UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON WEDNESDAY, NOV. 28, 1928

Frank Asks $12,922,200 for Budget

Regents Will Ask $700,000 to Build New Library Unit

Complete Building Program to Be Presented to 1929
Legislature

An additional $700,000 to supplement the $550,000 appropriated in 1925 for a university library is to be requested by the university as a part of a building program presented to the legislature which convenes in January, 1929.

"The building program is not drawn up for the biennium, as are the other university requests," J. D. Phillips, business manager of the university, told The Daily Cardinal last night, "but rather the regents have outlined the needs of the university over a period of years so that ultimately all the needs will be satisfied."

$2,613,550 Necessary

The total amount listed as necessary for construction of buildings and additions to existing buildings is $2,613,550. Supplementing this, $404,000 is requested for adding lands which are needed in university development, and $322,000 is included for utility purposes. The total amounts to $3,340,210.

The projects which were included in the request filed yesterday afternoon with the state board of public affairs by President Glenn Frank include:

Buildings and Equipment
New Library Building and Equipment (In addition to $550,000 already appropriated)	$700,000
Electrical Engineering Laboratory and Equipment	325,000

Opinions Vary on Law School Plan

Students Present Arguments for and Against Single Exam System

Opinion is varied on the new regulations in the law school, doing away with mid-semester exams and the grades of condition and failure.

The abolishment of mid-semester exams will enable the students to get a better grasp on the subject. As one first year Law student said, "they stand a chance of getting a feeling for law."

"I am greatly in favor of it; it gives the students a break," another first-year man said. "The new method enables us to study the subject as a whole and understand the main points. Then it is easier to go back to fit in the details. Under the former plan the details had to be learned first for the frequent exams, while the salient principles emerged later on."

Doing away with conditions and failures and taking the weighted average as the requisite for continuing in school is to the advantage of the students. Under the new plan one or two courses may be flunked with impunity if the general average is 71 per cent in the first year.

A second year man said that he was not in favor of the change. Under this plan an entire course is passed or flunked on one examination in June. "The semester exams were bad enough," he said; "this way if you flunk in June you lose a whole year's credit. Before, only a semester's work had to be done over."

The effect of this is overcome in the opinion of others by the ruling permitting students, whether in attendance or not, to take the regular examination in subjects in which they have already received credit for the purpose of raising their grades.

Varsity Chess Matches Predicted as Club Shows Giant Checker Board

Giant chessmen, four feet high, placed on a checker board measuring 16 feet will be on display in the promenade room of the Memorial Union just off the Great hall from Sunday to Friday of next week by the University Chess club.

Feeling their game is as important as a gridiron spectacle or student dramas which proclaim their existence from posters and periodicals, the club has decided to draw public attention to the game of brains by this novel exhibition.

Permits Larger Audience

"Up to this time, chess audiences have always been forced to look over the player's shoulder, ventilating the latter's neck and disturbing his play in the process. This primitive method of observation has also automatically limited the numbers of the observers."

The mammoth chess apparatus, invented by a Milwaukee enthusiast, Peter G. Toepfer, in 1901, solves the problem, and enables a large number of spectators to witness plays in chess games. This apparatus was procured from the library for exhibition by the University Chess club.

Women Against Cards

The conviction of the female members of the club that chess is the true test of intelligence, and their cold shoulder of card games wherein, they claim, the winner is determined by luck not by astuteness, co-incides with the belief of the venerable German inventor.

Says the latter, "My belief is that our American public have not as yet adopted the game of chess for their pastime enough to warrant a large audience at a lecture, therefore my giant chessmen are not at play, but the time is not far when chess will be preferred to the hideous card games. Then we will have effective lecturers traveling from town to town to teach the science, art, and beauties of chess."

Many books on chess are in the library; and some of them date from the fifteenth century. The game itself is 1000 years old. An especially interesting ancient volume is "A. B. C. of Chess by London Lady."

Young Claims Human Emotions Are War Cause

"What solution do I offer for war? None!"

Because his sole purpose as a man of science is to analyze and explain, Prof. Kimball Young of the social psychology department left his audience at the meeting of Athenae Literary society Tuesday evening feeling that war is inevitable.

"Two factors operate to bring about war; (1) the human emotions of love and hate and, (2) the stimuli necessary to direct and set off these emotions into fighting channels," explained Prof. Young.

"Although it is possible to qualify these emotions, it is impossible to destroy them. Because this is true women and men throw aside their ideals and principles in a crisis such as war. Stimuli is found in war propaganda such as is taught in the hero legends of history and novels and movies portraying the romance of fighting."

It is fundamental to human nature, according to Prof. Young, to try to get something for nothing. "The only time people can satisfy this desire is when they can both eat their cake and have it too. War is the only time when people can both love and hate simultaneously. That is why war is so fundamental to man."

Search Started for Badger Bowl in Minneapolis

L. B. Allison, director of intramural athletics at the university, has taken steps to conduct a search in Minneapolis for the Badger bowl, intramural trophy which was stolen from the Theta Chi fraternity some time during the week-end.

Mr. Allison believes that some over-enthusiastic Minnesota rooter took the trophy early Sunday morning.

The trophy, which is valued at $800, is awarded at the end of each year to the fraternity excelling in all intramural sports based on points earned in competition against other fraternities during the school year.

Warrant for Co-Op Heads to Be Issued

The warrant for the arrest of trustees of the University Co-op for giving rebates will be issued at the end of the week, according to Glenn Roberts, district attorney.

The warrant is being sworn out by other Madison merchants who object to the policy of the university store.

"Facts will not enter into the case," said Roberts, "it is simply a matter of interpreting the law."

Modern Stage Joins Ancient in 'Lysistrata'

The adaptation of the mechanics of the modern stage to the demands of Aristophanes, without losing the spirit of the ancient comedy, is the aim of the Experimental college players in their production of the "Lysistrata" this Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p. m. in the Stock pavilion.

To aid in the accomplishment of this aim, music, curtains, lights and a constructivist setting will be employed. At the same time, the players will cling to the ancient Greek tradition by using the floor of one end of the stock pavilion for the acting and the tiers of seats around it for the spectators.

The audience plays a vital part in the successful revival of an ancient Greek play, according to Victor Wolfson '31, who is directing his fellow-students in the presentation of "Lysistrata." They must project themselves back into the Golden Age of Greece and become an audience of old.

The title role will be played by John Brinkerhoff Jackson, a freshman in the Experimental college. All the other parts as well as all other work connected with the play will be done by the students of the college.

The largest curtain available in Madison has been secured and will be strung across the stock pavilion, completely shutting off the rest of the hall from the end in which the play will be given and greatly improving the acoustics.

Admission is 75 cents. Tickets are available at the various bookstores and at the information desk of the Memorial Union. There will be no reserved seats.

