THE ANNUAL ALUMNI DINNER, JUNE 20, 1911. "It was as democratic a dinner as could be imagined."

Wisconsin Alumni Magazine

Volume XII

Madison, Wis., July, 1911

Number 10

ANNUAL ALUMNI BUSINESS MEETING

THE annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the University of Wisconsin, held in Library Hall, Tuesday morning, June 20, at 10:30 o'clock, was the largest in the history of the Association.

The most important action taken at the meeting was an amendment to the constitution unanimously adopted by which the annual dues with a subscription to THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE were increased from one dollar ($1) to two dollars ($2) a year.

The report of the treasurer, M. S. Dudgeon, '95, and the report of the editor and business manager of the THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE, L. P. Lochner, '09, showed conclusively that it is impossible to carry on the work of the Association as actively as has been done during the past two years and furnish each member of the association with a copy of THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE with money received from the annual dues of one dollar a year.

Article V, Section 1, of the constitution of the Association as unanimously amended at this meeting, now reads, "The annual dues shall be two dollars payable on or before July 1 of each year for the fiscal year beginning May 1 next preceding, of which sum one dollar shall be paid as an annual subscription to THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE for the ensuing school year, and any and all settlements there-to shall be deemed voluntary payments and shall not affect the rights of membership."

The officers elected by ballot according to the Australian system are:

President, Mrs. Imogene Hand Carpenter, '87, Racine.

Vice-president, Thomas R. Lloyd-Jones, '96, Madison.

Secretary, Carl H. Tenney, law '96, Madison.

THE "PEERADE"

"They all marched—the heavy-weights and the light-weights, the old and young."

THE ALUMNI ATHLETIC MEET

NO better curtain raiser could have been devised for the alumni track meet and Chicago-Milwaukee baseball game than the "peerade" of the alumni which was formed at 2 P. M. before headquarters June 20, and marched out to Camp Ran-classes down to '61. They all marched—the heavyweights and the light-weights, the old and the young, the women and the men. Only 1901 was missing, but it appeared as a special feature in full regalia after "hoi polloi" were all seated as comfortably as could be expected at 100 degrees in the shade.

"The conspicuous marshal of the 1906 crowd, 'Cud' Beye, led the procession."

dall. The conspicuous marshal of the 1906 crowd, "Cud" Beye, led the procession as drum major and was the center of admiration of Young America. He was followed by the First Regiment band which played "On Wisconsin" until even the most unmusical alumnus had caught the tune. Then came the graduating class, and after them, in order, the older

In the track meet, Hueffner, '06, of Racine and Blankenagel, '08, of Hartford were the two particular stars. The former won four firsts and placed in a number of other events. The results of the meet were as follows:

220 yard dash: Max Mason, '98, and John Blankenagel, '08, tied. Only entrants.

High jump: first, Fitch, '06; second, Mason, '98; third, Hueffner, '06.

440 yard dash: first, Blankenagel, '08; second, Myers, '08; third, Hean, '06.

Discus throw: first, Dacy, '10; second, Wilce, '10; third, Story, '10.

Broad jump: Hueffner only entrant. Best distance, 20 feet, 5 inches.

second, Stiehm, '09; third, Story, '10.

The field events began before the baseball game and lasted throughout the game.

During the baseball game President Lynn S. Pease acted as chief barker. There was a special reason for it: Early in the afternoon he introduced to the audience three famous badger athletes of Hammer throw: first, Johnson, '07; second, Story, '10; third, Dacy, '10.

twenty-six years ago. They were P. H. Connolly, pitcher of the famous baseball team of 1885, George E. Waldo, catcher of the same team, and Fred M. Stephenson, better known as "War-Horse" Stephenson, manager of that same celebrated aggregation. Waldo and Connolly acted as battery for the Chicago nine during the first four innings, and surprised their younger team mates by their agility and snappy work. "War-Horse" Stephenson at first sat in his automobile as a passive spectator, but soon his huge frame was seen to emerge from his car and he was heard rooting lustily for "Pat" Connolly and the Chicago team.

The baseball game resulted in a victory for the "Foam Blowers" of Milwaukee, who defeated the "Smoke Consumers" of the Windy City by a score of 10 to 6. The game was not quite as errorless as might have been expected from "the last of the World Series" announced by Umpire "Joe" Davies, '98, but it provided lots of fun and was not lacking in brilliant and spectacular plays.

Connolly and Waldo were relieved by Bemis Pierce, who went behind the bat and Jack Reid, who took the pitcher's box.

The battery for the Milwaukee team were "Pete" Husting and "Al" Hedding. Husting was relieved later in the game by Fred Worthington.

Following is the line-up:

Milwaukee—Hedding, c.; Husting, Worthington, p.; Bollenbeck, Boyle, 1b.; Lorenz, 2b.; Stark, 3b.; Parker, ss.; Corrigan, Sapior, rf.; Karel, cf.; Walword, lf.

Chicago—Pierce, Waldo, c.; Connolly, Reid, p.; Ware, 1b.; Becker, 2b.; Curtis, 3b.; Rightor, ss.; Chandler, Keller, Van Auken, Beye, Sherman, outfield.

THE GLEE CLUB REUNION

By S. E. WASHBURN, '03

Illustrated by Will G. Watrous, '95

It was a success beyond all anticipation. The campaign of letter writing and postal card bulletins, The Music of Old U. W. with Will Watrous' inimitable cartoons and J. Glen Wray's and Harry Seymour's telephone systems did it. Some of the boys cried for mercy—"Don't circularize me further, I'll come." And come we did, forty of us, strong in spirit and love for our Alma Mater and strong in voice. If there was ever any doubt as to our singing ability that doubt has disappeared, never to return. Prof. Parker's years of effort have not been in vain. The fruits of Bredin's work were evident. You cannot blame us if we appear a little inflated. The crowd that greeted us and their applause would have made even our most modest little violet, R. T. Conger, swell with pride. From all sides we hear how well we did. President Van Hise, the governor, the regents, the alumni, our wives and children and our sweethearts. Why shouldn't we be proud and why shouldn't the university be proud of us?

Some of the boys made super-human efforts to come. Judge A. H. Long, '85, had to resort to the use of a 'jimmy'. The 'jimmy' worked and he was there. So were Chandler, Olson and Jones, all members of that original club. We are proud of our ancestry and of the university that guided us so successfully in their harmonious wake. We would like to have seen Bruce, Allen, Roser and Wales, however, to see how they size up with these more faithful ones.

"THE 'JIMMY' WORKED AND HE WAS THERE."

Bowman had planned for two years to come. He made it this time and so did Beebe and Beebe's family. If you don't believe it look at his picture. It was sketched from life by our own Will Watrous.

Then there were Ehlman, Bewick, Dorward, Gillett, Walbridge and Hank Moseley. Stenjem said—"Leave me alone. I'm here already. Send those extra cards to Bunny and Ne Collins." Thanks to "the sweetest girl in the world," good, fat, jolly Ne Collins made it, clear from New York, but Bunny, poor Bunny! Alas! the 'jinx' got him as well as Polleys, Sedgwick, Clausen, Simpson, Pray, Ireland and Frost. Weld, Hoefer and our Chinese diplomat Hobbins were unable to look after their work for a whole week previous to the reunion, so anxious were they for the time to come when they could sing for Old Wisconsin.

