Sixty years

have brought many changes to Wisconsin . . . 1885 . . . $1895 \ldots 1905 \ldots 1915 \ldots 1925 \ldots 1935 \ldots$ and now 1945. The story of those years is sketched in the six sections of this anniversary Badger . . . but the emphasis is on today ...for this is a record of your year.

First, the residences . . . where you made your first friends and where you spend much of your time . . .

Next, the activities which attracted you and provided outlets for your varied interests . . .

Then, athletics, which are important to both participant and spectator as an expression of loyalty and spirit ...

The colleges and their administration, the classrooms and the professional groups where you listen, learn, and contribute, are next . . .

Then come the military groups which have become such an important part of our wartime life on the campus . . .

And finally, the seniors, who this year complete their college careers but have many memories to take with them . . .

All this is the story of $1945 \ldots$ at Wisconsin.

This is where we live. Before we do anything else, we establish ourselves, bag and baggage, in our headquarters for the year. There have been many changes in the last few years-the army and navy moved in, and our men went to war. But the return to former days is beginning. The men's dormitories are still "in the navy," but fraternity houses are beginning to "come back," and civilians, including returned servicemen, live in them or in small organized houses around campus. We have more women's residences this year than ever before. Chadbourne and Barnard came back to the gals after "military service." Come along with us as we see pictures of our houses on the following pages.

Residences

Elizabeth Waters is a landmark as well as our largest dorm . . . and the Navy finds it a pleasant place to pause for a chat

Second Row: D. Schramm, R. Greskoviak, M. Wieckert, E. Bahr, B. Saxe, M. Baumann.
Back Row: R. Nordness, G. Witter, M. Lehner, E. Baumann, A. Brown, D. Ellis, D. LeMahieu, T. Brown, J. Davies.

Andersen House

Andersen House is the scene of much activity. From freshmen on up extra-curricular activities have helped to make this a busy year.

The school year started with several girls working on freshman Orientation. Our own freshmen have made a fine start. Elmira Baumann is on the board of the Home Economics freshman organization.

Donna Ellis, our little actress, played the role of the spirited young French girl in "Letters to Lucerne."

Sigma Epsilon Sigma has claimed one of our girls, while others find time to work in the Physics Library, and play the piano for square dancing classes.

Various girls have taken active parts in church organizations - Marion Wieckert, Ethel Bahr, Beverly Saxe, Thelma Brown, and Dottie LeMahieu to name a few.

Ag. campus doings are the topic of many Andersenites' conversations as some of our girls are members of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Euthenics Club, and some serve on the Country Magazine staff.

Annex House

Second Row: R. Kallis, A. Morris, P. Elfenbaum, M. Safer, Mrs. Roetter, D. Schooler, G. Cohen, L. Slack, F. Silverman.
Third Row: A. Cooper-Smith, M. Ziffrin, A. White, D. Marachowsky, D. Mendelson, L. Granovsky, N. Kahn, L. Fried, A. Fisher, N. Joseph, R. Lehner.
Back Row: B. Levy, B. Jacobson, M. Rudderman, J. Coddeu, J. Samuels, E. Rosenblum, C. Block, B. Raff.

Thirty-five girls living at the Annex this year made it a pretty lively place.

President Marilyn Safer directed the activities of the house with the cooperation of Gene Cohen, Vice-President, and Petie Elfenbaum, Treasurer. These girls yielded their offices second semester to Gene Cohen, President; Amy White, Vice-President; Marilyn Ziffrin, Secretary, and Lee Slack as Treasurer.

Because of the war, social functions were on a limited scale this year. Included were an open house at the beginning of the year and one informal party. These were under the direction of Anita Morris and Chellee Kallis, social chairmen.

The Annex girls were busy participating in extra-curricular activities and helping the war effort. This included hostessing, helping at the date bureau and the information desk at the Union, and selling war stamps and bonds.

Badger Club

In the fall of 1944 girls invaded the Badger Club which for twelve years had been composed of men's cooperative houses. Off to a good start, the girls captured first prize among independent houses for homecoming decorations. Kay Sanford, Badger Beauty representative, was one of the fifteen finalists.

Presidents of the four houses in the Badger Club were Hazel Stauffacher, White House; Marian Meeker, Hodag House; Kay Sanford, Squire Hall; and Ann Neprud, Sterling House. With the four council members, Louise Ruchman, Judith Chaiclin, Marion Wight, and Mary Ellen Spurlock, and the officers of the whole club this group managed the affairs of the club.

December 15 was the big night of the year, the night of the Christmas formal. With an orchestra and all the trimmings the party was a huge suc-cess-thanks to the army. Jean Bailey made the B. C. quite famous by making the Troubleshooter a couple of times a week. Hazel Stauffacher kept herself busy as Cardinal Board president.

Barnard Hall

Barnard Hall was reopened to Wisconsin co-eds this year after two years of military occupation. It had been used, first as the residence for WAVES, then as ASTP barracks.

In spite of the fact that only 4 out of the 156 girls who moved in had lived there before, the organization and friendly spirit of the pre-war dorm was immediately revived. Social activities were resumed, beginning with a Halloween dance and climaxed the first semester by the faculty Christmas tea. The hall was redecorated, a date bureau organized, U.S.O. groups formed.

The hall's war activities were highlighted by two honor-roll citations during the Sixth War Loan drive, and by the enlistment of a third of the girls in the first group of blood-donors.

Barnard has resumed its place as a home away from home for Wisconsin co-eds.

Beta House

Newly organized Beta house began with 44 new girls and only four old Wisconsinites but it wasn't long before everything was running smoothly . . . Thrill of the year came when Carol Burkert claimed the title of Badger Beauty . . . Liz Fox climbed into the publicity saddle when she put Pre-Prom in the limelight and worked as news editor of the Cardinal . . . A fledgling diplomat, Geo Ogden, worked on International club and Book Mart . . . Marcia Legere returned to the Cardinal office to rejoin the editorial ranks and also took up her old Mademoiselle correspondent job . . . With the beginning of the a capella choir, Marian Belsley joined in with her mellow contralto . . . Hugette McKnight came from Cairo, Egypt, to add an exotic touch to the Beta girls . . . Beta's southern belle, Marilyn Nelson, went all out for winter sports . . . The whole house joined together for an autumn open house and a Christmas tea dance . . . Gloria Morrow held the presidency reins . . . Mrs. Mentzer, our housemother, burned the midnight coffee for night owls during exam week.

Chadbourne Hall

Opened for the first time in two years, Chadbourne Hall has successfully staged a comeback with her friendly spirit and interest in campus activities. The dormitory, located at the corner of Park and University Avenue, has been closed for the past two years for the occupation of the armed forces.
Although Chadbourne Hall is the oldest dormitory on the campus, its home-like atmosphere and charm have created an unusual amount of spirit in dormitory functions. This feeling is shown by the cooperation in the social affairs which consisted of the Christmas faculty tea, Neighborhood House party, Christmas and Spring formals, Open House teas after the football games, and frequent informal gatherings. Two new projects under the co-eds' supervision were "Chadderbox," the dormitory paper which comes out twice a month, and the chorus which has sung at numerous clubs in Madison.

Honors bestowed to Chadbourne were a Badger Beauty selection, and an honorable mention for the Homecoming decorations.

Cochrane House

One of the highlights of the Cochrane House activities this year was the winning of third place in Wiskits. An original skit written by Taff Trafford entitled "The Tale of Three Pigs" gave Pat Mason, alias Jerome the Gnome, a chance to strut her stuff.

A Christmas formal under the capable direction of Polly Driefus and Ruth Stauffer was a huge success. Mistletoe proved to be popular decoration.

Another wonderful memory for the Cochrane

House girls was that of their hayride. Afterwards, while everybody sipped cider and ate doughnuts, Corky Cox and her date from Chicago jitterbugged in stocking feet.

The Cochrane House sure has tradition. Gladys Cogeshall can verify that. The most exciting things happen in our first floor telephone booth.
War activities also held an important place on our busy program. This was highlighted by our war stamp and bond drives.

Delta Hall

We, the successors to the Naval Air Cadets, took possession of the Delta Hall, formerly the Delta Tau Delta house, in September. This meant that we had quite a tradition to live up to. Our next door neighbors, the ASTR's, soon discredited their title of "forgotten men" due to the large sign prominently displayed in a Delt window: "Off limits for all ASTP personnel; all others proceed at their own risk."
We were elected Delta queens by the Wisconsin

Delts scattered over the world. Liz Schonberg headed our War Activities, while Betty Delaney and Lee Baldwin captained the hostesses unit from our house thus enabling us to get off to a patriotic start. There was an open house and house meetings led by Louise Franke and Raghnild Helland, house presidents. Social events virtually came to a standstill during final exams.

Change of semesters brought an interior decorating craze highlighted by Barbara Jeanmaiure's studio styled room.

Not in Picture: M. Sandorf, N. Wexler.

The forty-two girls living in Dover House are all doing their part to aid the war effort. Besides the weekly purchases of war stamps and their participation in the various drives, some of the girls have been working at the R.M.R. plant on weekends, while others did Red Cross work or donated blood to the Red Cross.
Aside from these activities, social functions have taken up many leisure hours. The first affair was an open house in October which was highlighted by a floor show put on by some of the more talented members of the group. Calla Rose and Louise Ross danced, Bobbie Hebby and Helene Morris sang, and the chorus line consisting of House Prexy Edi Goomnitz, Micky Lurie, Mary Lea Shiman, and Lorraine Levin comprised the major part of the show.

All in all 244 Lake Lawn has made quite a success of its first year on campus.

Edgewater House

Forty co-eds opened the doors of the one-time Kappa Sigma fraternity house in an effort to maintain the same old Wisconsin spirit, but substituted femininity for masculinity.

We'll remember the Christmas party we hostessed at Truax Field, our gay evenings at the Paul Bunyan Canteen, and our share of the fun from our evenings at the U.S.O. Santa Claus (alias Allen Burstein) brought forth shrieks of joy and happiness from 22 under-privileged children of Madison. We learned the ins and outs of the city when we called for our young guests and delivered them home laden with gifts, candy, and smiles.
Our various war activities kept us pretty busy. The war stamp and bond drive was a success as was our old clothes drive when we collected several bundles of old clothes. Cal, helping out in the nursery, and our many "depositors" in the Blood Bank are a few other examples of Edgewater's participation in the war effort.

Palatial ivy-covered Elizabeth Waters Hall is fast growing into a campus landmark on Lake Mendota's shore. In true Wisconsin style, "Liz" has a self-governing executive council of seven members overseeing the five units. Socially and politically "The Rock" has proved a moving force on campus, 1944-45 seeing her add Ardith MacDonald and Lois Guenther to Student Board with Martha Woodling pioneering women's rights as president of the Senior class.
Floor after floor of active residents are the reason Liz Waters is a sure-fire intramurals winner. For the first time, this year she added the W.A.A. Wiskits trophy to her laurels, taking first place in the competition with her musical, "Court of Mrs. Anthony."

Elizabeth Waters gives the University what probably no other campus can claim- 514 co-eds living, studying, and playing together in one harmonious group, exemplifying the spirit of cooperation and good will that typifies Wisconsin.

More food - a between meal snack in one of Elizabeth Waters' famous fudge kitchens.

The executive council seems to be discussing a weighty problem. It could be anything from parlor conduct to a war bond drive.

Quiet hours aren't in effect right after dinner, so the girls decided to sing for a while.

Let's take time out from journalism papers and physics problems for just one hand of bridge.

Mr. Anthony, my problem is . . . With this theme, and a chorus to sing the answers E. W. won first place in Wiskits.

Five-Fifteen House

Five-Fifteen's 35 co-eds have had a gay and exciting year, romantically, patriotically, and extracurricularly speaking.

Everyone was happy when Sally Tillotson landed among the 15 Badger Beauty semi-finalists and Florence Bahr was named president of Euthenics club, member of Ag Council, advertising manager of the Country magazine, and queen of the Little International Livestock Show.

Then Joyce McCormick sold a feature article to the slick magazine, Seventeen, and the house went wild! In fall Eunice La Pean took over the national advertising manager's duties on The Daily Cardinal, later the promotions chairmanship for Campus Community Chest, publicity for Christmas Festival, and was appointed to Senior Council.

Eryl Levers, straight from Sussex, England, won the part of the English girl in "Letters to Lucerne." She also held the first semester reins as president. Jean La Pean was defense chairman; Virginia Benn, social chairman; and Janet Sage, treasurer. They yielded their respective positions during the second semester to Virginia Young, Wilma Bard, Sally Tillotson, and Jean Mork.

Georgian House

The Georgian girls devoted most of their time this year to war activities. Many hours were spent working for the local O.P.A. Terry Orevin was head of the hostess unit which attended both U.S.O. and Union affairs. Several girls aided the cause by donating their blood to the Red Cross. Margie Rosenstock was assistant canvasser for the Campus Community War Chest.

Athletics also claimed a considerable amount of our time. Some of the girls showed their prowess in volleyball intramurals and on the house bowling team. Tommy Volk was a member of the Dolphin Club.
Era Shrage, whose art ability has been highly acclaimed, graduated in January and went down to Cuba to join her parents and further her art career.
Lyn Tack was chosen president of the house this year.
War and campus activities, social functions, and study all combined to make our year a full and successful one.

Thirty girls are living at Grady's this year. Studying and working took a great deal of our time, but many of the girls participated in extracurricular activities.
This year Grady's house sponsored the Independents' formal which was held January 5 at the Loraine Hotel Crystal Ballroom. Isabel Farwell was chairman of this event. Mary Sexton was captain of the hostesses at the Danskeller, and Marjorie Milford was in the Spanish Fiesta.
Shirley Adey was President of the house first semester, Erna Kirchhoff, Treasurer, and Isabelle Farwell, Social Chairman. Second semester Sandra Sack became President. Monica Hayes and Doris Berg took care of the war stamp sales with several successful war bond and stamp drives.

Green  Gables

Again two of our freshmen, Vera Busch and Bernadette Furseth, came to the University on scholarships. They won't break a tradition if they continue the good work and renew them.
Orchesis, both junior and senior, are well represented by Nancy Ninneman and Bonnie Hancock -Bonnie this year is president of Senior Orchesis.
Besides the Gables' usual full cooperation with all regular war service activities, Betty Colbert runs the occupational therapy library for the veterans in Wisconsin General Hospital.

We find time to add to the fun of Hoofers, the artistry of the Union Gallery Committee, and to the services of the Y.W.C.A.-Ellen Effenberger and Betty Chapek being members of the latter. Barb Vye's leadership and hard work have done much for the W.A.A.; the Outing Club has also chosen her for its president this year.

Groves Co-op

The College of Hard Knocks has nothing on the Co-op. Groves girls have become educated to many strange and heterogeneous occupations from firing furnaces to washing windows and floors. However, the compensations received from cooperative, inter-racial, and inter-religious living far overshadow the brief hours of tedious labor.
The school year was high-lighted by winning second place in Wiskits with a modern dance interpretation of a Freshman girl's experiences. Even though the chorus had its "mike" trouble, Sage's directing, Ida's dancing, and Marie's singing made up for it.

In celebration of its foundation two years ago, Groves Co-op held open house in February. Second semester newcomers helped make it a significant social event.
To create inexpensive living quarters, to better race relations and prove that minority and majority groups can live and work together, and to develop both individual and group initiative in cooperative enterprises are the aims of this organization.

Lake Lawn

Lake Lawn house has provided a home for 44 girls this year. There was plenty to do to keep everyone busy. Although many of us were strangers at first, we soon became oriented to the Wisconsin traditions.
We showed our athletic ability through our volleyball team coming out in the semi-finals. Part of our war effort consisted of Phyllis Naymark's fine job of selling war stamps and bonds. U.S.O. groups were also very popular. Arlene Thaler did a fine job as social chairman by planning various social functions.

We chose Shirley Katz president of Lake Lawn house this year and Elaine Eisenstein as house treasurer. There is plenty of talent in the house. Jean Berets can really play the piano, and Helen Kunitz entertains us with her impersonations. War activities, social functions, studying and living together combine to make it a fine year for all of us.

There is always something doing around Lincoln Lodge this year, but that's to be expected with 43 girls living under one roof.
Carlotte Parelskin, as president, was the typical busy executive making frequent trips to the fourth floor to quiet the boisterous inhabitants of the dorm-someone downstairs might want to study. Yes, we did study. You'd never recognize the place during exam week-it was quiet as a morgue.
Betty Gross, our war stamp chairman, patriotically sold war stamps to the four floors, and did a good job of it, too.

Our enthusiastic phy-ed majors insisted on running around in those blue shorts, while after a stay in the home ec house, Schwab made chocolate pudding for the gang.
There was always a rush for the morning mail. Phone calls provided lots of interest too - all of which adds up to the phrase, never a dull moment.

The Manor

A first-year independent house, The Manor, participated in all University activities. Thirty-six girls representing Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Washington, D.C., and Wisconsin, constitute house membership.
"Dunk 'Em Badgers," the Homecoming display was the first project undertaken. "Infirmanias," a satire on the freshman medical examination, was the house Wiskits entry. Myrra Gertzen was The Manor's choice for 1945 Badger

Beauty, and Lila Glass portrayed Reagen in the Wisconsin Players' presentation of "King Lear."

War Bonds and Stamps were sold regularly every week and The Manor received recognition in The Daily Cardinal for having purchased the third highest amount of Bonds. War Activities were under the supervision of Louise Taichert, house president.

Social activities included two open houses for servicemen stationed at Truax Field.

Nurses ${ }^{\text {N }}$

Dorm

The Nurses' Dorm has been an enthusiastic participant in campus activities. With an odd assortment of everything from hats to stray pairs of shoes we managed to top the lead in the Old Clothes Drive. Through the super-salesman powers of Peggy Peter and Loretta Neuman the war stamp and bond drives are being carried through. The girls living on the south side of the dormitory swear that all their leisure time has been devoted to the suspension from their windows of various signs announcing future celebrations--Kiekhofer Wall, Jr. The greatest tragedy and near social defeat was the jukebox breakdown at Open Housebut we were gallantly rescued by the Navy. 1402 has been the scene of two formals this fall-the cool, refreshing atmosphere of the under-the-sea formal with Minnie the Mermaid on her rock and the warm atmosphere of the Christmas formal. The rumor now is-"A single nurse will be strictly a thing of the past."

Phi Gam House

Fiji Land has been invaded!! The Phi Gam house is now an independent lodging house for women. Converted from a fraternity house for the duration, the year of '44-45 is the first in which it has had a woman's house council whose members were: First semester: President-Charlotte Bancel, Secretary-Mary Cargile, Treasurer and War Activities Chairman-Virginia Sidwell, and Social Chairman-Patty Meigs.

Second semester they turned their positions over to President-Gerry Krawczak, Secretary-Mary Ford, Treasurer and War Activities ChairmanPeggy James, Social Chairman-Nita Overlock.

In keeping with its new character the Phi Gam house has seen such social affairs as the Board Christmas dinner, two open houses, one of which was a coke party and wiener roast combined, and a Christmas party given for the benefit of the children in the Orthopedic Hospital.
Second semester immigrants to Fiji Land include Frances Anselmo, Nancy Martin, Harriet Bissell, and June Reichenbach.

Shoreland House

With the campus running on a wartime schedule, the girls at Shoreland House went all out for hostessing, both selling and buying war bonds and defense stamps, the old clothes drive and the War Chest.

