part in several Norwegian tournaments.

The facilities for skating will be more ample than ever before. The position of the rink will be changed to the end of Park street, and it will be lighted at night by the new arc lights which were used at the football field. This will permit ice enthusiasts to use the rink until 10 o'clock week nights and 11 o'clock Fridays and Saturdays.

Skating classes for both men and women will be held daily and if the classes are not filled with regular students taking it for gymnasium credit others will be allowed to enter. There will also be a class for fancy skaters.

The annual race across the lake will be held as soon as the ice is in shape. A gold medal will be awarded the winner. To encourage interest in skating, special races will be held every Saturday for both men and women, for which prizes will be given to the winners, one prize to each person. A bulletin board is to be kept in the skating house with all news of skating and skiing.

The annual Winter Carnival will be held February 16. The program consists of races and competitions in the afternoon, and costume parades, skating to music, and exhibition of fancy skating in the evening.

Wisconsin May Yet
Have Eight-Game
Schedule For 1924

An eight-game football schedule for 1924 is still possible, according to T. E. Jones, athletic director at the university. The Athletic council has favored addition of an eighth game to the schedule, and all that remains is favorable action by the faculty.

The question will be up in the air until after the holidays when the faculty meets.

Chances of getting Nebraska have dwindled to nothing with word from the Cornhusker camp that their schedule is heavy now and additional games cannot be scheduled.

In case an eighth game is to be scheduled, it is thought that Coe college of Cedar Rapids will be brought here. A game with Coe would draw a large crowd because of the excellent battle they gave the Badgers in a preliminary game this year.

W. A. A. DISCUSSES
RIFLE PRACTICEMajor Lampert Explains Values of Knowledge About
Guns

"Knowing something about guns will not increase but will reduce the number of accidents and at the same time afford excellent sport," declared Major Lampert in discussing girl's rifle practice at the W. A. A. meeting last night.

Shooting is a sport that does not neglect the mind while giving attention to the body, according to the major. "Athletics that develop the body solely do not accomplish mental relaxation, for thoughts are allowed to drift back to studies and the daily routine. True physical training leaves the athlete with rejuvenated powers and clearer mind."

The women's rifle practice classes are limited by local facilities, and only 65 girls are enrolled at the present. Major Lampert promised that a larger number will be taken care of next spring.

The new members admitted to W. A. A. were: Virginia Kellogg '25, Ruth Powers '24, Helen Hunt '26, Lillian Harrison '24 and Helen Cooper '26. Those awarded their pins were: Katherine Watson '25 and Janet Walls '25.

"The fines for delay in paying dues are piling up, and unless dues are paid before the next meeting, the negligent members will be dropped from the organization," warned Esther Bilstad '24, president.

Chicken pox and diphtheria led the field of contagious diseases during the past month with a total of 107 cases, according to the city board of health statistics.

A total of 71 cases of chicken pox were reported. Diphtheria was second with 36 cases reported. Every effort is being made by health authorities to curb these diseases. Twenty-eight diphtheria carriers, persons who do not contract the sickness themselves, but carry the germs are under constant surveillance of Dr. E. V. Brumbaugh, city health officer. GRIDMEN MEET
TO MAKE PLANS
FOR NEXT YEARProspects Fill Out Scholastic
Cards; Ryan Urges Hard
Study

"Wisconsin pins her hopes on you men for the 1924 season," said Coach Ryan to a group of about 100 men interested in football at the gym last night.

Ryan had all the men present fill out cards with their scholastic standings and former experience. All men should be out of scholastic difficulties before next semester, he said. He also told those present to get all good high school football men interested in Wisconsin and try to get them to come here next year.

Meetings During Winter

"One night in every two weeks there will be a meeting, and everything that happened during last season will be talked over," he said. "Outdoor spring practice will start April 21. From now until then think football and prepare yourself, because there will be plenty of work. Learn how to do it and win a job."

