PREFACE.

In the composition of the Hymn Tunes in this work, the leading aim has been to give expression and force to the sentiment of the words, to embody in the music their corresponding, prevailing spirit, and to select a variety of hymns and metres to meet the demands of all religious occasions.

The principal object in the composition of the Anthems, Motets and Sentences has been to create and develop a devotional spirit, and to inspire religious thought and feeling; with this aim in view, such words have been adopted as are most appropriate to opening and closing service, — to Ordinations, Installations, Funerals, Thanksgivings, Christmas and Fast Days.

The "Theory of Musical Notation," contains a complete analysis of the principles, a knowledge of which will enable the singer to read music intelligently, while the Exercises are designed to educate the mind to the perception of Musical Form, and create a taste for pure and forcible harmony.

We entertain the hope that the "Songs of the Temple" may be instrumental in promoting a higher appreciation of the office of music in the sanctuary, and prove a worthy and an efficient advocate of the claims of Sacred Song on the consideration of an intelligent public.

THE EDITORS.

FORMATION OF TONE.

Sound is the sensation produced by the vibration of the air, or some other medium with which the ear is in contact. There are three words used as describing the sensations produced on the auditory nerve, viz: Sound, Noise, and Tone. Sound is a general term, but Noise and Tone are specific terms. NOISE is that kind of sound which results from irregular, interrupted, and confused vibrations, while TONE results from uniformly even uninterrupted vibrations. TONE, in the human voice, is produced by the exercise of the vocal organ, and other parts called into requisition, in accordance with the design of nature.

A well organized throat seems to be essential to the formation of tone; but a bad voice is oftener the result of neglect, or carelessness on the part of the singer or speaker, than the effect of organic difficulty. In a general sense, tone, or a good voice, must be taught by imitation, as are style in conversation, good manners, and the like.

In the early stages of vocal practice, the pupil should rid the voice of all pectoral, guttural, or nasal qualities, and until this be accomplished, all practice of scales and other exercises may not advance the student, but rather serve to confirm an exceptionable use of the voice.

The pupil should commence his practice by learning to inflate the chest by a single deep and silent inspiration, abstaining carefully from any sighing or sobbing sound, then allowing the breath to escape as slowly and gradually as possible; this should be repeated till the pupil can fill the lungs completely at one effort, and moreover till it come to be a matter of habit.

The learner must stand erectly, resting the weight of the body on both feet equally, and the head must be kept steadily in its proper position, inclining neither to the right nor left; in short, let the attitude be easy and graceful.

Let the tone be formed in the back part of the mouth, behind the veil of the palate, and let it issue unaccompanied by any wheezing, gurgling, or reedy sound. The mouth should be opened sufficiently wide to emit the tone freely, not however so wide as to distort the features. Avoid protruding the lips, adjusting them so as to slightly expose particularly the upper teeth. Ordinarily, huskiness and hoarseness result from an over issue of breath; hence the less amount of breath given to the voice, the more pure will be the tone.

The student should inflate the lungs and check the breath before commencing the tone. The tone must be approached with the slightest possible current of breath,— with certainty and firmness,— still avoiding abruptness. A seemingly natural and fitting position of the mouth must be secured before the tone commences; and no change should take place in the shape of the mouth during the prolongation of tone, that is, supposing the tone to be on one and the same vowel element. Neither should the general position of the mouth change when the tone is increased or diminished; for just in proportion as the mouth changes, so will also change the vowel elements. Hence it is recommended that the pupil form the tone on the following vowels, viz. A, long, as in fate; E, long; O, long; and A, as in far; all of which are single elements, demanding the same position of the mouth in their approach, prolongation, and termination.

The tongue should lie unnerved in its proper place, neither drawn back nor elevated. The tone should be formed without causing any apparent effort, for it is probably true that when the voice is exercised in accordance with the design of nature, it is pure,—costing the singer but little effort, and thereby rendering the tones more grateful to the listener.

In the proper exercise of the voice, the breath contained in the lungs is compressed through the contraction of the muscles of the waist, and forced upward into the Chest, thereby giving a strong impulse to the current of air passing through the trachea. This may be illustrated in part by a pipe Organ, the waist serving as a bellows, the chest as a receiver, or wind chest, the trachea as a pipe, and the head as a reflector or sounding board.

Notwithstanding the many suggestions that may properly be made to the learner in his early stages of practice, it is important, and indeed necessary, to attain excellence in the use of the voice, and form a chaste and finished style in singing, that the pupil should be under the direct instruction of a competent master, who is himself a practical singer, and whose examples are fit models for imitation.

THE THEORY OF MUSICAL NOTATION.

CHAPTER FIRST.

The science of musical notation represents to the mind the physical characteristics or conditions of tones. That quality of a tone which is sometimes described by the words high and low, is defined by the word pitch, and with reference to that quality the first classifications of tones are made. There are three different classifications. The general name applied to each is SCALE. The specific names are the Major, Chromatic, and Minor scales. The Major Scale, of which the present chapter treats, is a classification of eight tones, whose relative pitch is prescribed and established by common consent. The numerical names by which these tones are designated from the lowest one, are one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, and the syllabic names by which they are sung, are Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Si, Do. The word Interval is the technical name applied to the difference of pitch between any two tones. The interval from any tone of the major scale to the next above it is called a second. The intervals between one and two, two and three, four and five, five and six, six and seven, which are alike great, are called major seconds, and those between three and four, and seven and eight, which are alike small, are called minor seconds.

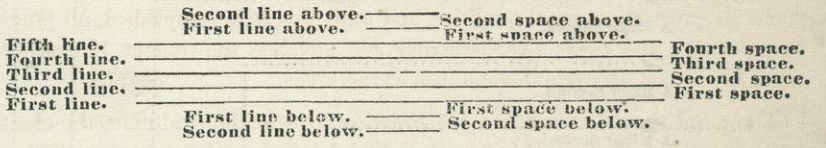
NOTE.—After having gained a good degree of facility in uttering the tones of the scale, should the teacher at this stage of the work exercise the pupils in beating time as they sing the scale from the diagram, he will promote their important interest, and render his own task less difficult.

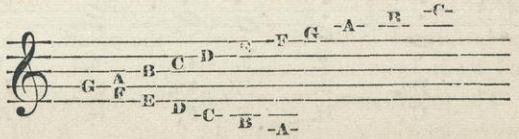
The Staff.

Five horizontal, parallel lines constitute the STAFF, on which most of the musical signs are written. The general name of the lines and the spaces between the lines, is DEGREE. The staff contains nine degrees, viz.: five lines and four spaces. The degrees of the staff are enumerated, as are the tones of the scale, from the lowest upward. The capacity of the staff is extended by adding short lines above or below.

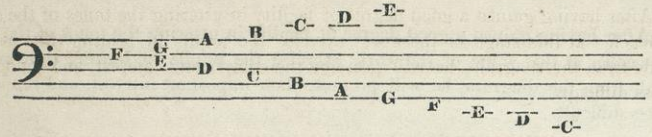
THE STAFF.



The literal names, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, are fixed upon the degrees of the staff by signs, technically called CLEFS. These clefs give the same literal names a different place upon the degrees of the staff The clefs derive their designation from the letter whose place they fix on the staff, and from which the literal reckoning is made upward in alphabetic order, and downward by the inversion of that order. Thus, the G Clef.



The F Clef:



NOTE. — The pitch of a tone is designated by the literal name of the degree of the staff on which the note representing the tone is written. For example, if a note be written on G, the pitch of the tone represented thereby is called G, irrespectively of any other quality that may be imputed to the tone. The clef, is, therefore, essential, for however complete the representation of a tone may be in other respects, in the absence of a clef the notes on the staff have no pitch assigned to them. The need of having two clefs is found in the fact, that the use of only one would incur the necessity of augmenting the staff by the use of short lines to such an extent as to embarrass the reader; whereas, the use of two clefs affords facility for representing the pitch of the tones called into requisition in vocal music, mainly on the staff.

NOTE. — In singing the foregoing and following lessons in this chapter, the teacher will require his class to measure the length of the tones by Two, Three, Four, and Six beats to each tone of the scale, till facility and a good degree of accuracy are obtained in beating time.

The scale may be represented and sing an eighth higher or an eighth lower, in which case, "one" is regarded as eight in connection with tones below, and "eight" as one in connection with tones above.

EXAMPLE 1.

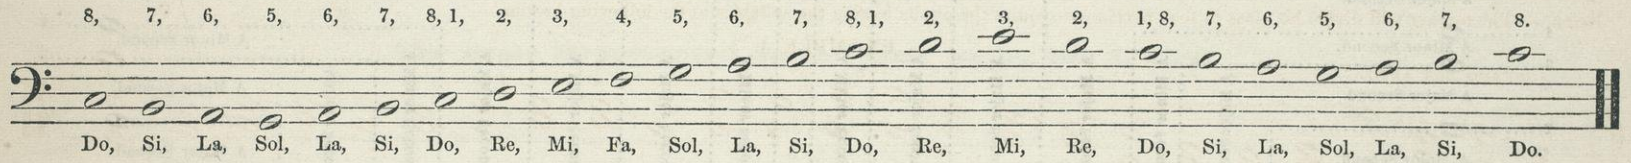
Under the F Clef.

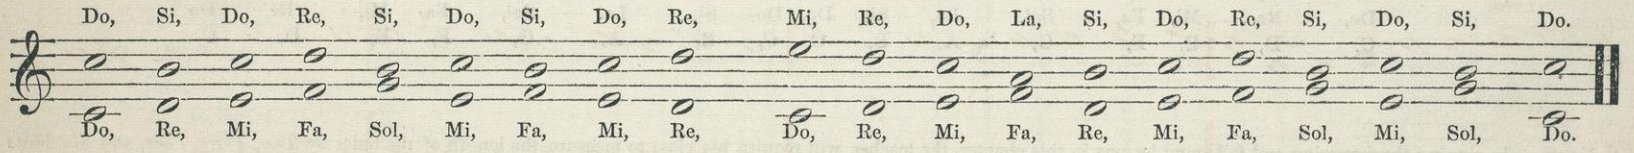


Two parts. Two successions of notes may be written on one staff to be performed at the same time by one or more voices on a part.