Many of the girls have devoted their free hours to extra-curricular activities. Several were members of Union Committees. Andy Anisman proved herself a versatile young lady-a member of Wisconsin Players and a regular stand-by at WHA.

Marian Baum sang the blues at Campacabana, 770 and Truax Field. Mary Lou Weiss and Shirley Jacobson were working on the Cardinal staff.
Our house president Judy Siskind was a member of Wisconsin Players and worked for the Date Bureau, as did Barbara Rapaport.
The girls outdid themselves with their "colossal" floor show at their Waterfront Cafe party.
Finals were made actually enjoyable by Aunt Rose and her luscious 10:30 snacks.

Tower

 ViewA young house, this being only its second year, but nevertheless active within itself as well as on campus-this is Tower View. The doors were thrown open in October at an open house marked by a riotous mock wedding. Betty Levy and Rita Zaret were our house presidents, and "Mom" Halperin was our housemother.

Before long, hidden talents were discovered. Impersonations and songs made meal times lively.

And Tower View wasn't caught napping in the war effort. Not only did the girls donate blood, work as nurses' aides and knit; but, due to war activities chairman Helen Seed, the house came in fourth in bond and stamp sales during the Sixth War Loan Drive with approximately $$ 5,000$.

A semester of fun and gaiety came to a close amid the deathlike silence of final exam week; while a young house grew old and wise.

Social events were highlighted this year by two Open Houses, a gala Xmas Formal, and musical shows for Truax Field Hospital. We'll remember such things as the ever-present black cat, Vivian Vucker finally enforcing quiet hours despite third floor's bull sessions, Stevie Franklin painting scenery backstage till all hours of the morning. Peggy Mann selling stories while Jeanne Murphy and Annette Blumenfeld struggle to find pen names. Jinky Lofquist received a hula skirt from the Pacific. Libby Hughes hit the social beam and Kathy Sarris was our choice for Badger Beauty. Jackie Friedburg's war bond brought the Notre Dame-Wisconsin basketball to our house, while Elaine Sacarny and Lucky Krupp, war bond chairmen, gloated.

House officers include Vivian Vucker, president, Annette Blumenfeld, vice president, Claire Drucker as secretary and Polly Adams was treasurer.

Winshore House

In its second year as an independent house, the Winshore House again placed in the finals of Wiskits, doing "Carmenishka," which included a bull with a Russian accent. One of the highlights of the year was the visit paid by Ramon Coffman (Uncle Ray), children's columnist and author. Joy South and Sibyl Marks, senior journalists, who hail from Idaho, have been his assistants during the year.
Tommy Richey from Aruba, West Indies, created envy through her tales of flying to South America for an evening of dancing. Continuing with her journalistic abilities, Betsey Tilton was weekly news editor of the Daily Cardinal and also maintained a position on the Union Library committee. Gloria Schmalz was elected to Sigma Epsilon Sigma. Lavine Engels kept the ball rolling by using the other Winshore lassies as subjects of her physical education homework.

Jean Rogers, Jeanne Peters, Marjorie Graff, Sarah Weed, Dorothy Johnson, and Joan Hampel were added to our ranks the second semester.

This year has been a busy one for the 17 girls in Willison House. War activities lead the list with evenings spent at the U.S.O., war stamp drives and war bond sales. This was all under the direction of Dorothy Ma-

Schreiber House

The 28 of us who live at Schreiber House come from the corners of the nation; from New York to Texas with all the best stops between. We've spent some spare hours at the U.S.O., and the blood bank, sent two singers to Truax Field and given servicemen's parties. A few of us work in war plants, some are relieving office worker shortages, and still others are helping with civic recreative projects. We're waiting, too, for the advent of the better world education can help to make.

Webster

Thirteen of us at Webster House have interests ranging from pre-med to psychology, or history if you prefer.

Our war activities chairman keeps us up on current affairs; we have a quota of nine girls to work at defense plants when called.

Located on the west side of the campus, we have a lot of hiking to do. We have it all over the rest when it comes to games at the stadium because we live right across the street from Randall Field.

Tabard Inn

The name Tabard Inn recalled in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, is an attempt to carry on the spirit of that original Tabard which was a stopping-off place for weary travelers to fellowship with one another before proceeding on their journey. At Tabard Inn 22 women students keep their University expenses low by doing a good share of their own work. Besides this, most of the girls find time for doing outside work as well as being active in campus activities. Half of the '44-45 Tabardites, by the way, were home ecs.

S1OMECHETHE

Girls from Spencer House have had a busy year. War activities head the list of events from both the social and service angle.

The Spencerites have always topped their war stamp pledges during the year . . . They have adopted a sailor and send him morale building letters each week ... Ann Conway disregarded quiet hours and practiced her dance routines to self-made "music" in the third floor hall . . . Pat Morrin kept the assembly lines moving out at R.M.R. in her spare time . . . Mary-Jo Maurina kept Truax boys happy at the Paul Bunyan Canteen.

The House Presidents' Council was reorganized due to war time conditions. The main interest is in providing social and athletic opportunities for men living in organized houses.

The campus saw something new when H.P.C. presented its Whiffenpoof Ball. Joe Melli was general chairman, Dick Debruin, arrangements, Barclay Conley, tickets, and Elizabeth Fox, promotions. H.P.C. held two smokers. The purpose of these was to give the students an opportunity to meet men living in other houses.

Intramural basketball started off the athletic program. At the beginning of the new semester a bowling league was inaugurated in which the teams felt the help shortage by virtue of the fact that they had to furnish their own pin-setters. The ping pong tournament and baseball league concluded the athletic program. The exam file was reinstituted as was the scholarship award which was presented to the house with the highest scholastic average. The Council was confronted with the veteran assimilation into campus social and political life. H.P.C. encouraged them to participate in student activities and social affairs.

Babcock House

At the present time Babcock House is the only organized men's house still active on the Ag Campus. All of its members have been active on the Ag Campus and have participated in many activities.

Richard Halbach was General Chairman of the Little International Livestock Show, and serving under him as chairmen were Chester Van Roo, Al Jindra, Ray Bula, Bradford Scott and Harry Ross.

The members also took an active part in the National Saddle and Sirloin Essay Contest. The following placed: Bradford Scott, Richard Halbach, John Carsten, Chester Van Roo, Robert Hackbarth, Lloyd Anderson, and Norman Stockwell.

Babcock House has been functioning for the past 13 years on a cooperative basis. Many of its former members are serving in the armed forces and to date six have given their lives for their country.

Brooks  Delta

Despite the efforts of several eager draft boards, Brooks Delta sailed through its ninth year as an organized house at full strength . . . Bob Sutton, of the Badger baseball squad, kept his arm in shape during the winter months by tossing eggs at the Cabin . . . The good-neighbor policy instigated by Abbott, Stribling, Foreman, Himmelreich, et al, was brought to a sudden halt by an unexpected visitor from the Dean's office . . . Larry Wilets carried off scholastic honors in being initiated into Phi Eta Sigma . . . Clarence Rothe easily vanquished all contenders in capturing the chess championship . . . From the layer of dust which remained on Art "Grind" Wilets' books all year, it appears that he spent many of his evenings in intensive research at the Flame . . . Bing Abbott was a familiar voice at 770 and Campacabana . . . Bob Flatter, one of our three vets, joined Alumni ranks in January . . . Tom Beno, railroaded into the President's seat, proved to be an able administrator.

House of  Langdon

And this is the House of Langdon . . . wherein is the famed Goldfish Bowl. We peek through the various keyholes and see Don Thompson and Dick Groh in their long red woolens attempting to play Beethoven's 5th Symphony on their flutes at 3:00 in the morning . . . Down in the hold, we find the art gallery, exhibiting the fine (?) works of "Murph" Kwiatkowski, distinguished connoisseur of artistic bow ties . . . In the boxing arena Jake Dallman relating the finer points of his technique to his roommate, Wisconsin's Fightin'est Fighter, Dave Reiels . . . Our BMOC, Harry Rosenbaum, successfully promoting student interests in the Student War Council . . . Dutch Schultz, Jim Berry, and Bob Zermuehlen deeply engrossed in a rousing game of Sheepshead . . .

The house is also affected by the manpower shortage inasmuch as it supplies many waiters for Ann Emery and the Phi Gam house and defense workers for R.M.R. This is the House of Langdon . . . and these are the boys who live in it!

yMCA

The University Y. M. C. A. dormitory at 740 Langdon Street is a campus landmark and holds pleasant memories for many students. The old gray brick building has had the distinction this year of housing the largest unit of civilian men students on the campus, 120 men. The spirit of the Y.M.C. A. dorm has been and remains one of "democracy in action."

Residents include representatives from foreign countries and from rural and urban centers who come together for study, fellowship, and recreation. There is a feeling of tolerance and goodwill which permeate the atmosphere of this "laboratory in living."
The main house project for the year has been the redecoration of the main floor lounges by about fifty residents.

The house council carries on the business of student self-government and a program of social relaxation. The officers this year have been John Alford, President; Jasper Wright, Vice-president; Donald Hyzer, Secretary; and Alfred Schnur, Treasurer.

YMCA Cabinet

The program of the University of Wisconsin Y. M. C. A. varies from year to year. To meet the current needs of students, whether in civilian clothes or in uniforms, has always been the guiding principle on which the Association operates.
Activities and projects, developing from expressed needs, are initiated, developed, and carried out by student committees. The chairmen of the eighteen committees comprise the Y.M.C.A. cabinet which develops the broad policies of the campus program. Rigid adherence to this principle of student expression and student leadership results in a program that is an essential part of campus life, in the development of a fuller appreciation of the democratic process, and in students learning to tackle the problems of every-day living. The employed secretaries act as advisors to cabinet and committee members and as counselors to all students who wish their help. All activities are open to all men students on the campus. This year Harold Miller acted as president, Allan Chapman, vice-president, and John Alford, secretary.

I-F Board is the governing body of the Interfraternity Council. Composed of five elected men, it works with the Council and the faculty. The conferences on the faculty's new plan for fraternities after the war furnished the main activity of the I-F Board. A meeting was held which was attended by the sub-committee on Student Life and Interests, the Alumni from each active chapter, and members of the chapters of the fraternities.

I-F Board and Council

I-F council is the representative body for every fraternity on the campus. With one member from each fraternity on the Council, this group has jurisdiction over the activities and social functions of the fraternities. The main event sponsored by the Council each year is I-F Ball, which this year was held on March 16. The Council also sponsored an informal party at the Union on December 8. Harland Klipstein, Sigma Phi Epsilon, took over the president's position when Thomas Troup, Psi Upsilon, graduated at the end of the first semester. Fred Pampel, Phi Delta Theta, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Arnold Jackson, Sigma Phi, secretary of the Council.

The Wisconsin chapter of Alpha Delta Phi was founded in 1902 with the local chapter Phi Rho Beta as its basis. The chapter has always maintained a high rating on the campus and it is hoped that once the returning Alpha Delts in service come back the chapter will regain its pre-war position.

The chapter house, located at 640 N . Henry Street, is still open as a boarding house. The roll call at the present time includes five active members and five pledges. Beta Theta Pi Founded at Miami University, 1839, Oxford, Ohio. The Wisconsin chapter, Alpha Pi, received its charter in 1873.

Wanting quality rather than quantity, the Betas have not kept their active membership up to that of pre-war days. As a result they have been forced to lease the house until they again have a large enough chapter to function independently.

However, the Betas have been active this year, holding two formal initiations as well as weekly meetings in the Memorial Union. Brothers in uniform have sometimes been able to drop in to add some of that old spirit. Several informal parties have held up the social side of the activities.
In the next few years we look forward to the return of our brothers who are now serving our country.

Founded at University of Virginia, 1869, Charlottesville, Virginia. Beta Epsilon chapter, one of one hundred eleven, was founded at Wisconsin in 1898.
The Kappa Sigma house has been rented out for the duration as a girls' boarding house. However, the chapter has started again this year after a lapse of one year. Rushing parties were held at the Union with some pledg-

Founded at Bethany College, 1859, Bethany, West Virginia. One of seventy-six chapters, the local chapter, Beta Gamma, received its charter in 1888.

In the summer of 1943 the Delts at Wisconsin disbanded when the armed forces claimed $95 \%$ of their membership and the army moved into the Shelter. However, upon request of its members in service the chapter was reorganized this past fall and dedicated to carry on for those boys until they return.

The local chapter of Delta Tau Delta wishes to pay tribute to its more than 200 members now serving Uncle Sam and a special tribute to the seven brothers who have been killed in service, the one who is a prisoner of war, and the two who are missing in action.

For the first time in the history of its forty-two years on the Wisconsin campus, Sigma Alpha Epsilon became inactive during the early days of World War II. However, after a fifteen month quiescence they have resumed an active status and are again bidding for high positions throughout the University. Although operating on a reduced program, S.A.E. was well represented in the "W" Club, Inter-fraternity Board, Cardinal Staff and football, basketball, swimming, and golf teams.

Phi

Founded in 1827 at Union College, Schenectady, New York, in 1908, Alpha, the local chapter, one of ten, was established on the campus.

Sigma Phi is the oldest of the national fraternities. A policy of limitation holding the national organization to ten chapters has resulted in a closer feeling of fraternity among the several chapters. The present chapter, situated in University Heights, maintains active status, and the house, center of activity for the members, is home for Sigs in the service during furloughs and leaves. Sigma Phi has always been ably represented in campus activities and remains so with interests widely varied . . . Bob Charn, student representative on one of the faculty committees, was instrumental in I-F reorganization; "Pep" Jackson of the cross-country team is a member of I-F Board. The fellows frequently crossed the street to "help" the Dykstras with open houses. It is the aim of the chapter to maintain active status.

Sigma

 Phi EpsilonFounded at University of Richmond, 1901, Richmond, Virginia. Consisting of sixty-eight national chapters, Beta of Wisconsin was founded in 1920.
Although 38th in order of founding among 58 national fraternities, Sigma Phi Epsilon is now 16th in membership and 12th in number of chapters. Seventy active chapters in 36 states have produced 26,000 Sig Eps, including 6,000 now serving with the armed forces. In spite of wartime difficulties, $90 \%$ of Sig Ep's chapters have remained in operation. Much of the success of Sigma Phi Epsilon must be attributed to leadership of one of its founders, William L. "Uncle Billy" Phillips, who has been recognized as one of the "Twelve greatest living Greeks."

For 24 years the Wisconsin Beta Chapter has striven to attain excellence in scholastic, athletic, and social activities. While Sigma Phi Epsilon instills in its members a feeling of brotherhood, it recognizes a social responsibility to the community of which it is a part. For that reason Sig Eps have become real citizens of the University, state, and nation.

These are the things we do which make Wisconsin what it is. These are the things our men in service remember-what we will remember long after graduation ... The Cardinal, the Badger, the "big issues" of student government, our Union, our dances, our Proms, our churches. Sixty years ago the traditions began, and they are now bigger than ever with many new buildings and new organizations. The war has introduced much into our lives-our War Council, a bigger Activities Bureau have come into their own. An ever enlarging group of ex-servicemen are coming back with ideas which we hope will be the beginnings of bigger and better activities to come.

The 1945 edition of the Badger is marking its 60th annual appearance. For over half a century this, the oldest publication on the campus, has kept a permanent record of the students and of the growth of the university.

Susan Ammann, executive editor, has celebrated the Badger's anniversary by depicting Wisconsin's developments during the last sixty years.

The most trying problem which Sue had to face was that of coordination. Getting the work of the staff members, the engraver, and the printer all into one book was a task which would strain the patience of Job. However, when May came the Badger was out on schedule.

In addition to the excellent work done by the staff, much of the success of the Badger is due to the splendid assistance of the Army Specialized Training Reserve and Navy Units.

The Navy section is larger than ever this year. More pages are devoted to campus organizations and women's houses. All the usual sections are present along with features exclusive in the 1945 Badger.

As business manager of the 1945 Badger, Georgann Bergenthal's stock statement has been this year: "I'm sorry but we have already sold all the available Badgers."

The 60th year of Badger publication was distinguished by a phenomenally successful "Buy Badgers" campaign which resulted in the breaking of many former sales records.

The Navy V-12 Unit and the A.S.T.R. detachment cooperated to the fullest extent by purchasing Badgers almost $100 \%$. Almost any Saturday afternoon this fall Bergie and members of her staff could be found sitting in Mack den selling books to enthusiastic service men.

Managing the finances, planning promotion stunts, handling the advertising, and directing the work of the business staff kept Georgann extremely busy. Several fledgling staff members were always in the office industriously filing subscription stubs and doing various odd jobs.

The business staff is to be commended for the exceptionally fine work it has done.

Eileen Martinson, with traditional Cardinal thoroughness, kept students "in-the-know" about campus events, national news, and world affairs.

Daily Cardinal

Staff

Through the efforts of Eileen Martinson, commander-inchief of the Cardinal office, and her hard-working staff members, the paper has maintained its objective of being the most widely read publication on the campus.

In addition to printing campus news items, the Cardinal has given its support to innumerable schemes for improving the university. Editorial policy, under Eileen's capable direction, has advocated a new building to house all student publications, an increase in the university budget, and has helped the many war activities. It has also increased democratic feeling by airing the pros and cons of Student Board debates.

[^1]A few welcome males have come back to the Cardinal this year, but the atmosphere and personnel is still predominantly feminine. However, Cardinal enthusiasm has not been a war victim. It remains one of the most outstanding things about the editorial office.

CARDINAL BUSINESS STAFF

The problems involved in managing the business staff are many and complicated. However, under the direction of Elaine Casperson, business manager, the Cardinal books are printed this year in black instead of red.

Such troubles as getting the paper delivered to the proper places at the right time and increasing the circulation list did not seem to disturb the staff. They just worked harder, and the Cardinal is once again operating at a profit.

Important questions pertaining to the policies and aims of the Cardinal are brought to the Cardinal Board of Directors for final decision. With the help of Mr. Frank Thayer, board advisor, advertising contracts, circulation plans, and editorial policies were discussed and settled.

The Cardinal business staff deserves a great deal of praise for placing the Cardinal again on a sound financial basis.

Wisconsin Country Magazine

The Wisconsin Country Magazine, in spite of wartime problems, remains as always the voice of the Ag campus. The "Mag" is managed, edited, and circulated entirely by the Home Economics and Agriculture students.

Published monthly for eight months of the year, the "Mag" has a circulation of approximately 1200 including many former students now in the service.

Margaret Biddick, first semester editor, was succeeded by Evelyn Platt. Associate editor, Lillian McGilvra Schoephoerster, was replaced by Beatrice Schweigert. Jean Hurd succeeded Jay Hamilton Nelson as business manager. Professor W. A. Sum-

Wisconsin

Engineer

A unique position was given to June Hartnell this fall when she was installed as the first woman editor of the Wisconsin Engineer. She has done a magnificent job in living up to the fine example set by her predecessors.
Articles dealing with engineering accomplishments, personality sketches of outstanding students, and items about former engineers now in the armed forces are all to be found in the Wisconsin Engineer. Published primarily for Wisconsin engineering majors, this magazine has a nation-wide circulation.
As June was the first woman to edit the "Engineer," her work was exceptionally difficult. The staff, also almost entirely feminine, cooperated to design issues which met the high standards established in former years.

