"The university has everywhere silhouetted out service and become the center of inspiration to community life. The personality and ability of the great university President is infinitely more important than the choice of the Governor of the State."

Volume XXI

Madison, Wis., June, 1920

Number 8

The close of the war brought a 40 per cent increase in enrollment to the University of Wisconsin. Last fall 6,872 young men and women matriculated as regular semester students, and the total enrollment of the year will exceed 7,000. Besides being 40 per cent greater than any previous enrollment at the University, this figure is nearly 100 per cent above the enrollment during the war years, 1917-19.

To provide instruction for these 7,000 students during the biennium, 1919-21, the University has an income budget planned for 5,000 students. The dollars which were appropriated for its expenses were figured on pre-war costs and hence are heavily discounted by post-armistice standards of prices and salaries.

The finances of the University are therefore in a critical situation. The University is permitted to use the balance remaining in the operation budget for the years 1917-19. But this will be exhausted by the end of the present academic year. For the second year of the biennium, recourse must be made to the State Board of Education and the Emergency Board for permission to use the unappropriated balance in the University fund income. Even this balance will not adequately finance the University until July, 1921.

The present situation has not come out of a clear sky. It has been developing during the past half dozen years. Since 1913, the University's steadily climbing enrollment has year by year accentuated its problems of inadequate income, inadequate buildings, inadequate teaching staff, and inadequate salaries. These growing difficulties have been brought to a head during the present year.

The war years with their reduced attendance of students and reduced expenditures postponed these difficulties; but in the present year the return to peace, with the accompanying rush of students, and mounting costs of all kinds, has brought about at Wisconsin, as in many other universities, a situation which can only be described as a crisis.

A survey of past experiences and forecasts of the future would indicate that whenever readjustment is made by the legislature, it should be of a permanent nature. The increases in enrollment and costs are permanent; the increases in operating income and appropriations to meet them must also be more than a temporary make-shift.

The outstanding elements in the present situation are these:

1. The present enrollment of about 7,000 is 40 per cent more than any previous enrollment.
2. This enrollment figure, according to every indication, will be maintained during succeeding years, even if it does not continue to climb as it has done in the past.
3. The operating income has increased but little since 1913, while enrollment has been climbing 68 per cent.

4. With the exception of the Physics-Economics building, practically no additions to the buildings and physical plant of the University have been made by the legislature since 1913.

5. The recent adjustment of the salary problem—a problem that has been growing more and more acute since 1909—is only a temporary adjustment. By its very terms the present arrangement extends only until 1921, and large sums will be needed to continue beyond that year.

6. The present year, 1919–20, will exhaust the funds appropriated by the legislature of 1919, including the appropriated balance in the operation budgets of the preceding biennium. Even an inadequate provision for 1920–21 (the second year of the biennium) will more than exhaust the unappropriated balance in the University fund income, available through the Emergency Board.

7. A more serious feature of the situation is that the $\frac{3}{8}$ mill tax levy, which is the basis of the operating income, is no longer adequate.

8. Permanent readjustment of the financing of the University must be made by the legislature or the University of Wisconsin will lose its present position among the state universities.

The National Association of Alumni Secretaries met at Ann Arbor, May 13, 14, and 15. The officers of this organization are: President, Levering Tyson of Columbia, vice-president, A. H. Upham of Miami, second vice-president, R. S. Crawford of Wisconsin, secretary, Charles Jackson of Harvard, treasurer, Walter Humphreys of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The Executive Committee consisted of the president, secretary, and treasurer together with H. E. Keys of Dartmouth, Louis Wilson of North Carolina, and Charles Cason of Vanderbilt.

Meeting of the Ass'n of Alumni Secretaries

The program on Thursday devoted its attention to problems of the Alumni Magazines Associated. Advertising problems were discussed by W. Roy Barnhill. Papers of editorial problems were read by Edwin Oviatt of Yale and W. K. Okeson of Lehigh. Subscription problems were discussed by P. G. Tomlinson of Princeton. The general discussion concerned itself largely with make-up problems. Speakers at the dinner on Thursday evening were: R. W. Sailor of Cornell, Karl Gorham who is with the General Electric Company, O. C. Harn of the National Lead Company, and George Costello of Henri, Hurst, and Macdonald.

On Friday the general subject of alumni activities as affected by the war received major attention. During the morning session C. W. McKibbin spoke on "new" reunions. Agnes Thompson of Kansas discussed "mixed" reunions. A new "serious" side of alumni work was outlined by L. R. Wilson of North Carolina. A. M. Souby of Vanderbilt conducted a symposium on "War Memorials." F. S. Mead of Harvard and H. L. Senseman of Michigan outlined what to include in "War Records" and indicated what they considered the ultimate form and purpose of such war record.

The Michigan Alumni Association acted as host at the luncheon. Judge V. H. Lane, president of the Michigan organization and Dean J. R. Effinger of the Literary College were the principal speakers during the luncheon.

During the afternoon program W. B. Shaw of Michigan and Bertha Ehlers of Bryn Mawr outlined the successful plans in discussing the subject entitled "The alumni fund method of raising funds by means of annual contributions." John Price Jones of Harvard, Florence Snow of Smith, and Mrs. C. E. Macdonald of Northwestern conducted a discussion entitled "The Intensive Campaign Drive for Large Endowments." A. G. Pierrot took charge of a symposium on "What American Alumni Offices Do and What They Can Do."

Among the special conferences one of major interest to state universities was conducted by J. A. Lomax of Texas. This conference concerned itself with "Alumni Problems Peculiar to State Universities."

The delegates were guests of the University of Michigan at an evening dinner during which H. B. Hutchins made the address of welcome. Dean H. M. Bates of the Michigan Law School outlined the "History of the Movement for a Union." G. F. Hurley, General Secretary of the Union, spoke on "The Work of the Union." William Matthews of Virginia talked on "The American University in Europe."

On Saturday J. J. Coss of Columbia discussed "The Employment Problem." Saturday afternoon was given over to a business meeting and to inspection of the University of Michigan.

"Wisconsin was the first state to pay tribute to men of the field and furrow who have contributed unselfishly to the betterment of agricultural thought and practice in their communities, counties, and state. These men have sought without hope of recognition to develop their farms, their homes, and Farmers their farming communities into centers of better farms and better farming. By doing so they have contributed generously to the up-building of the rural life of their respective communities. The self-sacrifice of these men has made possible many of the things we enjoy today and in appreciation of the important services which they have rendered agriculture, the University of Wisconsin annually recognizes a group of such public servants." Recipients of such testimonials this year were Walter Hauser of Mondovi (live stock), Andrew L. Potts of Waupaca (seed potatoes), and Stephen A. Baird of Waukesha (live stock). During the past twelve years thirty-six farm men and women have been thus honored by the University for their contributions to the betterment of agriculture.

