LEGISLATION IS POWERLESS TO CURE DIVORCE

Richards Hits Uniform Legislation

"The divorce evil cannot be cured by legislation," Dean H. S. Richards of the Law school, said yesterday when asked for his opinion concerning the proposed amendment before congress giving that body power to legislate divorce.

"Laxity in such matters is due to a change in attitude on the part of the public toward divorces," he dean said.

"Publicity has done much to give some states a bad name in divorce practices," the dean said.

"Perhaps the greatest evil in the divorce situation today is the collusion between the parties. Whatever the statutory grounds for divorce, the bill will allege them and the defendant admit," Professor Richards said.

Country Too Big

National commissioners on uniform state laws have appointed a divorce council who investigate all divorce cases in Wisconsin. A strong public opinion against the flagrant misuse of the present divorce laws will do most in overcoming the divorce evil," is the opinion expressed of Dean Richards.

In speaking of national legislation as contrasted with state legislation in divorce matters, Dean Richards said:

Can't Regulate Courts

"The country is too big and conditions vary too greatly on this subject to make national legislation effective; secondly, an amendment to the constitution or national legislation in this matter cannot change the morals of the people. A uniform law might not be administered uniformly. It might make the definition of divorce uniform, but that would not alter the difficulty the courts meet when there is collusion.

"When people are agreed to a divorce, evidence and grounds are a secondary consideration. Equally it is impossible to regulate the decisions of the courts."

BARNARD HALL GIRLS PURCHASE VICTROLA

To relieve the after-dinner duties of her piano players, Barnard hall has purchased a victrola.

The fund for the victrola was raised by entertainments given by freshmen and senior girls of the hall, and by personal donations. A 10 o'clock chocolate party given a week ago by the freshmen netted $17, which completed the sum necessary for initial payment. Wilhemina Meade '23 contributed $25 to the fund.

The balance will be paid in monthly installments. The money will be raised by similar methods.

Historical Museum Holds Special Lincoln Exhibit

A plate from the white house dinner service of President Lincoln and a white knit counterpane which was used to cover Lincoln when he died at the little house across from Ford's theater, are on exhibit in the North hall of the State Historical museum this week. The counterpane is a shell pattern knit of heavy cotton cord and of a type common in the 60's. It was presented by Richard Lloyd Jones. The plate from the white house dinner service was donated by Theodore Roosevelt.

Knox College Celebrates Seventy-eighth Anniversary

The seventy-eight anniversary of the founding of Knox college was held Thursday at Galesburg, Ill. President David Kinley of the University of Illinois was the principal speaker.

SENATE PLACES POINT SYSTEM BEFORE CAMPUS

The point system, proposed for regulation of student activities, will appear in the limelight March 7.

A meeting for open discussion of the system has been called for that date by the Student Senate, according to an announcement made last night by Maynard Brown '23, president.

The Student Senate, the sole constitutional representative body of the students, has adopted the plan for a popular forum of opinion as an indicative method of sounding out campus sentiment and giving information of the merits and weaknesses of the point system.

"The point system calls for a revolutionary regulation of student activities," Maynard Brown declared in an official announcement of the meeting. "For that reason members of the senate desire that the will of the campus be ascertained."

BLAINE HEADS SHOW GUESTS

Many Prominent Persons Will Attend International Saturday

Invitationst have been extended to many prominent guests to attend the fourth annual Little International Live Stock show which will be held in the university stock pavilion Saturday night.

Guests who have been invited to attend the classic live stock event include Governor and Mrs. John J. Blaine, President E. A. Birge, Dean H. L. Russell, Prof. H. H. Kildee, Iowa, and other prominent people.

Arrangements have been made with the athletic department to have the Wisconsin-Purdue basketball game start at 7 o'clock, so that the horse show will not interfere with the game. The night performance of the Little International will start at 8:15 o'clock. Street cars will be waiting near the gymnasium to conduct passengers direct to the stock pavilion so that live stock enthusiasts may attend the show after the game.

Scotch bag-pipers, direct from the "auld sod" are among the features that will add to the interest of this year's Little International, according to the management of the show. Through the efforts of Peter Docherty, Madison, a bag-pipe kilt band has been procured that has won popular approval in many Wisconsin communities.

Menorah Society Will Meet In Lathrop Concert Room

The Menorah society will meet at 7:45 o'clock this evening in Lathrop concert room instead of in the S. G. A. room, as was announced yesterday. Their principal discussion will be on the subject of the Talmud, by L. G. Zelson of the Semitics department. The program will include several other interesting talks.

"In Lincoln's Chair" Read At Meet of Woman's Club

Prof. Andrew T. Weaver gave "In Lincoln's Chair," at the general club meeting yesterday afternoon in the Woman's building. Penniston Wright, accompanied by Charles Demarest, '23, sang two solos by Dudley Buck. "Where the Lindens Bloom", and "Creole Lovers' Song". Esther Schlimgen '23, gave a piano solo, "Ballade", by Chopin.

Basketball, Track Teams to Clash in Patten Gym

Basketball and track teams of Indiana and Northwestern universities are meeting this week in Patten gym. Last night the basketball game took place and the track events will be held Friday evening.

