BRESNAHAN TO QUIT HIS POST IN FEBRUARY

Will Become Track Coach at Iowa—Successor Not Picked

George T. Brenahan '14, cross country coach, will leave the university about February 15 to become track coach of Iowa university. Word of the promotion, which adds another Wisconsin coach to the already large number in the Western conference was received late yesterday by Tom Jones, track coach, from Mr. Brenahan who went to Iowa City last week to investigate the offer.

In Department Two Years

Mr. Brenahan has been with the athletic department for the past two years, acting in the capacity of cross country coach and assistant track coach. Previous to his appointment here, he was teaching at Bismark, North Dakota. He graduated from Wisconsin in 1914, and was captain of the cross country team that year.

"I feel that the appointment of Mr. Brenahan," Coach Jones stated, "will be a loss to the university, and his leaving is regretted very much by the athletic department. The position which he will take, however, is one of the major athletic offices in the Western conference. I was very glad to give my recommendation for him."

Studied Methods Abroad

Mr. Brenahan returned last fall from Europe where he attended the

INTENSIVE SALE FOR PROM MOVIE STARTS MONDAY

Proceeds Go to Defray General Expenses, Making Affair More Economical

Intensive sale of Prom movie benefit tickets for Eva Novak in "Up in Mary's Attic" at the Grand theater next Thursday and Friday will begin tomorrow morning with a corps of over 100 solicitors at work on all parts of the campus.

"The picture is one of the best cures for examination blues that I know of," said Paul Fischedick, '22, in charge of the sale. "If you want rest and relaxation from the steady grind of bucking don't miss this picture."

The proceeds of the movie sale will go to defray the miscellaneous expenses of programs and music for the 1922 Prom. "Benefits such as this and the Pre-Prom dance are the things that are making the 1922 Prom the most economical Prom of recent years," is the statement of Dale Merrick, general chairman.

PLANS FOR PROM TAKE FINAL FORM AS EVENT NEARS

Organizations and Groups Arrange Parties for Social Week End

With less than three weeks remaining before the twenty-sixth annual Junior Prom, final plans for all the events of the week-end are being completed. All organizations and twelve groups of men, who are planning to attend Prom, have made definite arrangements for pre-Prom and post-Prom parties; a large majority of the best seats for the informal pre-Prom show, to be given at the Fuller theatre Thursday before Prom, have been sold; and 632 Prom tickets, including Prom supper stubs, have been reserved.

Prom affairs start with the reception to be held at the Delta Upsilon house on Thursday, February 10, between 3:30 and 6. Guests of honor and the Prom chairman, Dale Merrick with Marjorie Boesch, queen, will be among those to greet Prom goers. A stringed orchestra will play and sandwiches will be served.

By L. R. G.

In a fast and spectacular game which was characterized by brilliant floor play and air-tight defensive work the Wisconsin basketball team defeated the University of Illinois five last night 23 to 18.

The Badgers piled up a six point lead before the Illini scored and Coach Meanwell's players maintained a slight advantage throughout the entire contest. More than 2000 enthusiastic rooters saw the game while hundreds of others were turned away because of lack of seats.

Floor Play Excellent

The floor play of the Badgers was the best that has been seen on the local floor for years and had Wisconsin made a fair percentage of their trials at the basket the score would have been much larger. Every player on the Wisconsin quintet showed his skill in the defensive, and the Illini obtained only a few open shots.

Rollie Williams lead the scoring for the Badgers with three field goals. The midget guard was in every play and his excellent defensive work figured largely in holding down the Illinois score. Captain "Cop" Taylor and "Mike" Knapp each caged two baskets.

Taylor's Defense Holds

Taylor's defensive playing was decidedly a feature of the contest. Caesar and Frogner each scored once. The Badger center played his usual strong game and his work in recovering rebounds from his own goal was exceptionally good.

Frogner held Reitsch, the Illini center, scoreless for three quarters of the game when the Badger guard was put out of the game for four personal fouls. Tebell who took ry James Smith, will be presented as the pre-Prom show at the Fuller theatre on the evening of February 10. This affair will be informal and a few remaining blocks of tickets may be secured from Robert McDonald, chairman of the Junior play committee.

Prom day, February 11, will be a day of rest, in preparation for the big affair of the evening, which will start with the reception in Governor James J. Blaine's office at 9:30 following a number of formal group dinner parties at fraternity houses and hotels. This reception at the capitol will immediately precede the grand march which is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock. Swinging into line to the strains of "On Wisconsin" played by Isham Jones' Rainbo Garden orchestra of Chicago, Dale Merrick and Marjorie Boesch will lead the entire number of Prom goers through the simple figures of the march. Following this the program of twenty dances, interspersed with Prom suppers served in the Capitol cafe and Garden grill in four one hour shifts, will complete the evening's entertainment.