Given a telephone, there would be no need to say that this year's Badger Beauties were chosen by George Petty, famous magazine illustrator A committee composed of representatives of various groups on campus - Pat Weber, V-12; Roger Laubenheimer, Fraternities; John Duffy, Independent men; Polly Grimes, Sororities; Martha Woodling, Independent women; Professor Howard Hall of the Law School; and Jerry Wulk - selected fifteen finalists who were judged on the basis of beauty and personality. Petty selected the final six, and King Jerry Wulk introduced them at Pre-Prom. Pictures of these Badger Beauties invoking pin-up girl requests from servicemen, have appeared in many state and out-of-state newspapers, and in the Chicago Tribune's "Youth on the Campus" section. On campus, the V-12s selected Julie Holmes as their top Badger Beauty Petty Pin-Up.

"A living room which converts the University from a house of learning into a home of learning," is what the late President Glenn Frank said the Union should be.

Hundreds of students and the staff devote themselves the year 'round to the ways and means of making this true, and the Wisconsin Union, built to honor the men and women who have served in our country's wars, has become a pacemaker of college unions as a community center and for training in recreation leadership and social education. The process of "learning by doing" that these students go through in organizing and directing the recreations of all students conspire to enhance self-confidence and ability to work harmoniously with others.

Special Events

Margaret Webster's production of Othello starring Wisconsin's Uta Hagen and Paul Robeson brought this superb New York play to a sell-out audience at the Union Theater.

S. Hurok's Ballet Theatre brought to Madison a company of 25 and a symphony orchestra. Pictured here is Lucia Chase, one of the stars of the ballet.

Etta Moten and William Franklin sang the leads in Gershwin's ever popular negro musical, Porgy and Bess.

Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, spoke in the Theater to a convocation sponsored by the Union Convocation Committee.

The Union Has

The 1944-45 season was a celebrative one for the Union concert series for it marked the 25th anniversary of the series on campus, as well as the fifth year in the new Union theater. Concert manager Dete Notaras '45 made it the occasion for reviewing the history of the concerts and pointed out that the evolution of the series' popularity was to be seen not only in the renowned names that headed the programs, but in the attendance as well. Outgrowing in turn the men's gymnasium, the Great hall of the Union, occasional individual concerts in the Stock Pavilion and single nights in the theater, the anniversary series for the first time brought each artist for two performances.

Presented

Increasing "on campus" popularity was also noted. A higher percentage of students attended than ever before. The roster of stars that caused second night performances to be booked, because of the unprecedently heavy sales, listed the original Don Cossack Chorus conducted by energetic little Serge Jaroff; Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan basso; Isaac Stern, rising young violinist; Luboshutz and Nemenoff, celebrated duo-pianists; and Bidu Sayao, glamorous Metropolitan soprano.

When Election Day came along, and the voting polls opened, many students found the poll located off the Rathskeller convenient for casting their ballots. In the picture above, some students seem to be having difficulty picking their candidates. Others, due to the extensive pre-election campaigns, are having no trouble making their choice.

After the polls are closed, chosen students retire to the sanctum of the Student Board office to count the ballots. Candidates and their backers anxiously watch the tabulating. Mary Ann Neacy counts some of the returns while Jim McIntosh and an unidentified man look on.

Before election day, candidates for office and their campaign managers are busy working out their platforms and making speeches at the dorms and houses on campus. Here Jerry Wulk, successful candidate for Junior Prom King, and his manager, Roger Laubenheimer, seem to be hatching some new plot to gain votes.

One of the positions contested in the fall election was that of sophomore woman on Cardinal board. Gay Constantine came out victor in the election and is welcomed into the fold by the Cardinal Board president, Hazel Holden Stauffacher.

Student Elections

This fall, students went to the campus polls to elect a Junior Prom Chairman, Senior Class President, and Sophomore Woman on Badger Board. For weeks before the election, the campus was alive with political campaigning and "big deals" as the candidates worked to get the vote behind them.

When the returns were in, and the candidates were informed of the results, celebrations began in true Wisconsin style. Lefty Leipold, defeated V-12 candidate for Prom Chairmanship, talks things over with his backers, and wears a big grin in spite of defeat. Jerry Wulk, winner of the hotly contested Prom King race, celebrates his victory with his friends and a mug of beer.

Student Board, upon returning to school in the fall of 1944, found that an intensive reorganization plan was already underway as organized by the Summer Board. The regular Board lost no time in familiarizing itself with the work accomplished and quickly carried the intended program to its completion. After ratifying the new student constitution, it discussed at length the proposed by-laws and, with the aid of the University faculty, gave the Association an extensive and sound structure. By the beginning of the second semester, the association was functioning as a smoothly ordered organization, most of the old legal and personnel organization problems being solved.
Besides the outstanding work done by the War Council and the newly organized Inter-racial committee, the

Student Board

Energetic, sincere, Bill Rodiger was an aggressive leader of Student Board. He had many ideas and the ability to present them clearly. His diverse activities enabled him to keep the Board informed of all campus activities.

Board received unusual service from the Student Public Relations committee and the Academic Relations committee. The first organization sponsored many programs designed to better University relations in the state, helped carry out the Allen Shafer Memorial fund plan, and aided in gaining the University legislative appropriation. The latter committee was instrumental in placing many student criticisms of the curriculum before the faculty. Chief problem of the association this year was the lengthy reorganization of Student Court which, it is hoped, will strengthen the court when it once more is put upon a full standing of its own. Finally, the Board extended its numbers of campus services under a Campus Projects committee and gave the student body a new savings program in the cost Book Mart.

JEAN DURGIN: Dark-haired, attractive, Jean as vicepresident, found herself holding the gavel a good deal of the time. During her two year term she found time to direct War Council and later the Board's Campus Projects committee.

LOIS GUENTHER: Coming on the Board during her senior year, Lois worked with administrative committees and represented the interests of the Ag campus.

BETTY KLETZIEN: As chairman of the Administration committee, "Kletz" showed good organizational ability. Always a sure thinker, she was an outstanding contributor to Board discussions.

ARDITH MacDONALD: After concluding her years of work on Union committees, Ardith brought to the Board a fresh viewpoint and a sincere interest in all types of problems.
JOHN MARCH: As treasurer of the Summer Board, chairman of the Finance committee, and trouble-shooter-atlarge, Johnny earned his spurs as the "boss' right hand man."
JOSEPH MELLI: Fearless and frank, Joe was a live wire on Board. Even when in the minority, he had the respect of all the members. In reconstructing the HPC , he accomplished one of the finest jobs of the year.
VIRGINIA MILLER: As president of WSGA, Ginna represented women's interests and quietly contributed to all discussions. She also served on the important Personnel committee.
MARY ANN NEACY: Elected to the Board when a junior, Mary Ann proved to be a good routine worker. As chairman of the Personnel committee, she managed one of the most difficult of Board jobs with a smile.

ACADEMIC RELATIONS-It was the duty of Marcia Irgens and her committee to contact members of the faculty and students for any problems that might arise between the two groups and to listen to the opinions of both. Second semester her duties were taken over by Herb Bisno.
S. P. R. C. - Student Public Relations Committec with Bob Burke at its head worked to establish better relations of the student body with the world off campus. In the fall they organized a three-day conference, Bob Ritter and Kay Sinske acting as cochairmen, with high school students coming from all over the state to meet as the Wisconsin Student Council Association to discuss problems of student government.

The committee organized 133 students to interest their congressmen on the behalf of the 12 million dollar appropriations fund for the university. Burke and John Couture further contacted the legislators and were lobbyists in the state legislature for the students.

Additional interest was aroused through radio programs, contact with alumni and the Speakers' Bureau. Shirley Mutchler was in charge of the Speakers' Bureau which sent students to talk to Rotaries and other club organizations throughout the state. Burke was aided by Mary C. Leicht, his assistant, and Gail Guelson, secretary.

 OPINION - As head of this committee which was organized to conduct polls on the campus, Joan Metz supervised the work of circulating questionnaires. For student board they investigated questions concerning elections such asShould women students vote for only women or men too? and a similar question as to whether or not men should vote for women. Did the students think it advisable to have a parade to promote interest in elections? Did they think campaigners should be allowed to spend money for elections?The committee also conducted polls for Wages and Hours and housing committees and inquired as to the general feeling towards uniform late rules and a closed prom.

The Summer Student Board of 1944 was largely concerned with the structural reorganization of the Wisconsin Student Association which President Bill Rodiger had recommended at the beginning of his term. After long hearings held in closed session, the body emerged with its recommendations: a dissolution of the cumbersome corporate form, the adoption of a constitutional document, a closer organization of the Association's various departments and bureaus. In the reorganization, the body also decided that servicemen residing on the campus should be brought into the governmental frame, and that the rights of meeting and organizing should be safeguarded in the future.

Operating on a full-schedule scale, the Student Court also distinguished itself during the summer with an expansion of its activities and support of its work by the faculty committee on Appeals. The War Council carried on its war activities service to the campus, concentrating on the development of the Post-War Planning committee. The Wages and Hours and Living Conditions committees worked with faculty departments in bettering the conditions of campus student life. The Board's Dance committee, with the Union Directorate, sponsored a successful Summer Prom.

Despite the fact that Student Board didn't name the personnel of Student Court until December, it is the strongest that it has been since its re-birth in 1941. The new Student Government Constitution, which was the reason for the delay in naming the Court, has given the Court new power. The Court now has the power to review enactments of the Student Board and also has the right to sit on the removal proceeding of the president of Student Board.

The Court has gained strength by taking jurisdiction over matters previously untouched by the Court. A typical example is the taking of jurisdiction over graduate students on the 25 cent student government fee. The whole interpretation of what is a graduate student, whether graduate students are subject to the 25 cent student government fee, how many credits a person has to take before he is subject to the 25 cent fee, who is a student, and whether law and medical students are graduate students are questions that have been decided by the Court this year. All of these questions have been appealed, in some form or other, to the Faculty Court of Appeals. The present Court has not yet been reversed.

The Student Court which was originally set up to handle classroom violations and other violations of University regulations has developed into a Court dealing more with problems of a political nature. Violation of traffic, lake, smoking, and building and grounds regulations provide the Court with a busy but interesting calendar. These cases are brought into the Court by the campus policeman, Joe Hammersley.

With the enrollment of women in the university increasing almost one-third over that of last year, the Women's Administrative Committee, under the capable leadership of Ginna Miller, continued to be an effective executive body for the Women's Self-Government Association.

Through the four co-ordinators on the board, lodging house, sorority, local students and dormitory, the committee keeps in active touch with the women students on campus.

The Knitting Workshop was one of the programs set up by the WSGA in an attempt to make an active contribution to the war effort. Under the auspices of the American Friends Society, the women students can learn to knit articles which are sent to refugees, war prisoners, or which may be kept in this country for use in disaster.

In response to a plea from the American Red Cross, the WSGA helped collect almost four hundred Christmas packages for soldiers and sailors who would be on the ocean Christmas Day.

With the coming of the second semester, the Women's Affairs committee sponsored a Careers Conference in connection with the Dean of Women's office. According to a survey made, most of the women were interested in rehabilitation projects in this country and abroad. Opportunities in other fields, including airlines, industrial and professional, were discussed by well-known professional women.

The Judicial committee continued to function efficiently in its consideration of problems which were referred to it.

In addition to these, the Freshman Scholarship Banquet, the House Presidents' Mail Bag, Co-ed Canteen, the Spring Fashion Show, Senior Swingout and Wiscetiquette are other traditional functions of the Women's Self-Government Association.

Ginna proved to be a friendly, hard-working president of WSGA. She showed remarkable administrative ability in organizing women's affairs.

Adhering to a war-time schedule for the second consecutive year, the traditional Freshman Week was accelerated into a five day Orientation program for the class of 1948. Because of abnormal conditions, the Orientation workers faced problems other than the usual ones of helping the freshmen to become adjusted to college life, to get acquainted with the campus, and to meet other freshmen and upperclassmen.

This year Dorothy Mahlstead organized an orientation program for transfers from other schools. With the help of seventeen sub-chairmen, she wrote letters to all the transfers during the summer explaining the traditions and activities of the Wisconsin campus and invited them to take part in the orientation program. When they arrived, they were taken on tours of the c?mpus.

Orientation

Margaret Stroud and John March, Orientation co-chairmen, did a grand job orientating eight thousand freshmen to a war-time Wisconsin campus.

In a series of training meetings last spring, over three hundred students were prepared to fulfill their roles as Orientation assistants. They were instructed how to counsel the freshmen and learned useful information about the campus, activities, and Wisconsin traditions to pass on to the freshmen. This year's freshman enrollment was outstanding for having the largest number of women in the history of the university. There were 1381 women and 500 men.

The assistants acted as guides for the freshmen during their first days at the university. Two assistants were assigned to a group of approximately fifteen freshmen. The groups went on campus tours and attended the combined president's welcome and pep assembly, Union open houses, religious open houses, and a dateless dance at the Union.

The week was climaxed by the annual tea at which the freshmen were guests of President and Mrs. Dykstra at their home. Orientation was continued throughout the year by small informal get-togethers of the freshman groups with their assistants. Participation in activities and getting the most out of college life was emphasized.

Women sub-chairmen were: Marion Albert, Jane Bickel, Billie Stagg, Pat Blix, Janet Hansen, Mary Ann Huberty, Marcia Irgens, Mary Ann Neacy, Polly Grimes, Beverly Saxe, Lyn Schwandt, Kay Sinske, Miriam Smith, Joan Townsend, Ginger Woodhouse, Shirley Wisland, Louise Wood.

War Council is the coordinating body for all campus war activities. It is the central authority on all war projects. Under the chairmanship of Harry Rosenbaum, it has functioned effectively as a war-minded body in bringing aboui an all-out student participation in various war activities.

This year the 6th War Loan drive topped its $$ 80,000$ goal. This was the first War Loan drive of the University of Wisconsin campus to go beyond $$ 20,000$. The war activities chairmen of the individual houses worked hard to make the drive a success. A Japanese flag was presented to the house selling the most bonds and stamps per capita.
A Student Publications building or an International House are the two most prominent projects being considered as a War Memorial. Contributions from the Alumni are being requested for the first time for the War Memorial fund.
Other war activities managed by War Council include cookie canteen, USO hostess groups, old clothes drives, nurses' aides, knitting for Russian relief, and recruiting

With new offices in the Union, a new full-time executive secretary, and a larger-than-ever enrollment of women, the YWCA had a lot to look forward to this year. A "get-acquainted" breakfast for freshmen and transfers started the membership drive in the fall which was climaxed by a recognition service in November when 360 new members were inducted into the "Y."

Members were placed in commission groups according to their varied interests. The Philosophy of Living Commission sponsored valuable bi-monthly Sunday Seminars led by professors and local pastors. Many girls in the Campus and Community Services and War Services Commis. sions helped in the Orthopedic Hospital, the War

Nursery and the USO. Interest in the National "Y" was stimulated by sending delegates to many regional conferences.

Social functions, a Hallowe'en Party, a Carolling group and a Valentine Party were jointly sponsored with the YMCA. In December the two groups presented their annual Christmas Festival, this year giving a novel presentation of Stephen Vincent Benet's radio play, "A Child Is Born."

Through varied activities and services to the campus and community the YWCA has accepted the opportunities and responsibilities placed upon it by a war-time campus.

Local Students is an up-coming campus organization that has forged ahead during the past year. Through the enthusiasm of the leaders in the cabinet, the Women's Local Students Association has presented a very active program. These cabinet members are: Peg Gunderson, Nancy Marsh, Caryl Seeliger, Margaret Graves, Betty Mueller, Joan Lobb, Phyllis Pinkerton, Lavonne Prescott, Doris Lehman, Dorothy Farber, and Phyllis Ashman.

This group fills the gap in WSGA by including all college women who do not live in organized houses. This enables these girls to participate in all campus activities and gives them voice in campus issues. Highlights of the year's social program were two formals, "Moonlight Ball" and "Vinter Wonderland"; Open Houses for servicemen, V-12 picnics and parties, teas, and the sponsoring of the annual Red Cross Benefit dance. Entrance into other campus activities led to admission to Wiskits finals, the selection of Jeanne Parr as Badger Beauty, establishment of the War Stamp Booth in Bascom, and participation in Intramurals.
Among the outstanding speakers of the year were Mr. Busch speaking on hair styles, and Miss Emily Chervenick women's vocational guidance director, making her first public campus appearance discussing "Women and Jobs." The girls received helpful hints on wardrobes from Mis: Ruth Danielson of the Home Economics department and from Miss Grothe of Manchester's department store. Arm and Navy boys have a warm feeling for the "Local Students" because of the special open houses held where there was an abundance of home baked cakes and cookies.

The members of Local Students are an integral part of student government. Their willingness to cooperate has made them prominent in all phases of campus activities.

Homecoming

 Came First in our calendar of big eventsEven though the traditional bonfire was discarded for the third consecutive year the Pep Rally preceding the Homecoming game didn't lack enthusiasm, and the lower campus was overrun with students. The Square-bound parade punctuated each block with a rousing "On Wisconsin" and "Varsity." Psi U Ray Patterson and Theta pledge Mary Lou Peyla reigned over Homecoming weekend, which included the Pep Rally, the game, and the Ball. General chairman for the Homecoming Ball was John March. Homecoming decorations were again original and eye-catching as shown by these pictures of the K.D. House, Chadbourne, and Langdon Hall.

The interfraternity council's two main parties of the current year were held at the Memorial Union. The first party, which took place December 8, was a new experiment. It was not the usual I-F dance, for it had no definite chairman or committee, and was run in the style of an informal beer party. Every member of the I-F Council had a part in the arrangements, and everybody worked to make it a success.

The second dance was run as the past formal balls. Headed by Harland Klipstein, a committee of five men was chosen. Don Voegeli's band played, and in spite of the fact that the Navy was unable to attend, fraternal spirit ran high and a good time was had by all.

The University of Wisconsin Band still maintains an all-civilian membership and has again carried on in a true Wisconsin tradition. At the beginning of the school year, ninety-eight members qualified for the band. This number, however, was decreased as men were called into the services. In spite of being handicapped by this greatly changed membership, the band has maintained a high standard of accomplishment and has studied and played the usual fine library of band music characteristic of the University of Wisconsin Bands.

Appearances of the band consisted of concerts, weekly radio broadcasts over WHA and the Wisconsin networks, football and basketball games, and convocation and commencement exercises.

A band and chorus composed of V-12 members of the Navy Training School, under the direction of Mr. Dvorak, have appeared in their own unit and also upon numerous occasions with the University of Wisconsin Band.

Chorus

The University of Wisconsin Chorus has this year become the A Cappella Choir under the direction of Mr. William F. Kugel, and a Women's Chorus directed by Miss Helene Thomas. Mr. Kugel, new to Wisconsin's campus this year, was graduated from Westminster Choir College and has his Master of Fine Arts from Carnegie Institute of Technology. He also holds the position of director of music at Carroll College in Waukesha.

The University A Cappella Choir is composed of about fifty university students, a considerable reduction over that of last year, due to wartime conditions. Their repertoire consists primarily of sacred and folk music. Among their current year performances were included participation in the All-University Christmas pageant, appearances for the Sunday Music Hour and at the University Club, a series of broadcasts over WHA, and several concerts in near-by towns.