Eight Houses Will Enter Inter-Sorority Riding Event

Free-For-All Competition is Included in Program

Eight sororities will compete in the inter-sorority riding contest at the Wisconsin Little International Saturday night for the large silver cup now held by Chi Omega. The cup will be on display in the window of Pete E. F. Burns on State street for the rest of the week.

The winner of the closely contested prize last year was Helen McNeil '22.

The sororities entered in the contest and their riders are: Chi Omega, Helen Callsen '25; Alpha Chi Omega, Alice Cockrell M 1; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pauline Ambrose '23; Delta Delta Delta, Olivia Orth '24; Alpha Phi, Anna Fox '25; Delta Gamma, Catherine Hastings '26; Gamma Phi Beta, Aileen Hall '23; Pi Beta Phi, Ernestine Blatz '25.

The contest is to be a three-gaited affair in which the girls will put their mounts through the three paces, walk, trot, and canter.

For the past few weeks the contestants have been riding daily and practicing in the arena of the stock pavilion to accustom their horses to the ring. They are being coached by Herbert Bruckner of the Blackhawk riding academy.

Riding at Wisconsin has become more and more popular each year especially among the co-eds. Many men also have taken to the sport.

Besides the three-gated inter-sorority contest there will be a three-gated free-for-all class and a five-gated free-for-all class. University women and also men have entered in the free-for-all classes, although the participants will be largely horsemen riding their own horses.

The increased number of entries for this year's show and the greater interest in horsemanship should make this year's event more popular than ever before, officials say.

LONESOME BANKROLL IS HONESTY PROOF

That there is honesty among students was proved yesterday afternoon in the Union building.

Reposing on an otherwise empty table in the Union building, with not a soul watching it, over $30 was as safe as if it had been tucked in one of Madison's banks. For fully an hour this sum of money was left absolutely unguarded on the table and was still there when a panic stricken youth rushed back to get it.

Yesterday was payday for Federal trainees. Some of the members had been selling tickets for the annual Gun and Blade banquet to be held Thursday evening. The men had collected quite a bit of money and sold quite a few tickets and packed up to go home. Each of the men thought that the other had taken the money and left it there.

GUN AND BLADE WILL ENTERTAIN OVER 150 VETS

Between 150 and 200 men are expected to attend the third annual banquet of the Gun and Blade club which will be held at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening in the city Y. M. C. A.

Edison M. Boerke, national president of the Gun and Blade and founder of the organization at Wisconsin, will be one of the principal speakers. Mr. Boerke has organized the eight chapters of Gun and Blade in the various universities throughout the country.

Other speakers will be President E. A. Birge, Captain Miron E. Adams of the Fort Sheridan association at Chicago, and H. J. Betty, director of cooperative activities of the bureau of Chicago.

Other guests will be: Walter Chisholm, director of Veteran's bureau at Madison; Dr. W. F. Lorenz; psychiatric of Mendota asylum; Dean J. D. Phillips, business manager of the University; Dan A. D. Millar, faculty councillor; Clement E. Trout, coordinator for University trainees; Melvin H. Tige, ex-coordinator; Miron E. Buck, in charge of the project training of university students; Major John S. Wood; and Major I. Milo Kittleson. "The evening is to be spent in talks and singing until about 9:15 o'clock when we are all going down to the 'Orph'", Harold B. Reyer, president of Gun and Blade who will also act as toast-master, said.

WEATHER: CLOUDY

Partly overcast skies are predicted for today and tomorrow, with little change in temperature. The maximum temperature yesterday was 34.8 at 3 p. m., and the minimum 16.8 at 7 a. m.

REGENTS BILL PASSES SENATE

Enactment of Measure By Assembly Now Probable

The Titus bill which provides for representation of two labor and two farmer members in the board of normal school and university regents was endorsed by the state senate yesterday by a vote of 16 partisan and is aimed solely at the row that has been going on for some years in the ranks of higher education.

This proposal would give Gov. Blaine immediate control of both the university and normal school regents, and would give four additional members to each of the boards.

"This bill," said John L. Dahl, speaker of the assembly, "is non-aimed solely at the row that has been going on for some years in the ranks of higher education."

Pres. E. A. Birge and Prof. M. V. O'Shea, of the education department, declined to comment on the measure.

RIFLE CLUB URGES INTEREST IN MATCH

A meeting of the Wisconsin Rifle club was held last night to awaken interest in the contest now going on between Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois.

The winner of the meet will be eligible to compete next spring in the national intercollegiate meet.

Fifteen men are entered by Wisconsin but only the targets of the ten best will be sent as the entry. Yesterday Bodis made a score of 299 out of a possible 300. Those who have qualified are: Drake, Long, Rohrsen, and Sporer.

The eight-man relay race of the University of Southern California won the one-mile open relay at Occidental college on Saturday.

Charles Paddock, world's champion sprinter, negotiated the final 220-yard lap in 22 seconds flat, making the Trojans' time for the event 2:58 2-5. This time broke the former world mark of 2:59, set by Illinois A. C. of Chicago. The race was part of the Pacific Coast A. A. U. relay carnival.