THE MEMORIAL BUILDING

BY REGENT WALTER J. KOHLER

THE University of Wisconsin was represented in the World War by nearly 4,000 men and women, of whom over one hundred made the supreme sacrifice. They cannot be recompensed for their patriotism and devotion, but there can and should be a public recognition of the great service they rendered to the world; and such recognition should take the shape of an appropriate testimonial, architecturally beautiful and of enduring form. It is fitting that this memorial should also fill a practical need at the University by providing a community center for men students, which is so urgently needed and which has been the dream of the late President Van Hise.

It is logical that the Alumni Association, comprising within its membership the largest number of those interested in the University, should carry on the active campaign for funds. While there may be some who doubt the feasibility of this plan, all the elements necessary to its success are present.

The project is a most worthy one. A comprehensive plan has been prepared, an efficient organization developed, and the active campaign is now being energetically carried on and will be continued to a final conclusion.

Regent WALTER J. KOHLER

There are some who say that as the University is a State institution, the erection of a memorial should be a State obligation. The University is supported by all the people of the State but less than 5 per cent attend and have any direct benefit therefrom. There is no real reason why the more than 95 per cent should be expected to contribute to a University memorial. A memorial reaches its highest expression of sentiment and appreciation when it is made possible through voluntary contributions. At endowed institutions it is rather expected that the graduates, if they prosper, will in later life do something material for their Alma Mater, and many of them do. The graduates and students of the University of Wisconsin collectively have never done anything big or really fine for the University, and while the conditions are perhaps not analogous to those of an endowed school, nevertheless, there is here an opportunity which calls for the support of all in order that a splendid memorial building can be erected.

This project is going through, but it is not work for the faint-hearted. It calls for men and women with loyalty, faith, energy, and persistence. Among the more than 14,000 alumni, besides all the students and friends of the University, there must be enough with ideals and faith to put this through. The average amount to be subscribed by each individual is so small that those who love their University and appreciate the benefits they have received therefrom will surely subscribe. The women will support this movement. Some have already contributed large amounts—$500 and $1,000—and among these were women who never attended college.

The University has played an important part in the agricultural development of the State, but there has not been the close relation between the University and Wisconsin industries that there might be. With the thought that a closer cooperation between the two would redound to the benefit of the State, the Memorial Union plan was presented to the directors of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association, who unanimously endorsed it and issued a letter to the industries of the State asking them to subscribe in substantial fashion. It has been interesting to observe how generously industry has responded, which indicates not only a keen appreciation of, and pride in our State University, but a recognition of the possibilities of closer cooperation.

"Service" is the motto of the University and it is and should be the motto of all its alumni and students. Here is the first great opportunity to render a great service to their Alma Mater. It was the Wisconsin spirit that animated the 4,000 men and women from the University who participated in the World War. It was this spirit, for which Wisconsin is famous, that inspired the athletic teams in the past, and it is this same Wisconsin spirit—the soul of the University embodied in its thousands of graduates and students—that is needed in this campaign to make it a success.

When this beautiful building is completed, as it will be within two years, it will be a living memorial, an evidence of appreciation of a grateful alumni and student body to those who served and died. It will fill an urgent need at the University and be an inspiration to Wisconsin students for generations to come.

“Your Memorial Union Building campaign letter has reached me even in this far off place and I am glad not to be forgotten,” writes Grace Dillingham, '00, in submitting a pledge to the Memorial Fund from Pyeng Yang, Korea. Her letter, addressed to A. L. Sommers, manager of the Memorial Campaign, continues:

“It will make little difference to the building, but my subscription will necessarily be of such dimension that it will be at once lost among those of my fellow alumni who are amassing plenty of the good material of which substantial buildings are made. But I send mine with as loyal a heart as any of you, I am sure, and want to feel that I own at least a brick in the splendid structure that is to rise in honor of Wisconsin's brave sons. My next furlough will come at the time of my twenty-fifth class reunion and as I have never been able to attend one, I hope to make this one in 1925.”

Commenting on this letter, Mr. Sommers said: “If all the other alumni would respond with the same gracious spirit, it would be an easy matter for us to raise the funds needed for a Memorial Union Building.”

Among other members of the alumni in foreign countries who have responded with subscriptions are the following: F. M. Cardenas, '12, Apartado 11, Saltillo, Coahuilla, Mexico; R. T. Herdegen, '05, Dominion Forge Stamping Co., Walkerville, Ontario; H. G. Pett, '18, 8 Grosvenor Gardens, London, S. W. 1, England; E. E. Watson, '17, Standard Oil Co. of Brazil, Porte Alegrie, Brazil; and Mrs. L. A. Wilmot (Ada Hopkins), '12, 944 Bidwell St., Vancouver, B. C., Canada.

Class Secretaries to the Front

The classes of naughts, fives and tens are expecting to learn soon either through the Magazine or letters from you that arrangements are being made for the quinquennial reunions. Are they? Have you appointed your committees? It is only a few weeks until Commencement.

AKRON

By F. F. HOUSEHOLDER, '13

PROF. THOMAS LLOYD JONES met with 28 members of the U. W. Club of Akron on Feb. 22, at the University Club. This was the first meeting held by our club in 1920. Professor Jones showed us a lot of curves and statistics from Mr. Thorkelson's office, and stirred up some real pep. It was an exceedingly interesting and profitable meeting. Among those in attendance were: Helen Calhoun, '14, Walter Juve, '13, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McQueen (Mary Jillson) '16 and '17, E. C. Noyes, '13, C. E. Granger, '16, J. G. Kerch, '18, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Legreid (Constance Haugen) '08 and '03, F. F. Householder, '13, Fanny McGovern, ex' 17, R. B. North, ex' 16, F. F. Tucker, '18, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Becker (Lorena Schwebs) '17 and '19, S. D. Wonders, '13, Lynette Vandewort, ex' 15, H. A. Davies, H. C. Chamison, ex' 14, R. F. Kitchingman, ex' 20, and Miss Helen Gittoson.