On Saturday night following Prom, formal dinner dances will be given by group parties and fraternities, and the week-end will close with "fussing dinners" Sunday noon.

A COMMENDABLE PROJECT

THE proposal of a writer in the latest issue of the Wisconsin Magazine of History to make this state the most beautiful playground of the middle west and more accessible to the tourist merits extended attention. The suggestion is specifically made for a scenic highway, which might be constructed jointly by Wisconsin and Michigan, along the boundary between these two states, to extend thence along the southern shore of Lake Superior and into Minnesota.

Such a road can be constructed at a minimum of expense and a maximum of benefit to thousands of tourists who visit this section of the state yearly. The system of splendid state highways now in vogue could easily be subverted for a scenic highway.

Moreover, the road would bring the tourist into the grandeur of America's one-time greatest mountains; it would lead him through sturdy northern forests where the deer and wolf are yet found; it would acquaint him more thoroughly not only with the world's greatest fresh water lake, but with myriads of smaller lakes and streams—"the land of the sky blue waters"—where abound the bass, trout and muskellunge.

Here, too, he would be able to see the picturesque and interesting aborigines at home. The road would follow in a large part the ancient trails of these Indians, for as the writer points out, the trails along which traveled primitive men and animals remain much the same through all ages.

Giving outsiders every opportunity to see the natural wonders of Wisconsin is but another means of forging a strong link in the chain of a better and bigger Wisconsin. The road should be built.

MAKE THE LAST WEEK COUNT

BEFORE the first examination takes place at the end of this semester a fair proportion of students will know approximately how they are going to come through in most of their subjects.

While we have a pronounced aversion for the crammer, we are confident in the opinion that the section of the student personnel referred to above should follow certain standard rules. These rules may fall short in the attempt to save many who are "too far gone" in the way they have consistently and, in seems, quite methodically neglected their work during the semester; but they may serve a valuable purpose in retrieving lost honors next semester.

Make this last week count. Fill the little memindex, scratch pad, calendar, or that part of your cranium usually allotted to making engagements with an illimitable amount of study.

That, however, is only half of the job. One can study to excess just as easily as one can study too little. By studying to excess does not mean putting in too much time on studies. It refers rather to putting in the time when the midnight oil ought to be dimmed, and sleep, that wonderful cure for all that students know so little about, ought to be holding sway.

It must be exceedingly hard to go outside the regular order of things and "waste" a perfectly good day resting for examinations. Experience proves that such procedure can accomplish wonders in making one fit for the test, physically as well as mentally. Try it.

POULTRY MOVIES SHOWN BY CLUB TUESDAY NIGHT

Recently Organized Fowl Fan- ciers Have Good Reels

The Poultry Movie show to be put on at Agricultural hall by the Badger Poultry club on Tuesday evening will usher in the first of a series of novelty features in the poultry line.

This is the first poultry movie shown here for several years and is to be educational as well as entertaining. Over 5,000 feet of film is to be shown including reels from the U. S. Government poultry farm, the Madison Square Garden Poultry show, Raising White Leghorns, and a reel on "The Why of a Chicken" which treats of the development of the poultry industry.

There will be singing and music by the Ag Triangle quartette between reels and also piano selections of merit. The program will have no dull moments for constant entertainment has been provided. There will be no admission charge and the Madison public as well as the students who are interested in poultry raising are invited to attend.

The Badger poultry club was organized the past year with C. E. Lampman '21 as president. Assisting Lampman with arrangements for the movie are William Fredericks '23, Glen McIlroy '21, and John O'Hardy '23.

Olympic games during August at Antwerp, Belgium. While on the trip he visited in several countries, taking note of the track methods employed by the leading athletes.

The successor to the present cross country coach has not yet been chosen, Mr. Jones states. The new official will very likely be a Wisconsin man, he further says. The announcement will be made in the near future.

Mary Garden, world-famed opera and movie star, recently said in regard to prohibition—"I hope the whole world goes dry. Prohibition is a good thing for this country, and it will be a good thing for the world. I mean it."

The Curious Cub

Question asked: "Do we need a University Exposition this year?"

Augustus J. Fehrenbach '22: A university exposition, I believe, would be one of the greatest assets we could possess during this school year. It shows not only the students, but the public, what the university is doing and what it can do. Most everyone knows that the university is doing a great work, but as to just how successful this work is being carried on can be displayed only by an exhibition of her wares. It will show how and where Wisconsin taxpayers are spending their money, and the excellent fruitage resulting thereof. It will, however, be a large task, and as such, should be taken up at once and put in force.