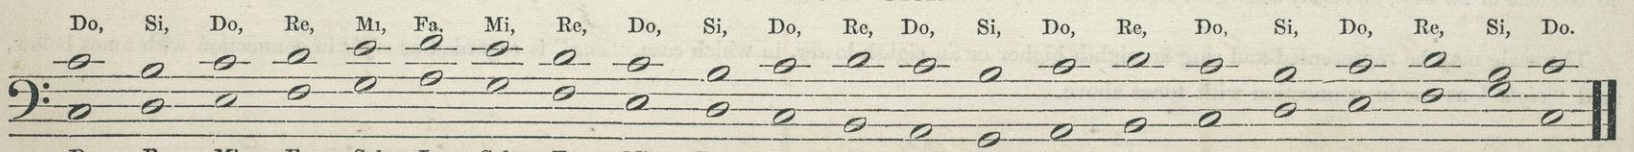
NOTE. — The teacher will at this stage of the work, divide his class into two parts.

EXAMPLE 2.

Under the G Clef.

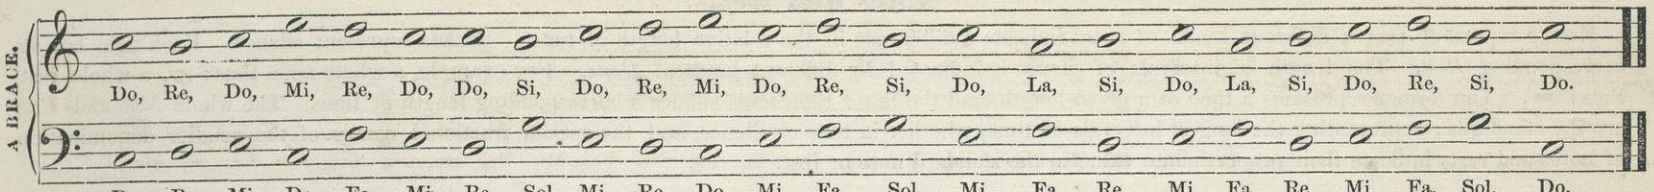


Under the F Clef.



Two parts to be performed simultaneously, may be written one on each of two staves, tied together with a Brace.

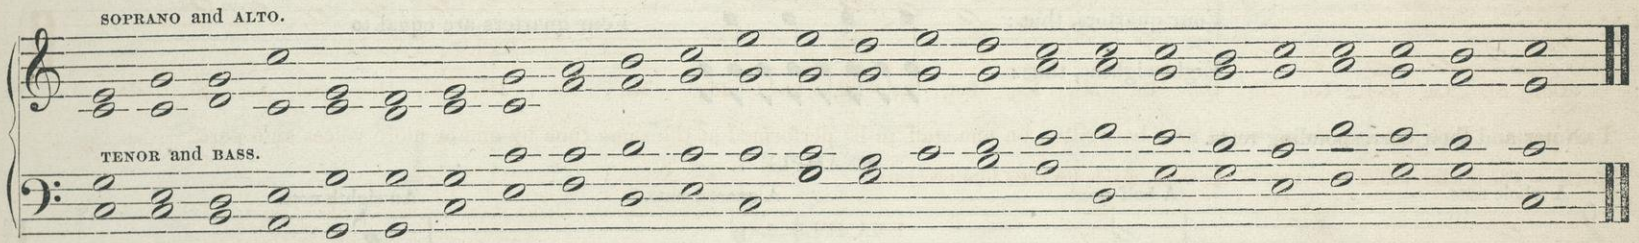
EXAMPLE 3.



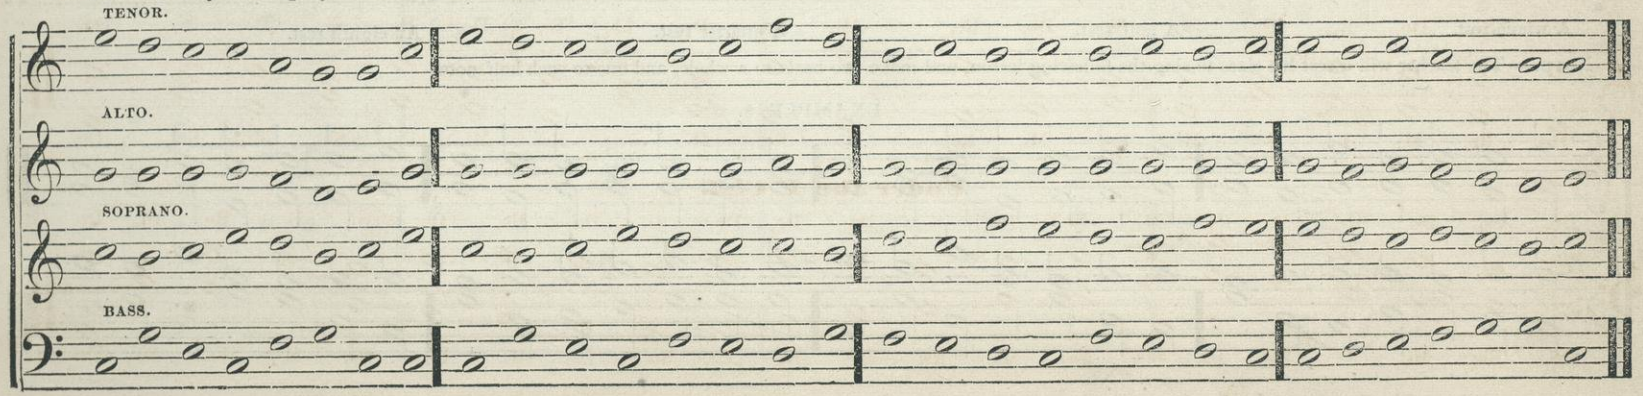
Two parts may be written on each of the two staves, and thereby form parts, Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass may be obtained.

NOTE. — The teacher will divide his class in four parts, and require the pupils to sing the syllables to the following lessons.

EXAMPLE 4.



Four staves may be employed, having but one part on a staff. EXAMPLE 5.



CHAPTER II.

Notes and Rests.

NOTES represent tones; different kinds of notes indicate a difference in the relative length of tones. RESTS represent silence. Each note has its corresponding Rest. The length of intervals of silence is indicated by different kinds of Rests. For example, a whole note, thus: 𝅝, a whole rest, thus: 𝄻. The former represents a tone of a given length, and the latter represents silence a corresponding length of time. The whole Note and Rest are the standards; representing the longest intervals of time, whether in tone or silence, and the special fractional names of the smaller denomination of notes and rests indicate their proportionate value to the standard note or rest.

CHAPTER III.

Measures.

Perpendicular lines across the staff are employed to divide music into measures, whose object is to indicate the accent. Every measure has Two, Three, Four, or Six counts or parts, and one or more accents. If it have two counts, the first is accented, and the second unaccented: if three counts, the first accented, the second and third counts are unaccented: if four counts, the first and third are accented, the second and fourth are unaccented: if it have six counts, the first and fourth are accented, and the second, third, fifth, and sixth counts are unaccented. If a measure have two accented counts, the first is the stronger, or two unaccented counts, the last is the weaker. (See note.)

Each count or part of a measure may be represented by any denomination of note or rest; the custom is, however, to represent it with either a half, quarter, or eighth note or rest.

The number of counts intended for each measure is indicated by the corresponding figure placed on the upper part of the staff next to the clef; if two, thus: if three, thus: if four, thus: and if six, thus:  The denomination or kind of note or rest, by which each count is intended to be represented, is indicated by a figure corresponding to its fractional name, placed on the lower part of the staff next to the clef, under that indicating the number of counts in the measure, thus:  or thus: or thus:  or thus: or thus: or thus:  or thus: or thus:  or thus:

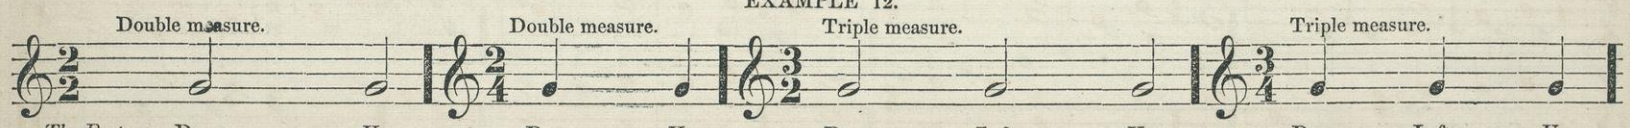
NOTE.—The object of measures, rhythmical divisions, is to obviate that monotony in the force of tones which would arise from the absence of accentuation, and a still greater variety in the degree of force of tone is afforded by different kinds of measures, each having its peculiar, characteristic accent. The degrees of force as indicated by the different kinds of measure may be described thus:

Double measure. Loud, Soft.
Triple measure. Loud, Soft, Softer.
Quadruple measure. Loud, Soft, Less loud, Softer.
Sextuple measure. Loud, Soft, Softer, Less loud, Softer, Softest.

Beating time is a mode of measuring the length of tone as represented by notes, or intervals of silence as represented by rests. The custom is to make one motion of the hand to each count in a measure, thus: if a measure have two counts, the beats are, a downward motion of the hand to the first count in the measure, and an upward motion to the second count, and these motions are repeated to each measure. If a measure have three counts the beats are thus: Down, Left, Up; if four, Down, Left, Right, Up; and if six counts, Down, Down, Left, Right, Up, Up.

NOTE. — The teacher will caution his pupils against indulging extended motions of the hand in beating time, as a more prescribed motion, will secure greater accuracy in the measurement of time.

EXAMPLE 12.



The Beats. — Down,	Up.	Down,	Up.	Down,	Left,	Up.	Down,	Left,	Up.
The Counts. — One,	Two.	One,	Two.	One,	Two,	Three.	One,	Two,	Three.
The Accents. — Loud,	Soft.	Loud,	Soft.	Loud,	Soft,	Softer.	Loud,	Soft,	Softer.

