BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the fourth day of September, in the forty-third year of the Independence of the United States of America, A. D. 1818, WILLIAM WILLIAMS, of the said district, hath deposited in this office, the title of a book, the right whereof he claims as Proprietor, in the words following, to wit:

“Musica Sacra: or Springfield and Utica Collections united: consisting of, Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Anthems and Chants; arranged for two, three or four voices, with a figured Bass for the Organ or Piano Fort. By Thomas Hastings and Solomon Warriner.”

In conformity to the act of Congress of the United States, entitled, “An act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the time therein mentioned,” And also to the act, entitled, “An act supplementary to an act, entitled ‘An act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies during the times therein mentioned, and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing engraving and etching historical and other prints.”

RICHARD R. LANSING,
Clerk of the Northern District of New-York.

PREFACE.

THE original design of the Springfield Collection, was to furnish, for the convenience of choirs and worshipping assemblies, a supply of standard church music, of the plainest kind. The Musica Sacra, or Utica Collection had chiefly for its object, the accommodation of the Handel and Burney Society, under whose patronage it was first published. The present work, which embraces, with suitable alterations and additions, most of the music contained in those collections, is intended to present to our readers a greater variety of chaste and classical pieces than has yet been offered to the public, in any single volume.

On perusing the following pages, however, it will be observed that some of the old tunes are differently harmonized from the copies selected from Williams and Tansur, and other authors of less note. But, to those persons who are forward to condemn every copy that differs from the one they formerly have seen, it should be more generally known that those copies are grossly incorrect. Europe, as well as America, has her pretenders to science, and such were certainly Williams and Tansur and several others, whose compositions have already had a sufficient circulation. We would not be understood to complain of the Airs that those authors have compiled, for many of them are truly excellent: but the manner in which they have harmonized them, is such as no person of science or taste can approve. Several American compilers, however, being ignorant of this fact, have published the pieces as they found them, not even correcting the most palpable errors of the press.—Others, knowing their inaccuracy, have neglected the remedy from motives of prudence.—A third, and by far the most numerous class of compilers, have failed in their attempts to correct the pieces, from a want of sufficient skill in the science of Musical Composition. A consideration of these circumstances induced us to avail ourselves, as much as possible, of those copies which have been produced by the DISTINGUISHED MASTERS OF EUROPE. Wherever, among classic authors, the same piece was found to be differently harmonized, we endeavored to select that copy which would be sung with the most interest, and which at the same time should differ least from the one in general use. The pieces which compose this volume (with the exception of a few original ones) are derived from works of the most distinguished reputation; and the greatest care has been taken, to have them correctly printed in this edition, that we might preclude as much as possible the necessity of future alterations.

There is a difference of opinion among professors and practical musicians, with regard to the number of vocal parts which should constitute the score. But from the most careful investigation of the subject, we have not thought proper to confine ourselves to any limited number. When the air is refined and delicate, the ear delights to listen to it almost exclusively, and consequently, the accompanying parts should be so few, and so simple in their melody as not to disturb the attention, but rather to fix it where it chooses to reside. Such pieces as Reading (the Solo,) Midnight Meditation, Sun's Rising, &c. can scarcely admit of any thing more than a light instrumental accompaniment.—Such as Denbigh, Somerset, the Pastoral and Dialogue Hymns will always appear best in three parts. If, however, the leading melody is plain and simple, and the movement slow, the accompanying parts may be more numerous: yet the more numerous they are, the less melody there will necessarily be in each, so that in many instances it will be found almost impossible to retain the pieces in memory. Such tunes as Old Hundredth, St. Ann's, Luther's Hymn and Shrewsbury, will always appear well in four parts, where a sufficient number of skilful voices can be obtained to do them justice. A considerable number of the pieces of this description have consequently received this arrangement.

The Air, which, for the convenience of those who practice on finger-keyed instruments, is now placed next to the base, is still designed for treble voices: but when these are scarce it may sometimes be necessary, in tunes of three parts, to give the part designed for second treble to the tenor, which, in this case, should always sing the lowest passages on the same letters in the next higher octave.

Though a book of Rudiments, recently published by one of the editors of this work, is designed as an introduction to it, and in many instances will be bound with it in the same volume: yet as the M. Sacra may not always be accompanied by the Reader, we hope the few pages devoted to the subject of the Rudiments in the present work, may not be deemed altogether superfluous.

We should be very ungrateful, were we not here to acknowledge the very liberal assistance we have received from several gentlemen of taste and science in different parts of the country, among whom, we feel ourselves particularly indebted to Mr. S. NORTON, professor of languages, in Hamilton College. This gentleman has also politely favored us with two little specimens of his own composition, which will be found in the following pages.

