BADGER-ILLIO IN CLOSE FIGHT FOR MAPLEDEN CUP

Wisconsin Staff Determined to Win Trophy in Spite of Illini Confidence

Confidence that the "Illini will again trim the Badgers as they did last Saturday" is expressed in a letter received yesterday by Willis G. Sullivan, business manager of the 1924 Badger, from C. E. Roessler, business manager of The Illio, year book of the University of Illinois.

The Badger and the Illio are competing for a $100 silver cup to be given to the annual which sells copies to the higher percentage of the student body during their subscription campaigns. The cup is now on display in the windows of the Chocolate shop.

The Badger opened its campaign Monday and is near its second thousand mark. The campaign will extend throughout the week and is being carried on by nearly 300 workers. The Illio campaign is divided into two parts and is aiming at a grand total of 3,000 copies in its first campaign. Approximately 250 persons are working on their first drive, according to Roessler.

Letter Challenges Badgers
The attitude of The Illio staff is one of confidence, the letter shows. They expect to "trim the Badgers" easily. The letter follows:
"Mr. Willis G. Sullivan, Business Manager, 1925 Badger, Dear Sir:

The Illio has just finished its first advance sale, and the total is expected to reach 3,000 copies. That, however, is only a starter and an indication of what is going to happen as far as the Maplesden Cup is concerned.

The sales of these books did not require a staff of more than 250 members. On the contrary, the Illio is in such demand among the students that a small handful of 10 men, stationed at convenient points on the campus, merely had to take down the names of the long lines of students anxious to obtain an Illio.

The Maplesden trophy need only be shined up now, and it will be ready for its place in the Illio office where it will undoubtedly come to stay.

Just as the Illini trimmed the Badgers last Saturday, so also will the 1925 Illio trim the 1925 Badger in the competition for the Maplesden trophy.

Yours very truly,
THE 1925 ILLIO.
Signed) C. E. Roessler, Business Manager."

Badger Will Fight
"I feel confident that we can give the Illio a good race," Sullivan said yesterday. "We have a good or-

William Z. Foster, Chicago, will speak at Music hall at 8:15 o'clock this evening, under the auspices of the Wisconsin Social Science club.

M. B. Olbrich is to introduce the speaker who will talk on "Labor and the Recent Developments in the Labor Movement." The purpose is to give students a chance to hear the facts about the subject.

Mr. Foster was the organizer of the steel strike in 1919 and also an organizer of the Trade Union Educational League. He was suspected of being associated with the Communists in Michigan. He was tried there last spring under the Criminal Syndicalism law, but was acquitted.

In the hardest fought game of the season, the seniors, who held the hockey championship last year, went down in defeat before the juniors by a score of 4 to 2.

A minute after the game was on, Margaret Callsen, left inside, made the first goal for the seniors. Soon after, Janet Boardman, left wing, followed with another.

After considerable struggle in the junior circle, they tied the score in the first half and shot two more goals in the second.

So far the juniors and the sophomores remain undefeated in the field. They will face each other for the championship Friday at 3:30. Today at 3:30 the seniors and the freshmen will play each other.

Guy Maier and Lee Pattison to Play Duet Piano Recital

Second of Concert Series Will Be Held Tuesday Night In Armory

Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, duet pianists, who will play at the second of the Union Board series at the armory Tuesday night, come highly recommended by other musicians.

"I notice you have Maier and Pattison on your program," Reinald Werrenrath said when he appeared here in the first Union Board concert. "They are very able musicians and have many fine personal qualities. They have popularized duet piano playing as no other duet pianists ever have."

Pattison is Composer

Mr. Pattison is also a composer. He has arranged a number of compositions in duet piano form, among them: the "Concerto Pathe-tique" by Liszt and the Coronation Scene from "Boris Goudonoff." In another field he has just published a fox trot song, "The Land of Bye and Bye." Reports call this their most popular encore number.

Foreign Flashes

PARIS, Nov. 14 — M. Poincare today asked the co-operation of the English government in blocking and seizing the port of Hamburg. In the event of an unfavorable reply from the British, he indicated that the French would act alone.