A Dot after a note or rest, thus: 𝅗𝅥· or thus: 𝄼· adds one half to its original value. Such notes are called dotted whole and half notes, and dotted whole and half rests, etc.

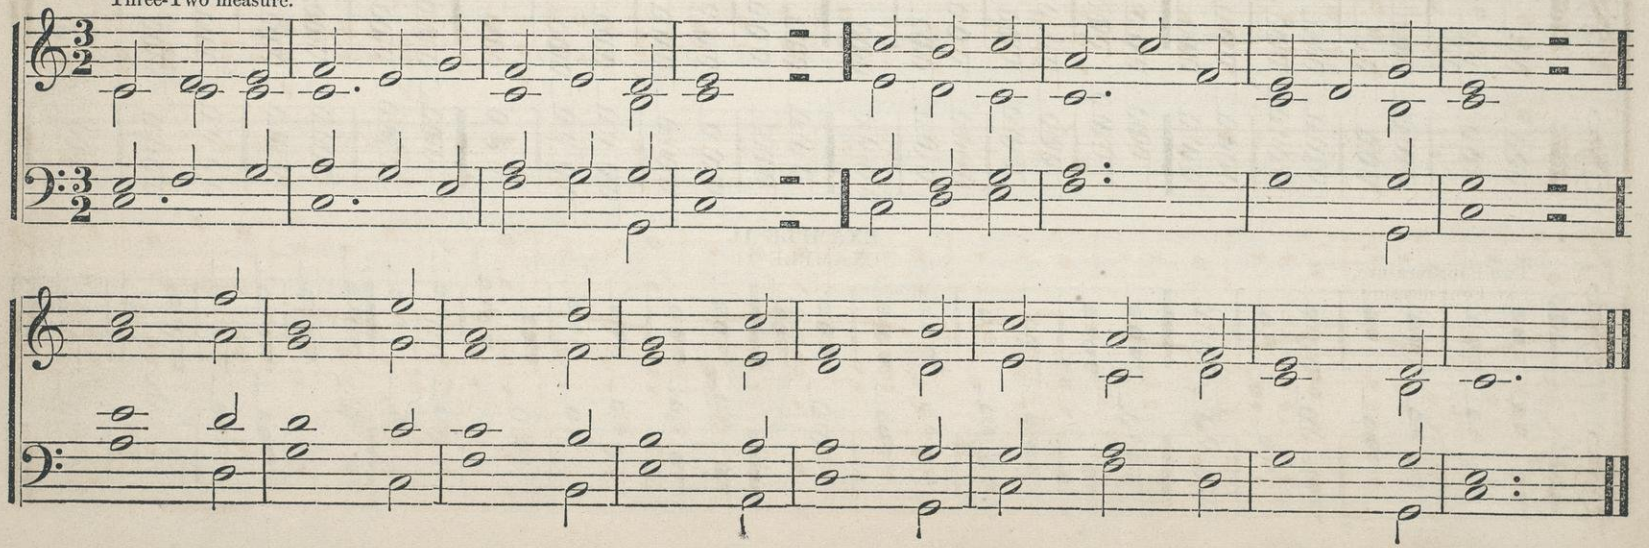
DOTTED NOTES AND RESTS.

EXAMPLE 16.

Three-Two measure.



NOTE.—The teacher will instruct his class by precept as well as example to sing these lessons in a smooth, even, connected manner, and also, to carefully regard the Intonation, Time, and Accent, and the Articulation, in the utterance of the syllables.

EXAMPLE 16.

EXAMPLE 17.

When two notes having the same pitch are tied together they represent but one tone, and in case the second of the two notes thus tied be on the strong part of the measure, the accent which would otherwise belong to it, is transferred, to the first.

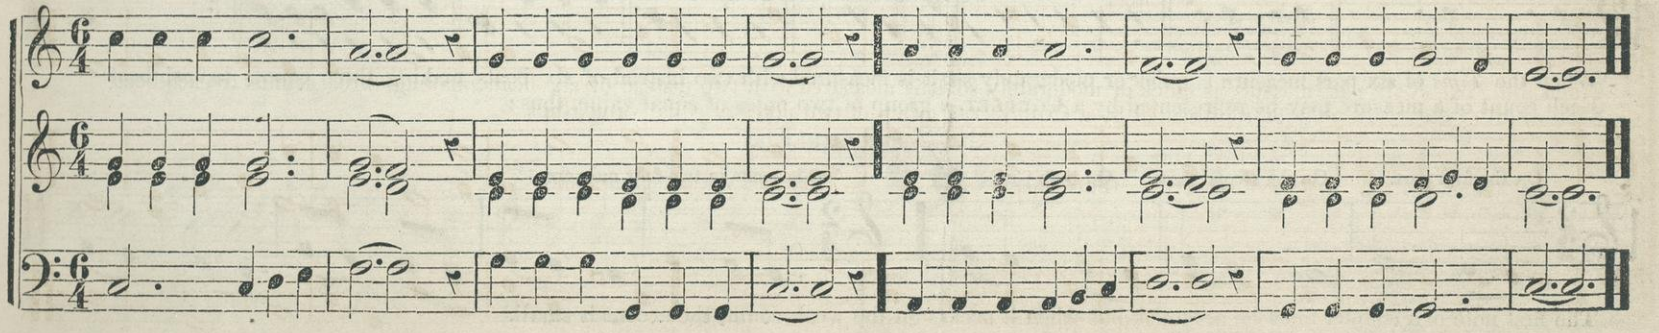
EXAMPLE 23.



EXAMPLE 24.

When the Time of six part measure is quick or moderately so, it is measured with two instead of six beats, making three counts to each beat. Each count of a measure may be represented by a COUPLET, a group of two notes of equal value, thus:

EXAMPLE 25.

The first note of a couplet must be accented, but when it occurs on the weak count, the accent is small.

EXAMPLE 26.

Couplets in Double measure.

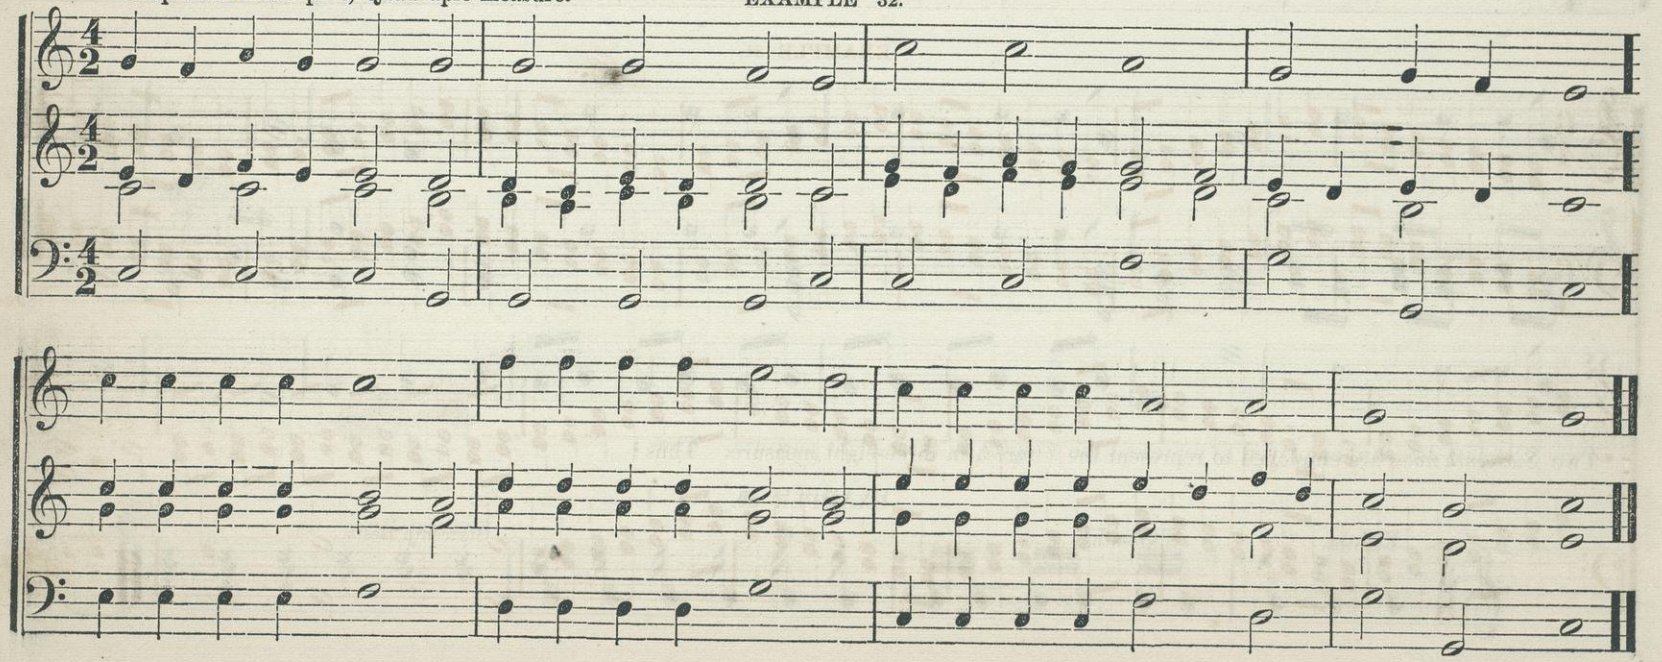
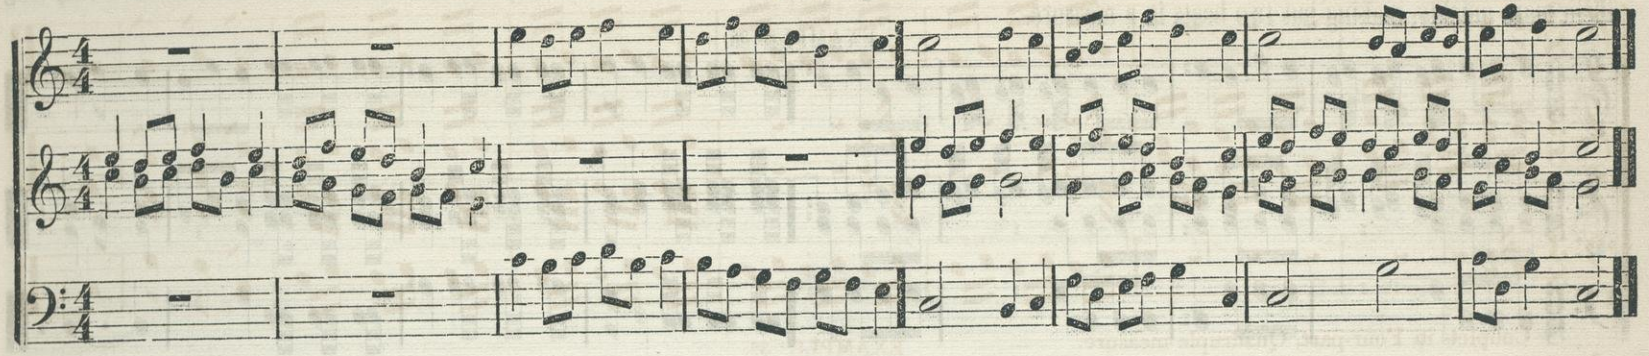
EXAMPLE 32.



