ZORN

ALLEN OTTO

Allen Otto Zorn was born on Cleveland Street in Brillion on June 22, 1915, the oldest son of Otto Henry Zorn and Edna Della Wagner Zorn. His entire life was spent in Brillion with the exception of short employment periods in Clintonville, Port Washington and three years in Service during World War II.

He attended Brillion public schools and graduated from Brillion High School in 1935 and then completed a 1-1/2 year engineering course with Chicago Technical College. Locally he was employed at both Ariens Company and Brillion Iron Works in their engineering and inspection departments.

He was a confirmed life-long member of Faith United Methodist Church in which he held various church offices and committee assignments.

His military awards consist of The Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, Prisoner of War Medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with 3 bronze Service Stars (battle stars), World War Victory Medal, American Campaign Medal. Good Conduct Metal and the Combat Infantryman Badge. A copy of his prisoner of war experience is attached.

He and Joyce I. Wiedeman were married at Rhinelander on November 17, 1945. They adopted two girls, Ann Marie and Nancy Kay and they were confirmed and married in Faith Church at Brillion. Allen and Joyce celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in November 1995 with family and friends. They have two granddaughters, Tammy Zilisch and Tina Schultz and had five great grandchildren at the time of his death.

Allen was a member of the Becker Bloedorn Jensen American Legion Post #126 of Brillion, DAV, Ex-POW Northeast Chapter, Brillion Senior Citizens and the Brillion Historical Society.

Allen's final project was modeling the 10 kiln Brillion Limekilns and outbuildings as they appeared in the late 1880's. The model is on display at the local Historical Society Museum.

Allen died just three weeks short of the age of 88 on Tuesday, May 27, 2003 at Bellin Hospital in Green Bay. Burial is in the (old) Brillion City Cemetery where four other generations of his family are interred.

Allen O. Zorn graduated from Brillion High School in 1935 and completed a 1-1/2 year engineering course with Chicago Technical College and then was employed by the Ariens Company until joining the Armed Forces.

He was drafted into the Army and was inducted at Ft. Sheridan, IL on December 20, 1942 and took his basic training at Ft. Bragg, N.C. He was assigned to the 82nd Airborne Division, 326th Glider Infantry and took his glider training at Alliance Army Air Base, NE and at Camp McCall, N.C. He and his group shipped overseas from Boston, MA (*) MASS, on D-Day, June 6, 1944, aboard the USS Manhattan, arriving at Liverpool, England, after a five-day trip. *Port of Embarkation

Because of heavy U.S. combat losses during the invasion, his group were placed in a replacement group and assigned to the anti-tank unit of the 60th Infantry Regiment of the 9th Division. Within a few days they had crossed the English Channel and on D+12 he landed at Omaha Beach and was in combat with the 9th Infantry Division. He spoke of remembering a roadway that was built from the beach several miles inland into France.

During the months of June, July and August and early September, their unit was involved in combat with the Germans in France, Luxemburg and Belgium. He participated in three battles, but the most frightening occurred during the Battle of St. Lo in July during which American forces severely defeated the Germans. American ground forces were supported by heavy bombers from the 8th Air Force, flying at low altitudes. He remembered that the sky was black with planes and smoke, many bombs falling "all too close". After seeing the movie, "Saving Private Ryan", Allen said it was the nearest to combat of any war portrayals he had seen.

By mid-September, Allen's unit had reached the German border and the enemy was not ready to make a counterattack. On the afternoon of September 16th their squad, along with their halftrack and 57 mm. gun made a pontoon river crossing and were greeted by the German 88's, but fortunately no one was injured. They crawled on a trail up a steep cliff and found a small school in session with a lady teacher. She was quite upset when they set up their gun and she asked in German, "Are you Americans, and how did you get here?" Allen said he surprised himself at being able to answer her in German (thanks to German grandparents) and assured her that they were indeed Americans and that she and her students should get out and go home.