BERLIN, — Nov. 14 — The Stresemann ministry has decided to withdraw the German government officials in the Rhur and Rhineland. The desperate straits to which the German people have been driven by France's relentless pressure are thus for the first time publicly revealed. France is challenged by this action to incorporate the Rhine districts within the French republic.

UNIVERSITY MAY GET THOMPSON'S FORTUNE

If Torger Thompson, wealthy philanthropist of Deerfield, who died Tuesday, has left no will, his entire fortune, probably amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars, will go to the university according to Thomas Reynolds, register in probate of the county court.

Gullick Thompson, father of Torger, who died in 1895, provided in his will, that if his son should die intestate without children, the estate should be left to the university for the purpose of furthering the study of Scandinavian languages. No will has been filed in the county court as yet. If a will was left it will probably be brought into the court within a few days.

Among his solos Mr. Ringling sang two French songs, by Fuen-tes, Hamlet, some Spanish songs, and Huhn's "Invictus." Miss Lucchese sang two French songs, by Fuen-tes, and "Lemaire," a Swiss echo song, and "Solviegs' Song," by Grieg.

Rundell said yesterday.

CO-EDS TO TEST BOOZE SENTIMENT AT MASSMEETING

Compulsory Attendance of Women Students Required at Lathrop Tonight

A compulsory meeting of all university women will be held at 6:45 o'clock this evening in Lathrop gymnasium to consider and take action on the drinking situation in the university.

This meeting has been called as the result of extensive sentiment aroused among women of the university because of the nation-wide publicity from the Cardinal editorials considering the drinking aspects of the annual Homecoming which have been widely copied by newspapers.

Keystone, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, and Mortar Board, sensing the feeling among the women, brought up the question at meetings held within the past few days. All phases of the problem were carefully considered.

Want Definite Action

The action taken by these three combined organizations resulted in the mass meeting to be held tonight.

This matter comes with especial force just before the conference game on Saturday, which will be the last of the year in Madison.

This follows on the heels of the resolution passed by the Men's Forum of the Kingsley Methodist church of Milwaukee last Sunday on the general drunkenness at the university. The resolution calls for a thorough investigation by the university authorities.

Students Conduct Meeting

The mass meeting is being called and will be conducted entirely by students as the culmination of the growing sentiment among the women as expressed by the representative organizations.

Attendance will be taken and it is compulsory that every woman be present. Each house president is responsible for the attendance of the members of her house. Letters announcing the meeting have been sent to every woman's rooming house and all sorority houses.

The meeting will be over promptly at 8 o'clock.

More Than 4,000 Reservations Have Been Made For Saturday's Tilt

Between 4,000 and 5,000 Michigan rooters will attend the football game here Saturday, according to a request for additional tickets received last night by Paul Hunter.

All of the 3,076 tickets already sent to the Wolverine camp have been purchased. Upon receiving assurances from here that more could be secured, 2,000 Michigan supporters have paid in their money. A block of 4,300 will be sent, Hunter said. Box sections U, V, W and X are being held for them.

The Michigan ticket sale will continue here during the rest of this week.

Tickets for the Chicago-Wisconsin game are here and will be mailed to the public and alumni tomorrow. Students may call for their tickets between Monday, November 19, and Thursday, November 22, from 8 to 5:30 o'clock.

JONES JUSTIFIES GRID-GRAPH PRICE

Explains That Money is Needed to Support Minor Sports

Owing to certain criticism on the part of the student body regarding increased admission to the grid-graph, T. E. Jones, director of athletics, attempted to clear up the matter late last night.

"I believe it is not generally known that the major part of football receipts, above expenses, goes into the interclass fund. Because minor sports are not self supporting it is necessary to draw on this fund to meet their expenses.

"In order that the All-American and Freshman teams may go to Chicago, it is necessary to use the money of the Interclass fund to send them, as we are not allowed to take this money from the athletic fund. That students will not have to buy tags, or the department be made to "pass the hat," it was felt that it would be advisable to raise the price of admission to the grid-graph game, as has been done at other universities.