The University Symphony Orchestra, under the capable direction of Mr. Richard C. Church, is for the study, preparation, and the performance of symphonic works by the best composers. The highlights of this year were concerts in the Union Theater and at the May Music festival in Music Hall.

Works performed included the "Fifth Symphony in E Minor" by Tschaikowsky and the "First Symphony" of Beethoven. Ernst Friedlander, cellist of the Pro Arte quartet, was the soloist for Dvorak's "Concerto in B Minor for violoncello and orchestra," and Betty Zwicky, senior music student, was the soloist for the "Second Piano Concerto" by Rachmaninoff. Several compositions by contemporary Americans were presented, including first performances of Samuel Barber's "Essay for Orchestra" and Aaron Copland's "Quiet City."

In spite of wartime conditions and the shortage of manpower, the University Symphony Orchestra was able to maintain a full symphonic instrumentation of eighty members.

Back Stage

Wisconsin Players

Jerry Brandt

Jean Larson

Polly Grimes

Deprived of many valuable players by a wartime season, Wisconsin Players productions maintained a high standard of showmanship through the efforts of hard working veterans of the group, interested new students, and three able directors.

High point in meetings of the year was the March meeting at which Mr. Mitchell and Bill Purnell spoke before the group of assembled Players and students who had shown interest in becoming members. A new plan of programs to supplement the business meetings was formulated upon the basis of this experiment.

True to its tradition of experimentation in theater methods, the Players joined with Orchesis in presenting "Orpheus." Later in the season another experiment was attempted successfully. The direction of "Springtime for Henry" was turned over to three students, each of whom were in charge of an act.

Despite difficulties encountered in the past season, the observer may still be assured that the Wisconsin Players are a group working toward the best in the theater.

The Wisconsin Players began their season this year with a war-staged production, "Letters to Lucerne." It was directed by Mr. Fredrick Buerki and cast Rosamund Lukin and Gail Guelson as the leading roles. In November, William Shakespeare's "King Lear" was presented. Paul Gauger, excellently portraying Lear himself, was supported by Frederic Cassidy, Pvt. Joseph Augella, Ray Carlson, Geraldine Ryan, Lila Glass and Cpl. Peter Turgeon.
John Van Druten's "There's Always Juliet" provided a change from the more serious presentations to a gay comedy. The play was directed by John Dietrich and the cast included Mary Anne Reed, Irene Bauer, Pfc. James Long and Ray Carlson. "There's Always Juliet" was Mary Anne Reed's final appearance with the Wisconsin Players.
In late February, "Orpheus and Eurydice" and "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" were cast as a double feature. Orchesis, modern dance organization, assisted with the production of "Orpheus." Leads were taken by Sage Fuller, Jerry Brandt, Betty Miller, and Dorothy Saper. "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" was a hilarious comedy with Art Hrobsky, Pat Flannery, Clayton Peterson and Jim Brandon leading the cast.

Elizabeth McFadden's "Double Door" brought terror and mystery to the audience. Directed by Fredrick Buerki, it cast Donna Ellis, Lola Harding, Geraldine Ryan, and Jerry Brandt as the main characters. The first part of April brought Lillian Hellman's "Children's Hour." It is a study of the evils a small child can cause when allowed to do as she wishes. Hope Daly, Pat Flannery, Lila Glass, Marilyn Gerson, and Annette Anisman were among the leading characters.
The Players ended their season with "Springtime for Henry," an English drawing-room farce. It was directed by three students . . . Helen Hinze, Tom Brain, and Irene Bauer.

So ends another year of enjoyable performances and we thank the Wisconsin Players for their successful entertainment.

DEBATE AND DISCUSSION

The 1944-45 speech season proved a banner one for the Wisconsin debate and discussion squads as our school captured the Western Conference debating crown and first place in the Northern Oratorical League. The debating team, composed of Joan Stein, Bill Rodiger, Jerome Schur, and Carl Hoeppner, defeated all six of its opponents on the subject of the post-war control of Germany. Bill Rodiger, winner of Wisconsin's Frankenburger award, defeated representatives from Iowa, Minnesota, and Northwestern, with his oration, "Outward Bound," to claim the Northern Oratorical League title.

Women's discussion and debate proved very successful in practice events sponsored by Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Rockford college. The women's team, composed of Caroline Nelson, Bonnie Lee, Annette Anisman, and Marion Marko, placed third in the women's Western conference tourney.

Among the outstanding speech programs on the campus was the sponsorship of weekly "Pro-Con" open discussions under the direction of John Hebal.

FORENSIC BOARD

The Forensic board is the administrative body of forensic activities on campus. The board is composed of representatives from Pythia, Castalia, Phi Beta, Zeta Phi Eta, and Student Board. The activities include a freshman forensic program and an upper class program which emphasizes discussion and debate.
This year the board sponsored an interpretative reading contest for upper classmen and arranged for a speech banquet at which time all the honors were bestowed upon people outstanding in University Forensic Activities.

University Religious Council

To further the growth and development of the spiritual, educational, and social life of students on campus is an aim which all campus religious groups have in common. The University Religious Council is an organization through which student, faculty, and staff representatives of each meet to discuss problems common to the various centers.

A different group acts as host at each monthly meeting. This gives all members a chance to get acquainted with the student houses of their co-workers. Mr. Maurice Terry, of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, visited the November meeting and set us thinking clearly on the possibility of decreasing racial and religious prejudices on a university campus.
This year's program included four convocations which aimed to present the place of religion in present day problems. The guest speakers were: Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Dr. Walter Judd, Senator Burton, and a trio of speakers from the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

February 11-17 was declared a week of religious emphasis. During this week the individual groups had special programs, bringing in outside speakers when possible. Embassy groups were organized to talk at the organized houses and dorms.

Calvary Lutheran University Church

Under the leadership of Rev. William C. Burhop and the elected members of the Student Council, Calvary Lutheran University Church has again this year been the religious and social center for students belonging to the Lutheran Synodical Conference of North America and for any other students or servicemen who have wanted to use the church facilities. Along with the regular Sunday programs consisting of discussion hours, divine services, and Sunday evening suppers, there have also been special activities which included seasonal parties, lectures, motion pictures, skits, and picnics.

During the Lenten season special mid-week Lenten meditations were begun in accordance with the wishes of the Student Council. Another feature inaugurated by the Council was the writing of a news-letter to former members and to servicemen who at some time had made Calvary their "church home."

Religious Emphasis Week was celebrated with Dr. Heidel from the Oriental Institute of Chicago as guest speaker at both the morning service and the evening supper. Calvary Church was also a participant in the World Student Service Fund.

Christian Science Organization

The Christian Science Organization at the University of Wisconsin provides an opportunity for young Christian Scientists and their friends to become acquainted and to join in social activities as well as to attend meetings which afford spiritual inspiration.

Active on the campus for more than thirty years, the Organization is directed by the studen ${ }^{+}$ officers elected each year. A member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Madison, and a member of the University faculty serve as advisers.

In addition to the regular Wednesday evening testimonial meetings, to which students, faculty members, and servicemen and women are invited, there are frequent social gatherings throughout the year. A get-together open house is held at the beginning of each new school semester for the purpose of getting acquainted. Picnics, sleigh rides, and informal parties provide entertainment.

Occasional informal groups which discuss student and world activities and problems from a religious standpoint have been found very helpful and popular.

Active in campus activities, the Christian Science Organization is well represented in the University Religious Council. During Religious Emphasis Week, the Organization sponsored a free public lecture on Christian Science by Hershel P. Nunn, C.S.B., of Portland, Oregon. The group also provides the University library with yearly subscriptions to the Christian Science Monitor.

Congregational Student Association

For thirty-eight years members of the Congregational Student Association have found the doors of the First Congregational Church and of the Congregational Student House open to them. The spiritual, recreational, social, and educational program of C.S.A. is planned, financed, and carried out by students under the leadership of their officers and cabinet members and under the guidance of Rev. and Mrs. Detweiler.

During the week discussions, teas and other social functions are held at the Student House at 422 N. Murray Street where "Len and Jane" live. Students attend and participate in the services of the First Congregational Church of which Dr.

Alfred W. Swan is the minister. Bradford Club meets Sunday night at the church for supper, recreation, worship, and various educational programs. Servicemen are always welcome and Rev. Detweiler serves as civilian chaplain on campus.

Hillel

The Hillel Foundation has been on the University of Wisconsin campus since 1924, and has been a "home away from home" for the Jewish students attending the University.

Hillel at Wisconsin is one of more than one hundred Jewish student centers maintained by the B'nai B'rith on college campuses over the United States and Canada. It carries a year-'round program of activities for campus military trainees as well as civilian students.

The program has been designed to help meet the social, religious, and cultural needs of the Jewish students on the campus. Hillel has made the War Service Program an important part of its activities in recent years. It has also been a member of the University Religious Council since its inception.

The activities are administered by a student council working under the directorship of Rabbi Theodore H. Gordon.

Presbyterian Student Center

As one of seventy-three student centers maintained by the Presbyterian Church across the nation, the Presbyterian Student Center here on the Wisconsin campus stands out as being the only one with a distinctly all-student University Presbyterian Church. The fellowship and program for campus Presbyterians is channeled through a parish church wherein officers and people alike are enrolled as students in the University.

This student group is an active member in the University Religious Council, the Federal Council of Churches, and the World Student Christian Federation, as well as being a local church with full standing within the denomination.

Students find in "Pres House" a program developed within six areas: worships, Christian education, social service, recreation, training in leadership, and personal counseling. Rev. Cecil ("Doc") Lower and his associate, Rev. John Clayton, are outstanding inspirational leaders of the large student congregation.

Highlights of the year include the completion of the chancel in the chapel, the Christian Festival service, the Lenten services, and the building of a social service program.

Saint Francis House

St. Francis House has planned its activities so as to serve both servicemen and civilians. Under the leadership of the chaplain, Rev. Daniel Corrigan, and the assistant chaplain, Miss Louise Hatch, St. Francis House has had a very successful year. It is gratifying to get letters from servicemen offering thanks for the opportunities of prayer and meditation.

Because the Franciscans think of religion as something more than a passive force in modern campus life, they invited three distinguished and inspiring persons to Madison to speak to all interested students and servicemen at the University of Wisconsin. Each speaker held a convocation lasting for a week.

Each year St. Francis House keeps a refugee student at the House along with the seven civilian students living there. The social committee is always busy planning entertainment for the members. Picnics and Sunday night suppers are regular activities enjoyed by all who attend.

Saint Paul's Catholic Chapel

St. Paul's Catholic Chapel was founded in 1906 as one of the first chapels to be located on a state university campus. Today the activities of the chapel include religious, social, and cultural functions for the Catholic men and women of the University.

The Holy Name Society and the Catholic Daughters of the University stress spiritual guidance and teaching. These two groups together with the Catholic Eating Co-op and St. Vincent De Paul's Society form the Newman Club, which is representative of all the Catholic students on campus. The Newman Club activities are mainly social, sponsoring dances, suppers, and informal get-togethers.

St. Paul's Chapel is truly a home for all its members.

Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation Student Association is pledged to present the Christian way of life in all its activities, and to promote an active seven-day-a-week program designed to meet student needs and interests. The student program is planned, carried out, and financed by the students themselves under the leadership of elected officers and cabinet members for each semester, assisted by Reverend Oscar M. Adam, Pastor-Director of the Foundation, and Elizabeth Tennant, his assistant.
The organization not only aims to meet the spiritual and social needs of students, but supplements their university work by providing opportunities for leadership training in worship, dramatics, music, journalism, and social activities. The University Methodist Church, which is housed in the same building, gives students the opportunity to work and worship with local church people, both faculty and others.

The student program has been extended this year in order that it might do as much as possible for servicemen and women on the campus and maintain contact with former Association members who are in the service.

Our athletic spirit has been deeply saddened this year by the death of Allen Shafer to whom this section is dedicated. In it are pictured our athletes who have done so well in upholding Wisconsin in the Big Ten tradition. We have not had a winning year, but we did a good job, win or lose. We have participated in football, basketball, boxing, track, and baseball in major sports events. Many of our outstanding men have already left us, and we proudly include the names of Wisconsin athletes in service. Finally, we round out our section by including women's athletics, and women's athletic associations.

Athletics

Skiing is a top sport at Wisconsin . . . and with such beautiful winter scenery, who wouldn't look forward to it?

ALLEN J. SHAFER, JR.

IJn Alemoriam

As the long shadows fell over Camp Randall November 11, an unbelieving and shocked campus was saddened by news that Allen J. Shafer, '48, had died of injuries received while sparking the Badgers to a win over Iowa that afternoon. We wish to dedicate this section to the memory of "A. J." His scholarship and leadership, his friendly personality, had all gone together to rate him high among the potential campus leaders. The driving spirit which characterized his gridiron work, the unselfish way in which he gave all for the things he loved will inspire cardinal-clad Badgers of future generations. His memory will linger, for he was "Wisconsin."

Action!

Fall is football time at Wisconsin, and the entire campus turns out.

Rog Laubenheimer, veteran end who served as team captain for several games, goes up for a high one . . .

Wisconsin backs form a chorus line of kickers on the practice fields at Camp Randall.

Behind every team there is a coach who is the guiding spirit, and at Wisconsin that coach is Athletic Director Harry A. Stuhldreher, who first broke into the gridiron spotlight as one of the "Four Horsemen" at Notre Dame under Knute Rockne. For nearly a decade now, the former quarterback has been handling Wisconsin teams, and instilling in those teams the esprit that has won them acclaim as the "fighting Badgers." Working under the handicap of inexperienced and changing personnel again this year, "Harry," as he is known to the campus, turned out a scrapping team which made football headlines all fall against the toughest schedule of opponents Cardinal teams have faced in recent years. A friend to every man on the squad, Stuhldreher has an uncanny knack for bringing out the spirit of a team and capitalizing on that even when the odds are down.

Wisconsin Basketball

Harold "Bud" Foster, Wisconsin's veteran basketball coach.

Coach Harold "Bud" Foster had three starting veterans and three reserves from his 1943-44 team with which to start workouts. Ray Patterson, Des Smith, and Bill Johnson, the regulars, again held starting posts and reserves Gene Mathews, Bob Hollinger, and Kurt Grimm saw a lot of action.

With Patterson and Smith holding down forward positions, and Johnson one of the guards, Foster looked for a center and another guard. Don Rehfeldt, $6^{\prime} 6^{\prime \prime}$ center from Chicago, and Bill Bachman, $6^{\prime} 4^{\prime \prime}$ frosh from Cincinnati, battled for the starting job at center, while Bob Kline from Superior won the other guard spot.

When the season opened against Lawrence, Rehfeldt was the pivot-man, and the Badgers, working as a unit, easily tripped the Vikings, 48-22. Patterson accounted for 11 points, and Smith made 10.
Almost single-handedly, Patterson and Rehfeldt beat Marquette in the first meeting between the clubs. Ray made 25 , and Don 14 of Wisconsin's 45 points in the $45-40$ triumph. Des Smith made the other six.

Notre Dame's improving quintet, led by guard Billy Hassett, handed the Badgers their first defeat, $57-46$, in a wild and woolly affair that was tops for thrills. Rehfeldt was high scorer for Wisconsin with 13, while Patterson had 11, and Smith, nine. Hassett and Dee each scored 16 points, and center Vince Boryla made 18, for the Irish.
The Badgers returned to the victory trail in their next game when they outpointed the previously unbeaten Iowa Seahawks, 51-43. Guard Bill Johnson took scoring honors for the first time in this game, posting 15 points.

During the vacation period, Wisconsin added two more victories to its string, by whipping Marquette, $46-39$; and Missouri 52-37, both games in the Milwaukee Auditorium.

The Big Nine season opened unhappily for the Badgers, as high-scoring center Max Morris hit 21 points to lead Northwestern to a $52-37$ victory. Patterson, ill with pleurisy, did not play, and Smith and Johnson took over the scoring honors with 16 and 11 points. Two days later, Wisconsin beat Truax Field at the air base with a $53-42$ score.

Ray returned to play against Minnesota and his floor work was the key factor in the Badgers' 46-37 victory. Johnson, Rehfeldt, and Smith carried the brunt of the scoring load, with 13,12 , and 10 points respectively.

Right after the Minnesota game, the blow fell which wrecked Wisconsin's chances for a first-division berth. Rehfeldt and Kline, who had held regular positions throughout the first part of the season, were declared scholastically ineligible. Two of the reserves-Ed Price and Vern Krueger-were also lost because of low grades, and Foster was back where he started from in the beginning of the year.

Luckily the next game was a non-conference tilt with Great Lakes, so the coach had a chance to experiment. Bachman took over the center duties, and Bob Sullivan of Milwaukee replaced Kline. The Sailors won the game, $66-51$, but Sullivan showed a type of fight which practically clinched the job for him. Johnson topped the Badgers with 12 points, and Patterson and little Gene Mathews, who began to play an important part in the Badger games, in the Missouri fray, scored 11 points apiece.

In the Chicago Stadium, the Badgers evened things with Northwestern, as Des Smith tossed in a rebound with 26 seconds left-the final score was $44-43$. Smith had 13 for his night's total and Patterson made 11. Two nights later, Purdue, paced by

Back Row: Vic Aiello, Bill Cukovich, Vernon Krueger, Vince Goering, James Pressentine, Hossie Dahl, Rex Capwell (manager).

Paul Hoffman, routed the Badgers at Lafayette, 45-34.

The Badgers took the road again for their next three games, playing all three in a single week-end. Michigan upset Wisconsin 50-39, but the Badgers, playing a possession type of game, came close to topping the defending champions from Ohio. The final score was 40-36, and Vince Goering, set-shot artist who had played at Dartmouth, kept the Badgers close with four long baskets. He and Smith made 10 apiece.

The next day, weary Wisconsinites were again beaten by Great Lakes 59-49, and the Badgers returned home to prepare for games with Ohio State and Michigan.

The Buckeyes, showing that they were in no mood to have their title chances trifled with again, ran up a 63-34 score against Wisconsin. Patterson made 13 points and he was the only Badger able to hit from the floor. In this Ohio game, Bill Zorn of Eau Claire replaced Sullivan at guard, bringing additional height and smooth floorwork into the lineup. Dick Bunke also came into his own in this game, replacing Bachman at center.

Patterson, Johnson, and Smith did the scoring as Wisconsin whipped Michigan 55-44. Ray made 18; Des, 11; and "Smiley" got 10.

Wisconsin, having evened scores with Northwestern and Michigan, looked forward to beating Purdue, and thanks mainly to 29 points dumped in by Des Smith, the Badgers handed the Boilermakers a $64-48$ licking. Smith's total was a record for the season, and his 12 field goals were high for a single game in that department. Arnie Risen of Ohio State later tied the field goal mark.

Patterson made 13, and Johnson had 12, and the three veterans had scored all but 10 of the Badger points in this game.

Following the Purdue game, the Badgers met Iowa and came the closest to handing the Hawkeyes their second beating of the season. The final score was 54-53, and this tight game resulted in a packed field house at Camp Randall to watch the second game between the clubs.

The inflamed Hawkeyes went on a scoring rampage and handed the Badgers the worst beating a Wisconsin team ever suffered at home - a $68-38$ drubbing.

It was a tired and worn Badger team that met Minnesota a week later and finally came apart at the seams in the last half. The Gophers took advantage of the Wisconsin off-night and spanked home a $54-50$ victory to close the season.