The Akron Club held its second meeting on Saturday, April 24, at the Elks' Club at which twenty-two were present. Dr. Victor Lenher, who had been in Cleveland and Akron, was with us and gave us a real talk after the luncheon. He spoke on present conditions in Madison and prophesied a little as to the future. He spoke in detail of the crowded conditions and by the time he had finished his "rubbering" tour he seemed to think the Akron bunch could appreciate what he had said. The following were present: Herman Legreid, '08; Walter Juve, '13, C. E. Granger, '16, H. C. Chamison, ex' 14, A. F. Schubert, '17, H. M. Jacob, '17, George Becker, '17, W. W. Innes, '15, J. G. CHICAGO ALUMNAE

By ALICE KASSON, '99

The annual meeting of the Chicago alumnae was held on Saturday, May 1, at the Chicago College Club. The luncheon was followed by an interesting program, the speaker of the day being Miss Susanna Cocroft, who outlined the work of the United States Training Corps for the Promotion of the Health of Women. The movement originated in Washington at the time that housing conditions there for girls employed were at their worst, and girls were leaving because of homesickness. Miss Cocroft, at the request of the War Department, successfully raised the morale of these girls by establishing a course of military training. Owing to the valuable effect produced upon the health and spirit of those who took the training it has been deemed advisable to continue the work in various parts of the country. A bill is before Congress now to authorize the use of surplus camp equipment by the women of the organization. The aim is to make the camps self-supporting and a permanent institution. A successful course was given last year at Lake Geneva under Miss Cocroft's supervision.

Several impromptu speeches followed. Lucy Gay, '82, of the French Department of the University, thanked the association for the help it has extended to the French House. Mrs. C. R. Carpenter, (Imogene Hand) '87, of the Board of Visitors, advocated the promotion of winter sports at Madison by the building of shelter houses. Helen Seymour, '14, gave an interesting account of her work abroad as Red Cross canteen worker. Winifred Salisbury, '01, Head Resident of Association House, told of the part the settlement was playing in the Americanization movement. The following officers were elected for the year 1920-1921 by unanimous ballot: Jessie Shepherd, '95, president; Mrs. L. P. Mehlig (Madeline Fess) '14, secretary; Alice Bemis, '18, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Harding (Hattie Hover) '77, Mrs. F. D. Hoag, (Julia Sturtevant) '84, and Mrs. C. B. Hill (Inez Pettibone) '01, directors.

CHICAGO

By C. L. BYRON, '08

At our meeting on April 16, Henry Smith, '77, made good his promise by telling us in a picturesque hour's talk of his recent honeymoon trip to the Hawaiian Islands. It was very interesting to all, and apparently especially so to the abnormally large number of bachelors who were present.

On May 7, J. F. Duncan-Clark, of the Chicago Evening Post, delighted us with another annual visit and talked to us on "Some Fundamental Phases of Industrial Unrest." All present were given some new points of view to seriously consider.

The other three regular weekly meetings and several special meetings were devoted entirely to the Memorial Building Campaign. The campaign has been reorganized with the hope of making more rapid strides toward the desired end.

DULUTH AND SUPERIOR

Alumni and former students of Wisconsin who are residing in Superior and Duluth held their annual dinner on May 1, in the rooms of the Civic and Commerce Association. Dancing followed the dinner.

DENVER

By LILLIAN G. WALL, '17

The Denver Wisconsin alumni held a dinner at the Auditorium Hotel on April 12 at which J. H. Gabriel, '87, acted as toastmaster, to arouse enthusiasm for our Memorial Building Drive. While we have not as yet raised our full amount, we expect to do so before June 1. E. M. Sabin, '93, gave a talk on "The Spirit of the University," W. G. Krape, '05, gave an inspiring toast "to the ladies," A. G. Canar, '16, told about the need of the Memorial building on the Campus, and Mrs. A. C. Bell (Louise Craig) '00, Milwaukee, gave us a very interesting account of the drive in her city. We now have nearly one hundred alumni and former students in Denver, and have decided that we should have semi-monthly luncheons to help keep us all in closer touch with the University. A. G. Canar, '16, was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange these luncheons. The following officers were elected: J. H. Gabriel, '87, permanent president; W. G. Krape, '05, vice-president; A. F. Krippner, '04, treasurer; Lillian G. Wall, '17, secretary.

POCATELLO

By F. C. MCGOWAN, '01

The Pocatello Club held a very successful banquet at the Bannock Hotel on April 8 which was attended by sixteen graduates and former students. Edward Sturgeon, '12, Portland, Ore., was a visitor. It was decided to hold monthly meetings at the grill room of the Bannock and visitors are cordially invited. If any former students expect to be in Pocatello at any time they are requested to notify the secretary. The following officers were elected: Harvey Holmes, '00, president; Mrs. W. G. Phoenix (Ethel Godwin) '06, vice-president; F. C. McGowan, '01, secretary-treasurer.

ATHLETICS

TRACK

IN the first dual meet of the outdoor season, Coach T. E. Jones' track men scored a decisive victory over Northwestern, 99 to 36. The Badgers won every event but two, tying for first in one of those. Individual honors were captured by Guy Sundt, who won the shot put and javelin throw and third in the broad jump; William Maleckar, who won both dashes; and Captain Irving Andrews, who won the high hurdles and finished second in the low hurdles.

Northwestern's only victory was scored in the broad jump, which Strawn won with 21 feet. Linn of Northwestern tied Edwards of Wisconsin for first in the high jump, 5 feet 8 inches. Captain DeSwarte of Northwestern was headed by two Wisconsin men in each of his strong events, the mile and the two-mile. Knollin, Andrews and Stolley, all Wisconsin men, finished one-two-three in the low hurdles.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Maleckar, W, first; Spetz, W, second; Poliak, N, third. Time :10:2. Mile run—Ramsay, W, first; Wall, W, second; DeSwarte, N, third. Time 4:35:3. 120 high hurdles—Andrews, W, first; Strawn, W, second; Knollin, W, third. Time :16:2. Quarter mile—Nash, W, first; Stephenson, N, second; Donaldson, W, third. Time :54:1. Two mile—Brothers, W, first; Dayton, W, second; DeSwarte, N, third. Time :10:11. Half mile—Post, W, first; Crump, W, second; Kilpatrick, N, third. Time 2:08:4. High jump—Edwards, W, and Linn, N, tied for first; Mobley, N, third. Height 5 feet 8 inches. Broad jump—Strawn, N, first; Townley, N, second; Sundt,

W, third. Distance 21 feet. Javelin throw—Sundt, W, first; Mecartney, W, second, Distance 107 feet. Shot put—Sundt, W, first; Townley, N, second; Kelsey, N, third. Distance 40 feet, 7½ inches. Discus throw—Mecartney, W, first; Townley, N, second; Kelsey, W, third. Distance 125 feet, 1 inch. 220 low hurdles—Knollin, W, first; Andrews, W, second; Stolley, W, third. Time :25:4. 220-yard dash—Maleckar, W, first; Spetz, W, second; Kelsey, W, third. Time :22:2. Pole vault—Endres, W, first; Townley, N, second; Davis, N, third. Height 11 feet, 6 inches.