The Germans spotted them and started firing. This set a barn near the school on fire and the teacher and students left promptly. Allen's unit stayed in that position until dark and then received orders to move up closer to the enemy lines. At 6:30 the next morning, on Sunday, the Germans began a counterattack. The American guns were well camouflaged and ready for attack. The lead tank of the German unit approached down the gravel road toward the American squad and stopped directly in line of their gun sights.

They were stopping to fire at some other target further down the road when the squad scored a direct side hit, just back of the front driving sprocket, putting the German tank out of commission. No one emerged from that tank. Allen's unit was unable to fire their gun again since the recoil mechanism had jammed.

Three of the squad took refuge in a horse barn about 20 feet away. One man ("105" Sullivan) suffered a foot wound. The German infantry unit in the counterattack had a number of SS troopers accompanying it. Allen's squad did not realize this at the time or they might have been greatly concerned, since the SS troops were reputed to be quite brutal in prisoner capture. The Germans started throwing "potato masher" hand grenades into the barn, but the American squad decided to hold out as long as possible. After more grenades were thrown in and German orders were given (which Allen could understand) to "take down the barn", the squad came out and were captured. This was near Monschau, Germany, just south of Aachen. The fate of the remaining men of the squad was unknown (attempts to contact after the War were futile) and the injured man was separated from Allen and Eugene LaRoche, the third squad member who had retreated to the barn. For this feat, Allen was awarded the Bronze Star.

Eugene and Allen were taken first to a farm and later with about 15 or 20 other American prisoners began the first part of a long march with their SS trooper guard who spoke fluent English. They were told - "You men are now prisoners of war and your fighting days are over. You will do as we say. Any man falling out of rank will be shot?" Their ration for the first day consisted of one cup of milk after their capture, but fortunately they each had a small amount of food with them that they were allowed to keep. Each prisoner was supplied with a can of meat (later learned to be horse meat) and a daily ration of dark rye bread for the first five-day march. After congregating with a larger group of prisoners for a repair job on damage done by the U.S. Air Force, they were given their first bowl of thin potato soup.

After walking, riding on a bus and in railroad cars through Germany, they were assigned to Stalag XII-A at Limburg, Stalag II-A at Neubrandenburg and then ended up at their P.O.W. work camp known as Arbeitskommando 319-I (Work Detail) of The Heine Railroad (Deutsches Eisenbahn) at Lutwitzer Krug, Teschendorf, Germany. This was about four miles from Rostock, near the Baltic Sea.

Because one of the German guards (who was a former German bank teller) spoke good English and overheard Allen translating their conversations to his fellow prisoners, he was assigned as a translator for his group, as well as for the guards. The permanent camp was an old guest house and they used only the portion which was once the indoor dance hall. They had built-in bunks with straw/burlap mattresses infested with fleas. There were 52 prisoners in this work camp and the rations consisted of a weekly allotment of horse meat, supplemented by daily vegetables of potatoes, cabbage and a type of carrot normally fed to animals. They had a daily ration of 1/5 loaf of heavy dark bread per day and "ersatz" coffee (suspected to be made of acorns and other unknowns). A Red Cross parcel was issued weekly which was eaten sparingly to last as supplemental food for the week.

There were three permanent guards and at night they locked the prisoners in their quarters. Two light bulbs hanging from the ceiling were turned off at 9 p.m. and on again at 6 a.m. There was a double barbed wire fence around the quarters. Forty-nine men worked daily on repairing railroad tracks on the railroad out of Teschendorf. Allen and two other men were kept in the camp to make the daily soup ration and to cut railroad ties into fire wood for heat.

