5 CENTS

TODAY MARKS CLOSE OF BIG RELIGION MEET

Three Speakers Scheduled for Final Sessions of Conference

Today will be the big day and the closing day of the all-university Religious conference. Two convocations at the armory will feature the program. This afternoon at 3:30 the speakers will be Mrs. Katherine Willard Eddy and Dr. Ozora Davis. This evening, the convocation will be addressed by Dr. Frederick F. Shannon of Chicago and Dr. Davis.

A telegram from "Dad" Elliott yesterday informed the central committee that it would be impossible for him to return for the Sunday afternoon convocation as had been planned. The serious illness of Mrs. Elliott makes it necessary for him to cancel his engagement here.

Dr. Shannon Chief Speaker

Dr. Shannon, who will be the leading speaker of the evening meeting, is pastor of the famous Central church of Chicago. This pastorate was for many years filled by Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus and previously by Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis. Dr. Shannon was educated at Harvard and for many years held pastorates of great importance in eastern cities. He stands in the front rank of the brainy preachers of the new generation, and is a thinker of well balanced progressiveness.

Dr. Ozora Davis is one of the most forceful and entertaining speakers on the entire program. He is president of the Chicago Theological seminary. He combines a rare intellectual ability and a most attractive personality with a fund of real Scotch humor. His genial wit gives an added flavor to his addresses. He is recognized as one of the strongest religious leaders in the country, and for many years has been associated with student work.

Mrs. Eddy to Speak

Mrs. Katherine Willard Eddy, who gave an address Friday evening on world opportunities for religious service, will speak again this afternoon. Mrs. Eddy is national executive for the foreign work of the Y. W. C. A.

All students wishing personal conferences with the speakers may make arrangements for them with the committee on personal interviews under the chairmanship of Ross Rogers.

Promise Plenty of Pep for Military Ball

"There's nothing new under the sun," says the proverb. "You're all wrong," counter the members of the executive committee for the Military ball.

The eighth annual Military ball will be held at the armory the night of April 9, and from Chairman Roswell Hewett, colonel and head mechanic, down to "Joe," the armory janitor, all promise that previous affairs and shindigs held in the armory will undergo a total eclipse.

The ball proper will begin at 9 o'clock. The First Regimental band will offer a concert from 8:30 to 9, during which the commandant, assistants, and staff of the cadet corps, will receive at the regimental box. The concert will be followed by a

Badgers Lose to Michigan, 23-20

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Poor basket shooting, poor floor work, and poor all-around basketball defeated the Wisconsin five in a game with Michigan at Ann Arbor last night. The final score was 23 to 20. The Wolverines, early in the game, piled up a lead which the Badgers were unable to overcome.

Wisconsin now has a 500 per cent rating with five games won and five lost, which means that fifth place is the best possible final standing obtainable. Chicago cinched the championship with a victory over Minnesota last night.

HOLD JUNIOR PLAY TRYOUTS TUESDAY

"Cheating Cheaters" Offers Opportunity for Variety of Characters

Tryouts for the junior play, "Cheating Cheaters," will be held in Lathrop hall, Tuesday, March 9, at 4:30 and 7:30 p. m. Contestants should appear at only one of the above-mentioned times. Manuscripts of the play are now on file at the university desk at the library, and candidates for the cast should read the play before the tryouts.

"Cheating Cheaters" is a successful professional play, having appeared in New York and Chicago, and it is called the most ambitious dramatic production ever attempted by the junior class. A farce-comedy in four acts, it shows the struggle of two bands of crooks against each other. An excellent story and a large number of conniving swindlers furnish material for variety of characterization.

First among the cheaters is Steve Wilson, a rough looking chap who smokes cigars and carries a pistol in his hip pocket.

Then there is Antoni Verdi, alias "Tony the Wop," who parades as an Italian music teacher, but who is most successful as a gambler. George Brockton is a vigorous old man and a good crook, having been in the business for 50 years. He supports his wife, Mrs. Brockton, quite well.

Nan Carey, alias Ruth Brockton, is young and pretty and wears beautiful gowns. Ira Lazarre is a nervous man, thin, and slightly bald. Ed Palmer and his wife are distinguished looking people, who pass easily as members of the best society. They have two children, Grace and Tom, who are young, good-looking, and extremely clever.