We missed Gaffin, Wolcott, Hamilton and Boardman and if you could have seen the tearful letters they wrote you would know they missed us also. We hesitate mentioning the good time we had to them because they are busy training up Glee Club possibilities and we do not want to sadden the 'Dream.'

No one enjoyed the reunion more than we. It brought back the undergraduate days when cares were light, hopes were new, and father paid the bills. We saw ourselves as freshmen, listening to our first convocation in Library Hall or wondering if we could survive an English or History exam or one of Sunny Pyre's oft repeated jokes. We laughed at our vain efforts to get by Lennie Smith C. E. and at the appointments with Dean Birge that Ne Collins never dared to to and from Maple Bluff would have been for naught. Think of the fame and renown that have come to Phil Spooner and Alexius Baas as a result of their Glee Club experience. Their solos made us proud that it was the Wisconforget. We listened to the groans of those who barely escaped the wrath of John M. Olin and "Red" Smith, those terrors of the law school.

"BEEBE MADE IT THIS TIME."

We lived over our introduction to the Glee Club and our rehearsals and concerts. Surely, "Those were the days when a voice counted for something."

Without it we would never have been able to serenade Mary or her friend nor would we have been able to sing the songs that precipitated such applause. Our efforts to entertain our 'charming mascot' at lunch and on our trip sin Glee Club that discovered their talent. Ehlman would undoubtedly have hung his shingle in some such town as Sun Prairie or Mazomanie if he had not gained prominence and wealth through his association with our warblers while Pierce, but for his rendition of the Levee Song, would be just a plain, every day foot-ball hero, whereas now—Well! just look at him! "Bosco! Bosco! he eats 'em alive."

Except for our unusual success as singers we might have had to do as did Lynn Williams and his 1900 children last year—hire a band, lead an elephant around the streets or play a game of baseball in order to draw the attention of the aristocracy towards us. As it was, a simple announcement of an Open Air Concert by the Glee Club found the campus covered with a multitude of admirers, anxiously waiting to hear us sing and reluctant to tear themselves away when the concert was over. We sang the "Varsity Toast," "We meet again tonight, boys," "Amici," "The Mendota Crew Song," "Clear the Way for Old Wisconsin" and many other old college songs, each one bringing back the memories of bygone days.

The ride across Mendota with as brave a girl as ever lived, to the Maple Bluff Golf Club where we took lunch, was a trip we never shall forget. We did our best to charm this delightful little miss and believe we succeeded for we have been assured that she is coming back next year.

John Main planned well when he arranged for this trip across the lake. It was the happiest part of our reunion. It brought out stories and episodes of college days and glee club trips which we supposed history had carefully concealed. Incidents back in the 80's with Charlie Allen, Olson, Chandler, Jones and Long as heroes made the younger men wonder how on earth they ever became serious enough to develop into teachers, lawyers or doctors. In the 90's incidents seemed to gain thick and fast. Ask Watrous, Beebe, Bert Hand, or Bowman what they know about the Ganymede Club of Des Moines or about Watrous' attempt to get rid of the governor's wife. The story of how Stotzer and Dad Lawrence pasted a Glee Club sticker in the bottom of a bath tub at Downer College and of finding the self-same sticker in the self-same bath tub the next year made us wonder if our friends, the Milwaukee Downerites, ever turned on the water.

We had the time of our lives sitting on the porch of the Club House and singing over the songs of yesteryear. NeCollins, Bowman, Beebe and Stenjem, four of the finest fellows that Wisconsin ever produced and from clear way back in the 90's, sang their old songs with a feeling that only comes after years of separation from your Alma Mater and from the chums of the days gone by. The years dropped away as if by magic while we sat and listened to them sing "Got his little Satchel packed" and "Massa's in the cold, cold ground." If Clem Boughton, Skinner, Bacon, Holbrook, Jacobs or Beffel could have sat in the cool of that Golf Club verandah and, looking down across the green out over beautiful Lake Mendota, could have joined in the singing of those old songs, their hearts would have swelled with the recollections of Glee Club days and they would have become enthused as only the living over of such times can enthuse one.

The younger men received an inspiration from these old timers that took them off their feet. "Turk" Walker, Jack Wilce, Steen and Capt. Pierce proved to us that the present generation of Glee Club men can hold their own against all-comers and if the reunion next year is not a world-beater it will not be their fault.

Oh-You Serenaders! Those were the days when a voice counted for something

"THE SONGS THAT PRECIPITATED MUCH APPLAUSE."

THE BIGGEST ALUMNI DINNER EVER HELD

PERHAPS the most spirited event of Commencement Week was the monster Alumni Dinner in the gymnasium on Tuesday evening, June 20. Over seven hundred alumni and friends of the university assembled at 6 o'clock in a large tent erected through the courtesy of the regents on the lower campus, and fell into line with their respective classes as Field Marshall Julius E. Olson, '84, called off the classes and presented a member of each class with a pennant bearing his numeral. Led by the First Regiment band, the pre-prandial parade moved along Langdon street to Science Hall, and from there back to the gymnasium, where the hall was taxed to its fullest capacity.

The evening witnessed one demonstration of goodfellowship and class rivalry after the other. 1901 had placed its huge numerals in a conspicuous place on the platform. 1906 was ever ready with a new song. 1896 proclaimed its presence by an imposing banner and by noisy but "classy" demonstrations. Every class from 1860 on gave its yell. Interspersed in the program were songs led by the glee club and participated in by the whole audience.

It was as democratic a dinner as could be imagined. Coats were in a hopeless minority, and shirt waists "all the go."

A feature of the dinner was the variety of ornamentation of President Lynn S. Pease, '86, who acted as toastmaster. By the special graft incident to his office he had accumulated on his coat a multitude of souvenirs of the various reunion classes and other commencement regalia which made him one of the most romantic figures seen since the invasion of Dane County by the Norwegians.

Another feature was the splendid rendition of the Torreador Song by Alexius Baas, '06. His encore, "Believe me, if all those endearing young charms," was even more effective.

A third feature was Lynn A. Williams', '00, hold-up scheme to boost membership in the Alumni Association. Mr. Williams had cards distributed at every table which when signed and turned in to the Association officers amounted to a pledge to join the Association or to continue as a member of it during the ensuing year. Over 80% of those present signed the cards.

President Pease had scoured the country for the best post-prandial orators to be had for love or money, with the result that the audience was treated to the following succession of after-dinner aerobatics:

"The Class of '61"—Judge Farlin Q. Ball, '61, of Chicago. Judge Ball, who was greeted with long continued applause, told of the conditions of his college days, and noted with pride the wonderful progress since that time. He recalled with tender thoughts the other members of his class now living, but who were unable to attend the dinner.

"The University"—President C. R. Van Hise, '79. That the university ship has at last found herself, and that she now is safely anchored in a harbor guarded by a permanent and well organized Alumni Association after a stormy and threatening voyage, was the burden of his speech. He expressed a glowing optimism for the future of the institution. He declared that the great problem of the university today is, can the proper standard of quality be maintained? He answered that it could, but only with the cooperation of alumni. The president told of a scientific comparative study of big universities during the past seven years, and how Wisconsin had been recognized among the foremost. The speaker also spoke in great reverence for the memory of former Chancellor Chamberlain, the guest of honor of the class of 1890.

The other speakers and their toasts follow:

"For Classes '62-'81" — Julia Clark Hallam, '81, Sioux City, Ia.

"For Classes '82-'86 and Regents"—President James F. Trotman, '84, '86, Milwaukee.

"For Classes '87-'91"—Leverett C. Wheeler, '91, Milwaukee.