"Besides this, all intramural athletics are dependent upon the money in the fund."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY WILL BE ENTERTAINED

Miss Thyra Jensen will entertain the Young People's society at the Bethel Lutheran church on the corner of Hamilton and East Johnson streets at 8 o'clock tonight. The University was represented by Prof. Max Mason of the department of physics at the inauguration of Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley at Washington university, St. Louis, on November 10.

SELF-SERVE POSTOFFICE INSTALLED AT LATHROP

S. G. A.'s Self-service postoffice, is now installed in Lathrop hall for the use of all women students. The postoffice is a large bulletin board with letters from A to Z and wire racks below the initials.

It has been placed opposite the S. G. A. office, and may be used for messages between students, for organization communications, and notices.

"We hope all girls will make use of the postoffice for any sort of communications on the campus. Organizations especially will use this method to get in touch with their members," said Ethel Vinje general secretary of S. G. A. "Every girl should come in at least once a day to see if there are any letters for her."

The system has been tried at the University of Minnesota with a remarkable degree of success.

TRANSFORMER MOVED BY CRASH IS DISPLACED

Employees of the Madison Gas and Electric company worked all day Wednesday replacing the transformer dislodged from its pole as a result of the auto crash at the corner of Langdon and Frances streets Tuesday night.

It has been replaced by a new one. It is valued at approximately $600.

Following the accident a large area surrounding the scene of the collision was in darkness as a result of damage to electric light wires. Temporary repairs were affected within an hour.

Adjutant-General Immel, who was driving the car, was cut by flying glass.

The second car in the mishap was a Stutz belonging to Jere Witter 22 Langdon street. He and a companion escaped injury and the car was not badly damaged.

Leaders in Wolverine
Tilt

The old tradition that the Wisconsin football team always has one good game in its system is getting under the skins of many fans, and a thrilling battle is looked for Saturday afternoon at Camp Randall when the Badgers meet the Wolverines.

Once more it falls to Wisconsin's lot to upset a leader in the conference, and should she accomplish that feat Saturday the season would not be considered a failure. Michigan looks good to go through the season undefeated to tie with Illinois for the championship of the Big Ten. Only Wisconsin and Minnesota stand in her way to success, and Yost is directing all his efforts at the present time to defeating the Badgers.

The loss of Uteritz, wily quarterback who has piloted the Wolverines through two successful seasons will be keenly felt by the Michigan team, but Rockwell, who is slated to take the quarterback position is equal to the task.

In an effort to keep his maneuvers entirely secret, Coach Jack Ryan has kept everyone from the Randall field all week. Fans who still look for something new may see it in the Michigan game.

Ed Williams and Sid Eagleburger have both been used at half back during the week's practice and may get into the workout at that position Saturday. The Illinois tilt last Saturday proved that Wisconsin has not yet found a man who can run the ends.

Michigan comes here Saturday, realizing Wisconsin's strength and the necessity of defeating the Badgers. With a team of fighters who have proved themselves through two fast seasons, they will be here to continue their march toward the championship.

Kipke, an All-American halfback will lead the attack, and should Wisconsin hold him on his end runs there will be hope. Iowa, playing the defensive with her ends playing wide, stopped Kipke.

Steger, Kipke's running mate, is fast, and Miller, is a plunging fullback who will be hard to stop. Miller hits the center of the line with his head down and his feet going like trip hammers.

Help! Help! S. O. S. This column wants contribs. Make this column your clearing house on Wisconsin Sports! Send 'em to Orie.

The Tribune Wake came through with some good stuff on Wisconsin and Gerber yesterday. It certainly is gratifying to know that the world of sports is standing by Wisconsin in all its ineligibility troubles.

Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Chicago University alumni are sympathizing with us, and sooner or later it won't be only Wisconsin who is getting all the brunt of the dirty work.

Wisconsin, as expressed in the Wake, has always fostered clean athletics and if any crooked athlete can slip by Tom Jones, he's a Houdini or a real slicker. That's why we think Gerber's case has been made an example.