Phil Preston plays at being the butler, and Mr. Hanley poses as a government official. Holmes, a private detective, completes the list of the 13 principals.

WOMEN EDIT SATIRE SECTION OF BADGER

Again the women are coming in to their own!

The satire section of the Badger has in the past been entirely in charge of men, and, as a result, the fairer section of the student body has been consistently the subject of stinging satire. To protect her charges, the dean of women has frequently felt called upon to come to the rescue with full powers of censorship.

This year, however, all is changed. The satire section has been entirely turned over to a committee of women consisting of two girls from each sorority; and this committee has been given complete liberty to pick on the men as much as they want. From all reports they seem to be doing it.

MAROON TANK STARS VICTORS

Wisconsin Captures Only Two Firsts in Dual Meet

Wisconsin swimmers suffered defeat at the hands of Chicago in a dual swimming meet held here last night, by a score of 44 to 24. The score of the water basketball game, which followed the meet, was 6 to 2 in favor of the Maroons.

Meagher of Chicago plunged the distance of 60 feet in record time, 17 4-5 seconds although he did not do as well as in the meet with Illinois a week ago when he made the distance in 17 flat. This time breaks both the conference and national records which were 18 4-5 and 18 seconds respectively. Gordon, his team-mate captured second and Krum placed third for the Badgers.

The visitors started out strong by winning the 160 yard relay, the first event on the program and remained in the lead throughout, allowing the Badgers to win but two firsts, captured by Bach and Koch. Koch by his superior diving easily won the fancy diving event. Rubinkam of Chicago took second and Schuh, another Maroon, nosed Collins out for third position.

In the 40-yard swim, Davies of Wisconsin ran a close race with Ries, the star sprinter of the visiting squad, but was unable to beat him, losing by a small margin. Bach captured first in the 220 and tied for second with Jenkins in the 100 yard swim.

The summaries:

160 yard relay—won by Chicago (Keefe, Cohen, Allison, and Ries. Time—1:22 1-5.

Fancy diving—won by Koch, Wisconsin; Rubinkam, Chicago, second; Schuh, Chicago, third.

40 yard swim—won by Ries, Chicago; Davies, Wisconsin, second; Jenkins, Chicago, third. Time—22 1-5 seconds.

200 yard breast stroke—won by Brunhart, Chicago; Benson, Wisconsin, second; Collins, Wisconsin, third. Time—2:50 4-5 seconds.

220 yard swim—won by Bach, Wisconsin; Allison, Chicago, second; Cohen, Chicago, third. Time—2:50 2-5 seconds.

Plunge for distance—won by Meagher, Chicago; Gordon, Chicago,

BADGER TRACK TEAM MAKES GOOD RECORD

Takes Third in Two Relays; Andrews Cops Second in Hurdles

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)

URBANA, Ill.—Wisconsin made a creditable showing against a field of teams containing stars from the south, east and west in the Illinois relay carnival at Urbana yesterday afternoon, taking third place in both the two and four mile relay races. Captain Andrews was the only Badger to place in the individual events with second place in the 75-yard high hurdles against Carl Johnson of Michigan.

Johnson not only won first in the high hurdles but captured premier honors in both the 75-yard low hurdles and the high jump. His low hurdle mark of eight seconds flat broke the conference record and established a new American record in that event.

Four other records were shattered in the meet, but all of them were for the carnival only, and not the conference. Chicago captured first place in the two mile relay with a record time of 8:04 4-5, and Ames took the four mile event in the new time of 18:40 3-5. Sholtz of Missouri broke the carnival record in the 75-yard dash making the distance in 7 3-5 seconds, while Frost of the Kansas Aggies and Slaughter of Michigan collaborated in making a new record in the pole vault with a height of 12 feet 2 1-2 inches. Illinois took third place in this event, neither Wilder or Endres of Wisconsin placing.

Hamilton of Missouri won the all-around championship event with Osborn of Illinois second, and Bradley of Kansas third. Knollin, for Wisconsin, performed well but did not place. Spetz, the Badger runner entered in the 75 yard dash, finished in first place in his heat but failed to place in the finals.

Ouija Conquers Jazz in Gaining Support of Students

Ouija! The greatest rival of jazz! Is it a toy or an oracle?

This question becomes increasingly interesting when we consider the number of students addicted to the ouija board habit today. It is estimated that in Madison there is one ouija board for every 50 students, a total of 140 in all, with the number increasing every day.