Southern California won the meet by 38 points. Occidental finished second with 16.

Resting securely in second place, the Wisconsin basketball team today begins its "spring drive" to prepare for the important conflict with Purdue university here on Saturday night.

Although Purdue is not up with the elite in Big Ten basketball standings, the Boilermakers are dangerous at all times and their victory over Wisconsin is the only one recorded against the Maxwell team.

They lost to Indiana who was beaten by Wisconsin, but in these days of anti-coed societies and upsets, nothing is expected to be a surprise. When the Purdue team comes here, it will be the first time in years that a Lafayette basketball team has stacked up against Wisconsin.

The Boilermakers registered their first victory by dint of the super-excellent free throwing of Holwerda, guard. Holwerda dropped in 11 out 12 attempts. Of Purdue's 17 points, only six came on field goals. Wisconsin was also held to three baskets by the novel Purdue defense, the remainder of the counters coming from Les Gage's free throws.

Scorpion to Be Issued as Non-Student Publication

The Scorpion will be issued as a non-student publication, Dean Scott H. Goodnight announced yesterday. The same students will act as editors of the "political fortnightly," but have agreed to make no mention of their connection with the university in their paper.

Harvard Professor Names Six National Universities

Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Michigan, and Cornell have been selected by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard as being "national" universities. Doctor Hart says that only these six colleges have adequate curricula, draw students students from widely enough diffused territories and have had sufficient influence upon American history to be termed "national" institutions.

Dust of Ancient Egyptian Monarch Won't be Disturbed Until Fall; Police on Guard

(By the Associated Press)
LUXOR, Egypt—Tut-Ankh-Amen's dust will not be disturbed this season. By the end of the week it is most probable that the aperture in the sealed door of the tomb will be screened with wadding on wooden framework and that the debris of centuries will be piled into the tomb shaft as the most effective protection against theft. A police guard will remain throughout the summer.

May Contain Two Bodies.

LUXOR, Egypt—There may be two bodies instead of one in the 30-century-old tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, in the Valley of the Kings, according to belief expressed today by Egyptologists who were present Sunday at the formal opening of the inner chamber.

Supposition that there is more than one mummy in the inner chamber was based upon the size of the double canopied sarcophagus and the wide variety of jewelry and other articles strewn about the tomb.

The secret of the sarcophagus, with its golden canopies secured by great bolts rung on hinges of pure bronze, may not be revealed until late next autumn. The inner chamber of the tomb will be closed as soon as all the portable articles are removed this week. No effort will be made to pry into the contents of the sarcophagus.

GRIPPE KEEPS EVEN RECORD

Students Are Hardest Hit of Any Group in Town

"The situation in the gripe epidemic on the campus has greatly improved this week," Dr. Robert Van Valzah of the University clinic asserted yesterday. Contrary to popular opinion on the hill, Dr. Van Valzah states the epidemic this year is no more severe than that of the preceding ten years.

"Every year commencing at the Christmas holidays and continuing until spring, the acute illness curve at the clinic maintains a high level," the doctor says.

The students at the university are the hardest hit of any in town, because they are crowded into small rooms all their amusements such as the movies, dances, and the close social life of the boarding house and fraternities do not make for prevention of diseases.

Besides this the doctor points out by tests and records made and kept during and after the war that it is proved that young adults are the most susceptible of all ages of people to these diseases, having 90 per cent of the cases; besides, that they are least careful as to their health.

Dr. Van Valzah does not think that the abrupt changes in the weather have so much effect on health as have the abrupt changes that the students make in their clothing from day to day.

"To change from wearing woolen socks and galoshes to silk socks and oxfords with no galoshes on warm slushy days is one of the chief causes of colds," he said.

Dr. W. A. Mowrey also of the clinic states that the healthiest way to dress for indoors work is to wear summer clothing, because indoor temperature is about summer heat.

"Then, when going out, bundle up well and have no fear of the weather," he states.

"Keep the feet dry and warm," is also his advice. "A cold, however small, lowers a person's resistance and so gives disease a greater chance to get a hold."

"Yarmark," Russian Fete, Heads Orps Bill Tomorrow

Special song numbers, highly descriptive and smart in their up-to-date-ness are rendered by the comedienne, Edith Clifford, appearing at the Orpheum for the last times today.

Francis Miller and Harry Kilby are presenting a dainty dance diversion in "Broadway to the Bowery." Other Orpheum attractions to appear the last times today include: "Wait for the Finish," by Page, Hack and Mack; Hager and Goodwin in "The Ballyhoo;" "The Grouch Killers" is offered by Miller, Packer and Selz, and Rosie Riffe and her company of expert sharpshooters.

A Russian carnival, "Yarmark," is the headliner on tomorrow's bill. "Yarmark" is a general Russian jollification, something on the order of the French Mardi Gras. It is an occasion of high spirits, of life, laughter and color, of song, dance and music. Now that darkness has come over the Russian horizon, most of the Russian players have been compelled to find other fields for their talents.

Among those to come here is Theodor Stepanoff, who organized a company of his countrymen and is offering "Yarmark" or "A Night at the Carnival," which is making a tremendous hit in every city. As entertainment, it is new and picturesque.

