Big Ten Meets To Standardize Requirements

Registrars of Conference Universities Confer on Eligibility Standards

Revision of scholarship requirements for Big Ten athletes, with intent to standardize requirements for intercollegiate competition, will be discussed at a meeting of the registrars of conference universities Saturday in Chicago, according to Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, Big Ten faculty representative for Wisconsin.

Prof. Pyre will accompany Frank Holt, registrar of the university, as representative of the commission appointed last May to investigate prevailing scholarship requirements in conference schools. The committee, composed of Dean Boucher, chairman, of Chicago, Prof. William Marshall of Purdue, and Prof. Pyre, will present its report of investigations to a meeting of the Big Ten faculty committee May 24.

May Make Changes

Although the text of the committee's report has not as yet been made public, it is believed that, because of the wide variation of eligibility requirements for athletes now in effect, several recommendations involving drastic changes in the present rules will be made.

Prof. Pyre pointed out that in some of the conference schools, notably Chicago, Michigan, and Wisconsin, the grade-point average requirement is considerably higher than in other universities. "The present investigation," he added, "is being carried on to determine what legislation may be possible to secure great equality of scholarship requirements for all members of the conference."

Downer Favors Change

George Downer, publicity manager of the department of athletics here, stated that he would strongly advocate any change in competition rules.

Science Not a Cureall-Frank

President Addresses Chemists, Milwaukee Group at Metropolis

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)
Milwaukee, Wis., May 8—"Science will not cure all of the ills of our modern age, nor will it solve all its problems. But a scientific attitude of mind is necessary to approach these ills and problems," declared Pres. Glenn Frank, addressing the tenth midwest regional meeting of the American Chemical society at the Hotel Pfister today.

Dr. Frank spoke also at a luncheon of members of the Milwaukee Civil alliance. His remarks were prompted by the Indian situation.

"Nothing more tragic for the future of mankind could occur than that the orient and the occident should be ironed into a drab sameness of aim and action," he said. "I hope India will never trade her faith for a Ford. I hope the west will never trade its dynamos for the day dreaming of the eastern spirit."

Hesperia Discusses Birth Control at Meeting Thursday

Birth control was the subject of a debate at the meeting of Hesperia Thursday night. Neither the newly drawn up curriculum nor the possibility of complete intersociety merger was discussed.

Suit Against Cardinal House Landlord Comes Up May 13

The case of Joseph G. Rosenbaum '32, who is suing the proprietor of the Cardinal boarding house, 439 N. Murray street, Mrs. Harry W. Butler, for breach of contract will be brought before O. A. Stolen, justice of the peace, next Tuesday, May 13, it was stated Thursday by Marvin Shovers L3, attorney for the plaintiff.

Mr. Rosenbaum is suing for breach of contract and the difference of the cost of board and room that he will be forced to pay after his ejection, his attorney stated. The damage to his belongings incurred by the plaintiff when he was forced to move in rainy weather will also be taken into consideration. The suit will be for around $50, although considering other factors, the amount may run close to $100, Shovers said.

Several Roomers Leave

Rosenbaum moved into the Cardinal house last February, and in the three months that he resided there three students left the house. Previous to his arrival, five students had been expelled, and five or six left peacefully.

Rosenbaum related the following incident:

Shortly after he (Rosenbaum) had left, one of the students residing there missed a blue light bulb from his room. When the student asked Mr. Butler if he had seen it, the latter replied that "Rosenbaum had taken it." The student did not believe the statement because it had disappeared after Rosenbaum had left. The light was returned in about five minutes by Butler.

Landlady Is Silent

When asked for a statement about the case Mrs. Butler said that she had nothing to say, that her husband was out of town on business, and that she knew nothing about it.

At a later time the students rooming there asked Dean Scott H. Goodnight for permission to leave, but he asked them all to stay for the rest of the current semester.

Gives Day's Notice

Butler had asked Rosenbaum to leave on a day's notice, but the dean of men asked that they "be given until the end of the week to get their things out." However, Butler forced the men to vacate.

Student Loses Longhand Notes On Psychology

Somewhere on the campus there is a man or woman who has lost some 40 pages of psychology notes written in longhand. If this unknown person will call at the cloak room of the Memorial Union he or she may collect the material and perhaps be saved many hours of repeated effort.

"It has been here for several days and no one has claimed it. The man who brought it over said that it must have taken 80 hours or more to prepare it," said Fred Miller in charge of the lost and found department.

The bundle of notes, written on yellow paper, begins with an extract from "Creative Imagination by Irene E. Dourney" and seems to be concerned with psychology. Many of the pages contain written matter on both sides.

A thrill that will last for weeks stirred the audience which heard the University singers last night fill Music hall with the majestic, swelling strains of the finale from "Faust," and earlier in the evening, sing "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" with excellence deserving of the highest praise. The entire concert was a superlative performance.

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," after an introduction of the theme, a short characteristically Indian figure, began a description of the marriage festivities. The thread of the story was carried on by interwoven melodies which climbed up through colorful har-

Mrs. A. Dokken, Mother of Five, Unable to Work

A. E. Pi Chambermaid, Injured in Head, May Ask Indemnity

Hit in the head by a red-hot flying rivet from the steel framework of the new Ann Emery hall, Mrs. Amelia Charlotte Dokken, 38, chambermaid at the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity house, has suffered painful injuries about the head, arms and shoulders. She is a divorcee with five children dependent on her.