Wisconsin finished the conference schedule tied for sixth place with Northwestern and Minnesota.

Patterson was top scorer for the season with 238 points, and Smith had 217. Johnson made 184.

In the conference, Smith was fourth highest with 140, and Patterson was seventh with 135.

Major letters went to Patterson, Smith, Johnson, Bunke, Zorn, Sullivan, Mathews, Hollinger, Grimm, Bachman, and Goering. Numerals were awarded to Aiello, Rosendahl, Rhude, Levine, and Pressentine.

All eyes are on the ring as a boxing match in the Stadium nears a climax.

Fighting its way to a 4-4 deadlock with the Coast Guard Academy, the Wisconsin boxing team closed what Coaches Tom Kenneally and Vito Schiro considered a successful season. The Badgers tangled in seven matches, winning two, losing two and drawing in three.

The Cardinal ringmen opened the campaign at the Bunker Hill Naval Air Station. Competing in an exceptionally rugged series of bouts, Wisconsin earned a 4-4 tie.

A week later, at State College, Pa., the Badgers made hay at the expense of the Penn State Lions, 5-3.

The powerful Iowa Pre-Flight team was the guest at the opening match at the fieldhouse. After eight close battles the Seahawks emerged with a $41 / 2-31 / 2$ triumph. They had broken the 51-match winning streak the Badgers had piled up in their home ring.

Snapping back from the Iowa defeat, Chief Specialist Kenneally's crew soundly trounced the Nittany Lions once again, this time by a $51 / 2-21 / 2$ count.

Bunker Hill came to the fieldhouse the following week to repeat the $4-4$ draw they had previously fought with Wisconsin.

Once again the Badgers were set back by the Iowa Seahawks, this time at Iowa City, 5-3.

While they were there they learned that their opponents in the following week's match had won the Eastern Intercollegiate boxing crown.

The Coast Guard came to town with a lineup boasting five champions and two runnersup. Wisconsin had but one veteran and one civilian among its starting eight. The team was made up principally of Navy radio students.

Decisions by Hal Sullivan, in the welterweight division, Lloyd Swetman, lightweight, and Carl Kulawinski, the 175 -pounder who was later elected Captain, coupled with a knockout by Akio Konoshima, the little aggressive 127 -pound slugger, gave the Badgers the tie.

Wisconsin went into the fracas with a onepoint deficit as a result of forfeiting the heavyweight bout to the Coast Guard.
Three of the regulars, Kulawinski, Konoshima, and Sullivan, participated in all seven matches. Bill Neary, undefeated until the last match, took part in six.

Carl Kulawinski, the Merrill V-12, boxed on the 1943 Badger team under Johnny Walsh. He finished with four victories and three losses. His final triumph, that over Leland Wright of the Coast Guard, pulled the draw for the Cardinal mittmen.

Gaining the only actual KO of the year, Akio Konoshima, the modest Journalism sophomore, floored eastern champ, J. Brian O'Hara, after 41 seconds of the initial round. Konoshima had the best record of any Badger, coming out on top in six bouts. The seventh was a disputed decision at Penn State.

Hal Sullivan, the steady 145 -pound battler, was stopped but twice in his seven bouts. Bob Wilson, Iowa Pre-Flight, was his nemesis in each match. Bill Neary, who was shipped out along with Sullivan, as the season ended, won four times and drew in one tussle.

Big Ten Meet First

The Wisconsin cross-country team had their most successful season in years, returning to the top and upholding Wisconsin tradition. Returning veterans included Captain Knight Webster, Ray Zobel, Arnie Jackson and Ken Chandler, all letter winners. Added to this was the transfer of Bill Lawson, former Lawrence star, to Wisconsin by the Navy. The first two meets were both warm-ups for the Badgers as they easily defeated Milwaukee State Teachers and Truax Field; Lawson and Webster led the pack in both meets. The Cardinal then trekked to Notre Dame where they gained revenge for last year with a great $25-31$ victory; Lawson and Webster finished onetwo.

Here Wisconsin suffered their first defeat, a tough one point decision to a powerful Great Lakes aggregation composed of former college stars; Lawson continued his winning ways, however. The Jonesmen gained further revenge at Purdue as they soundly whipped the Boilermakers and Illinois. Lawson and Webster finished in a dead heat for first, while freshman Jack Kammer, former Madison West star, made his first appearance by grabbing off third place. The climax of the season came the following week when Wisconsin walked off with the Big Ten championship. The drive for the title was led by undefeated Bill Lawson in first, Capt. Webster in second and Kammer in sixth. Lawson added further to Wisconsin's fame by winning the National Servicemen's meet at Chicago.

Outdoor Track

Coach Tom Jones continued rebuilding track at Wisconsin, turning out representative teams that made other teams take notice.

Wisconsin's young and inexperienced team opened its season with a win at Lawrence College, followed by the first tie in years with Marquette. In their only home meet, Wisconsin was a victim of hard luck as they lost to Northwestern by $3 / 4$ of a point but did manage to beat Minnesota for second. Iowa PreFlight then gave the injury weakened Badgers a trimming. Wisconsin placed eighth in the conference meet, the lowest in years. Bob Ray won the javelin throw in the National Championships a week later. Leading scorers were Ray Zobel, Ken Chandler, Al Ryser and Knight Webster, distance runners.

Captain Gordon "Duke" Duquemin ran the 220 and quarter mile. Capt.-elect Ray Zobel was the team's leading scorer as he alternately ran the quarter, half-mile and mile.

A small nucleus of veterans augmented by a number of Navy men comprised Coach Tom Jones' indoor track squad. They finished second to Minnesota in their first meet, a quadrangular affair at Chicago, but got even the next week when they defeated the Gophers and Northwestern at home. Following a heart-breaking defeat by Iowa Pre-Flight, the Badgers bowed to the superior power of Illinois. Then another tough loss to arch-rival Marquette and finally eighth in the conference meet, with Bill Bachman taking the high jump championship. Outstanding in an interesting season were pole vaulter Norm Sackett, high jumper Bill Bachman, half miler Ken Chandler, distance men Bob Johann and Bill Lawson and shot-putter George Fuchs.

Ken Chandler, senior Navy student, was one of the leading Badger scorers as he ran the half-mile and anchored the relay team.

Ed Mattick, pitcher, takes batting practice in the Annex.

Scooping up a low one.

The team wars $u p$ in the Annex to prepare for the ' 45 season.

1944 . . . and the Badgers had an up and down season on the diamond, losing nine games and winning five in the shortest season they've had in recent years . . . In Big 10 play, they took only three out of eight and wound up low in the final standings.

Coach Art "Dynie" Mansfield again turned out a fighting team that looked a lot better than its record showed . . . true, the team could have used more of the slugging such as shown by Joe Wierschem and Bob Sullivan the season before, but they still had plenty of ability for an inexperienced nine . . . Gene Jaroch, pitcher, turned out to be one of the finds of the year . . . and all in all the team gave the crowds the kind of show that kept them coming back . . .

Opening the season against the Milwaukee Brewers, the Badgers dropped a two-game series . . . the next week saw them open the Big 10 schedule by running roughshod over Iowa, winning by six runs . . . after dropping a game to

Notre Dame by one run, the Badgers met Chicago and ran wild, pounding home 11 runs while the hapless Maroons got two . . . hope began to spring that Wisconsin might have a Big 10 champ as they ruled the heap with two conference wins and no losses . . . opening the series with Minnesota the Badgers dropped one 4-3, and tried to even the series the next day . . . though loaded for revenge, the varsity nine could not even stem the Gopher tide and lost 10-2 . . .

With the opening of the second half of the season, Wisconsin was knocked out of the conference running when it split a series with Purdue-and incidentally suffered its worst defeat, 17-4 . . . they returned to form briefly in a game with Truax Field which they won easily, 9-2 . . . then lost to Camp McCoy by one run, and dropped two to Northwestern in eight days to finish the Big 10 show . . . final game of the season saw the Badgers even the score with Camp McCoy by beating them, 6-2 $\ldots$

Fencing

Under Coach Frank Jordan, the Badger wrestlers found that inexperience was a costly liability as they wound up in ninth place following a season showing only one win against five losses . . . Minnesota and Iowa Pre-Flight were chief bugaboos for the Badgers as each pinned Wisconsin twice . . . sole victim was Iowa which came out on the short end of an 18-16 score . . . and the worst defeat came from Minnesota, whose grapplers held the Wisconsin team scoreless while rolling up 36 points
Bill Hill, 128 -pounder, was the only matman to enter the conference match ... Hill got into the finals, but was defeated there after rolling up four points for Wisconsin.
The complete roster of matmen included: Norman Hanley, William Hill, Robert Hoffman, Nick Fiore, James Paine, and William Rice.

One of the hardest hit sports at Wisconsin during the current war is crew . . . which sport had reached its peak in ' 41 and ' $42 \ldots$. Wisconsin put some of its strongest boats out in those years . . . then Coach Allen Walz left for the Navy, and the veteran oarsmen did likewise in the main . . . in '43, George Rea who rowed number three on the big ' 42 crew took over the coaching duties and turned out a strong freshman boat, but no varsity eight . . . this team had a fairly successful season against teams in Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin . . . longer trips were out due to travel restrictions . . . last year Curt Drewes, longtime U.W. boatbuilder, stepped in as coach since Rea had gone to the Navy . . . with the aid of Chuck Constantine and one or two other men from the preceding frosh boat, Drewes turned out a combined V-12 and civilian boat that looked pretty fair in inter-squad regattas . . . inexperience showed, however, as the Cardinal blades lost both interscholastic races to St. John's . . . this year with few interested men, and little competition, the odds are long that the shells will never be taken out of the boathouse.

Sharing the hardest-hit honors at wartime Wisconsin with the rowing enthusiasts were the fencers under Coach "Arp" Masley . . . always a minor sport here at Wisconsin, and never achieving the popularity it enjoyed in eastern and foreign colleges, fencing was nevertheless a definite part of the Wisconsin sports schedule .. . Coach Masley's teams had been capable of bringing laurels back to the campus from the field of honor until the last two seasons when service calls and graduation had taken all his veterans . . . and shorter periods of registration for the average man student prohibited adequate training in this skill . . . there were no high school stars to rely on . . . a few enthusiasts still use the foil in phy. ed., but as a team, fencing is a war casualty.

Tennis

Swimming

The minor sports as well as the major sports suffered from the changing scene at Wisconsin last spring . . . indeed, they probably suffered most . . . Joe Steinauer, coaching the golf team again last spring, was only able to schedule two matches . . . the golfers opened the season with a win over the Lawrence College Vikings, posting ten points to the Viking eight . . . before meeting Minnesota, their other opponent, the Badgers lost some of their touch and went down to a spanking $191 / 2-41 / 2$ defeat . . . the Gophers outdid the Badgers at every phase of the game it seemed . . . perhaps one of the biggest factors in the defeat was the fact that the Badgers had had little competition as a team or as individuals compared to that of the Gopher group . . . letter winners were Rex Capwell, Gene Davis, Wayne Sanderhoff, Bob Siegel, and Dick Sorgel.

Another hard-hit U.W. team was the tennis group . . . they also were cut to a two game season, and like the golf team split even for the spring . . . lack of practice time and experienced men took their toll here as in other phases of the U.W. sports program . . . the Cardinals went down to defeat at the hands of Illinois to open the season . . . they won only one match while the Orange and Blue took eight . . spurred by this defeat, the team picked up its game and ended the season with a face-saving win over Minnesota . . . the Badgers took five games to the Gophers' four . . . Major "W"s were awarded to Bill DeLong, Bob Edmondson, Hal Hanson, Dana MacInnis, Jim Park, and Bob Putterman . . . Paul Kaesberg won his minor letter.

With Robin Middlemas the only veteran returning, Coach Joe Steinauer put in a full season turning out a swimming crew that had an off-and-on season . . opening good with victory in a meet with Minnesota and Lawrence, the Cardinal tankmen finished second with 55 points . . . then came a streak of victories in dual meets with Lawrence (59-25), Iowa (45-39), and Illinois ( $50-34$ ) . . . the record got a second blot when Northwestern and Indiana both topped the Badgers in a triangular meet . . . again in swimming, it was the same story of sports during war . . . there were inexperienced men to teach the elements of competitive swimming, and there was little practice time for the use of sailors on the squad and the use of the pool by servicemen.

Veterans

The University of Wisconsin Veterans of World War II was organized by a group of veteran students in October of 1944 for the primary purpose of aiding the returning veteran to readjust himself to all phases of campus and civilian life. It was felt that a definite need existed for such an organization, and that such a need could best be answered by men who most fully understood and appreciated the problems of the returning veteran.

The chief disciple and first president of the veteran group was Ed Cnare, through whose efforts the organization developed, took force, and gained direction. The UWVWWII is dedicated to the principles for which its members fought, and, in appreciation of the provisions provided for veteran security by the United States government and the Wisconsin state government, the organization has proclaimed its motto: "Not what we can get, but what we can give." In keeping with this motto, the members of the UWVWWII were instrumental in the success of the 7th War Loan Drive, the University Blood Bank, and the Red Cross drive. The organization has further established an Advisory Council Office which counsels the group's 153 member veterans, directing them to the proper veteran facilities for the solution of their problems.

The future plans of the UWVWWII are wide and varied. The core of all contemplated activity lies within - and is buttressed by - the spirit of good fellowship, the development of leadership, service to the war effort toward complete and speedy victory, and service to a post-war world toward maintaining a progressive, democratic America.

W A A

Miss Blanche M. Trilling, as director of physical education for women, has been an inspiring leader and helpful friend to girls in phy. ed.

The Women's Athletic Association lends time and place for recreational sports. It includes seasonal and yearly activities, each having its own program and officers.

Some seasonal clubs active under WAA are Hockey, Volleyball, Bowling, Basketball, and Badminton. Tournaments are organized in most sports and opportunity is also afforded for activity on a non-competitive basis.
Wiskits, the annual amateur all-university co-ed show, was again a sell-out. Scholarships are awarded from the proceeds of Wiskits to girls who are active in the WAA program, rank high in scholastic standards, and are partially selfsupporting.

Orchesis, the WAA dance club, this year collaborated with the Wisconsin Players in producing Orpheus and Eurydice in dance drama form. Dolphin Club's play day was another successful event.
The WAA banquet brought to an end the year's activities. The winners in intramural competition were given awards and girls who have especially contributed to the success of the club were recognized.

Physical Education Club

The Physical Education Club is an organization of all women students majoring in physical education. It serves to further their interests in the educational world as well as in all fields related to physical education such as physiology and physio-therapy. The annual social functions are the Freshman-Transfer Orientation Tea in the fall, the Fall Banquet, and the Senior Send-off in the spring. P.E.M. stands for the Physical Education Magazine edited and published by the majors. P.E.M. editors are Betty Jane Wilhelm and Evelyn Klinkmann. Program Chairman is

Girls in Action

Although men's varsity teams seem to monopolize much of the attention in athletic circles, women's sports, sponsored by WAA, continue as leading events -and lots of fun!

With our winter weather, many of the girls choose skiing as their favorite sport, and the yeararound program of the Outing Club provides many opportunities for trying out courses near and far . . . But hockey (below left) is one of the first activities on the WAA calendar. It's an old custom to gather for a cheer at the end of the game! . . . Volleyball is another early season sport . . . Badminton is the only intermural sport for individual participation that has survived the accelerated schedule . . . Greek and independent teams compete regularly during the winter season in the Lathrop bowling alleys . . . Orchesis, both junior and senior groups, admits top dancers into its membership and puts on such spectacular shows as "Orpheus" . . . The basketball season was climaxed with an all-star game March 28, but many good games preceded it . . . Swimming in Lathrop pool is a popular event on Friday afternoons. Aquarians who can pass the necessary tests join Dolphin Club and take part in the annual pageant . . . for more WAA fun!

Fun On Campus

$\checkmark$

Whether it's a rushing party or a tobog gan ride, Badgers always manage to have fun on their campus. The Pi Phis do it with cowboy costumes, a western "bar," and Hughesie's smile for the rushees!

770, "the only student nightclub," pro vides an opportunity for dress-up and a really good time.

The Paul Bunyan room is the place for all sorts of entertainment - including an engrossing checker game.

Snow Ball chairmen try the snow-and find it lots of fun. Their prayer for a white Winter Carnival week worked.

This is a year of welcome and farewell. We pay tribute to three presidents this year. We say fond goodbye to President Dykstra who has seen us through these four years, we thank Dean Anderson who ably carried out the duties of acting President, and we heartily welcome President Fred whose charm has won us all. As we who are seniors leave, we take with us Dean Goodnight and our Registrar, Curtis Merriman, who have both done so much for Wisconsin. In this section, we picture them all-the administrative offices, the colleges and their deansthose who are leaving and those who are staying. We also include the professional and honorary groups within these colleges. All of these organizations make up the academic side of our stay at Wisconsin.

BEHTN THE SCENES

The Presidents

After seven years of service as President of the University of Wisconsin, Clarence A. Dykstra resigned from his post in November.

In January the former president left Madison to become provost of the University of California at Los Angeles.

The teas held regularly at the presidential mansion at 130 North Prospect Avenue where the Dykstras were "at home" to the student body gave Wisconsinites the opportunity to meet and chat with the president and his wife on a friendly, social basis.

Mr. Dykstra will be long remembered by the students as a dynamic personality and as an executive who was vitally interested in his responsibilities.

Former dean of the College of Agriculture, Edwin B. Fred assumed his duties as President in February of this year. Long recognized as an eminent scholar in his field of study, President Fred was elected to his post by unanimous vote of the Board of Regents.

In 1913, he joined the staff of the College of Agriculture as assistant professor of bacteriology and he served as Dean of the Graduate school from 1934 to 1943.

The appointment of President Fred was accepted with enthusiasm by the University students, for whom he has become a symbol of progress in the field of higher education.

The Governor

The state of Wisconsin, by which our University is supported, is fortunate in having as its governor, Walter S. Goodland, a man with a deep and sincere interest in the advancement of higher education.

Behind the scenes of everyday University life sit the ten members of the Board of Regents, a body corporate responsible for the mammoth task of guiding the University policy and deciding on all matters pertaining to the budget.

Designed to assist the Board of Regents, the Board of Visitors examines generally the work of the University and presents an annual report on the results of the investigation as well as recommendations to the Regents.

Regents

The Dean of

 W omenDean Louise Troxell, respected by the student body for her understanding, has this message for the readers of the Badger:
"The events of this year have practically changed our University into a woman's college. It has brought home sharply the fact that carrying on the ordinary routines of life can be harder than facing a crisis.
"To many of our women students, the year has brought great personal sorrow. For all, it has been a period of readjustment to difficult situations. They have proven themselves of good stature and have shown themselves worthy of the great traditions of our state."

The office of the Dean of Women operates a vocational advising and placement bureau for women students. In addition, the office keeps a permanent, comprehensive personal record which enables it to give recommendations and other information about

Wisconsin graduates. For students unable to afford the necessities demanded by college life, the Dean's office maintains a loan fund and a lending library of college text books.

Assisting Dean Troxell in advising the Wisconsin wome1 who find their way to Lathrop hall with their problems are Dean Helen Kayser and Miss Ann Lawton, freshman dean.

The friendly attitude of the deans and the wisdom of the advice which they impart makes a visit to their offices an enjoyable and profitable experience.

