REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF ALUMNI OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE ACTION OF THE REGENTS REFUSING ALL GIFTS FROM EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS

Note: This report, which is rendered to the Alumni Board, will be considered by that body at its next meeting.

On August 5, 1925, the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin by a vote of nine to six passed the following resolution:

"Resolved that no gifts, donations or subsidies shall in the future be accepted by or on behalf of the University of Wisconsin from any incorporated educational endowments or organizations of like character."

The undersigned were appointed by the alumni board as a committee representing the alumni association to find out the facts with relation to the action of the board of regents. We were asked to address ourselves to these questions: 'Is the regents' action justified? What shall be the attitude of the organized alumni of our university?' and we were requested to 'find and report the facts to the alumni and the public of Wisconsin and of other states,' with our recommendations, if any. Needless to say we received no instructions and no intimation of the views of the alumni board which appointed us.

We have had but one object in view, namely to conserve the best interest of the university. We have had seven sessions. * * * In addition to this we spent much time in investigation outside of regular sessions; a sub-committee of our committee devoted itself to the work in the interim between Oct. 4 and Oct. 17.

We approached this question in the full belief that the regents, each and all, acted as they believed for the best interest of the university. As alumni of the university, however, we assert the freedom to consider the policies of the institution that means so much to us, to express any views that we have, and to freely proclaim them whether or not those views are in accord with the views of those in authority, with a sincere desire to cooperate with all who are working for the well-being of the university.

Higher Education Always Supported by Private Benefaction.

Public Universities Young

It may be noted that higher education has always been supported largely by private benefaction. The great historic institutions like Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Amherst, Dartmouth and Cornell received their first impetus and most of their endowment from private sources, and so they have always done. In the days when American democracy was in the making there were no state universities in the present day sense. The university, owned, controlled and directed by state officials, has been a comparatively recent development. Since they have come into being, they have been the recipients of many private benefactions. During the year 1923-4, 29 state universities received contributions, many of them small it is true, from private sources. California, Michigan and Minnesota especially have received large benefactions, conspicuous among which are the splendid law building at Ann Arbor, established and endowed to the extent of many millions by a single munificent giver, and the $2,000,000 gift of the Mayo Foundation for the endowment of the medical school of the University of Minnesota.

University of Wisconsin's Gifts

The University of Wisconsin has received since its founding, more than 250 gifts, aggregating more than $4,400,000. Among the largest of these are the gift of the Washburn observatory, the Adam Wills fellowships, the Carl Schurz Memorial fund, the various Brittingham donations, the Bradley Memorial hospital, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane and Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Bradley the J. Stephens Tripp bequests, the Calvin K. Jane estate, the Institute for Research in Land Economics gift, the Terzer Thompson bequest, the John M. Olin bequest, the Vilas bequest and the numerous contributions to the Memorial union. These do not take into account the gifts of the Carnegie Foundation for teachers' pensions, which will be hereinafter referred to.

Among the givers are also found the names of J. Ogden Armour, E. I. Dupont de Nemours company (powder trust), Tennessee Coal and Iron company, James J. Hill, William A. Clark, H. J. Heinz company, Wisconsin Gas association, Milwaukee Gas Light company, Wisconsin River Power company, Albert B. Kuppenheimer company, Quaker Oats company, Gustav Pabst, William Wrigley, Jr.

Wisconsin Legislative Policy

It has been the immemorial legislative policy of the state to invite gifts from private sources to education.

The state constitution provides that among the sources of the school fund of the state shall be 'all moneys arising from any grant to the state where the purposes of such grant are not specified,' including also the tainted money of the criminal, namely, 'the clear proceeds of all fines collected in several counties for any breach of the penal laws.'

In 1866 the legislature enacted that 'for the endowment and support of the university there are hereby appropriated.....all contributions to the endowment fund as may be derived from public or private bounty..... The entire income of all said funds shall be placed at the disposal of the board of regents.'

The recognition of gifts as a source of income of the university has been carried down to date and much enlarged from time to time.

The statutes of the state have for many years provided and now provide that 'all gifts, grants, bequests and devises for the benefit or advantage of the university or any of its departments, colleges, schools, halls, observatories or institutions, or to provide any means of instruction, illustration or knowledge in connection therewith, whether made to trustees or otherwise, shall be legal and valid, and shall be executed and enforced according to the provisions of the instrument making the same,' and that 'all such gifts, grants, devises or bequests may be made to the regents of the university or to the president or to any officer thereof or to any person or persons as trustees,' and that 'all gifts, grants, bequests and devises from individuals, partnerships or corporations.....for or in behalf of the university or any department thereof or any purpose connected therewith, are appropriated to the board of regents of the university and shall be used according to the provisions of the instrument or act making the same.'

1909 Resolution Noted

In 1909 a joint resolution of senate and house was passed, reciting that the regents of the university had adopted this resolution:

'Resolved that the regents direct the president of the university to make application to the trustees of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching to have the University of Wisconsin placed upon the accepted list of institutions of the foundation' and that the rules of the foundation require that application for recognition of state universities be approved by the legislature and governor, and it was resolved 'that the application of the regents is approved.'

It will be observed that gifts may be made to the regents or to the president or any officer of the university or to any person as a trustee. It has clearly been the legislative policy of the state from its beginning to invite and to validate all gifts from private givers, both individual and corporate.

Importance of Research Work

Medical and scientific research are among the most important and practical of university functions. In medicine, recent university research has developed marked results in discovering cures for disease, as for example, diphtheria, meningitis, diabetes. In agriculture it has achieved practical results in milk tests and milk production, in matters of fertilization of soil, improvement of seed, breeding and care of animals. In engineering, it has made tests in concrete, steel and other elements of building construction, in cement and other elements of road construction. In geology, it has made examinations of soils, ore bodies, and the use of low grade ores and has conducted geological surveys. In zoology, it has made investigation in the study of animal life and in practical tests along many lines. The most inspiring and effective teachers are usually those who are also engaged in the search for new knowledge. Such men cannot be secured or retained by institutions which do not encourage and support research.

The University of Wisconsin has done a large amount of work of this character, yet it is doubtful whether its vital importance is generally realized and understood. The demand for research work is along practical lines and cannot always be anticipated. The demand often comes from private individuals or corporations for work along the lines of the business or profession in which they are interested. The university has accepted money from such sources but only on the condition that the results are open to the public, and are for publication in any journal, or for use in any way that the public sees fit to use them. Sometimes a given line of scientific research requires a consistent policy and an assured fund extending over a period of a number of years. To this end private gifts may be of great value, in securing continuity of policy and adequate funds. As several of our professors put it, all state universities are feeling cramped for funds to go ahead with this most vital work. Danger of social economic control from gifts for such purposes seems to us too remote to be real.

The Gift That Called Forth the Resolution

The gift which prompted the resolution of the board of regents mentioned at the outset of this report, was a gift by the General Education board of $12,500 for research work in pharmacology. Specifically the fund was given to aid in research work by the medical department for a cure for persons afflicted with syphilitic paresis, a work which, according to Dr. Loevenhart, has already resulted in the discharge of approximately 100 patients from the Wisconsin insane asylum. The gift was finally accepted because commitments had been made on the strength of it, but at the same time the regents took the occasion to pass the resolution above mentioned, the effect of which is that no further gifts from this source may hereafter be received. The gift in question was for a medical and scientific purpose and the resolution forbids all such gifts for all such purposes.

We think the adoption of this blanket resolution was a mistake.

Only Corporate Gifts Refused

We pass with a slight mention the fact that the resolution singles out corporate gifts, ignoring gifts from the individuals who compose the corporations. Why the gift becomes especially obnoxious merely because it has passed from the original maker of the money into a corporation organized, not for profit, but for public benefit and general good, we do not understand. A gift with an ulterior purpose is quite as likely to be offered by an individual as by a corporation and the likelihood of accompanying pressure is greater.

State Liberal to University

We do not minimize the fact that the state of Wisconsin has been liberal to its university. It has, mostly by legislative endowment, built up one of the great universities of the country. This university has given great benefit to the world. Its medical and scientific researches have been productive of health, wealth and morals. Through its agricultural department and particularly through its great agricultural chemist it has given millions to the farmers of the country. We are proud of its achievements. We do not underestimate either the ability or the willingness of the people of the state to continue to give liberally to its support. We have a great school of scientific instruction, as well as of scientific research. We have a medical school definitely established by legislative enactment, small in endowment, but great in achievement and in the personnel of those in its charge. We shall beyond a doubt, sometime have a school of medical instruction and research second to none.

Yet Supplemental Private Gifts Always Welcomed

But notwithstanding this ability and willingness on the part of the state, we cannot approve any action to refuse or discourage gifts of money from private sources for the purpose of aiding in the advancement of these great ends. If some Washburn or Vilas or Tripp or Brittingham or Olin should make a gift to the university for a medical, geological, biological, chemical, agricultural or other scientific school, his gift would be received with plaudits of praise. None would object to the acceptance of such a gift on the ground that the state is able to supply these things. We would all say that this spirit of giving cultivates a wholesome attitude of liberality on the part of those who have the substance to give, and that it is the part of wisdom to supplement the liberality of the state with the bounty of private gift.

The Real Question

The real question is, then, must such gifts as those we are considering, be rejected because of the source from which they come. The General Education board, whose gift provoked this resolution was endowed by John D. Rockefeller and it is doubtless this fact that has given rise to opposition to its gift. We hold no brief for Mr. Rockefeller or for the manner in which he accumulated his fortune. Granting all that the opponents of this gift say of him, he is in the peaceable possession of it. No court has been asked to take it from him or distribute it to the sources from which it came. No legislature has been shown a method to tax it away except by the same means as it would tax other large fortunes, however acquired. We believe Mr. Rockefeller's fortune may be lawfully and morally given away and conscientiously received for the benevolent purpose of advancing medical and scientific research.

But we are not considering gifts from Mr. Rockefeller. Mr. Rockefeller detached himself from this endowment some years ago, and gave it to the General Education board to use.

Gifts of Foundations

The General Education board was incorporated by special act of congress in 1902. It has, since that time, given to schools and colleges in the United States $59,608,258.95. Aside from its gifts for negro education, it has given to state universities and colleges for academic education in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Vermont and Virginia, and to state medical schools in Colorado, Georgia, Iowa and Oregon. The large gift to Iowa university for this purpose received the approval of the legislature and the governor of the state. It has given for academic education to 150 universities and colleges under private control in amounts of $50,000 or more, and to 11 privately controlled medical schools. Among the beneficiaries are Amherst, Beloit, Bowdoin, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Lawrence, Northwestern, Princeton, Ripon, Chicago, Notre Dame, Washington and Lee, Williams, Yale, Bryn Mawr, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley.