Coach Ryan is injecting something into that bunch out there this week, but the Lord only knows what it is. Absolutely no sport writer can get near that enclosure to get any dope. Maybe it's a good sign of something surprising happening—anyway we hope there is.

Gym Team Prepares
For First Tilt of Year

About eighteen men are working out on the gym team in preparation for the first meet of the year with the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. December 15 at Milwaukee.

Ten men will present Wisconsin at the meet. The Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. will prescribe one exercise that each contestant must do, and there will be another optional test on five different pieces of apparatus—the horizontal bar; the side horse; the flying rings; parallel bars, and fencing instruments.

The following men are trying out for the team: Baker, L. S. 2; Bremer, Eng. 2; Hiemke, Eng. 2; Keller, L. S. 2; Koch, Eng. 4; Kress, L. S. 3; Krieger, Eng. 4; McKivitt, L. S. 4; Paddock, L. Urge Teams to Observe Schedule; Committee Names New Rule

At a meeting of the executive committee Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, the inter-fraternity basketball schedule was drawn up. The schedules are being printed now and are expected to be ready for distribution in a few weeks. Fraternities are urged to pay close attention to the schedule, so that games will not have to be postponed.

A new ruling this year is that any men on the freshmen basketball squad are not allowed to participate in any of the games. A list of men ineligible to play on any team will be posted in the men's gym. With the exception of this rule they are the same as last years. All games will be played on days designated from 5:30 to 7:45 o'clock on the small courts.

The executive committee is composed of Ralph Gill, chairman; Gordon Aller, William Morrison, and Donald Newcomb. The teams divided into divisions and the schedule for the first round of the tournament is as follows:

VARSITY SQUAD
TO MEET FROSH
IN SWIM MEETSteinauer to Line Up Teams
In November
Meet

Coach "Joe" Steinauer will get his first real line on the varsity and freshman swimmers Tuesday, November 27, when the two teams meet for the first tank competition of the season.

The freshmen showed up well in time trials held last week and Steinauer is now selecting 25 men to compose the yearling squad. When the men get into training Steinauer expects to see several seconds chopped off the time of most of the swimmers on the frosh team.

"Quit diving for pennies," was the instruction given by Joe Steinauer, swimming coach, to the members of the varsity swimming squad Wednesday afternoon.

Reviewing the facts of the ineligibility case of Gerber, Steinauer decided to take no chances with possible charges of professionalism on his squad.

"Diving for pennies is using your swimming knowledge for financial gain," he cautioned.

"We have one of the best freshman teams this year we have ever had," said Steinauer last night. "Right now I could pick a relay team from the yearlings that would make the varsity men go to the limit to win."

In preparation for the contest with the freshmen, the varsity swimmers are practicing daily, increasing the length of their swims and taking longer and stiffer workouts. Especial attention is being paid this week to starts and turns.

It looks as if Wisconsin will be represented by an excellent team of divers when the conference meets are held. There are two or three promising men besides Koch, of last year's team, and Simpkins.

Prospects are the brightest this year in the plunge that they have been since Steinauer took over the coaching work in 1919. A. Nickels has shown up exceptionally well in this event, as have Howard Dummer and R. Straus.

Motorists Trespass On
New Streets, City Plaint

Opening closed streets seems to be the favorite sport of Madison motorists, it was learned from the city engineering department today. The latest occurred over Saturday and Sunday on Gilman st., where motorists lowered the barricade and drove over the freshly laid concrete base in preference to walking a short distance. Violators in future will be arrested and fined for damaging the roadways.

Varsity Mat Squad
in Tryouts This Week

Candidates for the wrestling squad will report to Coach Hitchcock for tryout this week and next.

With a number of last year's varsity men as a nucleus Coach Hitchcock hopes to have an excellent team this year. Captain Benbow and Witworth, both last year's men will compete for honors in the 125 lb. class. Holmes looks good in the 135 pounders, with Munkwitz, Zodtner and Harrison hitting the scales at 145. In the heavyweights Bieberstein will be in the running as soon as football season is over.