A quartet of mile runners were Wisconsin's sole entry in the Drake Relays. The Badgers lost to Illinois' four-mile team by three yards, in a thrilling race in which the lead was never more than two or three strides. The Illini ran the distance in 18 minutes, 19 2-5 seconds. The record in this event, 18 minutes, 3 2-5 seconds, established by Harvey, Schardt, Benish, and Merrill of Wisconsin, still stands unbeaten in the conference. Each of the Wisconsin runners in the 1920 race ran his mile better than 4:35, their time being practically identical. The four-mile team was composed of Wayne Ramsay, Wellington Brothers, Mark Wall, and Willard Dayton. Wisconsin's mile relay team did not compete because of the ineligibility of one member of the quartet, who wrote off a "con" examination the morning of the meet.

BASEBALL

An attack of scarlet fever took "Bill" Williams, Wisconsin's star pitcher, and a sprained ankle threw out George Wiligrod, first baseman, just at the outset of the Big Ten baseball race. As a result, the Badgers lost four of their first six games. After the first two defeats "Rowdy" Elliott became eligible and his shortstopping and hitting contributed to two victories, but on the next trip he injured his ankle and the winning streak ceased abruptly.

In the opening game at Bloomington, Wisconsin lost to Indiana by a 7 to 6 score, the game being played in a cold rain. "Sam" Ogle started to pitch for Wisconsin and things looked well when his mates batted in four runs in the third, but in the sixth inning Indiana tied the score at 5-all and Miller relieved him, losing in the last three innings. The score:

Wisconsin.....	0 0 4 0 0 1 0 0	1-6	7 4
Indiana.....	1 1 0 0 0 3 1 0	1-7	10 1

Batteries—Ogle, Miller and Davey; Kunkle and Dennis

The following day the same two pitchers failed to last before Purdue at Lafayette, the Boilermakers winning by a 9 to 5 count. Miller was driven out of the box with a six-run rally in the sixth inning, and Ogle relieved him. Both teams hit hard and the fielding was none too good.

Wisconsin.....	2 1 0 0 2 0 0 0	0-5	8 3
Purdue.....	0 0 2 0 0 6 0 1	0-9	13 2

Batteries—Miller, Ogle, and Davey, Barry; Wagner and Roberts.

Wisconsin then returned home for two games with Indiana, and won both contests by 4 to 1 scores, Miller pitching the first game and Ogle the second. With the return of Elliott, Coach Kent switched Farrington to second base, playing Elliott at short. Captain Emanuel, Caesar and Snow played the outfield, and later Lyman replaced Snow in right. "Tony" Zulfer switched from the pitching department to first base, which he filled very acceptably, and Philip Falk remained on third base. In the first game, Elliott drove in two of Wisconsin's runs and Farrington the other two. The score:

Wisconsin.....	1 0 0 2 1 0 0 0	x-4	6 1

Batteries—Miller and Davey; Kunkle and Rauschenbach.

The second game was close and hard fought, and Wisconsin won it in an unusual way. Each scored a run in early innings, and the game was nip and tuck until the eighth. Then Jeffries, the Indiana pitcher, weakened and passed four batters in a row, forcing in what proved the winning run. Catcher Davey then drove two more home for good measure. The score:

Batteries—Ogle and Davey; Jeffries, Walker and Rauschenbach.

The following week-end the Badgers traveled again, and lost two games. Miller and Fish of Ohio State indulged in a pitching battle, and the Wisconsin men lost 2 to 1. The score:

Ohio State.....	0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0	x-2	7 2

Batteries—Miller and Davey; Fish and Huffman.

Michigan shut out the Badgers for the first time this season, in the game at Ann Arbor. The champions won, 5 to 0. Wisconsin hit Schleidler for seven safeties, but were helpless with men on bases. Ogle was hit nine times, the Michigan hits being bunched to far better advantage. In this game Elliott turned his ankle sliding to second in the second inning, and Farrington returned to short field and Davey went to second base, Snow returning to right field again. Score:

Michigan.....	0 0 1 1 0 3 0 0	x-5	9 1

Batteries—Ogle, Davey; Schleidler and Geneback.

 PROF. J. E. OLSON of the University prepared a paper entitled Lincoln in Wisconsin for the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, held at Greencastle, Ind., April 29–May 1. Tradition has it that Lincoln visited Port Washington in the fall of 1835 and made arrangements to return the following spring to practice law there. He was prevented from returning however because of the unusually heavy rains in the spring. Professor Olson has made a special study of Lincoln's life at this period and believes that Lincoln's trip into Wisconsin really took place. Professor Olson spoke at Grand Forks, N. D., on April 30, on Ibsen's Brand, and on the following evening spoke at a banquet arranged for the purpose of raising funds for the Colonel Hans C. Heg monument to be erected in Madison. Colonel Heg formed the Fifteenth Wisconsin regiment at Camp Randall during the Civil War. This regiment was composed almost entirely of Scandinavian men. It took part in the bloody battle of Chickamauga where Colonel Heg was killed. On May 14, Professor Olson attended the annual meeting of The Society for the Advancement of Scandinavian Study, held at Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn., when he read a paper on The Duality of Jonas Lie and his Authorship.

Class Reunion June 20-23

It has been decided that MONDAY, JUNE 21, is to be the day for our class reunion. Plans of the different committees for your entertainment are completed. To make the occasion all that we hope for, YOU must be present. We shall be looking for you "bright and early Monday morning." Do not disappoint us.—F. C. ROGERS.

The Class of '85 will have dinner Monday night of commencement week at the Madison Club as the guest of T. E. Lyons, who five years ago extended a like civility—that time, however, at the University Club. The old Fitch homestead on State Street has been optioned for members who may not have quarters elsewhere. A general rendezvous for Monday afternoon will be at the residence of Mrs. F. C. Sharp, Mendota Court, and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Brandenburg, Langdon Street, '85'ers will be welcomed at all times. An attendance of eighteen or twenty is expected. This class, wholly under the presidency of Dr. John Bascom, who left the University in 1887, will participate with special enthusiasm in the dedication of Bascom Hall, Tuesday forenoon. In the class of '85 were graduated 50 members—12 women and 38 men, not including laws. The class has continued a round-robin letter, of growing historic interest, for each five-year period, six printed pamphlets being out, with a seventh coming by commencement.—O. D. BRANDENBURG.