The Rockefeller foundation was incorporated in 1913. Many of its contributions, to education and research have been made abroad. To the University of Belgium, for example, it has been a large benefactor. It has, however, contributed largely to medical research in the United States. Its total gifts to colleges and universities in the United States amount to $11,619,054.54.

There are other corporate foundations, some 15 in all, whose funds are devoted in part at least to educational work. Of one of these, the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching, the late President Van Hise was a trustee. There are also the National Academy of Science, the National Research Council, the Engineering foundation, formed for the public-spirited service of furnishing financial aid to scientific research. This resolution would cut off the University of Wisconsin from all of these.

Their Manner of Giving

The General Education board distributes its funds, not on the direction of its founder, but as the board itself directs. That board is made up of the following persons, all men of high character and standing and most of them free from any Rockefeller business affiliations: Wallace Buttrick, chairman (former preacher); Wickliffe Rose, president (former college professor and dean); Abraham Flexner, secretary (editor and scholar); John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Frederick T. Gates (former preacher, business and benevolent representative of John D. Rockefeller 1893-1912); Albert Shaw (editor Review of Reviews); Edwin A. Alderman (president University of Virginia); Harry Pratt Judson (president-emeritus University of Chicago); Jerome D. Greene (banker with Lee, Higginson and company of New York); Anson Phelps Stokes (preacher bible scholar, eminent in field of religious education); George E. Vincent (president Rockefeller foundation, former president University of Minnesota); James H. Dillard (educator, president John F. Slater fund and Heanes foundation); Charles P. Howland; Trevor Arnett (vice president and general manager University of Chicago); James R. Angell (president Yale); Raymond B. Fosdick (lawyer, authority on police systems and administration of criminal law); Owen D. Young (lawyer, member Dawes commission).

The benefactions of the Rockefeller foundation are all similarly controlled. At the head of the Rockefeller foundation for the past eight years has been Dr. George E. Vincent, formerly president of the University of Minnesota.

The gifts of the General Education board are bestowed without restriction as to the policy of their use. Sometimes there is the condition that a supplemental amount shall be raised, sometimes not. In the case of the gift which started this controversy the letter of Dr. Flexner announcing it contained this language. 'I have only one request to make, namely, that care be taken not to exploit our appropriation or your work in any way that may give rise to adverse criticism in scientific quarters. We are extremely anxious to get no credit for anything we do, but that the entire project shall be quietly managed.'

No Attempt to Influence University Policy

Surely in no direct manner did this gift control or affect any policy of the university. And we have found no evidence of any ulterior purpose on the part of the General Education board or any of the corporate foundations in the making of any of their gifts to education. Professor Ross, who appeared before us, styling himself a 'staunch progressive,' and who is in close touch with educators and educational policies, told our committee that he had 'never come across the slightest evidence that grants are made or withheld by these foundations with the sinister intention of influencing the attitude of professors toward monopoly or other economic issues.' Professor Ross further said: 'I will say that in all sorts of gossips and private conversations that scholars have with each other, it is never even suggested or mentioned that these funds have an ulterior purpose of control attached. They have not done anything to excite suspicion.' Speaking of the change of policy introduced into the Rockefeller foundation by Dr. Vincent, Professor Ross said: 'Since this wise change, I have never read or heard a criticism of the policy of the foundation.'

It may not be amiss to add that with all the millions spent by Andrew Carnegie for the establishment of libraries in hundreds of communities, we have found no instance of any pressure or restraint in the matter of the character of the books with which the public is served. In them, we find books of every class and character appropriate to public libraries.

Will it Compromise Academic Freedom?

The contention is made, however, that the mere fact of receiving gifts from such sources will compromise academic freedom. If this be true, then any such gift should be rejected. It is not clear to us, however, how a gift to aid in the restoration of men to sanity will in any manner directly or indirectly compromise academic freedom. No more would a gift to a medical school, or to carry on research work on shales or to make blood tests on rabbits, or to investigate the strength of steel columns.

Economic Interests of Givers

But it is contended the men who have endowed the General Education board are interested in the questions dealt with by other departments of the university, such as the department of economics, and that gifts to one department from this source will restrain freedom of action of the whole faculty. It is to be borne in mind that aid from a foundation does not go into the pocket of any instructor but defrays the necessary expenses of research. In our opinion we have no reason to expect any such false notion of loyalty to the university at the expense of loyalty to conscience. We find no facts to warrant any such fear. As Professor Ross told us, great universities 'do not become jumping-jacks because a rich man has a quarter of a million that he might give them.'

American Association of University Professors

As Professor Ross further told us, there was formed about 10 years ago the American Association of University Professors for the purpose of improving the conditions under which the professor works. It is a national organization of over 5,000 members in more than 200 institutions. Its strongest committee is one on academic freedom. It has successfully worked to secure university professors against 'pressure from outside interests,' speaking further, Professor Ross said, 'As a result of its policy of "pitiless publicity," the outspoken liberal professor is far more secure than he was a dozen years ago, so that now 'the independence of professors in the social sciences is better protected than at any previous time within my academic career of 34 years, and that among the sinister forces which have to be watched, the endowed foundations do not figure.'

Attitude of Faculty

There appeared before us Dr. Birge, for half a century connected with the university and for years its president; Dr. Babcock of the agricultural department whose single gift to the world of his invention for testing milk, has been worth more than the amount of all gifts the university has received; Dean Slichter of the graduate school, Dean Turneure of the school of engineering; Dr. Bardeen, dean of the medical school and Drs. Loevenhart, Bradley and Lorenz of the medical faculty; Professor Guyer of the department of zoology; Professors Hart, Cole and L. R. Jones of the department of agriculture; Dr. Leith of the department of geology and Professor Ross of the department of economics. These educators all asserted their freedom of action in opposing the resolution of the regents. All concurred in the opinion that the receiving of gifts, without strings, to the university from corporate foundations would not compromise complete academic freedom. One of them ventured the guess that the faculty was 100 per cent of the same opinion. Dr. Birge stated that it has been his policy as president to encourage attempts to secure funds for research purposes from the foundations. We have confidence that these men, free to stand opposed to the policy of the board, which can at will cut the strings that tie them to their salaries, will not be swayed from the truth by the prospect that some educational foundation may give money to the university to finance research for the healing of diseases of men, or any other scientific purpose.

Example of Chicago University

The University of Chicago has been far more liberally endowed by the founder of the General Education board than any other educational institution in the country. It has received from Mr. Rockefeller and from foundations established by him over $38,000,000. If gifts from this source restrain academic freedom, we should expect to find examples of it in Chicago. There have been some charges of this character against the University of Chicago, all of them many years ago. We have made such investigation of them as we could, and we believe them unfounded.

Dr. T. C. Chamberlain, former president of the University of Wisconsin, a man of as wide experience in universities and colleges as any man living, and who has been connected with the University of Chicago ever since it opened its doors, has expressed himself in this language: 'The members of the faculty of the University of Chicago have not only felt, but exercised greater freedom of opinion, speech and action in respect to political, religious, social, economic, industrial and similar questions, than the members of any other faculty with which I have been connected or with which I have been intimately familiar. . . . I do not think that the faculties of any of the state institutions with which I have been connected have felt equal freedom, and I am sure they have never taken equal advantage of it.'

Dr. A. E. Haydon, well known in Wisconsin, writes us as follows:

'Your inquiry regarding the effect of corporations' endowment on teaching and policy is before me.

'I can only speak from my own experience and knowledge of my own department. The answer is that there is complete freedom in classroom work in Chicago. President Judson and President Burten both insisted that research is only possible if there is freedom; it became a maxim that an instructor is master of his own classroom. I have never heard of interference (or even suggestion) that would tend to hamper the freedom of teaching or freedom of research.

'It seems to me, from my small acquaintance with state universities, that Chicago is much less anxious about the opinion of the outer powers than are the state institutions.'

Paul Douglas Writes

Professor Paul H. Douglas, Professor of Economics in the University of Chicago, whose liberal economic views are well known, answering the question whether the large gifts which have been made to that institution from private sources have restricted in any way, the freedom of teaching or of research said:

'Since my connection with the university in 1920 I have found absolutely no indication of this. Business policies of the Standard Oil company and group are criticized, I am sure, with as much frankness and fullness here as in any other university that I know of. Sometimes I think they are criticized more fully here than in most other places. Most large foundations do not lay down stipulations concerning results, but merely encourage research. We have had no unfortunate experiences with any foundations that have assisted us or are now doing so.

'It is possible, however, that some of the foundations that make grants for economic studies will not wish to have investigation made of the labor policies of any of the large concerns in which the donors of the funds are financially interested. This is purely an a priori assumption on my part as we have had absolutely no pressure exerted upon us here. In view of the attempts, however, which several people who are closely attached to the Rockefeller foundation made to discourage the publication of the Russell Sage studies into the industrial relation policies of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, this does not seem to me an impossible danger. It may be a practical danger, although I personally am not greatly afraid of it.

'In any event, grants for medical and for physical science certainly should be received and there is little possibility that I can see of untoward results occurring. Personally, I do not think there is much danger even in the social sciences if the universities let it be clearly understood that they are to be the judges of results and not the foundations.'

Restraint Not Easy in Wisconsin

And let us here say that any man who shall set out with the sinister intention of restraining academic freedom in the University of Wisconsin will have much to reckon with. He will have many 'tackles' to pass before he reaches his goal. He must reckon with the president of the faculty, over them the board of regents, over them the legislature, over them the people of the state, not to speak of the great student body.

In the president and the faculty he will find a body of independent men who, unless we miss our guess, will prize freedom more than they do their jobs. Should any of them prove unfaithful, they will be subjected to the searching investigation of their fellows of the American Association of University Professors.

We have too much confidence in our esteemed president and in the faculty which supports him to believe that they would prostitute their office, even to secure some benefit to their institution.

In the board of regents he will find a representative body of men free from restraint, wise to the uses of academic freedom and critical of any instructor prone to be controlled.

In the legislature he will find a body representative and responsive to the popular will.

In the people of the state, he will find watchfulness and a demand that the university they support shall minister to the people of the state, and not to any special interest.

