CARDINAL TALKS

J. B. Winslow, '75

The university has lost one of its most distinguished alumni. The loss is deeply felt by both students and alumni. Chief Justice John B. Winslow was graduated from Wisconsin in 1875, with the degree of L. L. B., and in 1904 received his L. L. D. His long years of service as one of the foremost jurors in the country made him a real leader. No character in the life of Wisconsin was more highly regarded than John B. Winslow, '75.

The Union Building

The students share in the Memorial Union fund drive is $100,000. Of this $10,000 remains to be raised. The greater part of this should be raised this summer, in the drive just started. The committee in charge of the drive has not set any certain amount which each student will be expected to contribute. It is up to the individual to give what he can and to do it now.

32 Chinese Students Set Record for Foreigners

China, represented by 32 students, leads the 23 foreign countries that are represented among the 10,155 students enrolled at the University of Wisconsin during the past year. The total number of foreign students is 130.

Norway ranks next with 22 students, two of whom are women, and the Philippine Islands sent 14 men and 1 woman. Canada is represented by 13 students, of whom 8 are women, and Japan by 12 men.

France is represented by 8 students, of whom 6 are women; South Africa by 5 men; India by 4 men; Brazil by 3 men; and Peru by 2 men. The countries which sent one man student each are: Armenia, Colombia, Finland, Germany, Guatemala, Hawaii, Iceland, Porto Rico, Spain, and Switzerland. England, Mexico and Sweden each sent one woman student.

BLANTON CONDUCTS NEW SPEECH CLINIC

To give free corrective treatment to persons who suffer speech defects, a clinic is now being conducted at the Madison high school under the direction of Dr. Smiley Blanton, associate professor of public speaking at the University of Wisconsin. He is assisted in the work by speech experts from various cities who are in attendance at his classes during the university summer session.

POULTRY CLUB ARRANGES FOR STATE MEETING

Committee Appointed for Meet at Ag College Next Month

The Madison Poultry club, holding a session last night in the university poultry building to complete arrangements for the state meeting to be held at the college of agriculture Aug. 4-6, appointed committees to take charge of events and selected speakers for the sessions Aug. 5-6. John J. Flad was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee, with H. W. Hunt, Dr. B. A. Beach, F. G. Kockelhofer and W. S. Fuch as the other members. J. B. Hayes and James Sumner compose the publicity committee, and were instructed to arrange for cooperation of the Association of Commerce, which had promised the club its assistance. Plans are also under way to provide tenting facilities for visiting delegations.

BUSINESS CLUBS ENTERTAIN VETS

The Kiwanis and Roxana Clubs, are holding an outing for the federal board students at Monona Park Friday, July 16. The students and their guests will meet in front of the University Gymnasium promptly at 4 p. m., where automobiles will be ready to take them on an automobile ride ending at Monona Park about 5:30 p. m., when a picnic lunch will be served.

SIDE-LIGHTS ON THE UNIVERSITY

1. THE COURSE IN COMMERCE

Business School Second Oldest in United States, Says Writer in First Article on Wisconsin

BY J. G. CROWLHART, '21.

The course in Commerce, begun in 1901, is second only to California as the oldest in the United States. It was begun under the direction of Prof. William A. Scott, now director of the course, for the purpose of supplying facilities for the training of young men who desire to enter business careers.

From a registration of 85 students in 1901 it has grown to the size of 1,327, the number enrolled last year. It is one of the most widely known courses of its kind in the country and ranks as one of the leading schools of its kind in the country with Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, California and the College of the City of New York. More than 60 students from other colleges and universities transferred to this course in the past year.

During the 19 years of its career the averages have shown that three-fourths of its students were residents of the state. It has enrolled students from Hawaii, China, Brazil, England, India, Japan, Austria, and several South and Central American countries.

"The aim of the instruction which is given is to establish scientific principles and not to solve practical problems. Its purpose must be to enable the student to solve successfully the problems which he must meet in the actual conduct of affairs," says Professor Scott. "It solves the control of men, the organization of details and the solution of problems which arise from day to day and cannot be anticipated."