By April 30th, 1945, the German guards feared the nearness of the Russians and, not wanting to be captured by them, they opened the gates and marched with the men part way for a day and half. The guards and prisoners separated and the American men met first the Russians and then were turned over to the English on May 3rd near Lubeck and Wismar which were declared "open cities" where the POWs were housed until transportation was made available to return them to France or England. Allen and his group were flown to Camp Lucky Strike at LeHavre, France to await transport. During this time, General Eisenhower paid a surprise visit to the camp in mid-May and through his intervention the men were homeward-bound somewhat faster than originally planned by "double-decking" the USS Marine Dragon. He landed at Boston, the same port he had left from exactly one year earlier.

After a 60 day furlough and a 30 day "R&R" at Miami Beach, FL, Allen learned his rating had been changed to corporal prior to his capture. From Miami, he was sent to the Port of Embarkation at New York amid rumors of "going to the Pacific" since former prisoners could not be returned to the same theatre they had served in. After boarding busses, he learned he was going to Camp Kilmer, N.J. where he was stationed until discharge on October 30th from Fort Dix.

Nancy Zorn Micke chaperoned a church youth group to East Germany in 1998 and her host family, Hartmut and Monika Teschke, were able to take her on an auto trip to the site of Allen's Prisoner of War Camp in the Teschendorf area. Allen sent a sketch of the camp area with her. This picture of Hartmut, a local resident and Nancy is taken at the rear of the Guest Haus where the P.O.W. quarters were attached and now are removed. The entire complex is now a school campus and has "Schule an der Carbak" in large letters on one building. The lady in the center holding the sketch that Allen made worked at the School in 1998, but had lived near to the railroad that the men left from for their daily work detail in 1944-1945. Nancy was very fortunate to have this "first hand" help in exploring the area and photographing it for her father.

This Zorn History was written by Allen's brother, Vernon, who was always proud that the family had been here for over 100 years even though he didn't stay. His daughter typed it for him and she was not familiar with the spelling of some of the Brillion names.

I have quickly made corrections as I did not have time to rewrite the entire article. If it is something you want included, I will gladly retype it.

Members of the Zorn family have resided in the area now called Brillion for over 100 years. The conception of Brillion as village took place in 1885. Prior to that Rudolph Carl Zorn was the first member of the Zorn family to take up residence in that area.

Rudolph Carl Zorn was born in Louis Corners, Wisconsin, on October 4, 1867. He attended grade school there until the age of 10 at which time he dropped out of school and moved to a little area that was known as Spring Creek.

On his arrival at Spring Creek he first worked for the Beech Sawmill which was located east of Cleveland Street. The mill was run by water power derived from Spring Creek. The dam and spillway were located northeast of the intersection of Monroe and Cleveland Streets. Many years after Rudolph worked at this site, Allen Zorn, one of his grandsons, bought property which straddled Spring Creek and while excavating to build a home, unearthed large portions of pine logs which no doubt were part of the Beech Mill dam or spillway. My father, Otto, had told me years ago, there was quite a large pond in that area where he used to swim. He told me one time a boy had tried to swim across it and drowned.

After Rudolph left the Beech Mill, he teamed up with John Clements and they operated what was known as the Ormsby Tent and Awning Company. I recall one of their products was a fold-up/roll-up, four-foot by ten-foot picnic table. I believe one of these tables is still in possession of the Brillion Historical Society Museum. The The Ormsby Tent and Awning Company conducted their business out of building which was later to be known as the office of the Western Lime and Cement Company.

Rudolph's next occupation was as a partner with Gustav Habermann in carpentry. They worked together until the death of Mr. Habermann after which time Rudolph continued in the carpentry business, becoming his own architect and contractor. At times he had a crew of approximately 15 men. Rudolph's business card read, "R.C.Zorn, Contractor and Builder. Estimates furnished on all kinds of buildings. Agent for Bauder's Celebrated Adjustable Self-Supporting Window Sash and Weather Strip (Combined). Brillion, Wisconsin." One of these cards served as a simple, handwritten contract, dated April 27, 1905, and said, "Agreement made with Henry Ariens to build his house to furnish all carpenter labor according to plans and specifications for the sum of Three Hundred & Seventy Five 00/100 Dollars ($375.00)" and was signed by R. C. Zorn.