"Surely the matter of salaries paid in the U. W. must lie heavily on the minds and hearts of her graduates. I have wondered whether a number of the MAGAZINE devoted entirely to expression on this vital subject and put in the hands of every State legislator would be of moment and if it would be practical. I do not know, but I am hoping that the State will awaken to the fact that this University of Wisconsin, her source of greatest strength and culture and progress, cannot long continue under present conditions of salary. A state should not look for or await private donations to maintain her own child."—Mrs. H. J. TAYLOR (Rose E. Schuster), 1711 Douglas St., Sioux City, Iowa.

W. C. RUEDIGER, who has been a member of the faculty of George Washington University, Washington, D.C., since 1907, writes: "I think every alumnus of U. W. ought to put personal modesty aside sufficiently at least once a year to let other alumni know what he is doing, even though he isn't doing anything different. There is no feature of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE more interesting than the alumni notes. Why not divide the alumni alphabetically into ten groups and let the members of each group report upon themselves for the ten successive numbers of the MAGAZINE?"

ALVIN MEYERS writes that his address has been changed to Olden, Texas.—R. WILLIAMSON, national secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for the Republic of Mexico, wrote us recently: "I have the enjoyable task of supervising the four associations already established in the Republic, and am making plans to organize fifteen other cities during the next five years. We have associations in Mexico City, Monterrey, Chihuahua, and Tampico with about 3000 members in the four associations. In spite of the uncertain conditions throughout the country the calls from the leading cities for the association to be organized are almost irresistible. In Mexico City the membership is 1700 and the five-story building is over-crowded. Two members of the physical department staff hold professorships in the National Preparatory School of 800 students and with five other physical department instructors trained in the Y. M. C. A. they are doing splendid work. In Monterrey the largest work of the Y. M. C. A. is its extension educational and city playground work which has the support and backing of the city and school authorities."—C. R. Clark, '07, sent us the following news item: "G. A. ROGERS has recently closed a deal with the U. S. Forest Service for a tract of government timber in the Kaniksn National Forest, Washington. The estimated amount of timber is about twenty-five million feet and the value is a little over $100,000. Mr. Roger's camps in the woods have reached a perfection seldom seen in the northwest. The bunk houses are large and roomy, well ventilated and equipped with electric lights. Shower baths are furnished for the men. Mr. Rogers has also purchased a large modern saw mill at Cusick, Wash., and will engage in the lumber business in this locality indefinitely. He has recently moved from Newport to Spokane where he was engaged in the retail lumber business. Mrs. Rogers was Cora Bissell, '06. They have two children."—E. F. LEGGE, 1205 N. F. MUSIL, treasurer of the H. L. Doherty Co., New York, was one of the important speakers at a recent conference held in Philadelphia under the auspices of the Technology Clubs Associated. Attending the conference were representatives of more than one hundred individual corporations and more than three hundred educational institutions. The purpose of the conference was to devise a plan whereby the educational institutions might turn out young men capable of holding the high-salaried positions big business has to offer. Regarding the plan Mr. Musil says: "The movement to coordinate the ideas of industrial requirements and the university's human product is receiving considerable attention, and I believe the plan can be made very far-reaching. The movement is not a criticism of educational institutions, but a frank analysis of past experience and an earnest effort to look into the future and meet its requirements."

WALTER SPRECHER, cashier of the State Bank of Independence, has been elected president of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association. He becomes the youngest president of the association by quite a number of years, and is the youngest president in any of the associations in the United States. The Wisconsin Bankers' Association is composed of 1007 members, and is considered one of the very "top notches." They have possibly accomplished more for the benefit of the State and dairy interests than like associations in any other state. Mr. Sprecher has been very active in banking circles since his graduation from the University. He was the first vice-president of Wisconsin of the newly formed State Bank Section of the American Bankers' Association. He was instrumental in the organization of the Trempeleau County Bankers' Association, over which he presided for three years. He also was president and secretary of his group and served the Wisconsin Bankers' Association as a member of their council for three years. Last year he was elected vice-president and became its president this year. He is also now serving on the American Bankers' Association Committee on Forms. He was one of the Committee of Five that was sent to St. Louis to represent his state at the organization of the United States Council of the State Bankers.—PROF. J. L. SAMMIS, of the College of Agriculture at Wisconsin, conducted a branch dairy school for Swiss cheesemaking at Monroe for two weeks during February. The school was such a success that it is planned to repeat it next winter.—BENJAMIN READ is in the engineering department of Dodge Bros. Motor Car Co., Detroit, Mich.—F. M. JOHNSON is senior highway engineer in the employ of the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture. He may be addressed c/o State Highway Dept., Austin, Tex.—KATHERINE S. MINCH may be addressed at 1939 S. 48th Ct., Cicero, Ill.—HARRY STOCK's address is P.O. Box 345, Jacksonville, Fla.—CONRAD HOFFMANN, JR., is spending the next four months in Europe together with Dr. John R. Mott, visiting universities in all countries in the interest of the World's Christian Student Federation. They will finish the tour by attending the conference of the W. C. S. F. in Stockholm, Sweden, in August, returning to this country at the end of August.

Pettijohn, '11, director of the Extension Division of Indiana University and former director of the Division of Educational Extension in the U. S. Bureau of Education—Mr. Pettijohn is now on leave of absence at Camp Grant, where he is planning some courses in civics for the army; of Donald Du Shane, '16, who is now superintendent of schools at Columbus, Ind.; O. H. Williams, State Normal School Inspector for Indiana, who spent a summer at Wisconsin; F. S. Bogardus, professor of history at the Terre Haute State Normal, and myself — a Wisconsin graduate and present secretary of the Indianapolis Extension Center of Indiana University. Educators from all parts of the country are writing us that our magazine is unique and that it can be of great service at this time. Our subscriptions are coming in with an encouraging regularity, in spite of the fact that we have almost no agents at work and are planning our main campaign for the teachers' institutes of next August. The magazine is, needless to say, not regarded as a commercial venture, but as an adventure in journalism. It was inspired by the need of a journal for the discussion of issues generally, and of Indiana educational issues in particular. We already have on our mailing list over 70% of the school superintendents in Indiana."—ALMINA THEOBALD, 206 E. Mifflin St., Madison, is a bank clerk at the First National Bank.