In vain, psychologists base the action of the prophetic board on science. Still its occultism holds us. Still we feel the presence of the "unseen powers" and we one and all hang upon its decisions.

The Phi Beta bends anxiously over it asking, "Will I get 'Ex' in everything?"

The flapper trembles as the pointer hesitates between, "He loves me," and "He loves me not."

The Dixie club shivers as it asks "When will spring be here for good?"

At any rate, prophet or playing, ouija fascinates and rules us all. As part of the wave of occultism that is sweeping over the country, she has gained a popularity that cannot be denied and is second only to that of the "Great God Jazz."

It is rumored that, as a result of

BOLSHEVIK BABE

My beautiful bob-haired Bolshevik,

So young, so iconoclastic:
Your ideas, my dearest, so plastic,
Your opinions that stretch like elastic:
Your expression of thought so fantastic,
Sardonic, ironic, sarcastic,
Beautiful, brutal, bombastic—

Your heart is impossible to win,
But I praise you, my dear, for you bring us some cheer
In professor-infested Wisconsin.

You try so hard to be shocking
(It's not easy these days I can see)
That you wear, just to keep the prudes knocking,
One silk and one cotton stocking,
And your ankles so graceful and mocking,
Proclaim their right to be free.

Pride of the proletariat,
You have caught in your verbal lariat
My bourgeois heart, and you carry it,
Worry it, hurry it, harry it,
Take it and shake it and bury it
Where the others lie
Who were slain by your eye,
O pride of the proletariat!

As you come down off the campus
With psychic ways you vamp us,
With a bit of human naughtiness;
Then with Amazonian haughtiness
You give a frown to damp us,
And in the mire you stamp us,
As you walk o'er our prostrate forms.

If Socialist headquarters (and I speak with utmost candor)
Sent out a few more Bolsheviks like you, the cause you'd win,

Modern Woman Has the Right to Propose if She Does it Tactfully, Girls Declare

Should girls propose?

This is the blazing interrogation of the moment at Milwaukee Normal school.

And the girls have leaped to the leap year opportunity with a decisive affirmative answer set forth in their views published in The Echo, the school publication.

Of course, the fact that there are twice as many women as men attending the school may have had some effect in influencing the feminine viewpoint, but this is not the reason they adduce in well-framed arguments for the right to "pop the question."

Wants Equal Rights

One writer established the point that "pops for women" is only in the direction of equal rights, a recognition of which has become more general since the war.

"The war has brought forth many changes in world affairs," she says. "Women did men's work during the war. They refused to be called the 'weaker sex.' In fact, physically as well as psychologically, they 'donned the pants.' Already 26 of the states have ratified the nineteenth amendment for woman suffrage. Six others have called special sessions of the legislature to take up the bill. Are women to be created equal on certain questions only?

"Woman has the power of helping to make a home 'what it is' after marriage; why should she not have a word in the choosing of her mate?"

Shouldn't "Spill the Beans"

The writer explains she does not mean that girls should "spill the beans in a blunt manner," because most men would be willing to "meet her half" and "99 chances out of 100 he won't have the heart to refuse."

"Can you imagine the results of a marriage resulting from a leap year proposal?" suggests another writer. "The wife would have no comeback in any family troubles. No matter what treatment she received, the husband would always end with, 'Well you wanted me, and you got what you wanted.'"

Another contributor to the symposium favors the general idea of leap year proposals only with "Lodge reservations," so to speak. Her viewpoint is that the woman should lead the man into her clutches and make him propose rather than doing it herself, a woman-made proposal being tantamount to a confession by the lady that she "had lost her Eve-like tact and cleverness."

Are Eves Losing Cleverness?

"As far as the mere wording of the proposal, that should be left to the masculine tongue," she writes. "Even in this day of modern woman, certain human characteristics can not be changed. The man likes the feeling of a conqueror and how could this be gotten if the pursued should word the proposal? The plea of bashfulness is no argument for the woman to get unduly hurried. Her mission is to make the asking exceedingly easy. Even a man who lacks courage in taking the fatal step has resort of innumerable methods. Certainly his drooping spirit can find refuge in one. And should a woman show her fear that the man will get away? The modern idea about women is no argument. Should a woman with her newly acquired freedom admit that she has lost her Eve-like tact and cleverness and must resort to the bald request of marriage. Of course, a woman could say, 'Well, since you've been in the army you will make a good wife for me. I can support two with my salary.' Not the right situation for the average man and woman."