Union to Hold Old-Fashioned Turkey Feast

Students will celebrate their first Thanksgiving in the new Union at an old fashioned turkey feast prepared under the careful stewardship of D. L. Halverson, chief of all the dining rooms in the new Union.

Tripp Commons and the Tea room will be open generally to men and women so that the Thanksgiving feasting may be a family affair, according to James Hanks '29, chairman of the Commons committee.

Men are invited to bring their dates, and faculty their families. Two hundred turkeys have been ordered by the commissary department for the occasion. The tables will groan under the load of a special $1.25 and $1.50 dinner as the Wisconsin family gathers to give thanks for the first time that there is a roof to shelter the social and cultural activities of this commonwealth.

Union Schedules Lecture on Child Art Next Sunday

The second of the Union's free Sunday afternoon concerts and lectures will be presented next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Paul L. Dengler, Ph. D., will tell the story of the work of Professor Cizek of Austria and show the original drawings and slides of child art in Austria as sponsored by Professor Cizek.

Mr. Dengler is being brought to Madison by the University lectures and convocations committee for a lecture on Monday, but through the courtesy of the Madison Art association he has been secured to give this illustrated lecture on Sunday afternoon for the benefit of members of the Union.

Mr. Dengler tells the story of a remarkable development in child art, unparalleled anywhere. The lecture will be given free to members of the Union and will probably be held in the Great hall.

Orpheum Stars to Give Feature Act at Haresfoot Play

Burgess and Warren, popular radio singing team of WLS, and Keith-Albee-Orpheum circuit stars, and Jack Hanley, well-known vaudeville comedian now appearing at the Orpheum theater, will constitute the feature entertainment of tonight's Haresfoot Follies bill, which will be held in the Great hall of the Memorial Union.

In addition to this professional offering, William Purnell and his Haresfooters will supervise the handling of turkeys, geese and other fowl in the prize donations.

This year's party is the 12th annual Haresfoot dance. Ralph Smith, general chairman of the dance this year, has announced that everything possible has been done to make tonight's affair the greatest in Haresfoot history.

Frank Rohrer's 10-piece orchestra has been engaged for the evening. Permission has been given to make it a one o'clock party. Attendance has been strictly limited, but tickets may still be secured at Gelvin's, Pete Burns', University pharmacy, Campus Soda Grill, and Morgans'.

Governor-Elect Kohler Audits State Board Meet- ing Tuesday

Nearly 10 million dollars for the operation of the university during the next biennium and more than 3 million to meet the constructional and land needs over a somewhat longer period were requested to be included in the state budget by President Glenn Frank Tuesday afternoon at the state capitol.

Kohler Audits Meeting

At the meeting of the State Board of Public Affairs, at which Governor-elect Walter J. Kohler was an auditor, the university requested $9,581,990 for the two school years of 1929-30 and 1930-31, and $3,340,210 for building, utility, and land needs for an extended program.

The requests for the next two years show $4,738,852 for 1929-30, and $4,843,128 for 1930-31, an increase of approximately $500,000 and $600,000 respectively over the $4,233,868 actually allotted to the university budget during the year 1928-29. The totals do not include student fees, non-resident tuition, or other receipts of the university.

Request Money for Books

Because of inadequate appropriations for books, President Frank declared, the University of Wisconsin is at the bottom of a list of 15 or 20 large universities. Citing comparative figures, President Frank showed that Columbia university spends $262,000 for library needs, Minnesota university $221,000, Michigan $137,000 ranging down to Wisconsin's $79,000.

To meet urgent needs for books,

Young Calls for Committee of 25

1932 President Outlines
Plans for Freshman
Activities

A second call for freshmen interested in serving on an executive committee of the class under William A. Young, president, was issued yesterday. While a good response was received from his initial request, he declared, to make his committee representative of the class, he desires a committee member for every 100 freshmen, making an advisory group of 25 freshmen.

The eligibility of members of the group will be established after mid-semester, and the active work on the Freshman Frolic, the annual class dance, will begin then. A statement explaining in greater detail the possibilities of this executive committee was issued by Young yesterday to The Daily Cardinal.

"This plan was devised and incorporated into my platform as a means of making class government more worthwhile and more representative. Since the election, where only a small vote was cast, it seems to me even more necessary that some such plan be inaugurated. There is very little class feeling in evidence. Yet a class, composed as it is of men and women of approximately the same age, is a logical group to function actively. I believe that the class can hold, outside of the traditional "frolic," parties, mixers, and convocations which will be both beneficial and enjoyable.

"No extraordinary ability is needed to act on this committee. The only requirement is eligibility in studies. Previous experience in similar work is of course valuable. Compulsory duties of committee members will be few. To those who plan to enter campus activities, the work on the committee should prove to be valuable experience.

The freshman class won in volleyball and the seniors won the hockey championship.

The Tri Delt won in hockey with a 2 to 1 score against Chadbourne. Beta Sigma Omicron won consolation and Gamma Phi was the runner up. A new feature was introduced this year in hockey when some of the games were played at night.

In volleyball Chadbourne was the winner of the finals and Theta Phi Alpha, the runner up.

Horshoes was won by the French house.

Miss Cronin, a former active member in W. A. A., gave a short talk and was followed by Miss Trilling, former head of the athletic department of the university who recently returned from Europe.

The large "W" pin for 1200 points received for active work in intramurals or on teams was given to Marion Brock '29. Pearl Malsin received the small "W" pin for 900 points.

Those who received a pin for 450 points were: Madeline Bushman, Sibbey Merton, Anne Powers, Marie Thorson, Blanche Schaferman, Katherine Wasson, Helen Gilman, and Mercedes Weiss. There were 42 new initiates who had made at least 75 points.

Sally Ringe, toastmistress, urged the aid of W. A. A. members in a future campaign for more fields for women's athletics.

apparatus and other instructional work at Madison that have accumulated to a point that in the judgment of the Regents is hampering the efficiency of both teaching and research, the University is asking $285,773 for 1929-30 and $274,969 for 1930-31.

Request Increase

The general University operation appropriations provide funds for carrying on the main activities of the university at Madison. The increase in the requests for this purpose for 1929-30 is 9.6 per cent over the current fiscal year, and for 1930-31 3.1 per cent over 1929-30; or an average increase for each year of the biennium of about 7.4 per cent.

An appropriation of $175,000 was made for the maintenance of buildings and grounds at Madison for the current fiscal year. In order to provide for delayed maintenance and for the recent additions to the physical plant, the University is asking for $211,800 for 1929-30 and $215,000 for 1930-31.

The appropriations for public services provide funds for such activities as special investigations or research; university extension; farmers' institutes; agricultural extension and branch stations; state toxicologist; hygienic laboratory; and psychiatric institute.