The course is subdivided so that students may specialize in particular fields, such as banking and finance, accounting, transportation and public utilities, commercial secretary, insurance, commercial teachers, and real estate. Certain preliminary courses are required as basic studies for the more specialized work in the junior and senior years. One hundred and thirty-two credits are required for graduation as compared with the 120 in the College of Letters and Science.

A feature of the course lies in the specialized studies under a faculty whose members stand at the head of their line. The courses in commercial correspondence, accounting, auditing, salesmanship, advertising, credits and collections, marketing methods, money and banking, and public utilities, under such instructors as Prof. W. A. Scott, E. H. Gardner, S. W. Gilman, A. P. Haake, and F. H. Elwell have contributed largely to the high standing of the course.

The Course in Commerce occupies the fourth floor of the new Physics-Economics building with classes in many other university buildings. In addition to the offices, class and lecture rooms, there is a commercial museum. This large room has been equipped for the purpose of displaying goods, charts, photographs, and other devices useful for illustrative purposes in the several courses.

The students of the course have organized a Commerce club, entrance based on scholastic standing, and Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary commerce fraternity, which was founded at Wisconsin in 1907 and now has seven chapters. In addition the young women taking the course have organized a women's Commerce club and a local honorary scholastic fraternity.

CHAMP COACH RETURNS FOR BASKETBALL

Kent Resigns; Lowman to Coach Baseball Next Year

The resignation of Maurice Kent as baseball coach means two important changes in the personnel of the athletic coaching staff at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. W. E. Meanwell will return to Wisconsin to coach basketball next year and Coach Guy S. Lowman will transfer his activities from basketball to baseball.

Coach Kent is leaving Wisconsin to become coach of basketball and baseball at Iowa State Agricultural college at Ames, Iowa. Dr. Meanwell is resigning the directorship of the department of physical education at the University of Missouri, to return to Wisconsin.

In addition to his duties as basketball coach, Dr. Meanwell will act as medical advisor of all Badger athletic teams. The re-establishment of rowing and increasing number of men engaging in athletics has made it advisable to create this new office.

Dr. Meanwell turned out four championship teams for Wisconsin during his five years at the university. The period extended from 1912 to 1916 during which time the Badgers lost only six games and turned up with three 1.000 per cent teams.

R. O. T. C. CAMPS DRAW 27 BADGERS

About 27 men from the University of Wisconsin are attending summer army training camps, established this summer by the war department for members of the university Reserve Officers' Training corps. The camps continue from June 17 to July 26.

Among those of the Infantry group at Camp Custer, Mich., are: Newton L. Bowers, Rice Lake, and Lester F. Schenkenberg, Waterford.

The signal corps men at Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., include Ira R. Dohr, Augusta; John J. Granke, Janesville; George D. Hocking, Waupaca; Charles T. Schrage, Sheboygan; Wilbur E. Watts, Lomira; Aloysius F. Gassner, Mayville; Frederick W. Nolte, Wauwatosa; Lawrence L. Sogard, Racine; and Joseph R. Sherr, Morris Shapiro, Nathan P. Breslauer, and Wilbur G. Katz, Milwaukee.

Among the field artillery men at Camp Knox, Kry., are Walter C. Thiel, Schleisingerville, and Alfred H. Gruppe, West Milwaukee. Ralph N. Kirchner, Merrill, is at the ordnance camp at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

3,591 TOTAL FOR SUMMER SESSION

A total of 3,591 students had enrolled in the 1920 summer session up to the middle of the second week. This enrollment not only breaks all previous records but is about 12 per cent larger than the enrollment of 3,213 last summer. Because of the volume of registration, the university registrar has not yet prepared analysis of the proportion of men and women, of graduates and undergraduates, and of their residence.

THE CHEMIST

Mid his bottles and his pans
And his salts put up in cans,
Yellow acid on his hands,
Stands my friend, the Chemist.

On his coat is burned a spot
Where liquids spatter from his pot,
But do you think he cares a lot,
That son of a gun, my Chemist?

Ne'ery a damned bit, he cares,
Except for gas and liquid airs,
And in his lab, there's no one dares
To criticize the Chemist.

Blows his glass bulbs, weighs them all,
Fills them up with alcohol,
For Chemistry? Oh, not at all—
It's great to be a Chemist!

Hens May Lay Knot-Holes Soon; Sawdust
To Make Valuable Food Says Morrison

Will chemically treated sawdust become an important feed for live stock due to the high cost of grain and hay?