In the student body he will find a body of young men and women not to be hoodwinked. Our knowledge of students of the University of Wisconsin leads us to believe that they are the first to detect frailties in their instructors, and that any who attempt to lead them into economic by-ways will soon find his influence to wane and his position so uncomfortable that he will seek release.

To those who say that there is danger that the giving of gifts not to the gain of any person, but to the cause of scientific research, will restrain academic freedom in the University of Wisconsin, knowing as we do the spirit of the faculty, the student body, those who bear official responsibility and the people of the state who do not, we say it can't be done. In the language of one of those who have furnished us valuable suggestions, we say, 'Any danger of dominance by a corporation would. . . . bring its own corrective. . . . in a state university.'

Oppose Blanket Rejection

We are opposed to a sweeping rejection in advance of any and all gifts from educational foundations. It seems to us such policy is based on groundless fear and is contrary to the legislative and administrative policy under which the university has prospered so well since its foundation. If danger from such gifts could arise, it might be expected from gifts for pensions to instructors such as the university received from the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching, and yet we have heard no claim that that benefaction which was accepted by the legislature had any such result.

There may possibly be educational purposes for which private endowments should not be received. If so we do not regard medical or scientific research as such a purpose. There may be sources from which the university should not receive a gift, even for medical or scientific research. We do not regard the General Education board as such a source.

All gifts must necessarily come from the wealthy. The munificent Vilas gift came from one of the country's rich men. The large Bradley Memorial hospital gift came from 'big business' and from money, the making of which as Dr. Bradley told us, duplicated 'the methods that Rockefeller uses.' The same might be said of the smaller gifts of Dupont, Armour, Clark and Hill. If we are to try to distinguish between the wealthy men who have made their money in the business world, and to determine whether the money possessed by one is more wholesome than that possessed by another and more fit to be used for the advancement of science and health, we shall have a difficult and unsatisfactory task. The fact is, we believe, the world will be better for the dissipation, for such benevolent and semi-public purposes of so much of these vast aggregations of wealth.

Program Has Lagged

Withal the liberality of the legislature, our university program has lagged behind its needs. Its dormitory program, the dream of President Van Hise, is about to be realized through the aid of the Tripp gift. The same is true of the much needed Memorial union. The medical school, notwithstanding its marvelous achievement, is not half established. It has had $600,000 placed at its disposal by this same General Education board for buildings and equipment, on condition of the raising the amount to $1,500,000. This is the amount which the medical department estimates will be required for this purpose. The additional amount is practically assured by the action of the last legislature in authorizing the Soldiers' Rehabilitation board to give the balance of unused funds to the regents for a memorial medical building. This fund is estimated at from $600,000 to $900,000. But if the policy that refused the $12,500 gift prevails, it will also refuse the larger gift to the medical school. Very much larger amounts of money could be utilized in useful research in medicine and science than have ever yet been available to the university. We do not understand why taxpayers should insist that they themselves bear the whole of these burdens and reject the supplemental aid which private benefaction is willing to supply nor why the regents should insist that the tax payers do so. When the legislature provided, as it has done, that the regents shall have power to encourage scientific investigation, that gifts may be made to the regents or to the president or any officer of the university, or to any person as trustee for it, that all such gifts shall be legal and valid and shall be used by the regents according to the act making the same, it clearly expressed the state legislative policy of receiving such gifts as this, if it did not forbid their rejection.

The argument that the university should be as independent of outside aid as a family should be, does not seem to us pertinent. The analogy followed out would require the rejection of all gifts. No one would accept gifts for the support of his family even from a friend like J. Stephens Tripp, a friend, not an alumnus, whose gift the present board of regents is now utilizing.

Upon the board of regents depends the administration of any gift fund. If the board has confidence in its own independence and in its ability to put the gift to proper use and the gift is free from hampering restrictions, then in our opinion, the board ought to accept it. The blanket refusal of all gifts from corporate foundations is in our opinion unwise. While the state must insist on the right to control, it must not be blind to the service such foundations have rendered in blazing new trails in the field of scientific education and research. What we need is to distinguish between intelligent criticism on the one hand and mere suspicion and gossip on the other.

As before stated, your committee deems it wise and desirable that the alumni seek cooperation with the board of regents in this important matter, and if this report receives the approval of the alumni organization, we suggest and recommend the appointment of a committee to confer with the board of regents at a proper and convenient time.

THEIR DAY AND OUR DAY

OUR University came into being in February over three quarters of a century ago. For several years past, generally in the month of February, the event has been celebrated by gatherings of alumni in all parts of the world. This year meetings should be held wherever alumni, even so few as two or three, can be assembled. The local clubs need no urging to do this. With most of them it is an established function. Will not unorganized groups follow their lead, get together, rehearse our University's history, discuss her accomplishments, glory in her achievements, become acquainted with Glenn Frank—he is worth your while, he deserves your whole-hearted support. Know your Alma Mater's problems, put your own energetic helpfulness into them, cooperate in a practical and substantial way with those who are seeking solutions, appreciate your responsibilities as an alumnus. It is only in the discharge of duties that you can feel the real happiness of honoring your Alma Mater. Let us individually and as the organized alumni carry on for the University. Let us finish the Union Memorial Building, now so well begun. Let us turn to other joyful tasks. Let us justify the faith of the pioneer founders of the University of Wisconsin. Let us on Founders Day, their day and our day, look gratefully backward. Let us do this in order that we may look forward with better vision, and with firmer resolution.—GEORGE I. HAIGHT, '99, President.

GIFT COMMITTEE REPORTS

SEVEN of the ten alumni delegated to investigate and report on the Regents' resolution banning gifts from corporate endowments concur in a report which appears in this issue. Three members, Mrs. Chynoweth, Dr. Beebe, and Mr. Runke do not concur. The two gentlemen of the minority have filed separate reports, Dr. Beebe urging "seeing it through with ourselves" as a "great adventure" for the University, and Mr. Runke expressing the belief that "subsidized investigators are usually suffering from a social strabismus." While space limitations confine this number of your alumni publication to the report of the majority, the minority reports will appear in subsequent issues. All the members of this committee deserve thanks from fellow alumni for services generously rendered.

OUR YOUNG UNIVERSITY

OUR University very properly may be said to have begun on the first Monday of February, 1849, with the assembling of the first class. One of these first students, the late W. H. Holt, lived within a couple of blocks of the present campus until this winter. Seventy odd years, less than the life time of many men, is a brief period in the life of a great educational institution. In fact, no American universities are very old. Harvard is close to its three hundredth birthday, but that period is brief as compared with the life of several of the universities of Europe and even more brief when compared with a university in China which has been receiving students for more than ten centuries. Graduates of but three generations from the same family is the longest lineage Wisconsin can boast of yet. Nevertheless, in less than eighty years our University has advanced from a small local school to a great state, national, and even international institution, whose graduates are found in every county of our own state, each state of our Union, and in a score of foreign countries.

ON THE AIR

RADIO broadcasting from WHA (wave length 535.4 m.), which has been suspended for the greater part of this academic year because of the razing of the antennae which were on the site of the new addition to Bascom Hall, was resumed on January 11 with the broadcasting of Wisconsin's victory over Indiana in basketball. Listen in; all of the basketball games to be played in Madison will be broadcasted. University broadcasting schedule from now on is for Monday and Friday evenings at 7:45 and for Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock. Prof. W. H. Lighty, address University Extension Building, states that he will be especially appreciative of constructive suggestions from alumni on how to make the Monday evening programs of special interest to them.

GLEE CLUB NEWS

WAUSAU, Marshfield, Eau Claire, Winona, Minn., La Crosse, Sparta, and Tomah, are to be visited by thirty members of the Glee Club between April 4 and 13. Bookings for the week-end trip to be made to four or five cities of southern Wisconsin February 11-14 are also being made. The Club will participate in the Northwest Glee Club Contest late in February. Dates for the home concerts are March 12 and 13. Prof. E. E. Swinney is directing the Glee Club.

STATE SERVICE

"IN the case of Wisconsin, the last unit of the old Northwest to be partitioned and organized under Statehood, the University is coeval with the State. They began their distinct life together. The University's broad conception of its proper function has made its campus coextensive with the borders of the State. * * * Wisconsin did not discover the ideal of State service, but it has come nearer to realizing it than most universities."—From "Wisconsin' and Wisconsin" by George Marvin in The Outlook for 1-13-25.

ENDOWMENTS

THE Washington Star estimates that 121 universities possess one million dollar endowments. Only 18 state universities are in this millionaire class. At the head of rich American educational institutions stands Harvard, with endowments exceeding 52 million dollars.

ALUMNI HOTELS TO BE DESIGNATED IN EVERY CITY IN THE U. S. AND CANADA

THE associated alumni of seventy leading colleges and universities in America are designating one hotel in practically every city of the United States and Canada as a member of a nation-wide chain of intercollegiate alumni hotels. In New York and Chicago three hotels will be designated.

The actuating motive behind the plan is to provide a common meeting ground for college men and women under conditions that will make for social congeniality, thus furthering and strengthening the coordination of alumni interests, upon which every higher educational institution must depend to a great extent.

The alumni magazines of all the participating institutions will be kept on file in the reading room of each intercollegiate alumni hotel. Lists containing the names of local alumni will also be maintained by the alumni magazines.

The committee having the work in charge is selecting hotels which evince a cordial spirit of cooperation with the movement. In most cities the leading hotels are taking very kindly to the plan and will in the course of the next six months begin to display the official insignia adopted by the Committee.

All college men and women who travel regularly will soon be able to chart their course so that they can move from one alumni home to another, meeting friends wherever they go and resuming old friendships.

A national publicity campaign will inform alumni of the cooperation which will be extended by the designated hotels and an effort made to have all alumni activities center in them.

Anyone wishing to secure information concerning the plan, which involves many additional interesting details, may write to Levering Tyson, 311 East Hall, Columbia University, New York, N. Y.

FACULTY NEWS

COLLECTION of documents which deal with the history of the labor movement in America has been resumed at the University of Wisconsin as a result of additional appropriations for the work. The documents will be added to the University's labor library which has already cost nearly $50,000 and which has the most complete collection of labor documents published prior to 1880 and has the second largest collection of documents published after that date.

WISCONSIN students favored the adherence of the United States to the statute of the Permanent Court for International Justice by a vote of 496 to 287, a recent ballot on the campus reveals.

