PRICE 5 CENTS

BEST SEATS FOR CONCERTS ALREADY SOLD

Students Are Buying Season Tickets Rapidly This Year

All the best seats in the five-dollar section of the Union board concert series are already sold, and the students are this year buying season tickets more rapidly than the residents of Madison.

Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music, when asked about the standing in the musical world of the four artists who are to appear in the Union board concert series said, "All four are internationally known artists and may be considered the equal of any in their respective branches of the profession."

"Mabel Garrison," Dr. Mills said, "is considered by many musicians as the most satisfactory artist of the first class before the public today."

Ference Vecsey is probably the most remarkable of all the youthful prodigies. When a boy of 13 he astonished the musical world by performing the three great violin concertos on one program. He demonstrated that at this early age, he was equipped with a finished technique and also that he possessed

OCTOPUS CONTRIBS ARE DUE OCT. 19

Octopus contributions for the first issue on October 19 are to be turned in by Monday noon, Oct. 3. Contributors are asked to leave their sketches or writings in the Octopus office at the Union building, or in the Octopus boxes on the hill.

All students, especially freshmen, are urged to write or draw for the next number. Freshmen and Homecoming are the general themes for contributors to work on. Helpful criticism will be given new writers interested in the Octopus by the experienced staff editors.

DOROTHY AXTELL HEADS ARTS CLUB

Dorothy Axtell '22 was elected president of the Arts and Crafts club last night at the first meeting of the year, held in the Fine Arts laboratory.

Other officers are Marietta Hipple '22, vice-president; W. A. Hughes, post graduate, secretary, and Martha Groan '23, treasurer. Committees will be headed by Dorothy Johnson '24, membership; Grace Worth '23, publicity; Elenora De Vine '22, activity; and Mrs. R. B. Stewart, finance.

A get-together party for all members of the club, and for those interested in it, will be held October 12.

Sybil Mossman '22, Irene Henry '23, and Beulah Jandell '25 were elected to membership in the club.

TRADITIONS BODY OFFERS REPORT TO COMMISSION

Work of Student Committees to Be Completed Within a Week

Reports from the three committees of the student commission considering the problem of traditions were heard at the second meeting of the body last night in the Law building. Indications are that the ground is being covered thoroughly and rapidly and that the work will be completed in a little over a week.

Two of the reports, that dealing with data on the subject, presented by Milton C. Borman '21, chairman of the committee, and that concerned with changes in the statement, substance, or symbolism of traditions, presented by Francis Cosgrove '21, were accepted. Cosgrove's committee plans to ascertain faculty and student opinion on the proposition it is considering.

The third report, filed by a committee headed by Phil La Follette '20, which outlined the methods by which the observance of traditions should be fostered, was voted tabled until the suggestions it offered might be studied in detail by the commission members. La Follette explained the suggestions, which included the enforcing of traditions by the three upper classes, the revival of the Student court with a reorganization of that body and a similar one in the representation of the Student Senate.

The work of the committee on substance and symbolism will, by virtue of a motion passed, have its work completed by next Wednesday night, at which time a committee composed of commission chairman Harry Fox '21, Ralph Scheinpfug '21, Leo Kohl '22, Roy Sorenson '22, Carl Ceaser '22, Cosgrove, Borman, and La Follette, will prepare a tentative final report. The findings of all committees will be embodied in this, and its substance will be presented to the entire commission on Friday, Oct. 7. When ratified it will be open for the consideration and adoption of the student body.

MENORAH MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED

Talks by Martin Mandelker, president of the Menorah society, Prof. S. H. Goodnight, dean of men; Dr. B. H. Schlomovitz, head of the physiology department, of the Marquette medical school; Prof. L. B. Wolfenson, of the department of Semetic languages, and Mrs. Joseph Jastrow, made up the program of the first meeting of the Menorah society, held in Lathrop parlors last night. An excellent musical program was given by the members of the society.

The attendance at the meeting far surpassed that of any previous gathering of the society, and it is believed by members of the organization that the society will increase greatly in size during the course of the year.

The society will welcome all who are interested and care to attend the next meeting, which will be announced in The Daily Cardinal.

Where Did You Get That Hat?

Where did you get that hat? Why it's a tradition, my dear fellow, and don't you know that traditions reach back into the deep recesses of the untraceable. I 'spose there have always been green caps at Wisconsin. Don't ask me where I got it.

But Dean S. H. Goodnight says you got it only about 10 years ago when the venerable and august body that preceded the Student Senate and that was entitled the Student conference voted that it would be a nice thing for freshmen to wear green caps. Maybe here in America where it only takes three generations to make a gentleman it takes only 10 years to make a tradition. Anyway you've got the traditional cap again so wear it like the member of the traditional third generation that you are.