Sawdust treated by a simple chemical process has been fed with good results as a part of a well balanced ration in a short feeding experiment conducted by F. B. Morrison of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, according to announcements made today. The sawdust was prepared by new processes perfected by Dr. E. C. Sherrard of the Forest Products Laboratory, which works in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Because the hydrolyzed sawdust could only be made in limited amounts at the Forest Products Laboratory, but three cows could be used in the trial. These were fed for three periods of four weeks each.

"In the first and third periods," says Mr. Morrison, "the cows were given an excellent ration consisting of alfalfa hay, corn silage and a concentrated mixture consisting of 55 parts of ground barley, 30 parts wheat bran, and 15 parts of linseed meal. In the second feeding period the hydrolyzed or treated sawdust was substituted for a part of the barley in the mixture. Two pounds of sawdust were used in place of one of barley. The grain mixture then consisted of 30 parts of sawdust, 40 parts of ground barley, 30 parts of wheat bran and 15 parts of linseed meal. The cows kept up their production through this period and maintained their weight even better than on the ration fed during the first and third periods.

Further Testing Necessary.

LIFE'S LIL' PUZZLES

By Ivan I. Opener.

Berwick Van Gluck
Came to college, they say,
To get educated
And earn bigger pay.

He never went fussing
Or looked at the janes
He came to school
To develop his brains.

With trig and its functions
He could prove anything
That a sine was a(cosine).
Or a song was a sing.

When Berwick took hold
Of the "dip" it was heard
That the profs shook their heads
And called him a "bird."

But all Berwick's knowledge,
Has made him a dub.
He makes 20 a week,
Which just keeps him in grub.

From experiment and data gathered from investigations upon the preparation of ethyl alcohol from wood, Dr. Sherrard believes that similar feeds can be obtained from any of the non-resinous coniferous woods and perhaps some of the more resinous woods. Lorch should be particularly adapted to this use since it contains approximately 12 per cent of galactin, a compound which gives rise to galactose upon treatment with dilute acids.

AMERICA LEADS PARIS IN BLOUSE FASHIONS, SAY CRITICS

Advance fall blouses are being exhibited in New York now and according to all reports from designers and fashion critics blouses made by Parisian and American couturiers and by American blouse manufacturers clearly show the superiority of the American garment. The blouse at the right is one of the models shown for fall.

At the left is an exquisite georgette tuck-in blouse for summer wear. After viewing these blouses it is easy to believe France does not excel America in blouse designing.

High Tribute is Paid To Late Judge Winslow

Governor E. L. Philipp In the death of Chief Justice Winslow the people of Wisconsin have lost an able judge and a faithful servant. In his many years of service he has held the confidence of the bar and the people. History will record him as an able lawyer, an honest and upright judge, and a splendid citizen.

Judge R. D. Marshall The passing of Chief Justice Winslow is a great loss to Wisconsin. It was my privilege to serve with him as an associate justice of the supreme court for well-nigh a quarter of a century. He was certainly a model judicial officer. His controlling thought in every controversy was to discover the right and to vindicate it with as little delay and burden, as regards public and private expense, as possible. He did much to free the administration of justice from any legitimate criticism that it was characterized by technical hindrances. All such, attempted or supposed obstructions to the speedy, economical vindication of right, he easily and unhesitatingly swept aside, in his sturdy, direct and forceful course to the only legitimate objective of litigation.

The fame of the late Chief Justice Winslow will be as lasting and inspiring in the history of Wisconsin as that of any one who has been entrusted by its people with the greatest responsibilities the commonwealth could clothe one of its citizens with. He is well worthy of the tribute which was pronounced respecting one of his predecessors and which has been immortalized by the inscription upon the latter's monument:

"It is a serious thing to be the arbiter between one's fellowmen. No functions are more exalted, no duties more grave. He who in the slightest degree, by partisanship or otherwise, dishonors its dignity, he who does not keep the ermine as white and spotless as virgin purity, is unworthy of the trust." Such were the characteristics of the distinguished subject of this tribute, his name is the synonym of justice, integrity, truth and honor" such "were the virtues which illuminated his character, radiant as the sunlight, shining as the stars." Truly, no one could as fully appreciate this as a person who, in long service with the deceased chief justice came to admire and love him for his sterling qualities of mind and heart.