THE SIGMA KAPPA sorority will hold its 43rd national convention at Wisconsin, June 28-July 3. Chapters at the Universities of Minnesota and Indiana and at Iowa State College will assist the local chapter in entertaining the 500 delegates. The convention will celebrate the 52nd anniversary of the sorority.

TWENTY-NINE sisters in holy orders who are teachers in Catholic parochial schools attended the last summer session, Dean Scott Goodnight has just announced.

THE STUDY of the German and French languages is growing more popular at Wisconsin, but the study of Spanish has decreased in popularity since 1923. Enrollment in German classes increased from 1,031 in 1923 to 1,174 in 1925; enrollment in French classes increased from 2,502 in 1923 to 2,506 in 1925; enrollment in Spanish classes decreased from 1,496 in 1923 to 1,322 in 1925. The enrollment in beginning Spanish classes, however, exceeds the enrollment in beginning German classes and is only six less than the enrollment in beginning French classes.

FOUR out of every five students who attend the summer session at Wisconsin enroll in the College of Letters and Science, Dean Goodnight has just announced. A total of 4,309 students enrolled in the College of Letters and Science last summer out of a total of 5,015 students.

THE $2,000 EVANS MEMORIAL scholarship, recently established by Federal Judge Evan Evans, '97, in memory of his father, will be of assistance to agricultural college students who come from eight townships in Iowa and Sauk counties. Judge Evans' father formerly lived at Spring Green. He died in 1917.

GYMNASTICS is making Wisconsin women students more nearly physically perfect, the department of physical education declares. The average woman student this year completed the agility test in 11.5 seconds less than last year's record; she cut one-fifth of a second from the somersault test time, and covered three inches more ground in the leap test.

FORTY-ONE newspapers are being studied this year by seniors in the course in journalism. The work represents a year of study and will be recorded in theses. Results of the analysis in previous years were of such wide scope that certain concrete principles have been discovered that are applicable to American newspapers generally.

WINTER sports at Wisconsin are gaining in popularity this year with the construction of additional facilities. The new varsity hockey rink is said to be the largest in the country. Rinks have also been constructed on the lower campus for a freshman squad and for women. A new ski jump has been constructed near the old jump in order to encourage beginners. Coach Kay Iverson now leads a large squad of skiers cross-country on 25 pairs of skis recently purchased by the department.

Wisconsin skaters and skiers repeated their former triumphs at Lake Placid, N.Y., when they tied the University of New Hampshire during the Christmas holidays for the President Harding trophy. They also won the Marshall Foch ski jumping trophy.

THE SOCIETY of American Foresters held its annual convention at the University during the third week in December.

More than 100 Wisconsin professors and instructors attended meetings of the various learned and scientific societies held in different cities during the holidays. More than 50 read papers and a large number were elected to offices and given important committee appointments. Prof. J. L. GILLIN, of the sociology department, was elected president of the American Sociological society at its annual meeting in New York. Prof. E. A. ROSS was appointed a member of the executive committee of the American Sociological society.

Prof. W. B. CAIRNS, '90, of the English department, was elected vice president of the Modern Language association at its meeting in Chicago. Prof. V. C. FINCH, '16, of the geography department, was elected vice president of the Association of American Geographers which held its annual meeting in Madison. Prof. R. H. WHITBECK, of the geography department, retired as president of the Association of American Geographers.

The University was host to the 27th annual meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists as well as the Association of American Geographers and the National Council of Geographers.

Prof. J. H. MATHEWS, '03, director of the course in chemistry, was recently promoted to lieutenant-colonel in the Chemical Warfare service. Prof. Mathews was the first American chemist to be called into service during the World War. He spent a great deal of time at the front as an observer for the ordnance department and was afterward liaison officer between the ordnance department and the Chemical Warfare service.

The late Professor-Emeritus Fletcher PARKER, founder of the University School of Music, is called, in a faculty resolution, "the beloved elder brother of the music teachers of the entire state."

Prof. R. E. N. DODGE, of the English department, and his family will travel in Italy, France, and Switzerland during the second semester.

Prof. Carl A. HEDBLUM, surgeon at the Wisconsin General hospital, recently resigned to accept a position as professor of surgery and head of the surgical department of the medical school of the University of Illinois.

Miss Florence BERGENDAHL, who taught in the School of Music in 1923-24, returned to her former work here this semester after spending a year in Italy studying voice. Miss Bergendahl is from Clinton, Iowa.

Maxwell HERRIOTT has just been appointed an instructor in the Law school in place of Prof. H. L. Smith, who will be on leave of absence during the second semester. Mr. Herriott received his certificate from the University Law school in 1924 and the degree of bachelor of laws in 1925.

Prof. Frederic OGG, of the political science department, will be absent during the second semester, acting as director of the survey of the humanistic sciences for the American Council of Learned Societies. He will be in Washington, D. C.

Prof. J. P. HARRIS, of the political science department, will be absent during the second semester engaged in investigation of election and registration laws for the National Council of Social Research.

Prof. W. B. CAIRNS, '90, of the English department, will study in the British museum during the second semester on British views of American literature.

Miss Elizabeth WILSON, of the English department, will travel in Switzerland, France, and Great Britain during the second semester.

Prof. M. V. O'SHEA, of the School of Education, is engaged in organizing a technique of survey for the Mississippi state school system at the request of the governor of the state.

Prof. S. A. LEONARD, of the School of Education, is studying at Columbia university.

Prof. C. E. MENDENHALL, of the physics department, will travel in Europe during the second semester.

Prof. B. F. SNOW, of the physics department, who was traveling around the world during the first semester, will be absent for the remainder of the academic year.

Prof. H. L. SMITH, '81, will travel during the second semester.

Prof. E. M. JOHNSON, of the course in journalism, will conduct a "comparative journalism tour" to various European capitals July 1-Aug. 16.

Dr. Louise KELLOGG, '97, research associate of the Wisconsin State Historical society, has just published a book on "The French Regime in Wisconsin and the Northwest." The book is dedicated to the memory of the late Reuben Gold Thwaites.

W. H. NEGLEY, '19, has been appointed university editor to succeed Mrs. Blanche Field Noer, '23.

Raphael LEVY, of the English department, has just completed a study based on "The Astrological Works of Abraham Ibn Ezra," which resulted in numerous additions and revisions to articles in Godefroy's standard dictionary for Old French.

President Glenn FRANK and four prominent Wisconsin editors, were initiated into the Wisconsin chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, recently.

Prof. Cecil BURLEIGH, of the School of Music, has just published a "Third Concerto in C Minor, Opus 60," which he has dedicated to Gilbert Ross, violinist, and son of Prof. E. A. Ross.

MR. LAURENCE POWELL, instructor in music, has just published his first American composition, "Halcyone," a piece for full chorus and orchestra. He formerly published all his compositions in England.

J. P. TROXELL and H. M. GROVES, '19, of the economics department, are teaching weekly classes in labor problems to members of labor unions in Milwaukee, Madison, and Racine. It is the first time that a university has ever provided instruction for members of labor unions. It is expected that classes will be organized in several other Wisconsin cities this winter.

PROF. G. M. HYDE, '12, addressed the State High School Press association conference at Champaign, Illinois, last month on "How to Read a Newspaper."

CAMPUS NOTES

TEACHERS, principals, and school teachers made up more than half of the summer session enrollment last year, according to Dean Scott Goodnight, who has just published the figures.

STUDENTS in Applied Arts and Industrial Education will be given credit for actual work or apprenticeship in Madison gift shops and industrial establishments during the second semester, it is announced. Some of the group of 25 students will receive wages in addition to academic credit.

A GIRLS' Pharmaceutical Club has just been organized at Wisconsin. Fourteen young women are enrolled in the Course in Pharmacy.

TESTS completed at the Forest Products Laboratory at the University show that print paper can be made from eucalyptus trees. The discovery will introduce a new era in paper manufacture in Brazil and probably in parts of America in the opinion of Dr. Edmundo Navarro de Andrade, of Lao Paulo, Brazil, who was recently in Madison.

THE ANNUAL Farm Folks Week, Feb. 1-5, at the University is expected to attract farm men and women from all parts of the state.

BOOK NOTES

Track and Field (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, price $2.00), by T. E. Jones.

The book is designed as a manual for the use of high school teachers who are called upon to coach students in track and field events and also for young athletes themselves, who wish to follow the best methods and technic used by champion performers.

A chapter is devoted to each of the following: fundamentals, the sprints, the quarter-mile, the half-mile, relay racing, one-mile run, two-mile run, cross-country running, walking, steeplechasing, the hurdle race, the running high jump, the standing broad jump, the running broad jump, the pole-vault, the shot-put, discus-throw, the javelin-throw, the hammer-throw, and notes on preparation for a track meet.

In simple, straightforward English the author describes each of the above events, gives a list of champion performers or world's records, physical equipment necessary, technic, and training schedules. The profuse use of illustrations, both photographs and drawings, should make it especially valuable to teacher and performer, both amateur and professional.

ATHLETICS

By H. M. GOLDEN, '26

WITH two successive conference victories, one over Minnesota and the other over Indiana, Wisconsin's Sophomore basket ball five is resting on top of the conference heap and showing signs of becoming a real contender for the Big Ten title. The conference chase started the day school re-opened, following the Christmas recess, the Badgers walloping Minnesota handily, with a score of 36 to 24. The play of Louis Behr at forward and Ralph Merkle at guard was alone enough to stop the ancient rivals from the North. Wisconsin showed a smooth moving five that did not give the impression of a young, inexperienced, conference quintet.

However, it was the great victory of the Cardinals over the University of Indiana that has made them a real factor in the long conference race that is to follow. The Hoosiers invaded Madison with a victory over Minnesota, confident that they for the first time would take the measure of a Meanwell-coached Wisconsin team. The classic of the basket ball court that resulted cannot be done real justice by the writer. Torrid basket ball, that kept a capacity crowd breathless and gasping, was the result of those forty minutes of play. Both teams played at a terrific pace, the lead changing hands numerous times, with both teams apparently having the game safely tucked away at different stages of the play.

The first half found the Badgers leading by a single point. However, gloom settled over the large gathering with the removal of Merkle from his guard position, with four personal fouls. Merkle has been the real floor leader from his guard position and it was feared that his loss would be a hard blow to the youngsters. Tiny Andrews at forward was the only reason that Wisconsin held the lead at the half, his basket keeping the Badgers out in front with the score 14 to 13.