"For Classes '92-'96"—Judge Albert H. Schmidt, '96, Manitowoc.

ALUMNI RECEPTION AND BALL

A RECORD-BREAKING attendance in spite of sweltering heat marked the annual alumni reception and ball in Lathrop Hall on Wednesday evening, June 21. In the receiving line were President C. R. Van Hise, '79, Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Daniels, Charles N. Gregory, '71, Regent and Mrs. James F. Trotman, '84, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hallam, '81.

The large parlor of Lathrop Hall was used for the reception, while the dance took place in the gymnasium and concert room. Supper was served in both dining rooms.

The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of John B. Sanborn, '96, chairman; Mary Oakley, '93, Dr. Walter Sheldon, '96, Vroman Mason, '95, and John S. Main, '98.

FIFTIETH REUNION OF '61

THE fiftieth reunion of the class of '61 was made memorable by the presence of two of the five surviving members of the class. They were Shadrach Azariah Hall of Redwood Falls, Minn., and Judge Farlin Q. Ball of Chicago. The latter represented his class on official programs for the exercises were distributed in the audience. They turned out to be parodies on the real thing. One was labeled "Ignoranta Felicitas," and the other "Sapientia Amentia." This was for the seventh annual commencement, held June 26, 1861. Following a lot of reading matter unintelligible except to those in the after-dinner program at the annual banquet of the Alumni Association.

The two honored gentlemen had interesting tales to tell of college life in their time, and especially of the commencement exercises fifty years ago. During the commencement exercises of 1861, two programs purporting to be the the midst of the fun, appeared the names of the graduates, printed thus: Farlinus Squirtibus Ballibus, Gulielmus W. Church, Alzariah S. Hall, Johannes Danibus Parkinsonibus, Jacobus B. Britton, Almerimus Gillett, Nichaelis Leahy, Gulielmus E. Spencer and Henricus Vilas.

The commencement program was spun out on the literature as follows:

Music, "Aint we glad we're out of the wilderness," Class.

Prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep," Little Park.

Dance, Irish Jig, in costume, Mich. Leahy.

Salutatory, selections from the classics, S. A. Hall.

An imposition, Some Outlandish Dutch, Farlainibus Squirtibus Bal-libus.

Astounding Feet(s)—exhibited by the great Newcom(b)e contortionist, Jack Spencer.

An Optical Illusion, "The Rise and Progress of My Moustache," Jimmy Britton.

Poem, "I-deal-----" William W. Church.

Song, "Barbyer, spare those curls, touch not a single hair," Pretty Little Ball.

Oration, "Who shall win the favors of the fair," Master J. D. Parkinson.

Orations—(subject unknown), A. Gillett; "I'll read you matters deep and dangerous," Mich. Leahy.

Song, "She that loves me let her rise," S. A. Hall.

A popular delusion, "Our City Government," Henry Vilas.

The program as printed continues in this strain almost ad finitum, the subjects of the orations ranging from such as "Analysis of the pollywog" and "Cogitations on the caudal appendage of the next comet," to "Does Garlick retard civilization in Britain" with the salutatory given in Ethiopian. The refreshments were alleged to consist of Pigs' eyes rolled in sawdust, and buttermilk. The late William F. Vilas was put down for his master oration on "The Constitutionality of the Ten Commandments," and Chancellor Newman was to give the baccalaureate address in Esquimaux.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF '71

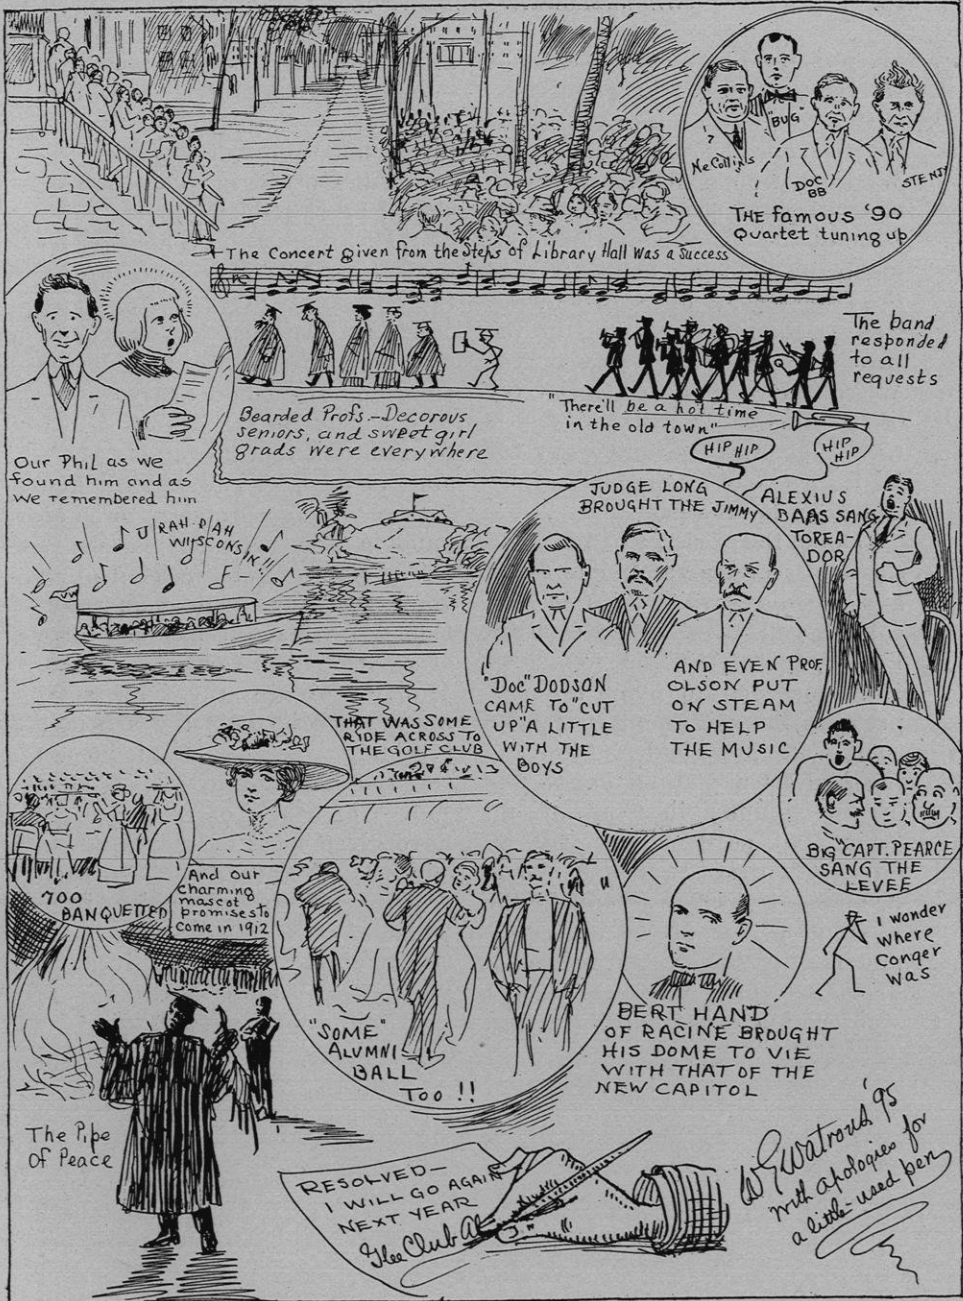

By GEORGE RAYMER, '71

NOT the largest in numbers, but probably the most interesting reunion of the 1911 Commencement, was that of the remnant of the class of 1871. After forty years a few of the most loyal and enthusiastic members of the class assembled on Tuesday morning and chose class officers for the ensuing five years. On Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering of citizens and old and young graduates, the ceremony of planting the memorial ivy that had been omitted forty years before was duly celebrated.