The five children are: Sanford, 20, Russell, 18, Merele, 16, Forest, 13, and Donald, 9.

Mrs. Dokken received the very serious injury in the head when she was walking to work about 8:45 a. m. Monday, when she passed the new structure on North Francis street. The injury to the skull has not yet been determined, but it is thought that some permanent injury will be the result, either a fracture or a concussion of the brain.

When seen last night, the injured chambermaid appeared haggard and depressed, hoping that she would receive some compensation for the injuries that she had sustained in order that she might support her five boys.

Will the two women who witnessed the accident at Ann Emery hall at 9 a. m. Monday, May 5, in which a woman was struck by a flying rivet, please leave their names at The Daily Cardinal offices in the Memorial Union.

She has been forced to abandon her work; they are entirely dependent upon her wages and that of the oldest son, Sanford, who is employed in the First National bank building.

Phi Beta Wins Scholastic Cup

Group Is First Professional Sorority to Receive Such Award

Phi Beta, national speech sorority, was awarded the first professional sorority scholarship cup for the highest scholastic average at the Pan-Hellenic scholarship banquet held last night in the Memorial Union. Two members of each sorority with the highest chapter scholastic average attended.

In presenting to Alpha Gamma Delta for the fourth consecutive semester the pan-hellenic scholarship cup for social sororities Miss F. Louise Nardin, dean of women, suggested two ways to improve sorority scholarship. "If incoming freshmen could be freed from the fear of examinations," Miss Nardin said, "better scholastic averages would be obtained. To further promote scholarship those with the natural aptitude for study should be directed into a current of life favorable to scholastic achievement."

Miss Zoe E. Baylins, assistant to the dean of women, presented the professional cup, stating that the average of 1.729 for 1930 was the highest all sorority average ever obtained at Wisconsin.

Relating historical sketches of Oxford and explaining its present system of education, Miss Helen C. White, professor of English, spoke on "Glimpses of Oxford." According to Miss White, more is asked of the student at Oxford university and more is given by the student.

Jane Robinson '32 of Alpha Gamma Delta was toastmistress of the banquet.

Sellers Traces G.O.P. History

Local Professor Addresses Illinois Historical Society at Springfield

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)

Springfield, Ill., May 8—Outlining the early history of the Republican party, Prof. J. L. Sellers of the history department of the University of Wisconsin, spoke on "The Make-up of the Early Republican Party" before the 31st annual meeting of the Illinois State Historical society here today.

Explaining the origin of the party, he stated, "The discussion of the Kansas-Nebraska bill in congress lighted a popular agitation which produced the Republican party. The most active leaders in the early movement were abolitionists. The popularity of the new movement drew the attention of politicians who tried to harmonize and unify the anti-administrative elements, the natural tendency of these men being toward conservatism."

Takes Lead in 1860

He told of how the Republicans lost the election of 1856 by only a narrow margin. Winning to their side the four strongly conservative states, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, and the two opposing parties, the "People's party" and the "Opposition party," the Republican party became a leading power in 1860.

"At the Chicago convention of 1860," he said, "the conservative elements of the party, though being in the ascendancy, had to make some platform concessions to the radicals led by Joshua R. Giddings.

Start Conservatively

"Since it was logical for the party leaders to adopt conservative expressions and spokesmen, the Chicago platform and the nomination of Lincoln were the logical culmination of the leadership of the National committee."

He maintained that the transition in the Republican party from the early abolitionist leadership to the wise conservatism of Morgan and Judd is a fact which historians have been slow to recognize, but which was, in part, the cause of the misunderstanding which culminated in a great tragedy.

He pointed out the fact that, in certain Big Ten schools, an athlete may make up a condition within a week after he has incurred it, while at Wisconsin a first semester condition cannot be made up until the middle of the second semester. the baton of Prof. E. Earle Swinney, and brought out to the best advantage all the musical tricks employed by Coleridge-Taylor to get the Indian atmosphere. Good enunciation, good unisons, and ability to shift from major to minor keys with accuracy were noticeable.

Schubert's "Omnipotence" with which the chorus opened the program was powerfully done. In it Helene Stratman-Thomas sang a crystal-clear solo. The "Faust" at the end of the concert in which several students had special parts, set the listeners tingling. Paul Jones' organ and Miss Kathleen McKittrick's piano accompaniment swelled the close to tremendous volume.

Mr. O'Connor displayed an operatic voice capable of tender emotion, of agile movement, and of unlimited power on high notes. His singing was highly individual, and listeners felt that he was putting a great deal of himself into his interpretations. A rapid passage from Verdi's opera "Rigoletto" was one of his best numbers. His rendering of "Passing By" by Purcell was charmingly delicate. He sang "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" as an encore.

She was very proud of the present from her "boys."

Immediately after the accident she was taken to the home of her employers, where she fainted. The cook of the house Mrs. Alice Ade took care of her until C. B. Fritz took her to her home and called for the doctor.