Prof. R. H. Whitbeck: I was present at the exposition in 1915, and thought it to be one of great educational benefit. It was a large source of information, not only to the students, but to the faculty as well. There are a great many things that happen in and around the university of which the students are conscious, but of which they know little or nothing. Such a display shows that although we are large, yet we are a unit, and as such, are all working to the same end, although along different routes. But it will be a tremendous task, and one requiring a large amount of time to the students who promulgate it. However, if such students can be found, the results would certainly be well worth their efforts.

Lowell Ragatz, grad: I believe that this would be the charmed year to have such an exposition. As an advertisement for the university, I know of no better medium. I well remember the excellent effect of the exposition held in 1915. It certainly aroused the populace as a whole, to what the university could and was doing. It was an excellent and varying display of the work which is taught here. A number of seniors from the various high schools were brought here to see the exhibit and I am sure that a majority of these students attending decided Wisconsin would be their alma mater. There is no reason why this work can not be duplicated this year and with even a more dazzling effect. The materials and the results are present, and it will take a lot of work to display them, but I think it should be done and the work can not start too soon.

Willett Kempton '23: I was in Madison at the time of the Exposition in 1915. Though not very distinct in my mind at present I do remember that it made a deep impression as one of the outstanding features of university life. Admitting the unusual, possibly rather the ostentatious, in the world of science, invention and research it was an exhibition giving the onlooker a great deal of information, the majority of it exceedingly practical, which remains in one's mind and crops out later with surprising regularity. It was and would be, if repeated again, an institution having a certain amount of indefinite educational value. If advertised through the medium of Milwaukee and Chicago papers it would do a lot toward putting Wisconsin on the map as a place where fussing and frijolity are not always featured. I'm for it.

BRACKET CITY TEAM TAKES AG TRIANGLES

The Bracket City League Basketball team defeated the Agric Triangle team in a fast game Saturday afternoon. The score was 28-18 in favor of the city league.

BADGER FIVE TAKES GAME FROM ILLINOIS

Mee Illinois Star
Mee, left forward on the Illini five, was easily the star for the Suckers and his accurate shooting was the only redeeming feature of the otherwise ragged Illini offense. Walquist failed to get under way while Reitsch was completely covered at all times. Captain Vail's free throwing was responsible for a large number of the opponent's points.

The entire Badger team came through the game without a scratch and they will be in excellent shape for the Michigan game tomorrow night. Michigan played at Minneapolis against the Gophers last night so the Wolverines will be in about the same condition as the Badgers when the teams meet Monday.

The victory over Illinois gives the Badgers a 500 per cent stand-with two defeats and two victories. Coach Meanwell's men will meet Michigan and Minnesota before the end of this semester and if they can win these two contests the outcome of the first half of the season will be quite satisfactory.

The line-up and summary follows:

WISCONSIN		ILLINOIS
Taylor	lf	Mee
Knapp	r. f.	Walquist
Ceaser	c.	Reitsch
Frogner	l. g.	Vail
Williams	r. g.	Sabo

Substitutions: Tebell for Frogner, McIntosh for Ceaser, Ceaser for McIntosh.

Field Goals: Illinois: Mee 5, Reitsch 1.

Fouls: Personal; Frogner 4, Knapp 2, Taylor 1, Ceaser 2. Technical; Taylor 2, Knapp 1, Ceaser 2. Illinois: Personal; Mee 2, Walquist 1, Reitsch 2.

THETA SIGMA PHIS TO HAVE OWN ROOM

The Wisconsin Literary magazine office on the third floor of the Union building is soon to be divided and made over by the Union board which leases the building to organizations.

One half of the room will continue to be occupied by the Literary magazine, and the other half will be rented to Theta Sigma Phi, national woman's honorary journalistic fraternity. The partitions will be built up between the rooms and the hallway, and another door cut in. In the meantime the "Lit" office will be used by both organizations.

A display window of the picture of the Prom Queen, Marjorie Boesch, surrounded by some of the women who will follow her in line in the grand march on the night of Prom appears in De Longe's studio, starting today.

De Longe, the official Prom photographer, plans to change this display weekly between now and Prom. He will also supplement his own window display, by using a number of the pictures of Prom committee-men and their partners now shown in windows on the square.

LOCALE

Setting and Characters in Pre-Prom Play Portray Indiana Life

Did you ever hear of Missionary Loop, Indiana?