EXAMPLE 33.



EXAMPLE 34.

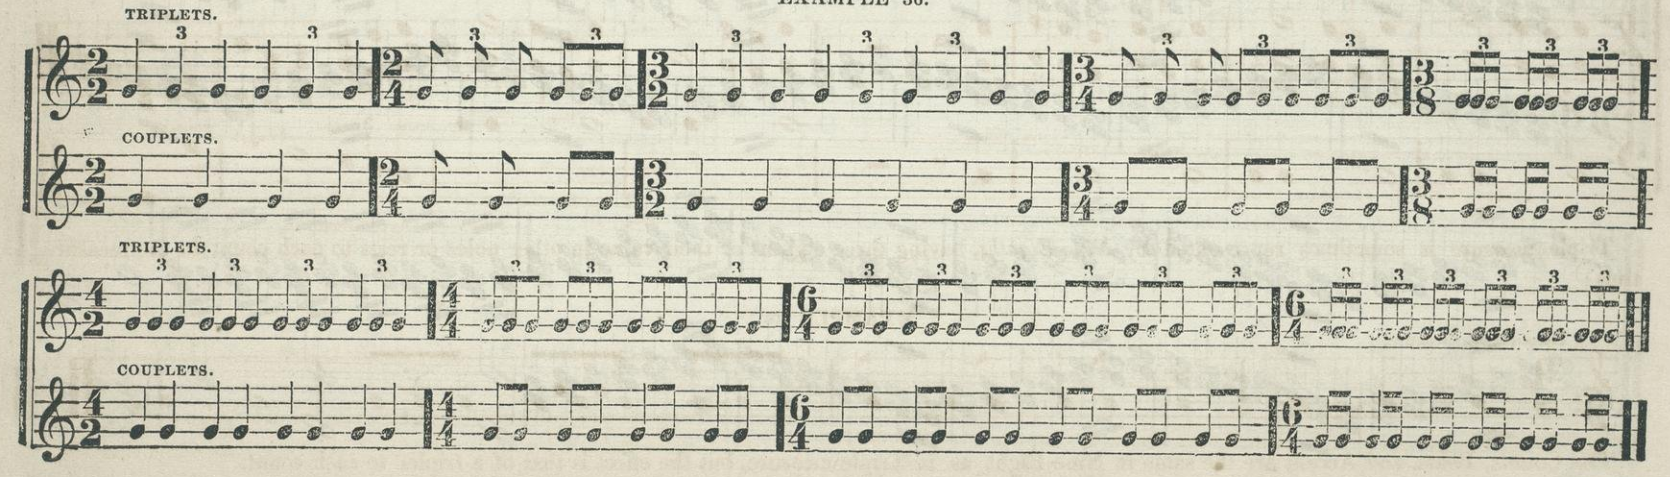
Examples Nos. 34 and 35 should be sung in very slow time, making one beat to a count, till accuracy and ease are attained: then the class may sing them more quickly, making but two beats in a measure.

EXAMPLE 35.

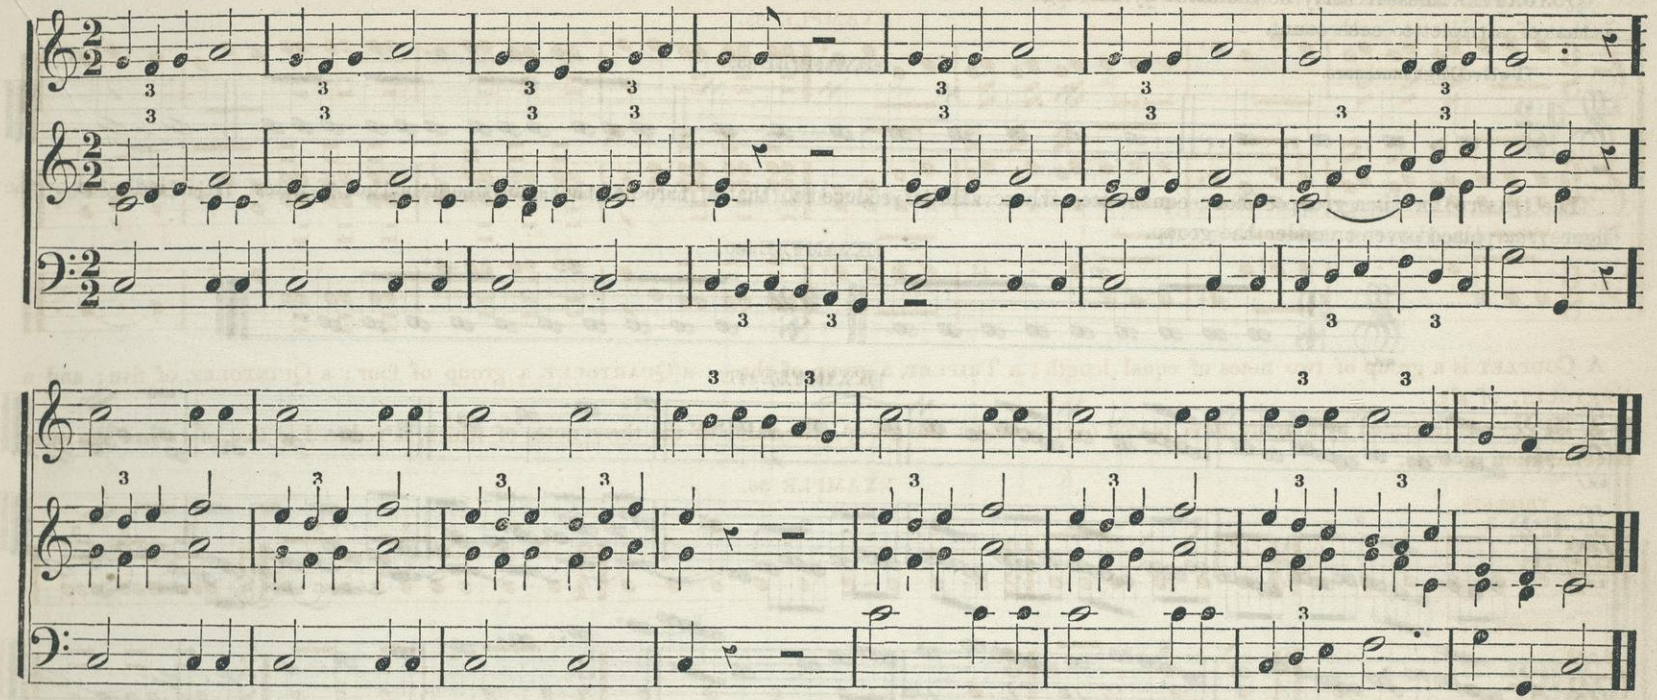
A COUPLET is a group of two notes of equal length; a TRIPLET, a group of three; a QUARTOLET, a group of four; a QUINTOLET, of five; and a SEXTOLET, of six.

A TRIPLET is indicated by a figure three placed over or under the group, the value of the three notes of which, is reduced to that of two of the same denomination of note.

EXAMPLE 36.



EXAMPLE 37.



Triple measure is sometimes represented by Nine-Eighths, having three eighths or their value in other notes or rests to each count in the measure, thus:

EXAMPLE 38.

Nine-Eight measure.

The Counts, Beats, and Accent are the same in Nine-Eight as in Triple measure, but the effect is that of a triplet to each count.

QUADRUPLE measure may be indicated by the Figures TWELVE-EIGHT, in which case, the Counts, Beats, and Accents are the same, while the effect is that of a triplet to each count.

Twelve-Eight measure.

EXAMPLE 39.

The QUARTOLET is a group of four equal notes, whose value is reduced to that of three of the same denomination of notes. It is indicated by the figure four placed over or under the group.

EXAMPLE 40.

EXAMPLE 41.

CHAPTER III.

The Chromatic Scale.

The major seconds of the scale admit of intermediate, available tones. The notes representing these intermediate tones may be written on the degree with the higher or the lower of the two notes, between which, the major second occurs. The minor seconds are indivisible intervals.

The Chromatic Scale calls into requisition all the available tones between and inclusive of One and Eight of the major scale. A sharp, thus: ♯ is placed before a note whose pitch represents the next available tone above that which it would otherwise represent. A Flat, thus: ♭ is placed before a note whose pitch represents the next available tone below that which it would otherwise represent.

NOTE.—A Chromatic interval is represented by two notes on the same degree, and a Second by two notes on adjoining degrees. The chromatic interval and the minor second may seem to be intervals of the same magnitude, but inasmuch as the notes forming the intervals sustain a different relation to each other, it is important to give to each interval a name appropriate to that relation.