In order to meet a portion of the increased demands for these services the university is seeking $78,000 for 1929-30 and $78,000 for 1930-31 in comparison to the $50,000 expended in 1928-29 for special investigations and research. Increases of $16,000 and $11,000 for the next two years over the $306,815 budget for 1928-29 for the university extension have been requested. A slight reduction of $5,000 annually is noted for the two coming years from the $349,913 expended this year for other public services.

The revolving funds of the university, consisting of receipts from dormitories, cafeterias, athletic games, laboratory fees, agricultural sales, hospitals, etc., are not included in the above figures. It is estimated that they will amount to approximately $3,000,000 during each year of the coming biennium, an amount that is slightly larger than the estimated receipts from these sources during 1928-29.

Library Needed First

"While the projects are not definitely arranged in order of their importance the library is unquestionably the first building needed by the university," Mr. Phillips declared. The Electrical Engineering laboratory ranked second in necessity, he said.

To complete, the library will cost nearly 3 million dollars, Mr. Phillips said, and the appropriations included in the buildings budget do not include additional amounts set aside for purchase of six properties bounded by Irving and Sterling courts and State and Park streets. The library is planned to be an architectural mate to the present Historical library building.

Among the property which the university plans to buy are lots along Lorch street, adjoining Henry Quadrangle, lots in the Service Building block, and two properties along Langdon street near the campus. One is the Owen property, the South East corner of Lake and Langdon streets on which a local realty firm was planning to build a store last spring if zoning ordinances could be changed.

To relieve the congestion of freight on the Magdalena River in Columbia, a railroad has been built to transport goods along the bank opposite rapids which have delayed steamers.

The Alumni association of Drake university is holding all-university theater parties to help raise funds for women's dormitories on the campus.

University Stock Judging Groups Work Out Here

The University of Minnesota livestock judging team conducted by Prof. F. E. Ferrin was in Madison last Friday.

The team consisting of eight men judged meat animals at the university and at the Renk farm at Sun Prairie. Saturday night they returned to Minneapolis.

They will take part in the International Livestock exposition to be held at Chicago next Saturday where about 20 agricultural colleges will be represented.

On Nov. 28 the judging team from Oklahoma, accompanied by Prof. W. L. Blizzard, will visit the university farm for a workout similar to Minnesota's before attending the Chicago exposition on Dec. 1. The visits are testimonials of the high excellence of the herds and flocks maintained by the university.

The dean of women at the University of Arizona has issued an edict stating that all co-eds must wear uniform hosiery.

Aerial Map Made of Stanford Estate by Photographers

Palo Alto, Cal.—An aerial photography map thirteen feet square, covering the whole Stanford estate of nearly thirty square miles, has just been completed by Major H. A. Erickson. University officials are now trying to find a place to put the map so that it may be seen by the public.

Lieutenant Norman Goddard did the flying for this work, which was begun last July. Two maps were made, one twelve feet square of Palo Alto, which the councilmen will use for city planning in the future. The Stanford map was made with similar ends in view.

Both of these enormous pictures are made from two 108 by 10 inch photographs fitted together and enlarged to a 200-feet-to-the-inch scale. They are the largest ever known to have been made to scale, and the work is so perfect that no seams can be discovered where the small pictures join.

The University of Southern California is to build a new stadium that is to be as large as the Coliseum in Los Angeles. Contractors expect to have it finished in 1930.

CARDINAL SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

Darkened Fields Hamper Play of Fraternity Tilts

Theta Xi, Delta Pi Epsilon,
Theta Chi Win
Contests

By BERT WEISS

The Interfraternity football league played three games on the Camp Randall fields last night. Football played under the conditions such as prevailed last night are not true and fair tests of any team's strength. Not only were the fields poorly lighted but darkness closed in on the games before the end of the first half. Every game played contained some element of doubt in the final analysis of the score.

Theta Xi 7, Phi Sigma Kappa 0

Hake, Theta Xi, scored the only points of a closely fought game when in four straight plays he carried the ball from the Phi Sigma Kappa 20 yard line for a touchdown. Hake also made the extra point.

An unusual play occurred in the third quarter when the Phi Sigma Kappas carried the ball down the length of the field but failed to make a touchdown. Holton, Theta Xi, essayed to punt behind his own goal line. His punt went straight up in the air and was recovered behind the goal line by Roache, Phi Sigma Kappa. The referee ruled that the ball was held as a touchback, on the grounds that the ball went out of bounds.

Berry, halfback, and H. Counsell, fullback, were the most consistent of the Phi Sigma Kappa ground gainers.

Delta Pi Epsilon 7, Sigma Chi 0

This game, while it was played on the darkest field of the three in use last night, was the class of the evening. Sigma Chi, minus their leading player, McCormick, played a great game of football and would have earned a tie had not one of their passes been intercepted by Grebe, Delta Pi Epsilon, fullback who ran 35 yards with it for a touchdown. Grebe also made the extra point when he ran with the ball instead of kicking.

Becker, Delta Pi Epsilon, halfback, was the leading plunger and runner on either of the teams. Time and time again he would break away for long gains that would have been good for a score had not the Sigma Chi safety man been on his toes.

Theta Chi vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Theta Chi won from Sigma Alpha Epsilon by making more first downs while both teams battled to a scoreless tie. Theta Chi's line, averaging

Tri Delts Take Hockey Tourney in Overtime Tilt

Tri Delt won the hockey tournament from Chad Tuesday in one of the closest overtime games ever played at Camp Randall. Chad was leading at the end of the first half, 1-0, when the Tri Delts staged one of their sensational comebacks and rushed over the tying score. In the overtime period, a triple pass, Kate Hopkins to Sally Owen, to Betsy Owen, scored the winning point. The lineups:

Delta Delta Delta: Hopkins, Sally Owen, Betsy Owen, Merle Owen, Haynor, Holt, Parkhurst, Riedvelt, Niss. For Chadbourne: Garrigus, Schroeder, Katetena, Zobel, Schenkenberg, Schmidt, Krasemann, Horton.

Wellner Stars

Beta Sigma Omicron defeated Gamma Phi in the finals of the consolation tournament. Lillian Wellner '30 was the individual star of the game for the Beta Sigs, and Margaret McLellan '30 played well for Gamma Phi. The lineups:

Beta Sigma Omicron: Ainslee, Stuart, Bollerud, Free, Lucas, Sharp, Wellner; Gamma Phi: McLellan, Slenghiff, Palener, Scheimenhauer, Nash, Scott, Bartlett.

Basketball Started

The first rounds of the basketball tournament resulted in two tie games, two defaults, and two victories. Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Zeta played a good game, the former winning, 12-8. Beta Phi Alpha used good team work in passing to defeat A. O. Pi, 19-6. The All-Americans and the Nurses tied 7-7, and 430 Sterling held the Grads 8-8. Tabard defaulted to Charter, and Beta Sigma Omicron defaulted to the Medics.