"Where did you get that hat?" is much more easily answered when asked at Ohio State university

"Designed by Stinchcomb," is the answer.

When the famous gridiron star takes to hat designing, is it any wonder that the Co-op of that state is able to sell 900 caps with a pressing demand for more? Their cap is not a tradition, it's style. Who wouldn't be delighted to wear a hat designed by some Wisconsin star? "Tee" Gould for example, or "Hootie" Weston, or Guy Sundt or Al Davey? There are infinite possibilities.

According to the Ohio State Lantern, Stinchcomb, halfback of renown and member of the famous all-star eleven, was not only instrumental in getting the "jockey" design approved, but he also designed the lids which, it is rumored, are lined with the label, "Designed by Stinchcomb."

BLAZE DAMAGES ROOMING HOUSE

A fire believed to have started from sparks of a nearby railroad that lodged under the shingles damaged a student rooming house at 919 West Dayton street about 6 o'clock last night.

The damage was chiefly the demolishing of a rear wall. The owners and occupants of the house, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Garrison, were down town at the time the fire broke out. Seven students room in the house, but the two whose rooms the fire approached, succeeded in saving most of their belongings including English themes which are due today.

The fire which started on the roof spread through the shedding of the wall to the basement. Some damage was done to the floors by the water, but the total damage has not been estimated.

CARDINAL DESK EDITORS

A meeting of all Cardinal desk editors and assistants, and editorialists will be held this afternoon at 4:30 in the editorial office, Union building. It is absolutely necessary that all men be present.

BOARD NAMES CAPTAIN FOR ANNUAL RUSH

Al Knollin '22 to Be Chief of Police of Class Battle

Al Knollin '22, "W" man in track, was appointed captain of the annual class rush to be held Saturday Oct. 22, at a meeting of the Athletic board, Wednesday noon.

The board also passed a resolution favoring the operation of an elective score board by an outsider at the gymnasium during the world series, provided that the admission charged does not exceed 25 cents and that the floor can be obtained for this use. The profits that the board will derive from this source are to be used in the furtherance of intra-mural sports.

The loss of the services of athletes in the future because of scholastic ineligibility will be materially lessened as a result of an offer from a number of the honorary societies at the university that have agreed to appoint men to tutor any athlete in need of such services. Every member of the Athletic board heartily endorsed this movement through which it is hoped the grades of many Wisconsin athletes will raise to a much higher level.

George Stolley '22, was elected secretary of the Athletic board and Forrest Paddock '22 was appointed baseball representative to succeed Carson Lyman, who graduated last spring. Stolley was a member of the track team last year while Paddock was one of the first string pitchers on Coach Guy S. Lowman's baseball team.

Knollin will in all probability appoint his assistants within the next few days, each of whom will in turn select a number of men to act as "cops" during the rush. Knollin's appointment as captain is in keeping with the customary rule by which a senior "W" man has charge of the freshman-sophomore battle on the lower campus each year.

KENDALL ELECTED BUSINESS MANAGER

At a meeting of the staff of editors of the Wisconsin Literary magazine last night Willard J. Rendall '22, was elected business manager of the magazine for the ensuing year. Rendall is a member of the Advertising club and of Sigma Phi fraternity, and was business manager of the Octopus last year.

Rendall will take immediate charge of the affairs of the Lit. A subscription campaign to take place very shortly is being planned. The business staff, which has not yet been appointed, will be selected by the end of the week. The positions of advertising and circulation manager are still open, and those interested in these departments of the magazine should call at the Lit office in the Union building between 4:30 and 5:30 any afternoon. In addition, there are several assistant managership positions open.

FRESH

Drawing Class Meets in Free Out-of-Doods

Glance at the beautiful campus some day,

"Tis a fresh air mission class," you will say.

Or perhaps they are studying nature and trees,
Or watching the butterflies flit in the breeze.

Not at all. Not at all. Nothing quite so refreshing. They really are working quite industriously in spite of the beauties of nature, the gentle wafting of the fall breezes, and all the other enticing distractions that wander up and down the hill at leisure.

From the exterior evidences we ought not to have any trouble getting myriads of exceptional and talented artists to liven the pages of our literary publications, heretofore so modest in their attempts to appeal to the mind instead of the eye. Soon, if the campus proves too cramped, perhaps we can prevail upon the Board of Regents to establish an artist's habitat at Vilas park.

If you don't know yet why they were clustered so comfortably on the upper campus, the fact of the matter is that Miss Wilson transported her class in applied free hand drawing out where they could have the full benefit of natural scenery.