NYNTEENTEN REUNIONJune 20-21-22-23*Emmett A. Donnelly Reunion Chairman*1032 Wells Bldg., Milwaukee

Immediately after "Wham Jr." escaped the Printer's Devil, and bluffed Burleson, and scampered into the homes and offices of all Nynteenteners—the cash came back. Oodles of it, Old Dears, oodles of it! Fives and tens—and one twenty (from a married man too)—and they say our class hasn't prospered! Before Attorney General Mitchell Palmer came out of his dugout on May 2nd we had sufficient funds to do all the regular stunts of "reuning" groups. Can you imagine 1910 confining its genius to "regular stunts"? Allah ask me. I cannot. Mark this plot as a sample of irregularity: The well known physicians and surgeons "Bud" Culver and Jack Wilce (teetotalers by temperament), have been in personal conference with one Major Dalrymple of Chicago and Iron County, Michigan. They advise us by wire that their prescription limit of 200 has been passed with an extra "O" for June. Now just around the corner from the "Co-Op," Ferdie has opened a bang up cut rate drug store. J. Allen Simpson, chairman of the 1910 Beverage Committee (incidentally Chief Federal Prohibition Agent for Madison) will guard that drug store like the pinkest of Pinkerton's picked pickets and no one without a "Culver-Wilce" order will be permitted near the place.

There you are.

Have you received all the class publications—postals, posters, and magazines? If not, advise Donnelly now.

"I have been appointed, by the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, superintendent of backyard and vacant lot gardens in the 21st and 22nd wards of Chicago, with some gardening also in the sixth and seventh wards. Just now I am working with the U. S. School Garden Army making waste lands along the Lake Shore Drive produce vegetables to help in this year's food shortage. I find horticulture a very splendid and fascinating profession for women. I have been in three branches since I left college; i. e., orchard work, greenhouse (with Vaughans, Chicago) and vegetable gardening. I find plant propagation, particularly work in floriculture under glass, appeals to me most, although this gardening is very interesting. I intend to go East, probably to Boston, in September, to continue this work, as more college women are in the profession there than here in the middle West. I meet many Wisconsinites each week, and do enjoy hearing the Wisconsin 'hello.' I read the ALUMNI MAGAZINE the minute it comes and wish I were back there. Surely will be back with '17 in 1922, though I doubt if I can make it this year. There is no place like Wisconsin."—It is probable that Wisconsin will be represented at the Olympic games in Belgium next summer by ARLIE MUCKS, the world's premier discus thrower.—G. H. JENKINS JR. is employed in the By-Products Dept., Swift and Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago.—R. L. WADSWORTH is an assistant superintendent with the Wadsworth Watch Case Co., Dayton, Ky.

COME HOME AGAIN

A YEAR AGO WE ASKED THE ALUMNI TO RETURN FOR COMMENCEMENT IN ORDER TO CELEBRATE PEACE AND TO COMMEMORATE THOSE WHO DIED IN THE WORLD WAR. THIS YEAR WE ARE FACING THE PROBLEMS OF PEACE AND FIND THEM QUITE AS DIFFICULT AS THOSE PRESSED UPON US BY THE WAR. IN THESE TIMES OF CONFUSED ISSUES AND OF CHANGING IDEALS, THE UNIVERSITY FEELS MORE THAN EVER THE NEED OF A CLOSE UNION OF ALL THOSE WHO BELONG TO HER—THE UNION IN PURPOSE AND SPIRIT OF THOSE ON THE CAMPUS AT MADISON WITH THOSE WHO CARRY HER MESSAGE AND HER SPIRIT FROM THAT CAMPUS INTO THE LARGER WORLD. DO NOT YOU, OUR ALUMNI, ALSO LOOK BACK TO ALMA MATER FROM YOUR WIDELY SCATTERED HOMES AND YOUR VARIOUS OCCUPATIONS? DO YOU NOT ALSO FEEL THE NEED OF RENEWING THE PERSONAL TOUCH WITH THOSE YEARS HERE AND WITH THOSE INFLUENCES WHICH HAVE MEANT SO MUCH TO YOU? IF SO, COME HOME AGAIN ONCE MORE AND MEET WITH US FOR COMMENCEMENT.

May 15, 1920.

CAMPUS NOTES

The short course started in 1885 with an attendance of nineteen students. Since the beginning of the short course there have been 5,540 students who have taken this course. These short course students are an important factor in developing the agriculture of the State, as the boys return to their home farms with new ideas and new inspiration for the development of the home farm and the home community. The first-year class (1919-1920) was the largest in the history of the course, its members representing fourteen states and nearly every county in the State of Wisconsin.

President E. A. Birge spoke on "The University and Its Functions" at the 1820-1920 Centennial Educational Conference held at Indiana University recently.

The annual senior "Swing-out" will take place on June 4. The program will take place on Lincoln Terrace.

Cap Night, at which time the freshmen will be allowed to burn their green headpieces, will occur on May 28.

A post of the American Legion has been formed at the University.

Omicron Nu, honorary home economics sorority, held its national convention in Madison, April 14 to 17.

The Men's Glee Club, consisting of 28 members, recently returned from a concert trip throughout the State. Entertainments were given in Milwaukee, Juneau, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, and Kohler.

About forty students in journalism at the University visited Chicago on April 15 to inspect places of interest to journalists. Professors W. G. Bleyer, '96, and G. M. Hyde, '12, were in charge of the party. Among the places visited were the Western Newspaper Union, The Barnes-Crosby Engraving Company the Associated Press office, the City News Bureau, the Chicago Tribune, and the Chicago American.

Miss Margaret H'Doubler, '10, instructor in dancing and physical education at Wisconsin, presented sixteen of her pupils in interpretative dancing at an exhibition held at the University of Illinois, April 16.

The Law School celebrated its fiftieth anniversary on April 29 with a banquet attended by 140 professors, alumni, and students.

Prof. Arthur Beatty of the English Department at Wisconsin has been awarded the Officer d'Academie, the honorary decoration for men of letters who rendered special service to the French government during the war. Professor Beatty enlisted in the educational work as a member of the Y. M. C. A. forces in France in September, 1918.

About 206 professors, instructors and assistants will conduct the courses of the 22nd summer session at Wisconsin, according to the preliminary announcement recently issued. The 1920 summer session will open on June 28 and will close on August 6, except in the Law School, whose session will continue until Sept. 3.

Prof. Victor Lenher of Wisconsin, who addressed a gathering of 250 chemists at the Cleveland section of the American Chemical Society, states that an informal census taken at the meeting shows that nearly 75 graduates of the chemistry course at Wisconsin are engaged as chemists in and around Cleveland, Ohio.