There are no games scheduled until Monday, Dec. 3, when the following schedule is in effect:

4:30 p. m. Church, Chi O. vs. Coronto.
4:30 p. m. Church, Delta Gamma vs. K. K. Gamma.
6:45 p. m. Gym, C. L. G. C. vs. Schneiders.
6:45 p. m. Gym, Cochrane's vs. Villa Maria.
8:00 p. m. Gym, Gamma Phi vs. Phi.
8:00 p. m. Gym, Phi Mu vs. Sigma Kappa.

Commercial Group Congratulates Team

Madison Association of Commerce directors have passed a resolution congratulating Coach Thistlethwaite on the success of this year's Wisconsin football team. At the meeting of the board of directors Monday Coach Thistlethwaite's team received a great deal of praise, and the secretary was instructed to write a letter to the coach congratulating him in behalf of the business men of Madison for the wonderful showing his team made.

over 10 pounds to the man heavier than the Sigma Alpha Epsilon line, were held to what seemed a very small number of successful line plays. Secker and Fuchs were the main dependable ground gainers for Theta Chi, while Metz, Arthur, and Walsh gained consistently for Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

WOHLGEMUTH WINS TURKEY, NOT BACON, IN ANNUAL RACE

By GEORGE KRONCKE

Although John Wohlgemuth failed to bring home the bacon Tuesday noon, he won a turkey by copping first place in the 30th annual Turkey Day race, held Tuesday noon. His time for the 2.4 mile course was 12:24.

Slaby by coming in second received a goose; Bertrand, a duck; Volk, a rooster; and Ross, a hen. Sandy Liveright was the eighteenth and last, and was awarded an egg as token of his nerve in entering the race.

Hen Lays Egg

He indignantly denied remaining at the dormitories for lunch, although those who had to wait for his return took advantage of their spare time by attending several classes, and the hen which was to be given to the winner of fifth place is supposed to have improved her time to advantage by laying an additional egg.

The others finished in the following order: Parker, Butz, Kissinger, Durkee, Sandgren, Bloss, Walter, Holstein, Dorsch, Frusher, D. Johnson, Hanson, and (later) Liveright.

Donate Prizes to Banquet

These trophies have been generously donated by their winners to the committee for the cross country banquet, which is going to be held on Wednesday, December 5. Moving pictures taken of the finish will form a part of the program for the banquet.

As Liveright stood, puffing, near the finish line, wearing a beaming smile and his entree number 00, he stated that he had nothing to say for publication, except to deny anything which might be said against him. Wohlgemuth, however stated that he would generously furnish him with a turkey-neck, and that, together with an omelette and a glass of water, will compose the luckless manager's evening meal.

By AARON GOTTLIEB

Now comes the time of the year when sports writers over the Big Ten wring their hands, bemoan their fate, and amidst profuse apologies, pick their All-Conference teams. Without further comment, the writer announces the above 22 men as his choices for first and second team honors.

Minnesota Places Three

Illinois, conference champions, with another "starless wonder" team does not rate anyone upon the first team, but receives two positions upon the second. Wisconsin and Minnesota, with three men each, received the greatest individual number of men on the first eleven, while Iowa comes next with two.

Minnesota, with Tanner and Haycraft, had undoubtedly, the best pair of ends in the conference, but it would be folly to leave out Fesler, Ohio sophomore, and considered the best at his position in the Big Ten, so Haycraft is relegated to the second team, with Stuessy of Illinois as a running mate.

Many Tackles

A wealth of tackles will be found this season, but of these, the giant Schleusner of Iowa stands out. As his running mate, honors are given to Pommerening, the outstanding player upon the Wolverine machine, while Wagner of Wisconsin and Raskowski of Ohio, an almost equally good pair, receive second consideration.

Kresky of Wisconsin and Gibson of Minnesota are as good a pair of guards as the Big Ten has had in several years. Both are hard fighters and fast in their work, with Gibson being given the edge between the two. Two other "crack" guards are Westra of Iowa and Crane of Illinois, and they are placed accordingly.

Four Good Centers

Four centers were outstanding in the past conference year and are almost upon a par. They are Conry of Wisconsin, who receives first choice, both because of offensive ability, and valueability as a roving center on defense; the giant Barratt of Ohio, who was unable to play at his best because of injuries; Randolph of Indiana, and Brown of Iowa.

The fight for the quarterback position narrowed down late in the season to two men, Hovde of Minnesota and Cuisinier of Wisconsin. Hovde led the Big Ten in scoring, and is given a slight edge over Cuisinier for first choice.

Lusby Gets Call

Halfbacks of excellent ability were so promiscuous during the season that the choice of two is a hard one. However Glasgow of Iowa and Lusby of Wisconsin are chosen to work with Hovde. Glasgow is the ideal half in weight, build, and speed, and displayed excellent work in all the games he participated in. Lusby was chosen for his all-around ability. He is a splendid kicker, one of the best in the conference, an accurate passer, and a clever runner.

Second choice for these positions went to Eby of Ohio and Bennett of Indiana, both of whom are almost on a par with Glasgow and Lusby, and were the shining lights of their teams.

Holmer is Fullback

After a wealth of publicity had pushed two players, McLain of Iowa, and Nagurski of Minnesota to the fore as the finest of fullbacks, the steady play and work of Holmer of Northwestern came to the front and he is selected for this line smashing post. Holmer is an excellent kicker, a dependable plunger, and a hard tackler.

Captains

On Dec. 4 the annual football banquet will be held. One of the pleasant duties is the election of a football captain. Rebholz, a fullback; Conry, a center; Parks, a guard; and L. Smith an end are the four eligible candidates. We wish them all luck.

Good Gag

Do you recall all the criticism broadcast by Northwestern over the apparent lack of ability in Chicago athletic teams? How about last Saturday. Northwestern (Continued on Page 11)

Three Veterans Back to Bolster Varsity Hockey

Mitchell, Meiklejohn, Kreuger Return to Form Nucleus of Team

By WILLIAM AHLRICH

The flash of skates on shining ice, the thud of the puck against the dasher, and the rattle of sticks in close combat will be heard within the next week when the Wisconsin hockey squad starts practice.

Coach Johnny Farquhar stated yesterday that the boys would start practice within a fortnight. "I found a place where we could train," said the smiling coach from Winnipeg, "and I am not going to divulge it, for I am afraid that students and town people might pull out their skates and ruin our chances of putting in some real practice sessions for the coming season."

Four members of last year's squad have been lost to the Badger ice squad. Jim Mason and John McCarter, defense men, have been lost through graduation, as was Earl Carrier, a clever forward. Carrier paired up with Don Meiklejohn, and aided his partner to score many times through clever passes. Bob Murphy, another wingman, did not return to school this fall.