His accomplishments included the building of approximately 50 homes in and around Brillion, also the Lutheran and Catholic parochial school. Some of the local structures still standing in 1988 are the old "core" section of the Brillion High School, the former Nestle's Condensery (part of the BIW Maintenance area), Reedsville U.C.C. Church, Lark United Methodist Church, Askeaton Catholic School, Brillion Evangelical Church, plus lime kilns in Brillion.

Quarry, Grims, High Cliff, Marble Head, Red Granite which were built for the Western Lime and Cement Company.

Rudolph was instrumental in building the Union boathouse on Long Lake in the latter 1800s. Many good times were had there. There were about 20 families who were involved in the boathouse. I remember those who attended picnics would stay the night. The bedrooms were upstairs in the boathouse with a bunch of wires strung around and curtains hung on them to form rooms for each family -- more fun! The lower level was for the boat storage for members of the club. It was equipped with roller launching slides. Rudolph built two large rowboats which were kept there. There was only one key for the boathouse and it was kept at Pete Falk's tavern. When anyone wanted to go out to the lake on their own then someone always had to go by Pete Falk's and grab the key.

The boathouse still exists today. Some years ago it was moved by the ice to a new location which is still on the west shore but north of the original site.

There were two boats which Rudolph built before 1920. On them he painted the names, Kayak I and Kayak II.

Rudolph's parents, Frank Gottfried Zorn and his wife, Maria Elizabeth Mueller Zorn, retired and moved to Brillion from Louis Corners in the early 1900s. Their home was on Washington Street on land that is now a part of the north edge of the high school property. Frank died on October 26, 1918. Elizabeth died June 17, 1929, at the John Jooss home, her daughter (Anna Maria Zorn) and son-in-law on Cleveland Street.

Rudolph married Ardina Isack on October 2, 1890. They had one child, Otto Henry Zorn, born in 1891. Ardina Zorn passed away at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Appleton ~~the Rudolph Zorn residence~~ in 1926. Rudolph later moved in with his son, Otto, in the Brillion Hatchery Home where he passed away in 1937.

Otto Zorn, attended Brillion High School and later the Spencerian Business College in Milwaukee. After returning to Brillion he was hired as a carpenter by his father, Rudolph, until Rudolph retired in 1927. During World War I Rudolph contracted to build homes in Manitowoc. He also built scaffolding for the shipyards. Otto spent World War I working on these projects.

He was drafted but didn't have to report for military service as the war ended the day he was to report for duty. It was told that Otto had his knapsack over his back and was heading for the train when the bells started to ring and the local siren blew. When he asked people what was happening, they said the war was ended. So he turned around and went home and that was that.

Otto was an accomplished pianist who had the ability to hear a song and then play it. In the summertime when all the windows were open the neighborhood was often entertained by his musical talents.

On October 1, 1914, Otto married Edna Della Emily Wagner of Port Washington at Menominee, Michigan. They were members of Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church (former Emmanuel Evangelical Church) where they were very active in church activities. Four children were born to Otto and Edna. Allen Otto born 1915, Vernon Daniel Rudolph born 1920, Elizabeth June (Betty) born 1924, and Chester Arnold born 1926.

In 1927 Otto and Edna bought property which was located on South Main Street from George Engel. It was an area that is now covered by the high school. They proceeded to build what became the Brillion Chick Hatchery. The property had a barn on it and one of the first things they did was acquire a cow so we had milk, butter, cream, cheese, you name it, fresh from the barn.

The first thing Otto built was a chicken barn behind the barn. It was a long, low building with room for approximately 500 laying hens. After conducting the hatchery from the basement of the house for a few years Otto, with the help of Everett Ebert?, built a large, three-story building, bought new incubators which brought the capacity of the hatchery up to 14,000 and contracted with farmers to furnish more eggs. This figures means that every 21 days they had 14,000 chicks hatch for a 75% yield (out of a hundred eggs they would get 75 chicks). When those chicks were sexed they had about 40% pullets.

