ALUMNI HOLD BIG BANQUET IN NEW YORK

John Philip Sousa is President as Guest of Honor

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)

The New York Wisconsin Alumni-Sousa dinner and dance was held on Friday evening, December 3, at the Aldine club rooms, and in the opinion of the officers of the club and those who attended was the most successful alumni function ever held outside of Madison.

John Philip Sousa, flanked by Gerhard M. Dahl, president of the New York alumni, and Maxson F. Judell, through whose efforts Mr. Sousa was secured, led the alumni into the banquet room while an orchestra played Sousa's famous "Stars and Stripes Forever."

While the dinner was being served the most famous Sousa marches played for Victor records by Sousa's band were played on an Aeolian-Vocalion phonograph machine.

After a short business meeting, at which resolutions favoring an eight or nine game conference schedule and ordering a two years' subscription to The Daily Cardinal were passed, Robert M. Crawford, general alumni secretary, made a few remarks. Regent A. J. Horlick then told of some of the activities which now interest the board of regents. Then came Mr. Sousa greeted by a smashing skyrocket after applause which lasted for several minutes.

Mr. Sousa was in rare humor. The spirit evident at the meeting won him over, and he made what was easily the most interesting talk ever heard by New York alumni. He followed anecdote with anecdote, and the alumni hearers were in a constant chuckle and frequently "he-hawed." His scintillating wit quite captivated the Badger alumni.

While previous arrangements called on Mr. Sousa to meet his family at about 9:30 at the Liberty theater, Mr. Sousa was so pleased that he remained until nearly 11 o'clock. After the dinner the alumni had a dance where Sousa strains mingled with those of more common origin.

GREEKS MEET ON TRACK SATURDAY

The annual inter-fraternity track and field meet is scheduled for Saturday, December 11, in the gymnasium annex. Arrangements for the meet are in the hands of Coach George T. Bresnahan, and a good card of events has been prepared.

The Greek athletes will compete in the following events: 40 yard dash; 45 yard low hurdles; 40 yard high hurdles; one-half mile run; one mile run; two mile run; running high jump; running broad jump; pole vault; shot put; relay, with four men on each team running two laps.

All fraternity men who have won a track "W" are barred from competition in the meet. The first five men to finish in the track and field contests will score points for their team, and four men may enter each event, two starting.

In order that final arrangements may be made at once, all entries for the meet must be received by 6 p. m. Thursday, December 9. Letters containing entries should be addressed to "Inter-Fraternity Athletic Committee," university gymnasium.

WISCONSIN SPIRIT

DURING the past few days, serious efforts have been made to impress upon the students the need of boosting the university budget in their home communities. The success of the budget depends upon the active student support during Christmas vacation.

The facts of the case have been presented heretofore in various articles and will be further presented in the next few days. Students should clip these articles and know the facts thoroughly. They are the talking points in the great service which every loyal student is expected to render the university during vacation.

Boosting the university appropriation and getting the facts before the public is the greatest opportunity to show Wisconsin spirit that has ever been presented. There is no element of personal glory in the campaign. The whole question is whether or not the Wisconsin spirit is strong enough to induce the students to boost for the good of their university.

The campaign to get the appropriation passed is one of the biggest university undertakings in years. The university is calling on every student, not for his bit but for his best. If he has the Wisconsin spirit, he will know the facts and use them to help the university in this great undertaking.

THREE PLAYLETS TO BE PRODUCED BY RED DOMINO

Program Will be First of This Year's Dramatic Calendar

Red Domino dramatic society will present the first of this season's dramatic productions in Lathrop hall concert room tomorrow night. The program will consist of three one-act plays, "Helena's Husband," "Where But In America," and "The Bank Account."

"Helena's Husband" is a satire on present day love and war. Esther Guerini '22, will take the part of the black-eyed beauty, Helena; and Don Marvin '22, will play Paris. Other members of the cast are Agnes Samuels '21, who has appeared in "Gammer Gurton's Needle," two Union Vodvil performances, and produced "Behind a Watteau Picture" for Red Domino last year; David Lacey '21, who will act the part of the king, Menelaus, anxious to get rid of his butterfly wife, and Lee McCandless '23, the king's librarian, Analytikos. Julia Hanks '21, is production manager of the play, and the costumes are being designed by university students.

In "Where but in America?" John Warren '22, who is a member of Edwin Booth and took part in the 1920 senior play and the sketch, "Suppressed Desires," last year in Union Vodvil, will be the young husband who finds that his wife's solicitude for their previous servant is greater than that which she displays towards him. Edith Royse '21, will be the wife, and Olivia Fentress '23, will depict the modern domestic.

"The Bank Account," considered to be one of the strongest of the recent Harvard plays will have a cast composed of Frances Ryan '21, Henry Rubel '23, and Miriam Doan '22. The plot concerns the wife who has spent the money which her husband has given her to deposit in the bank. Her discovery that he does not possess a fortune and his return to work are the central theme of the play.