Mitchell Clever Goalie

Don Mitchell, captain and goalie of the team, will lead the puck-chasers again this year. Mitchell is considered the best goalie in the mid-west. It was his sensational playing that staved off defeat in almost every game.

Besides Mitchell there are but two other varsity men upon whom Coach Farquhar can pin his hopes for a snappy sextet. In Don Meiklejohn, center, and Gil Krueger, right wing, the Badger coach has two veteran players to build up his forward line.

Meiklejohn led the Cardinal team in scoring last year, and accounted for many victories. He is clever with the stick, making well-placed shots at the net from difficult positions of the rink.

Krueger Has Speed

Krueger, who is very much handicapped in intercollegiate hockey because of his size and weight, more than makes up for this shortcoming by his speed. Gil is a hard man to stop on the ice.

Three members of last year's freshman team reported to Farquhar yesterday at the first meeting of the team. Arthur Thompson, a three sport man and captain of the 1927-28 yearling squad, Gordon Meiklejohn, center, and "Chick" Frisch, goalie, all showed that they were anxious to get under way for a big season.

Bud Peterson, who played at center on the varsity last year, also reported, and he will earn a berth on the forward line.

Garry Wilson, who was out of school last year, reported at the first meeting of the team. Wilson played a defensive position on the 1925-26 team.

Meiklejohn Brothers to Play

An interesting battle will ensue this winter when both Meiklejohn brothers vie for the center position on the team. The Meiklejohn boys learned the ups and downs of hockey at Taft (Continued on Page 11)

Freshman Squad Wins Inter-Class Volley Ball Title

The Freshman A volley ball team won the championship this season by defeating the Junior team, 41-40 Monday evening, thus making a record of three games won and none lost. The game was marked by brilliant playing on both sides. The frosh took an early lead and the efforts of the juniors to overtake them were never quite successful. Agnes Ernst, Julia Hanas, Martha Kunz, and Dorothy Gelbach played exceptionally well for the freshmen, while Madeline Bushman, Pearl Malsin, and Catherine Schmidt did nice work for the juniors. The lineups were:

Freshman A: Hanas, Capt. Gelbach, Kunz, Kroner, Reinhardt, Thompson.
Junior: Schmidt, Bushman, Malsin, Seimers.

Consistency--Milw. Journal?

Instigator of Undue Football Publicity, Why Condone the Din Now?

THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, commenting editorially on the Wisconsin-Minnesota game in its Monday paper, congratulates the university for its successful season and its encouraging new spirit which even the defeat of Saturday could not eclipse.

Going further, The Journal deprecates the dramatizing beforehand of the contest. That the student body should picture the game as a life-and-death matter, the Milwaukee paper contends, brings bad results. But finally, The Journal feels encouraged that the din and noise has been burned out, and that the real spirit and calm realization of reserve strength has been increased, even in defeat.

The Journal—after the game is over—and after its own din and noise has subsided—has realized the folly of dramatizing. And the editorial in question indicates that the writer understands the absurdity of taking football out of its place as a sport and giving to it an importance that is far from natural. Insofar as the article itself is concerned, it is sane in its attempt to put football back in its true position.

But The Milwaukee Journal is a bit inconsistent too. It objects to the undue din and noise and ballyhoo that preceded the game. And it says student dramatizing was overdone.

Probably true. Yet, if any newspaper ever outdid itself in gathering football publicity, The Milwaukee Journal did last week. For two successive days its sport page was devoted wholly to Wisconsin and Minnesota; on other days pre-game dope outshone all other news; Sunday, the glamour and gloom of the struggle ran rampant not only on the sport page, but in addition made off with the front section.

Condemning the excessiveness of din and noise, and feeling happy that it was burned out, that only true spirit remains, The Journal goes into its own backyard a bit.

Right there, in the office of big metropolitan dailies is the major cause of the undue importance that is given football. The Journal was not alone in putting on a big show, but, as the biggest paper in the state, it did more than its share to put the Wisconsin-Minnesota game far above the position it deserved in the public eye.

Newspaper editors, of The Milwaukee Journal, Chicago Tribune, et al, do most of the dramatizing. And now, after the game, they feel relieved that rah-rah stuff among students is no more. The instigators of the ballyhoo and publicity that is way out of place, they now turn around to say that it was caused by students. Consistency?

Rhodes Scholar Changes

Developing New Set of Unknowns; Though Novel, They Mean Little

A PROPOSAL made by a majority of the old American Rhodes scholars, and supported by leading authorities in education, is being promoted by the Rhodes trustees in a bill introduced in the British Parliament to change the method of selecting Rhodes scholars in the United States.

Under the will of Cecil Rhodes, 32 scholarships are awarded each year in the United States. Under the new proposal, the United States would be divided into eight districts of six states each, with a competition held in every district every year instead of in each state in only two years out of every three as at present.

Each State selection committee would be allowed to nominate one or two scholars to appear before the regional selection committee. Each regional selection committee would appoint from among the candidates the best four, regardless of state lines.

It is expected that this method would insure a "geographical distribution of scholarships among the different parts of the United States approximately as at present, though it would no longer guarantee to every state an equal number of appointments, but it would fit in better with the academic system of the country, would make selection easier, and tend to insure that all candidates chosen were of the highest type." The remarks are those of Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swathmore college and American secretary to the Rhodes scholarship trust.

Although the plans for division of states into geographical sections has not yet been arranged, it is said that the New England states, the Middle Atlantic states, the states of the Pacific coast, the Southwest, the Northwest, the Middle West and the states in the Central West from the Mississippi river to the Rocky mountains will constitute the groups. It will probably take another year of study before the boundaries can be outlined exactly.

The only aid which this plan apparently brings to the problem of selecting Rhodes scholars is that examinations are to be held every year and that state lines are to be less pronounced. However, the regional lines are just as severe as the state lines.

It would, perhaps, be a bit too vague and too radical to suggest that instead of sections determined by state and geographical lines there be a division into sections determined by lines of educational thought and reputation.

It seems a trifle unfair to allow no more scholarships to the notoriously scholastic New England states, for instance, than to some of the lesser educationally developed sections. Perhaps a division by student population would be worthy of investigation.

However, none of these suggestions will be considered by the high and mighty and we might as well save our breath and find out what will happen under the proposed system.

It does not appear that much of significance is being accomplished by this proposal. Instead of solving the problem, one might say, speaking algebraically, that a new set of unknowns are being substituted. The problem takes on a novel appearance but it means little.