Arthur A. McLeod
Chief of Supreme Court

I am deeply grieved to hear of the passing of Chief Justice Winslow. By his death the people of the state of Wisconsin have lost the services of a great and just judge; the bench one of its wisest counselors; and the bar of the state its most honored and loved member. The late chief justice was admired and honored by all who knew him not only for his great qualities as a lawyer and jurist, but by the people generally for the many noble characteristics he possessed, and this was demonstrated by the recent tribute to him from the bar of the state. It was a pleasure to serve under him.

His services embraced a period of nearly 30 years on the supreme bench of the state of Wisconsin, during which time he participated in the decision of over 10,000 cases and his opinions are found in 91 volumes to No. 170. They are noted for their brevity and clearness and his mastery of the English language makes them stand up with the great opinions of the court. During his time he participated in many important controversies and he has written a large number of leading cases.

In private life he was a man among men in the very largest sense of the term. Many a young lawyer will remember his words of encouragement and his admonitions when about to start the practice of law. He was never known to turn a deaf ear to any appeal to charity and his generosity in that regard left him in his declining years without the pecuniary reward his services entitled him to. It can truly be said that he was the best loved justice of the court in the years that have passed, and his place will be hard to fill.

He was a lover of truth and despised any attempt to win a cause by sharp practice or any effort to secure victory on a technicality. His life was an open book well worthy of emulation, and it may be said of him in the words of the famous bard: "To know thee was to love thee."

The attention of summer session students is called to the regulations governing traffic in Bascom Hall and hearty cooperation in enforcing them is requested of both student and faculty members. The set of rules now in force was inaugurated in November of the past school year at the suggestion of President Birge as a means of reducing congestion on the stairways and in the corridors. After the first few days of experimental operation the system proved so successful and was so genuinely appreciated by all who had occasion to use the building that it was decided to make the rules permanent.

The central doorway is reserved as an entrance only, whereas the north and south doorways are intended to be used only as exits. Both sets of staircases in the center of the building are for upbound traffic only (excepting between the third and fourth floors), while downward traffic is limited to the use of the end staircases.

Aged Father Aids in Release of Man Held for Theft

William M. Sullivan, 3 S. Beacon st., charged with grand larceny for thefts estimated at $2,000 extending over a period of three years, was today released on $4,000 bail furnished with the assistance of his aged father, Lysander Sullivan, who came to Madison from Lone Rock to be present at his son's examination. The case was set for Tuesday's July 27 at 10 a. m.

Sullivan in superior court Saturday denied that any of the loot found in the raid on his home and small shop adjoining was taken by him.

Sullivan's father firmly maintains that his son is innocent and said he could not ascribe a motive for the thefts since most of the articles were never made use of, nor had Sullivan means to make use of them.

MOCK FISHERMID COSTUME FOR THE SUMMER MASQUE

The ball masque is not a winter festivity only. In fact it thrives in the summer time when moonlit verandas and vine covered pergolas form romantic and fitting background for the masked dancers. The blouse is of hand-woven fish net with clever touches of red trimming and the bloomers are of sheer silk with red flowers. A red silk scarf forms a fetching cap.

FARM ACCOUNTS PROVE REAL AID

Do farm accounts pay, asks S. W. Mendum of the agricultural economics department of the University of Wisconsin? Just listen to the real story of this farmer, we will have to rename him Harper, before making a decision, he urges.

Harper was working a small farm — part of an 80, with a growing family, owned it free and clear and thought he was doing pretty well. Several years ago one of the men from the agricultural college got him interested in farm business analysis along with others. When the county factor sheets came out year after year Harper found he was working at a disadvantage compared with other farmers in the country. He then kept accounts for a couple of years, the books confirming the indications pointed out by the less accurate "one sitting" analysis. He concluded that he was cramped on his small farm and that he ought to take a larger farm with more stock and tools.

He sold his small farm and with the approval of his banker contracted for an excellent farm twice the size well equipped with dairy buildings, paying the highest price an acre paid for farm land in the country up to that time. Part of the proceeds of the small farm he applied on the land after using what was needed to stock the new farm and supply adequate working tools. A conservative estimate of the probable income and expense indicated that it would take four or five years to wipe out the debt on the farm.