CHRISTMAS "LIT" IS OUT ON HILL TODAY

The new issue of the Wisconsin Literary magazine is on sale today. Nearly 200 girls will sell copies in every building on the campus, and the magazines have also been placed on all the newstands throughout town.

CHIPPEWA CLUB WILL WORK FOR APPROPRIATIONS

Will Take Steps to Prevent Propaganda Against University

As a part of the general student movement to work for appropriations for the university in the legislature next January, steps were taken by the Chippewa valley club Sunday afternoon to enlist newspapers and legislators of the valley in the work.

Robert L. Wiley '22, president of the club, charged that political forces are circulating propaganda in the newspapers in an attempt to discredit the work of the university and block necessary legislation.

Members of the club agreed to do all in their power to correct erroneous impressions of the university in the Chippewa valley and the club decided to urge newspaper editors of the valley to inquire into the integrity of reporters and correspondents before accepting their stories.

KANELLOS DANCES; AUDIENCE LAUGHS

Greek Wins Scant Approval From Crowd at Fuller

BY THE AMATEUR CRITIC
It was an awfully funny show at the Fuller last night.

Even if the name Kanellos Ballet Hellenique does sound superbly sophisticated, no one, not even the two Grecian pedal shiners in front of us could withhold their guffaws as Vassos, the most guilty, galloped on bearing aloft an empty jug.

Now, when I said to Fred, "Let's shamble down and see how Kangaroo is hopping tonight," he was rather afraid to take a chance; but when I demonstrated how all of Miss H'Doubler's petites danseuses and the boys of Haresfoot and Edwin Booth would render, he consented.

That is how we came to go. When we got there, all the literati and puissant pedagogues of the universitate were there congregated and paegyriizing Greek drama et cetera, and after the fashion of their

CROWD SEES VARSITY FIVE PLAY FROSH

Team Whips Yearlings in First Public Practice of Season

Taking advantage of their first opportunity to see Coach Walter E. Meanwell's varsity basketball five in action, a large crowd gathered at the university gymnasium last night for the varsity-frosh basketball tilt. All previous practices had been carried on behind closed doors, and the varsity men showed by their playing that they were unaccustomed to perform before an audience.

The purpose of the game with the freshman quintet were to try a number of varsity formations, with a result that Coach Meanwell found where the weaknesses in his combination lie. The varsity men were nervous, and did not hit their stride until the second half. However, they delivered some real basketball in spurts, which were not too frequent.

The freshmen presented the Badgers some stiff opposition, especially at the start of the game. The yearlings played a good defensive game, but seemed to be more or less familiar with the varsity style of play. Most of their baskets were made from beyond the foul line. The varsity doubled the score on their opponents, scoring twice the number of field goals.

Taylor Scores Much

Captain Warren Taylor counted the majority of the varsity's baskets, and was the mainstay of the offense. Taylor has a sure eye for the basket, and is also a strong man on the defense. "Al" Froger worked at center all evening, with "Rollie" Williams playing the other forward position. Caesar, Tebell and Horn alternated at the guard posts.

The open game proved very satisfactory in that it had the effects which Coach Meanwell had hoped for. After the contest the squad remained for an hour's work, correcting the errors found by Meanwell in the evening's play. Only a light work-out will be held today.

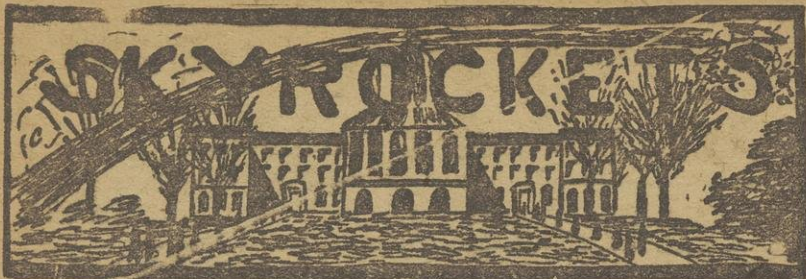

Doctor Meanwell announced last night that on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, the varsity will again meet the freshmen in an open game. The student body may be assured of an interesting contest, for the freshmen have a heavy and speedy combination. Coach Spengler will work his men today in preparation for the tilt with the varsity. Tomorrow night will be the last scrimmage before the Knox game, and Coach Meanwell hopes that a large crowd will appear to aid his men in overcoming their nervousness from "stage fright."

HOME ECS TO HAVE PRIZE PIE AUCTION

Forty home made apple pies will be auctioned off to the highest bidders at the Home Ec building Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. The pies are to be baked by Home Ec girls and will be entered in the prize pie-making contest which ends tomorrow.

After Mrs. D. H. Otis has judged them the pies will be auctioned off by John Brann, instructor in horticulture.

There are several vacancies remaining on the Badger Circulation Staff. All interested may call at the Badger Office, Union building, this afternoon between 3:30 and 5:30.

THIRD ISSUE OF COUNTRY MAG IS ON SALE TODAY

Ballots For Beauty Contest Are Found in This Number

The third issue of the Country Magazine appears on the campus today. The number is replete with timely articles on farm and home life, and its characteristic columns such as "Wild Crabs" and Ag Campus notes are especially interesting and spicy.