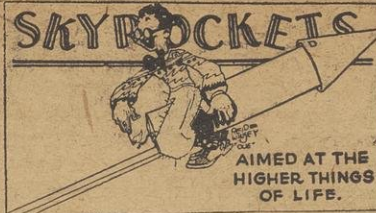

And Prices Stay Up

Barbers Temper Their Costs to Take Advantage of Students

UNIVERSITY students are now being penalized for having the big head. Barbers have decided that they must pay more for haircuts than Madison residents. According to the figure, it takes longer to get around a student's head with the scissors. All the barbers in the university district will continue to charge 65 cents for haircuts while those a few blocks away are back to the old price of four bits per head.

Barbers must make a living, even if there are twice as many as necessary along State street. But that is not the reason for the price they charge. It takes longer to shear a student than an older man. It is also harder, and so the barbers have quit trying to make city residents pay the new prices, and are devoting all their energies to putting it over among the younger generation.

Another reason given for the high prices asked by university district barbers is the absence of many partially bald customers. Uptown, the barber can average the short time it takes to cut the hair of a semi-bald man against the long time it takes to cut a full head of hair. And so he can handle more customers. Unfortunately, few students are lacking a cover crop, and prices must stay up.

THE HALF WIT'S HALF BROTHER

Varlets, don't forget your meeting in the Cardinal office today at 3:30. Especially must Xantippe be there. Don't forget we are all going to smile and make everyone believe we are one happy family. This is an important meeting—honest.

We don't want a new stadium before we get more steps in Bascom hall. Why even since the new reading room opened up, there are hardly enough steps to go round. We've got to study somewhere.

Listening here to Jack Chapman makes me thankful that Union board is bringing some good music for our tired ears. This action of theirs is making the task of the Prom music committee a bit harder, but that's all right.

Announcing an extra special treat. Next week sometime we'll print Argon the Lazy's version of the fairy tale of Little Snow White. It's a treat. Watch for it.

It doesn't make any difference to me but the milkmen might care. When these girls around here undress they ought to jerk the shades. Why I can't walk down the street with any comfort any more.

Out at Randall and the Intramural field Wholesale murder is going on. In fact, there are eleven on each side and the game is called football for convenience. It's too bad that these here frats have to resort to tackle football to settle their disputes. Why not nice big rocks and save the football equipment.

Tomorrow we celebrate our Thanksgiving right here in Madison whether we like it or not or live in Richland Center. Thanks!

When Hoover gets back from the South he might make a good will tour to Chicago and smooth over relations there. A bootleggers' pension law seems very plausible since my uncle is one of them.

Goodness children, you must not play so hard. How students drive up and down Langdon street is a caution. They'll kill somebody some day and then somebody will be dead. Driving is so reckless that Detroit people are feeling at home here.

It is getting clear away from the actual Christmas spirit when Madison stores decorate for the occasion with Eastern stars and pine branches a whole month before. Do they want us to trade in their stores or begin to feel happy about the 25th of December.

A tip from one guy to another. If you want to be entertained and no foolin' see the Garrick—any week.

Farewell for now you'll miss me much but don't give up there are none such who write so long without a laugh but me for the benefit of the new chapter house.

However, we are not opposed to a cleanup of the rotten conditions, starting with the ticket office perhaps, but rather against the hypocrisy of various local officials who pledge themselves to do the cleaning up, and find the job too much for them, despite the fact that tickets are so openly scalped that one almost has to wear a sign telling the world that he has the necessary ducats in order to avoid being approached on the subject of buying tickets for $10 a pair and up; despite the fact that people, when they get a bit under the weather, are prone to drink more or less publicly in front of six policemen and at least five thousand people.

Surrender

It is not often that such moments come. For all the world seems but a solitude Of vast primordial quiet, as though the rude Incessant beat of a last battle drum Has faltered finally, and now is dumb. Today for us has been an interlude Of peace profound, and an infinitude Of deepest calm, to which we must succumb.

Majestic as the silence we revere, A golden cloud floats slowly down the west Into the depths of the eternal sea. And now we feel no longer any fear That suddenly there may be manifest The awful vistas of Infinity.

Readers' Say So

MUSICIAN DEPLORES ORCHESTRAS HIRED BY UNION

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

As I walk through the new Memorial Union building and marvel at its beauty and grandeur, a certain feeling of pride and satisfaction comes over me.

Yet it is with a feeling of disappointment that I write this article which is the outgrowth of what I think is a very unfair deal given by the Union Board to the student musicians of the university, all of which are contributors to this beautiful building. In writing this article, I think I represent the opinion of approximately 250 student musicians of which all or at least a greater percentage are working their way through school by playing in some orchestra.

I would also like to have it understood that this article is not the outgrowth of a booking office, crying over the loss of business. The reason which prompted this writing is this:

Yesterday, the Union Board announced in The Cardinal the engagement during the winter of a number of high-priced orchestras, which are admittedly very capable musical organizations, but which are very detrimental to the interests of student musicians at Madison. The reason why these bands are detrimental is very apparent; with the engaging of outside musicians, the student musician is forced to loaf and possibly would be forced to withdraw from school due to his inability to secure work.

Also a number of these same musicians have contributed sums as large as $100 to the Memorial Union.

As far as the Union Board's interests are concerned, they might offer the excuse that the local bands are not good enough; but to refute that statement, I wish to call your attention to the amount of money earned by these same local bands for the Memorial Union fund, previous to the erection of the building.

Furthermore these same orchestras seem to provide satisfaction at such functions as the Military Ball, the Harvest Ball, the Beaux Arts Ball, Haresfoot Follies, and other leading university functions, which is conclusive proof of their ability to satisfy at the regular Saturday night dances. Again the writer has been informed that the decision to engage these outside bands is the result of an executive order of the university to the Union Board, in order to develop the dance business at the Union so that the roadhouses around Madison will be forced out of business.

Assuming that this order was made in good faith and for the best interests of the students, I think that the university could easily appoint a committee to visit these unapproved roadhouses and apprehend the students there, with the result that the wayward student would be expelled from school. This method, the writer has been informed, was employed a few years ago. Consequently, why the laxity now?

Now to discuss the matter as a member of the student body. These outside bands are undoubtedly high-priced organizations and in order to pay for them, the Great hall of the Union would have to be filled to capacity, which means that the profit derived from the dances is eminently smaller, thus defeating the purpose for which the dances are run. To elucidate more fully, these bands will demand a $400 to $600 salary, whereas local orchestras could be secured which would cost around one-fourth these amounts.

Thus the Union will be forced to pack the Great hall to capacity just to defray expenses, let alone make any profit on the dances. Accordingly, if the outside orchestras do not attract the contemplated crowds, the dances will run behind, and thus the efforts of everyone concerned will be wasted, and the final payments on the building delayed.

The writer hopes that this article will be observed in a light which is most advantageous to the entire student body, the group upon whom the burden of paying for the building rests. Also, another object the writer has in view is to promote a better feeling by the injured pledgees herein discussed toward the Union Board, and that end can only be attained by securing the cooperation of that Board with all the elements of the student body who have contributed, as the student-musicians have. I would also like to add that in case any of the writer's statements or opinions are erroneous, the Union Board or anyone interested in the matter is invited to rebut this article in this same column.