No schedule has been arranged yet but meets will probably be arranged with Michigan, Northwestern, Iowa, Minnesota and Chicago.

WEINRICH ELECTED
SOCCER CAPTAINVarsity After Revenge in Game With Chinese
Saturday

L. S. Weinrich was elected captain of the regular varsity soccer team at an enthusiastic meeting in the mens' gym last night. The meeting was held to prepare for the second game of the tournament between the Chinese soccer team and the varsity team which will be played next Saturday at 10:30 on the lower campus.

The Chinese won the first game last Saturday 3 to 2, but the varsity team was crippled because of the fact that many of its players had gone to Urbana. The Orientals are doped to lose the next game in spite of the fact that they have such stars as Lieu and Sun.

A great deal of interest is being displayed in soccer this year, according to Coach Schlatter. There are about sixteen or seventeen men on the regular team and all of the freshmen and sophomores play the game at their regular gym periods.

That soccer will come into more prominence in the next few years is the opinion of coach Schlatter.

"In many of the eastern colleges it is a major sport now," he said. "and there is a lot of interest being displayed in the game in the prep schools of the middle west."

Soccer is the ideal sport for the prep school athletes coach Schlatter believes. It teaches the embryo athlete to be quick on his feet and to follow a ball which is bounding all over. Then when he gets to college he is excellent material for football.

A banquet for all persons who are interested in soccer will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday.

HARRIER SQUAD
MEETS MICHIGAN
HERE SATURDAYWolverines to Provide Greatest Opposition of Season For Badgers

With the last dual meet of the season scheduled for Saturday with Michigan, Coach Mead Burke is putting his cross country men through some stiff practice this week with the aim of having every member of the squad in the best condition possible for what will undoubtedly be the hardest race of the season.

Although the varsity runners have encountered all opposition thus far with little difficulty, Coach Burke realizes the strength of the Wolverines and does not intend to be caught with a poorly trained team. Furthermore, although the Badger's slate has not been marred with any defeats thus far, no one man on the team has proved himself reliable. In the various time trials and meets held so far, a different runner on the squad finished first every time.

This fact plainly shows that the best members of the team cannot be relied upon to finish near the position they may have won the previous week. In other words, the runner who showed up best one week may drop back to fifth or sixth place the following week; consequently the coach has little confidence in the ability of his men to place in the same position more than once.

The lineup for the varsity squad has not yet been announced but Coach Burke intimated that he would know definitely tomorrow. It is quite possible that the eight men composing the Cardinal team may include a few changes as several of the regulars on the team have practically recovered from their ills and may feel fit to enter competition once more.

Michigan has one of the strongest and best balanced teams in the conference and if the varsity harriers succeed in keeping their score down lower than that of the Wolverines, they will be conceded more than an even chance of winning the honors in the conference meet at Ohio State the following week.

Sophs Humble Juniors
In Swimming Meet

In a fiercely contested water battle Tuesday night, the sophomore mermaids humbled the juniors last year's champs, by eleven points, the winners totaling 34, the losers 23.

The frosh took the seniors by surprise, washing them up by a score of 40 to 17.

The sophomores, by the scoring of Elna Mygdal, Harriet Graham, and Beatrice Marks, took the first three places in the 40-yd. breast stroke. In the 20-yd. back, Lois Barry '25 came in first, Elna Mygdal '26, second, and "Mickey" Lauter '25, third.

In the free style, Mygdal made first, Graham, third, while the fighting juniors squeezed in second. Helen Robinson, placing. Sophomore rooters stormed with applause when Eloise Blakslee '26 touched the end of the pool in her sensational 60-ft. plunge. Lois Barry '25 floated in second on 56½ ft. and Ester Rosenberg, third, on 46.

During the relay, both teams held their breath, as Mygdal and Barry plowed the last lap. Mygdal came in an arm's length ahead of her rival.

