The Athenaeon sophomore semi-public team has submitted the following question for their next semi-public debate, "Would a Bimetallic System of Currency at the ratio of 15 1-2 to 1, adopted by joint action of the United States, France and Germany, be preferable to a system of international gold monometalism maintained by the United States and all the commercial countries of Europe?" This will undoubtedly make a very interesting debate, for it is the question of money that is the question of the day.

BICYCLE COSTUMES UP TO DATE.

They Are Tailor-Made and Cost From Sixty to Eighty Dollars.

The woman who is able to pay $60 or $80 for a thoroughly up-to-date and thoroughly conventional wheeling dress is out on the boulevard this spring in a pepper and salt melton skirt, made to open on the sides instead of in the back, and coming down to the top of the shoes. This skirt is scant or full, according to the rider's figure, and is lined with a very heavy silk or with farmers' satin. Under it she wears bloomers, or very possible equestrian tights, buttoning just below the knees.
A single button cutaway coat, with a shirt waist or a silk blouse, gives her the smart look so necessary to her peace of mind. Her headgear is a Scottish cap with two quills, and on her feet she has low russet shoes, meeting leggings.

The full knickers, like the divided skirts, are hideous and not especially convenient. They are not worth the cost of a revolution in society. There are times when compromises won't work. This is one of them. It's a choice between the conventional and the radical—skirts and fairly closefitting knickerbockers. There's no good foothold on any middle ground.

The best cycling blouses are of linen.
Silk is very well for amateurs. Soft gray linen, striped with pink or green, or dark red, is the prettiest possible relief of the monotonous pepper and salt of the received riding costume.

Riding ulsters are just on the market. To walk, or worse yet, to take a street car from home to the park, where the morning spin is to begin, is not the pleasantest of experiences, if one is new to one's knickers. Coats that come to the heels and effectually

DON'T STOP TOBACCO.

How to Cure Yourself While Using It.

The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously affected, impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is too severe a shock to the system, as tobacco, to an inveterate user becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves.
Baco-Curo is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit, in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure, purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want, while taking Baco-Curo, it will notify you when to stop.
We give a written guarantee to permanently cure any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent. interest. Baco-Curo is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that cures without the aid of will power and with no inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke. Sold by all druggists, with our ironclad guarantee, at $1.00 per box, three boxes (thirty days treatment), $2.50, or sent direct upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO-CENT STAMPS

POEMS OF THE SEASON.

You've changed the calendar, they say,
With all your mire and flood;
Your blooming name was erstwhile May,
But now your name is mud.

—Washington Star.

The good Lord disposes
Of the weather in his way; Overcoats and roses
In the balmy month of May.

—Atlanta Constitution.

Though the new woman to usurp Man's rightful place aspires, She'll still permit him to get up And build the morning fires.

—Kansas City Journal.

"No, sir, the cable is not broke;"
It was the gripman, sad, who spoke;
'I'm waiting, as the hours roll by, While those two women say 'good-by.'

—Washington Star.

When she and I a-wheeling went,
I took a most appalling "header;"
And but for her, I'm quite content.
Than Moses I might now be dead.
But she was in her bloomers clad,
And in her pistol-pocket handy Just like a thoughtful man, she had A prudent little flask of brandy.

—New York Herald.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

The eleventh census showed that in a population of 62,622,250, there were 7,470,040 persons of African descent.

Almost all the Hungarians, Poles, Bohemians and Italians in this country have come during the last ten years.

Up to the present time, the Necro-polis company, the biggest undertaking in England, have buried 126,000 bodies.

Coleridge was so absent minded that he often passed his most intimate friends in the street without recognizing them.

The elder Pitt was extremely rough in addressing those with whom he came in contact, and so made many enemies.

Goethe's manners were simple and unaffected. He greeted all men as his equals and delighted every one whom he met.

Schumann was gloomy and moody.
He often responded to a question without turning his head to look at the questioner.

General Greene had the reputation of being the most polite man in the Revolutionary army during the war for independence.

There are now 875 women serving on boards of guardians in England, instead of 169 as before the passing of the local government act.

A new fuel made in France is of coal dust compressed into bricks and soaked with chemicals, which make it last a long time in a glow when once alight.

It is estimated that last year's total production of beet sugar in Belgium, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Austria, Hungary and Russia amounted to 3,687,000 tons.

The distress in Northeast Durham in consequence of the depression in the coal trade is reported to be increasing rather than diminishing, and there is much privation.

No fewer than 56,000 men have deserted from the English militia during the past five years, and in the same period nearly 70,000 of the same force joined the regular army.

"Flasco" means a bottle or flask.
When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vase they were blowing, they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

"The curious thing about my business," said the mosquito, alighting softly upon the nose of the sleeping victim, "is that it's more fun to go to work than it is to stay to hum."