Linton Describes Theory of Dreams

Professor Attributes Origin of Religion to Sleeping Primitives

Defining the primitive man's religion as a belief that there existed an entity outside the visible, material world, Prof. Ralph Linton of the sociology department opened a talk before the St. Andrew's men's club Monday night, on the "Origins of Religion as Viewed by an Anthropologist."

This belief in an all prevailing power seems to have come about as a result of dreams, said Professor Linton. The primitive man began to believe that something which was a part of his body while he was awake, left him when he was asleep.

This attitude concerning existence was carried over into the idea of what happened after death.

Early peoples worshiped many Gods. Certain members of their tribes marked by some distinct mental abnormalities were selected to deal with all these Gods.

Ethics and religion were never brought into close relationship by the early peoples. Even today, according to Professor Linton, many of the most fervent Christians, especially those strongest on doctrine and observance, are quite untrustworthy and unethical in their dealings.

GOPHER FOOTBALL FAN GOES TO GAME WITH EAR PHONES

One lucky son of Minnesota followed the Gophers to Madison on Saturday. His name is Jack, and he is a sophomore.

He bought his railroad ticket in Minneapolis and had just a couple of dollars left when he boarded the train. But along the way some fellows started a poker game and persuaded Jack to join. He did. His hands were good, and he won and won, and then won some more.

When Jack arrived in the city Saturday noon he had enough money to buy a trio of tickets at scalper's prices but he forgot the tickets and went on a spree—or better, he continued the spree which he had started on the train.

He Has An Idea

One o'clock came and the Minneapolis lad still had no ticket. Now he could not get one at any price. He walked out to the stadium. He walked around and looked at the crowd and then walked back along University avenue.

The music from a radio store caught his ears. Thoughts darted in and out of his brains. He had a scheme. He entered the store, bought a pair of ear phones and then rushed back to Camp Randall.

I have a pair of ear phones for the radio operator," he said to the gateman.

"Sorry, but you can't pass here without some kind of a ticket," replied the vigilant gateman.

Explains to Cop

Lucky Jack explained that his was an emergency errand and that there was no opportunity to give him a pass as the ear phones were ordered "by wire." The gateman was adamant, so the lad rushed to an officer, related his story all out of breath, and the officer fell for the tale.

The blue-coat spoke to the gateman, and Jack slipped through the turn-stiles, his ear phones in his hands. When the game began he was sitting comfortably near the 50-yard line and there he remained until the last gun was fired.

It seems that modern women have the wrong idea . . . 2,500 years before coeds' knees distracted the attention of instructors, the sirens of ancient Greece got together and decided that the only way to get what they wanted from the men was to stay away from them.

According to a wise old gentleman called Aristophanes, if women want to be allowed in the Rathskellar, all they have to do is stop dating the men for a while. At any rate, Lysistrata, working along the same theory, got what she wanted.

In

order to prevent cerebral hemorrhages we might give directions as to how to pronounce her name. The accent is on "sis." Ly as in "liar" — sis as in "Sisyphus" — tra as in "tra-la"—ta as in "Lysistrata." (In Greek it's much easier).

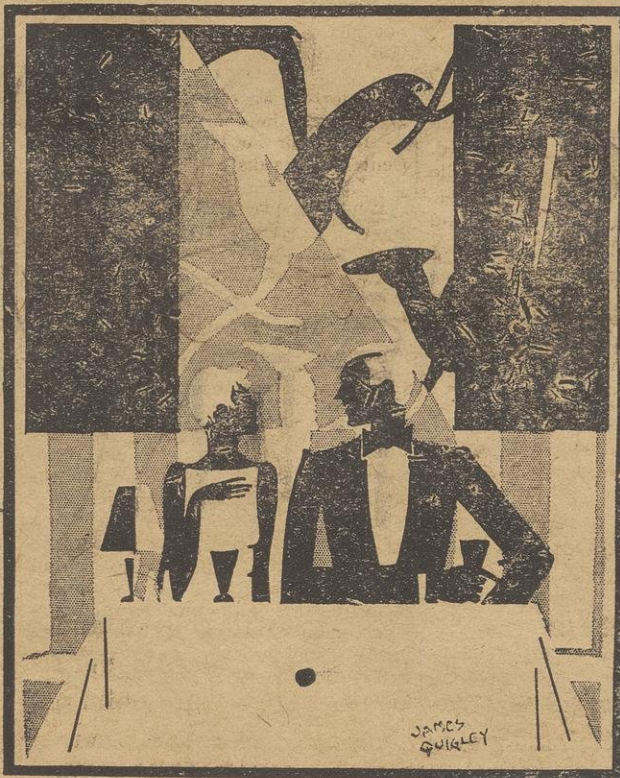

Anyway

Lysistrata is also the name of a play written by Aristophanes long, long ago. And the sly old gent knew so much about women that to this day people smile, chuckle and laugh right out loud at his racy lines, and remark how little woman has changed.

Well

And this, of course, is the important part, the Experimental College Players are going to put on the play in the Stock Pavilion this Friday and Saturday at 8:15 P. M. Tickets are 75 cents and may be secured most any place, including the door. No reserved seats.

Beautiful Hands—

An Amazing
New Kind of Cream
Instantly Makes Your Hands Soft and White

THINC WHEN THINKING OF BEAUTY

NO MORE red, rough, coarsened hands! A marvelous new kind of cream softens and whitens your hands with amazing quickness. Almost while you watch, your hands take on that milky whiteness, softness and beauty which all envy and admire but few possess.

Make this test just before you retire tonight—it won't take a second! Smooth a little THINC on your hands. Note the instant whitening! In the morning see how exquisitely soft and white your hands are!

THINC is entirely new—not a cold cream or lotion. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Use THINC for a few days. Money back if you're not delighted. At any good drug store, toilet goods counter or beauty shop.

Levitan Talks to Law Fraternity

State Treasurer Advises Honesty in Following Legal Profession

"The laws of the country influence the character of its people, just as surely as the people determine the character of the laws. Good laws raise the people to a higher standard of thinking and living, whereas unjust laws will in time produce a rebellious and morose citizenry," said Solomon Levitan, State treasurer of Wisconsin, in addressing the Gamma Eta Gamma law fraternity, at its after dinner talk Tuesday evening.

"We have as an illustration, Russia. For decades, the Russian people endured and rebelled against the laws of an autocratic government. The masses were uneducated, ignorant, and superstitious, and when conditions were ripe, they openly rebelled and overthrew the laws that held them in bondage. But when they had gained what they called their freedom, their new laws were little improvement upon those they had overthrown. The old laws had made them hard and revengeful, and their new laws reflected their lack of mercy and justice, and were administered with the same autocracy as were those of the old regime.