Neither C. B. Fritz, nor Mr. Chase, both connected with the construction of the building have approached Mrs. Dokken to pay her any remuneration for the injuries she received. Mrs. Dokken has consulted with her lawyer as to the possibilities of a suit, but they had no statement to make on the situation late last night.

Ask Bettering Of Poor Speech

Recommend Formation of a Committee to Correct Defects

The faculty curriculum committee recommends the establishment of a committee on speech improvement to which students deficient in speech shall be referred in the same manner that the college now requires that students deficient in English be referred to the committee on student English, said Prof. A. T. Weaver of the speech department in discussing the proposed treatment of students deficient in speech.

This is the revision of section H of the original recommendation.

Cites Speech Clinics

A speech clinic for the treatment only of pathological cases of speech defects has been in operation for 15 or 16 years. The proposed committee would recommend a procedure for those who simply are not up to par in their use of speech as one of the fundamental tools of living.

The speech department is desirous of establishing special classes for those who simply need elementary training and to handle other cases in whatever ways may seem proper and helpful.

Dr. Robert West, professor of speech pathology says that the committee cannot state any plans until it has been asked to act and that the above proposal is merely a suggestion to the curriculum committee. Until the whole report is accepted by the regents, there will be no action taken on any part of it.

Plan Not Successful

Dr. West, who spent two years at the University of Iowa speech department where all incoming freshmen are required to take a speech course in the practical use of the language says that due to the overcrowding of classes and lack of sufficient capable instructors this plan was not very successful since those who were a bit proficient usually entertained those who were deficient and needed help and training most.

Although Dr. West believes that these things should be taken care of in high school and probably will be in time, he says that it will be very practical for the university to provide for those who are lacking in fluent speech.

He also believes that if such a procedure is undertaken, students should be recommended for special work in speech from any classroom whether it be history or mathematics whenever it is shown that he is not complete master of the language.

drama, Prof. Troutman has stressed interpretation and character technique so that it will not divide its interest with the mechanical surroundings.

The players are using the Edwin Booth edition which will bring the performance within a two hour limit. There are to be two intermissions, with all changes from one scene to another accomplished by the "black out" device.

The large advance sale, according to J. Russell Lane, business manager, has been a surprise to those connected with the production. Sell outs for the Friday and Saturday night, and Saturday matinee performances are almost assured.

Interest Is Great

Interest in the production which is to feature Carl Cass, grad, as "Othello," Mercedes Jelima '30 in the role of "Desdemona," and J. Russell Lane, grad, as "Iago," has extended beyond Madison and vicinity.

A party of faculty members from Beloit college headed by Prof. G. T. Rassweiler of the department of speech is expected to attend Friday night's performance. Gene Schwartz, director of the Federated theaters in Gary, Ind., and a party have also wired in reservations.

When the so-called Army and Navy elevens clash in the stadium today, their game will conclude what is now conceded to be the best spring football practice the Badgers have ever had.

Speculation is rife among Badger football fans as to the probable winner of the Wisconsin "W" cup which is annually awarded to the player showing the greatest proficiency in spring practice. The cup is awarded to the candidate showing the best record in attendance, improvement, and all-around efficiency. In 1929 it was won by Dave (Moose) Tobias. Leading candidates this spring include Joe Linfor and John Schneller, both backs, and Clarence Edwards, Harvey Kranhold, and Greg Kabat, linemen. The daily drills have drawn an average attendance of 60 players, and while many of those who came out have fallen short of varsity form, a majority have improved rapidly and in every case, the players have worked enthusiastically and the practice has given Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite a good line on his material for the fall campaign.

This year's spring training drills have developed a lot of real football. Most of the time the weather has been cool enough to permit hard, bodily contact training every day. The linemen, for example, have taken an unusual amount of punishment and

Langdon Victors In Cinder Meet Held on Thursday

Langdon hall scored 73.3 points to win the women's intramural track meet held Thursday afternoon at Camp Randall. The All-Americans barely beat out the Tri Deltas in the race for second place with a score of 64.5 to the latter's 63.

Other teams competing were: Pi Beta Phi (38) fourth; Delta Zeta (24) fifth; Kappa Delta (21.8) sixth; Phi Omega Pi (21.3) seventh.

The winning team finished the day's schedule with firsts in the dash, the baseball throw, and the triple hop. Two seconds and a share in a triple tie for fourth completed their score. The Tri Deltas put up a good fight for second place but their chance went by the board when they ranked sixth in the baseball throw.

The All-American squad performed consistently all afternoon. They were up among the leaders during every event although they were first only once. They, as well as Langdon, should stand good chances of competing in the finals on Field day.

The teams were: Langdon: B. Demarest, I. Pabst, T. Wiesner, G. Bremmer, W. Slusser.

All-Americans: K. Brophy, R. Teppler, M. Moses, H. De Jough, A. Hazzan, V. Dahl.

Tri Delt: S. Owen, B. Owen, M. Owen, J. Lankow, G. Niss, G. Holt.

Pi Phi: E. Davis, M. Platz, D. Nash, D. Collins, A. Kendall.

