BADGER SQUAD OF GYMNASTS IN MEET TODAY

Will Entertain Crowd Between Halves of Basketball Game Tonight

The Wisconsin squad of gymnasts will go into the meet with the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. turners at 2:30 this afternoon on the third floor of the gymnasium with their full strength. Although two of the Badger tumblers, Leslie W. Tasche '21, and Walter H. Porth '22, will not be in the best of shape, the men will enter, and the Badgers are conceded an even chance of winning the first gym meet of the season.

Five events will be held, the horizontal and parallel bars, rings, tumbling and side horse. No fencing match has been scheduled, but if Heintze, the Milwaukee swordsman, comes with the Milwaukee team, Finn Aanesen '21 will be matched against him. Heintze is recorded as being one of the best fencers in the United States, and if business affairs permit, he will arrive with the Y. M. C. A. turners.

Milwaukee Squad is Strong

The Y. M. C. A. squad is coached by Henry Appel, member of the Milwaukee Turner Athletic club, who last year developed a team that won one meet from Wisconsin at Milwaukee, but lost the second meet at Madison.

"The men are coming along in good form," declared Coach Fred E. Schlatter yesterday afternoon, "and although the team will be weakened by injuries to two of the gymnasts, Wisconsin will give the Milwaukee team a hard scrap."

Members of the gym squad will entertain the crowd between halves of the Wisconsin-Illinois basketball contest tonight.

OUTING CLUB TO SEND DELEGATE TO CONVENTION

Florence Miller Installed as Head of Ice-skating—Next Meeting February 17

Outing Club, at its meeting last night in the Concert room of Lathrop hall, unanimously voted to send a delegate to the national athletic conference of American college women, at Bloomington, Indiana, to report the work of the Outing club at Wisconsin and to bring back to the club news of what other similar organizations are doing.

The president of the club will appoint a nominating committee, which will submit the names of four girls who might go as delegates, to be voted on at the February meeting of the club.

Outing club at Wisconsin has been very successful, and since it was the first organization of its kind, it has been used as a pattern by many other universities. This year the membership and funds have swelled considerably, and the members have become so enthusiastic about the

UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS EXPRESS OPINIONS ON INTELLIGENCE TESTS

That the intelligence tests, which some universities require of entering students, are of value as experiments, but not as requirements for entrance, was the opinion expressed by members of the departments of philosophy and education, speaking in regard to the possible introduction of the tests here, as applied in other universities.

Of more practical value than the mental tests suggested, are the psychological experiments relating to the ability of engineering students to do machine-shop work, which are being applied in the psychology laboratories of the university under the supervision of Prof. C. L. Hull. These "ability tests," although purely advisory, predict the student's general fitness for the engineering work.

Opinions Expressed

University professors actively engaged in the work have expressed their opinions on the subject as follows:

PROF. C. L. HULL—These tests for engineering students take in all the elements pertaining to their work. Their mental capacity is tested, and their character traits are measured, which helps determine whether the students will persevere or not. We thus get complete control of the factors governing success.

Among the tests given are the

"Y" SECRETARIES GIVE ADDRESSES IN 3-DAY STAY

National "Y" Committeemen on Inspection Tour of Larger Universities

A full program of talks and addresses before student audiences and Madison churches during a three day stay here has been undertaken by the three student secretaries, Daniel C. Fu, Chinese student secretary, Oscar A. Gacitua, secretary for Latin-American students, and Elmer D. Yelten, of the friendly relations committee of the national Y. M. C. A. who are visiting Wisconsin on a tour of inspection in the interests of the foreign student work, which will include all of the major universities. They hope to present the nature of the foreign field work of the "Y" and the work with the foreign students in this country.

Their first meeting was held yesterday noon, when they attended the luncheon of the campus religious council in the university Y. In the evening they were guests at a dinner at which there were representatives of the faculty, Madison business men, and pastors of various Madison churches. Following the dinner there was a reception of the International club, and other foreign students.