How far we may have succeeded in our present undertaking, must be left to the decision of a candid public. That the work may prove useful in disseminating a taste for chaste and classical music, and in aiding and enlivening the devotions of the pious, is the sincere wish of

THE COMPILERS.

Music is written on a Staff, the lines and spaces of which are designated by the first seven letters of the alphabet. The situation of these letters in naming the degrees of the staff, is determined by the Clefs, of which there are three in general use; the F, or Base Clef, the C, used for Tenor, Counter, &c. and the G, used for Treble, or for any of the parts except Base, as occasion requires. The C clef is not fixed in its situation, but the line it embraces is called C, and the rest of the letters always preserve the same relative situation.

II. Of Notes and Rests.

1 Semibreve, equals, 2 Minims, 4 Crotchets, 8 Quavers, 16 Semiquavers or 32 Demisemiquavers.

NOTES.

RESTS.

Notes are the representatives of musical sounds, Rests are marks of silence. One Semibreve equals in length of time, two Minims, or four Crotchets, &c. as represented above. The dot adds to a note, one half of its length of time.

III. Of Time with respect to the Measures.

| COMMON TIME. | | TRIPLE TIME. | | COMPOUND TIME. | |
|--------------|--|--------------|--|----------------|--|
| 1st Variety. | | 1st Variety. | | 1st Variety. | |
| 2d. | | 2d. | | 2d. | |
| 3d. | | 3d. | | 3d. | |

Every movement is divided into equal portions of time by straight marks that cross the staff, called Single Bars, and the distance between any two of these is called a Measure. Time, with respect to the measures, is known by the characters or signs, as above represented. The 1st variety of common time, has a semibreve, or its value in other notes or rests in each measure, and generally requires four beats or motions with the hand.—The 2d variety, has the same measure, but it seldom requires more than two beats. The 3d variety, has a minim which requires two beats.

Of Triple Time, the 1st variety has for its measure three minims; the 2d, has three crotchets, and the 3d, three quavers. Each of these varieties requires three beats in a measure.

The 1st variety of compound time, has six crotchets, and the 2d, six quavers in a measure, which in psalmody usually requires six beats, but when the movement is quick, no more than two are necessary. The 3d variety of compound time, has twelve quavers in a measure, each of which, when performed slow, would in the ordinary method of beating, require twelve beats: but when the movement is quick, four beats will be found sufficient.

The slowness or rapidity of the movement is not known from the characters or signs above mentioned, but from the nature of the subject sung.

IV. Of Solmization.

In the practice of Solmization, the syllables in most common use are mi, fa, sol, law. In a scale of natural sounds, the syllable mi is appropriated to B: but it may be removed to any other letter of the staff by means of Flats and Sharps set at the beginning of a tune, which, in this situation are called a Signature.

The situation of the syllable mi may be further learned from the following table.

| | | | |
|--|---|------------------------|---|
| The natural place of mi is in B; but if a flat be placed on B, or | | | |
| If B be Flat, mi is in | E | If F be Sharp me is in | F |
| B and E, | A | F and C, | C |
| B, E and A, | D | F, C, and G, | G |
| B, E, A and D, | G | F, C, G, and D, | D |

Other signatures than these are seldom used except in ancient compositions. See Musical Reader.

When the place of mi is found, that of the other syllables is easily ascertained; for, if in proceeding from the place of mi, the lines and spaces are taken in regular succession, the syllables fa, sol, law, will occur twice; and in descending, the series by inversion will become twice law, sol, fa.

fa, sol, law, fa, sol, law, mi, fa, sol, law, fa, sol, law, mi, fa, sol, law, fa, sol, law, mi.

Flats and sharps at the Signature or beginning of a piece of music, have influence to the end of it, unless their effect is destroyed by a Natural.

Natural.

Flats, Sharps and Naturals, occurring in the course of the movement, are denominated Accidentals.

A Flat set before a note, depresses it half a tone.

A Sharp, before a note, raises it half a tone.

A Natural set before a note previously made flat or sharp, restores it to its natural or primitive sound.

Accidentals in general not only the notes they immediately precede; but all those of the same letter which occur in the same measure; and when one measure ends and the next begins with the same letter, the intervening bar is not understood to destroy the effect of the accidental, until a note of some other letter is taken.

For the purpose of securing and facilitating correct intonation, it has long been customary in the best European schools, to change the names of such notes as are affected by accidentals. In general, when notes are to be raised by accidentals the syllables appropriated to them may be altered by adding to their initials the letter i, in imitation of the syllable mi. When accidentals are designed to depress or lower sounds, the syllable faw may be used: thus—

When faw, sol, &c. are sharpened, they may be called *f*i, si, &c. (pronounced fee and see;) and when mi is flatted it may be called faw. When the effect of naturals is to elevate notes, their appropriate syllables may be altered, as in the case of sharps; but when they are to depress them, the syllable faw may be used.