Wisconsin rural economists occupy many important positions on committees of the American Association for Agricultural Legislation. Richard T. Ely, economist at Wisconsin, is secretary of the association and chairman of the Committee on Land Settlement, and Alonzo Cox of Madison is the assistant secretary. The treasurer of the association is B. H. Hibbard, '02, rural economist at the College of Agriculture. He is also chairman of the Committee on Food Production, Consumption and Price. H. C. Taylor, '02, formerly of the College of Agriculture and now chief of the Bureau of Farm Management in the United States Department of Agriculture, is a member of the Committee on Land Settlement. J. D. Black, '09, now a member of the faculty of Minnesota, is chairman of the Committee on Taxation of which John R. Commons, widely known authority on labor problems, is also a member. J. Clyde Marquis, formerly editor of the Agricultural Experiment Station here, is chairman of the Committee on Roads of which Prof. R. H. Hess, '08, of Madison, is a member. D. D. Lescohier of the University is chairman of the Committee on Agricultural Labor, and G. W. Gorster of Kentucky, formerly of the College of Agriculture, is chairman of the Committee of Farmer's Organizations.

Prof. M. S. Slaughter of the Latin Department at Wisconsin lectured in Denver, Colo., on April 21.

Ninety women from the bacteriological and textile classes of the home economics course spent a week-end in Milwaukee recently visiting some of the industrial plants of that city. Among places visited were: the city Health Department, the National Biscuit Company, the Muirdale Sanatorium, the Plankinton Packing Company, the Gridley Dairying Company, the Reed Shirtwaist Factory, the Milwaukee Worsted Mills, and the Western Worsted Mills.

Gladys Borchers, a junior in the College of Letters and Science, won second place for Wisconsin in the Northern Oratorical League Contest held in Madison on May 7. Her oration was entitled "The Unfinished Task." J. J. Goshkins, representing the University of Michigan, won first place with his oration, "The Nation's Struggle for Life."

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary professional journalistic fraternity for women, held its second national convention in Madison, April 29, 30 and May 1. Sarah Spensley, '18, who was on the staff of the Minneapolis Tribune for some time after graduation but is now a free lance writer in the fiction field, was elected vice-president of the organization. Other Badger alumnae attending the convention were: Harriet N. Pettibone, '19, now on the staff of the Milwaukee Journal; Mrs. A. C. Campbell (Bernice Stewart) '16, of New York City, formerly assistant editor of the University Press Bureau; Lois McDonald, '19, Beaver Dam; Mrs. B. S. Sweet (Camilla Haley) '14, Oakfield; Louise Ludlum, '19, at present on the staff of the Sioux City (Ia.) Journal; Florence Collins, '19, on the staff of the Orange Judd Farmer, Chicago; Lucy Rogers, '18, assistant editor of the University Press Bureau, and Mrs. Blandford Jennings (Anna Heise) '17, instructor in French at the University.

A Hoover Club of eighty students was organized at the University recently. Magnus Swenson, '80, was the principal speaker. A fund was started to send a delegate of the University organization to New York for the Hoover Convention.

A printing laboratory has been added to the equipment of the four-year course in journalism at Wisconsin as a means of familiarizing students preparing for newspaper work and advertising with the principles of typography.

The National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations will be held in Madison, June 8 to 16, with 250 delegates in attendance. Plans for the convention are being made by Prof. M. V. O'Shea.

A Wisconsin Classical Association was recently formed at a meeting of classical teachers in Madison. The purpose of their organization is to increase school interest in the classics. They will cooperate with the Wisconsin Association of Modern Language Teachers. Prof. Grace Goodrich, Ripon College, was elected president of the organization and Roland Zinns, '03, Milwaukee West Division high school, is secretary-treasurer.

William Severns, assistant field engineer for the New Jersey Zinc Co., Palmerton, Pa., has recently been appointed assistant professor of mechanical engineering in the University of Wisconsin Extension Division. Mr. Severns was graduated from Kansas in 1914 and received the degree of master of science in 1915. He has taught engineering at the University of Kansas, Purdue, New Hampshire, State College, and Illinois. He has also had experience with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, the Illinois Central railway, and the B. F. Sturtevant Co., Boston.

More than 1000 square miles about 8000 eighty-acre Wisconsin farms will be visited by the men of the State Soil Survey this summer. The work will be in Adams, Washington, Walworth, and Green counties. The United States Department of Agriculture is cooperating.

The Wisconsin Law Review, a quarterly journal, will be published by a board of faculty editors, the first number appearing next October. Prof. W. H. Page is editor-in-chief, and H. S. Richards, H. L. Smith, '81, E. A. Gilmore, O. S. Rundell, '10, J. D. Wickhem, '16, of the Law School are the editors. The magazine will deal mainly with questions of primary interest to the Wisconsin bar, but other legal problems will also be treated. A field for original research work by the law students afforded by the review is intended to fill a long felt need.

Prof. Thomas Chamberlin, of the University of Chicago, and formerly president of our University, received the honorary degree of doctor of science from Wisconsin during the exercises commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters, on April 23. Professor Chamberlin delivered an address upon the founding of the Wisconsin Academy, of which he was one of original incorporators. Among the other speakers at the meetings were President Edward A. Birge, Pres. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia, Prof. John M. Coulter, University of Chicago, Prof. C. E. Allen, '99, of Wisconsin, Bishop Samuel Fallows, '59, Pres. M. A. Brannon, Beloit College, Prof. William Trelease, '02, University of Illinois, and Supt. Joseph Schafer, '94, Wisconsin Historical Society.

Prof. Thomas Chamberlin.

In presenting Dr. Chamberlin for the degree of Doctor of Sciences, Dr. C. K. Leith, '97, said:

"It is my privilege to present Dr. Thomas Chowder Chamberlin for the degree of Doctor of Sciences in recognition of his distinguished services as a teacher, as an administrator, and as an investigator.

"As a teacher of geology, Dr. Chamberlin's influence has been felt for nearly fifty years. His pupils are found throughout the world; the large number occupying distinguished scientific and administrative positions is one measure of the success of his efforts in this field. In terms of scientific achievement, the influence exerted through his pupils is even more striking. Dr. Chamberlin should be proud of the devotion and respect of the students who have derived their stimulus from him. His active teaching ceased a year ago, but his inspiration is still felt in the institution where he is now devoting his time solely to investigation.

"As an administrator, Dr. Chamberlin developed the Geological Survey of Wisconsin into an effective scientific organization.

"As President of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Chamberlin was a pioneer in the organization of the State University along modern lines. He laid the foundation for much of the success of this institution, particularly in scientific and applied branches of learning.