Today it is planned that they talk at a joint luncheon of the junior council, the cabinet, and student volunteers. The balance of the

MAKE WISCONSIN THE PLAYGROUND OF MIDDLE WEST

Proposal Made by James H. McManus in Current Issue of Magazine of History

A proposal to make Wisconsin the most beautiful playground of the Middle West and more accessible to the tourist, is set forth through an article in the latest issue of the Wisconsin Magazine of History by James H. McManus.

He suggests specifically a scenic highway, which might be constructed jointly by Wisconsin and Michigan, along the boundary between these two states, to extend thence along the southern shore of Lake Superior and into Minnesota.

Such a road, he shows, would bring the tourist into the grandeur of America's one-time greatest mountains; it would lead him through sturdy forests where the bear and deer and wolf are yet found; it would acquaint him not only with the world's greatest fresh water lake, but with myriads of smaller lakes and streams—"the land of sky-blue waters"—where abound the bass and trout and muskellunge in plenty. Here, too, he would be able to see the picturesque and interesting aborigines at home, the artist shows. The road would follow in large part the ancient trails of these Indians, for, as Mr. McManus points out, the trails along which travelled primitive men and animals, and even birds and fish, remain much the same through all ages.

Among the other interesting features of this issue of the magazine, which is published quarterly

A cheery and real homelike room, comfortable davenport which fairly invite weary dancers to sink into their depths and snatch a bit of rest between dances. Thompson's five-piece orchestra, and an excellent floor are the attractions of the student dance which is given by Union board this evening in Lathrop parlors.

The price of the tickets is $1 and a limit of 75 will be sold, to avoid overcrowding. The tickets are on sale at the University pharmacy. This is the second of the student dances which Union board is giving.

Wisconsin basketball fans will have their first opportunity to see Coach Meanwell's Badger five in action in a conference game when they mix with the Illini at the armory at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Wisconsin team was sent through a short practice yesterday afternoon consisting for the most part of basket-shooting, and the entire squad is in the best of shape for the contest with Coach Winters' men this evening. The Illini tossers are due to arrive from Chicago early this morning, and will make their headquarters at the Park hotel for the day.

In view of their victory over the champion Chicago team early in the week, Illinois is doped to win tonight's contest from the locals. Coach Meanwell, however, is confident that in this case the dope will not hold true. The Badgers have put in a hard week in preparation for tonight's battle with the Suckers, and their team-play has improved greatly. The new combination is working the ball through to the basket with the cleverness of the famous Meanwell teams of the past.

WRESTLERS IN TRAINING FOR FIRST CONTEST

Mat Men Grapple With Ames in First Meet of Season
Next Saturday

With the final selection of the varsity wrestling team completed, Coach George Hitchcock is preparing to put his men through a last week of intensive work for their first meet of the season with Ames, Saturday, January 29.

Heading the team this year is Captain L. J. Culver '21, who won his "W" at the conference meet last spring. Culver will wrestle at his old weight, 135, and from present indications should be a tough match for any light-weight in the western conference this year. In the balloting two sub-captains were also chosen in case anyone is laid up during the season.

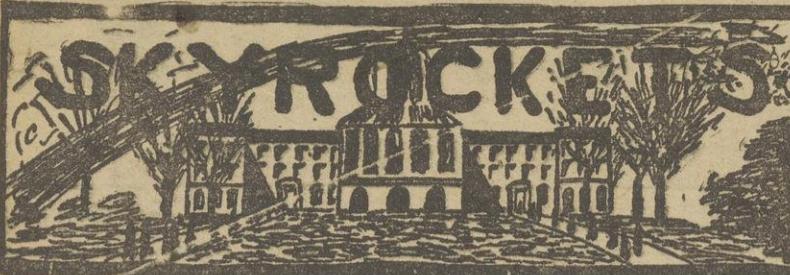

Peterman is Sub-Captain
The middle-weight division will be filled by I. H. Peterman '22, who won his "W" in the 145 pound division last year. Added weight

DR. GREELEY TALKS TO PRESBYTERIANS
ON LABRADOR LIFE

Dr. H. P. Greeley, formerly associated with Dr. Grenfell, the noted Labrador doctor and missionary, will give his illustrated lecture on "Labrador," before the Student Volunteer band Monday evening at 6:45, January 24.

Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Greeley spent considerable time in Labrador giving medical aid to the people of the far north. The medical missions which have been established in this northern country represent some of the finest pioneer work in existence. When Dr. Grenfell first visited this northern country, the sturdy fishermen were without any medical aid whatever. If a man broke his leg, he had to wait until it could be attended to by some doctor from London.

Dr. Greeley's lecture together with numerous slides, gives a vivid picture of life in the far north. All those interested in missionary work are asked to hear Dr. Greeley on "Labrador."

The Student Volunteers will meet at the Presbyterian headquarters, corner of State and Murray streets.

HESPERIANS TELL OF ADVENTURES IN FOREIGN TRAVELS

Philomathia Debate Team Defeats "Short Ballot" Proposition by 3 to 2 Vote

Experiences while traveling in all parts of the world were related by members of Hesperia Literary society at a meeting last night. Leo H. Kohl '22 spoke of a hike through Yellowstone National park, Charles Greco '23 told of experiences on the Isle of Capri, Sue O. Arnold '23 told of his return trip from France, Hobart H. Kletzen '21 described a trip through Mammoth cave, and Harvey G. Meyer '21 related experiences in the Barbados Islands and in Argentina.

The adoption of the short ballot in state elections in Wisconsin was defeated when the negative won a 3 to 2 decision in a debate at a meeting of Philomathia last night.

Edward B. Ewing '22, son of a missionary to China, gave an initiation speech on the needs of that country for road building and other assistance. Fred Cohen '21 illustrated the use of persuasion in argumentation by example from the joint debate.

makes him a full-fledged 158 pounder this year, in which division he is showing up very well. "Pete" is also one of the sub-captains.

Harold Holmes '23, football back, and a son of one of Wisconsin's greatest heavy-weight grapplers, will emulate his father and wrestle in both the light-heavy and heavy divisions. Holmes will be one of the fastest big men in action this season, and possesses a good knowledge of the mat sport. He is the other assistant-captain.

Klass is Speedy Man

W. H. "Shorty" Klass '23 will handle the welters this year, taking the place vacated by Peterman. Klass is one of the speediest men on the team and remains in perfect condition at all times. He was captain and star man on last year's freshman team.

The 125-pound class finds P. Livingston '22 the choice. Livingston will experience his first year of varsity wrestling, and should give a good account of himself.

Midgets Show Speed

In the bantam division, C. J. Posepny '23, has earned the right to the place. Although the weight is only 116 pounds, the speed of these midgets makes their matches fully as interesting as any of the others.

Although Ames has one of the recognized strong teams in the west, and has scheduled meets with leading eastern universities, the Badger grapplers hope to give them one of the toughest battles of the year next Saturday, expecting, if not a victory, at least an even break.

Under the able tutelage of Coach Hitchcock the team has developed the amateur style of wrestling, something few of the men had practiced much heretofore.

A schedule of six dual meets and the conference meets has been arranged, the dates to be announced later.

Besides the regular varsity men the following men are members of the varsity squad: Heavies, A. W. Weeks '23, O. McMurray '21; middle-weights, H. M. Pier '22, E. H. Templin '23; welters, V. Stoddard '23, C. C. Krause '21; light-weights, E. A. Woelffer '21; feather-weight, B. Hagan '21; Bantams, G. F. Prideaux '22.

A CONTINUOUS SPIRIT

HERE is perhaps no subject more often used or more often abused, editorially and otherwise, than Wisconsin spirit. Though we cannot look with favor upon the abuse of the subject, we see no reason for not continuing its use. It is one of the big factors in student life.

There can be little doubt of the existence of Wisconsin spirit on certain occasions. At athletic contests and mass meetings, "Varsity," "On Wisconsin," and the locomotive are all manifestations of that spirit which thrills each student. On such occasions, Wisconsin spirit which thrills each student. On such occasions, Wisconsin spirit truly pervades the student body and unites it into a compact organization. Narrow conventions, petty constraints, and prudish considerations are buried. All students appear to realize that they are parts of a great organization.