Large Chorus Prepares For Religious Convo

A chorus of over 80 voices selected from all of the student church organizations in the Camp's Religious council is being worked up for the all-university conference, which will be held here March 2, 3 and 4.

Prof. E. B. Gordan is in charge of this large special chorus, and will lead the rehearsals for it. No special long series is being worked up for these meetings, but the chorus will sing all of the hymns with the audience and in this way lead the singing at the meetings.

This special group of singers will be seated in front of the audience, and will be at every one of the five assemblages.

"We are having this large chorus from all of the churches to arouse greater interest around the campus and to give the singing at the meetings a real leader and impetus, as well as adding greatly to the harmony," Beatrice Perham '23, co-chairman of the music committee, said.

The committee in charge of the music for the religious conference is as follows: Beatrice Perham '23 and William Fronk '24, chairmen, Ruth Beebe '23, Oswald Krebs '24, Calvin Oakford '24, John Thompson '25, and Bert Hopkins '24.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

HAWKEYES ARE IN GOOD SHAPE FOR DUAL MEET

Team in Fair Condition Coach Declares

When the varsity track squad takes on the Iowa team at Iowa City next Saturday in the first indoor dual meet of the season, it will stack up against one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Reports from Iowa show that the Hawkeyes have one of the strongest teams they have boasted for several years and are looking forward to a conference indoor championship. Wisconsin will have the odds against them but will make an attempt to put a crimp in Iowa's hopes.

Coach Mead Burke is not at all optimistic over the meet because of the many new men he will have to depend upon. Regulars from the 1922 team are few and the new men have yet to experience conference competition.

Should Take Sprints

The Badgers hopes for victory in the work that certain stellar performers are likely to do. The new men may come through the test in better shape than the squad looks for, but until the acid test their ability will be doubted to some extent.

Capt. Ralph Spetz is a dependable man in the dashes, and backed up by Eagleburger he should be able to take care of the sprints in pretty good shape.

The great difficulty lies in the fact that Iowa has three or four stars whose work has been extremely good and these men are dash and short distance men. Wilson and Brookins, both sprinters have reputations which cause considerable worry to the Badger dash men.

Badger Jumpers Strong

Noll and Morrow are two other stars on the Iowa squad who have fearsome reputations. They are half milers and Wisconsin, with new men performing in this event, will need to do some good work to break even on points.

The high jumping end of the meet will be upheld for Wisconsin by Platten and Donahue. These men have both been showing good form and should be able to garner several points in their event. The Iowa team has a man in Chudt, who is to be feared.

Hancock, big Superior boy who stepped into the ring with his civilian clothes here two years ago and put the shot several feet over the existing high school record at that time, will work with the weights for Iowa. He will be assisted by Coulter, another weight man who has shown good work for Iowa.

Distance Men are Good

Van Ellis will work in the shot for the Badgers and will make the lowans show speed to take honors in the event. Van Ellis won the Arlie Mucks trophy when he put the shot over 42 feet in the relay carnival held here last Saturday.

The Badgers are well provided with distance men and should be able to break even in points in the mile and two mile runs. Ramsey and Schneider will run the mile and Tschudy will be depended upon to lead the two-milers.

Over 20 men including coach and manager will make the trip to Iowa City. The squad will leave on Friday afternoon and will be in Iowa City in plenty of time to become rested for the meet.

OHIO STARTS BASEBALL

Fifty baseball candidates are university under coach L. W. St. John and G. M. Trautman. All infield positions except third bases have better men trying out for them. The battery men have been practicing for several weeks. The coaches expect to be able to take their men outside for work in a few weeks.

OHIO FIVE PLAYS LAST HOME GAME

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 20.—"Last the best of all the game," kid stuff, is still good.

The buffeted, but still battling, Ohio basketball team is scheduled to top off Washington's birthday with a 40-minute set on the Coliseum court against Michigan.

It will be the last home game of the season. The ancient Michigan-Ohio State rivalry automatically makes the Thursday card the best of the year.

Since the Buckeye basketball team took an early season beating at Ann Arbor, at a time when morale was lowest from injuries to veteran mainstays, Coach Olsen has developed a largely sophomore combination powerful enough to give Purdue and Iowa a real scare. The Bucks are hoping to go farther and upset Michigan.

Ohio winds up away from home with games at Purdue.

Sale of tickets will begin at 1 o'clock on Friday, and it is expected that the entire supply will be disposed of within an hour of two after the booths open. If any ducats remain after the Friday rush, they will be sold on Saturday.

IOWA HAS EDGE FOR WRESTLING BOUT ON FRIDAY

Many New Men on Badger Team

Every man on the Wisconsin wrestling team is working hard to cop the meet with Iowa which takes place here at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Despite hard luck in the matter of sickness and injuries, Coach Hitchcock says that the team will be in fair condition for the match with Iowa.

Hembre, who has been troubled with a bad ear will undoubtedly be in top form. Heuer's ankle still gives him a little trouble but he will also be on deck.