The farmers whom he contracted with were such people as John Schmidt, Otto Mack, John Kocourek, Louis Lubber, Wesley Tamm, Adolph Wensch and Ed Rusch. These were farmers to whom Otto would furnish the roosters which he acquired by hatching eggs which he bought from Hollywood, Washington, and then placed the roosters with each farmer allowing so many roosters for so many chickens (I don't remember what the exact figures were). This is from where he got his strain of chicks. The first chicks from the hatchery sold for 12-15 cents each for pullets and $5 per 100 straight-run chicks. He ~~charged~~ charged $11.00 per hundred for chicks that were ten days old from his brooders.

During the off-season of the hatchery Otto went back into the carpentry business and built kitchen cabinets for homes on a contract basis. It was rather surprising that as payment for carpentry and for hatching chicks for farmers, he received flour by the barrel, sugar, ducks, pigs, peas.

Once a year the big deal was going out and getting cabbage for the cow. We all went along and enjoyed it. Pa was loaned a truck from the local furniture store and we would get a truckload of cabbage. I believe in those days the cabbage ran about 2-3¢ per pound.

* In 2003 Chester and his wife, Mary Ann, returned to Brillion and purchased a home on South Francis Street.

Allen Otto Zorn graduated from Brillion High School in 1935. During the summer of 1934 he worked as an apprentice at the Stillbrink Bakery. He worked a nine-hour shift for which he received 50¢. Following graduation from high school, he completed a correspondence course in drafting and attended the Chicago Technical College for a period of time to complete his training. Allen was later employed in Clintonville working for the FWD Truck Company for a short period of time. He then returned to Brillion and worked for the Ariens Company as a machinist and then was promoted to the drafting section. He worked his way up to the position of design engineer. During World War II Allen became a member of the Army Airborne Infantry and spent World War II in Europe. Following World War II he returned to the Ariens Company where he worked until 1952 at which time he became employed by the BIW as a design engineer and was promoted to the position of chief inspector in the farm equipment division where he worked until his retirement in 1980.

Allen married Joyce Wiedeman on November 17, 1945. They have two daughters, Ann and Nancy. Allen and Joyce continue to live in Brillion to the present date.

* Some events that I can recall which involve members of the Zorn family are such things as the time there was a team of runaway horses coming up Main Street from the south pulling a corn wagon containing a large bull. The team was driven by Mr. Schwartz who managed to get them to turn left off Main Street and into the property which later became the Zorn Hatchery. He headed them into a large lilac bush, better described as a lilac tree, which stopped them in their tracks. Mr. Schwartz jumped clear, the bull flew over the front of the corn wagon and landed between the horses. The rest of the story is history. The lilac bush was never the same again.

When we were kids we liked to hide behind the trees and wait for wagons that were coming into town going to the cannery with loads of peas. As they would pass it was fun to run out, grab an armful of vines, head for the back of the house and have a feast.

Many "fish stories" came out of the Rudolph-and-his-friends group over the years. His friends were John Wolfmeyer, Ray Zahn and Henry Engel.

One occasion they were driving Rudolph's new Marquette with glass windows and one of the gentlemen who was chewing tobacco forgot this wasn't a car with the side curtains removed and . . . you can imagine the mess that ensued.

On another occasion they went a little too fast over some railroad tracks south of town that were on a little rise. Well, Henry Engle hit the ceiling, then the floorboards. The fishing venture was off and a trip to the doctor's office was called for. The casualty regained consciousness on the way to the doctor's office.

During one fishing trip they rowed away from shore in front of the Union boathouse. Ray Zahn had just mounted his brand new outboard onto the boat transom. He gave the starter rope a few turns around the flywheel and gave it a yank. The motor started, became airborne and sunk. To this day there is still a new, 1920s outboard motor with about five seconds time on it lying on the bottom of Long Lake about 50 feet in front of the old location of the Union boathouse.