Delta Zeta: M. Miriam, M. Olman, E. Tupper, M. Rittenhouse, C. Koerner, M. McKenzie, M. Egger.

Kappa Delta: R. Phenicie, D. Thorne, M. Prescott, O. Potter, L. Bey, E. Grimm.

Phi O. Pi: E. Spence, M. Beals, A. Gates, D. Scott, A. Hahn, Z. Burkett.

Jolted out of any possible complacency of mind by their close call against Northwestern Wednesday, the Badger baseball squad settled down Thursday to two days of intensive drill for the important diamond battles in which they will again meet the Purple here Saturday, to be followed by a game with Illinois, also at Camp Randall Monday afternoon.

Even making all allowances for the unfavorable playing conditions at Evanston, where a heavy cross wind made good pitching almost out of the question, Coach Guy Lowman is apprehensive when he thinks of the way the Purple sluggers sent the best offerings of "Maury" Farber, ace of his hurling staff, to all corners of the lot.

Northwestern garnered 16 hits off Farber, this total including four doubles, two triples and a home run.

Coach Lowman had hoped to be able to win the second Purple game with either Poser or Sommerfield on the slab, thus saving Farber for the crucial Illinois game Monday. On the basis of Northwestern's great hitting Wednesday, he is now wondering whether either of his sophomore hurlers can hold them in check. If not the situation against the even harder hitting Illini crew will, indeed, be gloomy.

If Wisconsin can get by these two battles successfully it will not seem unreasonable to hope for a Big Ten title, since the remaining four games are pretty well spaced and the Badgers' chief problem would then be to turn back Minnesota at Minneapolis and break even with Michigan.

Meanwhile, Coach Lowman is encouraged by the timely hitting of his Badgers, who seem to improve in confidence and "punch" with every start.

Fraternity baseball teams are reminded to please hand in the score cards of their games the following morning and the diamond ball teams immediately after finishing their games. Hand in the cards at the Intramural office.

Six Week Camp Inaugurated at Request of Many Madison Parents

In response to many requests to open a training camp here during the summer months for children, Leonard "Stub" Allison will conduct such a camp at Camp Randall starting June 16 and closing July 25. The course will continue over a period of six weeks, meeting four times a week, and will cost only $20.

This action was taken after consideration of the many requests of parents who wished their children to get the benefit of his ability to work with boys. The camp will give the children an opportunity to enjoy supervised play and at the same time not leave home.

Supervised Work

A careful consideration of the amount of work that the boys should have will be used to gauge their activities. The idea is to give each boy sufficient work to develop him physically and mentally with special efforts being taken to see that he is not over-worked. As he improves in his capacity to indulge in exercise, he will be given more work to further his development.

Medics Defeat Phi Mu Team At Camp Randall

The Medics defeated the Phi Mus and the Theta Phi Alphas took a game from the Beta Sigma Omicrons in two decisive baseball games played at Camp Randall Thursday.

The Medics found the lead in the first inning and at no time during the game was there any question as to the outcome. The score was 16 to 4.

The lineups: Phi Mu—Berg, Stange, Mulus, Krueger, Johnson, Aniern, Van Meter, and Mithus.

Medics—Jackson, Eising, Hawes, Rouehe, Steele, Paxson, Coyne, Mahony, and Rogazue.

Theta Phi Alpha took their game in four easy innings from the Beta Sigma Omicrons, 24 to 4. The Omicrons were crippled in the third inning by the withdrawal of a player which forced them to continue under a heavy disadvantage.

The lineups: Beta Sigma Omicron—Hingiss, Sharpe, Krause, Fosse, Lindley, Van Roo, and Frieck.

Theta Phi Alpha—Flanagan, Gerl, De Ford, Kennedy, Klein, Lukots, and Pleck.

Badger Track Men Favored To Win Today

Ripon, Beloit, Carroll, Lawrence Enter State Cinder Event

Marquette university will play host to the Badger tracksters and teams from Ripon, Beloit, Carroll, and Lawrence in the annual state inter-collegiate track and field meet which will be held at the new Hilltop flood-lighted stadium at 8 o'clock tonight.

It is likely that Coach Jones' men will take top honors with Marquette favored as the runner-up. It is doubtful whether or not the teams from Ripon, Carroll, Beloit, and Lawrence can offer much competition against the efforts of the Cardinals.

Badgers Win State Title
Last year the Badgers won the titular honors in the state meet and Coach Jones boasts of a stronger and more versatile squad this season. It will be the Card's first outdoor appearance in Milwaukee in over 20 years.

Preliminary heats in all events will be held this afternoon while the finals will be staged tonight at 8 p. m. This is the first time that the Badgers will be participating in a night program on the cinder track. The Hilltoppers experimented with this novel idea during the football season and found it to be very successful. In all probability, there will be a capacity crowd attending the meet.

Should Score Heavily
Wisconsin should score heavily in the field events with such performers as Shaw in the high jump, Behr in the shot put and discus, and Frisch in the hammer throw. These men should have little difficulty of winning in their respective events with excellent chances of other Badger tracksters such as Simmons in the discus, Gnabah in the shot put, and Murphy in the high jump coming in for a share of the seconds and thirds.