The coach encouraged all men to get interested in other sports for the rest of the year, especially track, boxing, and wrestling. Track improves a backfield man's start and wrestling will be especially good for the linemen. "We want fighters and men who are willing to work and do their all for Wisconsin," he further said. "All men should have a 100 per cent attitude all the time, in the classroom as well as on the field."

Many Reserves Needed

"It does not matter where you go and what you do, but if you do your best and put all you've got into it, we want you out. I want you to carry away the feeling that you were proud of being on the squad, even if you don't play. We can have three good varsity teams and three All-American teams. Next year's schedule is tough, but it is your opportunity. A team isn't any better than its reserves, so talk it up and get as many as possible out on April 21."

Stagg Fights For
Above-Board Deals
In College Sports

Coach A. A. Stagg, of the university of Chicago has urged the passing of a rule by the Western Conference prohibiting the scheduling of football games with schools giving their coaches a percentage of the gate receipts.

The practice tends to commercialize the game, he declared. The Chicago team for years has refused to give games to colleges following the practice, he said and commended the action of Yale, Princeton and Harvard for similar action which has been decided upon.

Training of high school and college students in sportsmanship is being made secondary to pecuniary interests of the schools and coaches he said.

IRON CROSS ELECTIONS

Four more men from the class of 1924 have been designated by molten inscription which appeared silently in the night on the Bascom hall portico as having that quality of service and leadership which merits their election to the university's most significant honor society, Iron Cross.

Through an apprenticeship of more than three years these four have served diligently and efficiently for the university and the best interests of Wisconsin. For their ability, perseverance and definite purpose they have been honored.

In the midst of a myriad of honor societies Iron Cross stands as a peer, as an organization whose highest ideal is the development of leadership in worthwhile undergraduate activities along with the pre-eminent consideration of love and service to Wisconsin. These few men who have been selected have given the best of their talent and work; their sacrifice has been great; their personal reward small. The highest honor the school can give falls upon them, its champions.

Recognition, the deep applause of men, is a mere bagatelle compared to the actual labor and devotion these honored have shown, but in their service is indicated the progress and activity of this miniature community, and some small measure of acknowledgement is their due.

But in this acknowledgement is an implied understanding that these men have just begun their work and that they will continue to labor and sacrifice for the school. Wisconsin, the university, congratulates the new members of Iron Cross and in this recognition anticipates a perpetuation of service through school and life.

APPRECIATIVE ADVERTISERS

With the announcement that one of Madison's business houses has been willing to sacrifice an advantageous advertising position for the beauties of local scenery, lovers of nature breathe a sigh of joy and praise and feel that at last there has been found a merchant with a bit of real community spirit and appreciation of the aesthetic.

The American merchant and business man has an undesirable reputation with his fellows of other nations for being so mercenary that he is willing to dispose any piece of natural beauty for the sake of his selfish interests in building up his business. It is probably the country billboard that has done more than anything else to make foreigners look upon us as a people who think of nothing but chasing after the almighty dollar. Nor can we blame them much for thinking as they do.

Tourists naturally chose the most lovely parts of the country to travel in; advertisers want their signs in places which are frequented most by tourists. What is the obvious result? Disgraceful, hideous signs are erected on the site of a beautiful water fall, at the turn of a road which gives on a splendid mountain vista, along the shores of a lake. Instead of seeing America first, then the tourists can not help but see American signboards first.

So it is that the merchant who removed his billboard from the Middleton road is to be commended, and it is to be hoped that others will follow his example. It may be true that already there are many local merchants who have never even gone so far as to erect billboards along country roads and we must not forget that they are worthy of even greater praise.

Education may play a large role in the matter of advertising. No matter whether they were instructed in an academic school or in the school of experience, those merchants who received a high valuation of things aesthetic are those who got the most out of their education, those who will do most for society, those who are the greatest Friends of our Native Landscape. Perhaps someday we will all be members of that organization.