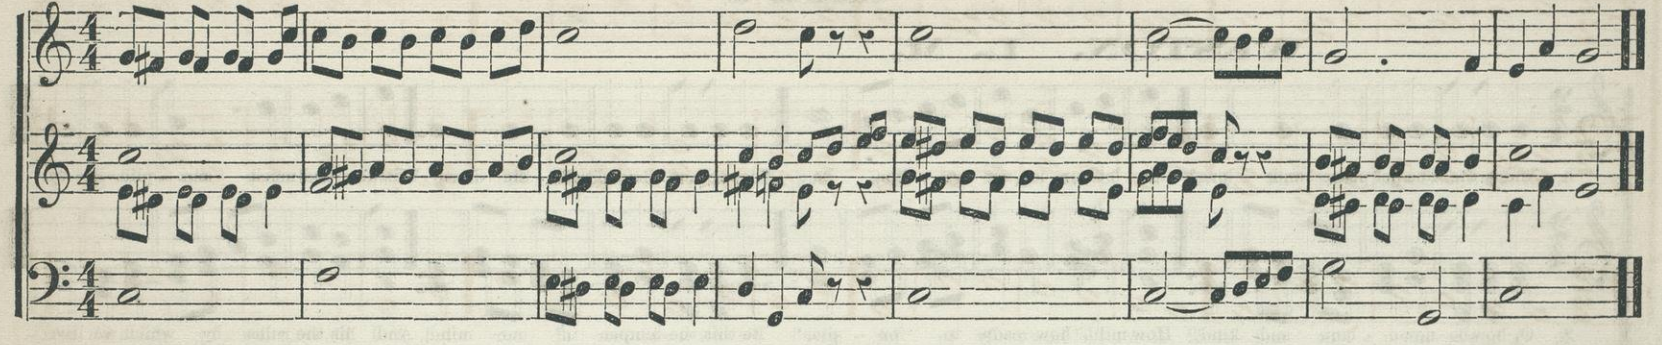
EXAMPLE 47.



A Sharp, Flat or Natural before a note extends its influence only through the measure, except when it is placed before the last note in the measure, and the first note in the next measure, is on the same degree with the note before which the sharp, flat, or natural is placed.

The MINOR SCALE is a classification of Eight tones, the order and names of whose seconds are as follows: From One to two, a Major second; from two to three, a Minor, from three to four, Major, from four to five, Major, from five to six, Minor; from six to seven, Augmented; and from seven to eight, a Minor second. The intervals are the same between the same numerals, ascending and descending. To one and eight, the first and last tones of the Minor scale is applied the syllable La, from which the syllables succeed each other just as they do in the Major scale, save that the seventh of the Minor scale is called Si.

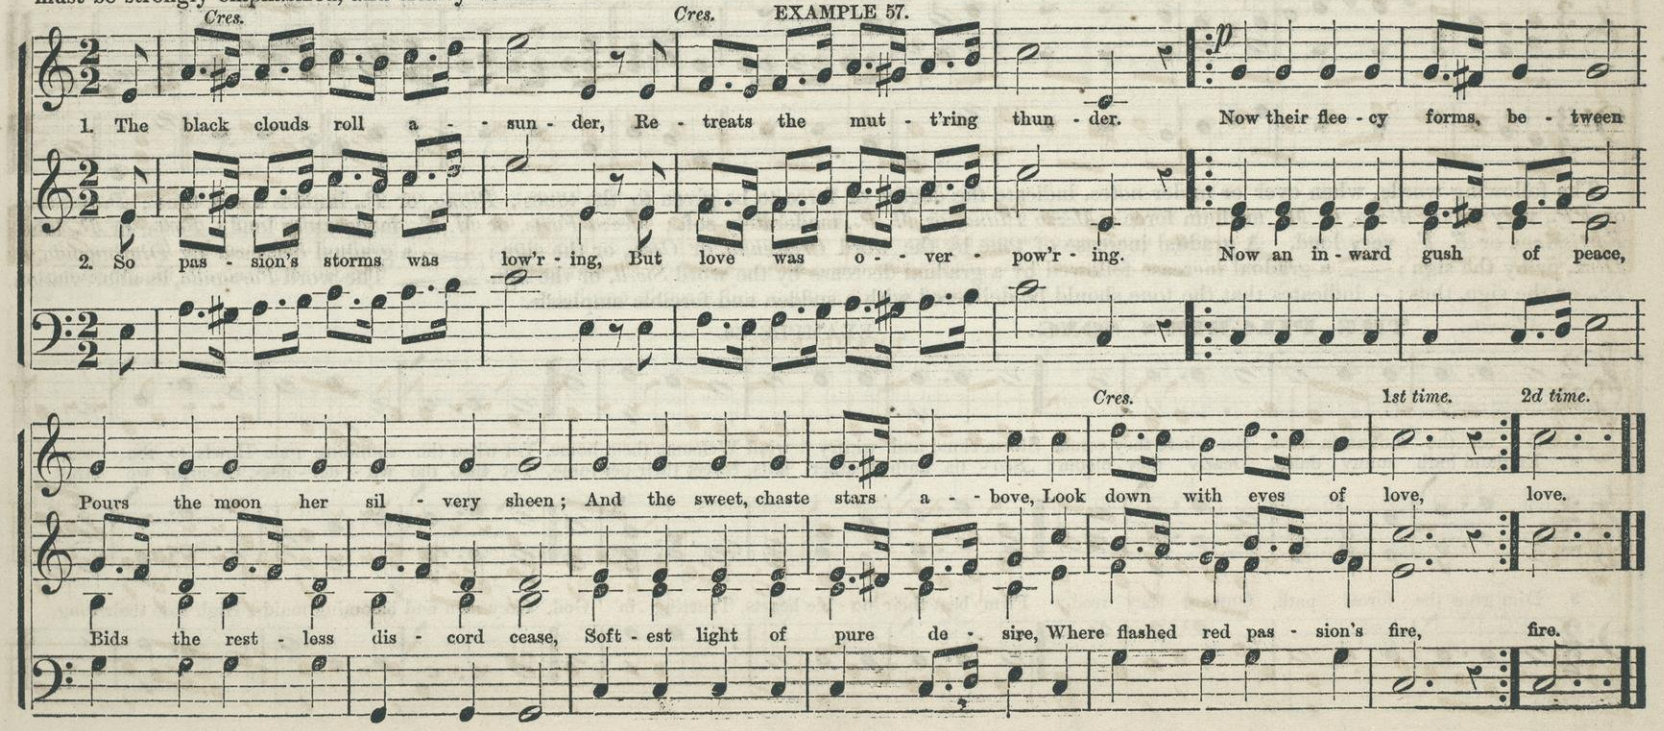
EXAMPLE 57.



The dots after the first and before the second double bars, in Examples 57, imply that the music between should be sung twice. They are called a REPEAT. The second of two dots after a note or rest, adds one half of the value of the first dot to the note or rest.

EXAMPLE 58.

P.*, moderately soft; Mezzo Forte, or M. F., moderately loud; Forte, or F., loud; Fortissimo, or F. F., very loud. A gradual increase of tone by the word Crescendo, or Cres., or the sign; a gradual decrease by Diminuendo, or Dim., or by the sign; a gradual increase followed by a gradual decrease by the word Swell, or the sign. The word Forzando, its abbreviation, Fz., or the sign, thus: indicates that the tone should be delivered with a sudden and forcible emphasis.

CHAPTER IV.

The Transposition of the Scale.

The KEY of the scale is the letter on which the first note of it is written. The syllable Do, is always applied to One, the key-note of the Major, and the syllable La to One, the key-note of the Minor Scale. When the first note of the major scale is written on any other letter than C, it is transposed into the key of that letter, and the individual tones of the scale are just as much higher or lower as the new key-note is above or below the letter C. The Numerals and Syllables change their places on the staff, but the letters remaining as fixed by the clef. The only change that takes place in the scale is that of pitch, the original order and kind of seconds is effected by the means of Sharps and Flats. The sign for the key-note, or SIGNATURE, is the number of sharps or flats necessary to effect the order of the seconds of the scale, reckoning from that key-note. It is written on the staff next to the clef.

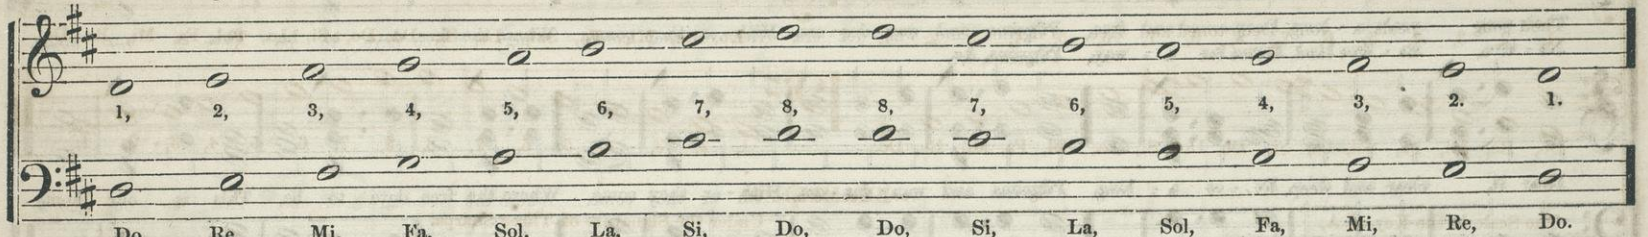
EXAMPLE 61.

The Scale in the key of D.

The Sign, or Signature for the scale in the key of D, is the two sharps called into requisition, on F, and C, placed next to the clef on their respective letters, thus:

Under the Signature of Two Sharps.