Lynn S. Pease, president of the Alumni Association, won a warm place in the hearts of the class of '71 by presiding and greatly assisting in the exercises. In a few timely remarks he introduced Alb. Watkins, who gave the principal address of the occasion recounting some of the class history and adding many amusing incidents. At the conclusion of the address, George Raymer on behalf of the class presented the University of Wisconsin with the memorial ivy of the class of '71 which he said is to do honor to the university for all future time as the class of '71 had done for the past forty years.

Then in the presence of an enthusiastic assemblage and amid songs and the old U-rah-rah Wisconsin college yell, Mrs. Adele Overton Brown, one of the four women of '71, proceeded to plant the ivy, pressing the soil about its tender roots with her hands. After the ivy had been planted beside one of the columns in front of old Main Hall, so dearly beloved by all graduates, Professor Louis Kahlenberg, '92, accepted the plant in behalf of the university and faculty in an impressive address in which the class of '71 was complimented for its return after so many years to renew its loyalty to Alma Mater. President Pease then praised in highest terms the thorough work of the professors of forty years ago as shown by the loyalty of the class of '71. Singing and the class and university yells were a feature of the occasion.

Albert Watkins, who on Tuesday was chosen president of the class for the coming five years, then concluded the exercises in a few words in praise of his class, and '71 gave its yell and the university yell and promised to be on hand in full force in 1916.

The class of '71 consisted of 18 young men and four young women. Death's toll has been five of the men and two of the women. The two women still living after forty years of industry are now presiding over beautiful homes. Of the men, four have been judges of courts of record, three have given most of their lives to educational work, two have been regents of the university from which they graduated and one a regent of another state university, three are leading attorneys in three different states.

THE REUNION OF '81

BY EMMA GATTIKER, '81

IGHT of the class of '81, nearly one-fourth of its surviving graduate membership, with 4 "mere wives," to quote from Lynn Williams, '00, responded to the summons to the thirtieth anniversary of their graduation, meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Smith. A little hesitation in greeting each other by name occurred once or twice, as when Julia Clark Hallam looked a long time at Mrs. Woods before calling her Maggie Allen, but the intervening years were soon bridged and reminiscences of school days, later experiences and a general visiting time occupied the afternoon.

Quite a number of the absentees sent letters of greeting, those from Maud Remington and May Remington Thayer bringing back our school days very vividly. Mrs. Carson and Professor and Mrs. Daniells, who were kind enough to look in upon the gathering for a little time, also took us back to the days when algebra and chemistry were more vital matters to us than they now are.

The sons and daughters of '81 were represented, too, and it is a pity that we could not have seen them all (as well as the two grandchildren so far reported, credited to Julia Clark, and to Norris Sanborn) marshalled in grand review before us. W. J. Moroney's daughter Kathleen graduated this year and a sister and three brothers as well as her parents were present to see the first diploma given to a child of '81 by the University of Wisconsin. Edward Steensland's daughter also is in the university and Julia Hallam's two sons (I think Julia made some allusion to Cornelia and her jewels) as also Eva Goodall Achtenberg's son.

Beside those already mentioned there were present Mrs. Moroney, Mrs. Steensland, Emma Gattiker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred White, Chas. H. Kerr, E. W. Keyes, W. H. Goodall and W. M. Pond, and with the exception of Mr. Keyes, who unfortunately had to return to Milwaukee, we were the guests at the dinner of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith. Later Mr. and Mrs. White were host and hostess and, decorated with cardinal badges, U. W. '81, we accompanied them to the Fuller opera house and felt that we, too, were "Going Some."

THE REUNION OF '86

By EMMA NUNNS PEASE, '86

THE reunion of the class of '86 was so greatly enjoyed that an annual reunion will, undoubtedly, be a feature of all future commencements. Those present were: Stella Prentice Couradson; Anna Wood O'Conner; S. A. Connell; E. B. Belden; Florence Griswold Buckstaff; Geo. A. Buckstaff; William S. Dwinell; Mary F. Conner; Mary Saxe Chandler; Fremont E. Chandler; Leila Dow; W. H. Hallam; John Parkinson; Emma Nunns Pease; Lynn S. Pease; Frank G. Hobart; James F. Trottman; Clarence Ward; and a number of very welcome "annexes."

No particular entertainment was planned as those who responded had expressed a desire to have simply a good old-fashioned visit, so the time was spent in visiting, lunching, attending the athletic sports at Camp Randall, the Glee Club concert, Alumni banquet and Commencement exercises and in participating in the ivy planting of the class of '71.

Letters were read and enjoyed from the following classmates who were unable to be present: Millie Forsythe, 448 Lake St., Los Angeles; Mrs. Burr W. Jones, (Katherine McDonald), 112 Langdon St., Madison; Carrie E. Morgan, Appleton, Wis.; Howard Greene, 367 Lake Drive, Milwaukee; Elsey Bristol, 412 Oak St. S. E., Minneapolis; George Main, 825 Leavy Bldg., Seattle; Mrs. Edward N. Smith, (Sarah Gallett), 4226 Sunnyside, Seattle; Charles L. Beach, Storrs, Conn.; Edwin Park, 822 Ernest & Cranmer Bldg., Denver; George W. Brown, Tiburon, Cal.; Julius Hortvet, Dairy & Food Dept., St. Paul.

A feature of the reunion was the production by four members of the class, of the fans they had carried Class Day, just twenty-five years ago, and the class secretary produced one of the original programs used twenty-five years ago and compared it with the elaborate program of the class of 1911.

'86 can proudly claim the record for attendance at commencements as Mary Connor has missed but one and Lynn S. and Emma N. Pease have missed but two out of twenty-five commencements.

As class yells were not known in the university twenty-five years ago it became necessary for '86 to devise one which was given at the Alumni Banquet as follows:

'86 is the classy class,
They play the game and never pass.
They deliver the goods and let no grass Grow under their feet as they hustle past.
'86 is the classy class."

Motion was made by Mr. Hal- Mrs. Pease be elected the officers lam and carried that "Mr. and of the class."

BY MILDRED HARPER, '91

THOSE who came to the reunion of '91 know it was a success. Those who did not come will know it was a success when they read the list of those who came (and it is mainly for the absent ones this article is written).

The weather was ideal, Madison, always beautiful, was "brimming o'er with the wealth of June." The new buildings shone resplendent, the campus and ivy were clothed in verdure green. But best of all was that spirit of good fellowship which always prevails Commencement Week.

A few of the class came back on Sunday, some coming through from La Crosse and Chicago in automobiles. Monday afternoon, the class took a steamer at the gymnasium pier and crossed Lake Mendota for an outdoor picnic at Bernard's Park. Forty gathered at one long table. G. E. Morton of Milwaukee was in charge of festivities and proved as ready and clever a leader as he did five years ago. Many letters were read and cheered from absent members.

Tuesday noon, a formal dinner was given at the new Golf Club House on Lake Mendota. Fifty-seven were present. During the dinner toasts were given by Jean Hays Cady, Herbert A. Heyn, Fred W. McNair, David K. Tone, Leveret C. Wheeler, Walter D. Sheldon, August F. Fehlandt, Andrews Allen, Thomas K. Urdahl, and Ex-President Thomas Chrowder Chamberlin.

