This, our fifth biennial issue of the Madison City Directory, we present to the public, with additional improvements, which we hope will meet with approval. New additions are: Married ladies' christian names, following the husbands; legal holidays; names of all presidents and clerks of the village, and mayors and clerks of the city to and including present officers; and synopsis of fish and game laws. We also call attention to the city ordinance regarding the numbering of houses and penalty attached.

On page 11 will be found a cut of the first house or cabin in Madison, erected by Eben Peck in 1836 on what is now No. 128 South Butler street; the oak tree in front of the cabin is still standing on the property now owned by Wm. A. Oppel.

The population of the city shows a gradual and healthy increase; the book contains 9,884 names, exclusive of university students. Allowing a deduction of 942 for public buildings, schools, churches, etc., we still have 8,942 names. Using 2 as a multiple, gives us 17,884; adding 1,000 students, shows a population of 18,884.

To those wishing to learn who the occupants of any particular building are, we respectfully refer them to the Patent Numerical Directory comprising the last ten pages of this work, the arrangement of which is most simple, i. e., all streets are in alphabetical order, the house numbers are represented by large figures numerically arranged under each street, and the small figures after each house number cite to the pages in the general directory on which the name or names of occupants of buildings are to be found.

Owing to the change of residence of so many since the compilation of this work, we suggest to all who have occasion to use it that they first consult pages 13 and 14.

Thanking the business men of Madison for their liberal patronage, we remain,

Respectfully,
ANGELL & HASTREITER,
Publishers.

ANGELL'S NUMERICAL DIRECTORY INDEX.

(Patented Dec. 31, 1895.)

A complete index of all house numbers found on the various streets and avenues in the city and Wingra Park. The streets and avenues are alphabetically arranged; under each, the house numbers (large figures) follow in numerical order as they appear on the various blocks and residences, commencing at the lowest number and continuing to the highest. After each house number will be found numbers, shown by exponents or small figures; these cite the page or pages in the general directory on which the names of the occupants of a building are to be found, and they follow in this order: Main occupant and his or her roomers and servants, thus (16<sup>105 165</sup>); co-occupant and family, with the letter z prefixed to the pages cited (z<sup>177 280</sup>) those occupying the basement and family, with the letter u prefixed to the pages cited (u<sup>126 43</sup>); those residing over and family, with the letter o prefixed to the pages cited (o<sup>239</sup>), and those living in a building to the rear of another (without a number), by prefixing the letter r to the pages cited, thus (r<sup>434 76 116</sup>). Second and third floors in business blocks are shown thus (b<sup>62 c 85</sup>, etc.). Vacant buildings are designated by the letter v affixed to the house number, thus (245v).

In looking up occupants of buildings, thoroughly scan the pages cited to, as often two or more of the same, or of a different name, will be found on the same page. In a city of this size one citation covers all members of the family of the same name. The four avenues which extend from the Capitol square and Washington street in the western part of the city are the starting points for numbering; the Philadelphia system is used. i. e., the first number on the first block therefrom is number 1; the first number on the second block 101, and so on, the odd numbers appearing on the east and south side of streets.