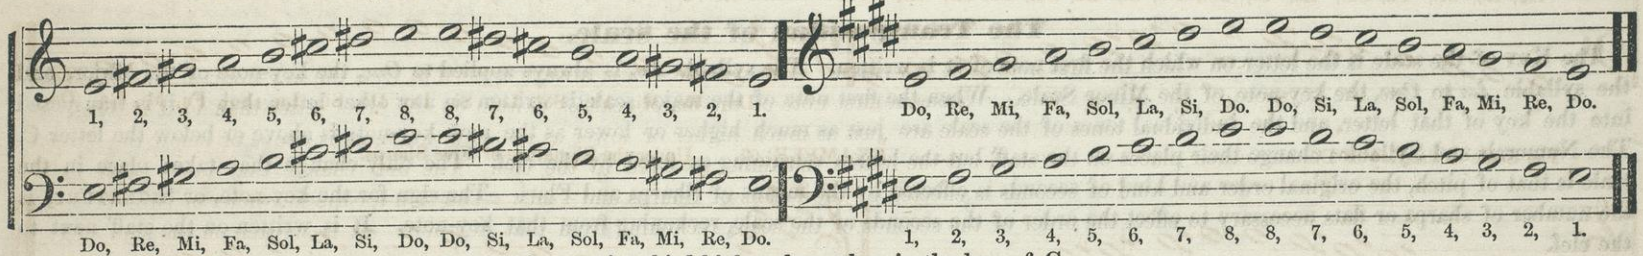
EXAMPLE 62.



Not only are the notes on the individual degree with the sharp in the signature effected, but every note higher or lower on any degree having the same literal name. The scale in the key of D, is a major second higher than when in the key of C.

EXAMPLE 63.

The Scale in the Key of E. wherein F♯, C♯, G♯, and D♯ are called into requisition.



The scale in E, is two major seconds, that is, a major third higher than when in the key of C.

EXAMPLE 66.

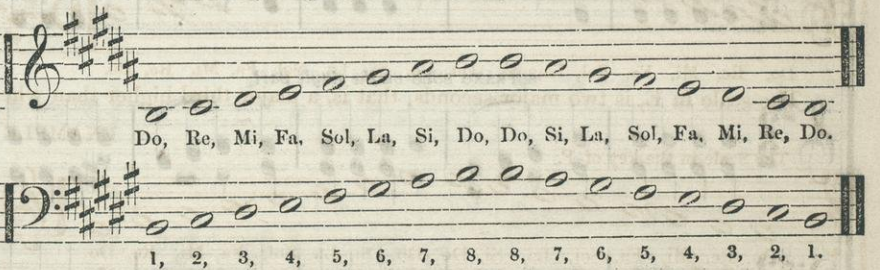
EXAMPLE 67. Under the Signature of Five Sharps.



The last six Examples are intended to illustrate the principle involved in the transposition of the scale, and now a more practical prosecution of the work suggests taking those keys in order that call into requisition the smallest number of flats and sharps.

EXAMPLE 68.

In the key of G, Signature One Sharp.

The Minor scale under the signature of one sharp begins on E, and D, the seventh of the scale is made sharp by an accidental, to produce the augmented second between Six and Seven, and the Minor second between Seven and Eight of the scale.

The Minor scale in the key of E, and the Major scale in the key of G, are used in common with each other under the same signature, the former is therefore said to be the relative Minor of the latter Major key.

1. With songs and honours sounding loud, Address the Lord on high; O-ver the heavens he spreads his cloud, And waters veil the sky.
2. His steady counsels change the face Of the de-clining year; He bids the sun cut short his race, And wintry days ap-pear.
3. He sends his word, and melts the snow; The fields no longer mourn: He calls the warmer gales to blow, And bids the spring return.
He sends his show'rs of blessings down To cheer the plains be-low; He makes the grass the mountains crown, And corn in val-leys grow.
His hoa-ry frost, his flee-cy snow De-scend and clothe the ground; The liquid streams forbear to flow, In i-cy fet-ters bound.
The changing wind, the fly-ing cloud O-bey his migh-ty word: With songs and honours sounding loud, Praise ye the sovereign Lord.

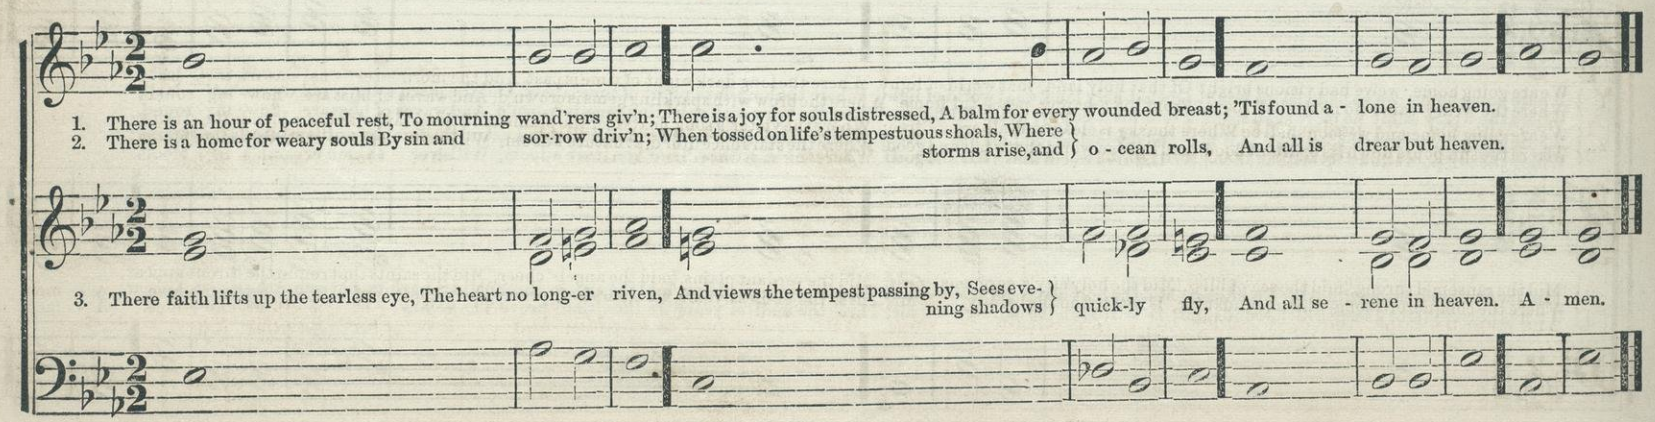
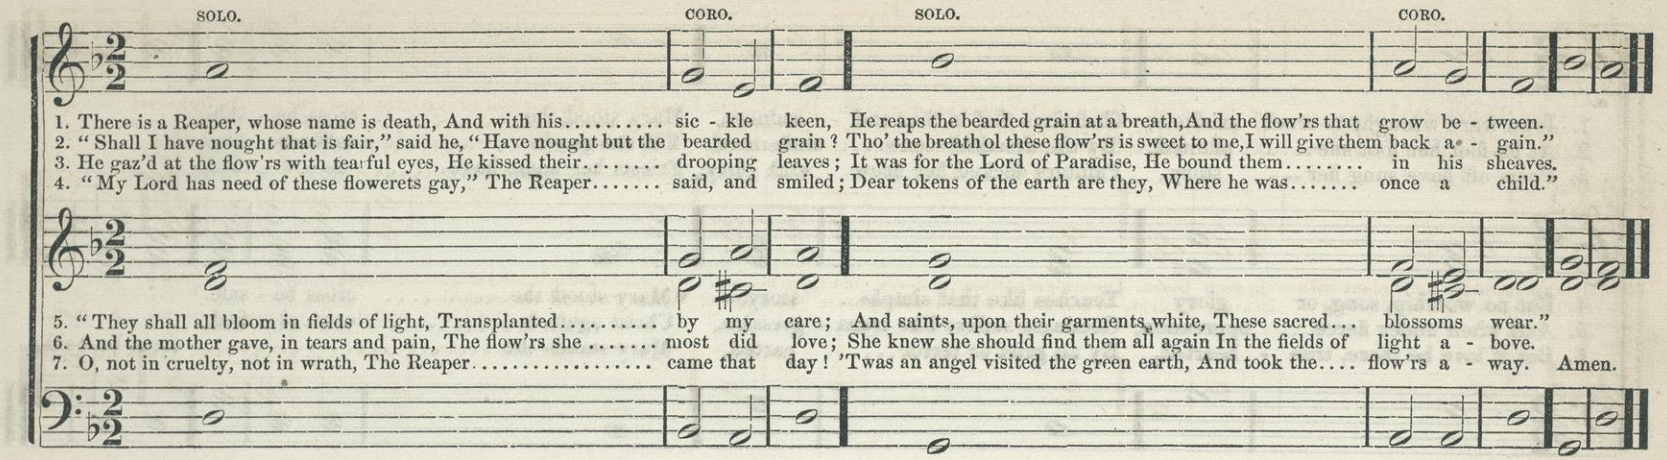
(9, 6, 9, 6.)

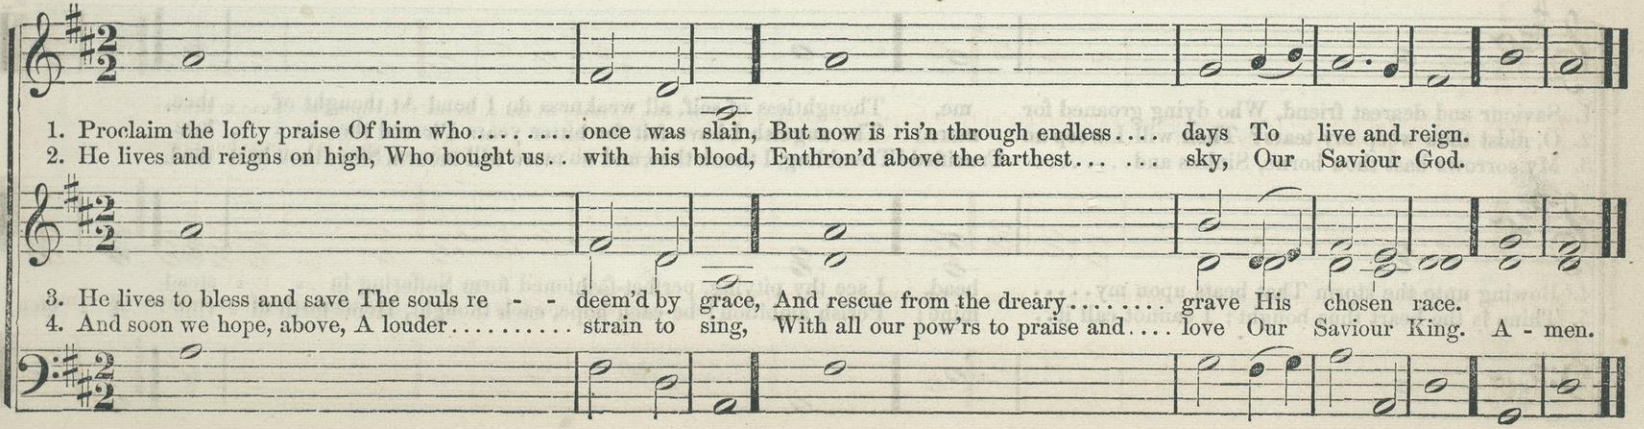




1. There is a Reaper, whose name is death, And with his..... sic - kle keen, He reaps the bearded grain at a breath, And the flow'rs that grow be - tween.
2. "Shall I have nought that is fair," said he, "Have nought but the bearded grain? Tho' the breath of these flow'rs is sweet to me, I will give them back a - gain."
3. He gaz'd at the flow'rs with tearful eyes, He kissed their..... drooping leaves; It was for the Lord of Paradise, He bound them..... in his sheaves.
4. "My Lord has need of these flowerets gay," The Reaper..... said, and smiled; Dear tokens of the earth are they, Where he was..... once a child."