Now any one can see that from the viewpoint of Justin Rawson and his sister Miss Rawson, played by Ralph Scheinflug, '23, and Esther Guerini, '22, in the Pre-Prom play scheduled for February 10, anyone who comes from Missionary Loop, Indiana, must be quite impossible indeed.

And one look at James Brader, '22, as Peter Swallow, the tombstone maker from Missionary Loop, would persuade anyone that, if Flora Filtzer, '21, as Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh, really was the Della Sayle who had once been Peter's fiancée, she should be ostracized at once from polite society.

But Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh is not the person to allow herself to be defeated by any combination of circumstances. She easily persuades her rather weak mother, Mrs. De Salle, played by Frances Ryan, '21, to trust her with the management of the whole affair, and she bullies her younger sister, Violet, impersonated by Andrea Kiland, '22, to back up the game.

Violet, however, has plans and ideas of her own. She is losing interest in her fiancé, Anthony Rawson, whom Don Marvin, '22, portrays, whose engagement to her has caused all the excitement.

Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt, played by John Conlin, '23, and Dorothy Dwight, '22, never do quite make out the situation. But that is because they do not know the part that is played by Marjorie Boasch, '22, as Nino, the maid.

However, the whole thing ends

Miss Dorothy Hart, secretary to Dean S. H. Goodnight and graduate of the university in 1918, will be the bride's only attendant. She will leave Madison Friday, February 11, to spend a few days before the wedding and will return immediately afterwards.

The couple expect to tour the world, visiting Buenos Aires, Hawaiian Islands, and Spain on their itinerary.

Grad Club Dance

A reception and dance was given by the Graduate club last evening in the Lathrop hall concert room in honor of the Graduate school committee with Dean and Mrs. C. S. Slichter, guests of honor. Colored lights were used in decorating the scene of the affair.

Tri Delt Initiation

Delta Delta Delta announces the initiation of the following upper-classwomen: Genevieve Felts '22, Janet Britenbach, June Coddington, Mary Wiswell, Katherine Sanborn, Mary Peters, and Louise Moore '23.

Alpha Gam Informal

Iota chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity entertained last evening at an informal dance at the chapter house, 1726 Hoyt street. The party was given in honor of several of the members who graduate this semester. Mr. and Mrs. James Hambleton, and Prof. and Mrs. H. F. Wilson chaperoned.

Personal

Miss Laura Bertleson of Milwaukee is spending the week end with Miss Sylvia Marlewski sophomore in the Home Economics course. She came to attend the Alpha Gamma Rho dance held Saturday evening.

Misses Esther Van Wagoner and Josephine Durrant are visiting Miss Harriet Pettibone, Milwaukee for the week end. Miss Pettibone is a graduate of the university in 1919 and a member of Chi Omega sorority. Miss Van Wagoner is an active member of Chi Omega and Miss Durrant is a pledge of the sorority.

SOPHOMORES WIN CLASS CONTEST

Take 41 Points, Clearing Frosh Score by 1 2-3 Margin

In the annual indoor interclass meet held in the gymnasium annex yesterday, the sophomores won first place with 41 points, the freshmen were second with 40 2-3 points, the juniors third with 25 1-3 points, while the seniors finished last with but a single score.

At the end of the meet the following score was announced to the crowd. freshmen 42, sophomores 41, juniors 24, seniors 1, but an error was made in the results of the pole vault which was as follows: Krieger '24, first; Hammon '24, Tomlinson '24, and McKinnon '22 tied for second. In the initial count no credit was given to McKinnon.

Foster Newell '23 was high individual point winner with 10 points. He took first places in both the low and high hurdles. Newell has been doing consistent work all year in the hurdles and is expected to run a close third to Knollin and Stolley in the varsity. E. W. Johnson was second high point winner with first place in the quarter mile, second in the broad jump and third in the 40 yard dash.

THE GRAND

"Married Life", which comes to the Grand today, is described as Mack Sennett's best comedy and with the following cast there is no reason why it should not be: Ben Turpin, he of the contrary eyes; Louise Fazenda, she of the slippery feet; Charles Conklin, Ford Sterling, and Charles Murray. They are Sennett's standbys and have made millions merrier by their stunts.

Giving the plot of the comedy is not only worse than useless, it is foolish. Real comedies have no plot. The author just starts on a journey and on the way meets with a hundred humorous happenings which he has the faculty of recording. And so, while "Married Life" deals with married life after a fashion, it has to do with so many other side plots the original is practically forgotten before the end of the picture is reached. So, if you want to laugh and don't feel you need the deeper wells of humor to draw from, see "Married Life" and have a good time.