Ziese in the hurdles, Davidson in the quarter-mile, Goldsworthy half-miler, Follows two-miler, and Henke in the dashes, will all come in for a great share of the points. Marquette's best bets will be handled by the Walker brothers, Pflieger, Rohan, and Sweeney in the longer runs. Treps and Sisk in the dashes are sure point winners.

Lawrence, with a team of veterans, may come in for a nice slice of the points, having some capable performers in practically all the events. The fact that Carroll swamped Beloit in a dual meet recently eliminates the Beloit squad from receiving any serious consideration, though Carroll expects to be high up in the standings in tonight's meet. Ripon is somewhat of an unknown quantity.

Political Engineering As Presidents Do It

PRES. HOOVER'S Supreme court appointment, Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, has been refused his seat by the senate. The refusal was based upon Judge Parker's pro-capital prejudices, as revealed in his decisions while on the bench of the federal circuit court of appeals, and upon his typically southern racial intolerance.

The decision was, however, perhaps more definitely determined by the letter sent by one of the undersecretaries of the interior to Mr. Hoover's secretary, in which the author stated that the seating of Judge Parker would be a "master stroke of politics," would help to hold for the Republican party the meager and precarious southern majorities which it won in the last national election. The judge is a man of importance in his own state; it was hoped that his appointment would serve to solidify the forming Republican sympathies of the state and of the south.

Now the attempt to get him into the court has failed, and Mr. Hoover's master stroke—if such it was intended to be—has not only failed of its purpose but has also built up anti-Hoover sentiment in states which should have been safely his. The opinion of cosmopolitan papers from definitely party organs to definitely opposition sheets agrees in condemning the move.

There is room for little doubt of the validity of the general criticism. The decisions of Judge Parker definitely prove his unfitness to occupy the supposedly impartial and unprejudiced office of a judge in the Supreme court. The judges of this court, if they are to perform a useful and commendable public service, must owe no fealty to party politics. They must be unaffected by the shifting emphases of a changing White House; they must judge, in so far as it is humanly possible, in a vacuum. Judge Parker has not been able to do so in the lower court, and his appointment for purely political reasons further disqualifies him for the high office to which he had been recommended.

The president, far from showing himself the scientific-minded agent of reform which he was expected to become, has proven himself one with his predecessors, one with the keepers of the pork barrel and the lobby chest.

There is no more justification for being a chaplain in the army or navy than there is for being a chaplain in a speakeasy.—Rev. Peter Ainslie.

Fact and Fancy

By E. F. A.

THERE IS ALTOGETHER too much sweetness and light around here in regard to Wisconsin's Great Awakening. The press is full of it. Even the ground-keepers are pausing in their manicuring activities to discuss this or that curriculum change. If anyone wants anything of the university, now seems to be the time to ask for it. The engineers, who have long wished for a closer relation between prose and plumbing, are at long last going to have their way. The language savants are openly admitting the possibility of some alteration in their warfare on ignorance. Clubs, committees, newspaper editors, and the learned letters and science faculty are all wrapping words around the newborn Idea. Needless to say, we wait with breathless suspense for the arrival of Railroad Jack.

But, I ask, what will it all come to? It seems to me that there is a wholesale deception underway. Not that anyone, last of all the great mass of students, gives a toy balloon. The general run of the faculty is irritated that the business was started at all. And the "revolting" students are about as flaming as a frigidaire. To believe that the number of column inches on educational news hereabouts is any indication of the decline and fall of apathy is nothing short of blindness. Perhaps spring should bear the blame. Students are feeling the urge to be out, and their real studies have to do with greens and lakes and moonlights. Young faculty members are concerned with the June raises. Old faculty members are engaged in preventing too many young faculty members from getting raises. Whatever the reason, no one can say that the university is being torn down.

The impression has somehow sneaked out, however, that the place is being renovated. This is the deception. And it is my opinion that a great wrong is being done Wisconsin. Madison's high seat of learning has a red enough reputation as it is. Now it is being painted in deeper hues. All of us who are returning to the home hearth in June will be forced to spend the first half of the summer explaining that President Frank, George Sellery, and Prof. Fish have not sold out to the bolsheviks.

OF COURSE, the best news never gets back home. How encouraging it would be to the old folks if Dean Sellery's remarks at the last faculty meeting were published. The good Dean, in the matter of opening our noble portals to worthy students regardless of their statistical standing (without, naturally, granting them degrees), was all for "normalcy," the flag, and Wisconsin citizenship. Mere "residence" was not enough. This would have pleased the tax-paying papas. "Wisconsin has been all too liberal," the Dean is reported as saying, "in letting in a lot of queer folks from outside the state." Let the queer ones go elsewhere, was the Dean's opinion. This is just one more reason, I submit, that the meetings should have been thrown open to the student body. Then, too, there has been a sad suppression of news in other departments, news which would have gone far to offset the Fish heresies. Take that press bureau shift, for one thing. Nobody has explained just why general university news should be broadcast through the office of athletics publicity. Current gossip, as might be expected, has an explanation. George Downer, it seems, was dissatisfied with his salary. He came here last fall from the Milwaukee Sentinel at a loss. At first he made this up by outside writing—a daily column for the Sentinel, among other things. This appeared to be a solution until other Milwaukee papers besieged President Frank with complaints. In the end Mr. Downer was given the job (and a pretty good share of the money) formerly attached to the university press bureau in South hall.