Needless to say, all these toasts were clever and most enjoyable. Mr. Tone has not been back in twenty years but the class of '91 can never hold another really successful reunion without a toast from Mr. Tone and without Morse Ives as our brilliant toastmaster. May they ever be with us.

Probably the most gratifying feature of the occasion was the presence of Ex-President and Mrs. Chamberlin who came as guests of the class. Prof. Chamberlin's fine presence, his kindly nature, his unchanged appearance, and his splendid toast on "The Trend in Twenty Years" carried us all back to our college days and will always remain with us as a pleasant memory. May he, also, come again.

After the dinner, the class returned to the city and went to Camp Randall for the base ball game. From five to six, Prof. and Mrs. Thomas K. Urdahl opened their home for an informal and most enjoyable reception for their classmates. At half past six, the class attended the Alumni Dinner in a body. Leveret Wheeler represented the class on the toast program.

Out of eighty-four living graduates, thirty-two attended the reunion. Also, there were nine who were with the class two years or more and sixteen accessories (wives, husbands and children). Those present were Edward S. Main and wife, Chicago; Thomas H. Ryan, Appleton; Wm. F. Funk, La Crosse; O. B. James and wife, Richland Center; J. L. Hatton, River Forest, Ill.; Fred T. Kelly, Madison; Lucy C. Baldwin, West Allis; Floy Van Dusen Gale, Medford; H. J. Hirshheimer and wife, La Crosse; F. A. Morey, Racine; Wm. McNair and wife, Houghton, Mich.; J. Sidney Hotton, River Forest, Ill.; Elsbeth Veerhusen, Madison; Jean Hays Cady, Green Bay; Wm. Bossard, Milwaukee.

We are glad we came. We hope to come again and may all absent ones who read this resolve now to be with us in five years.

The new officers are Morse Ives, president; Mrs. L. C. Baldwin, secretary; and Carl A. Johnson, treasurer.

1896 "COMES BACK"

If anyone doubted that the class of '96 could "come back," those doubts were dispelled by the way in which the class celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of its graduation.

In two days the class had two picnics, formed one division of the Alumni Parade to Camp Randall and gave demonstrations of its presence at the Alumni Dinner.

Monday morning class headquarters were opened in Library Hall, in front of which a thirty foot banner stretched between the trees announced the fact that '96 was on hand.

Monday noon the class, 34 strong, crossed Lake Mendota to the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Crowley, where dinner was served. The afternoon was spent on the broad verandas where old times were recalled and old friendships revived, and where the good old days when '96 ran the university were recalled. The party returned to the city in the evening in time to see the senior class play.

The members were so well pleased with their first day's outing that they voted to have another picnic on the upper campus overlooking Lake Mendota, Tuesday noon. Accordingly some 40 gathered on the picturesque knoll back of North Hall, several additional members of the class who had been unable to reach the city on Monday having been added to the party. A group photograph, which appears on the opposite page, was taken during this picnic luncheon on the campus.

After the picnic the class marched in a body to old Librar Hall where they formed one division of the Alumni Parade to Camp Randall for the field meet and alumni base ball game.

At the Alumni Dinner Tuesday evening the class, 45 strong, occupied an entire table and had a twenty foot banner suspended above the table to indicate their presence when they were not giving their yell:

"U-Rah, U-Rah, Rah-Rah-Ray U of W '96, We're O. K."

or their incubator cackle:

"Rackety-Rax, Rackety-Rix
We hatched out in '96."

All of the members of the class with their husbands, wives and children were adorned with red-and-brown woven hats which were variously worn in insurrecto, firemen, wastebasket, Napoleon, Geo. Washington and Booker T. styles by the various members according to their tastes.

A box of oranges raised by hand in his own orchard by Charles A. Phelps of Claremont, Cal., furnished the fruit course for both picnics and refreshments at the baseball game.

Those who took part in the reunion were: Durante C. Gile, Milwaukee; Prof. Arthur L. Goddard, Madison; Dora L. Haviland, Janesville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hayden, Sun Prairie; Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Iverson, Chicago; Clara G. Jones, West Bend; Thos. R. Lloyd-Jones and Mrs. Calla Westover Lloyd-Jones, Madison; Conrad C. Lloyd, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Lucas, Madison; Mrs. Anna Main Kempton, Madison; Mrs. Olga Mueller Eddy, La Crosse; Martin P. Rindlaub, Fargo, N. D.; Edith P. Robinson, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Ruka, Boscobel; Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sanborn, Madison; Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, Madison; Hiram P. Sawyer, Hartford; Judge Albert H. Schmidt, Manitowoc; Henry H. Scott, New York; Dr. and Mrs. Walter H. Sheldon, Madison; Prof. and Mrs. Grant Showerman, Madison; Prof. Chas. M. Smith, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.; Prof. William B.

Tallman, University of Montana, Bozeman, Mont.; James E. Thomas, Waukesha; Iva A. Welsh, Madison; Chas. W. Hart, Charles City, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Crowley, Madison; Prof. and Mrs. Charles K. Leith, Madison; Anna M. Pitman, Madison; Harry G. Davies, Watertown; Amund K. Reindahl, Madison.

Letters of greeting and regret were read from C. A. Phelps, Claremont, Cal.; O. B. Zimmerman, South Bend, Ind.; W. S. Frame, Schenectady, N. Y.; Mrs. Mary Donovan Madden, Madison; C. H. Parr, Charles City, Ia.; Frank B. Cornish, San Francisco, Cal.; Gladys Fowler, Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Frances Holcombe Boardman, Glencoe, Ill.; Mrs. Carrie Edgren Oestreich, Janesville; Rosalia Bohrer, Wausau; Dr. George P. NINETEEN-ONE—NINETEEN-ELEVEN

By LYNN H. TRACY

Second to none, Second to none, Varsity, Varsity, Nineteen-one.

THE great decennial of the class of 1901 has come and gone, and if anyone is sorry he came he is still to be heard from. A few early ones reported Sunday at class headquarters, and by Wednesday the following had registered:

Kate Buell, Sun Prairie; Mrs. Carrie Evans-Janssen and husband Kankakee, Ill.; Richard Williamson and wife, Mexico City, Mex.; L. H. Tracy and wife, Chicago; A. C. King, Chicago; Julia F. Smith, Madison; E. J. Harvey, Racine; Flora N. Davidson, Madison; Paul Stover, Milwaukee; T. M. Priestley, Mineral Point; Arthur F. Smith and wife, El Paso, Texas; Grace R. Hastie, Poynette, Wis.; James B. Graham, Walden, N. Y.; E. J. B. Schubring and wife, Madison; John C. Stevens, Jr., Milwaukee; Katherine P. Regan, Madison; Neely Pardee, Wausau; R. B. Hartman, Milwaukee; Mrs. R. B. Hartman (Clara Stillman), Milwaukee; Alonzo A. Chamberlain, Huron, S. D.; Mrs. Alonzo A. Chamberlain (Claudia Hall), Huron, S. D.; L. B. Wolfenson, Madison; Ray Palmer and wife, Chicago; Cora Astle, Baraboo; Winifred Salisbury, Oregon; W. B. Collins, Sheboygan; L. D. Williams, Milwaukee; F. E. Washburn, Milwaukee; R. J. Hawn, Fordwick, Va.; S. H. Richards, Woodstock, Ill.; Frederic Matton, Chicago; Edith E. White, Milwaukee; E. John Wehmhoff, Burlington; M. J. Berg, Hazel Green; Harry A. Severson, Rockford, Ill.; H. W. Rohde, Milwaukee; C. Berry, Waukesha; H. E. Bradley and wife, Milwaukee; H. H. Wood, Stoughton; F. J. Vea, Stoughton; Mary Brahany, Madison; A. W. Blackburn, Ferndale, Cal.; Robert Lachmund, Sauk City; W. B. Anderson, Ames, Ia.; F. A. Little, Fond du Lac; R. N. Nelson and wife, Madison; Z. A. Chandler, Oregon; L. C. Burke, Madison; A. Ralph Eberle, Watertown; W. H. Hirschberg, Milwaukee; C. E. Macartney, Paterson, N. J.