The system proposed by this writer has the further advantage in preserving for the woman her inalienable right to "have the last word."

CLAIMS PEOPLE FAIL TO SHOW DISCRIMINATION

Dean Mathews, Dr. A. J. Todd, and Rabbi Hirschberg Give Talks

"You can't make heroes by amusing them. The mad desire of young people to have a good time is going to take the joy out of living if you are not careful."

So said Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago last night at the university armory in the evening session of the Religious conference which is being held this week. Dean Mathews spoke on the subject "Are You Doing Your Share?" and developed the idea that to the young people of today lies the task of distinguishing between the values of a race for money and a career of offering oneself to the formation of a better social order.

Desires Women in Industry

Dr. A. J. Todd, on leave of absence from the department of sociology of Minnesota university, talked on the subject "Women in Industry," and stated that the entrance of women into this field need not break up the home but will have a humanizing effect upon industrial life and conditions.

Rabbi Samuel Hirschberg of Milwaukee debated the question of religion's place in the world and declared that all men are religious in proportion as they are adapted to their surroundings and to the universe.

Slams Dancing at Present

"The old generation is apt to say to the younger, 'Cheek-to-cheek dancing does not show a very great modesty. Why must you do it when I was perfectly happy at your age without it?'" said Dean Mathews. "The young generation will say in reply, 'You probably didn't do it, but then you must remember that time was very long ago.'

"Every young person wants to be a fool in his own independent way. We older people know that our children are waiting to take our places—they are waiting for our money but they are not interested in our advice. And when we were young it was true of us."

"But why can't you young people be original and make some new mistakes? Perhaps you are preparing for a prominent career and expect to make money—most people do. But my generation has done that; it remains to you to realize that economic efficiency is not the last thing in life, and I think that your generation will do this thing which has never been done before."

Opportunity for Real Work

The opportunity for doing a real man's work in the fields of endeavor which do not pay in big money was further emphasized by Dean Mathews. The danger of a Bolshevik smashup if economic efficiency is not regarded differently by the world, and the need of a democracy which gives justice as well as gets rights were also presented.

Dr. Todd spoke especially of the terms on which women will remain in industry because he thinks they are there to stay.

"There must be equal pay for equal work," he stated, "and by that I mean that the compensation must be based on output instead of on sex. This entitles a responsibility that the women shall not 'scab' on the men's jobs—that they shall take their work seriously and not simply as a means of making pin money."

"Women can work only with reference to their capacity. It has been conclusively proved that in the war women's ability in the finer types of industry could not be questioned. In heavier work, of course, women are often not physically fit for it without bringing a strain upon them. As women come into industry more and more, working conditions will become more decent."

Dr. Todd hinted at a new economic system where parenthood may be more evenly divided so that by the woman's taking more share in the industrial part of the home-keeping, the man may have more time to devote to the children.

Rabbi Hirschberg outlined the importance of religion in some detail. "Man is civilized only to the extent that he is religious," he said, "and thus religion is the true test of the modern world's progress, and not the telegraph and airship or even art, literature, or music. All men are at heart religious, and thus unless humanity itself be a failure, religion can never be."

THE ADVERTISERS

WISCONSIN publications owe their success, in part at least, to the willing response of advertisers.

That being the case, the publications, or the students for whom they act as spokesmen, should take some means of reciprocating. If the reciprocation assumes the form of patronizing the advertisers, it works benefits at both ends.

The merchant receives his benefit from the goods he sells. As a rule he advertises only his best goods, the kind that will do justice to his business and brings additional customers. It is the quality of commodities that has usually attained national note.

In buying advertised materials, the student can justifiably feel that he is buying the best. If, perchance, some unscrupulous advertiser succeeds in avoiding the generally accepted rule of giving a square deal, he lessens his chance of continued patronage.

Finally, there is the consideration that buying advertised goods means more advertisers. Showing the practical business men that we can better his business if he gives support to student publications means the continued success of those publications.

LOYAL BADGER ALUMNI

THE University of Wisconsin has 13,790 alumni. Wisconsin has an enviable reputation because its alumni gave it such.

The greater the marks made by alumni out in the school of life, the greater becomes the name of Wisconsin. As the alumni roll grows larger, the university increases its power to help the state and nation move forward.