This number of the "Mag" features an article on "The Business of Farming," by Charles L. Hill. Mr. Hill is a member of the State Board of Education and an alumnus of the university. His article presents the profits and pleasures resulting from the business of farming in such a clear and forceful manner that many will correct their farm belief that a farmer cannot enjoy and profit his work of spare time as much as can his friends among the business men of the city.

"Wisconsin First" is proven again, this time by a hen which has broken the world's record in eggs laid in one year. This record was made under ordinary conditions and the stock of the hen and her record is given in this issue of the Mag.

There are many short course and alumni notes and the home ec department is timely with an article on the Christmas gift problem.

The first annual Home Ec Beauty contest starts in this issue and each reader of the "Mag" is entitled to a coupon counting for one vote for "Who is She." No coupons will be available except in this issue of the Country Magazine. A coupon to be detached is printed in each number and can only be obtained by subscribers or purchasers of this issue. The coupon will be found in the Wild Crab column together with full directions for balloting. Faculty, long horns, short horns and home ecs are all entitled to a vote. The winner will be announced in the January number of the Mag.

The Country Magazine with its coupon can be obtained at Ag Hall and the Home Ec building this morning.

NO NEW RULINGS AFFECTING FLUNKS

No new rulings concerning mid-semester examinations are to be in force this year. Freshmen whose scholarship record is below par will be sent notices as in the past.

There is no definite rule concerning the number of "flunks" or conditions which a freshman can have and still remain in the university. Each individual case will be taken under advisement separately by the executive committee of the faculty.

All circumstances of the case are considered before a decision is given. If a student has been in the hospital, if he has attended classes constantly, if it can be shown that he has made a good effort but has been unable as yet to accustom himself to the university methods—all such considerations will be taken into account in considering whether or not he will be asked to leave the university.

WATER-SNAKE DANCE ON DOLPHIN PROGRAM

A water-snake dance will be but one of the many features included in the Dolphin club exhibition Thursday night at 7:30 in Lathrop pool. The exhibition, which is the first of the year, will last only an hour so studies will not keep away those who wish to attend.

Among the water feats that will be presented by the dolphins will be life saving, breaking strangle holds, exhibition of various strokes for speed and form, under-water swimming, and fancy diving. The entire

Everybody Talks About The Toddle

Say, do you realize that a lot of people besides you have been making remarks about the toddle lately?

You've surely heard the preacher say: "Brethren, I say unto you that the modern indecencies displayed on the public dance floors are machinations of the devil, and as such should be not only avoided but obliterated!"

And haven't you heard the girl who knows how murmur: "UM-m-m-m-m."

The Phi Bete (who doesn't know how) says: "The toddle is a poor caricature of dancing, a pun as it were,—the quintessence of popinjay vulgarity!"

And the regular guy who does know how murmurs: "UM-m-m-m-m-m."

The other day a professor was asked what he thought about it, and he said: "Let me see. Toddle,—er-ah, toddle. That is the appellation, is it not, which is usually applied to the inexpert attempts of infants to walk?"

The man from Hickville says: "Well, I'll sure stir up the old burg when I go back and teach them the latest!"

The girl with matrimonial intentions and indiscrimination says: "It really is a help you know!"

The woman hater says: "Merely another practical expression of woman's tendency to exploit the weakness of man."

The vamp says: "Get's 'em every time."

The prude says: "Shocking!"

The crude says: "Thrilling!"

The misanthrope says: "Toddle—sounds like waddle, and looks like hell."

CHORAL UNION WILL OBSERVE TERCENTENARY

Commemoration of Pilgrims Begins With Concert Tonight

The state-wide commemoration of the tercentary of the landing of the Pilgrims will open tonight with a concert given by the Madison Choral union at the university armory at 8 o'clock.

The program of the concert will consist of two selections, "The Hesperus," a cantata for mixed voices, and "The Rock of Liberty," a Pilgrim ode.

The text of the former was written by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and the music was written by Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music. The text of the second selection was written by Miss Abbie Farwell Brown, a leading American writer, and the music was written by Rosseter C. Cole, director of the School of Music here from 1907 to 1909.

This will be the first performance of either of these selections, and "The Rock of Liberty" will be given for a second time December 21, in New York City.

The Choral union will be assisted by Miss Mary E. Montray, soprano, Miss Josephine Jones, contralto, Prof. E. Earle Swinney, baritone, Prof. Charles H. Mills, pianist, and Prof. Lowell L. Townsend, pianist, all of the School of Music.

As a university affair, this concert will be open to the public. Free tickets, entitling the holder to reserved seats, may be obtained in the office of the School of Music. Ticket holders will enter at the west gymnasium entrance until 7:50 p. m., when the main doors will be thrown open to the public, regardless of the fact whether they have tickets or not.

Crothers Speaks Thursday

The Rev. Samuel M. Crothers, Cambridge, Mass., Unitarian minister and popular writer, will give an address on "The Message of the XVIIIth to the XXth Century" before the commemoration convocation at the university gymnasium, Thursday, December 9, at 4:30 p. m.