Iowa City has the edge on Wisconsin in that Iowa state holds wrestling tournaments among her high schools, and before a man makes the Iowa team he has already had experience in the wrestling game.

At Wisconsin, Coach Hitchcock has to build his team out of practically inexperienced men and the sledging against the competition that Iowa can furnish will be rough.

Hope For Plan He

"I hope to see the time when Wisconsin will follow Iowa's example and foster state high school wrestling tournaments," Coach Hitchcock said yesterday afternoon. "It will give Wisconsin an even break with opponents like Iowa."

As a result of Iowa's edge over Wisconsin, he expects the match to be the hardest fight of the season.

Grid Stars Meet

The new Western Intercollegiate association rules will be used in decisions and fall. A fall will count five points for the winner and a decision will give the winner three points. In case of a tie at the end of the 12-minute wrestling period, two overtime bouts of three minutes each will be wrestled.

Two old gridiron opponents will be matched against each other. Bejberstein, Wisconsin heavy-weight will oppose Heldt in the heavy weight class and a fast and hard fight is sure to follow.

The line-up for the match follows:

Wisconsin	Weight	Iowa
Suzuki	115	Pfeffer
Bendbow	125	Gugisburg
Holmes, Schaeckel
or Morrow	135	Lane
Hembre	145	Peterson
Heuer	153	Thorne

URGE ENTRIES IN BOXING TOURNEY

With the interclass boxing tournament only a few weeks away, prospective entrants are urged by Coach Eddie Borgelt to begin immediate training for the scheduled bouts.

Borgelt has announced that the series of matches will be held during the first week in March. Men who have not been victorious in previous university boxing matches are eligible to participate in the tourney this year.

The boxing room on the third floor of the gymnasium will be open daily and men can work out at any time. Coach Borgelt prefers that most of the work be done after 4:30 o'clock each afternoon. Amateur mitt-slingers who intend to enter the tournament can sign a list which has been placed in the boxing room and all bouts, including the finals, will be held there.

Either six or eleven matches will be held and the weights will be decided upon according to the weights of entrants. Winners in the various bouts will be awarded class numerals.

The all-university boxing tournament will follow two weeks after the interclass affair.

WISCONSIN GYM SQUAD TO MEET CHICAGO FRIDAY

Wisconsin's gym team will meet the University of Chicago tumblers Friday evening in Bartlet gymnasium at Chicago. The contest will be one of the big events of the season for the Badger turners because the Maroons have one of the strongest teams in the conference.

"We want to win this meet more than any other, because Wisconsin and Chicago are old rivals in this game and Chicago has beaten us badly for a number of years,"

Coach F. D. Letzler said.

The Midway school has several veterans and one "C" man on the turning team, Capt. Ed Ricketts being the major letter man. Elliot, however, is in an unusually good tumbler and performs to advantage on the parallel and the horizontal bars. G. Collins also is good on the bars and on the rings. Coach D. L. Hoffer has charge of the squads. They have won two contests from the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. so far this season.

The following men will compose the Wisconsin team: F. Kubosch '23, H. W. Schmidt '25, F. L. Bumer '23, horizontal bars; W. Porth '23, Kubosch, Schmidt, parallels; M. E. Hansen '23, T. Stevens '24, N. F. Koch '24, horses; Porth, Schmidt, Bumer, rings; H. D. Kitchen '23, Kubosch, Stevens, Koch, or Bumer, tumbling.

SWIMMERS GET NO REPLY FROM M. A. C. TANKMEN

May Come on Friday or Saturday

No word has as yet been received from the Milwaukee Athletic club as to whether their swimming team will contest the Badger tankmen this week.

Coach Steina had hoped to bring them here for tonight, but no answer to the request had been received at a late hour last night.

There is still some chance that the Milwaukee club may come here for a meet on either Friday or Saturday night. They have had a meet scheduled for Friday but may shift it to Saturday night in order to meet Wisconsin. Chicago will oppose Milwaukee Friday night unless the change is carried through.

Northwestern To Come

In case the M. A. C. swimmers come here for the Saturday date, Wisconsin will have an excellent chance for victory despite the fact that the Milwaukee team is composed of a number of former stars, several of whom were former Car performers.

If the date is set for Saturday, the matches will be run off in the afternoon in order not to interfere with the Purdue basketball game.

The next certain meet is with Northwestern here March 2. Northwestern has one of the strongest swimming teams in the conference and this will undoubtedly be the most difficult battle on the Badger schedule.

Bennett in Great Shape

The line-up for Wisconsin will probably be the same as in the last meet with Minnesota. The team should be in much better shape, however, for at that time last minute breaks in the line-up by ineligibility and sickness threw the squad off balance.

At no time this year has Capt. Johnny Bennett been in the best of form for a contest. He is one of the fastest tank men in the Big Ten, but has been handicapped all season. Coach Steinauer is pointing his men toward the Northwestern match, and Bennett, as well as the other men, are working hard to perfect their swimming and diving.

WESTERNERS PLAN TRIP

An Eastern baseball trip will be made by the University of Washington squad in the spring. Games with Penn State, Yale, North Dakota, and Michigan have been scheduled so far. Another opponent is to be added. Practically the same team which won the Northwestern championship last year will make the trip.