Land values have gone up sharply since the purchase of that farm which helps out and in other things the conditions forecast are holding out so that his expectations are in a fair way to be realized on schedule time.

Harper believes that farm accounts pay.

OBSERVATORY WILL USE WIRELESS IN STUDY OF HEAVENS

Time signals from the U. S. naval observatory at Washington will be received by wireless telegraphy at the University of Wisconsin this fall to be used in the astronomical calculations at Washburn observatory.

The observatory astronomers have formerly determined the exact time through observation of the stars, but this new radio method will result in a material saving of effort.

A special wire will be installed from the radio receiving station in the Physics building to the observatory so that messages may be relayed there.

SCHOOL-MOVIE LINK SOUGHT

Visual Academy Opens First National Meet- ing Here

Plans for linking up the movie and the educational world were laid this morning at the opening session of the first annual conference of the National Academy of Visual Instruction, in the auditorium of the university Engineering building.

If recommendations made to the delegates in attendance are acted upon at the convention, definite committee organization will be built up by the new academy which will seek to establish a medium through which educational institutions may unite in furthering better production and more intelligent use of visual aids, such as motion picture films, charts, lantern slides and exhibits.

Speakers at the morning session recommended that the following committees be named: A committee of experts to engage in research work and determine exactly the educational benefits of visual work; a committee on exchanges to act as a clearing house for films and exhibits; a committee to draw up a catalogue listing all the slides, films and exhibits in the country that can be used in the visual aid campaign.

These committees and permanent officers of the academy are expected to be elected before the end of the convention Saturday. The session this morning, largely given over to formulating plans of work, was attended by over 60 educators.

"The keynote of our organization," said J. W. Shepherd, University of Texas, "is constructive action. We are scientists rather than philosophers. We are not a society for propaganda, but we are organized to make the truth known and serviceable."

The value of movies as an incentive to reading was stressed by M. L. Smith, state normal school, Emporia, Kans.

"Movies, in the case of my own boys, proved the most potent factor in their reading education," he said. "I found that informal visual instruction worked toward formal education. Couldn't this principle be taken up in school room work? Words are only the medium between author and reader; why cannot pictures be introduced as a medium of exchange?"

Among others who spoke briefly this morning were J. V. Ankeney, University of Minnesota; Charles Roach, Ames, Ia.; R. E. Offenhauer, Lima, O.; J. W. Scroggs, University of Oklahoma; Mrs. Adele Woodward, New York city, and F. F. Nader, Pullman, Wash.

Formal opening of the conference will be held tonight with an address of welcome by President Birge of the university. U. S. Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton will address the meeting Friday afternoon and night. A banquet will be held at the Madison club tomorrow night.

In connection with the conference

AD Club Formed—George K. Anderson of the Keeley-Neckerman company, was elected temporary chairman and W. L. Miller temporary secretary of the Advertising club of Madison, yesterday at the first meeting. SHORTER HOURS - BOOSTS PRICES

Badger Economist Claims Decrease in Farm Help is Menace

That inconsistent demands for shorter hours of labor and for food-stuffs at less cost will continue to reduce production on the farms and raise the price of food is the belief of Theodore Macklin, economist at the college of agriculture.

Mr. Macklin says consumers do not always realize that too short hours in industry and increase in demand for labor in cities will continue to decrease production.

"The present demand for industrial production, the shorter hours, and the diversion of farm help to the cities," he declares, "have created such a demand for labor that farm help is extremely scarce. Since the farmer uses much that city people do, and pays the same price for it, besides paying other costs of production which have been steadily rising, the farmer is unable to compete with industries in paying wages.

At present manufacturers have an outlet for their product, but when a slump occurs, or when abnormal conditions are at an end, conditions will react to the detriment of labor. Demand for labor is big when prices are high, but a reaction is likely to occur which will throw men out of employment."

Estimates show that on April 1 the supply of farm labor was 70 per cent normal and the demand 110 per cent normal. At the same time last year the supply was 85 per cent and the demand 101 per cent. In 1918 the supply was 75 per cent and the demand 98 per cent.