The alumni of Wisconsin always take a worth-while interest in the university. They are back of every movement that furthers the growth of their alma mater.

To aid Wisconsin in another upward step, the old grads are heart and soul behind the project to erect a Memorial Union building on the campus. Money is being donated liberally. The alumni are showing that their interest in Wisconsin is more than a mere willingness to yell at a football game.

There is an object lesson for seniors, for all students, in the way Wisconsin alumni are responding to the call of their alma mater. When the Memorial Union drive opens on the campus the student body will get its chance to prove Wisconsin loyalty by test.

THE BOARD OF VISITORS' RECOMMENDATION

AT THE joint session of the board of visitors and the board of regents Friday, the board of visitors unanimously passed a resolution recommending that the board of regents reconsider their action taken in 1914 when they banished intercollegiate rowing from Wisconsin.

The visitors suggested that because of the renewed interest among the students and the alumni—because of the effect rowing has on stimulating school spirit throughout the states, and because the course has been shortened, that the regents obtain data regarding the effects of rowing on the physical welfare of the men and on the evidence take another vote.

It is now to be hoped that sufficient testimony can be brought forth to prove if the men are carefully watched and frequently examined that there are no ill after-effects. Already former intercollegiate oarsmen have offered themselves as proof that rowing does not have the bad effects that popular opinion has imagined. Will A. Foster, one of the board of visitors and one of the heartiest supporters of rowing as a major sport, declared that he knew former crew men who would come back and undergo a physical examination to prove that rowing had not injured their health.

A former Harvard coach stated that in the seven years that he coached at Harvard, there was not a single instance where a man's health was destroyed because of rowing. But the men were closely supervised, each man was examined thoroughly every three weeks and immediately before entering a race. The same is done at Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse, and Pennsylvania, where rowing is a major sport.

With the testimony of men that have rowed in these intercollegiate races, and with the shortening of the course, there is considerable likelihood that Wisconsin will be able to send one of those good old crews to Poughkeepsie in 1921.

W. A. A. will meet Tuesday, March 9, at 7:15 p. m., in the S. G. A. room of Lathrop hall. Important business.

GRADUATE CLUB

The Graduate club informal supper will be held in the S. G. A. room of Lathrop hall Monday evening at 5:45, and every Monday evening hereafter.

SADDLE AND SIRLOIN ELECTS 26 MEMBERS

The Saddle and Sirloin club of the College of Agriculture is the busy livestock organization that is putting on the "Little International." At a recent meeting, the following men were elected: H. J. Katz, W. A. Hartman, R. B. Rose, Emil Miller, Clark McConnell, G. B. Wright, David Kuhe, O. W. Palmer, H. A. Stumpf, A. J. Smith, G. P. Williams, V. A. Tiedjens, R. M. Rowe, A. S. Peterson, M. W. Brown, V. F. Sears, W. B. Koelher, J. F. Crawford, George Brant, George Amundson, W. Hubin, L. H. Heller, F. D. McKay, Ned. Chew, Harvey Weavers and W. D. Neilson.

ARE AMERICAN COLLEGE MEN FRIVOLOUS?

Students from abroad at American universities have made the charge that there is a different spirit among the college students of American universities and colleges than among those of European colleges. The men there have an older and more mature view of life and ethics; they are concerned with the problems of government, and their people, and feel that with them rests the ultimate solution of the great issues before their nation. In Europe the university students spend their leisure talking and debating these problems. At the American universities the students do not seem concerned with the issues before their government, but interest themselves only with the lighter things of life. Around the dinner table, football, dances and the passing things of the moment are the only affairs which engross the mass of students.

Here in this country, the average college is still a youth. By the time he graduates the seriousness of life has begun to present itself to him. In his academic days he was accustomed to think of youthful things with no thought of anything more concerned than a basketball game or a case of puppy love. Time passes and he enters college. There he feels himself far removed from the rest of the world and its problems, probably because neither he nor his people have ever known the oppression or the discomforts of a jealous and tyrannical government.

But the old order has changed, and people are beginning to change this attitude of self-complacency and smugness. Great issues and great problems of social unrest confront this nation. College can not serve their purpose unless the students who leave them are interested in the great issues of the day. A man can not be a successful engineer, an architect, a farmer or teacher unless he has cognizance of the great fundamentals of social, political and economic science and their application to the vital problems of the day.—Iowa State Student.