The frosh took first, second, and third places in the 40-yd. breast and the 20-yd. back strokes. Marcella Steele took first in the breast and Miriam Wollaeger, first in the back. Wollaeger and Steele came in first and second in the 40-yd. free-style, respectively. Catherine Fuller '24, came in third. The frosh won the relay by a length of the pool. There is good stuff in them and the undefeated sophomores will knock up against stiff competition Thursday night when they meet. The seniors will swim against the juniors at the same time.

POWER TO YOU, GIRLS

The action of the women of the university in calling a massmeeting this evening to discuss the drinking situation at the university is most commendable.

It is just a further indication of what was pointed out in yesterday morning's Cardinal that there is a growing and active anti-booze sentiment at Wisconsin among the students and that these students are themselves out to clean up the situation.

It is to be hoped that every woman will be present at the meeting in Lathrop this evening and that the discussion will be free from any quibbling such as that which marked that disastrous S. G. A. meeting last spring.

Those men and organizations at Wisconsin which have taken up this stand against student drinking, welcome the advance of the women and eagerly watch tonight's meeting.

DAD'S DAY FESTIVITIES

Last year, imbued with the same idea which moved the founder of Mother's Day, the student body established Dad's Day. Faint whisperings have been heard on the campus of perpetuating the observance and rumor has even had it that the day was set for the seventeenth when Wisconsin meets Michigan on the gridiron.

Faint whisperings, rumors, and that is all. Almost all, we should say. For it is true that some concentrated effort is being made by the Y. M. C. A. to observe the day. For it is bringing here Dr. Charles W. Gilkey who will speak in the Y. M. C. A. Friday night in a special Dad's Day address.

Nothing else is being done. Some students who have heard from various sources that Saturday would be set aside for fathers have planned to have their fathers visit them then. Yet what sort of a welcome will be given to these visitors? At Illinois, when Wisconsin played the Indians, much attention was paid to the event. A special reception was given the dads the night before the game, a special tour of the campus was made in the morning, a special section in the stadium was reserved for students and their dads, special events were held in the evening. It was impressive; provided hours of unusual pleasure, gave the dads an idea of what sort of an institution their children were attending.

When the dads of Wisconsin students come here Saturday they will be able to acquire some notion of the university should they not have been here before, but what sort of entertainment will be provided for them? Some organizations are planning for the event. Yet there is no concentrated action, the entire university is not behind the project, few students, indeed, fully realize that Saturday is to be devoted to visiting dads.

TOLERANCE

Tolerance is one of the finest attributes of individual personality. In the last analysis, it is, perhaps, nothing more or less than an expression of the sentiment of live-and-let-live. It connotes a broad-mindedness and a willingness to accept the ideas of other.

Ability to look upon the ideas and practices of others and to appreciate them and to realize their worth without resenting the natural jealousy of their possessors is hard to develop and rare to be seen. Easier it is to scoff at another's ways and to point out the flaws and inconsistencies in them than it is to sense their value and to realize their intrinsic worth.

The individual is prone to accept only that which he can understand and believe. The unknown is promptly discredited, for all thinking is done in terms of past experiences. This is all natural and is but a development of a phase of self-preservation instinct. Accordingly, the quality of tolerance must be developed by the individual through an overcoming of his more primitive tendencies. A willingness to yield and not an insistence upon his own desires, an acceptance of conditions as they are rather than as they should be, and an openness of mind mark the tolerant man. The possession of these does not mean the sacrifice of individuality but rather the easier promulgation of it, for they arouse no opposition and resistance. They invite a fairness of treatment and judgment of consideration and so accomplish for the tolerant individual what no amount of force can gain for the intolerant. Thus tolerance may be likened to a stream of deep water, quiet and powerful and pleasing.

UNDERGRADUATE MARRIAGES

One of the questions that repeatedly comes to the foreground in university life, and unnecessarily so, is the question of the advisability or inadvisability of undergraduate marriages. Syracuse university recently decided this matter by passing regulations forbidding marriages among her students under penalty of suspension and expulsion.