Every game must have its hero. Another diminutive player, Eddie Powers, replaced the ejected Merkle and immediately won his way to Badger fandom. The half had hardly gotten underway, when Powers, Hotchkiss, and Behr caged the ball to give Wisconsin a substantial lead. Indiana, always feared for its sharpshooting ability from the middle of the floor, opened a barrage at the hoop that soon put it out in front.

Standing in the middle of the court, Krueger dropped the ball through the meshes in rapid order for four baskets and the Badger lead went glimmering.

From that point and up to the last three minutes of play, Indiana held the upper hand, leading by four points. Again it was Powers who came to the fore and kept Wisconsin dangerous. From an out of bound play, he dribbled the length of the floor and netted the ball. His effort cut the Hoosiers' lead to a single basket. Then the Hoosiers fought back and Sponsor dropped in a long basket. Powers duplicated the feat for his fourth counter, and a free throw from Andrews put the Badgers a point behind. A free toss by Sponsor gave the Hoosiers their two point margin again, but the floor leader of the Badgers, Hotchkiss, netted his fourth basket to tie up matters 31 all. With less than a minute to play, Behr took the ball from an out of bounds play, dribbled in close to the basket, and with a onehanded shot, sunk the winning counter of the tussle. It was a great finish for the young Badger team and clearly demonstrated that they have plenty of fight and drive. Never before has a Sophomore aggregation displayed such coolness nor showed such splendid results of the hard work to which they have been put by Coach Meanwell. They will be heard from throughout the Big Ten chase.

Wisconsin's hockey sextet under the guidance of coach Kay Iverson started its 1926 season with a pair of fine wins over Marquette University. Iverson's skaters displayed a fine knowledge of the game and completely overwhelmed their Milwaukee rivals in the January 8th tilt, score 11 to 0.

The Milwaukeeans stiffened their defense in the game on the following day, and although outplayed in every department of the game, held the Badger score down to 3 to 0. Captain Chet Gross, Whiteside, Morehead, McLean, McCarter, Lidicker, and Jansky have been the vets upon whom Iverson is placing his greatest hopes. The Badgers meet Michigan and Minnesota, their rivals in the Big Ten, and hope to find themselves perched well among the leaders at the end of a long season.

The game has never before had the following that it has this year. It is estimated that fully 6000 attended the two games on January 8-9, and that the crowds will well nigh be doubled when the Badgers clash with their conference foes.

One of the outstanding features of the University of Wisconsin's winter sport activity is the winning of the National Collegiate Outdoor Carnival at Lake Placid. The great work of Hans Troy, a ski jump of 136 feet for first place, and the joint work of Knut Dahl and Troy in the cross country ski race gave the Badgers a commanding lead over everything in the East. Leon Emmert furthered the Badger cause when he won first place in the speed skating contests. The Harding Cup and the Marshall Foch trophies come to Wisconsin as a result of the work of this triumvirate. Troy and Dahl are newcomers from Norway but they have won a coveted place in winter sports at Wisconsin, and have won a name for themselves almost overnight.

With the faculty approval officially placed upon it, the football schedule for the 1926 season has been announced. The most interesting announcement to come with the Badger schedule is the fact that Chicago has agreed to come to Madison for a game at any time that Director George Little may ask for it. This undoubtedly means that Coach A. A. Stagg's Maroons will invade Camp Randall in 1927, the first time in many years. Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, will open the 1926 season in Madison, while Kansas University, a member of the Missouri Valley conference, will play the second tussle on the Badger card. Six conference games then follow in rapid order, giving Wisconsin her finest schedule in many years.

JOURNALISM NEWS AND NOTES

THE first annual Matrix Table of the Wisconsin chapter of the professional journalistic sorority of Theta Sigma Phi was held at the Hotel Loraine on January 9. Over four hundred women of the student body, faculty, and city of Madison attended. The honor guests included Miss Zona Gale, '95, Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick of the Chicago Tribune, and Mrs. Sophie Kerr Underwood, New York, well known writer of fiction. The speakers, besides these guests of honor, were Mrs. M. B. Rosenberry, former dean of women, Mrs. H. S. Richards, Dean F. Louise Nardin, and Miss Alberta Johnson, '26. A series of clever dramatic skits written by members of the sorority preceded the program of toasts. The purpose of the banquet is to bring together student leaders among the women with the women of the faculty and of the city.

Prof. W. G. Bleyer, '96, will speak at the annual mid-winter meeting of the Wisconsin Press Association in Milwaukee on February 13, on the subject of community service by weekly newspapers, in connection with the awarding of prizes to the Wisconsin weekly newspapers that have rendered the most signal service to their communities during the past year.

"Journalism must find the facts," said President Glenn Frank, "it must not prejudge things in terms of conservatism or liberalism or radicalism; it must not decide in advance that it is to be conformist or non-conformist; it cannot fly in the face of facts without courting ultimate disaster.

"Journalism must focus the facts; facts are not important for their own sake; they are important only as a basis for action; journalism must focus the facts it finds upon the issues its readers face.

"Journalism must filter the facts; it must with conscientious care separate the facts from admixtures of prejudice, passion, partisanship, and selfish interest; facts that are diluted, colored, or perverted are valueless as a basis for action.

"Journalism must face the facts; it must learn that the energy spent in trying to find ways to get around, under, or over the facts is wasted energy; facts have a ruthless way of winning the day sooner or later.

"Journalism must follow the facts; journalism must say of facts as Job said of God: though they slay us, yet shall we trust them; if the facts threaten to upset a paper's cherished policy, it always pays the journalist to re-examine his policy; that way lies realism, and realism is the ultimate good."

U. W. CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and you'll work together."

LOCAL U. W. CLUBS

The organized alumni body of our University is rapidly growing in numbers and effectiveness. Local U. of W. clubs serve as valuable agencies to bring about a closer fellowship among the alumni, former students, and friends of the University. There are many communities in which the number of members of the GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION is such as to make the formation of these local clubs entirely feasible and highly desirable. Clubs have already been established in a number of cities, in several counties and in a few states.

ASHLAND

LUCY ROGERS HAWKINS, '18

THAT the campus of the university reaches out to the very fringes of the state is being proved by the lecturers invited for the Open Forum in Ashland, which opened Sunday, January 10, under the auspices of the American Legion.

Aubrey Williams, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, opened the series with a talk on Ashland's rating in the Better Cities contest which created a lively discussion and proved to be highly interesting in an overflow meeting held in the community room of the Ashland National bank.

Professor Gillin is scheduled for the following Sunday, and others who will speak at later meetings are Professors D. D. Lescohier, '21, Max Otto, '06, and E. A. Ross.

Dr. R. L. Gilman, '20, is one of the most active members of the Legion in securing the Forum speakers, and several U. W. alumni are among the guarantors.

To promote acquaintance among the various college women in the city, local University of Wisconsin alumnae are lending a hand in the formation of a College club in Ashland. The first luncheon and meeting was held Saturday, Jan. 16. The sponsorship committee included three Badgers, Helen Dodd Winter, '20, Myrtle Miller Roehm, ex '17, and Lucy Rogers Hawkins, '18.—1-13-26.

CHICAGO

FRIDAY, December 18th, we had a joint luncheon with the Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago for the purpose of listening to a most interesting talk by our new president, Glenn Frank. As usual, the N. W. R. R. failed to do its stuff and Prexy was about one hour late. In the meantime, we had eaten our luncheon so were ready to devote ourselves to the message Prexy had for us. He discussed several important problems relative to the present and future development of the real usefulness of our universities, particularly state universities.

More than 600 were present at the luncheon.

Bertha Weeks, '15, president of the Chicago Alumnae Club, introduced President Frank with a few very fitting remarks.

That those present were very favorably impressed by the address was indicated by the noticeable change in the ending of the two sky rockets given for the President. Before the talk the sky rocket ended with "Glenn Frank," but after the talk, during which we had all sensed the high ideals held by our President and the problems of real value to the country and our University which he has set before him for solving during the next ten to twenty-five years, the ending of the sky rocket was as it should be, "Prexy," and given with a most hearty good will. Many expressed themselves as most grateful for this opportunity of becoming more thoroughly acquainted with our President.

The next event of importance will be Founders' Day on February 6th, on which occasion we expect to get still better acquainted with Prexy, as we will have him not only for a talk but also for the social event which follows the dinner. We spend all Saturday afternoon at this function.

We are very proud of the present status of the Club, viz., nearly 600 paid members,—about 150 more than last year. Besides having held luncheon meetings every Friday noon with an attendance running from 25 to 150, we had two picnics the past summer at Ravinia Park.

The Club last year got out a complete directory of all Wisconsin men and women in and about Chicago, and a similar directory for 1926 will be issued soon.

Harry Marks, '13, is our new Club president and he is a whiz.

Wisconsin alumni in Chicago who wish to secure tickets for the Mid-West Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest, in Orchestra Hall, Chicago, February 22, may do so by writing to Clifford Ives, 28 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

DAYTON

S. H. ANKENEY, '12

A dinner dance at the Canton Tea Garden followed by a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderton was arranged for the November 26th meeting of the U. W. Club of Dayton. Coach George Little, who was in the city that day as referee for the annual Thanksgiving football game between Dayton's two leading high schools was a guest of the Club. Had it been possible to make sure of Coach Little's presence in advance of the meeting, it is certain that a much larger turnout might have been had. It was all a rather impromptu affair, but those who came had a pleasant evening and were glad to make the acquaintance of Mr. Little.

Some of the alumni in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Sipp, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hedges, Major and Mrs. Rudolph, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Bennett,

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Anderton and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ankeney.

DETROIT

H. W. MANDEL, '17

ALTHOUGH I am not secretary of the U. W. Alumni Club of Detroit, I am forwarding news on the status of affairs in the Intercollegiate Bowling League here.

The Wisconsin team now heads the list of twelve teams, with a percentage of .928, having won 39 games and lost but 3. A Wisconsin man, Edward Kalsched, '11, is the high bowler of the league, with an average of 188 for more than 21 games. In fact, the Wisconsin team has such a high team average that the bowling league is liable to break up because of lack of interest. Therefore, they are proposing a "handicap" system so as to hold us down a little, which meets with our approval because we would like to have some competition.

We very much enjoyed Monday night, January 4, with George Little at the University Club, and especially the two reels of pictures of the football games of the past season. It is regrettable that there were not more members, but we lay it to the fact that it was almost the first night following the holiday season. As it was a smaller group, however, it was possible for each member to have a better chance of getting acquainted with George. Needless to say we very much enjoyed having him.—1-8-26.