Dean Kayser acts as the overseer of panhellenic activities while Miss Lawton helps freshman women to make a successful readjustment to independent college living.

The Dean of ## Men

Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men, will retire from his post on July 1 of this year, after counseling thousands of men students and officiating as dean of the summer session during more than forty years of service to this University.

In his capacity as dean, he has served as adviser to the returning veterans and he has watched their progress with a deep interest.

A kind man, with an ability to make students feel at ease in his presence, Dean Goodnight has come to be affectionately known as "Scotty" on the campus.

The Dean's office is a place for all men students to carry their problems for solution, whether they be academic, social or housing. The Dean and his staff act as wise counselors to aid students to become more productive citizens in the University community.

Dean Goodnight has always cooperated with the student governing bodies on campus in which he has a vital interest. He has often referred many cases to the student court for decision.

Assistant Dean of Men and Coordinator of Student Personnel, Willard W. Blaesser acts as liaison officer for student counseling. A friendly personality, Mr. Blaesser is principally interested in assisting students with financial and study technique problems.

He is chairman of the Committee of American Council on Education which is now working on a brochure concerning student personnel work in the post-war world.

Popular and competent Registrar Curtis E. Merriman will retire on July 1 from his position which he has held since 1936. Formerly on the school of education faculty, Mr. Merriman maintains that the beautiful campus and the independent thinking of the students at Wisconsin have made his 22 years here especially enjoyable. Revered for his kindness, he has shown an active interest in assisting students as chairman of the committee on loans and undergraduate scholarships.

At various times in his 18 -year career at the University, serving as registrar, dean of the extension division and director of the bureau of guidance and records, Frank O. Holt is now director of the department of public service, which was created a year ago to expand the University's service program in the state. With all the state as his campus, he travels, contacting high schools, businessmen, industrialists, farmers, laborers and professional men.

Student financial adviser and auditor of student organizations, Ray Hilsenhoff handles about $$ 700,000$ in student activity funds each year. Busy, everybody's friend, he does all the accounting for the veterans on campus under the GI Bill of Rights. Mr. Hilsenhoff graduated from the Commerce school in 1924, a classmate of A. W. Peterson and Porter Butts.

Personalities

Maurice E. McCaffrey this spring is completing his thirty-eighth year as secretary to the board of regents. One of the most cordial personalities on campus, he possesses an impressive list of responsible activities. He serves as trust officer for the regents, assists the board of visitors, acts as secretary-treasurer to the University Women's Building and the Wisconsin University Building corporations, and is a member of the University Planning committee.
A. W. Peterson, distinguished alumnus of the University, now holds the position of its director of business and finance. The budget, all disbursements and accounts for the physical plant of the institution come through his office. A graduate with honors in 1924, Mr. Peterson served as student financial advisor in his senior year. Upon graduation he went into the University business offices as assistant accountant and remained there until he became comptroller.

Director of University publicity and editor of the Press Bureau is Robert Foss, with offices above the Athletic Ticket office. His activities form one of the important links between the University and the general public. Among other duties, Mr. Foss sells advertising for and publishes the football programs, has charge of "comp" athletic tickets, gets out the Student Directory and publishes the summer Cardinal.

Physical Education students are piloted to and from classes by Miss Lillian "Billy" Davis, Lathrop elevator girl. Billy enjoys her contacts with the different students from all parts of the country who ride in her elevator, and she likes to compare their views on various subjects. For fun she rides and until recently, owned her own horse.

"Calling Leon Lansing!" Sound familiar? This most often paged man at the Union, head janitor of the 25 employed in the building, is one of the important reasons why our parties, proms, and meetings go off smoothly. He has worked at the Union for 16 years, and for the past eight, has been head janitor. Mr. Lansing maintained that the varied activities and the busy atmosphere of the Union make his job especially interesting.

Bach has been working in the Home Economics building for the past 20 years. Jovial and kind, he thinks the Home Ec girls and instructors are the best on campus. "Good cooks, too," he adds.

Mr. Bach's favorite pastime is fishing, and Lake Mendota is his favorite spot-perhaps because of a $191 / 2$ pound Northern pike he once caught there.

TEE BILL AND OVER

College of

Vincent E. Kivlin, professor of agriculture and assistant dean of the College of Agriculture since 1941, was appointed as acting dean of the college and director of its experimental stations by President E. B. Fred, former dean. He will serve in these positions until the posts are filled by the action of the board of regents.

With the University since 1924, Dean Kivlin was director of the short course from 1929 to 1941 . The understanding and affable dean has little time for relaxation but admits that he has a weakness for square dancing.

Agriculture

Miss Helen T. Parsons, professor of dietetics in the Home Economics school, on first meeting disproves her own laughing statement, "I have no personality." A woman of varied and colorful interests, Miss Parsons recently won the Borden award for her work in research. Always thrilled to hear from one of her former students, she enlivens the corridor adjacent to her office with photographs of her graduating classes.
M. R. Irwin, research scientist in genetics, last fall received the Daniel Giraud Elliot medal for 1938, presented by the National Academy of Sciences for the most meritorious work in zoology or paleontology published during that year. Prof. Irwin has a sharp wit and enjoys good humored bantering with his staff. Favorite cartoons of his fellow workers are displayed on his office wall.

Professor of agricultural economics, R. K. Froker is chairman of the College of Agriculture's post-war planning committee. Under his able leadership, plans for aid to the farmer in production and marketing are investigated. Prof. Froker's interest in art is manifested by the fine landscapes in oil which decorate the walls of his office.

Professor Edward J. Graul enjoys teaching elementary soils courses to undergraduate " Ag " students and short course boys; but he looks forward enthusiastically to extension division tours which take him throughout the state.

Agricultural Student Council

The Agricultural Student Council is a coordinating body composed of representatives of all the organizations on the College of Agriculture campus. Its purpose is to promote scholarship and worthwhile activities which are designed to bring about a closer relationship between the faculty and the students on Ag campus.

In keeping with tradition this year, the Council sponsored the Walk-Around and the Spring Picnic. In reviving an old tradition they also sponsored a mid-winter Valentine Dance.

Training in leadership, scholarship and character for all Ag students is the aim of the Council. Annually, the Agricultural Student Council Awards are presented to the outstanding seniors in Agriculture and Home Economics.

Omicron Nu

An honorary society for Home Economics majors, Omicron Nu was founded in 1912 at Michigan State College. Eta chapter was organized on the Wisconsin campus in 1915.

Each year new members are elected from the junior and senior classes by the active student and faculty members of the chapter. This fall six new members were added to the group.

Margaret Gunderson was the recipient of the Omicron Nu scholarship awarded each year to an outstanding senior or graduate student in home economics. This award is not limited to Omicron Nu members but is available to any qualified student.

In February the members were hostesses at a tea held in honor of high scholarship students from the sophomore and junior classes, as an expression of the organization's aim to promote scholarship and leadership in the field of Home Economics.

Euthenics Club

Euthenics Club is an organization whose mem bership is open to all students and faculty members in Home Economics. It is affliated with the College Club Division of Wisconsin Home Economics Association and the American Home Economics Association. A general program for club work is planned at the annual meeting of these organizations.

Opportunity for personal development of the members, for service to school and community, and for active participation in improving home and family living are the objects of the club. This is carried out through social, business, and professional experiences in club life.

The annual Euthenics Style Revue is one of the main projects undertaken each year. The club is also interested in International understanding. It proves its interest by making annual contributions to the national fund which brings foreign fellows to this country to study.

4-H and Blue Shield

The 4-H and Blue Shield Clubs were federated last year since the overlapping memberships can be more effective acting together. This combination will hold throughout the duration.
Stemming from the national organization, the 4-H Club was organized in 1925. The Blue Shield Country Life Club was started in 1928 with the merging of an Ag campus organization for men students and a country life club from Wesley foundation.

Both groups are members of the Youth Section of the Country Life Association and send delegates to its annual conference.
Development of leadership, appreciation for rural culture, and stimulation of fellowship among rural youth are the objectives of the $4-\mathrm{H}$-Blue Shield Club.

The club is an active participator in the Rural Life Conference which held its annual meeting in Madison this year.

Saddle & Sirloin Club

Organized in the College of Agriculture in January, 1920, the Saddle and Sirloin Club of the University of Wisconsin has as its purpose the promotion of improved livestock production and judging. It is a national organization and has active chapters in nearly every agricultural college in the United States.

The organization finances intercollegiate livestock judging teams and inter-school contests, and supports the national Saddle and Sirloin essay contest.

The club's most important function is the presentation of the Annual "Little International."

A scholarship fund for students has been established by Saddle and Sirloin. Juniors and seniors who maintain an active interest in livestock and the organization will be eligible candidates; however, veterans of the armed forces will be given preference.

Besides his duties as Director of the Chemistry school, Dr. J. Howard Mathews acts as president of the Madison police and fire commission. He frequently works with the district attorney and sheriff, helping them to apprehend criminals with his knowledge of criminal investigation by scientific methods.

The Chemistry school, sometimes known as the campus Pentagon building because of the confusion of corridors and laboratories, offers its students modern equipment and excellent instruction.

The beginning chemistry student is at first bewildered by the complexity of the apparatus and instruments with which he is confronted. Soon, however, clad in a rubber apron, he begins to feel at home in the quant labs where he learns the fundamental laboratory procedures and how to analyze the contents of inorganic compounds.

Students earnestly bent over the balances, working slowly and with care, indicate that Chemistry is an exacting science.

An incomprehensible maze of glass piping and tubes to the uninitiated, the large external Soxhlet extractor is an apparatus utilized to obtain oils from various plant materials. Pictured on this page is a graduate student working with the extractor in the food laboratory.
The organic laboratories are characterized by huge condensers and flasks set up in complicated arrangements and a prevailing pungent odor. Here the students learn general laboratory procedures and the use of the equipment in order that the desired results can be obtained. The distillation of some organic compound is a familiar assignment in the organic labs.
Tucked away in between larger laboratories are small individual labs where graduate students and faculty members carry on their research work and senior chemistry majors work on their theses.
The graduate student pictured with the "cow" is analyzing oils, working with an electrically heated fractionating column to separate the oil into fractions for exhaustive analysis.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma was founded in 1902 with the purpose of contributing to the advancement of the chemical sciences. The fraternity offers professional and social brotherhood to members of the organization. Besides presenting speakers on interesting scientific subjects, it participates in the annual engineering exposition and maintains various displays throughout the year in the Chemistry department.

This year Alpha Chi Sigma initiated 19 new members, seven more than have ever been initiated at one time in the history of the fraternity.

The pledge record was also broken this year by a margin of ten.

The major social function of the year was the formal dance held on February 10, sponsored with Sigma Nu.

Commerce

Professor of business administration, Philip J. Fox is primarily interested in business ethics and business statistics. As a result of these interests he has studied and collected records of the guilds during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries and he keeps cost records for the state of Wiscon$\sin$. One of his most prized possessions is his collection of Mozart records. During his leisure moments, Professor Fox enjoys billiards, chess and photography.

A new faculty member of the School of Commerce, Richard U. Ratcliff teaches real estate and housing. Prior to coming to Wisconsin, he spent two and a half years in Washington, D.C., working with the National Housing Agency. Mr. Ratcliff heads the newly organized Bureau of Business Research, which is designed to assist the business men of the state.

A modest person of much ability, Miss Angeline G. Lins teaches accounting. She became a member of the Commerce school faculty after her graduation from Wisconsin. Wellliked by her students, she serves as faculty advisor of the Woman's Commerce club and Phi Chi Theta.

Beta Gamma Sigma

The honorary commerce fraternity of Beta Gamma Sigma was organized at the University of Wisconsin in 1913 with the Universities of California, Wisconsin and Illinois as the charter chapters. There are now forty-eight chapters in leading collegiate schools of business throughout the country.

New members are elected to the fraternity from the highest ten per cent of the senior class on the basis of scholarship, activities and leadership. The present membership includes Virginia Helling, Marilou Williams and Dorothy Riggs.

Delta Sigma Pi

Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, was founded at New York University in 1907. The purpose of the fraternity is "to foster the study of business in universities; to encourage scholarship and the association of students for their mutual advancement by research and practice; to promote closer affiliation between the commercial world and the students of commerce, and to further a higher standard of commercial ethics and culture and the civic and commercial welfare of the community."
Psi chapter was installed at the University of Wisconsin in 1923. The chapter house is located at 132 Breese Terrace and is temporarily occupied by the Ship's Company of the WAVES. Despite the fact that there is a decreased enrollment in the School of Commerce, the fraternity has maintained an active professional program.

Close affiliation is kept between the fraternity and its members in the armed forces.

Phi Chi Theta awards are presented to women possessing outstanding scholastic records and who are active participators in the activities of the College of Commerce.

The organization is not only interested in professional and scholastic activities; it also encourages social events. With other commerce organizations, the sorority assists in the sponsorship of the annual "Commerce Turnout," held in the fall, and the "Senior Sendoff," an annual spring event.

Founded in 1917 when women were first beginning to enter the business world, the Women's Commerce Club has kept its members abreast with changes and advancements in the business fields.

Among the group's activities this year was their annual dinner, open to all women in the College of Commerce. At that time a cup is presented to the Commerce freshman woman with the highest scholastic record.

School of

Charles J. Anderson, respected and efficient dean of the School of Education, has served in his present capacity during the past fifteen years. Dean Anderson owns a farm in Dane county, near Madison, which he frequently visits. "I like to kick up good black soil and know that it's mine," he says.

Education

Professor A. L. Masley, acting director of the division of Physical Education and Inter-murals for men, has been with the University since 1923. Stressing physical fitness and recreational welfare, he is preparing the Navy and ASTR men under his supervision for the duties they may encounter in their later training. An enthusiastic bowler, he also enjoys hunting and fishing in the country.

Professor Margaret H'Doubler introduced the first course in dance as a creative art ever offered by a university. With the physical education department since 1910, Prof. H'Doubler has been largely responsible for the development of the University Orchesis group. In 1937 she was invited to Sweden to present her philosophy of teaching dance.

Talented Professor R. S. Stebbins of the art department has been with the University since 1923 except for several leaves of absence. On one of his leaves he traveled in Europe and Africa, stopping to paint scenes of beauty and interest. The trip was climaxed with an exhibition in Paris.

A member of the School of Education faculty for two decades, Professor T. L. Torgerson, is now conducting a child study survey involving 100 teachers and 4,000 young-son.

College of

Dean F. E. Johnson once jestingly named "raising cain" as his hobby. But as he and others in engineering will testify, he has no time to pursue that or any hobby. Dean Johnson has one of the most understanding and sympathetic attitudes on campus and he is a favorite faculty adviser among engineering students.

Engineering

Professor Roland A. Ragatz, chairman of the chemical engineering department, wins the approval of his students by straightforward, well organized presentation of his courses. During the summers, Prof. Ragatz operates a garden, just an ordinary vegetable garden. Denying a pleasure in grubbing in the soil, he asserts, "This is a patriotic duty. I don't do it all the time."
George J. Barker, associate professor of mining and metallurgy, busy in a war-depleted faculty, still keenly enjoys the pursuit of his research problems. An industrial firm recently purchased the patent on an improved processing of clay, perfected by Prof. Barker and Prof. Emil Truog of the soils department. "Curling," an old Scottish ice game, is Prof. Barker's favorite sport.

Electrical engineering students become acquainted with Professor J. R. Price in courses in alternating current machines and electrical circuits. The dynamo laboratory is also in his charge. Prof. Price enjoys camping and hunting but his heavy academic load leaves him little time for sports. Formerly finding his fields in Canada, he now is glad to get as far as northern Wisconsin for upland game.
"You can take anybody, find out what he wants to do and make a first-class person out of him." This is the maxim by which Professor P. H. "Pat" Hyland of the mechanical engineering department teaches. "Pat" is an ardent Chicago Cub fan and he admits that he gets sore when they lose a game. "I expect them to win every season," he smiled.

Tau Beta Pi

The Wisconsin Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society, was chartered in 1899. It is the sixth oldest of the present seventy-six chapters.
High scholarship and integrity of character, adaptability to circumstances, and breadth of interest are considered in electing members from the five branches of engineering: Chemical, Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, and Mining and Metallurgical.

Among Tau Beta Pi's alumni are many of the faculty of the College of Engineering and technical experts in wide-spread fields of industry.
Due to wartime difficulties the activities of the group this year were restricted to business meetings.

Pi Tau Sigma

The Wisconsin chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, was organized in 1915, simultaneously with that of the University of Illinois. At a joint meeting of the two groups, the original Wisconsin name of Phi Delta Phi was discarded in favor of Pi Tau Sigma. Neither group would concede the other the right to the Alpha chapter designation; therefore, both chapters are known as Alpha chapters.

Members are selected from the student body and from the ranks of practicing engineers on the basis of character and outstanding achievement.

A. I. Ch. E.

Shortly before the first World War A.I.Ch.E. was founded as the Chemical Engineers' Society. It became affiliated with the national organization in 1923.

Originally founded to foster the interests of students in chemical engineering, its purpose is to develop the principles and practice of chemical engineering, to encourage the application of chemistry, physics, and mathematics to the problems of industry, to promote industrial efficiency by substitution of scientific and engineering procedures for "rule of thumb," and to establish high standards of personal ethics.

Activities of A.I.Ch.E. this year have included picnics, baseball games, and a field trip to the research project in the Mechanical Engineering building.

Ho Io IA TA

Any serious electrical engineer realizes the necessity of a broad education in his chosen field. The great expansion of electrical engineering in the past twenty-five years has shown the need for technically and socially trained men. The purpose of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the University of Wisconsin is to provide this training.

The activities of the organization include meetings addressed by specialists in engineering fields, presentation of student papers on technical subjects, meetings with senior engineers in the city of Madison and special social events.

Membership in the National Student Organization of the A.I.E.E. brings the advantages of a library service of the latest technical information, and the receipt of the National Journal of the Institute. It also affords an opportunity for the student to participate in competitive work on technical subjects.

Upon graduation, the student members are welcomed into the National Organization of the A.I.E.E. and can proceed smoothly into their professional activities.

Membership in the society this year consisted almost entirely of students in the Naval Training Program. Faculty members and prominent, successful civil engineers addressed the group at the monthly meetings which are held at the Hydraulic Laboratory.

Looking forward to a larger civilian enrollment in the coming year, Professor James G. Woodburn, faculty adviser for A.S.C.E., is also looking forward to a more extensive program.

M.

Founded during the summer of 1943 , the Mechanical Engineering Society of Wisconsin has completed its second successful year as a war-born campus organization. M.E.S.W. is affiliated with both of the national mechanical engineering societies, A.S.M.E. and S.A.E., and boasts a fine representation in each.
Despite the war-time restrictions on inspection trips and speakers, the society has been able to present a variety of entertainment at its meetings. Several well-known engineers have spoken on superchargers and balancing machines; movies treating design and performance have been shown. The first semester's slate was climaxed with a dance held within the halls of the Mechanical Engineering building.

Although M.E.S.W. will probably disband to form the individual chapters of A.S.M.E. and S.A.E. after the war, as was the case previously, it can be said that M.E.S.W. has brought about a feeling of unity among the mechanical engineering students and tightened the relations between the national societies.