Mr. Crothers, although born in the middle west, is of the puritanical type, and represents that transplanted New England element that has returned to its original home. He is eminently a writer of essays which express opinions and his principal series is called "The Gentle Reader." He is extremely interested in the present celebration, and is making the trip for the express purpose of being present for the commemoration.

Banquet Closes Commemoration

The commemoration will close with a banquet given under the auspices of the Wisconsin State Historical society at the city Y. M. C. A. Thursday, December 9, at 7 o'clock. The dinner will be given in honor of the Rev. Mr. Crothers, and will be of a state nature, with both Governor Emmanuel L. Philipp and Governor-elect John J. Blaine present.

A special table will be reserved for eight or ten persons who are direct descendants of those who came over on the Mayflower. Any students who may be descendants and who have not been notified are asked to call the secretary of the society at once. A few banquet reservations may yet be had by application to the Historical library.

Asks Quick Return of Milk Bottles

The Division of Markets is making an appeal to milk consumers all over the state to take care of and make prompt return of milk bottles. The bottle situation is very critical. New bottles can hardly be secured from any source, and the milk supply is being curtailed because of this fact. The milk supply of Madison schools alone is now short several thousand half-pint bottles and the schools are being deprived of that quantity of milk.

RUSSIAN PIANIST HERE JANUARY 6

BENNO MOISEIWITSCH

Benno Moiseiwitsch, the distinguished Russian pianist who comes to the university, January 6, under the auspices of Union Board, gives no history of having been a "boy prodigy." During his childhood days Meiseiwitsch was a boy like other boys—too much of a real boy to enjoy performing on a piano for more than an hour at a time.

His older sister was his piano teacher, and had difficulty in teaching him how to play. He began taking lessons when he was five. To an interviewer he recently declared that he has absolutely no recollection of his first months at the keyboard.

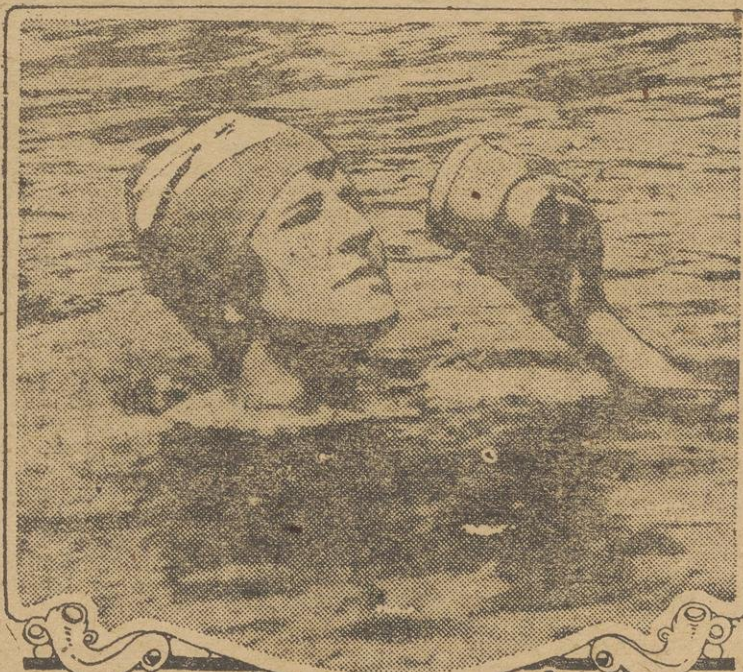

There is every indication that there were other things that interested him more. His musical growth was sane and natural, for even after he had reached the age of 14, many who knew him well believed science would be his life work.

There were those who thought Benno a boy with a doubtful future. School authorities expelled him because of the repeated pranks he played, and many were the times that he did things to displease his friends. Today, Benno Moiseiwitsch is classed with the greatest piano artists of modern times.

Everywhere the performances of Moiseiwitsch have created positive sensations. His American tour opened in October with recitals in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle, and from these cities of the northwest, he went to New York where the critics gave him their warmest praise.

Moiseiwitsch will appear here immediately after the Christmas recess, and all those who wish to buy tickets to this concert should send in their orders soon after they are

MAJOR BALL CLUBS WIN $264,000 CASE

Court Reverses Judgment in Suit of Baltimore Federal League

WASHINGTON — The district court of appeals today reversed the recent judgment for $264,000 granted by the district supreme court against the major baseball leagues in favor of the Baltimore federal league club which claimed a violation of the anti-trust laws, by the use of the "Reserve clause" in the players contract.

The appellate court held that playing baseball did not constitute interstate commerce as defined by U. S. supreme court decisions and that the anti-trust law did not apply. The "reserve clause" imposed restrictions, the court held, which related directly to the conservation of the personnel of the clubs and did not affect the movements of the federal league clubs. Any ill effect was merely accidental, the court found.

PENNY SEALS

EVERY year the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association asks the public to buy penny Christmas seals. The money derived from the sale of these seals is used in the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

The work carried on by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association has, in the past, resulted in great advances in the treatment of the dread disease. Hundreds of lives have been saved. Thousands of patients have been treated. Clinics and sanatoria have been regularly maintained.