Syracuse is not alone in this attitude of opposition for virtually all universities either discourage or actively oppose student marriages. At our own university, various professors and authorities, both publicly and privately, have expressed themselves as utterly opposed to permitting marriages among undergraduates for two reasons, first, that the assumption of matrimonial duties relegates scholastic duties to a secondary place, and second, that it tends to conceal the real purpose of college life and sets a bad example for others.

Upon primary consideration, all objection to undergraduate marriages seems to be utterly unnecessary, for they are so few and far between. The number of students that marry in their undergraduate days is exceedingly few, and the opposition is merely making a mountain out of a mole-hill.

Further, opposition to marriage between men and women mentally and physically capable is utterly wrong, and especially so in the case of college men and women. Statistics from the biology and sociology departments show that there is a pitiful lack of marriages between college men and women, who, above all others are best fitted for it. Students represent the best classes of people, and their marriage is vitally essential to the betterment of the race. In the conflict, if, indeed, there is one, between matrimonial duties and collegiate duties, the latter must and should give way. Colleges are made for men and women, not men and women for colleges, and the duties of life are paramount to those of college.

Other Editors Say—

CONVERSATIONALISTS

Campus conversationalists should some day take pity on the weather, the price of gasoline, and the styles of co-eds, long enough to talk for a few moments about the more significant events of this interesting world.

College students should be expected to take at least some interest, however superficial and fleeting, in the greater problems which are confronting the minds of men—in international law and politics, in invention, philosophy, and sociology.

It would be both mental exercise and a liberal education for many of them to climb out of their drab ruts of disinterestedness to take a keener interest in mundane affairs.

Too often at student gatherings the gossip is aimlessly dull or epigrammatically empty, insubstantial though witty. The stimulating, vexatious questions of the day should be substituted once in a while for the usual inanities of college talk.

The reason why university students are, as a rule, hopelessly out of touch with current events is this attitude of indifference to serious worldly matters. The new Rhineland Republic or the reparations problem means little to them because these subjects never appear in their daily conversation. They do not see the romance of the real, the poetry of prosaic things.

Talk makes the man as much as clothes. What do YOU talk about?

Communications

Editor, The Cardinal,
Dear Sir:

I have read, with considerable interest, the editorial and comments on the Wisconsin cheering at the Homecoming game and I can't help but add a word.

I agree with both factions—the cheering was very weak indeed, and although part of it can be blamed on the cheer leaders, I think most of it belongs on the students and alumni. I know the section where I sat was woefully weak on cheers, and the cheering as a whole seemed very weak.

One of the later issues of the Cardinal contained a letter that claimed that rival cheering sections always outshone the home teams, but I beg to differ, especially since seeing some of the eastern games where the home rooters drown out the visitors without any trouble, and it being perfectly obvious to those sitting next to the cheering section, where the cheering ordinarily sounded the weakest.

I speak particularly of Pennsylvania, where I heard some of the best cheering that I have heard in many games. The cheering that I have heard in many games. The cheering section is composed of the male students, of course, seated by classes, and amounting to nearly 7,000 I should judge, no women or even loyal alumni being permitted here. On this section the six cheer leaders devote their entire energy, directed by the head cheer leader, and believe me they get wonderful results.

With the Pennsylvania system the cheer leaders all sit together and at opportune times the head leader directs one or two of his subordinates to call for a yell, and it goes over with a bang. On the bigger yells, such as a locomotive, he leads the yell himself, with the assistants in the rear, at intervals of about 10 to 15 feet, maybe more. Their motions are all the same, probably standardized by the cheer leader, so the crowd knows just what to do and say and the sections are all kept in perfect time—with marvelous results. This cheering section surely did show up the Pittsburg bunch, and they were present nearly 3,000 strong across the field.

This system has the advantage of leaving it up to the head cheer leader as to when to call for yells, and with his experience he should be the one best qualified to do it. It also does away with some ambitious sophomore leader overworking the various sections with a view to showing how good and how ambitious he is.

Possibly this system cannot be worked out in its entirety at Wisconsin, but I certainly would like to see some improvement. The athletic department started to good work by limiting students to one ticket in the cheering section—let's have it carried on, and if necessary have a cheering section for men and one for girls, with all cheering under the direct control of the chief.