Associate director of the Extension Division, Lorentz H. Adolfson is administrative head of all general extension activities. His present work is concerned primarily with the United States Armed Forces Institute. Preparations are being made for the development of widespread adult class and lecture services throughout the entire state.

Professor Joseph Palmeri

A teacher of three languages, French, Spanish and Italian, Professor Joseph Palmeri divides his time between classes on the Hill and extension division duties. As a result of Mr. Palmeri's work with the ASTP Italian language students last year, he has been asked to write a textbook using the revised methods of language instruction. When not busy with his academic duties, Mr. Palmeri enjoys making cabinets.
During this year, Lewis E. Drake, associate professor of psychology in the extension division, has been on leave of absence to do research work on the interpretation of mental tests, their forecasting utility and the relationship between various measures of human intelligence. Some of the methods used in instructing the ASTP language students have been incorporated in Mr. Drake's most recent publication, "Aids to Language Learning-Spanish."

An enthusiastic pioneer in the field of adult education, and correspondence study, Assistant Professor Harriette G. Holt has developed unusually successful techniques and procedures in the teaching of mathematics throughout thirty years of untiring service in the extension division. An extensive traveler, Miss Holt often has lectured on her experiences over the local radio stations and before various campus groups.

Professor Ira L. Baldwin, former assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, was selected as Dean of the Graduate School on December 1 of this school year. Prior to his return to Wisconsin to assume the deanship, Prof. Baldwin had been on leave of absence from the agriculture bacteriology department, investigating tropical dis eases for the Navy department in Washington, D.C.

Graduate School

A familiar figure around Bascom Hall is Professor William B. Hesseltine of the history department, who may be seen during his office hours chatting and joking with students while enjoying his pipe. He is fond of gardening, cheerfully and modestly claiming the distinction of being the world's worst gardener.

Coming to America from Germany in 1938, Professor Hans H. Gerth joined the sociology department faculty in 1940. A former newspaperman and a penetrating analyst of social problems, Prof. Gerth was educated in Heidelburg, Frankfurt, Kiel and London. He has published several essays on Nazism, some of which contain confidential information learned in Germany.

A teacher, writer, editor, public speaker, gentleman farmer and banker is Professor William H. Kiekhofer, for whom over 40,000 economics students have given the famed "Wild Bill" skyrocket yell. Although better known among the students for his Econ 1a and 1b, "Wild Bill" conducts graduate seminars and heads the Graduate Division of the Social Sciences. He spends his summers writing at his home on the Atlantic coast.

Despite a serious decrease in staff assistants, Director Grant M. Hyde of the School of Journalism, has maintained the high standards of his school. Reserved and dignified, Prof. Hyde possesses a rich journalistic background. He attends newspaper conventions and editors' meetings throughout the country, maintaining an active interest and extensive contacts in the newspaper field. He is affectionately known among his students as "Daddy" Hyde.

School of

A gay and vivid personality, a widely-known writer and a memorable teacher is Professor Helen M. Patterson, the J-school's first lady. Although academic duties usurp most of her time, she does all she can in the war effort and is also revising her book on feature writing. She's bright, she's beautiful and belongs to her students, who nominate her "the best dressed woman on campus."

Quiet William Moore is admired among his J-students for his willingness to be of help to anyone asking for his assistance. At one time on the staff of the Kansas City Star, Mr. Moore is a crack photographer as his collection of pictures can easily attest.

A lawyer-journalist, affable Professor Frank Thayer takes a personal interest in his students, each of whom he calls by first name. His recently published book, "Legal Control of the Press," has gained wide recognition among lawyers and newspapermen throughout the nation. A good yarn-spinner, he enlivens his lectures with colorful anecdotes - both fictional and non-fictional.

Jovial, friendly and interesting, Floyd Kenneth Baskette joined the J-school faculty last fall. Working on the copy desk of the Atlanta Constitution and with the Atlanta Bureau of the Associated Press, Mr. Baskette gained experience and knowledge which he imparts to his students in a charming Southern accent.

Coranto

The Wisconsin Margaret Fuller chapter of Coranto is the first professional organization for women in journalism in the United States. The "baby" of the late Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, director of the School of Journalism, Coranto was founded in 1920. At that time fourteen girls lived in the journalism house.

The name "Coranto" is taken from the first English newspaper printed in the 17th century.

Starting out with a somewhat depleted membership, Coranto nevertheless had a successful year in promoting the interests of journalism among its members. Highlights were the annual Founders' Day dinner and the Journalism Family dinner, sponsored with Theta Sigma Phi, which were held in the spring.

High scholastic records and mutual cooperation of the women in the School of Journalism have been actively stimulated by Beta of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary sorority on the campus for over 33 years.

Beta chapter at Wisconsin is an active group in promoting the interests of journalism. In each issue of the Matrix magazine, official organ of the national organization, an article, written by a Beta member, appears on some outstanding woman in journalism.

The "J-school News Letter," a six-page publication of the latest news on and for the members of the " J " school now in the armed forces, is published by the Theta Sigs.

War Council publicity, headed by the president, is Beta's campus activity. The group also actively backed the 6th War Loan and the Blood Bank drive.

Since 1943 Oliver S. Rundell, Professor of Law, has served as acting dean of the law school in the absence of Dean Lloyd K. ## Law Selnool Wrofessor William Page and W. Wade Boardman.

With the law school faculty since 1917, Professor William Page teaches courses in contract, wills and the law of conflicts as well as several war created law studies such as military law, public and war contracts and taxation. Prof. Page has received degrees from Yale, Ohio State University and Harvard. The muskellunge of the Great Lakes region attract him to Northern Wisconsin each summer.

In addition to teaching in the law school, lecturer W. Wade Boardman has a full time practice with a downtown Madison law firm. Temporarily he is teaching civil procedure but regularly he teaches the practice of law. A part-time lecturer since 1934, Mr. Boardman is a graduate of this university. When time permits him, he enjoys working on his farm in Mineral Point.

Pictured here are several law students during a session of Moot Court. In order to provide an opportunity for the application of theories and information learned in class, mock student trials are staged.

The depletion of the law school faculty forced Professor Howard L. Hall to double his academic duties and this year he has handled eight courses in addition to editing the Wisconsin Law Review together with Professor Alfred Gausewitz. Being a man of versatile capacities, Prof. Hall served as the only faculty member on the Badger Beauty judging committee this year. "I'm proud of that," he winked.

Dean Mark H. Ingraham has been with this University since 1919; first, as a teacher of mathematics, and in his present capacity of Dean of the College of Letters and Science. His straightforward manner and kindness have made him one of the most loved and respected men on our Hill.

of Letters and Science

Professor Chester H. Higby of the history department has gained wide recognition as an outstanding student of modern continental European history. Before coming to this campus in 1927, Prof. Higby taught at the Universities of West Virginia and North Carolina. A kind, endearing teacher, he is beloved and respected by his students.

Professor Henry Lee Ewbank has guided many speech students in persuasion, public speaking and radio speech since he came to the University in 1927. Chairman of the University radio committee since 1929, he is also president of the National Association of Teachers of Speech. Civil war history is a special interest outside of his own profession, but Prof. Ewbank also enjoys a good detective story.

Professor Frederic D. Cheydleur, who has been at Wisconsin for over a quarter of a century, is well known as a teacher of French and as the author of important works in his field, among them being his French Idiom List and his essays on M. Barres and G. Sorel. As director of the placement and attainment examinations he has won wide recognition both here and abroad in foreign language testing and methodology.

Henry A. Pochman, professor of English who hails from Texas, is devoting the larger part of his time and effort this year to heading a group that is working out a constructive new curricula for war veterans. Trout fishing and bird shooting are his greatest diversions, but he also enjoys playing billiards at the University Club with chief rivals, Dean Mark Ingraham and Prof. O. S. Rundell of the Law school.

Below: Professor A. G. Ramsperger

Besides his duties as director of the course of geography and his teaching of the elementary course, Prof. Vernor C. Finch is editor of the Annals of the Association of American Geographers. Since he came here in 1911, Mr. Finch has engaged in research incidental to teaching and the mapping of North America. He enjoys reading, especially travel literature and regional descriptions.

Professor George C. Allez is now filling the position of director of the Library school for the seventh year. He takes an active interest in turning out intelligent, welltrained graduates in library science. "My greatest satisfaction," he says, "is securing positions for my students and promoting them in service for as long as they remain in the field." He plays the violin, cello and piano, but his greatest delight is fishing in Lake Mendota.

Students of Professor A. G. Ramsperger enjoy the philosophy classes he holds in his home, before the fireplace. As his Ph.D. minor was in physics, Prof. Ramsperger instructed in that department last year when there was a shortage of physics personnel. Always willing to help students individually, he is a popular member of the philosophy department's faculty.

Castalia

The Castalia Literary Society which was founded in 1864 is the oldest organization of its kind at Wisconsin. Functioning as a culture society, Castalia tries to stimulate member participation and interest in literary, musical, dramatic and social activities.

Again this year programs at the regular meetings were presented by members of the organization with occasional outside speakers who addressed the group on timely subjects.

Social activities of Castalia were highlighted with a banquet for new members held in the fall. Several informal parties were held in the course of the year to enable the members to become better acquainted with one another.

Xi chapter established a loan fund this year and also an award of recognition for the outstanding girl in forensics at Wisconsin.

At social meetings individual recitals by Phi Beta members were presented. A party honoring the patrons and patronesses, a joint party with the alumnae, an annual mother-daughter breakfast, a bridge party for the pledges, and the annual Phi

Pythia

The Pythia Literary Society was organized thirty-five years ago to give the members of the society a richer appreciation of the realm of literature. It provides the opportunities for self-expression in the capacities in which the members are best fitted, and strives to further interest in intellectual pursuits.

This is accomplished by the participation of the members in one of the three groups: the book report committee, the discussion committee, and the dramatic committee. Ordinarily the members plan and prepare the programs and occasionally a well-qualified non-member is invited to lead a discussion or present a book report.
Professor F. W. Roe, formerly of the English department, started the group out this fall with an address concerning the importance of a literary society on this campus.

Sigma Lambda

The aims of Sigma Lambda, professional art sorority, are: to promote art, to present a social atmosphere for art interests, to maintain a high professional standard, and to secure professional and social advantages. Women art majors are elected according to their ability in carrying out these standards.

Realizing the role fine arts must play in war and in a desirable post-war world, the members are preparing to fill war positions by putting their talents to work in various fields . . . in industry as draftsmen and designers, jobs which require artistic skill as well as technical training, and in education.

The purposes of this organization are to band together those women interested in maintaining high standards of speech, to stimulate and encourage all worthy speech and dramatic enterprises, and to be a vital force in speech arts.

Among Zeta's activities this year was a summer tea for graduating high school seniors to acquaint them with speech activities on the campus. Social activities consisted of informal rushing, Founders' Day banquet, a Speech Faculty Dinner and program meetings.

Dr. W. J. Meek, acting dean of the medical school and professor of physiology, has done much to establish regular courses in physical medicine and occupational therapy in the medical school program. Under his direction, funds have been appropriated for an addition to the hospital which will increase facilities for both teaching and the care of patients.

Dr. Walter E. Sullivan, chairman of the anatomy department, is "more interested in the anatomy of the living than of the dead." He emphasizes the utility of the x-ray and the fluoroscope in the medical profession. As a teacher, he stresses the necessity of the med students to learn the assumption of responsibilities.

July of this year will mark the completion of thirty-seven years of service which Dr. C. H. Bunting has given to this University as a professor of pathology; also, it will mark his age of retirement. Throughout his career he has had a special interest in hematology about which he has published numerous articles.
After July of 1945 , under the retirement regulation, another of Wisconsin's most devoted teachers, Dr. Joseph Spragg Evans, will no longer be an active member of the medical staff. Coming to our campus in 1910, Dr. Evans was the first clinical member of the school of medicine. It was largely through his efforts that our Student Health department was established.

Dr. Ralph M. Waters has received world recognition for his research work in anesthesia. In 1944 he was awarded the Henry Hill Hickman Medal by the Council of the Royal Society of Medicine of London on recommendation of the Council on the Section of Anesthesia.

Tall, white haired and handsome, Professor Leon L. Iltis was selected by the faculty of the Music school to serve as acting chairman during 1944 1945. With the University since 1917, Mr. Iltis has been the director of the annual summer music school clinic which is attended by many state high school musicians. In the winter he enjoys "curling," an old Scottish ice game.

School

Music

In his twenty-seventh year on the Music school faculty, Professor E. Earle Swinney still finds a stimulating challenge in each new student of voice. In 1924 Prof. Swinney began a singing group which has since developed into the University Chorus. Not a casual Victory gardener, but a real lover of the soil, he likes to "take his hoe out and keep the plants growing."

Richard Church, recent addition to the Music school staff, is already popular with the people of Madison and the surrounding area for he has served as instrumental music director in Madison schools for sixteen years, has played in the Madison Civic symphony and directs a local church choir. Mr. Church now directs the University symphony orchestra and gives instrumental class instruction.

About to publish a book on counterpoint, Hilmar Luckhardt's first love lies in composing. Last May his composition of a set of variations and finale on a Polish folk song was played by the University orchestra under Carl Bricken, former director of the Music school. During his leisure moments, Mr. Luckhardt enjoys working with wood.

Each music student becomes acquainted with Professor Leland A. Coon whether in classes of advanced music, piano, history and seminar discussion or in his capacity as senior adviser and graduate counselor. Prof. Coon is now directing a graduate research problem concerned with recording folk songs of national groups represented in migrations and settlements in Wisconsin.

The Music school and its annex are the scenes of ardent practice work which results in the polished artistry possessed by the students who perform at the Sunday afternoon music hours at the Union and before various organizations on campus.

In the spring when the class room windows are opened, students going to classes on the Hill enjoy walking past Music Hall from which strains of piano and organ music can be heard.

Only women are allowed to use the practice rooms in the Annex. Through the open windows, passers-by are greeted by the voice of an embryo dramatic soprano, the sweet notes of a trumpet or the melodic music of a harp.

Professor Raymond Dvorak possesses one of the largest band score libraries in Wisconsin. High schools throughout the state have access to this collection.

Although there has been a woeful paucity of men, the University Orchestra has fared well and has come through regularly with excellent performances. The University Chorus, a popular group on campus, has delighted audiences before which it has performed.

The Music school offers its students a comprehensive training in music and through the programs presented by its students, it stimulates an appreciation for cultural entertainment.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music sorority, was founded in 1903, to uphold the highest ideals of musical education and to raise the standard of productive musical work among all students.

Rho Chapter holds weekly meetings at which student musicales are combined with a social and business program.

All members of S.A.I. are in the university band, a cappella choir, Women's chorus, or symphony orchestra. Individual members and the Sigma Alpha Iota Octet have appeared in the Union student concerts, on radio programs, as soloists with the band and orchestra, and have performed before the U.S.O. and civic and campus organizations.

A formal recital is given each spring in Music Hall and the sorority sponsors the annual Tournament of Song.

Under the able guidance of Dean Kayser, the organization maintains a feeling of professional unity. Represented by two women from each professional sorority on campus, Panhel meets once a month to plan war work programs and social activities.

Many programs are presented, and dinner speakers from various fields introduce unrealized professional fields. In this way each student becomes acquainted with the qualifications of various occupations and the problems encountered.

Organized at the University of Maine in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi was founded at the University of Wisconsin just twenty-five years ago. During this time seniors selected from all departments and colleges have been elected to membership on the basis of scholarship, character, and capacity for leadership. To be eligible a student must rank in the upper eighth of his class and must have engaged in significant undergraduate activities.

Wisconsin is in the war. Sixty years ago on the campus there were men in checkered sports clothes, displaying handsome mustaches. Today, the greater part of our male population wears the navy blue or army khaki, sans mustaches. The navy is represented by med students in midshipmen uniforms, V-12s and radio men in middies. The army uniform remains the same for med students as well as the ASTPs and ASTRs in $\mathrm{L} \& \mathrm{~S}$. For the last four years, we have seen many a uniform in our classes, and these men have become a familiar and important part of our college life. We are picturing here those whom we have known this year.

Military

In the peacetime of 1925 a military medal was honorary . . . today our men and women have to prepare to face the serious fact of war.

Naval Training School

Radio

V-12

The University of Wisconsin's Naval Training School began schooling bluejackets in April, 1942, when three hundred Navy men started studying radio communications. Since then, the complement of the station has been increased to 2,200 and over 8,000 men have been sent out to the fleet as skilled radio operators; in that interim the campus has seen the training of three classes of naval officers in its Diesel school, several classes of cooks and bakers and a large number of WAVES and Women Marines in radio operation. In July of 1943, the station added 450 men as future officers in the V-12 program; these men study engineering subjects and medicine in the classrooms of the University.

Our Captain

Succeeding Commander Greene, the original Commanding Officer of the station, Captain Leslie K. Pollard took over the duties of Commanding Officer in November, 1942. An Annapolis graduate, Captain Pollard is an old submarine man with a keen understanding of men. From the large number of men and women trained at this station, and assigned to duty all over the world, can be seen the true value of the University's program. Only the highest cooperation between the Navy, its officers and the University could make possible the fine record which has been attained. The high morale and rigid discipline reflected in all station activities are a tribute to the officers and Our Captain!

Our Officers

The Navy Badger Staff

Paul Bocci and Ken Chandler, senior V-12's, added to their duties of writing "The Squall," Navy gossip column appearing weekly in the Daily Cardinal, by editing the Navy section of THE BADGER . . . V-12 Ivan Chorlins was in charge of Navy photography, while V-12 Fred Bartlett and Radioman Art Hall handled the cartooning . . . Invaluable aid in turning out the book was furnished by V-12's Ed Detjen, Bob Manley and Bob Liepold . . . V-12 John Krummell and his business staff of John Teuscher, Keith Brown, John Rowe and Ottie Kuehn.

Sunday Worship

Navy men are frequent church-goers; and that fact was borne out by the bluejackets at Wisconsin. Many of them attended their own services in Van Hise Hall conducted by the station chaplain, Lt. R. M. Weikart, with choral music furnished by the Bluejacket choir, shown below.

Navy uniforms became a familiar sight in the various church choirs, as church ushers and as leaders of the Sunday eve get-togethers; many trainees took an active part in the weekly services at Pres House, St. Paul's, Wesley, Calvary and Hillel. Typical Sunday morning views outside these churches are shown.

Saturday, July 29, was a special day; the WAVES of the U. S. Navy celebrated their second birthday with the largest review of Naval personnel in the state's history. While planes droned overhead, over 2,000 sailors, dressed in their spotless whites, marched past the reviewing stand, preceded by the 40 piece V-12 military band. After the review by Captain L. K. Pollard and University President C. A. Dykstra, an informal birthday party, complete with cake and candles, was held. The WAVE Lieutenants seen at the cake-cutting ceremony are Lt. (j.g.) Ann Nosek, Lt. Elda Snyder, and Lt. (j.g.) Edythe Tenney. Although the WAVES training school has been disbanded here, a small complement of women bluejackets were on board to celebrate the occasion.

The women bluejackets had become wellknown and well-liked at Wisconsin during their training days and those still stationed at Madison appreciate their good duty. The girls, living in vacated fraternity houses near the station and under the supervision of Lt. Tenney, are the integral cogs that keep the Navy administration going in full gear. Their presence in the Navy sick bay and in the offices in all Navy buildings have emphasized the fact that they are releasing a man to active duty.