Notable strides have also been made in the prevention of tuberculosis. Free chest clinics are conducted. Hygiene is taught in the schools and in the communities.

As this splendid work of the Wisconsin association goes on, thousands of persons still suffer, and thousands die each year.

When the opportunity presents itself, please buy penny double-barred cross seals. The funds from your purchases are used for as laudable an undertaking as modern society knows. The seals are the manifestation of the true Christmas spirit.

NEW ERA

Men Will Sell Octopus on Hill in Competition With Co-Eds.

A new era will be ushered in at Wisconsin tomorrow, when "Pat" Dennis and "Fred" Sperry, representing the men of the university, and Marie Bodden and Helen Harper, representing the women, have a contest in selling Octopuses.

The two men will stand by Music hall at the bottom of the hill, and the two women at the other side, from 7 to 10 o'clock in the morning. Octopuses will be sold elsewhere too, until they are gone.

New red hairnets will be worn on the hatless heads of both men if they lose the contest. A man's cap is the required head-dress for the women if they lose. The penalty will be announced in Thursday's Cardinal, and will be carried out on the hill Thursday morning.

The Octopus has undertaken the experiment in order to settle the question as to whether men can really sell things on the hill as well as girls. Particularly attractive specimens of each kind were chosen to even the chances.

The superior experience of the women will be balanced by the novelty of the men's appearance in the game, it is thought; so the contest is quite equal. If the men do well they will probably be allowed to enter other selling and tagging contests and a long controversy which has been agitating the university all this fall will be ended.

CADET GUARD TO SHOW HONOR TO PRESIDENT BIRGE

Crack Company Will be Picked From R. O. T. C. Unit

To present to the university at large a more tangible representation of the spirit of the R. O. T. C. and to outwardly manifest the honor and high esteem in which the members of the university cadet corps hold President Edward A. Birge, the President's Guard, a "crack" company, mainly for exhibition purposes, is being organized.

The guard will spend one hour every week in close order and trick drill, and will take part in any future university demonstrations, such as pageants or parades, in which their presence is desired. Formal presentation of the guard to President Birge will take place at the Military ball, April 8.

Because of the exigencies of the demands of the military department, participation in the guard must be voluntary. Two platoons of six squads each, composed of members picked from all the companies, will constitute this new "show" company. As a rule, however, not more than eight men will be taken from a single company.

All privates and non-commissioned officers are eligible in the guard. Every man will be classed as a private until the showing he makes warrants his promotion. Special insignia will be decided upon later, and will probably be worn on the left sleeve. Such insignia will designate not only mere membership in the guard, but also the number of years that the man has been a member.

Maj. Cecil M. Russell '21, will act as temporary captain of the guard, and Capt. Robert L. Luening '23, and Maj. Evrard C. Caluwaert '22, will serve as temporary lieutenants. If possible, future officers will be picked directly from the personnel of the guard.

Members of the guard will drill with their original companies during all regular periods except when the guard is formed under special orders from Maj. John S. Wood, commandant. If deemed necessary, will leave the Applied Arts laboratory at 7:15.

PRESS MEETING AT MILWAUKEE IS BIG SUCCESS

10 Delegates Represent Four Publications at Convention

Leading all other colleges with a delegation of 10 representatives from four publications, the University of Wisconsin was an example of the large increase in the attendance at the State Intercollegiate Press association convention held in Milwaukee last week-end.

Two normal schools and 12 colleges were represented by 65 delegates, a decided increase over the representation last year. A delegate from Northland college in Ashland was added to the list of delegates sent in former years; and a new publication, "Electric Sparks" of the Milwaukee School of Engineering, was admitted to the association.

Election of officers and the determination of the meeting place of the convention next year were among the important issues of the closing session, Saturday afternoon at Milwaukee-Downer college. George Greene '23, a member of The Daily Cardinal staff and former managing editor of the Beloit Round Table, the newspaper chosen as the best publication, was elected secretary for the coming year.

George Dundon, editor of Marquette university's 1921 annual, Hilltop, was elected president of the association. Vivian Fay, editor of St. Mary's News Letter, and secretary of the association last year, is the new vice-president; and Grace Norton, one of the editors of the Milwaukee-Downer Kodak, is treasurer for the coming year.

Members of the executive committee are: James Parker, Beloit; Herbert Munhenke, Lawrence; and Irene Smith, Carroll. The Rev. John Danihy, S. J., regent of the course in journalism at Marquette university, succeeds Prof. W. G. Bleyer of the University of Wisconsin as faculty advisor.

The importance of publicity in promoting the interests of society, and the ways in which students interested in journalism can do effective work were the points brought out by Henry J. Campbell of The Milwaukee Journal in his address to the convention Saturday afternoon.

Other speakers who addressed the association in the final session were Professor Lindsey, Lawrence college, Professor Ellard, Beloit college, and some of the faculty members of Marquette university.