THE WORLD AND TOYS

Do you remember, many, many years ago, spending the happy days which follow immediately upon Christmas making your blocks forts and castles and placing in them for defence lead soldiers gayly painted bearing arms, generals flourishing swords; attacking this fort or castle with another battalion of lead soldiers? It was a great sport, and you, as the hero of each movement, thrilled to the excitement of the battle.

Now the era of peace has displaced the war spirit as exemplified in Christmas toys and the lead soldier, the canon, sword, gun and soldier suits have practically disappeared.

Too bad, you say? Well, is it? Isn't it true that the first four of five years of our life are as much a part of our education as any other part? That the glorification of things military in our childhood has bred in us a later glorification of things military. You may say that the Persian youths never played with lead soldiers nor dashed around in flaring armor brandishing spears. Well, perhaps they did; the answer of that question must be left to archeologists. At any rate, it does seem very probable that mechanical toys are apt to breed in our children a little more of the spirit of peace and a little less of the glory of war. Some people may scoff and wonder what will become of the real "red-blooded American" with this change in fashion for toys. But after all, the talk about red-blooded American is a deal overworked and it is barely possible that to be red-blooded one need not be belligerent.

At any rate, the movement among the toy manufacturers seems to point toward the coming of a perhaps more peaceful generation.

Other Editors Say—

FROM FOOTBALL TO ANNUALS

There is often a wearying sameness about college papers. Mechanically in the fall they all take up greetings, pledgings, hazing, advice and rules for opening functions. Then all is swallowed up in the all absorbing subject—football. There is even a sameness in the way the football heroes' pictures look; they either stand erect with feet wide apart—in a challenging attitude, or, in a rather demure way, with a hand on one hip and a self-conscious expression. There are summons to pep meetings, denouncements of those who don't "yell" at games; glorious chants about "fighting the fight." Beat the enemy; boost the team, etc., etc. To an insider it all gives a thrill, no doubt. To "the man up a tree" who incidentally has some couple of hundred college papers to read, the invariable repetitions do grow rather monotonous.

Football Has a Rival

Of late another subject has found its way into press prominence. Ninety-five per cent of all the papers prophesy annuals. Here there is not such a sameness—except that all fraternity pictures must be in by next week and that Florenz Ziegfeld is going to receive another batch of beauties to judge. Deans and Presidents are interviewed and describe the Merits and Desirability of the Annual. Dean Blank can never afford to be without an Olympiad; President Dash is photographed signing the first order for a Neptonian; Professor Ecks reminds the senior class what a treasured possession this will be in after years.

An oasis in all this is the decision of the student body at Rockford College to do away with the annual. "One of the most cherished traditions" of the college is being laid aside and those who would have worked for it are putting in the same amount of time raising money for an endowment fund. At least this disabuses the minds of some students of the infallibility of college traditions.—The New Student.

Humor Pudding of Vodvil, Mistleoe In Today's Octy

By P. F. B.

The Octopus gives us a Union Vodvil and mistletoe concoction to chew over today and, we may say, it's a rather tasty humor pudding.

The Vodvil motif is a welcome innovation after years of Christmas trees, the Claus family, and Christmas spirits. In the present number it saves us from what might otherwise have been a forty page deluge of mistletoe and Christmas kissing.

Why the editors have hit on mistletoe as a theme for every other page in the book will probably remain an abysmal mystery. We venture to say, however, that they have felt the acute necessity for a revival of a very hospital custom.

One may open the book to its middle pages and find the two best pieces of work in the issue. On the left we have a group of "spirit" sketches which strikingly resemble the neatness of design, the prettiness and sweep of the drawings of Octy's last year's editor. Shades of Hub Townsend! Kek has hit upon his style exactly. On the right we can read examination questions and answers and laugh understandingly—particularly since we are involved in Commercial Law. This satiric and cynical vein is a blessing to the Octopus so long as it is not overdone. Applause for Larry Hastings, perpetrator.