Culminating many semesters of study in the toughest course available in American colleges, the Navy V-12 medical student receives his commission upon graduation. Under constant Navy supervision and Navy discipline, the med students do not live in barracks but live as normal college students. Recognized around campus by their midshipman's uniform, the 150 medical students study alongside civilian students and men in a similar Army program. Shown taking their oath as Lt. (j.g.), USNR, are five recent graduates of the medical school . . . The bluejacket engineers, having completed their eight semesters of engineering study, proceed to Mid-shipman's school and an eventual commission. Many get commissions as engineering officers and serve on battleships, destroyers, subs, LST's or LCI's. Others proceed to Seabee camps, which lead to commissions in the construction end of the Navy. The largest class, 40, since the school began turning out future officers graduated in November of 1944 and is shown below.

We Graduate

Climax of 20 weeks' intensive training-receiving the coveted diploma signifying graduation from "Radio Madison" at a weekly graduation ceremony.

The V-12 swing band under the direction of Dave Moulton, alternated Sunday "At Ease" shows at the Union with the Radio dance band and became well known to campus jive fans. The members were: Piano Dave Bosse, Guitar Buster Buck, Saxes Bob Allen, Mort Ginsburg, Russ Hamby and Jim Breed, Trombonists Del Hanke and Dick Hagerty, Drummer Jim Tobin, Bass Bill Frye, Trumpets Bud Fay, Dave Moulton and Ed Browne.

The Radio dance band, under the able direction of Sterling Zimmerman, won wide applause for their technique and drive. Zim, confronted with the problem of numerous good men graduating weekly, managed to keep up the high standards of the band and keep eight hundred radio-men happy at their monthly grad dances. The two bands headlined every Happy Hour put on by the station personnel.

Furnishing the martial music for the station was the 40 -piece V-12 military band. The sailors devoted much of their liberty time to practice under the able direction of Professor Ray Dvorak; they made their appearance at the weekly Saturday reviews and later at University football games. Later in the winter season, they collaborated with the University concert band to play a concert. Below they are seen in action as led by Drum Major Robert Allen.

The V-12 chorus, widely known throughout University - land, was also directed by Professor Ray Dvorak. The chorus gained many friends for the Navy in Madison by singing between halves at football games, at special occasions in the city and at their mates' graduations. At its frequent appearances, Seaman Dave Bosse directed his mates through well-known Navy songs and Wisconsin songs, indicating they were Wisconsin Navy men!

Bill Lawson, Cardinal cross - country star, who won the Big Ten championship and National Servicemen's Title.

Varsity

Upper right, Gene Mathews, Mr. Five-by-Five, won wide acclaim as one of the Badger basketeers . . . Coach Harry Stuhldreher depended on the Navy for a great deal of strength during the grid season and was rewarded with a great turnout, as pictured above.

As true Navy men, many V-12's took to the armory pool to strengthen the Badger swimming team. V-12 splashers set for a start are Russ Crick, Bob Liepold, Bob Rokos and Robin Middlemas . . . Navy men manned Coach Dynie Mansfield's baseball team last spring in the person of Bob Perthel, Al Gassman, George Wirtz and Orv Zimmerman.

Keeping the  Navy

Navy men must be physically fit-and an extensive conditioning program made certain that men who left the Wisconsin station were just that. Mass calisthenics and such special exercises as rope-climbing, under the direction of a battery of athletic specialists and Lt. Jack Elder, fit the men for the bigger job ahead.

in trim

Phy Ed was not all muscle building; there were times when co-ordination and teamwork, so essential in the Navy, played a big part in the program which was under the direction of Art "Dynie" Mansfield and Chief Richards. A fast game of basketball with no holds barred; development in the manly art of self defense, with no quarter asked; tumbling, rolling and diving to the tune of broken backs and strained ligaments; a sharp, quick play in an intra-mural softball game and the inevitable push-ups all made Navy men sharp and alert.

Always willing to help the sailor in difficulty and keep a constant reminder to the liberty minded salt to "square that hat," the Shore Patrol has the most thankless job in the Navy.

The station's sick bay was located adjacent to the university infirmary, and there a great corps of pill-rollers, headed by Lt. (j.g.) Burdette Blaska, kept the health of the station at a peak.

The best Ship's Service Store in the Ninth Naval District; and every sailor at Wisconsin will back up that statement. A good laundry, shoe repair shop and candy store; a sure place to always get your favorite brand of cigarettes and a thousand other items that a sailor might need.

On the Job

Radio trainees are taught every phase of radiothey practice in the shop in the actual repairing of their sets; they learn to transfer the dits and dahs of code to paper by means of a typewriter at Blackhawk.

Radio School's very able group of instructors, headed by Lt. Lonnie Coker. This group changes a green, scared rookie into a competent and efficient radioman.

Marching up the hill, with Adams, Tripp and Van Hise in the background, to another class in contact training.

A drummer, a liberty-hound, a lecture in the M.E. Building auditorium.

Taking code in longhand and a sleepy trainee in a lecture present typical scenes.

Mail call and chow call-the two best times in the day.

Class Days

Bob Johnston, George Otto, Hal Peterson, Norrie Yonker and Howie Johnson in Professor Shorey's ore dressing lab . . . Senior EE's Don Buerschinger, Ted Faber and Bill Neddersen caught in the EE lab running a generator experiment.

A V-12 and a Wisconsin co-ed on Bascom Hill. The Hill presents a vastly changed picture today as the blue and white of the Navy mingle with the varied colors that the Wisconsin co-eds wear.

Down the lake road to Phy Ed . . . Wellliked Econ Instructor Leonard Rall . . . Senior ChE's Jim Breed, Pat Weber and Ed Daub in a chem lab.

Returning from class on a cold wintry day with frozen Lake Mendota in the background are a group of V-12's, their blue buttons plainly evident . . . Back in the barracks and the quickest way to relax is a card game in the dens as illustrated by Jack Scott, Lee Schott and Al Smart . . . One of the eight -Kronshage houses, home to every V-12 and radioman; the roomy rooms make fellows forget the fraternity houses of the old days.

Off to class-and then those familiar moments of relaxation at the Rathskeller between classes . . . "Fall out in front of Mack for general muster"- these oft-repeated words by Chief Richards bring forth a stream of blue from every barracks to hear some important announcements by Lieutenant Klien.

Highlight of the month for the radio trainees are the graduation dances in the Union in honor of the ten senior divisions. With music by their own dance band and an honor man from each division to preside over ceremonies, the special Friday night liberty affairs are well attended. Responsible for the dances are the Welfare Department on the station, headed by Lt. Elder and Lt. (j.g.) Tenney, in collaboration with the Memorial Union. On each occasion, however, some unlucky section receives the watch for that night. Then they have to stay home from the dance; one such unfortunate trainee is pictured by our cartoonist as he sorrowfully considers his fate while the Wisconsin snow piles high on his head.

The Memorial Union on the campus proves to be the hub of all activity when the sailors emerge on weekend liberty. With Campacabana holding the spotlight on Saturday nights and "At Ease" shows for Sunday afternoons, the lonely sailor can always count on meeting a girl at the Union. The Rathskeller, the billiard rooms and the bowling alley satisfy all in the winter while the Union Terrace takes over the summer. The Union Theater, with its special productions, the Play Circle, and Great Hall with its year'round social functions are other features to attract Navy men to join the Union. Special hobbies find outlets in the Union darkroom and workshop; all combine to make it a sailor's paradise.

Recreational facilities on the reservation are many: the numerous dens in each house provide a likely place for the bluejackets to shoot the breeze while special rooms containing billiard tables and table tennis are available. The always present Pine Room with its staff of sodajerkers proves a haven for the hungry sailor; also designed to occupy liberty time are work details, as shown by Chiefs Richards and Zimmerman and Jim Kusa.

0600 - and that's no time of the day to fall out for morning calisthenics. But that is just what happens every morning to the V-12 men . . . The Kronshage quadrangle presents a picturesque setting, both in summer and winter (opposite page) . . . Turner House takes credit for the girl of the year, a snow girl that braved the elements for weeks . . . Fleet men get acquainted with Captain Pollard.

Wisconsin winter as seen from Showerman House . . . Chuck Dunfee, hard luck boy, who was well on his way to earning a starting berth with the Wisconsin football team, when a knee injury sidelined him. Here Chuck presents a lonely figure as he sits on Moving from Tripp and Adams to Kronshage is an unforgettable memory . . . The goal of every V-12-a commission, a gal like Ginna Miller, and a few days' leave; and Ensign Jack Nelson's smile shows he appreciates it . . . Bag inspection and "caught in the sack" are two of the daily worries . . . Badger Beauty Helen Hughes, caught by the camera and five hundred eyes, as she participated in the V-12 pin-up contest, won by Julie Holmes.

The Navy doctors and dentists, who with their corpsmen, keep the station healthy and smiling . . . Lt. (j.g.) Tenney and Lt. (j.g.) Stein, with the corps of yeomen, which keep things in hand in La Follette House . . . Winslow House, with Lt. (j.g.) Orvis, Lt. (j.g.) Walker, Lt. Weikart, Lt. (j.g.) Mills, Lt. (j.g.) Sanders and their helpers.

Sparky, morale - builder first class. The little lop-eared dog with the big, brown eyes was first seen about the station in mid-summer. It wasn't long until the little fellow had worked his way into the heart of every trainee on the station and had no trouble finding a place to eat and sleep. Sparky made a point of appearing at all of the station functions, making a dramatic entrance, whether it be a Happy Hour, a graduation or a University football game. In mid-winter, Sparky's fame spread from the station to the campus as his picture and story appeared in the Badger Navy News. At the peak of popularity, disaster struck and Sparky was killed in action - while accompanying a platoon down Babcock Drive. A funeral was held and Sparky laid to rest to watch over station activities from the top of the hill beside Van Hise. His memory lives on-and future trainees may know him by his picture appearing on a post card put out by Ship's Service Store.

The familiar sign at the entrance to the Reservation; the last sight we see as we take leave from NTS, University of Wisconsin. Behind, are weeks and months of hard work and fun; all are pleasant memories!

Army Specialized Training Program Army Specialized Training Reserve Program Reserve Officers Training Corps

The Army Specialized Training Program and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University of Wisconsin, popularly known as the ASTP and ROTC by students and Wisconsinites, now count as their graduates several thousand officers and enlisted men doing their tasks proudly and courageously on the many fronts of this global war.

From France to the Philippines, from India to the Aleutians, come letters from these former students telling of their experiences, their hopes and plans, and always they reminisce of their college life in khaki, those happy, profitable days on Mendota's shores.

Lieutenant Colonel Franklin W. Clarke, ASTP - ROTC commandant, and his staff feel honored that the associations and friendships made here have maintained their brightness even under the terrible stress and strain of combat and time.

So, inspired by these words of courage from many fronts, certain in the knowledge that the University has equipped its student-soldiers superbly to meet the obstacles at hand, the staff carries on.

Under the able leadership of Colonel Clarke, the ASTP, the ASTRP, and ROTC branches of the unit are continuing to train young men for specialized Army jobs at an accelerated pace. Medical students, 17 -year-old reservists studying engineering, and civilian ROTC students are working around the clock, around the calendar so they may take their places soon with their brothers-in-arms around the world.

So the University of Wisconsin is deeply proud of these men that she has trained and is training, and to each one she sends this heartfelt message: "May Victory and Peace be yours and the world's soon and forever."

Gathered in the Commandant's office for a training conference are Lieutenants Rice and Adams, Major Hudleson, and the Commandant, Lieutenant Colonel Franklin W. Clarke.

the Medics

That they may bring relief from suffering to their fellow soldiers who are wounded or sick, the medical students of Company C are undertaking one of the most intensive and accelerated courses of study known to the annals of medical teaching.

More than one hundred such students are now enrolled in the Medical School at various stages of completion of their medical training. Upon receiving their degrees they will be commissioned in the Army Medical Corps.

The study of medicine is a difficult task, particularly in time of armed conflict when the pressure of emergency demands almost superhuman efforts, but the reward of healing others is compensation enough to ease the burden of study for these doctors of tomorrow.

Infinite patience and care are needed to learn the skills of surgery as is demonstrated by these two medical students who are practicing surgical techniques as part of their laboratory assignments.

the A.S.T.R's

Students in the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, known on the campus as ASTRs, participate in a well rounded-out educational and physical program which makes full use of the university's facilities to prepare these 17 -year-olds for more useful army assignments when they are called to active duty.

Having qualified for the accelerated ASTR training by passing the Army - Navy test, these young men arrive from Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin to undertake academic work until they reach their eighteenth birthdays. Theirs is a busy and full schedule of books and classes, physical education, and military training from 5:45 reveille until lights out at 10:00 each evening.

Fun is frequent, nevertheless, and week-end

This group of ASTR's was graduated on December 2, 1944.

Last of all, but far from least, we present our seniors. We dedicate this section to those of our class who are not here to graduate with us. Those of us who are pictured here, have had many happy days at Wisconsin, and we find it hard to leave. We have made our presence felt on campus-for the activities in which our members have participated demonstrate this concretely. On these next few pages, we see ourselves, our senior "who's who," and our senior council. Our parting message to those of our class who are serving in the war-we send our greetings and our hope that they too will soon be back for their degrees from Wisconsin.

Seniors

Graduation day in 1935 was an important event . . . and today caps and gowns still mean something special in the life of the seniors!

Observatory Hill has a sentimental meaning for many Wisconsinites . . . and even in the winter it is a favorite spot for twosome conversation!

To those no longer with us

Not since that autumn day in 1941 when we gathered for the freshman convocation has the entire class of ' 45 been together. Today, as we approach our graduation, we are thinking of those who are not with us . . . of the many that duty has taken to distant places . . . the many who we hope will soon return to the campus . . . but also of those who will not return . . . and it is to these members of the class of ' 45 that we dedicate this section.

Senior

The Senior Council of the Class of ' 45 took its cue from the excellent plan of organization for the Senior Class, as drawn up by last year's Council. Representing dormitories, sororities and fraternities, lodging houses, and local students, as well as the Colleges of Letters and Science, Agriculture, and Engineering, the members of the Council planned activities to emphasize and unite the Senior Class.

April 29 to May 5 was designated as Senior Week, and the Class of ' 45 were identified by their bright tags as they participated in the round of functions initiated by Senior Convocation. The Convocation struck a serious note, reminiscent of the changes occasioned by the war. The seniors of ' 45 were freshmen when war was declared; they saw the peace-time atmosphere of the camf pus change with the speeding-up of the curricu-- lum, the induction of fellow class members into the armed forces, the training of servicemen by the University, and the inclusion of war in extracurricular activities. It was appropriate that the Convocation should point up these changes.

During Senior Week a special issue of the Cardinal was dedicated to the class, and Senior Ball and Senior Swingout also highlighted the week. The week also saw the election of a Post-Graduate Executive Board, headed by the Alumni Director, for the purposes of representing the class as an alumni group and perpetuating class organization.

Amerícan Fashíons

We Love You

Salutations to the designers who have made an art of an American industry. Congratulations to the talents that have given the fashions of our country a place of honor in the world. "Can they do it?" you asked four years ago when the tide of war compelled them to search their own strength for the power to create and sustain American fashion on its own.

The answer has been an emphatic "yes" as season after season new fashions came forth from their skillful hands with variety, beauty and the buoyant young spirit typical of American women. At Manchester's you can see the exhilarating clothes they have designed . . . so personal, so individual, that you can recognize the creators without looking at the signatures on the labels. We're so proud to present them!

HARRY S. MANCHESTER, Inc.

What are you doing about that idea?

NEW DEVELOPMENTS PIONEERED BY THE HEIL CO. IN THE 15 PRE-WAR YEARS

1927 First tin-lined steel milk truck ever built 1928 First stainless steel milk truck ever built 1929 First Heil Heating and Air Conditioning Equipment
1929 First Heil Water Systems and Softeners 1930 First Arnold Crop Dehydrating Equipment
1934 First full streamlined truck tank ever built 1935 First Heil Hydraulic Scraper, Trailbuilder, and Bulldozer
1935 First Ladewig-Soelch Bottlewasher
1935 First all-in-one, frameless Trailerized Tank ever built
1937 First Heil Cable Scraper
1940 First Aluminum Trailerized Tank ever built

The very fact that you are a university student indicates that you are interested in improvement. This instinctive desire to find a better way of doing things is the fundamental driving force of America. That driving force generates ideas. But ideas are of value only in proportion to the use which is made of them. Here at The Heil Co., we have the manufacturing facilities, versatility and engineering skill necessary to develop ideas and market them. $75 \%$ of our 1940 sales were of products not even in existence 15 years before! The next 15 years hold even brighter promise.
If you have an idea requiring practical development, we'll be glad to talk it over with you.

"MOM, IT’LL BE A PLEASURE"

Pleasure it is when home offers the comfort of beautiful, durable fixtures and fittings for cleanliness and good health. Give them first consideration, and choose first quality when you buy, build or remodel, because few things you possess can mean so much in terms of constant use and convenience. And remember, you pay no more for Kohler quality. Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis.

THE RECORD OF business MANAGEMENT

The war record of the electric light and power industry has again demonstrated that American business management, operating under our system of freedom of opportunity, is more than a match for the government controlled and regimented industries of foreign nations.

No war industry in America has had to wait for electric power. Doubled industrial demands have been taken in stride-because of foresight and planning.

There has been no rationing of electric power for civilian use. In the home and on the farm electricity has been plentiful for all essential uses.

And in direct contrast to almost everything else, the price of electricity for household use has continued down-is now the lowest in history.

We are not undaunted by the exigencies of this wartorn world . . . the sacrifices that it has imposed upon us.

For indeed, our sacrifices are small compared to those of our sons, brothers, fathers and sweethearts, scattered throughout the world, who are serving the Stars and Stripes.

Beyond the horizon there is a great day of Victory and a future happiness for all freedom-loving people.

Let us pray that all those who serve may be spared to enjoy the Freedom and Happiness that they are helping to maintain.

The Brewing Industry of Wisconsin is proud to play its part in serving the most temperate "army" in the world, both at home and on the war-front.

Again we say, "Heads Up, America!"

Congratulations, Class of '45 ....

For preserving a record of your University's activities during this third war year. We know that you and other alumni will cherish the many memories this yearbook will bring.

We are proud to have had a part in the 1945 Badger, in which we have tried to express in type, engraving, ink and paper the past year's activities on the Wisconsin campus. Our sincere hope is that we have made a contribution through service and fine workmanship. You are to be complimented on the initiative and enthusiasm you have displayed in the 1945 Badger.

What's it Take to Make a Fortress?

FOR ONE THING, A LOT OF EQUIPMENT ALLIS-CHALMERS WORKERS BUILD

It takes horsepower-and Allis-Chalmers turbines, generators and transformers develop and supply it to machines in aircraft factories.
It takes manpower-and Allis-Chalmers farm machinery helps produce food in record amounts for aircraft workers.

It takes light metals - and mercury arc rectifiers, introduced to the U. S. by Allis-Chalmers engineers, make possible electrolytic reduction of aluminum, magnesium in volume.
It takes iron, copper, steel-and A-C workers speed mining and processing equipment.
It takes superchargers to give Fortresses their high-flying performance - and Allis-Chalmers workers turn them out in record numbers.
It takes almost every kind of major industrial equipment-and A-C builds the greatest variety in the world!