Contrary to previous announcement

there will be no Union Board

SKYSCRAPER SCHOOL

Ten million dollars will be spent at Northwestern university to create a super-institution of education, according to an announcement of trustees.

When the University of Wisconsin is campaigning for a greater school and a $1,000,000 Memorial Union building, the action of the Purple authorities makes our hopes insignificant in comparison.

Students will attend classes via the elevator.

This fact, one of the unusual ones in the announcement, is significant of the fact that the education of the future must be radically expanded and changed to meet new conditions.

The Bascom hall of Northwestern will be a gigantic skyscraper, towering aloft as a sentinel over the encircled campus buildings. Such a project would have been undreamed of even 20 years ago. Now it is a practicality and inaugurates an era of the super-university for popular education.

Students here have discovered the inconvenience and delay in an expanded campus where the buildings of different schools are often far apart. It requires approximately 12 minutes to make a class in Agricultural hall from Science hall. If an increased enrollment means more buildings in order to give every youth the opportunities of a university education, what will be the conditions of the future?

Northwestern has adopted the unique plan of using the air for expansion and will erect buildings on the skyscraper theory. Elevators will carry the students to the different floors. Time will be saved in going to classes and the buildings will be centralized.

When educators are discussing the theory of junior colleges in Wisconsin to supplement the university and to reduce the pressure for building expansion here, the revolutionary steps of Northwestern are worthy of consideration.

Wisconsin, a leader in state education, renowned for its progressive laws, can well take heed of the super-educational plans in other states. The definite project at Northwestern sets the pace.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Long waiting lists at the clinic and the fact that there are 71 students in the infirmary at the present time are criteria enough to warn any student to take care of his health.

Although the grippe epidemic of two weeks ago is reported to have subsided, the present condition deserves more than a passing thought.

It must be remembered that a cold, because of its close association with the nasal and perspiratory organs, is moderately contagious and can be spread easily by carelessness on the part of the person having it.

The growing prevalence of unguarded coughing and sneezing in public places, such as the library and lecture room, would seem to indicate that such promiscuous thoughtlessness has been responsible for much of the present sickness. Such is the case.

If you have to cough or sneeze, use a handkerchief. If you haven't a cold, beware of coughers and get your full share of fresh air and sleep. If you have rubbers or galoshes, wear them. They mean security.

Your health is your biggest asset. Guard it.

IN 165 TONIGHT

Dorothy Spinney, an English actress, will give an interpretative reading of the noted Greek drama, "The Hippolytus of Euripides," tonight. Although the drama is centuries old and gives the life of an ancient people you will find that the Greeks were quite human after all. If they didn't have their cigarettes, they at least used perfume, face powders and perhaps a nip of hooch occasionally.

Miss Spinney does interpretative work of the highest order combined with the finesse of an actor. It is only lamentable that, after crowding New York theaters with eager listeners, she should find our humble 165 Bascom hall waiting for her here.

New Octopus Is Worth Sending to the Homefolk

By H. H. P.

The exchange editor of the Octopus doesn't get enough credit. His name isn't even on the masthead of the publication. But in looking over the Fashion number, which appears today, we feel irresistibly impelled to compliment his anonymous discrimination in selecting jokes to run among the ads.

Many times Octopus readers have been urged to send Octy to the home folks. We must confess that we never have done so. We might have sent the Prom number, but at the critical moment decided that it was too good to part with. But now we reiterate Octy's urge. It's a good issue to send home. Or anywhere. Let distance be no deterrent.

But before sending, clip out Page 12, "Bagatelles," free verse burlesques. Also the editorials. They're worth keeping. The issue will not shock the home folks, if they read it. There are no pictures of "semi-nude girl students."

Encouraged by their success with the burlesque on the Prom Cardinal, the editors essayed to burlesque the national magazines of the smart set. It was laudable ambition.

But such a burlesque requires a rare perception of the ludicrous and much restraint. Such qualities are rare; they are what have made Donald Ogden Stewart famous; lack of them has made many published parodies fail. We do not deny many clever cracks in the flood of copy this month. But for the most part it gives too much evidence of tremendous effort.

It seems that the tremendous effort caused a reversion of the pre-prom era. In the Prom number the poor puns and custered pies had become vestigial organs; but they have evidently regained their usefulness. We hope the atavistic tendency will not appear in the next generation.

Nevertheless, we urge our readers to buy this number of the Octopus. It is a worth while activity (Mr. Sinclair to the contrary) and should be supported. And (who knows?) the next number may be as good as that of the Prom. How it will shine by contrast; so shines a good deed in a naughty world.

Editors Say—

MENTAL HONORS

The Daily Illini

The Harris political science contest offers an opportunity for budding lawyers and essayists of Illinois and other middle-western universities to win personal and university honor in addition to a prize of $150 or a second prize of $100.

Students are apt to underrate this kind of school distinction. The competitor in an essay contest must show almost unending research, a mental keenness in interpretation and organization of material and almost the power of a genius in skillful handling of his subject.