"At Chicago University he organized in 1892 a Department of Geology which brought together a most remarkable group of men. Almost from the start this department has been generally recognized in the United States as the strongest of its kind.

"Dr. Chamberlin has been successful not only as an administrator, but as a councilor in administrative matters. He has participated in the formulation of general educational policies of the University of Chicago, in the direction of the destinies of Beloit College as a trustee, in the planning of the work of the Wisconsin and Illinois Geological Surveys, of which he has been a consulting geologist in the organization of glacial studies as consulting geologist of the United States Geological Survey, in various activities of the Carnegie Institution, and finally as an organizer of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters, which today celebrates its fiftieth anniversary.

"Noteworthy as are his achievements along educational and administrative lines, Dr. Chamberlin is known most widely and permanently for his geological research. Beginning with local problems of the geology of Wisconsin, his interest gradually extended to broader fields and problems. His maps of Wisconsin geology, his reports on its glacial geology, on its artesian wells, and on its lead and zinc deposits have scarcely been surpassed in accuracy of record or in practical usefulness. It is probably not too much to say that in the forty years since the publication of the four reports of the First Wisconsin Survey under his direction, no equivalent contribution to the science of geology has come from the state surveys in the United States.

"The local glacial studies of Wisconsin led to a general study of glacial deposits in North America, Europe, and Greenland. His inferences as to conditions and causes in Wisconsin were found to have a wide application and were fundamental to the development of the science of glacial geology. Glacial investigations involved consideration of climatic factors, and in turn of dynamic, astronomical, and other elements of the problem.

"Logical progress of reasoning along inductive lines of this kind brought Dr. Chamberlin to a consideration of the origin of the earth and of the origin of life—great ultimate problems of geology. He showed conclusively that the nebular hypothesis, which had stood almost unchallenged for a century, was inadequate. His planetesimal hypothesis, offered as a substitute, has now taken the leading place in the thought of scientists. The imagination, variety of attack, and organizing genius shown by Dr. Chamberlin in this field have had few parallels in science. The joint investigations by astronomers, physicists, mathematicians, and geologists, thus initiated are unique in method and results. Artificial boundaries between sciences do not seem to exist for Dr. Chamberlin. His range of varied effort has brought him into the class of the great pioneer naturalists and philosophers.

"Of all of Dr. Chamberlin's scientific contributions, the one which perhaps most touches the thought and imagination is his well based conception of past uniformity in the physical conditions of the earth, and the probability of the continuation of these conditions so far in the future as to allow almost an eternity for the working out of ideas and influences which man may start—a conception in sharp contrast to the old catastrophic hypothesis—and a conception of far reaching consequence not only to physical science, but to philosophy and religion.

"Today Professor Chamberlin is easily the ranking geologist of the United States, and in his special fields, of the world. As a man, his consistently gentle, kindly and helpful attitude has given him an equally high position in the hearts of his fellows."

In conferring the degree Pres. Edward A. Birge said:

"I assume today the privilege of adding to the official formula which it is at once my pleasure and my duty to pronounce; and my words are of a personal character rather than a supplement to the review of your scientific achievements so well set forth by Dr. Leith.

"I can not forget that our friendship began at a meeting of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, something more than forty-four years ago; nor will either of us ever forget the friend through whom we were brought together—the lamented Irving. You were then a young professor in Beloit College, just entering on your first great scientific task—the direction of the Wisconsin Geological Survey. I was a still unfledged instructor, beginning my teaching in the University.

"Through all the years that have passed since 1876 my life and my work have lain close to yours, as a teacher and student in a cognate department of a neighboring college, and, not least, during five happy years, as a member of the faculty over which you presided. I have therefore been so placed that I have not only known the long record of your labor and success in the fields of education and of science; I have seen and I have in some degree shared the influences which for so many years came to this State through your presence here as a living and working personality.

"And when the central place of your work was removed from our university to its next great neighbor, when your scientific outlook enlarged so as to include not only the earth but the heavens, I could still appreciate, perhaps more justly than younger men could do, the increasing fruit of your labors for our State and our University and the continued presence with us of your personality.

"In you, Sir, the Wisconsin Academy recognizes eminence and distinction in science; we take pride in the achievements of a fellow citizen; we are grateful to him for increased knowledge, for a wider vision, for a deeper insight into nature. But today and on this occasion there is something more: We look back on a half-century of your life among us; we see not only new fields won for science during those years; we see also in you constantly present with us the spirit and temper of science; and as you spoke to us just now we heard not merely, or indeed chiefly, the record of scientific work told by one of the workers, we heard rather the voice of one through whom science had for a half century been exerting a vital influence among us; we felt, as we have felt so often before, the presence of the man and the influence of his life.

"Such thoughts and such feelings were present when the Wisconsin Academy proposed that some special recognition be made of the completion of your half century in the Academy which you helped to found. With this sense of personal gratitude the University acted—the university so greatly advanced and enriched by you.

"It is therefore with a peculiar pleasure that I now comply with the request of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, with the recommendation of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, and the vote of its regents. By the authority committed to me, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Science, and in testimony thereof, I present you with this diploma."

Professors and instructors appeared on the stage in amateur theatricals last month when the Curtain Club, newly organized dramatic organization at the University, presented Oscar Wilde's comedy, "The Importance of Being Ernest." Parts in the first production were played by Prof. O. J. Campbell, Prof. E. H. Byrne, Horatio Winslow, A. K. Small, Miss Jane Butt, Miss Bertha Ochsner, Mrs. C. R. Fish, and Miss Lucile Hatch. C. S. Fernberg, of the English Department, designed some of the costumes.

BOOK NOTES

Alfred Noyes' A Song of Sherwood, arranged by Linda Rider, '04, was published in the May issue of the Popular Educator. The dramatization is accompanied by directions for lighting, costuming, and staging.

Thucydides, with an English translation by C. Foster Smith, Professor of Greek and Classical Philology, emeritus (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.) The volume contains Book I and Book II of the history of the Peloponnesian war, and is one of the new volumes of the Loeb Classical Library. Professor Smith's translation is arranged with the Greek version on the left-hand page and the English corresponding on the opposite page.

A fact:

Day-in and day-out at the St. Charles—one of the finest hotels in the Crescent City—Fatima outsells all other high-grade cigarettes. This steady leadership is significant of the fast-growing preference for this "just enough Turkish" blend. Fatima, so men have discovered, retains that smooth Turkish flavor, while lacking entirely the oily heaviness or over-richness of straight Turkish brands.