Athletic alumni should be told of this maneuver, if the tale is a true one (and I'm sure the essential facts of the story will not be denied). It might be of interest to the alumni to compare the present salary of Mr. Downer with, say, that paid to John R. Commons. Such a comparison would surely allay the fears of those who are worried lest the university slide over to radicalism. It would be concrete assurance that the institution appropriately rewards the higher virtues.

ON THE WHOLE too much has been made of Wisconsin's vices. That is why I feel certain that all of the publicity on the curriculum disturbance has been badly handled. Too many of the reservations, mental and otherwise, have been hidden behind the scenes. Dean Sellery, or someone of equal reputation and standing, should arise and tell the world that in the last analysis the old traditions, the old foldways, will remain unshaken. Good, honest scholarship, based upon credits, grade-points, and group curves, is not by any means on the way to discard. The B. A. will mean as much as it did before. Education is still something the professor gives the student, in specified lots.

Dean Sellery, or whoever is chosen spokesman, might even quote President Frank with safety, to the effect that a change in matter without a corresponding change in method (i. e., a change in the whole attitude), accomplishes practically nothing at all. And to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that there has been no change in attitude the new publicity director could arrange for a talkie of the faculty discussing the changes in matter.

It will be said that I am out of sympathy with the so-called liberals. This is not true. My sympathies for the liberals are great. I even have been known to shed maudlin tears over their plight. But the liberals show an amazing amount of bewilderment. Not one of them presents an understandable pattern, or any acceptable dogmas. They chase phantoms across deserts. Dean Sellery, in direct contrast, and I take him merely as the exalted typical, knows what he is about. And so does everyone else know what Dean Sellery is about. You cannot get back of a fire-fly.

Readers' Say-So

Stupidest of Deaths

The Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

THE MAY 4 issue of The Daily Cardinal has been printed, and distributed—not only to the students of the university of which it is the official student publication, but, sorry to say, to subscribers through the state and the United States. That issue contained the generally complimentary column, "Sabbath Meditations," which took the form of a reprinting from a portion of Charles Erskine Scott Wood's "Heavenly Discourse," which as I faintly remember, was a satirical representation of the accepted order of things. The particular portion in question was described as a "pointed parable for Memorial day."

I take exception to the presentation of such an article (satirical doesn't begin to describe it) for the serious consideration of our student body because of the odious reflection it casts upon the members of this institution. We all know that Memorial day is dedicated to those who gave their lives to establish and maintain the splendid heritage of peace and prosperity which we now enjoy. We all know that on Memorial day, our attentions are called to "the one crying need of man"—peace, and that every successful observance of that day is a mile-stone on the road to permanent peace. It is ridiculous to picture the death of those honored on May 30 of each year, as "stupidest of deaths"—sacrificed lives by "infinitely sightless" heroes. The occasionally denoted (but extremely doubtful) unjustifiability of this country's wars cannot be heaped on the soldier—he is the employee; our government, the employer. He merely obeys orders. Those who denounce our past wars, yet are willing to enjoy their results are as narrow minded as the opponent of vivisection, who, falling seriously ill, is taken to the hospital where all the results of scientific and medical discovery are used to restore him to health, upon the recovery of which he leaves the hospital, still a rabid opponent of vivisection. But it is needless to describe the absurdity of the article—let me get to the point.

Presentation of such an article in a meditation column infers that the readers will seriously consider it—otherwise it becomes a humor column. Such an inference denotes the fact that there is a possibility of many readers acquiring, if not already holding, such a view. It is quite certain that such is not the case. Has not, then, the article misrepresented the student body to outsiders, and cast a damaging reflection on the institution as a whole? Honestly, you must admit that it has.

We pride ourselves as being members of a liberal university. But such an article doesn't represent liberality. It pictures the most obnoxious of vicious vituperation ever offered by the most warped-brain pacifist.

I, for one, as a student reader of The Daily Cardinal, would like to see that publication live up to its official recognition.

HAROLD F. MOOR '31.

Blackening a Profession

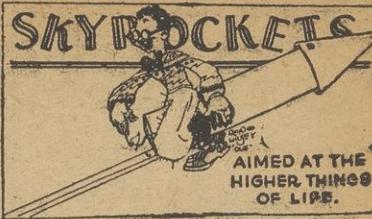

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

OUR CAMPUS again becomes the scene of a mud slinging contest, initiated by Mr. E. F. Allen. By the inductive process of reasoning, Mr. Allen has come to the conclusion that most lawyers are very prone to be dishonest and unscrupulous. To be sure, he includes a sort of an apology in his editorial, to the effect that "Just because there are ambulance chasers, blackmailers, crime protectors, love balancers, and home wreckers, all calling themselves lawyers, one has no right to damn the whole profession,"—doubtlessly, to avoid subjecting himself to possible parries and replies to his impossible generalizations.