Another method of producing correct intonation where accidentals are used, is to consider and treat them as occasional changes of signature; and when a single accidental is continued through several measures, the judicious teacher will avail himself of this method of procedure, in illustrating to his pupils, the nature and importance of Chromatic Modulation.

V. Of the remaining Musical Characters.

Brace, Double Bar, Repeat, Slur, Pause, Choosing Notes, Swell, Diminish.
or :S:

The Brace shows how many parts are to be performed together: as Sir, Tenor, Base, &c.

The Double Bar designates the end of a strain, or musical period.

The Repeat shows what part of a tune, in a single performance, is to be sung twice.

A Slur connects, in vocal music, such notes as belong to one syllable.

The Pause, leaves the time of a note or rest to be augmented at the pleasure of the performer.

Of Choosing Notes, any one may be sung.

The Swell requires a gradual increase in loudness of voice.

The Diminish, requires a gradual diminution of voice.

Marks of distinction are placed over such notes as are to be performed with distinctness and brevity.

Appoggiatures borrow their time from the notes which immediately follow them: thus—

After-Notes, on the contrary, borrow their time from the notes which immediately precede them.

It is much to be regretted that Appoggiatures and After-Notes are in general so little understood by vocal performers, as in modern music they are often more necessary to the sweetness and expression of a melody, than the notes to which they are attached.

VI. Of Accent.

Accent is a stress of voice which takes place on what are called the strong parts of the measure. The principal accent in common and triple time, is situated where the hand falls at the beginning of the measure. Compound time, being reducible to simple triple, is accented accordingly. An exception against the general rules of accent, takes place where notes of syncopation occur, for though beginning on the weak parts of the measure, they generally require the accent.

The importance of accent is seldom duly appreciated. The monotony occasioned by its absence in language, would be quite insupportable.—Nor is it less necessary in music: for here it is the principal engine of that sentimental expression, without which every performance must be tasteless and insipid.

VII. Of Keys.

In modern music, the last base note of every piece of regular composition, is one of the principal key-notes, that are proper to that signature in which the piece is composed: thus—in the natural scale, the key is either C, or A—in that of one flat it is either F or D, &c. And in the practice of Solmization, the principal Major key is called fa, and the principal Minor, la. But to trace with minuteness those digressions from the principal key, which take place in modulation, would be a task inconsistent with our present limits, especially, as this subject is treated of at some length, in the Musical Reader.

2 Thou giv'st me rest upon my bed,
Soft slumbers to my eyes;
Thy goodness is again renew'd,
When in the morn I rise.

3 Whether in sickness, or in health,
Thy grace does me sustain;
Let me, O Lord, Thy favor have,
And I shall ne'er complain.

5 Although the figtree blossom not,
Nor vineyard yield increase;
In Thee, my Saviour and my God,
To joy I will not cease.

5 Yea, though the world by storms be tost,
And crumbled into dust;
Yet still in Thee, my only hope,
I will securely trust.

2 Soon, borne on time's most rapid wing,
Shall Death command you to the grave :
Before his bar your spirits bring,
And none be found to hear or save.
In that lone land of deep despair,
No Sabbath's heav'nly light shall rise ;
No God regard your bitter prayer ;
Nor Saviour call you to the skies.

3 No wonders to the dead are shown,
(The wonders of redeeming love ;)
No voice his glorious truth makes known,
Nor sings the bliss of climes above.
Silence, and solitude, and gloom,
In these forgetful realms appear ;
Deep sorrows fill the dismal tomb,
And hope shall never enter there.

Air, 2d Treble and Tenor.

The first system of music consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef with a key signature of two flats (B-flat and E-flat) and a common time signature (C). The lower staff is in bass clef with the same key signature and time signature. The music features a simple harmonic accompaniment with a few notes in the upper staff and a more active line in the lower staff.

Praise the Lord, O my soul,

The second system of music continues the two-staff format from the first system. It features similar harmonic accompaniment with notes in both treble and bass clefs.

Praise the Lord, O my soul,

GLORIA IN EXCELSIS.

Air and 2d Treble.

The first system of music for 'Gloria in Excelsis' consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature (C). The lower staff is in bass clef with the same key signature and time signature. The music begins with a simple accompaniment.

1 Glory be to God on high,
 2 We praise thee, we bless thee, we wor - ship thee,
Fine.
 10 For thou only art ho - ly;
 11 Thou only, O Christ, with the Ho - ly Ghost :

The second system of music continues the two-staff format. It features a simple harmonic accompaniment with notes in both treble and bass clefs.

3 O Lord God heav'nly King ;
 4 O Lord ;
 5 O Lord God, Lamb of God ;

The third system of music continues the two-staff format. It features a simple harmonic accompaniment with notes in both treble and bass clefs.