The secretary at headquarters reports that one member failed to register. This registration represents nine states and one foreign country, and the civil engineers boast of the return of seventy-five per cent of their graduates. Twenty-three of those present reported "married" with a total of nineteen children.

The special features of the reunion were unique in every way. The class numerals, eight feet high, covered with bunting in the class colors, purple and gold, and propelled by man-power, attracted much attention. The class hats, made of pliable colored straw, left untrimmed on the edges as well as on the crown, were worn in every conceivable shape. The badges were very striking, made of two ribbons in the class colors, each a foot long, with "U of W, 1901" in gold leaf on the purple

Walter Hirschberg, beat a "Hill" team captained by Richard Williamson. In the evening forty-nine sat down to dinner at the Golf Club, including Lynn S. Pease, retiring president of the Alumni Association, and Mrs. Pease, and Lynn Williams and Miss Hinckley, representing the class of '00. Short impromptu speeches were made by Lynn S. Pease, Lynn Williams, Rev. Clarence E. Macartney, Julia F. Smith, Lester D. Williams, E. J. B. Schuribbon, topped with a large yellow paper chrysanthemum. Palm leaf fans marked with the class numerals and colors were provided for personal comfort.

Monday morning the early arrivals marched to alumni headquarters for official registration. In the afternoon another parade with band and full regalia around the upper campus and to boats for the Golf Club. There a few devotees of the game tried out the golf course, and a team of engineer professionals, captained by

Tuesday A. M. the class marched in a body to the alumni business meeting, and in the afternoon to the athletic meet at Camp Randall, where the official picture was taken. Fifty representatives of 1901 attended the Alumni Dinner Tuesday night. Can any class beat that? The address of Judge Farlin Q. Ball, class o '61, was of particular interest, as his son, Sid Ball, was a member of '01 who had expected to return but was called abroad on business. '01 gave a hearty class yell for '61 and Judge Ball when he had finished his address.

An unannounced meeting of class children and parents was held at headquarters Wednesday afternoon, and a few pictures were taken. All children in the city—namely six—were on hand. Two "genuine" class children were present,—Richard P. Williamson, age 5, son of Frances Wilcox, deceased, and Richard Williamson, and Carol F. Chamberlain, daughter of Claudia Hall and Alonzo A. Chamberlain, Law '01. The other four were Richard M. Jannsen, age 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Jannsen (Caroline Evans, '01); Robert G. Williamson, age 2, son of Richard Williamson, '01, and Marjory Hobbs; Lynn Wheeler Tracy, 11 months, son of Lynn H. Tracy, '01, and George Challoner, '03, and Martha E. Smith, '01, age 9 months and Fannie Hobbs. Two "Full" class babies who were not in the city are the two children of Clara L. Stillman and Rudolph B. Hartman.

These notes are given in the barest outline, for it would not be possible to do credit to the loyalty and enthusiasm of those who overcame many obstacles to return after ten years' absence. The reunion was a great success in every way, but it could not be called so had not some action been taken of permanent value. The sentiment was expressed that '01 should be represented each month by more news items in THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE, and the sentiment was so strong that a regular class correspondent and statistician was named. All items of any character regarding 1901 should be sent before the fifteenth of each month from October to June inclusive, to Paul Stover, Wells Bldg., Milwaukee. To complete the good work every member of 1901 who has not already done so should send in his alumni dues so as to be entitled to THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE for the next year. Through the courtesy of the editor this issue will be mailed to all members of 1901 who have recently shown an interest in affairs at Wisconsin. The returns in the way of new alumni memberships should come in at once in large numbers.

I believe I express the feelings of all who were so fortunate as to return in spring that none of us realized what a pleasure it would be to renew old acquaintances, and to make many new acquaintances within the class; to see how the university has prospered beyond our dreams; to note the changes, many of them with regret; and to see a really useful class memorial in the handsome president's chair presented by '01 and used on all state occasions. Nineteen-one did come back and will again. Great credit for this is due to a few individuals who assumed responsibility for different details, and to them personally and to the entire class the old motto applies, "Success proves itself."

Nineteen-two, it's up to you and all succeeding classes to keep up

"Nineteen-one did come back and will again " the good work of the decennials of the past two years. Here's hoping an endless chain has been started that will not be broken.

THE REUNION OF '06

By L. W. B., '06

THE earth may now resume its course. It stopped a couple of days in June, 1911, long enough to focus attention on the five-year reunion of the class of 1906 at the University of Wisconsin. The youngest class to meet quinquennially, the plan having been adopted only two or three years ago, it nevertheless showed its metal by getting together upwards of a hundred '06 men and women. Many of the men came with their better halves and all others with the best of intentions.

Nought-six's success in rounding up nearly one-fourth of the 375 members of the class for the first reunion is the more remarkable in view of the fact that not a step in that direction had been taken before May 28 last. Between that date and June 20 a great newspaper had been issued with a worldwide circulation and a munificently-paid staff; return postal cards, letters and telegrams were sent hurrying across the country to faithful representatives of the orange and black; contracts for provisions to supply a regiment had been closed with Madison feed stores; two huge tents once used by Barnum & Bailey had been leased from John Gallagher; the First Regiment Band, with its gaily caparisoned troubadours, had been engaged for the week; plans had been made for luncheons, picnics, theater parties, the athletic meet, alumni dinner, and nocturnal diversions of bewildering variety if nothing else.

They came from everywhere. Fred Johnson came from Manila in the Philippines, some 7,500 miles; Sara McKay came from Los Angeles; Ruth Lyon Kemmerer from Socorro, New Mexico; Tom Slagsvol from Winnipeg, Manitoba; Ralph Hetzel from Corvallis, Oregon; Art Melzner from Butte, Montana; and Ernest Miller from Baltimore, Maryland. The average mileage traveled was 645 miles. The average weight remains unknown. They tried to find out, but gave up in discouragement after Cupid Parker, the first man asked, inquired, "With or without?" The oldest child of '06 is Anna E. Reid, daughter of Jack Reid, and born July 21, 1909.

Upon arrival '06 men and women were presented with a card, inscribed with a big cardinal "W," reading, "the wearer of this card, a member of the famous class of '06, during his (her) stay in Madison is entirely free from all the restrictions as to conduct formerly imposed both by the university and the 'distributors of peace' for the City of Madison. Signed, Charles R. Van Hise, President of the University; Thomas Shaughnessy, Chief of Police."