But from here he goes on to black the profession of law. Like the politician who tries to straddle two distant planks of a platform to avoid the antagonism of either of two factions, so does Mr. Allen first accuse in an all-inclusive way, and then retract and insert the above apology to forestall an otherwise inevitable return fire. Boiling the whole editorial down to its smallest, yet actual, proportions, it is nothing more than the utterance of a platitude; that there are crooked men and tools of vested interests in the law profession as well as dishonest editors, who bury their real convictions to spread a gospel in favor of "the god, property."—E. T. B.

And what would a skyrockets writer do without Scotch jokes? The latest one concerns a Scotchman who was discovered wandering around Detroit with a pair of rumpled trousers over his arm. "Can I help you in any way?" asked a kindly citizen. "Man," replied the Scot, who was evidently a newcomer, "I'm looking for the DETROIT FREE PRESS."

Or maybe you prefer this kind: Small boy: "Dad, give me a dime." Father: "Not today, sonny, not today."

Engineers Hear Smith, Thwaites

Speakers Outline Development of Madison Water Department

Leon E. Smith, superintendent of the Madison water works, and F. T. Thwaites, lecturer in biology, addressed a group of engineering students in conjunction with a seminar course in sanitary engineering Thursday night.

Mr. Smith gave a brief resume of the development of the water system in Madison, telling how the first house was built in 1837 but that it was not until 1881, when there were 4,000 people living here that the first water system was developed. All water at this time was pumped by direct suction. The system had been installed at a cost of $75,000; four wells and 12 miles of pipes formed the water system.

Replace Suction Pumps

"At the present time, there are 14 deep well pumps. These take the place of the old suction pumps which are no longer adequate."

The department of the water works is composed of several sections; chief engineer in charge of the central station with all of its equipment, the service building under the supervision of the foreman in charge, and the office in the city hall where vouchers and so forth are handled under the direction of the chief clerk.

Use Chlorine Method

The water is chlorinated before it is sent into the distribution system in order to make it pure from and bacteria which might be in it. Though the water is extremely hard, the people declined to have a municipal water softening process installed though it could have been done for the sum of money that citizens pay for private softeners.

"The time is coming," concluded Mr. Smith, "when it will be necessary to augment the wells with lake water owing to the increase of population."

Cites Former Condition

Prof. F. T. Thwaites declares that when he was a youngster there was no water on the street where he lived. Water was paid for by the sum of 25 cents per week, and was delivered in two cans which were emptied into a large jar. This water was from the capitol well which, at that time, was the only safe water supply in the city.

He described the formations under the soil and told of their value as a source of water. About 100 feet down is a white sandstone deposit called "dresbauch." Water from this level strata is softer than Madison city water.

Explains Sand Troubles

Beneath this is shale, which is approximately 10 to 15 feet thick. Below this at a depth of about 150 feet is a formation called the "Eau Claire" formation which is thick. The sandstone of this strata varies from the size of flour to the thickness of rice in size. The bulk of water comes from here.

"Sand troubles are due to the high velocity of water in the well or of the water coming into the well. It must be separated before it comes into the distribution system," Prof. Thwaites said.

Board of Visitors Hears Curriculum Discussion Today

A discussion of the proposed letters and science curriculum either by Prof. Carl Russell Fish, chairman of the curriculum committee or someone of his co-workers, will be the only business other than routine considered at the meeting of the board of visitors today at 2 p. m. in the graduate room of the Memorial Union.

Five members of the board are from Madison: Mrs. C. R. Carpenter, George T. Hambrecht, Mrs. Lucy M. Johnson, William Meuer, and B. E. McCormick.

The other seven members of the board, who will be present, are: Loyal Durand, of Milwaukee; Charles L. Byron, Chicago, Ill.; H. W. Kircher, Sheboygan; C. J. Hesgard, Orfordville; Dr. W. D. Sullivan, Kaukauna; and Mrs. Allan Clason, Oconto.

The RAMBLER

"Complete Campus Coverage"

Bill McMillan '32, during his recent initiation into Scabbard and Blade, was requested to sing for the people in the Union, and surprised the auditors with his voice which was much better than they had thought. A few days later, after most of the kidding about the performance had blown over, Bill was approached by a baldish gentleman, and asked if he were not the singer. Bill said, "Yes," but discouraged any further kidding. It develops that the gentleman wanted Bill to report to Haresfoot tryouts next fall, because "We can use a voice like that" and Bill, still not believing it, asked for whom he should inquire, and the answer was, "Bill Farnell." Bill McMillan spent the rest of the day checking up on his identity to be sure he wasn't being kidded again.

Greetings to Asenath Ives '31 on her twenty-first birthday. Congratulations, Asenath, now you can vote, or let somebody have your voting privilege.

The son of George W. "Shorty" Collins, Baptist minister, was passing Music howl with his mother the other day and said, "Mama, if I should scream all day like those people do, you'd give me the biggest spanking I ever had."

John Zeratsky '31 was going up Bascom steps on his way to his 10 o'clock when he heard the bell ring. He went in, turned around and went back down the hill again. And he wasn't the only one. Milt Gantenbein '32, wasn't even late to his. He came up the hill, stood in front of Bascom for some 10 minutes, started in, changed his mind, and stayed out in front until after the bell had rung, then went down State street.