The winning of such a contest causes no stir of excitement such as the winning of a basketball game, in fact, only a certain group of students who are especially interested are concerned about the outcome. The interest in the debating team is another example of distinction in outside activity which does not receive its full measure of student commendation.

A fuller realization of the honor that mental contests confer on the university as well as the individual might serve to stimulate a more earnest effort on the part of the would-be competitors.

SKYROCKETS

What ho, the Lit! This review is not intended to follow Hick up, but we also notice that the editors venture no opinions on the high price of militarism disdaining denunciation of the type of journalism that sponsors he-men's clubs.

We beg to call attention of the Dean of Women to the fact that the Board of Editors admit they are slightly jaded.

"Passionately devoted to literature"..... It would seem that the policy is: When in Rome be a holy terror.

We notice that William Ellery is in the editorials, and among the contributions. The cover appropriately depicts a poet wrapped only in thought and bestriding his inspiration.

We drink together, you and us,

Readers must not assume that the "Chi Delts" in "The Beautiful and the Dumb" is a substitution for the Chi Psis. They don't believe in chapter favors such as taxis, flowers or notes of thanks.

We are far too humble to criticize Mr. Leonard's nice, elegant verse.

We learn on good authority that Phineas Mahoney has left school. From his poem, we judge that he got hit.

I did not know you lived here.
I have lost my way,
A girl, seeking flowers
At the end of the day.
Dark is the earth,
Fast the night comes on!
Show me the path,
And I will be gone!

I did not know you loved me.
Innocent am I.
I looked at you by chance.
And thought to pass by.
But you, at your window,
'Twas you that called me,
A girl seeking nothing....
And will not set me free.

TUTORS' LANE, by Wilmarth Lewis; Alfred A. Knopf, publisher. $1.75 at the Mifflin Arcade Corner Book store.

The jacket of this book hails the story as the first American Gilbert and Sullivan novelette. Such it is, in a modified form. Primarily, however, it is a character study of college types, and as such is far superior to Town and Gown, different though it is in its theme.

The students of Woodbridge, the New England college where the action takes place, are left entirely out of the treatment. It is the faculty and their families that Mr. Lewis is concerned with. Mrs. Norris, the dean's wife, although she is not like any deans' wife we have ever known, is so natural that we smile as we fit her words and actions to various female friends of ours.

So it goes. Burt Brainerd, middle-aged, the assistant professor of English who will never be anything more than assistant and accepts his fate without cynicism; old Mr. Sprig, late professor of anatomy who is a bit cracked and who astonishes the college by keeping pet chickens; Henry Whitman, the crabby economics instructor who selfishly endeavors to prevent his sister, Nancy, from marrying a young English instructor by the name of Tom Reynold, all are inhabitants of most every campus in the country.

The author admits that his story is slight. He is correct. He tells of how Tom Reynolds and Nancy Whitman, imbued with the spirit of benevolence, endeavor to educate Mill hands of Woodbridge along lines hygienic. Of course the two could not join in such a project without falling in love; that would be the conventional outcome of such action and there is certainly nothing unconventional about the story.

There is also a second suitor to the hand of Nancy. A charmingly conceited painter, emotional, on the peak of Olympus, the kind who might dance forth upon the campus any winter day clad in purple tights, brandishing a hyacinth, reciting poetry—such is Leofwin Balch. We have known several of his kind an' strangely or not, they have all been easterners.

The style is briskly modern, light, easy, whimsical. In short,

Fair To Yourself?

You would not devote all your waking hours to the study of books, if you have any concern for your bodily health, for you would be a physical wreck in no time. Nor would the wise man devote all his waking hours to the improvement of body and mind, for such a one knows that life is a trinity of body, mind and soul, and that the neglect of any of these three parts of life means the degeneration of that part. Yet how very many, in the carelessness of collegiate living, forget to care for the spiritual side of life, and neglect to attend to that intangible thing which makes up one's character!

The soul will be the subject of an address, "Pipe Lines of Power," to be delivered at Grace Church tonight by the Rev. Stanley M. Cleveland. It is only out of thoughtfulness for yourself that you ought to attend.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 20.—Styles in drum-majors may change at Ohio State university next fall. Thousands of football fans throughout Ohio have admired the majestic swagger of "Tubby" Essington, Buckeye strut-sheik for three seasons, but "Tubby" has served his time and band officers are casting about for a successor. They may go to extreme length in supplanting the corpulent "Tubby," which will be literally the case if the heir-apparent being championed by "Jimmy" Schlemmer, sporting editor of The Lantern, student daily, is nominated.

Schlemmer's protege is William "Hi" Price, of Cleveland, 6 feet 4½ inches in his fallen arches—if he had any. But Price is not bothered that way, for he is counted on to star for Ohio State track team as soon as he completes a year of residence.

The elongated athlete won points for Oberlin in the hurdles and high jump in last year's "Big Six" games. He is now a junior.

OHIO STUDENTS WIN ORIGINALITY CONTEST PRIZES

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 20.—The Ohio State university students who lighten the burden of college expenses by bearing corpses to their graves now have a rival in the contest for unique ways of making the overhead of education approach zero. She's a co-ed,—Miss Rachel Savage of Columbus. Miss Sacage, a freshman, teaches Hebrew on the side. Professors say her mastery of the tongue is remarkable.