The Vodvil number throws the spotlight on many new things in the Octopus. There are plenty of new artists—and good ones; a new mast head shows that such contrivances can be decorative as well as useful; copper half tones lend a finish and added excellence to the pages; and a new strain of nonsense verse and prose appears which we judge will stay if it can always come up to the level of that on pages 16 and 17.

The half tones and shaded drawings particularly are a great asset to the attractiveness of the book because they are half tones and because they are well drawn. They should be consistently encouraged.

There is an extraordinarily stupid page on Vodvil itself and a reduced number of vapid puns, but they serve mainly to throw into relief the merits of the issue.

W. Aubrey Thomas, a former Ohio congressman, now a resident of Birmingham, Ala., is to be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, with the knowledge and consent of C. STRING ORCHESTRA HERE FOR CONCERT

String Music Most Perfect Form of Music, Says Director Morphy

String quartet music such as the London string quartet will give in their concert in Music hall auditorium at 8:15 o'clock tonight is the most delicate and most nearly perfect form of music, according to Major E. W. Morphy, director of the university orchestra and bands.

"A string quartet makes color as faces change expression, with subtle changes, contrasts, perhaps small in themselves to the listener unacquainted with this type of music, but contrasts relatively rather than quantitatively great," said Morphy.

"The music which a string quartet makes is an example of delicate art, not of pageantry. For those who have learned to appreciate delicacy and perfection rather than brilliance of coloring in art and volume of sound in music, this kind of music will fill a want which no other less excellent type of music can fill," Morphy continued.

The only place to get sound perfectly in tune is in a string quartet, according to Morphy. "The piano, woodwinds, and brasses are never wholly in tune. It is impossible to make a piano which will play all of the tones, and temperature and other variations easily affect the tone and pitch of the other instruments," he said.

"There can be no mistakes in string quartet playing, for there is nothing loud like the piano or drums to cover up conflicting tones. The instruments used must be perfectly in tune, and they must be played skillfully in order to blend perfectly.

Tonight's concert is the second given by the London String quartet in Madison this year, under the auspices of the university school of music.

The four Englishmen who compose the London String quartet are James Levey, first violin, Thomas W. Petre, second violin, H. Waldo Warner, viola, and C. Warwick-Evans, cello.

PROF. SNOW GIVES SNOWFLAKE TALK

Slides of Crystals Are Shown in Connection With Famed Lecture

Prof. Benjamin Snow gave his famous snowflake lecture yesterday afternoon. Professor Snow received his slides from William A. Bentley, Jericho, Vermont, with whom he has corresponded for a number of years. Wisconsin is the only university in the country which has a duplicate set of these slides.

The size of the snow flakes varies from one eighth of an inch down. In a handful of snow are thousands of crystals each with its own design.

There are no two crystals alike, but they are hexagonal and symmetrical and seem to resemble animal characteristics, having grown from a germ which in most flakes is still seen in the center of the design.

In photographing the flakes, or crystals, they are allowed to fall through a hole in the room onto a black top table. The perfect crystals are picked out with a magnifying glass and after being placed under the microscope camera by a feather, are photographed. The temperature of the room must be kept very cool in order to keep the crystals from melting.

Claim Milwaukee Road Has Violated Child Labor Statutes

Proceedings against the Milwaukee road for alleged violation of the state child labor laws were requested of the attorney general's department today by the state industrial commission.

The charges submitted to the legal department involve several provisions of the state law. It is alleged that the company has employed children under 18 at track repairing, has employed children under 17 years of age without a child labor permit. Damages of $10,000 are requested by the state commission.

The state commission also advised proceedings be instituted against the Wisconsin Rapids Auto Service Co., certain cafe proprietors at Ashland and Milwaukee and against the Beaumont Hotel, Green Bay, alleging violations of state labor laws.