I might just add in passing that there are a large number of Wisconsin grads here and they all have a keen interest in Wisconsin's football team this year, so we will all be watching the results of Illinois, Michigan and Chicago very anxiously.

Yours for better Wisconsin,
L. P. WARNER '23.

CALIFORNIA STADIUM NEARING COMPLETION

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 9—The University of California's Memorial Stadium is rapidly nearing completion. All of the seats have been installed and painted, and the interior of the mammoth bowl is practically ready for the thousands of people who will make their way into the structure on November 24, the day of the Stanford-California game.

The two great scoreboards on the north and south ends of the structure are receiving their final touches. The earth around the playing field, which has been a store place for refuse for the last few weeks has been cleared away, turned up and grass planted. The complete field of the Stadium will have an excellent growth of grass by the day of the game, while the playing field will be in good football condition.

GILLEN SUGGESTS LECTURE SERIES

Thinks Students Would Appreciate Hearing Talks on New Subjects

"I think a series of lectures by professors of the different departments of the university on subjects of general interest in their respective fields would be appreciated by the upperclassmen," Stephen W. Gillen, professor of the department of sociology said Tuesday.

Wisconsin has more subjects of interest to students to offer than any one student can hope to become familiar with as an undergraduate. Nationally known professors who have made the name of Wisconsin famous are now able to reach only their own classes. Undergraduates majoring in some special course are as unable to attend the lectures of famous professors outside their particular course as if they were in separate universities.

Several Colleges Have Course

"Several great universities, among which are numbered Columbia, Amherst, and Pittsburg, have a general culture course similar to the one proposed," Professor Gillen said.

"It is given, however, to freshmen as a means of clarifying their conceptions of the world, and to orient them with the university. This course was proposed for Wisconsin freshmen several years ago, but because of its conflicting with freshmen requirements it was not adopted," he continued.

The course in Social Origins given by Professor Gillen is the closest approach to the proposed course. In his work of tracing the development of civilization, Professor Gillen secures the aid of other professors who lecture to his class on the relation of the subjects taught by their department toward the advance of civilization. All the lectures are correlated and supplemented by lectures by Professor Gillen.

The Big Stars play Conns

Since the days of Pat Gilmore's famous band to the present day of Sousa and his band, the most famous artists in concert bands and symphony orchestras have used and now use and endorse Conn instruments because, they say, Conns are —more perfect in tone and intonation;

—possess more reliable valve, slide or key action;
—are much easier to blow;
—are more perfectly balanced, artistically designed and finished.

Conns possess exclusive features of great value to the beginner as well as the artist. Improvements not found on other makes. That is why artists prefer Conns.

Fine Points in Music Are Given To Band Players

"One of the most important aspects of the work of the university bands is musical education," said Major E. W. Murphy, director of the bands, Saturday.

"In the rehearsals the men receive a type of instruction which is planned to develop their ability to read music at first sight, and at the same time to enable them to become reasonably familiar with a great portion of the best musical literature," said Major Murphy.

The first regimental band, the concert band, holds two rehearsals each week. The second band rehearses three times each week.

"One rehearsal each week for the concert band is devoted entirely to sight reading. At times certain sections of the organization are rehearsed alone, and at those times the individual players are given attention, and their peculiar problems are worked out in detail. This gives the players a type of instruction which is almost equivalent to private instruction," Mr. Murphy declared.

Three Days to Beat Those Illini!

We've Heard They've Hit 3000

Silver cup has been offered to winner — Wisconsin and Illinois the only competitors. We are out to beat them—we are going to beat them, but we can't do it alone. That means that we want your subscription the next three days.

The Badger is Your Annual

It represent the University of Wisconsin. It represents your school. But it cannot be truly representative of this institution unless YOU support it. Out of 7,600 students enrolled, we are going to get 5,000 subscriptions. We are going to beat Illinois and that will do it. Think of it---less than two-thirds of the student body are necessary to put it over. Your annual is the best in the world. Do your part.