MANY RESERVISTS RECEIVE SUMMONS

Naval reserve men at the university are receiving notices to report July 1 for active duty to cover a period of two weeks. This is in accordance with the regulations sent out recently from the office of the commandant of the ninth, tenth, and eleventh naval districts, at Great Lakes, Illinois.

The requirements state that since the reserves are required to maintain efficiency, a total of 35 drills a year are required and the bureau of navigation will not accept any substitutes. A further requirement is that members of the reserve force, on inactive duty, will be required, beginning July 1, 1920, to perform at least two weeks active duty for training on a naval vessel each year.

WISCONSIN AND GOPHER TEAMS DEBATE FRIDAY

Hold First Intercollegiate Contests Here This Week

The first inter-collegiate debate held at Wisconsin since 1918 will take place next Friday night at Music hall between Wisconsin and Minnesota. To prevent any conflict arising from the fact that a basketball game is to be played with Chicago on the same night, arrangements have been made to start the game at 7:15, and the debate at 8:15, immediately after the game.

The question for debate reads: "Resolved, that in each industrial corporation the employees, as such, should be permitted to select from among their own ranks at least one-third of the board of directors; all directors to have equal powers and privileges."

In the debate here, I. Arnold Perstein, '21, Keats S. Chu, '19, and Harold M. Groves, '19, closer, will uphold the affirmative. At the same time, a Badger negative trio composed of Frank Kuehl, '20, Baron DeH. Meyer, '20, and Leroy Burlingame, '18, closer, will be meeting Ohio State at Columbus.

Due to the fact that debating activities were suspended in all western universities during the war, several of the schools, Wisconsin included, are this year permitting graduate students to participate. Groves, Chu, and Burlingame are the Wisconsin men now doing post-graduate work on the campus.

Representation of labor on the board of directors of industrial corporations is among the newest proposals that have recently been advanced as panaceas for labor unrest. Such a plan is now in operation in a number of American corporations where it has met with marked success. Any one who has the least semblance of an interest in the present day economic or social problems is expected to turn out Friday night.

Little is known of the comparative strength of either Minnesota or Ohio. The Gophers will have a slight edge since they debated this question in a triangular inter-collegiate debate last fall. At Ohio State, the Buckeye affirmative team is but a short distance from a company which is now successfully operating under their plan. The Wisconsin teams are being coached by Professors J. M. O'Neill and A. T. Weaver. The Forensic board has made arrangements to make the debate open to the public without admission charge.

MOZART CLUB GIVES FREE RECITAL TODAY

The Mozart club concert, the third of a series of free concerts, will be given Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Madison high school auditorium. Nils Rein, young violinist, of unusual merit, who played in the concert circuit of the A. E. F. while in the army overseas, will assist in the program.

VISITORS URGE ROWING RETURN

Board Passes Resolution Asking Regents to Reconsider Action

As a result of the efforts of The Daily Cardinal, alumni and students, to establish rowing as a major sport at the university, the board of visitors unanimously passed a resolution recommending that the regents reconsider their action taken in 1914 when rowing was banished from the university.

The plan to reinstate rowing had the unqualified endorsement of the members of the board of visitors and, it is believed, has the support of most of the regents. The action of the regents in 1914 was taken at the suggestion of the faculty council which, in turn, acted on recommendations of the university medical authorities.

It is believed the medical authorities, in view of the pressing demand from Wisconsin students and alumni, will reconsider their action and be willing to give the sport another chance.

"Dad" Vail is "layin' on his oars," waiting for the decision of the powers on the hill in favor of his pet sport. Scores of men in the university are taking rowing.

Should rowing be put back on the major sport list, work on the training of a crew to enter the eastern regatta would be started at once, gradually. While rowing has been off the curriculum too many years to leave any old-timers in school to compete, there are enough huskies at the state institution and this material and plenty of time is all "Dad" Vail needs to put a crew that will make the easterners sit up and take notice.

Members of the board of visitors recalled yesterday the thrills a crew in the institution carries with it. "Sending off the crew," they all agreed, was about the biggest event in the old athletic life of Wisconsin.