One is inclined to doubt, however, if this spirit really outlasts these particular occasions. Is Wisconsin spirit a continuous force? Is it in constant operation? Do students realize that they have a common bond of union? Do the students feel that they are parts of the same great institution?

It would hardly be true to say that Wisconsin spirit does not exist to some degree at all times. It cannot be questioned, however, that this spirit wanes somewhat between certain occasional events. The artificial constraint of a too rigid formality prevails over the spirit of co-operation and union.

Various organizations on the campus are working to make Wisconsin spirit a continuous force. Their effort should be continued and extended. Every other campus organization should undertake a similar work.

When all the students are made to realize that they are members of a great institution, that they are sharers in all that that institution stands for, that they have a common bond of union and sympathy in the university itself—then we shall have a spirit that casts aside the constraints of rigid formality—a spirit which brings unity of purpose and unity of feeling into the every day student life—a continuous Wisconsin spirit.

LOWER FOOD PRICES

RECENT reports from the southern states indicate that in many communities the citizens have banded together and threatened to start municipal cafeterias unless the existing cafeterias and restaurants reduced prices. In not a few cases, these threats have brought results in the form of reduced food costs.

The success of these efforts in the south calls to mind a similar course of action advocated by many students here in Madison to reduce food costs—a university owned and operated cafeteria serving food to students at cost. There is a constant and growing sentiment in the student body that the prices charged by cafeterias and restaurants are unreasonably high. It is held by not a few people that these prices have not dropped proportionately with the price of food commodities.

Whether or not the cafeterias and restaurants are making unreasonable profits at student expense is a matter that can be determined only after a thorough investigation. Whether or not food prices can be cut is not to be decided without a basis of accurate knowledge.

However, the situation does merit investigation. The students desire to know, and they have a right to know, if they are paying exorbitant prices for their meals. Here is an excellent opportunity for a body such as the Student Senate to put the facts before the men and women of the university.

If such investigation does show that the prices are unduly high, then perhaps the suggestion of a university owned and operated cafeterias is not amiss. Board undoubtedly constitutes the largest single item in the student's budget. If the cost of board can be materially reduced by a university cafeteria, such a cafeteria should be established. The cost of attending university is certainly high enough without paying an unreasonable amount for food.

The establishment of a university owned and operated cafeteria would involve no appropriation from the state. It would demand no outlay of funds by the university. By serving food at cost, such a cafeteria could be made a self-supporting organization. Food need not be sold at less than cost nor need the students pay unreasonable profits.

The price of food is certainly a matter of concern to all the students. Any valid suggestion to lower food costs merits consideration. The students would welcome an investigation of the cafeteria and restaurant situation in Madison. They would welcome consideration of a university owned and operated cafeteria selling food to students at cost.

PROFESSORS GIVE OPINIONS ON TESTS

army intelligence test, the three-dimensional space construction test, and the speed of cancelling, as in a page of type, which measures the quickness of movement. Some of the tests are much more valuable in the experiment than others, so we find out the relation of the tests to the work, and judge their importance accordingly.

PROF. PAUL V. WEST, department of education—Mental tests will probably be given here next year, but only experimentally. They will be given to groups of backward students and to advanced students. These tests will not be required, however, because they do not always work out practically. You cannot measure independent thinking by such tests. Some of the best students have come out low on mental tests because all the elements are not measured. For instance, faithfulness is not taken into consideration by these tests, but it may be the very factor that makes an intelligent and thorough student.

PROF. F. C. SHARP—Intelligence tests applied at Columbia university, which take the place of entrance examinations, are all based on fundamental operations, such as arithmetic, grammar, general information, etc., and have been developed as completely as possible. Of course, the student's scholarship records and recommendations are taken into account as well as his mental records.

Results of Last Year

These same tests were applied here last year by Prof. H. W. McIntyre, who lectured in the courses in education and psychology, to a representative class of 160 students. The 12 having the lowest mental grade had an average scholastic grade of 76. The 12 students who came out highest in the test averaged 84 in school work. Twelve papers picked at random from the remaining tests showed 80 as the average grade of the students who had written them.