Keen competition between Beloit and Lawrence colleges for the entertainment of the convention next year resulted in the awarding of the honor to Beloit on a close count. The special invitation which the Beloit representatives presented from Melvin Brannon, president of the college, helped to influence the decision.

The many ways in which the organization had assisted them in solving their problems were emphasized by members of the association in presenting their reports. Speakers throughout the convention stressed the value of the association and the many possibilities it had for helping individuals, publications, and schools.

The program of the convention was under the direction of Arthur P. Weisner of The Marquette Tribune and Grace Norton of the Milwaukee-Downer Kodak.

The delegates from the university were: Lawrence W. Murphy '21; Marion Goodwin '21; Charles P. MacInnis '22; George Greene '23; David K. Steenberg '23; Rodney Welsh '22; Helmer Casperon '22; John Jinney '21; A. J. Fehrenbach '23, and Corrington Gill '22.

the two platoons will drill at different hours.

First drill will be held in the gymnasium annex, Thursday evening, December 9, at 8 o'clock. All cadet officers and privates interested in becoming members will report to Major Russell at that time. This hour is only temporary, and a more convenient hour will be arranged later. Those men who cannot be present Thursday night are asked to leave their name, company, rank, and hour preferred, with Sergeant Atkins in the military office.

RED LIPS AND FLUFFY HAIR THRILL HEROES IN NEW "LIT"

BY A. K. SMALL

The most significant piece in this month's number of the Wisconsin Literary magazine is a story by A. C. Hamilton, "Moon Madness." It might well have borne the sub-title of "Kissable at First Sight," for it is an authentic chip off the block of "This Side of Paradise."

The young man of this story, like the hero of Mr. Fitzgerald's book, thrills to the "delicate scent of hair" and the redness of lips and the fluffiness of female dress—thrills to the point of clutching the young woman, whom he has just met that evening, in his arms for one wild erotic moment.

Mr. Hamilton is in the full current of the time; he reflects the mind of a generation (mostly under thirty) deliciously conscious of the intense beauty of momentary contacts between young men and young women. He throws in an occasional touch of juvenile cynicism, as if he and his contemporaries had moments of nostalgia for the possible mythical days when girls could not be kissed at first sight.

Mr. Hamilton has caught well the trick of rendering these intense physical contacts. We might wish he had caught as well the art of construction. His story is neither a circle nor a straight line; it bends at the elbow.

The same smart eroticism appears in his eight lines to the lady who bobbed her hair. (Was it P. E. More who called attention to our young poets' obsession with hair?). Of all the bits of verse the palm must be awarded to Miss McIntosh for her graceful "Lullaby." Miss Pennell Crosby writes six lines, three of which rhyme, about "The Persian Lilac;" then, apparently feeling constrained, flows over into eight lines of free verse. Mr. Scholtz is struck by the juxtaposition of a pot of rouge with some beer-mugs; Miss Shaner laments a lost sensation—she cannot be sufficiently pathetic about a first love; and Miss Ruffner is deeply impressed with the unimportance of the universe.

Mr. Brooks has contributed a story to this number, the scene of which is presumably some idyllic Greenwich village with Muerger properties. It has the touch of a fine and sure delicacy, and is convincing by its remarkable unity of tone. He, too, can reproduce in a more graceful way than Mr. Hamilton, the intensity of an erotic moment.

But the real treat of this number is the story "Bare Hands" by Frank Gray. If the Literary magazine wishes to double its circulation, it need only print more specimens of such admirable and competent work. The story is a real thriller; the account of the fight in the morgue one of the sort to "wring the withers of our sensorium." A plausible and skillfully managed resolution gives this story the final touch of good craftsmanship.

White House and Congress Should Co-operate-Harding

President-Elect Declares Friendship Should Exist in Administration; Says "Senatorial Oligarchy" is Pure Fiction

WASHINGTON—Senator Harding's speech in full follows: "I am pleased at this greeting by fellow members of the senate," said Mr. Harding.

"There is still greater satisfaction in having this opportunity to say to you informally some of the things in my heart which I could utter in no other way. I recognize that I am here today under somewhat unusual circumstances and there is a delicacy about it that one in my position cannot escape except through some form of self-effacement which does not seem quite possible.

Reluctant to Leave.

"No member of this body could be more reluctant to leave it. I may say to this senate that I came here with very high respect for this body and I am leaving it with greater respect than that with which I came.

"That I always direct his own political fortunes to his liking, I should have preferred my membership here to any office a citizen may hold in this republic or elsewhere in the world.

"I like the freedom, the association, the patriotic sense of responsibility which abides here. I am conscious of the great place which congress holds under our constitution and particularly sensitive to the obligations of the same. When my responsibilities begin in the executive chamber I shall be as mindful of the senate's responsibilities as I have been zealous of them as a member, but I mean, at the same time, to be just as insistent about responsibilities of the executive. Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the avenue, but in the coordination and cooperation which becomes the two in a great and truly representative popular government.

The "Senatorial Oligarchy."

"This brings me to the thought particularly in mind. Something has been said about the 'senatorial oligarchy.' Of course every one here knows that to be a bit of highly imaginative and harmless fiction. But I do recognize how essential is the helpfulness of the senate making a successful administration.