FEDERAL BOARD MEN PLAN TO GIVE DANCE

The Federal board students at the university are planning on holding their spring swingout on Saturday night, March 13, in the gym and concert room at Lathrop hall. The affair is to be the biggest dance given by the board students, and only a limited number of couples will be allowed to attend. Tickets are on sale now for $1.25, and may be obtained from F. C. Rath, 625 North Frances street.

VESPERS POSTPONED DUE TO CONFERENCE

There will be no regular Sunday afternoon vespers this week. The services have been postponed because of a conflict with the afternoon and evening programs of the Religious conference. Miss Constance Kinne will have charge of next's program.

FACULTY ASK RAISE AT WASHINGTON "U"

SEATTLE, Wash.—University of Washington faculty members who were granted a 25 per cent salary increase by the board of regents insist that "a 50 per cent increase is absolutely necessary to meet the demands of the high cost of living." They propose carrying their demands to the legislature at its next session.

An Open Letter to the Faculty and Students:

Are you aware of the fact that a man will appear in this city who can, and does build a fire without matches and a house without hammer or nails?

This is absolutely true,—his name is CRICHTON,—he is a butler appearing in "Male and Female" at the Fuller Opera for Four Days, Beginning Tuesday.

See him and be convinced.

Respectfully,

Cecil B. De Mille

D. U. Dance

Members of Delta Upsilon fraternity entertained with a dancing party at their lodge on Frances street last night. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Reed, and Thompson's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing.

Mrs. Florence Kelley Guest

Mrs. Florence Kelley of the National Consumer's league, was a guest at a Chadbourne hall dinner Friday night. She addressed the girls on the subject of the high cost of living.

Letitia Price Leaves

Miss Letitia Price of Syracuse, N. Y., leaves today after a week in the city as a guest of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority, Sterling court. She was entertained at a tea by the chapter and alumnae Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Miss Sherman Reads

Margaret Sherman, graduate of the school of expression, gave an interpretation of modern poetry at a meeting of the Daughters of Demeter yesterday afternoon with Mrs. James G. Fuller, Hoyt street.

Californians Toboggan

About 25 members of the California club attended a toboggan party Friday night. The party met at Lathrop and proceeded to the slide on Observatory hill. A waffle supper followed the tobogganning.

The organization held a business meeting before the party, at which time the following officers were elected; Stuart S. Beltz, president; Virginia Woolery, vice president; Edwin E. Huse, secretary-treasurer.

Sigma Phi Entertains

Miss Natalie Manning, leading lady in Friendly Enemies, was entertained last night at dinner at the Sigma Phi house by members of the fraternity.

Kappa Psi Initiation

Kappa Psi professional pharmacy fraternity, held its initiation at the Woman's building yesterday afternoon. The following were initiated: Anton Stucky, Jr., Joseph E. Lunda, Bemrose W. Drewry, Albert W. Kottenberg, John A. Bossard, and Ernest C. Turner.

Scabbard and Blade Initiates

Company A, Scabbard and Blade, announces the initiation of the following officers on Friday, March 5, 1920: Captain Orlando Ward F. A. to honorary membership; Cadet Majors M. H. Zwicker, Joe Bolder; Cadet Captains D. R. Mead, Joe Travers, B. Borden, Fred Ruffalo, E. C. Caluwaert, M. Flom, J. B. Jennings, W. P. Hayes, Robert L. Luening.

Following the formal initiation a banquet was served to the fraternity at the Capitol cafe. Many old Scabbard and Blade men were in attendance at the initiation and to help the candidates over the rough places in the road. Among the familiar faces of those present were: Van Bohannon, Fuzz Conover, Bill Balderston, Marcus Link, W. B. Schulte, Ray Grams, and L. T. Roehm.

Among the honorary members present were Captain J. S. Wood, U.S.A., Captain J. F. Keliher, Colonel J. G. Salsman.

After the banquet Van Bohannon acted as toastmaster and many of the above mentioned men responded with stirring toasts of Scabbard and Blade in the past and during the war.

or the books which are being reserved for them will be sold to others who are clamoring for copies, was the announcement made by the Badger staff yesterday. Last year there were between 500 and 1,000 people who wanted Badgers but were unable to get them, and there is every indication that the same disappointment will prevail this year. A large number of the books are being held in reserve for those students who entered in the middle of the year, but if these students do not take advantage of their opportunity immediately, the books will be sold to others.

burst of jazz from the 30 instrument orchestra specially trained for the occasion. Lieut. Jaquish of the First Regimental band has charge of the orchestra.