Rudolph built a house trailer in the early 1930s. It was built on a car frame that had been renovated for towing by the local blacksmith, Emil Landtmann. It towed like a hay wagon. I still remember Rudolph taking it for a test run out to the cemetery and back with Wolfmeyer looking out the window and waving with the Marquette going "wide open" -- whatever speed that was. The next time they towed it was out to Long Lake where they parked it on the Kanter farm within 50 feet of Long Lake. That's where it sat for the rest of its life.

It was fun camping in that trailer. On one occasion Grandpa told Allen to make coffee. Well, we had dishwater from the lake in one pail and drinking water in another pail. I'll never forget how fast Grandpa headed for the door after his first big gulp of that coffee. It was a polliwog heaven.

Shortly after moving the trailer out to Long Lake, Rudolph and crew built a pier. The scene is: One of his boats with an inverted salt barrel on the stern and Rudolph standing on the salt barrel taking a mighty swing with the sledgehammer meaning to drive one of the piles into the water for the pier. A slight movement of the boat, a missed post and there were two shoes sticking out of the water. Engel was quick in grabbing the shoes and pulling their owner up out of the water, sledgehammer still in hand.

On another occasion while on a fishing outing, as the boat reached a hot spot for fishing Rudolph was about to throw the anchor off the stern of the boat. Engel was to throw the anchor from the bow of the boat into the water whereupon they would allow the boat to come about into the wind before they would drop the stern anchor. Rudolph called Engel to ask if his anchor was in the water -- no answer. He looked around -- no Engel. The anchor was out, so Rudolph threw in his anchor, went to the bow and proceeded to retrieve the anchor rope and sure enough, Engle still had hold of the anchor. He had fallen overboard while hanging onto the anchor. Rudolph pulled him into the boat, no worse for wear and tear.

Both Rudolph and Otto dabbled in photography over the years. One of the early fads in the early 1900s was to print your photographs on postcard formats and then use them for that purpose. The family still has many of these postcards lying around. Rudolph's first camera was an Empire State eight-by-ten which could be converted to a five-by-seven, glass plate view camera. It was manufactured by the Rochester Optical Company, patent date August 31, 1886. The lens is an F8 Bausch and Lomb Unicum, dated January 6, 1891. They used this camera to photograph his construction projects.

Rudolph received the third car delivered by driver from Milwaukee to Brillion on September 24, 1909. The car was a Mitchell Runabout with a 20 horsepower engine. At the time the car was delivered, Rudolph was in Manitowoc on business and wasn't due back until the evening train but Otto was home so the driver gave him instructions on how to start the Mitchell and drive it. He also instructed him on how to start the car in case cranking failed. The procedure entailed jacking up one of the rear wheels, placing the gears in high and with the spark retarded and gas advanced you would turn the key on, get out and place one foot on one of the spokes of the jacked-up wheel. Then with a little jump, you placed all your weight on that foot. This had the effect of giving the engine a spin and it never failed to start. Ha! This gave Dad an idea.

After the driver left to catch the train back to Milwaukee, Otto jacked up one of the rear wheels, started the Mitchell and shifted it through to forward and reverse gears until he felt he had mastered the situation. Once done, he took the jack out from under the car, drove downtown and after a few "drags" (a term I don't think they used at that time) up and down Main through town, Otto returned home. As the train from Manitowoc pulled into the Brillion station it was met by the town constable who immediately confronted Rudolph with the news that Otto had been stopped and warned about his tearing through town in their new car traveling 15-20 miles per hour raising clouds of dust, scaring horses and causing many people to become frantic. You can imagine the evening of the first day the Zorns owned a car was not a happy one.

Here ~~is~~ the ~~first~~ ~~of~~ three volumes of our obituary records for you to check out for Faith Church members and information.