Just eight days until you can hear Isham Jones playing for the RAMBLER - ROCKETS - TUMAS - MEN'S UNION BALL. Only eight days, and then it will be all over, and you'll regret it for the rest of your life if you don't go. The first of its kind, and the swellest affair of the year. And the best part of it all is that you don't have to wear a tux.

Ted Holstein '30 uses a mailing folder for the Wisconsin Octopus to carry his papers around in.

Bob Calkins '31 and Sally Owen '30 were paddling on the lake Thursday noon, with Sally in the bow and Bob in the stern, both ostensibly paddling, but when Sally wasn't looking Bob's paddle was dragging. And that from a crew candidate.

Speaking of the crew, they're practicing now on Sunday morning, and Ted Otjen '30 cheers them up for the unaccustomed effort by singing to them. Hard on the Fraternity Row sleepers but crew practice must go on.

The army boys are organizing a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to the R. O. T. C. They are protesting drilling on sunny afternoons at 4:30 p. m. when civilized people are guzzling ice tea, or going canoeing.

Morry Zenoff '32 is the only man on the campus we've found that can get away with taking more than one girl out at once. He takes three to lunch, and two automobile, regularly.

Prof. R. B. Michell in his French 21 class asked Addison Mueller '31 as an expert on philosophy what pantheism meant. After a careful explanation by Adison, Prof. Michell said that it was all wrong, and proceeded to explain it his own way. We don't rank as an expert, but Addison sounded closer to right than Prof. Michell. Maybe it's because we don't rank as an expert.

Behold Exhibit A. "Granted that the Cardinal makes many misnomers, the accuracy and authority with which the Rambler portrayed the customs and 'quaint old habits' of the French house is indeed unprecedented. The 'Complete Campus Coverage' has more than surpassed its highest aspirations. It has completely covered the French house and its associates with irate enthusiasm to contradict with authority every statement that has been disreputably and unlawfully made.

Army-Navy Teams Compete at Randall

As a result of this severe drilling, they are expected to show a drive and dash in today's final game which will make it well worth seeing. Last year, the concluding game was played on one of the open practice fields where all the spectators had to stand and where more than half of the 5,000 who attended had difficulty in seeing what was going on.

In anticipation of a greater attendance this year, it was decided Thursday to stage the 1930 Army-Navy game in the stadium on the regular varsity field. This will afford perfect playing conditions and comfortable seats for all spectators.

The game will be handled by a full set of regular officials. Dr. Ray Huegel will referee; Adolph Bieberstein will act as umpire; Howard Hancock as head linesman, and Fred Evans as field judge. Full 15-minute quarters will be played and the game, which will start at 4 o'clock, will be open to the public.

a few passing remarks concerning university players' forthcoming production by tommy

W.M. CHILTON TROUTMAN will treat Wisconsin's intellectuals and sophisticates to Shakespeare's "Othello" this May 9 and 10. Troutman says this production will be "the acme of art in the theater" . . . and coming from Troutman this statement should carry some weight.

This will be the first time that University Players have attempted Shakespeare . . . if our memory isn't playing a terrible joke on us . . . and should be interesting for that reason if for no other. There will be no change of scenery in this production . . . and changes from one scene to another will be carried out by "black-outs."

The part of Othello will be handled by Carl Cass, grad . . . who has had a year of experience behind him at the Goodman theater in Chicago.

Believe it or not . . . but the choosing of horses for the talkies presents a problem.

When production was first started on "The Rogue Song" which opens at the Capitol Saturday, Lionel Barrymore, the director, used horses that knew each other. The result was that when these well acquainted horses separated in front of the camera they neighed.

This continual neighing cut into the dramatic lines . . . so Barrymore gathered together a group of horses that were strangers . . . and the neighing stopped . . . yeah.

You've laughed at the Three Doctors, but wait until you hear the "Tree Surgeons" . . . a feature to be broadcast over WHA by The Daily Cardinal on their regular Friday broadcast from 4 to 6 p. m. This feature is presented by Dave Wilcock '30, Robert DeHaven '29, and Dick Abert '30. Dave Wilcock and Robert Dehaven had the comedy roles on the Haresfoot Club's recent success "Button Button." Dick Abert was also in the production in the role of a chorus girl. This feature is arranged by Gilbert Williams '30, director of The Cardinal Radio Players.

Other regular features that may be heard on this student program will be Arnie Dammen '32, who has become very popular with his peppy style of singing. Elna Mary Clausen '31 will be on hand to sing a few numbers in her own inimitable way. Carol Sizer '32, who plays the piano and sings in a way reminiscent of Little Jack Little will render an especially arranged 15 minute program. Other musical features include Don Klein '31 and Frederick Stephens '31 vocalists, and Bob Lyons grad, pianist.

The Rambler will interview another campus celebrity, and Gunner Back '31, magazine editor of The Daily Cardinal, will give a short talk that should interest everyone. In addition a member of Cardinal staff will present 10 minutes with the Cardinal in which the news of the week will be reviewed.