FARGO

H. L. WALSTER, '08

THIRTY-SIX loyal Wisconsin alumni and alumnae of Fargo and Moorhead met at the Gardner Hotel in Fargo for a luncheon on Tuesday, December 15th. Director of Athletics, George Little, and his wife were our guests at this luncheon. Director Little gave us a straightforward and inspiring account of things as they are at Wisconsin, and I am sure that everyone went away from that luncheon feeling that there is indeed a new day at Alma Mater when things intellectual are under the inspiring guidance of Glenn Frank, and things physical, under the equally inspiring guidance of George Little. The Fargo-Moorhead Alumni Club is not dead. It may have been moribund for over a year, but we feel that we convinced Coach Little that men and women do things here in the West. It was through the courtesy of the Bison Booster Club of the N. D. A. C. that it was possible to have Director Little in town, he having come to Fargo as the principal speaker at their annual banquet. Coach Ion J. Cortright and his wife, of the N. D. A. C., were also our guests at this luncheon. Coach Cortright extended to Wisconsin folks an invitation to attend N. D. A. C. basketball games en masse, and assured us that we could give all of the U. W. cheers that we wanted to. We are going to accept this invitation one of these fine winter evenings.—1-2-26.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNI

HARRY KEDNEY, '14

THE Minneapolis U. W. Club held its fourth meeting at the Radisson Hotel on January 8th. There were several out-of-town men to lunch with us and we had a very interesting address by Governor R. A. Young of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Any Wisconsin man or woman coming through Minneapolis and desiring to get in touch with any of the members of the local Alumni Club may inquire of Mr. C. A. Buckner, Assistant Manager of the Radisson Hotel, who has on file in his office, the complete roster of all interested Wisconsin people. This roster is kept up-to-date by the local Alumni Clubs and as complete information is contained therein as can be obtained.

The management of the Radisson Hotel has shown marked consideration and will be very glad to assist Wisconsin people in any fashion that it can. If there is some point on which the Radisson cannot supply the information, they will put you in touch with the local secretary, who will be glad to extend any courtesies possible to those desiring them.

Our next monthly meeting will be held on February 12th, which will be an open meeting with no special program—just a get-together and get-acquainted proposition. All Wisconsin men are requested to be with us at the Radisson at that time.—1-8-26.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNAE

LETHE GROVER WILLIAMS, '20

ON Saturday, December 12, the Minneapolis Alumnae held their regular monthly meeting at the Leamington Hotel. Luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock, after which announcements were made by Irma Alexander Bullis, '15, and Eleanore Groff Adams, '13. Mildred Curtis Murphy, '07, reported on the results of the benefit bridge given to help defray expenses of the Wisconsin pep fest and dance.

Professor Jansky, head of the department of radio of the University of Minnesota gave a very interesting talk on radio, touching particularly on the following points: 1. Growth of the radio. 2. Methods of obtaining money to operate stations. 3. Regulation of stations. 4. Development of methods of transmitting.

Bridge was played in the afternoon.

The following were present at the meeting: Irma Alexander Bullis, '15, Henrietta Kurtz, Eleanor Groff Adams, '13, Ruth Remington Cernighan, '17, Ann Blackburn Nourse, ex'08, Mable Sheldon Whitney, '00, Mary James Stark, '23, Majel Buckstaff Leary, ex'21, Dorothy Hedler, '25, Kathryn Wise Homaday, Marie Flower Cobb, '13, Florence Cornelius Flohil, '84, Alice Murray, '21, Lois Boylan, Laura Peterson, '22, Louise Finch Frobach, '21, Ines Warren Williams, ex'14, Pauline Lewis Sitar, '22, Henrietta Wood Kessenich, '16, Mildred Curtiss Murphy, '07, Dolores Ward Jacobs, ex'19, Marguerite Jansky, ex'19, Coie Winter Ensign, '16, Josie Sinaiko Mendow, ex'19, Zelpha Meyers Schaal, Rosa Fitch Briggs, '84, Abbey Cates, '79, Beulah James, '25, Adelene James, '25.

The January meeting has been postponed until the third Saturday in the month. Miss Ruth Green, '15, Supervisor of the Speech Defect Department of Public Schools, will be our speaker.—

NEW YORK

W. D. RICHARDSON, ex'10

WE have met George Little and he is ours.

That expresses the way I feel about the new Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach at the University of Wisconsin. That expresses, I think, the feeling of the members of the New York alumni of the University of Wisconsin who recently met George Little at a luncheon tendered in his honor.

I had never met George Little previous to the meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in New York during the Holidays, but my duties on The New York Times carry me about the country quite a bit and bring me in rather close contact with athletic directors and coaches at many institutions. It might interest you to know that I have yet to hear anyone say that in the person of George Little we haven't absolutely the finest of the fine. Not only is he universally respected as a leader and a coach, but also is he universally admired as a man.

As a rule coaches are not altogether prone to say complimentary things about another coach, particularly if he happens to be a rival coach. George Little seems to be the exception. I have talked with Stagg, Zuppke, Wilce, Yost—all speak in highest terms of praise of George Little. Their endorsements are,

I think, the finest any man could possibly receive.

Personally I am quite certain that in George Little, Wisconsin has finally found her Moses. I believe that he has all the attributes, the peculiar attributes I might add, that a Wisconsin athletic director and coach needs. No ordinary man could step in at Wisconsin and do the job. Jack Wilce stated what I mean when, at the luncheon where we first met George Little, he said: "I was recently discussing Little's appointment as Athletic Director at Wisconsin with a man who knows George and who knows the Wisconsin athletic situation. We were agreed that the choice was a happy one. I happened to remark that George had started off auspiciously in a football way. 'Yes,' agreed the other, he surely did. It ought to put him in solid, but you know Wisconsin."

We who have been more or less concerned with or kept more or less close touch with Wisconsin athletics over the last two decades DO KNOW WISCONSIN. We know that there have been many factors which have contributed to Wisconsin's comparatively mediocre athletic record, to the constant seething of the athletic kettle, to the periodical demands for changes.

But we believe that in George Little's appointment as Director and Coach we now have for the first time in our history a man who appears to be fully equipped for the man's-size job involved. What Wisconsin has lacked in the past and what is combined with many other qualities in the make-up of George Little has been an organizer, an understander of men, a cementer of groups, an example in leadership and a man with self-confidence and self-reliance. Heretofore no one who has held the position has had all these essential attributes. George Little does have them. In the short time he has been at Wisconsin he has demonstrated that he has them.

I was interested in learning, not from Little, but from another coach, just why he took charge of football last fall. At the present time the football coach is the crux of any athletic situation. George Little could have taken the athletic directorship and dodged the football issue. He could have entrusted the football coaching to others and then, if things hadn't gone right or as they did go, he could have shifted the responsibility. But he isn't that sort. George Little went out of his way to jeopardize his own well-being by taking hold of football. Why? Because he wasn't afraid of the issue, because he knew that what Wisconsin needed most was a successful football season. No lack of self-confidence there; no passing the buck. That's the kind of a man we want. That's the kind of a man I feel we now have in George Little.

All of us, I am sure, believe that Wisconsin will stand squarely back of the new Director and Coach; all of us, I am sure, believe that the Wisconsin spirit of old is still there (at least George Little told us it was, bigger than ever); all of us, I am sure, know that the material is there in fully as much abundance as it is at Illinois, at Michigan, at Ohio State, at Iowa.

The real crisis for George Little, however, has not passed. It didn't come last fall, nor will it come until Wisconsin has a "bad" season just as every institution has "bad" seasons occasionally. But when that time comes, I am sure that Wisconsin will face it with fortitude, face it as Wisconsin men, whose confidence in George Little is in no way shaken.

Personally I have reached a point where, interested though I may still be in athletic prowess at Wisconsin, I no longer count athletic success in terms of wins and losses. I am far more concerned in the right kind of teams, eligible teams, teams imbued with the ideals of hard-fighting which is a Badger heritage, teams that typify good sportsmanship. I want Wisconsin teams that are able to take defeat graciously, victories modestly. In short I want WISCONSIN TEAMS.

I firmly believe that we are entitled to our share of success in football, track, basketball, crew, baseball, etc.; I firmly believe that all things being equal, George Little will give us our share. But if we happen to have our "downs" even more than we have our "ups" I shall continue to shout for George Little because I think he is the ideal type of man to work with and to lead the young men of Wisconsin. I am for him hook, line and sinker. I hope that every Wisconsin alumnus will give him unqualified and unstinted support and I hope, too, that Wisconsin alumni and students will not permit any outside agencies to dictate our policies, athletic or otherwise. I understand that at Wisconsin as elsewhere there are those who, having neither the intelligence nor the ability nor the heritage nor the right to dictate, do so and that their blind followers are all too many.

Congratulations upon the new make-up of the Magazine. It is vastly improved.

Best wishes for a Prosperous Year.

SHANGHAI

KATHERINE SPENCER STOCKER

EDWARD Stocker, '09, and Katherine Spencer Stocker entertained at dinner for Dean H. L. Russell, '88, and his secretary, Wyman Smith, '20, at their home on Route Doumer on November 24.

Among those present were John Gold and Agnes Brewer Gold, Sidney Sheldon, '94, and Mrs. James Noble, of Black River Falls. A. R. Hager, '97, secretary of the Shanghai U. W. Club was unable to come.

In the course of conversation Dean Russell told of many interesting things about the University,—its new president, its new buildings and its progress generally. He also told of his trip to New Zealand a year ago.

A few evenings later, Mr. and Mrs. Gold entertained Dean Russell, Mr. Smith and others at a Chinese dinner which the Dean seemed to enjoy immensely. Before the repast was over he was very deft with the chopsticks, refusing to use a fork. He took down the names of many of the dishes. Afterwards they were taken to the Hotel Majestic, one of the show places of Shanghai.—1-3-26.

SPRINGFIELD, MO.

ALICE BEMIS H'DOUBLER, '18

ON the evening of December 30th Alice Bemis H'Doubler, '18, and Francis Todd H'Doubler, '07, invited into their home all the Wisconsin folks they could find in the vicinity of Springfield for a social evening and for the purpose of forming a local Wisconsin Club. Those who responded to the invitation were Raymond Thomas, '25, Hattie B. Thomas, '25, Paul Sunderland, '20, Avis Peters Sunderland, '18, Helen Wood, '23, J. Newton Wakeman, Orra Louise Anderson, '27, James Allen Anderson, '28, Franz Daniel, '27, Warren Hedges, '26.