"I suppose the trend of the laws enacted in every country is toward better protection of life and property. I am sure that in the United States humanitarian laws are ever receiving more attention. This tendency is not surprising in a country in which the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule are the foundation of our law.

"One of the chief tasks of the lawyer is to interpret the law and to convince the judge that this interpretation is right. In a country where the law of precedent governs, the lawyer's work has a vital bearing upon the laws of the land. Lawyers may be the greatest of benefactors or the greatest mischief makers."

The sophomore men at Northwestern have adopted purple broadcloth vests trimmed in white for their class emblem. This is the first time that the sophomore class has ever had an emblem.

The percentage of reclaimed rubber has risen from one ton in every five in 1922 to one ton in every two at present.

Episcopal Pastor Says Christianity Is Like Dynamite

To really live the Christian religion is hard, the Rev. George B. Wood asserted Friday night in his lecture, "The Ethics of Sex," at the St. Francis house. He likened the Christian religion to a stick of dynamite.

"It is a supernatural religion, not a worldly one," the Rev. Mr. Wood said, "it is the taking and living of the life of Jesus Christ in our souls, cost what it may. It cost him a broken body and heart. It may cost you the same thing."

Popular opinion, the Rev. G. B. Wood went on to say, would have us follow the Sermon on the Mount. This opinion, taken on any basis but the supernatural, is a "lot of bunk."

The ideals, as expressed in this sermon, are hard to follow. First, to resist striking back in revenge, one of the principles, seems unnatural.

Secondly, to love another as oneself, is also unnatural, for hate has been the ruling factor in this world.

Thirdly, to give up show and exhibition is unnatural. Exhibition, such as is customary during a college com-

Professor Fred Given Prize for Agronomy Work

Dr. Edwin B. Fred, professor of agricultural bacteriology at the university, is one of the four nationally known agronomists who will share in an annual fund of $5,000 appropriated by the Chilean nitrate of soda educational bureau, it became known here today.

The award was announced Thursday night at the banquet of the American society of agronomy in Washington, D. C. It is in recognition of the professor's development of systems of soils management in agricultural regions.

Besides Dr. Fred, those honored are Dr. Jacob Lipman, dean of agriculture at Rutgers; Dr. T. L. Lyon, professor of soil technology at Cornell university; Dr. Frank T. Schutt, dominion chemist of Canada.

After traveling 2,378,000 miles without an accident, John Grassie, of Aberdeen, Scotland, has just completed 55 years' service as locomotive engineer and fireman, and retired.

Fraternities at Connecticut Wesleyan have been placed on their honor by university officials in the matter of drinking at dances.

Board of Visitors Honors Shrimski With Resolutions

A resolution on the death of Israel Shrimski '88, former member of the University Board of Visitors, was adopted by the board at their regular meeting last Saturday in the Memorial Union. Another resolution relating to the work of the school of education was also adopted.

Mrs. C. R. Carpenter and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Madison drew the resolution for Mr. Shrimski's death, while the committee who acted on the other resolution included: H. J. Kircher, Sheboygan; Loyal Durand, Milwaukee; and Bart E. McCormick, Madison.

Discussion in the meeting was informal. The appointment of Charles Byron, Chicago, to succeed Mr. Shrimski as one of the four alumni representatives on the board was made. Other members of the visitors are:

Mrs. C. R. Carpenter, Madison; Loyal Durand, Milwaukee; C. J. Hesgard, Orfordville; H. W. Kircher, Sheboygan; William J. Meuer, Madison; son; Mrs. Archie Tegtmeyer, Milwaukee; George Hambrecht, Madison; Mrs. Carl Johnson, Madison; Mrs.

Julius Schnetz, Racine; Dr. W. T. Sullivan, Kaukauna; and Bart E. McCormick, Madison.

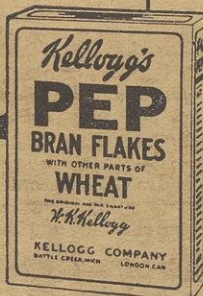

YOU'LL agree that Pep Bran Flakes are better the very first time you try them.

Order them at your campus cafeteria or at the fraternity restaurant. These better bran flakes bring you the nourishment of wheat. Just enough bran to make them mildly laxative.

And how crisp they are! Eat them with milk and cream. A perfect food any time. You'll agree at the first taste these bran flakes made by Kellogg of Battle Creek are better.

Delicious and Refreshing

"Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety"

What Shakespeare wrote of Cleopatra finds echo in the thoughts of millions who recognize the perennial youth of the Coca-Cola girl—the fair one you see everywhere so temptingly suggesting that you "refresh yourself."

E. H. Sothorn Will Read Parts From Plays Here Dec. 3

In one evening, E. H. Sothorn, the eminent Shakespearean actor, will give three plays that have made history in the theater, three plays distinct in manner and mood, when he appears in the Bascom theater Monday evening, Dec. 3. Sothorn will recite scenes and discuss "Hamlet," "Othello," and "Lord Dundreary."

On Sept. 17, 1910, in the Garden theater in New York, Sothorn first acted "Hamlet." It was a daring venture as the actor at that time was considered as the leading romantic comedian of his time. But his success in the dramatic role was such that four years later, with Julia Marlowe, he formed the company that was to become the greatest dramatic organization in the American theater of this generation.

For many years, E. H. Sothorn was known as the younger Sothorn. His father, E. A. Sothorn, had occupied an enviable position in the theater and was especially famous for his "Lord Dundreary."

Speaker Reviews

Thorndike Book

"Nobody under 45 years of age should use the excuse of 'too old' for inability to learn," said V. A. C. Henmon, in a review of Dr. Edward L. Thorndike's latest book, "Adult Learning," before the Psychology club last night.

The book is concerned with the comparison of the ability to learn in youth and in later years. With an interesting series of experiments in which people in all walks of life, from clergymen to prisoners, participated, Dr. Thorndike proved that age was no particular obstacle to learning.

A very small crowd attended.

Sororities at the University of Oregon hold "dime crawls" at which a 10-cent fee is charged at the different houses of dancing.

"Railroad Jack" Learns New Fact; Is 64 Years Old

Harry D. Cooper, otherwise known as "Railroad Jack," celebrated his 64th birthday Tuesday. Telling of the occasion, Mr. Cooper pointed out that his natal day comes just two days after that of Mayor A. G. Schmedeman.

"Because of this difference I always look up to Mayor Schmedeman, knowing he has more experience than I," Mr. Cooper said.

Mr. Cooper, who recently returned to Madison after a sojourn in Milwaukee, declared he was happy to get back to the capital city and never felt better in his life. He is working 12 hours a day among the students at the university, giving them the benefit of his years of experience and research.