First plans for the reunion were started on May 28 at the Madison Club. The group which gathered here consisted of Edward M. McMahon, Otto L. Kowalke, Don E. Mowry and Louis W. Bridgman, of Madison; John W. Mapel and Henry W. Stark, of Milwaukee; and Dudley H. Keyes, of Chicago. The committee in its deliberations gladly accepted the counsel of Assemblyman Thomas J. Mahon, '05, who said he felt in duty bound to represent "The State" while such mighty plans were in the making. The meeting resulted in the selection of Mr. McMahon as chairman of the reunion committee and Mr. Kowalke treasurer. From that time on things moved rapidly.

Forthwith there was issued the 1906 Booster. In this newspaper were recounted the plans of the committee with more or less truthful and accurate data for the guidance of 1906 alumni with respect to their return in June, 1911. This newspaper, fearless and independent (or wishing to be so), gave a boost for the financial end of the movement by printing two coupons, in one of which the loyal graduate of '06 pledged himself or herself to pay $10 towards the expenses of the reunion, and in the other pledging to pay $2 for the purpose in case the member was unable to come. The response to this appeal was so prompt and general that the treasury had all the cash it needed and a little more. The tent, band, printing and incidental expenses made no small item, and every bill was paid. Postal card replies brought definite information of the probable number of those who would return.

By Sunday, Baccalaureate Day, many of the class were in Madison enjoying the familiar scenes and the academic environment to which five years' absence gave added charm. On Monday morning the '06 contingent met together for the first time in the tent erected for class headquarters on the lower campus under the shadow of the library. Five years made a difference, not in personal appearance and facial changes, but principally in one's memory of names. A warm handclasp was the inevitable first recognition, followed often by the apologetic confession, "I know your name as well as my own but have forgotten it for the moment." Greetings over, the band struck up a march and the class fell in for the parade to the east depot there to meet the Milwaukee contingent. Conspicuous in this and all later parades was the '06 war cry, "Hit 'em with sticks, Hit 'em with bricks." It recalled to thousands of Madisonians that they had heard that yell before, and notably at two class rushes in which '06 came out on top.

Yells alternated with class songs, of which the following is a sample:

(Tune: "On Wisconsin")

"On Wisconsin, on Wisconsin,
Class of 19-06,
We are always the big leaders,
We use sticks and bricks.
Rah-rah-rah.

"On Wisconsin, on Wisconsin,
THE class of the year,
We're forging to the front,
Now give a cheer."
(Class yell.)

Class loyalty was the keynote of the talk at the first luncheon, held at the Madison Club at 12:30 o'clock on Monday, June 20. It was a splendid representation of the members of '06 that gathered here and made merry during the dinner. There was inspiration in Cupid Parker's imported lieder, in the rendition of which he received able support from others of the Milwaukee contingent, Heine Stark, Paul Kremer and Al Lindemann. No one who responded to toasts failed to declare himself or herself as happy as could be to meet after five years so many familiar faces and choice spirits as were gathered here, nor did one fail to emphasize the necessity of forming a permanent organization by which the class spirit could be molded into a real, lasting and worth-while institution.

John W. Mapel presided as toastmaster at the luncheon and was happy in presenting the score or more of speakers. The impromptu nature of this after-din-the '06 crowd during Commencement Week. Taylor struck a responsive note when he suggested that no better way of maintaining class spirit may be had than a constant, intelligent reading, year after year, of THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE. Tribute was also paid by several speakers to the value of the services of Ed. McMahon in

"The earth may now resume its course. 1906 has held its reunion."

ner program added a touch of delightful informality that made the short speeches fully appreciated. Responses were made by Charles A. Taylor, Medford; Walter E. Sprecher, Independence; Wilfred Parker, Henry W. Stark, Paul H. Kremer, Al. Lindemann, Milwaukee; Cudworth Beye, Chicago; Joseph P. Fitch, Oshkosh; William Gilfillan, Minneapolis; Bess Adams, Madge Burnham, Theo Fenton, Marjorie Johnson, John H. Gormley, Edw. M. McMahon, Otto L. Kowalke, Louis W. Bridgman, Madison; and Arthur A. Mueller, '04, Milwaukee, who preferred wisely to cast his lot with promoting the reunion to its unexpectedly large success.

When the group reluctantly broke up it was nearly 3 P. M., and the class formed behind the band for a parade to Angleworm Station, there to take a chartered boat to Esther Beach. "Cud" Beye here made his premiere in the role of major domo. His dome was surmounted with an orange and black "stovepipe" of the double-header order, with mustache and goatee to match. The men in the line were conspicuous in white trousers, white shirt waists and white outing hats bearing in black the numerals “ '06.” All wore sashes of orange and black. Lunch baskets, of the same size and design, labeled “1906-W,” were borne by every member. Thus garbed and equipped, the procession made its way to the boat landing accompanied by the greetings of a great throng that lined the sidewalks and windows of business blocks along the route.

Esther Beach was radiant in her garb of green when the '06 host arrived. Its cool shades invited the pilgrims to rest, but it was not so to be. It was rather one continuous frolic, with joy running unconfined. Preliminaries over, Major Domo Beye placed his musicians outside the dance pavilion and led off for the grand march inside. The gyrations of this number were bewildering under Beye's direction and would have done credit to a prom. Thus the afternoon passed, and signs of a waning sun called all hands to the picnic lunch prepared by Schwoegler, “Bitter Sweet King.” The king did things up brown all around, and the pilgrims did the rest. The picnic broke up about 6 o'clock and the return made to the city. On the way there were '06 songs, supplemented by the band's accompaniment, and hilarity ruled. Upon landing, the march was resumed and the procession headed down State street to the campus headquarters, attracting the usual notice from the sidelines.

With augmented ranks, '06 formed in line again at 7:45 P. M. and marched up State street to the Fuller. “Cud” Beye's double stovepipe never looked so magnificent as at this time, and swarms of small boys along the route looked on with admiration written on every face. “Great” was the universal verdict. At the theater the procession disregarded the usual door rights and followed the band down to the front rows behind the orchestra pit. There was a repetition of class spirit and the house was not long left in ignorance of the fact that in '06 there were some live wires who had not forgotten their undergraduate training and spirit. The senior play, “Going Some,” was delightfully presented and the members of '06 enjoyed it to the extreme. As evidence of this they threw their '06 lunch baskets at the feet of the gratified Thespians. Between the acts the house was hushed and still as “Cud” Beye rose in his seat on the front row and asked:

“Is there a doctor in the house?”

When one man in the rear rose and was about to come to the rescue, the redoubtable Beye announced gravely:

“ '01 is dying.”

At midnight the class participated in the festivities incident to the pipe of peace ceremonies on the campus.

Tuesday, Alumni Day, brought a full round of activities for '06, beginning with what was announced would be a dog wagon breakfast in front of the tent, but which prospect vanished into thin air as the breakfast hour dawned. Heine Stark said it was too warm for "hot dog" anyway, and others agreed with him.

The morning found nearly all of the members of '06 who were in town gathered in the tent for the class picture. Thereupon the line of march was taken up again and a visit paid to the '01 headquarters at State and Lake streets where were gathered in battle line the hosts of the ten-year class. Worthy foes they proved to be. They gave a mighty cheer for '06, ending with "What's the matter with '06? They're all right," etc. The salute was returned with '06's compliments, and '06 resumed its way to Assembly Hall, followed by '01 and its band. The procession entered the hall during the alumni business meeting, and without so much as a "By your leave" paraded around the hall. At one o'clock the class held a luncheon at the University Club, and this gave occasion for more reunion speeches and class merriment. The reunion here resulted in a determination to form a permanent organization, with the following elections: President, Edward M. McMahon, Madison; secretary and treasurer, Otto L. Kowalke, Madison; executive committee, Miss Eurette M. Kimball, Janesville; A. E. Van Hagan, Chicago; Henry W. Stark, Milwaukee; Joseph P. Fitch, Oshkosh; Arthur B. Melzner, Butte, Montana; and the officers.