Alice Bemis H'Doubler was elected secretary.

The Club will hold more gatherings in the near future and any Wisconsin men and women who are near Springfield and who would like to join the group are urged to communicate with Mrs. H'Doubler.—1-10-26.

TULSA

ALBERT LEHR, Jr. '21

WHEN the Tulsa chapter of the American Association of University Women announced plans for a College Night gathering of alumni from universities all over the country at the Akdar theater in Tulsa on November 17, few people thought that Wisconsin, far away to the north, would make much of a showing. There are so many graduates from Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, and Arkansas universities here, that they naturally won the prestige of advance publicity. But when the beautiful new theater was filled to capacity with a gala crowd of collegiate alumni on College Night, old Wisconsin turned out to be one of the leaders. About 65 of the 75 U. W. alumni known to be residents of Tulsa were in the Wisconsin section, capped with cardinal skypieces and brimming over with pep. They also had mammoth red chrysanthemums to wave and flaunt about to show their colors.

Before the curtain arose for the first act of "The Hottentot," presented by the Irene Summerley Players, it was evident that Wisconsin, Michigan, and the University of Tulsa would be chief contenders for the prize award of having staged the best stunt and for having displayed the most college spirit during the evening. The local university was represented by its entire undergraduate body and by a pep squad of about 40 boys and girls in bright costumes, trained to a finish in their yells. Michigan was represented by about 200 people, alumni, members of their families, and friends, all of whom had been present at a Michigan banquet before the show. They had a commanding position in the house, but Wisconsin's 65 folks were way down in front where they could be seen as well as heard, and where Cheerleader Crawford Wheeler, '16, could jump to the stage to snap the Wisconsin crowd into yells and cheers and lead the orchestra in accompaniment to good old rousing Wisconsin songs.

After all of the 30 or more colleges and universities represented by alumni had been given four minutes in which to present their stunts, songs, and yells between acts and at the end of the show, the judges announced Wisconsin, Michigan, and Oklahoma, tied for first place. We were instructed to take three minutes more for a competitive pep contest, and the throats of all three delegations were strained to their limit. When the whistle was sounded, the judges announced the tie as unbroken and gave us two minutes more of frenzied competition. Wisconsin's 65 held their own against Michigan's 200 and the crowd was in a fever of anticipation as the judges announced University of Tulsa as the winner.

Everyone had a big time at the affair and College Night will be made an annual feature of alumni activities in Tulsa. The Wisconsin crowd had prepared for their part in the show at two meetings during the fall, both held in the home of Dr. Harry Murdock, '02, and Cathleen Craigo Murdock, '03.

Officers elected at the second meeting were Jack Sherwood, '18, president; Amy Comstock, '09, vice-president; Edith Ewald, '22, treasurer; Albert Lehr Jr., '21, secretary; and Art Black, ex'17, sergeant-at-arms. Crawford Wheeler, '16, was named cheerleader for the College Night stunt.

The Badgers in Tulsa plan to have further meetings this winter and spring, one of them to be on the night of a conference basketball game when the play can be heard over the radio.—1-9-26.

OTHER UNIVERSITIES

Kentucky University has established a College of Commerce.

New York University reports nearly 4,000 students registered.

Louisiana University moved to a new campus near Baton Rouge last fall.

Yale accepted only 859 of the 1,359 qualified freshmen who sought entrance this fall. Those admitted have a higher scholastic average than any former group of Yale freshmen. Yale has recently named its Department of Education Building Barnard Hall in memory of Henry Barnard, B.A., Yale 1830, founder of the American Journal of Education and first United States Commissioner of Education. Barnard Hall at Wisconsin is also named in memory of the same man, who became Chancellor of our University in 1858.

DEATHS

WILLIAM H. HOLT, ex '53, who for some years held the distinction of being the sole survivor of the first University class organized in 1849, passed away at the home of his daughter in Madison on December 18, at the age of ninety-one.

MICHAEL S. FRAWLEY, '73, prominent Wisconsin educator, passed away at Eau Claire on December 14, death being occasioned by complications following an accident.

After graduation from the University he was principal of the Dodgeville high school. Next he was elected superintendent of schools for Dane County and held that position until about 1880, when he was appointed principal of the Eau Claire high school. He served in this capacity for thirty-three years, retiring in 1913.

Mr. Frawley received his masters' degree from Wisconsin in 1887. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Coyne Frawley, one daughter and three sons.

CHARLES N. BROWN, '81, well-known Madison attorney and court commissioner, died suddenly at his home, 41 Roby Rd., on December 31. Although he had been suffering from heart trouble for several months, he refused to leave his work and just before his death had taken a trip to New York City where he visited his son, Prof. Irving Brown, of Columbia University.

Mr. Brown was an indefatigable worker, not only in his own business, but in business, social and civic organizations formed for the advancement of Madison as a municipality. He was a member of the Blackhawk Country Club, a curator and chairman of the finance committee of the Wisconsin State Historical Society, director and treasurer of the L. L. Olds Seed Co., vice-president, director, and attorney of Commercial National Bank, director of Commercial Trust Company, secretary and treasurer of the Mendota Heights Association, treasurer of the Madison Literary Club for 30 years, treasurer and director of the Madison General Hospital for some years, organizer and officer of the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive Association for 32 years, treasurer of the Dane County Bar Association for many years. He also served as treasurer of the General Alumni Association for a number of years. He held membership in both the Madison and University Clubs.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Williams Brown, a son, Irving, two sisters, and two half sisters.

FREDERICK W. WINTER, '87, died of heart disease on December 6 at his home, 1500 Beechwood Blvd., Pittsburg, Pa.

Mr. Winter, who served in the U. S. patent office at Washington, D. C., from 1889 to 1904, was known as one of the most prominent patent attorneys in the country. From 1904 to 1910 he was a member of the firm of Kay, Totten and Winter, Pittsburg. In the interim between 1910 and 1920 he had his own office, and following this he became senior member of the firm of Winter, Brown and Critchlow.

He was a member of the Union Club, University Club, Pittsburg Athletic Association and the Fox Chapel Country Club.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, his mother, Mrs. Bertha Winter of Tomah, and three brothers.

FREDERICK W. WINTER, '87

Major General ROBERT BRUCE MCCOY, '91, distinguished overseas commander of the 32nd Division, Wisconsin and Michigan National Guards, died at the Wisconsin General Hospital on January 5, following an illness which dates back to the time of overseas duty during the World War.

GEORGE H. CLENDENIN, '93, Oshkosh, met instant death as a result of shooting himself on January 3. It is not known whether the shooting was accidental or intentional, as the rifle which was found near him might have been discharged due to awkward handling. Mr. Clendenin had become somewhat enfeebled due to ill health.

CHARLES HENRY CHAPPELL JR., ex '95, died at his home, 2325 Ripley St., Davenport, Ia., May 15, 1925.

FRANCIS E. KELLEY, ex'13, former principal of the Princeton high school, died at Princeton, N. J., on December 7.

WALTER W. BANKS, pioneer Madison banker and member of the University from 1889 to 1910, died at his home, 153 E. Gilman St., December 16, following an illness of four weeks.

Faculty, M. S. COBURNE, instructor in English, while going across Lake Mendota on December 19, broke through the thin ice somewhere near the middle of the lake and was drowned. The body was recovered January 13.

Former Justice Burr JONES resigned as a member of the Wisconsin supreme court on January 1 and is now planning on taking a real vacation and rest. He plans to devote much of his time to his library and the management of private affairs. Justice Jones has served at times as district attorney of Dane county, has been a member of Congress, member of the state tax commission, and professor of law at the University. He was appointed associate justice of the supreme court by Governor Philipp in 1920 and elected in 1922. Justice E. Ray Stevens, '93, formerly judge in the Dane county circuit court, has succeeded Justice Jones on the supreme court bench.

Fellow Classmates: I do hope you forty-fivers realize the importance of the coming convocation in June! This should be our Happy New Year greeting to our Alma Mater and to each other. One man tried to defer his return until the 50th class anniversary. He was easily converted to this coming June. He admitted that according to mortality statistics he might not be here then. Don't be too optimistic as to how long you will survive. Come now, and make sure of seeing us all. The other classes of your acquaintance will be there en masse. For instance, such first premium men as Kemper KNAPP, John DODSON, Joe HALLAM, will all be there, wearing their usual smile and blue ribbon. They were all my guests, December 30th at the University Club, when we welcomed to our city Frank PORTER, now dean of the Law School of Southern California. Frank was a delegate attending a convention of all the deans of law from all over America. Five of us sat at table and I was the only gray-haired one present. The others, as to size, appearance, and sprightliness, looked as they did when they scampered over the campus from '78 to '81. It was such a reunion as we hope to duplicate in June! Stare Decisis-1910? Can you translate the above? I will give you a clue—Porter Auditorium, Room 301. It is taken from a pamphlet just issued by the U. S. C. College of Law. It portrays a wonderful new Law building which has been the dream of Porter since 1910 and the best room in the entire structure is honored by his name. All the more glory for 1881!

New Year's cards were received from many of you. I mention those who did not remember me. They will see me in June and apologize!

Judge Henry MASON says he and Mrs. Mason will surely be there in June. You remember how proud we were of Henry in 1921, when he covered our class with glory by making the best address given at the alumni dinner? He can do it again, I know. Come and hear him.—F. S. W.

The following communication of interest has been received from E. M. WINSTON, who is an attorney at 155 N. Clark St., Chicago:

"Mr. A. W. Meyer, '98, spends nearly a page of a recent number of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE in objecting that the Board of Regents were undemocratic in that they attempted to determine, as Mr. Meyer puts it, 'for all time,' the question whether certain contributions should be accepted 'in the future.'"

"Now it is of course true that the thing that one Board of Regents does can at any time be undone by another Board or even by the same Board itself, if it shall thereafter change its mind. The Board, therefore, did not attempt to fix things for all time and Mr. Meyer's whole argument, being based on a wholly groundless assumption, is left hanging in the air without supporting fact.

"The furious objection made to the Regents' action is, I submit, exceedingly thoughtless.

"The question of the acceptance of certain gifts is undoubtedly a difficult one but it is also true that educational institutions are frequently subsidized for the direct purpose of preventing freedom of speech and of action which Mr. Meyer so strongly eulogizes. Such gifts have frequently been made for the direct purpose of indirect bribes of public officials and public institutions.