"I want to express today the wish of a colleague for the confidence and the cooperation of the members of this body in the four years which begin next March 4th. I do not limit this sincere request to this side of the aisle. One cannot promise agreement in all things with an opposite party which is sometimes insistently wrong but we may find common ground in the spirit of service and I hope for that agreeable and courteous and oft-times helpful relationship with the opposite side which has added to the delights of fellow service during the past six years.

"We are facing no easy task. We have our full part in the readjustment of human affairs, after the world tumult. We have our tasks at home, we have our part in the inevitable work of the civilized world.

I am sure that the necessity of wise solution will inspire us to work together, to take common counsel to be tolerant of one another and give the best which is in all of us to attain the ends which become our republic at home and will maintain its high place among the nations of the earth.

Asks United Service.

"With propriety I cannot venture upon any suggestion now, even though I am speaking as a member of this body. Three months of the present administration remain, and I would have house and senate join cordially in making them fruitful rather than wasted months. There is so much to be done, and we have already had so much delay, that I should like unanimous recognition that there are no party ends to serve, but precious days are calling for service to our common country.

"I cannot resist the repetition of by regret that my association on this floor and in committee room is ending today. It has been a happy and a proud experience. Let me express the hope to one and all that, though there comes a change in official relationship, it will not interrupt our cooperations, nor deprive us of the personal fellowship which I have found to be a great compensation for the sacrifices of conscientious public service."

The Railroad commission on Monday increased the water rates in the village of Luck which owns a municipal plant. Under the new rates dwelling house users will pay $12 a year and business places $9 a year.

NEED BUILDING PROGRAM HERE

Prof. Smith Praises British System in Report Filed

That encouragement must be given to home building and that there are many desirable features of the plan adopted by England's government is pointed out in a report filed by Prof. L. S. Smith of the University of Wisconsin with Gov. Philipp. Prof. Smith was appointed by Gov. Philipp to attend the World Housing and Town Planning Congress in London. The report declares that great progress has been made by building homes in England by their system and that "you cannot expect people to live like pigs and be good loyal citizens."

"I have personally inspected some thousands of these houses," says Prof. Smith in telling of the English system, "and noting the general interest taken by the public in the purchase of local housing bonds, the writer is convinced that the housing problem in England is in safe hands and bids fair to be solved in a reasonable time if present progress can furnish a criterion. For many years cities have built streets, sewer and water systems, parks and playgrounds, even voted large subsidies to manufacturing companies to insure their location in the city. The national housing shortage adds a new overwhelmingly important demand for municipal aid either in the form of subsidies or in the loan of the city's credit thus insuring a low rate of interest on capital used in house construction."

"If it be found that present laws do not suffice to allow this being done in U. S. then now ones must be secured to the end that the most vital possessions of all—a home may be furnished to even the most modest citizen."

"A second lesson furnished by the English experience is this: All classes of citizens are responsible for present bad and inadequate housing conditions and all must interest themselves in the problem and contribute to its solution. The general subscription to local housing bonds now being made in England points a practical and most efficient manner in which the average citizen can show his interest in the most vital problem which faces America, in fact faces the world."

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND.

Of the novels of famous authors which find their way to the screen nowadays, few have attained wider celebrity than "Lady Rose's Daughter," of which Mrs. Humphry Ward is author. This strong story has been adapted for the screen by Paramount and the picture will be shown at the Strand theater for the last times today.

The publication of "Lady Rose's Daughter" as a serial in Harper's Magazine some years ago, attracted widespread attention. It was subsequently printed in book form and its success was so great that it was dramatized and produced on the stage in London and New York. It was a standard stage attraction for several seasons and is still presented in stock.

The story deals with the trials of a young woman who is born out of wedlock and it affords Miss Ferguson three roles for the display of her versatile talents. These are respectively the grandmother, daughter and grand-daughter. The development of the theme is intensely dramatic and the various situations in which the heroine is involved are filled with great heart appeal.

Miss Ferguson is excellently supported, the players including David Powell, Holmes E. Herbert, Ida Waterman and other screen players of reputation.

A comedy cartoon, Luke Mc-Luke's Film-osophy and the latest news weekly will also be shown.

"Below the Surface"

Hobart Bosworth in "Below the Surface" will be shown for four days commencing Wednesday.

AT THE GRAND

In Elaine Hammerstein's new picture, "The Point of View" there is a wonderful sentiment that spreads to the spectators and brings about a thorough enjoyment of that story, a story that is just like a page out of the lives of real folks. It has a knack of getting into that little remote recess of your heart seldom reached by pictures, and when touched the picture is not easily forgotten.

One of the finest roles ever assigned to Elaine Hammerstein is that of Marjorie Thorncroft and she makes of the role a combination of womanly beauty and charming grace that is irresistible. Rockcliffe Fellows must also be given credit for the fine work he does in the role of the impulsive westerner.

ALBERT CAPELLANI
Presents THE FORTUNE TELLER
Starring MARJORIE RAMBEAU

AT THE FULLER.