I have run a duplicate set of the index sheets for you and have made a red check on those that I remember being affiliated with our Church - Save this extra set

Louise and Stanley have lent me materials to copy on their families and also had three tapes which I did not go through, but may be of interest to you. However, I am returning these things to her so she can see what she gave me as she had forgotten about the tapes coming to me and had been looking for them.

You will have to excuse things added to the indexes by pen - it is extremely hard for me to proofread alone and I try to keep them alphabetical, except for husband and wife. I have tried to keep them on the same page or on pages next to each other if they each need a protective sheet for their information.

Feel free to make any necessary corrections on the index sheets.

*Also if I do not have a maiden name on ladies & you find it in your records, please add it after "nee"
on the index sheet*

Dear Joyce & Allen,

I wanted to write to say thank you for getting in touch with me. It really is good to hear from some Zorns.

Coming to the June 1 reunion was impossible for me. I hope you all had a great time.

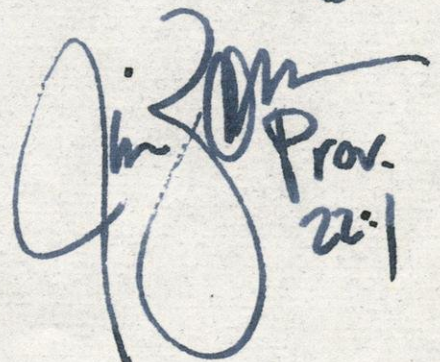

Because the job at the Vof Minn. has changed, we will be moving again.

We are going to head for Seattle for the summer, but I don't know where we will end up yet.

Let me know how the reunion went. Say hello to Lenard if you talk to him.

My dad is in Florida. My two sisters are in Colorado and Los Angeles CA. Did you know all of this?

best regards

Hi Pat and Dean,

This is in regard to Ardina Isack who was Allen's grandmother married to Rudolph Carl Zorn.

I haven't felt well enough to dig into my geneology records, but I have two of them here in the living room and I went through them. I may have given some of this to you previously. If I did, recycle....I don't need them back.

The first five pages are from the pictorial Zorn history made by Vernon, Allen's brother. The Zorn relation comes in with the Isack family through August Isack's second marriage to Caroline Zahn. They had five children. Wilhelm and Ida married into the Habermann family. Henry married Louise Walter and they lived in Brillion on Cleveland Street. Henry (Hank) Isack was school janitor for many years and Louise was a mid-wife. Their children included Clara who married William Koch. Clara and Bill are the parents of the William Koch that belonged to our church and who died last year. Their son Randy is still listed on our church roll. Back to the five children of August and Caroline....Amelia married Fred Parthie and I believe they lived in the Marinette area. The last one is Ardina who married Rudolph Zorn. She was Evangelical and Rudolph left the Lutheran Church for her. I found a copy of their wedding picture and it is enclosed.

Then from a Loos Geneology dating from 1535 to 1958 Rudolph is listed as No.24, married to Ardina and having only one child - Allen's father, Otto.

Now just for enlightening you.....go back to No. 23 on the same page(#144) who is August Friedrich Zorn. He has four children with his first wife. His second wife is Emilie Thienel, her previous marriage was to an Ambelang, I believe and her third marriage was to her brother-in-law, John Joos of Cleveland St. in Brillion. John was Brillion's first mayor. They had no children together and neither had children in their previous marriages.

Now I am still working with August's children with his first wife. The first child is Gerhard, shown as No. 63. and he is described on Page 158. He and his wife have two children, Louise and Arthur and live in California.

Arthur is No. 134 in the geneology and his family is on pages 179 and 180. They have two girls and one son, James, born May 10, 1953. Jim was with the Green Bay Packers as Quarterback, probably in the late 1970s - not for too long a time, but enough to make us wonder if there were family ties - which we know do exist. Jim is now head coach for the Redskins of Washington. OK - enough history lesson for today. Joyce