PROF. F. G. MUELLER—I think mental tests would be a good thing. We are working in the laboratory now, on engineering students, to find out if they are fitted for the work. During the war "ability tests" were applied in a large manufacturing plant to find out if the workers were in the places they were most fitted for. This was a practical money-saving plan, and it worked out very satisfactorily.

These experiments on engineering students are being conducted by students in the course in vocational psychology, who are preparing to be managers and employers. When the tests are completed, the department hopes to be able to predict the ability of the student to do machine shop work to the extent of 80 per cent.

To Test Scribes

Prof. W. G. Bleyer, chairman of the course in journalism, is making plans for testing the ability of students for journalistic work, before they take up the course. Although no particular plans have been made for testing students in other courses, it is expected that this will come eventually, if the present experiments are found to be successful and practical.

The University of Michigan is conducting mental tests for students on probation, to ascertain their mental capacities, and the cause of their delinquencies.

Thirty-minute intelligence tests are given to all students entering courses at the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh, by Prof. L. L. Thurston, of the Division of psychology. These tests, which are required at the institute, have also been given to 27,251 students in 154 colleges and normal schools.

Prof. Thurston says, in regard to his tests, "They enable one to determine how much to expect of a student, and sometimes they settle the question as to whether a failing student should be given another chance."

PRE-PROM DANCE

"Doc" Dorward, "Sparks" Dodge, Reba Hayden entertained with special features at the Pre-Prom dance held in Lathrop hall last night. About 250 couples attended, according to Harry Phillips, chairman of the dance committee.

With a clever lot of songs, and George Dorsey at the piano, John Mokrejs, violin, and "Hap" Davis on the banjo, Dorward proved himself a popular entertainer. Reba Hayden was first on the program of special numbers, arranged by Gerald Garstang, with a whistling solo. "Sparks" Dodge and his talkative "son Dennis" followed.

The women's arrangement committee will take charge of securing rooms for out of town girls attending Prom. Anyone desiring information about these rooms should call Ruth Ried, chairman. The maid service for Prom night has been secured by this committee, and other arrangements are being made.

PROFESSOR OTTO WRITES IN DIAL

"Little Light and Less Heat" is the title of an article by Prof. M. C. Otto in the December Dial, reviewing George Herbert Palmer's book "Altruism."

Professor Palmer is the last survivor of the famous school of Harvard philosophers, and he writes on a subject which has aroused much comment recently.

As associate professor in philosophy, and the giver of the course "Man and Nature," Professor Otto is well known here. He does not entirely endorse Professor Palmer's views.

"It is the study of the problem which, although for the most part disregarded, underlies the profoundest agitations of the hour—the problem of the nature and development of the self," he says of the book.

PROF. TOTTINGHAM ADDRESSES SOCIETY

Dr. W. E. Tottingham, Associate Professor of Agricultural chemistry will address the January meeting of the Wisconsin section of the American Chemical society on Wednesday evening, January 26, on "Climatic Influences on the Chemical Composition of Plants."

Students interested in this subject are invited to attend the meeting.

work that they desire to know more about what other universities are doing in athletics, and so they have decided to send their own delegate to the conference in March. Wisconsin usually sends women from the Woman's Athletic association only.

The Athletic Conference of American College women was organized in Wisconsin in 1917, twenty universities being represented at the time. At the next meeting of the organization three years later, the Eastern colleges joined with it forming a national organization and since that time it has been the influencing element in college women's activities.

Miss Florence Miller '23 was installed as head of ice-skating. After other short matters of business the meeting adjourned until February 17.

by the Wisconsin five in team work last week, and that the Cardinal tossers handled the ball much more smoothly than did their opponents. The weakness seemed to lay in the defense, and considerable time has been spent by the little Badger mentor in developing this end of the game.

While Illinois was victorious over Chicago, the game was won only by a great fight on the part of the Illini in the final seconds of an overtime period. Had the game been played at Chicago the Maroons would doubtless have won. Illinois has the reputation for playing at a disadvantage when on the road, for they feel the lack of support which is given them by the fighting Illini backers. With a careful consideration of all the dope, the game this evening should be one of the hardest fought contests of the season.