5. "They shall all bloom in fields of light, Transplanted..... by my care; And saints, upon their garments white, These sacred... blossoms wear."
6. And the mother gave, in tears and pain, The flow'rs she ..... most did love; She knew she should find them all again In the fields of light a - bove.
7. O, not in cruelty, not in wrath, The Reaper..... came that day! 'Twas an angel visited the green earth, And took the.... flow'rs a - way. Amen.

HYMN CHANT. "Proclaim the lofty praise." 6s, 8s & 4s.



1. Proclaim the lofty praise Of him who..... once was slain, But now is ris'n through endless.... days To live and reign.
2. He lives and reigns on high, Who bought us.. with his blood, Enthron'd above the farthest... ... sky, Our Saviour God.

3. He lives to bless and save The souls re - - deem'd by grace, And rescue from the dreary..... grave His chosen race.
4. And soon we hope, above, A louder..... strain to sing, With all our pow'rs to praise and.... love Our Saviour King. A - men.

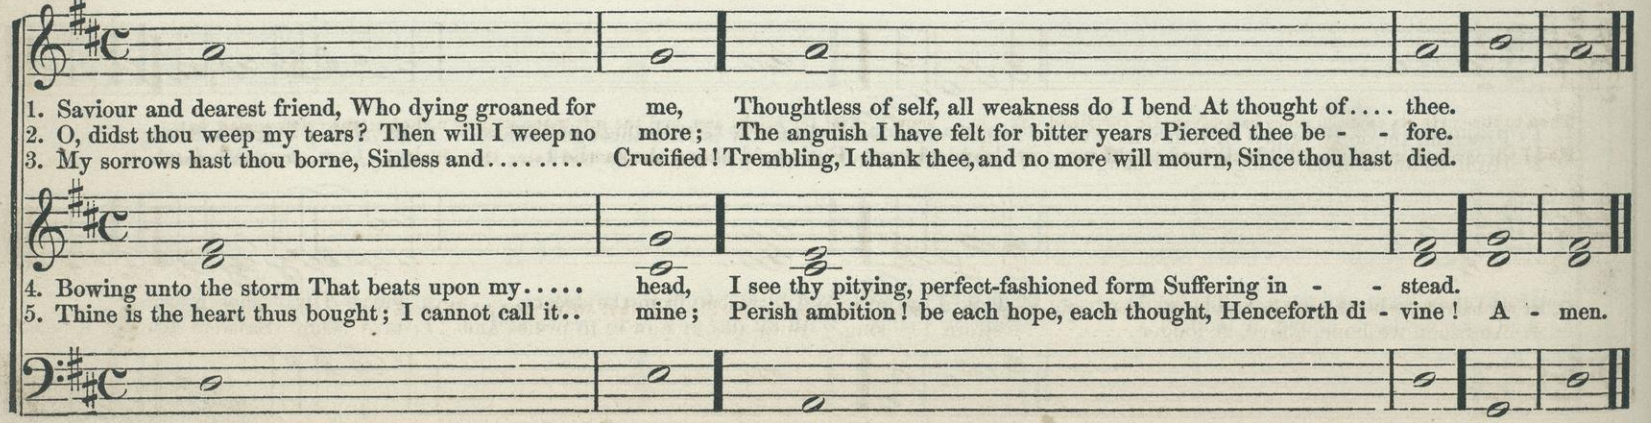
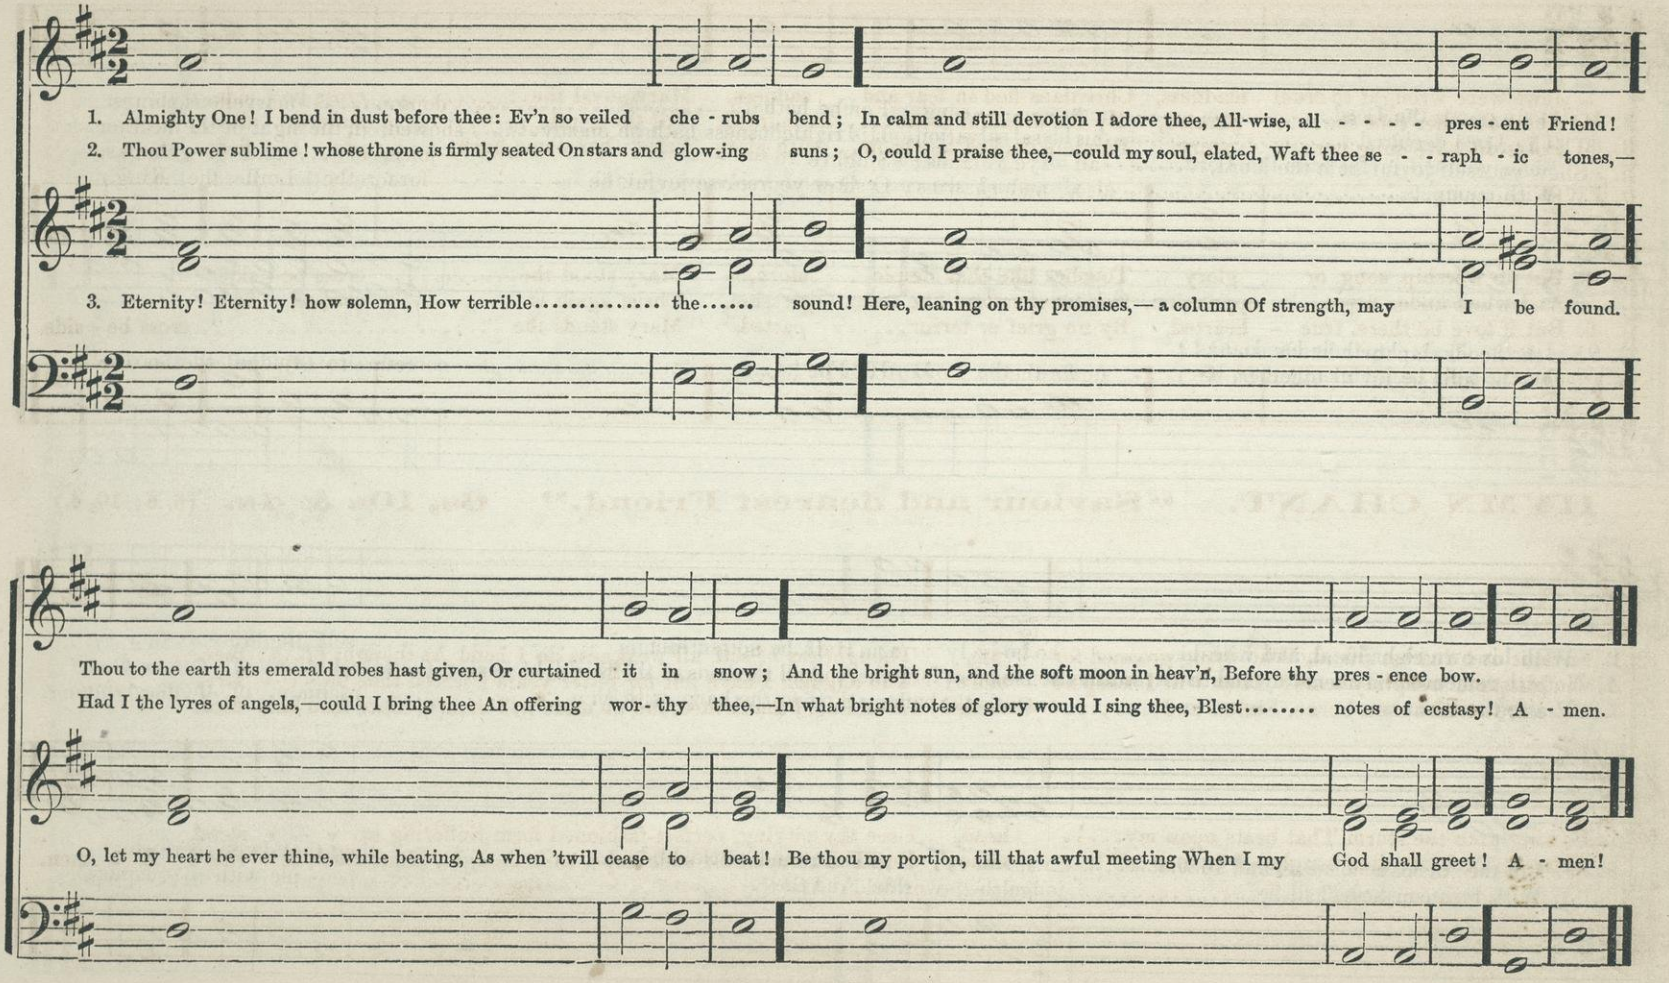
HYMN CHANT. "Saviour and dearest Friend." 6s, 10s & 4s. (6, 6; 10, 4.)