Following this function the class marched to Camp Randall for the athletic meet. In the evening another get-together was allowed at the class headquarters and '06 took its part and made the largest showing in the alumni procession, which marched up and down Langdon street adjacent to the campus and in the gymnasium for the Alumni Dinner. Around the banquet tables the class maintained its reputation for up-to-the-minute progressiveness, and rafters rang with songs and yells without end.

The headquarters tent proved a boon for the members of the class attending the reunion. Many of the fellows took advantage of the sleeping arrangements provided here and found the cots better than any hotel accommodations. In the tent, also, there were many happy individual reunions.

A class register was kept, wherein was recorded the name, address, business firm, remarks, the question whether they would be back in 1916, and "Married? If not, why not?" The latter data affords interesting study and some of the recorded answers of the unmarried will bear reprinting. Here are a few:

Eurette M. Kimball, "No, but soon. I've been waiting for an '06 man and I've succeeded;" M. Louise Durst, "You know;" Joseph P. Fitch, "Procrastination;" Frederick M. Johnson, "Waiting Mapel, "Disappointed in love;" Cudworth Beye, "None of your business;" Ralph W. Collie, "Barkis is willin';" Lawrence W. Ledvina, "Am corresponding with a matrimonial agency;" Gad Jones, "She didn't wait for me;" John Morgan, "Unsuccessful in love;" John H. Gormley, "Ditto;" L. F. Harza, "Never been asked;" J. B. A pretty romance which had its beginning on a Douglas county hunting ground several years ago culminated on May 24 when Charles Nelson and Amanda Smith, Superior, were joined in wedlock.

The story of the meeting of the couple is an interesting one. Miss Smith is a crack shot and can handle a rifle as well as a great many of the sharpshooters among men. It has been one of her delights to hunt during the deer season and it is seldom that she did not bag a deer when hunting during the season.

While on one of these hunting trips near Foxboro where her father resides on a farm she unexpectedly met with Mr. Nelson, who was later to become her husband. She had shot at a deer and also heard and saw that another shot had been fired at the animal almost at the same time. The deer fell in its tracks and she started for it.

Simultaneously another hunter sprang forth from a thicket not far away. There was of course mutual surprise. They found the two bullet wounds in the deer. Miss Smith suggested that a coin be flopped for the deer. There was, however, no contest, Mr. Nelson turning the deer over to Miss Smith. From then on the couple met often.

DEATHS

J. O. BUCKLEY, '84.

James O. Buckley, Milwaukee, who came to Honey Creek, Sauk Co., early in May on account of poor health, died there on May 29 of heart disease, aged 53.

Mr. Buckley was born near Black Hawk on March 27, 1859. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1884, and from the law school of the university three years later. He began the practice of law in Milwaukee in 1888, later forming a partnership with Charles Buehler and W. S. Buckley. He was president of the Queen Consolidated Mines company at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife and five children. Interment will be held in Milwaukee.

MARKUS NOTZ, Ex-'05.

Markus Notz, son of Professor F. A. Notz, Northwestern university, Watertown, died at Rombart, Texas, recently. Mr. Notz, who was 25 years old, studied at Northwestern university and the University of Wisconsin. He was a reporter in Milwaukee for a time, and later held a position as chemist in Philadelphia, being finally compelled to go south because of ill health. Death was due to heart trouble.

ARNE C. LERUM, '03, L '06.

Arne C. Lerum, known in football annals as one of the greatest guards the gridiron has ever seen, died in Madison on June 25 after a long illness with intestinal trouble. He was nearly 32 years old. As a member of the Wisconsin football team Mr. Lerum won all-American honors as guard, and twice made the all-Western team.

A year ago Mr. Lerum resigned his position with the state board of control on account of a serious internal malady that made great inroads upon his physical system. He went to Chicago and was operated upon by Dr. A. J. Ochsner, '84. The operation disclosed a condition precluding further remedial measures, and the victim was told he had but a year to live. He faced the future with resignation and bravery.

Mr. Lerum was born in Bergen, Norway, July 20, 1879. His father, who was an army officer, was killed in the army. His mother, Mrs. Anne Lerum, and sister still live in the native land. Young Arne Lerum came to this country when 14 years old and settled at Cottage Grove. He graduated from the Stoughton academy and then taught country school one year. Then he entered the University of Wisconsin, in 1899, to begin one of the most conspicuous and successful collegiate careers the institution has known. He took a prominent part in university athletics during the four years of his enrollment, especially in football. His powerful frame and aggressiveness made him feared above all others by opponents on the gridiron, and he fully won the national recognition which came to him. Following his graduation in 1903 he was assistant coach and rendered aid of the most valuable kind to later teams.

Mr. Lerum finished the law course in 1906 and then became chief clerk to the state board of control, a position he held for three years. Last fall he won the nomination for clerk of the Circuit court for Dane county, and was elected. He fulfilled the duties of the office faithfully up to a few weeks ago, when his condition became so critical that he was forced to take to his bed, knowing well that his end was not far off.

Mr. Lerum was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and of the Athenaeum Literary society.

The funeral was held June 27, Rev. Holden M. Olsen of Our Savior's Lutheran church officiating.

BOOK REVIEWS

It is interesting to note that the three leading Socialist magazines of the United States are edited by graduates of the University of Wisconsin: The Masses by Horatio Winslow, '04; The Coming Nation by A. M. Simons, '95; and The International Socialist by Charles Kerr, '81.

Robert Carlton Brown, a former special student at Wisconsin, whose short stories in Pearson's, Metropolitan, Munsey's, etc., have created favorable comment, is spending the winter in New Orleans.

Obscene Literature and Constitutional Law, by Theodore Schroeder, '86, legal counsellor to the Medico-Legal Society of New York, compiler of Free Press Authority. Privately Printed for Forensic Uses. New York, 1911.

This interesting volume is a forensic defence of freedom of the press. The author's contention is that the postal and other laws against "obscene and indecent" literature are unconstitutional. Although written primarily for lawyers, many outside the legal profession should find the book of interest.

Leslie W. Quirk, a special student in English with the class of 1904, has placed with the Century Co., New York, for fall publication, the manuscript of a book dealing with college athletics. The story is based upon life at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Quirk has a Wisconsin story in the May Success, and in an early issue of St. Nicholas will have a story centering about the Wisconsin crew in the Poughkeepsie regatta.

From the pen of Glenway Maxon, '73, Milwaukee, has appeared a little pamphlet entitled Is the Referendum anti-Republic? The writer contends that it is, and then proposes an efficient merit system and corrupt practices act as the remedy.

OVER A MILLION A YEAR.

The University of Wisconsin is to get all it asked of the legislature except one of the proposed dormitories and $125,000 instead of $100,000 for extension work.

The bill raises the university mill tax from two-sevenths to three-eighths of a mill, which will raise $1,087,000 a year. The university regents are permitted to use $200,000 remaining in the building fund for building operations in the fiscal year 1912. For the next year, $300,000 is appropriated for buildings, with a like amount for the following year. In each of these two years, $50,000 of this sum is to be used for books and equipment.