"I do not know, nor shall I presume to suggest the reason in the minds of the Regents for their action. I have, however, heard a very definite story which, if it be true, proves in the case of the University of Wisconsin the danger of the acceptance of such gifts. If the story is true, the Board of Regents had ample justification and reason for their acts.

"It is indubitable that the position the Regents has very strong reasons in support of. The Regents, therefore, were quite justified in exercising their own judgment as they have done. Whether I or any other alumnus of the institution thinks that, upon the whole, the action taken is advisable, is quite beside the question. The Regents have the responsibility and should not be abused because of its honest exercise."

Loyal DURAND, member of the board of directors of the Alumni Association, appears in the Milwaukee Sentinel's "Who's Who in Milwaukee" column for January 4. Like Matthew DUDGEON of the Milwaukee Library, he appears to have grown younger rather than older, in spite of the fact that he has a son who is an instructor at the University, another who is a senior here, and two daughters who are registered at Downer College and Downer Seminary respectively. (Which causes us to comment upon the marvels which may be wrought by a clean shave. Loyal used to wear a mustache in '91. We'd like to see the Sentinel try the same sort of stunt for some of our prominent women graduates, showing them "Then" with long hair and "Now" with bobs. Perhaps they could produce quite as striking and flattering a transformation.) But coming back—Mr. Durand has a long line of accomplishments to his credit too numerous to mention, in addition to his main business of selling insurance. And no wonder he keeps fit—he belongs to the Fox Point Country Club, the Athletic Club, and the Town Club.

Charles HEBBERD is described as the "political paradox of the Northwest" in a recent issue of the Spokesman-Review, Spokane, Wash. In business life he is known as manager and secretary-treasurer of Tull & Gibbs, but to the people of Spokane he is best known as the man who helps put over any civic, national or party need. He helped raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for Victory loans, and has millions to his credit raised in community chest drives and other public works. During the war, he was state food administrator. He has behind all his public business a sense of giving back to the community something in return for what it has given him and Spokane may well be proud of this "political paradox"—"a lawyer who does not practice law and a politician who never sought or found office," a man who not only is successful in his own business but brings success to every worthy project which his city or state undertakes.—Zona GALE was one of the principal speakers at the Matrix Table dinner at the Loraine Hotel, January 9, given by Theta Sigma Phi. Her subject was "Collecting Material for Drama and Fiction Writing." In the January issue of the Century Magazine appears a sketch by Miss Gale entitled "Portage, Wis. What Only a Native Knows."—In a "Who's Who in Milwaukee" column of the Sentinel of Dec. 24 appear two interesting pictures of Matthew DUDGEON, who celebrated his fifth anniversary as head of the Milwaukee public library last August. The one shows him a whiskered young man as he appeared while practicing law in Madison and as a volunteer during the Spanish-American war, the other as he appears now. Since student days at Wisconsin he has to his credit such jobs as secretary of the Wisconsin Free Library commission, director of the Library school of the University, organizer of camp library service in this country and overseas during the war, and now head of the Milwaukee public library. With all that he is looking younger "Now," with clean shaven face, than "Then." Perhaps it's that round of golf at Lake Park every morning that helps keep him so.

"Abou Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase."

So sings the poet, and when one contemplates the later inscriptions on the scroll of the Class of 1901, there is seen the names of those numbered on the Silver Jubilee Reunion Committee inscribed thereon by President Lynn Tracy. He penned the names of the Faithful, and if his strength and the ink had held out, the names of each and every one of this, the Greatest Class, would have appeared thereon. He did, however, name some of the Elect, sufficient to shoulder the task of marshalling the hosts of 1901 into the Great Pilgrimage in June to that Shrine of Shrines on the Hill.

From the four corners of the earth will they come,—fathers, wives and children, and the few lonely bachelors that are represented by the naught in the procession depicted above. Now that the call has been sounded, there are heard evidences of a great preparation.

"Father," asked the child, "does not the wind seem to blow harder tonight?" "Be not afraid, my child, 'tis but the echoing murmur of the deliberations of the Reunion Committee."

"Father, the earthquake is upon us!" "Fear not, my child, Chairman Paul Stover has perhaps just evolved some great idea for the success of the Reunion."

Thus the Spirit of the Class of 1901 asserts itself. And so will be interpreted otherwise seemingly inexplicable natural phenomena, for 1901 has just begun to get started, and in June on Der Tag, the welkin will ring with the shouts of the pilgrims, 'Second to None, Second to None, U. of W., 1901.'

'Tis a cruel world—every month I just gotta write something. And as you can readily tell from my face the intelligence is always minus. And then on top of all that, one of my readers took me seriously and he or she wrote a letter from Paris, France, loaded with the most scintillating razz. Whow, it had porcupine quills all over. Even said, "Curses on he who gave you my address!" Now, Prof. Ellery Leonard would say this is bum English—should be "Curses on him." Imagine a U. W. graduate so forgetting his or her English language training. The vitriol did not ruffle even a hair on my noble head, but I blushed for the English. She—it looks like a girl's hand—didn't even sign her name. Guess that's striking under the belt, eh?

It has been announced that Jack Wilce will continue as football Coach at Ohio State. We're all for you Jack.

Howard Marsh has been starring in the New York cast of The Student Prince, which has been running for almost two years. He was a member of our class in 1908-09, and took part in the Haresfoot performance of that year. Glory to you, Marsh—and keep it up.

Calla Andrus recently made a trip to all Alpha Xi Delta chapters of the Middle West as the national counsellor. Between her job of secretary of the Democrat Printing Company, her sorority duties and her social activities, she's some busy girl.

And talking about sorority and fraternity homes at Madison, they are sure looking up. The organizations now having new homes, most of them near-palaces, are too numerous to set down. Many of them are on the lake shore from Lake Street to Wisconsin Avenue, with a few on University Heights: When you visit Madison next time, it would be well to make a deliberate trip down Langdon and into the various courts running to the lake. Wisconsin probably has the best fraternity and sorority homes in the country now, and the end is not yet, judging from the "successful fires" that have been staged recently in a few of the older houses. Write your own insurance policy.

Talking furthermore about winter sports at Wisconsin—we are sure going hot. Kay Iverson, recently of Minnesota University, has a hockey team that is going in great shape and which in all games thus far staged has been playing to standing-room-only crowds. But that is not all. Every phase of winter sports is going big. With five skating rinks on land, one on the lake, a toboggan slide, a ski jump, and other facilities, the students, faculty and general public are throwing themselves into it all with a vim such as has never been seen here before. On February 7th the big International ski meet will be staged here, and on the 13th the All University Ice Carnival will be on the program. Coach Jim Brader is chairman of the Winter Sports Committee and it looks as tho all the schools of the country will in the next few years be looking to Wisconsin as the center of college winter sports. And besides that, Bennie Snow will be giving his famous snow flake lecture again.

Frank KONRAD is a practicing surgeon, address 270 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.—L. F. GRABER, professor of agronomy at the University, was one of the principal speakers at the New Hampshire Dairymen's Association meeting at Concord on January 12. Professor Graber has done such valuable work in demonstrating to Wisconsin dairymen the merits of home-grown alfalfa as a substitute for high priced grain feeds that naturally his expert advice and opinion is now sought by other states.—Homer TALBOT keeps careful watch over the affairs of Jefferson City, Mo. He is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce there. Address him at 526 Clarke Ave.

The Wisconsin football team scored a big hit this season with all the students and alumni everywhere. Thanks to your thotfulness, we in foreign lands who are far removed from the campus have been able to enter whole-heartedly into the Wisconsin victories thru reading the accounts of them in the Sunday Daily Cardinals that were sent us during October and November. I danced for joy here in old Athens when I first got the news that we licked Chicago 20-7. That was a clean relief after the memory of that heart breaking tie game of last year we should have won three different times, but just "quiet" couldn't. I was home last year and saw that jinx game. Wisconsin's jinx was finally "busted up" this year and a world of credit is due George Little and that "wouldn't be licked" Wisconsin team. Hats off to you from distant Greece. And thanks a thousand times for the Cardinals. Best wishes for the new year!

Reune in June!

Things are beginning to hum, and presently the buzz will be heard all over our continent, for the Committee Chairmen, who have assumed the organization of the biggest and best Tenth Reunion, are preparing to broadcast their plans so that every single sixteen-year-old who hasn't intended to come will change his or her mind faster than it takes one to fall on icy pavements these days.

Ed CONNOR, who recently became a benedict, will see that plenty of entertainment is furnished. He is appointing a large committee to handle this part of the program and he encourages ideas and suggestions from others not on the committee. Let's hear from some of you clever and original folks who are far away!

Milt FINDORFF, with his committee, will extend to all his right hand of hospitality. Since he has a new daughter to assist him and the rest of his committee, we can anticipate a warm and cordial welcome when we reune in June.

Publicity and general information are in the capable hands of Don FELLOWS, who will get in touch with all sections of this country (and Mexico), to dig up any hitherto unenlightened sixteen-year-old who may have lost track of the passage of time. These district committeemen are urged to cooperate with the Central Committee in spreading news and enthusiasm, for it is believed that personal appeal will interest more individuals than general news letters.

John WISE is the fellow who seeks your contributions to help finance this big convention of our illustrious class. As finance chairman, he will soon send you cards requesting preliminary fees and correct identifications, so get ready to rob the baby's bank!

Recently, letters from distant sixteen-year-olds have been received. Among them, one from Al POWELL at White Rock, S. D., contains a novel idea and we take the liberty to print some of it, believing that reuners from other sections might consider a similar plan.

"Mrs. Powell (Hazel CALDWELL) and myself with our two daughters, Mary and Janet, will drive back. We had a nice visit with Henrietta WOOD Kessenich and Al KESSENICH in their new home at Minneapolis after the Wisconsin-Minnesota game, and they are also driving. Al and I would like to get up a caravan from the Northwest, and drive together from Minneapolis. Please give me the dates, and have the treasurer send a bill for my share of any fees."

Let's hear from more of you, so we can tell the world you're coming!

About a year ago Ernest FAHLBERG hit upon an idea that bids fair to revolutionize the cream whipping process and make thousands of converts from old methods to the Fahlberg method. The virtue of his device is that it does its work, even with ordinary cream, in fifteen seconds and at room temperature, in contrast to whippers of other types, which require special cream and low temperatures as well as several minutes of arduous labor. Mr. Fahlberg gives due credit to Prof. J. H.