1. Almighty One! I bend in dust before thee: Ev'n so veiled che - rubs bend; In calm and still devotion I adore thee, All-wise, all - - - - pres - ent Friend!
2. Thou Power sublime! whose throne is firmly seated On stars and glow-ing suns; O, could I praise thee,—could my soul, elated, Waft thee se - - raph - ic tones,—
3. Eternity! Eternity! how solemn, How terrible..... the..... sound! Here, leaning on thy promises,— a column Of strength, may I be found.
Thou to the earth its emerald robes hast given, Or curtained it in snow; And the bright sun, and the soft moon in heav'n, Before thy pres - ence bow.
Had I the lyres of angels,—could I bring thee An offering wor - thy thee,—In what bright notes of glory would I sing thee, Blest..... notes of ecstasy! A - men.
O, let my heart be ever thine, while beating, As when 'twill cease to beat! Be thou my portion, till that awful meeting When I my God shall greet! A - men!

Kind friends we meet again..... 49

Launch thy bark mariner 213
Let all the earth their voices raise. 153, 151
Let every tongue thy goodness speak.. 117
Let not despair nor fell revenge 117
Let them neglect thy glory, Lord..... 130
Let us with a joyful mind 175
Lift not thou the wailing voice..... 230
Lift your glad voices in triumph on... 242
Look ye saints, the sight is glorious... 195
Long as I live, I'll bless thy name.... 125
Lord, before thy presence come....174, 172
Lord, before thy throne we bend..... 170
Lord dismiss us with thy blessing 185
Lord, I will bless thee all my days.... 82
Lord of heaven and earth and ocean.. 186
Lord of the Sabbath, hear our vows .. 79
Lord of the worlds above 164, 162
Lord, thou hast seen my soul sincere.. 88
Lord, we adore thy vast designs..... 89
Lord, we come before thee now..... 173
Lord, what offering shall we bring.... 180
Lord, with fervor I would praise thee . 191
Lord, when thou didst ascend on...69, 100
Lowly and solemn be 206

Mark the soft falling snow..... 163
Mighty Jehovah..... 278
My dear Redeemer and my Lord. 94, 97, 99
My faith looks up to thee..... 205
My God! all nature owns thy sway... 70
My God, in whom are all the springs . 96
My God, my portion, and my love.... 116
My God, permit me not to be 82
My God, thy boundless love I praise .. 156
My gracious God, how plain..... 146
My soul, how lovely is the place..... 110
My soul repeat his praise..... 132
My country, 'tis of thee..... 209
My soul, go boldly forth 209

Nearer, my God, to thee 207
No change of time shall ever shock ... 84
Not all the nobles of the earth 79, 94
Not with our mortal eyes..... 145
Now be my heart inspired to sing..... 86
Now to the Lord a noble song ..78, 91, 102

O come, loud anthems let us sing..... 90
O could I speak the matchless worth.. 155
O could we speak 154

O God, be merciful 266
Oh! bless the Lord, my soul..... 136
O God our Father..... 275
Oh cease, my wandering soul 142
Oh! for a closer walk with God 127
Oh for a thousand tongues to sing.... 114
Oh 'twas a joyful sound to hear 122
O lead me to the rock..... 139
O Lord we hear..... 292
On the mountain's top appearing..... 193
O praise the Lord 327
O sing unto the Lord a new song..... 252
O swift we go o'er the fleecy snow.... 63
O that the Lord would guide my ways. 114
O thou from whom all goodness flows. 128
O thou that hear'st the prayer of faith. 157
Our Father, God, who art in heaven.. 118
Our Father, who art in heaven.
(Lord's Prayer.) 340
Our Saviour alone..... 201
Our sins, alas! how strong they are!.. 130
Our sins, alas! how strong they be!.. 118
O where shall rest be found.....137, 141
Over the mountain wave 36
O swift we go o'er the fleecy snow.... 63
O praise ye the Lord, prepare a new.. 241
O here if ever, God of love..... 115
O thou who hearest prayer 212

Part in peace, is day before us 183
Plead thou, oh plead my cause 208
Praise to the Lord of boundless might. 98
Praise ye the Lord on every height ... 120
Protect us through the coming night.. 299
Praise God from whom all blessings .. 100
Proclaim the lofty praise..... 249

Quiet, Lord, my froward heart 180

Rock of ages cleft for me..... 179
Rise my soul, and stretch thy wings .. 225

Sacred day, forever blest 168
Saints for whom the Saviour bled 223
Save me from my foes..... 200
Saviour and dearest friend..... 250
Saviour breathe an evening blessing .. 188
Saviour, I my cross have taken..... 183
Saviour, source of every blessing..... 188
Saviour, 'tis to thee 202
See Israel's gentle Shepherd stand.120, 125
See the leaves around us falling..... 187
Shall wisdom cry aloud 150
Sinner come, 'mid thy gloom 197
Sing to the Lord who loud proclaims.72, 93
Sing ye redeemed of the Lord..... 111
So fades the lovely blooming flower... 81
Softly the shade of evening falls 83
Softly now the light of day.....272, 296
Sing, O ye heavens 330
Spread through the earth..... 307
Sweet day, so cool, so bright..... 232
Sweet is the memory of thy grace.... 127
Sweet is the task, O Lord....138, 139, 142

Take my heart, O Father take it 184
Teach us to pray..... 199
The black clouds roll asunder..... 35
The heavens declare thy glory Lord. 81, 83
The King of saints! how fair his face. 87
The lark his flight is winging..... 64
The Lord descended from above..... 123
The Lord gave the word 312
The Lord is King, His praise I'll sing. 198
The Lord Jehovah reigns 158
The Lord my pasture shall prepare..74, 76
The Lord's prayer. (Our Father, &c.) 340
The perfect world by Adam trod...92, 322
The pity of the Lord 135
The sun had sunk in the crimson west. 45
There is a God, all nature speak 98
There is a happy land..... 210
There's a charm in the spring when .. 54
There was joy in heaven 203
The spacious firmament on high 73
They who seek the throne of grace ... 167
This is the day the Lord hath made... 124
This spacious earth is all the Lord's .. 85
Thou whom my soul admires above... 93
Through all the changing scenes of... 115
The uplifted eye and bended knee 80
Thus far the Lord hath led me on 85
Thus saith the high and lofty one. ..88, 89
'Tis finished! so the Saviour cried.... 90
'Tis midnight, and on Olive's brow... 78
To bless thy chosen race 140
To-day the Saviour calls 204
Thy goodness, Lord, our souls confess.. 128
This world is not a fleeting show 234
There is a calm for those who weep... 232
The winter is over and gone 237
'Tis not the gift, but 'tis the spirit.... 238
The Lord is our Shepherd, our guardian. 228
Teach me, O Lord 255, 264
They that sow in tears..... 262
The Lord will comfort Zion 314, 317
The Lord is in his holy temple....274, 287
The Reaper and the flowers..... 249
There is an hour of peaceful rest 248

Teach me the measure of my days.... 104
The Lord is my Shepherd 353
Up to the fields where angels lie..... 101
Unto thee, O Lord 336

Wake the song of Jubilee 174
Watchman! tell us of the night..... 177
We bless the Lord, the just, the good . 95
Were not the sinful Mary's tears. 119
When doubts and fears prevailing rise. 87
When I can trust my all with God.... 165
When the worn spirit wants repose... 112
Where shall we make her grave 206
Where art thou, beam of light 52
While my Redeemer's near 147
Who shall ascend thy heavenly place. 86, 96
Why lament the Christian dying 186
With humble heart and tongue 149
With songs and honors sounding loud. 107
Welcome May, the robins sing 50
What's this that steals upon my frame. 231
Watchman, onward to your station... 236
With silence only as their benediction. 243
When the vale of death appears 119
Work, and thou wilt bless the day.... 222
When shall we meet again..... 211
Will not that joyful be 216
When the sun gloriously comes forth . 285

Ye Christian heralds, go, proclaim ... 80
Ye servants of the Lord 137, 141
Ye tribes of Adam join 161
Your harps, ye trembling saints..... 148
Ye angels who stand round the throne. 237
Ye sons of Freedom, wake to glory... 42
Ye simple souls 217

The Successful Music Book of the Season.

SONGS OF THE TEMPLE:

A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymn Tunes, Chants, Sentences, Motets, and Anthems,

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Composed and Arranged for the Use of Christian Churches of all Denominations. Adapted to the Wants of Musical Associations, Conventions, and the Home Circle. Together with

A COMPLETE THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL SYSTEM OF ELEMENTARY INSTRUCTION,

For Singing Schools and the Individual Student,

By B. F. BAKER and J. F. FARGO.

For Conventions and Choirs.

The 15th Thousand of this popular work is now ready. It is pronounced by many of the ablest New England Conductors the best new music book for conventions and choirs now before the musical public.

Boston, Sept. 16, 1868.

Western News Co. Gents: After having carefully examined the new music book, Songs of the Temple, published by you, it gives me great pleasure to add another to the many testimonials you have already received as to its beauty and value. The use of this book in the church, both for choir and congregational singing, will, I am convinced, from the inherent quality of the music, and the admirable selection of Hymns and Tunes, give force and dignity to the office of praise, and make it that powerful instrumentality in the church so much to be desired.

Yours, truly, Nathan Barker,
Director of Music at Dr. Neale's Church, Boston.

For Singing Schools.

A letter just received from a gentleman of eminent musical abilities, says,

"The examination of Songs of the Temple is highly satisfactory. The music is of a high order; it being a decided advance on the sacred music books of late. The typography is excellent. Every page affords satisfaction to the ear, and delights the eye. The style and binding are the best I ever saw, and I do not hesitate to express my unqualified preference for your book."

Another letter says,

"In Songs of the Temple we find little for mere show or 'effect,' little that has the color of secular melodies, but the rather, a conscientious effort to give to the great mass of 'meeting-going people' such music as shall be a suitable medium of praise."

Now is the time to make arrangements for Singing Schools for the coming fall and winter.
Specimens for examination sent free on receipt of $1.00.