Previous to the dance there will be held the officers' dinner and reception. A special feature of this reception will be the method by which the dances between courses will be conducted. It's a deep, dark secret, and Captain Field, in charge of the dinner, claims that he won't tell for anything under three malts. All officers of the cadet corps, both present and past, are invited to attend the dinner, which will be held from 5:30 to 8:30.

As to uniforms at the ball, Major John S. Wood, commandant, has announced that any uniform to which the wearer is at present, or at any time past was entitled, may be worn that evening. Evening dress, as well as uniforms, will be permitted to accommodate the large number of men who have signified a desire to attend, but have been unable to obtain uniforms.

AMENDED LAWS WORKERS' NEED

Consumers' League Secretary Talks on Wage-earner and Public

"The legislation of our country has been likened to a centipede with 48 legs instead of 100, many of them paralyzed, all lame."

So spoke Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the Consumers' league, in a talk in University hall at 4:30 Friday afternoon. "The constitution must be amended to meet the needs of the defenseless mass of workers," she said.

Mrs. Kelley pointed out that there is too much diversity in the interpretation of the laws by the many state legislatures. She gave a picture of the care given the children in the different sections of the country from those in the northwestern states receiving a guarantee of education up to 16 years of age, to the scant attention given children in the east and south.

Mrs. Kelley's plea was for the education of the people to a realization of the need of changing the constitution, whereby more concerted action could be gained for the working classes.

SENIORS AT OHIO ASK "NO EXAMS" IN BIG PETITION

COLUMBUS, O.—Formal objections to taking final examinations was made at the meeting of the senior class of Ohio State by 500 members of graduating class all of whom signed the following petition, which will be presented at the next faculty meeting, March 11: "To the faculty of the Ohio State university:

"We, the undersigned members of the 1920 graduating class of the Ohio State university, do hereby petition the faculty of this institution to be excused from all final examinations for the following reasons:

"1. The grades for members of the graduating class must be in the hands of the registrar at least seven days before graduation, which is impossible if any senior examinations come in the last days of scheduled examinations. Abolition of finals for seniors would enable professors to get their grades in to the registrar's office at an earlier date.

"2. In a great majority of cases the professors make out grades for seniors before the finals are taken.

"3. The members of the graduating class are under somewhat of a strain in the last days of their college course, due to consideration of possible future position, and in many cases the parents of the seniors are here taking up considerable of their time.

"4. It would be a slight recognition for the senior in line of his efforts during the four years at the university."

AGRICS HOLD STOCK SHOW

"Little International" Gives Promise of Being
Keen Affair

Madison's best will be seen on dress parade at the University Stock pavilion, Saturday, March 13. Scores of horses, the best in the city, have been entered in the horse classes of the "Little International." Draft teams of the city which have made attractive exhibits in the past will be out in as strong numbers as ever. They will form one of the feature events of the night's show. Gaited saddlers and other light horse classes will parade during the evening program. Among the latter will be the prize winning saddle horses of E. J. Young.

The exposition, a new feature for horse and cattle enthusiasts of the city, is being given by the students in the College of Agriculture, with the active co-operation of the stock owners of Madison. The student Saddle and Sirlon club, which has accepted the responsibility of conducting the show, has appointed Ralph Peterson to be general manager of the exposition, and with the aid of a corps of assistants and committee men, Peterson predicts that the show will not only be made a real success, but that its success is going to assure that the show will develop into an annual event. The stock show proper will consist of competitive exhibits of all classes of livestock, in which students of the College of Agriculture and other interested in the event, will fit animals for the show-ring in competition with one another. Animals for this event will be furnished largely from the university barns, and the excellence of preparation shown by the exhibits will be the basis for deciding the winners of the events.

Dark, Deep Mysteries Pervade Plans of Pythia

Deep mystery surrounds Pythia's plans for celebrating its tenth anniversary Saturday, March 27. That there is to be a "novel stunt" is certain, but the nature of the stunt is not yet to be disclosed to the public.

All that the sybil in charge of the proceedings would let out was that it was a sufficiently momentous occasion to change the date of the meeting from the usual Friday to the unprecedented Saturday evening.

It is expected that Pythia's membership will rise by leaps and bounds as a result of this epochal meeting. And it is even rumored that a representative of a well-known men's organization will be present to add to the eclat of the affair.