"These figures," says Mr. Macklin, "indicate that the demand for farm labor has increased since the war, while the supply is actually less than during the war.

Not only has farm help gone into industries which under abnormal conditions can and must pay a high wage, but others are migrating to the city. Such people establish various small enterprises which thereby increase the number of middlemen and the cost of distribution, and add to the cost of living in general.

"More reliable information on the problem of high cost of living problems, a check on the diversion of farm help to the cities, and less talk of shorter hours will aid in bringing the country back to normal," according to Mr. Macklin.

SUMMER GIRL OF 1920 WEARS SMARTLY EMBROIDERED MUSLINS AND ORGANDES

Muslins and organdes are the favorite fabrics this summer. Organdes are usually frilled and ruffled and made with full tunics over slender foundations. Muslins are smart when embroidered. Here are two pretty little muslin frocks which feature embroidery. The one at the right is embroidered in an all-over design of roses while the one at the left is much simpler with just large rings outlined in embroidery. Both frocks are attractive for mid-summer wear.

Moves Into Place Held by Judge Winslow Through Old Custom

TO NAME HUDDNALL?

Governor May Appoint Milwaukee
Man to Place on Supreme Court

Justice R. G. Siebecker becomes chief justice of the Wisconsin supreme court through the death of Justice Winslow.

By virtue of a custom established at the foundation of the court the next oldest member in point of service automatically acquires the title of chief Justice. Justice Siebecker has been on the supreme bench since April 9, 1903. He was born in Sauk county, graduated from the university in 1878 and began the practice of law in the city of Madison. In 1890 he was appointed circuit judge of Dane county district.

Judge Siebecker is a brother-in-law of Senator La Follette.

Gov. Philipp will have the appointment of a new justice of the supreme court. Names which have been suggested for this position are
Geo. B. Hudnall of Milwaukee, S. H.
Cady, Green Bay, and Geo. Lines.

The indications, however, are that Mr. Hudnall will be appointed if he will accept the position. The man appointed will not have to be a candidate until the spring elections in 1922. Under the constitution a judge appointed must be a candidate at the following spring election unless another supreme court judge is being voted for the same time.

Justice Vinge is a candidate for re-election in 1921 which necessitates delay in the passing upon the vacancy caused by Justice Winslow until 1922.

Arrangements are being made for the funeral of Justice Winslow which will probably be held from Grace Episcopal church Friday morning at 10. Rev. H. H. Lumpkin will officiate. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

Bar to Attend Funeral MILWAUKEE—"A meeting of the executive committee of the Milwaukee Bar association will be called on Wednesday as soon as the arrangements for the funeral of Chief Justice Winslow are announced, to determine upon out action in attending the funeral," said William Kaumheimer, president of the Milwaukee association.

"We will decide either to be represented by an official delegation or our members will go out as individuals. Justice Winslow's death is a great loss to the state and a loss to the bar of the entire nation."

GRAD STUDENTS TO HOLD PICNIC

The first summer meeting of the Graduate club yesterday was very successful, according to Miss Dorothy Hart, general chairman. About 100 graduates brought their trays up from the Lathrop cafeteria. The time was spent in general conversation and the first plans for the summer activities were made.

All graduates in attendance here are invited to attend the graduate picnic next Tuesday. The party will leave the Open Air theater at 5:30, the picnic to take place off the Mendota Beach drive. Those not leaving with the regular group can get out to the place of the picnic by taking the drive from the stock pavilion to the lake, and then turning to the left on the lake drive. The outing takes place just before the Rustic bridge and the "Willows."

Those planning to come should sign up on the bulletin board in room 22, South hall, the office of the director of the summer session, in order that provision may be made for the number attending. Refreshments will be served and the cost will be paid at the picnic by the picnickers. Since the university furnishes so much entertainment in the form of lectures, movies and musical gatherings, there will be no organized entertainment, the time being spent in conversation or in other spontaneous amusements.

The committee in charge of the summer activities is representative of almost every section of the country, being: Dorothy Hart, Madison, chairman; J. L. Lush, Kansas, assistant chairman; Edith K. Seymour, Massachusetts; Arthur C. Foster, Georgia; J. Haynes Miller, Kentucky; Helen Buel, Madison; and Harry E. Farnsworth, Ripon, Wis.