Entry number three in the "individuality in enterprise" contest is Miss M. Virginia Joyce, who, unlike the average student, rented a house instead of a room and now helps finance her education by subletting rooms to working girls.

"Working girls," Miss Joyce specifies, to avert the potential embarrassment of being both a student and matron of students, responsible for enforcing co-ed house rules.

MATHERS GIVES FIRST LECTURE IN ART SERIES

"Romanticism and Its Sequel" was the subject of the lecture given by Prof. Frank Jewett Mather of Princeton Monday afternoon in 165 Bascom hall. It was the first of a series of four lectures on modern art to be given by Professor Mather. The others will follow on February 20, 21, and 23 at 4:30 o'clock in 165 Bascom hall.

Monday Professor Mather gave a survey of the great painting of the nineteenth century, and illustrated each movement with its outstanding painters. He covered all of the great developments in painting from the time of Napoleon to the present.

Yesterday Professor Mather lectured on "The Great Traditionalists of the Nineteenth Century." He told of the lives and paintings of a few of the most distinguished artists of that time.

Pablo Casals, Famed Cellist, Casts Spell on Music Lovers

By PORTIA B. LUGOFF

Again came Pablo Casals, famed cellist to Madison last evening and again he presented a concert which was unequalled for technical ability, tonal quality and expression in the 'cello world. The artist had the power to cast a musical spell over his audience.

"Sonata in B. Major" by Sammartini, the opening number, left no doubt in the minds of the listeners who were hearing Casals for the first time as to his remarkable talent, his perfect understanding and manipulation of his instrument. The first and second movement of the sonata, allegro and adagio, were played somberly, quietly, with flawless tones. The malto allegro was the sparking movement of the piece and well displayed the musician's genius.

Without a doubt, Saint Saen's "Concerto in A Minor" was the "heavy" number of the program. It offered a display of his art from all angles.

Edouard Gendron, pianist, worked in absolute harmony and unison with Pablo Casals and together they produced a musical masterpiece.

The shorter numbers in the four-group were all effective. "Larghetto Lamentoso" by Godowsky contained plaintive passages which seemed to come from the soul of Casals, so deep was the feeling. The interpretation of "Danse Espagnole" by Granados was delightful.

BADGERS PREPARE FOR BIG PURDUE BATTLE

like when it is in condition. Many were prone to believe that the announcement of indisposed players was merely a "Bear story", but the facts stand that Les Gage and Tebell were ill Friday and Saturday. Williams and Spooner had only minor injuries.

By holding Michigan to three baskets, all of which came in the second half, the Wisconsin defense maintained its record of being the most effective in the Conference. Birks forward, Capt. Ely, center, and Paper, guard, divided the trio of baskets. No opponent has counted 20 points against the Wisconsin defense in games played thus far. Purdue, with 17 counters, has been high scorer.

Spooner Promising

Although Capt. Gus Tebell and Rollie Williams deserve most of the credit for effective guarding, the remainder of the team has fitted into the combination play so well that it is seldom opposing offensive men get through the primary defense line.

In his first full game on the armory court, Dwight Spooner displayed regular Varsity form. In addition to dropping in one difficult basket, the youngster fed the ball to his mates and enabled them to register. Spooner's long shots always came dangerously near the net. He has a wrist snap which enables him to drive the sphere far and true towards the bounding board.

Must Fear Purdue

Although Wisconsin has weathered some of its hardest games, it must fear Purdue on Saturday, and Indiana, which comes in March. The Chicago quintet is also improving, but seems unable to produce the punch which wins games.

Iowa, pace-making in the Conference, will find difficulty in winning its second game from Michigan and its two contests with Indiana. Either one of these teams may drop the Hawks from their commanding position at the top of the Big Ten ladder.

Engineering Levels Mountains

The Pack Train has become a relic of the past, along with the Prairie Schooner. Modern methods of transportation have leveled mountains, brought San Francisco nearer to New York, and widened the markets of all our great industries.

And the engineering brains and energy, that have developed transportation to the prominence it holds in the business of the world today, are no longer employed in improving means of overland travel alone. Street Railways, Elevator Systems, Inter-urban Lines and Improved Shipping Lines—these are some of the accomplishments of engineering in the development of better transportation.

Neither have the builders of such systems been concerned only in the actual hauling of people and materials. A study of the methods of handling passengers and freight at the large terminals has developed the Terminal Engineer, who has greatly improved existing methods, and has developed entirely new ones, as well.

Engineering, as it is applied to transportation, has had to concern itself with many kinds of materials and many ways of handling them under all manner of circumstances. For instance the problems surrounding the handling of iron ore, in bulk, are vastly different from those encountered in moving any one of the finished products manufactured from iron ore, that must also be transported in large quantities. But Engineering constantly meets each situation with improved transportation facilities.

Industry, as a whole, and the nations and the people of the world owe much to the engineers, associated with such large manufacturing industries as Westinghouse. They have not only brought about vast improvements, but they have done so at a constantly decreasing cost to those who derive the greatest benefit from them.