Do cards foretell the future?

They are weirdly prophetic in "The Fortune Teller," the Robertson-Cole Super-Special, starring Marjorie Rambeau, the greatest emotional actress of the American stage, which is at the Fuller today.

The screen version of the celebrated stage success dealing with mother-love and psychic phenomena is even more powerful than the play, the big scenes of which necessarily were limited by the stage restrictions.

"The Fortune Teller" shows great actress in a great story, a story filled with tense, dramatic situations. The action is rapid and big scene follows big scene with almost breath-taking swiftness. But the "big scenes" are only "pot-boilers" in comparison with the truly great moments of the picture which shows Miss Rambeau at the very pinnacle of her art.

Whether cards are false or true prophets is a debatable question, but in "The Fortune Teller" they form the basis of a plot inextricably woven with the appeal of mother-love and the mysteries of psychic phenomena.

The advance sale of seats for the engagement of Fiske O'Hara in "Springtime in Mayo" at the Fuller theater on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, opens today. Arrangements have been made for taking care of the biggest crowd that has been seen at a theater box office in years. The mail and telephone orders already received indicate the heaviest demand for America's favorite actor-singer that has been known in a long time. The fact that Mr.

O'Hara is everywhere establishing box-office records, this season, is further borne out by the indications that he will do the same here. The drift of "Springtime in Mayo" is said to be tender and humanizing, the atmosphere healthfully exhilarating, the form good drama and the characters widely differentiated. Its story will hold you like a vice and give you many a hearty laugh without any effort to be funny. Mr. O'Hara's new songs are said to be well chosen and hit the popular taste.

kind were awaiting with eager and unsuspecting anticipation the stimulus of "The World's Greatest Dramatic Dancer." Everybody there had affected a foreboding mask of intellectuality.

But pretty soon, the curtain went up on a pretty scene showing a lot of yellow cheese cloth, some steps, and a big brass receptacle. Elevating atmosphere.

After a little weird music, some giggling boys in pink and blue and purple togas jostled in solemnly brandishing branches of Christmas tree. Then some dainty dancers tripped in and stood before the steps of the Royal Palace in Boeotian Thebes to see the King Oedipus tear out his eyes. But he just pretends he pokes them out. His accent is really very fine.

In the pageant, Jul Hanks is certainly swell. Such eyes, such hair, such voice—ahhh. And Mary is good too only she was awfully timid about embracing poor blind Oedipus and was rather reckless with Themistocles's vernacular.

In fact, all of the girls were wonderful. And the men and youths handled their skirts lots more deftly than you would think. Larry Norem would have been much better if he had taken his part more seriously.

After the blinded king is led away, he has his sight restored behind the scenes and again writhes forth with a paucity of clothes. This time he does Le Martyr, a part rendering portrayal of the sufferings of early Christians. I couldn't convince Fred that he wasn't supposed to laugh until I pointed out Professor Byrne who was taking it so seriously. But it really was awfully good, I suppose.

Even if the ballet was a whole lot more funny than Vassos Kanellos would wish, the costumes were striking and appropriate. The lighting, too, was effective.

To pass Walter Dryburgh unmentioned would be an injustice had

KOLB SPEAKS ON EFFECTIVE DEBATING

Principles of Effective Debating was the subject of an address given by J. H. Kolb, of the Agricultural Economics department, to the members of Agric Triangle, Sunday, December 5.

"Team work is absolutely necessary to win a debate," declared Mr. Kolb. "The members of the team must know each other, understand each other, and live with each other. The four outstanding features of an argument are: (1) Getting contact with the judges; (2) Analyzing and stating the fundamental issues; (3) Presentation of those issues; (4) Clinching the points."

Mr. Kolb emphasized the fact that many debaters are lost in the rebuttle because the debaters lose sight of the main point and are led to discuss side issues. He urged prospective debaters to organize their arguments and know their subject in order to overcome that fault.

LIVE DUCK GOES TO WINNING SINGER

A live duck was the prize that was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Humphrey for winning the song contest of Agric Triangle, Sunday, December 5.

Amid much enthusiasm of the members, and vigorous quacking by the duck, Mr. Humphrey was presented to his new charge.

Four songs were submitted in the contest. The contestants were Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Humphrey, T. L. Dartnell, George Arbuthnot, and Carl Rogers. The selections were rendered by members of the Agric Triangle Quartet. Members of the organization acted as judges. The song is a parody on "Maryland, My Maryland." Copies of the song will be distributed to the members at the next meeting, December 12.

HORSE SAVES LIVES OF SCORES OF BABIES; BLOOD USED FOR DIPHTHERIA ANTI-TOXIN

Miss Margaret Williams patting "Alice," the horse.

For two years the sorrel horse shown above has given her blood at intervals to help make anti-toxin from which diphtheria serum is made. This serum has saved the lives of over 1,000 babies. Miss Margaret Williams has extracted the blood from "Alice." Miss Williams is engaged in making the serum at a laboratory in Berkeley, Cal. The horse is carefully watched and fed at all times.