Girls Club in Campaign to Get Members

Directors Start Drive Oct. 13; Seek to Reduce Indebtedness

The directors of the Girls' club are planning a $1 membership drive for Oct. 13.

They hope that on that day every woman in the city will become a member and so help to further this beneficial work.

During the last year, due to the generosity of individuals and the proceeds from the garden fete, the indebtedness of the club was reduced from $18,500 to $9,800. The directors feel that in the future they will not be obliged to appeal to the public for help, as they expect that the membership fees and the income from the house will meet current expenses, the house supporting itself and the membership fees contributing to the outside work and in addition to the reduction of the indebtedness.

August Building Shows 152 Per Cent Gain Here

As in July, the month of August showed a huge increase in building construction in Madison over the corresponding month of 1920. Figures showing the change in trend are published in the American Contractor for the leading cities of the country. Madison's gain for the month was 152 per cent; Sheboygan's was 545 and Milwaukee's 81. Kenosha showed a loss of 15 per cent, and Racine a loss of 12 per cent.

In August, 1920, Madison's building permits numbered 54, with an estimated cost of $117,955. Last month permits totalled 100 and the estimated total cost was $297,650. Sheboygan issued 80 permits, totalling $715,169.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

Varsity Holds Hard Scrimmage

BURKE GIVES
COUNTRY MEN
DAILY WORKCaptain Wall Is Only Cardinal Veteran to Return

Coach Meade Burke, of the Varsity cross-country squad, has between 40 and 50 men working out daily for the team this year and although all but one of the members of the squad will be men running for the first time on the Varsity, the prospects for a strong team are far from gloomy. In fact the candidates now working out have shown much for early season running and by the time the cross-country meetings take place, Coach Burke should have his charges rounded into tip top form.

Captain Mark N. Wall, Wisconsin's star distance man, is the only veteran who will run on the team this year. Dayton Brothers, and Dennis, three of the "W" men of last year, graduated in June and will not run again for Wisconsin. Wade, Wille, and Powell, three more veterans of last year's squad are back in the university again but are ineligible for competition and so are lost to the team. Noble, who would have undoubtedly made the squad again this year did not return to school this semester. Gombar is in school and is eligible but will not be able to run this year.

Lose Many From Last Year

With so many of last year's squad out of the running this year, it would appear that the team will not be strong, but such is not the case. Among the new candidates are many men who will probably make their marks in cross-country.

The majority of the men turning out this year are either sophomores or juniors and will develop into star men by the time next year's squad is called out for preliminary work. So the team of this year will be trained with an eye to the future, and Wisconsin's place on the cross-country map should be a prominent one within the next two or three years.

At the meeting last night the candidates were given some valuable information regarding their training and although the men have been in active work since the middle of the month, they have been working for wind and the development of their leg muscles. From now on the real training will begin.

MAY AWARD LETTERS TO BADGER TANK MEN

That Wisconsin swimmers placing first and second at conference meets will be awarded six-inch "W"s, as in all major sports, seems quite probable judging from the favorable sentiment that has been expressed by members of the Athletic board.

It is expected that four members of the board will hand in signed applications at the next meeting for an amendment to the constitution of the organization which will permit such an action. According to the rules of the board, the members cannot vote on the matter until the meeting following that in which the applications are presented.

In case the amendment receives a favorable vote, those men who made the required number of points last year will also be awarded their "W"s.

FIRST GAMES IN TENNIS TOURNEY
PLAYED FRIDAY

Over Fifty Men Entered in
All-University Net
Matches

Exactly 56 tennis players were entered in the all-university tennis tournament when the entry list closed at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Many of the tennis stars from last year's Varsity will compete, and the class of '24 will send up several players who promise to finish high in final ratings. Thirteen doubles teams will also play.

Don Bailey, Tredwell, "Swede" Gotfriedson, Aagesen, Fanning, and George Parker appear to be the best of the large number which has entered. Drawing for matches will be held today under the direction of Coach G. E. Linden, and players are expected to start play in the tourney Friday morning. Unless weather conditions forbid, the entire series of matches will be played off within two weeks, according to Coach Linden.

After the schedule of matches and opponents has been drawn up, it will be posted in the gymnasium, with the names of candidates and their telephone numbers. Men who are carded to play will then communicate with each other, and, after holding their match, will mark the result on the schedule, thus enabling tennis authorities to draw for the winner's next opponent.

The victor in each match must win two straight or two out of three sets, while the vanquished is automatically ruled out of further play.

In former years the all-university tennis tourney has been held in the early spring, but because spring weather often interfered with the success of the tourneys, it was decided to play the matches during early fall. Harold Taylor '20 was the last winner of the gold medal, which is presented each year.

VETERAN LINE TO MEET BADGERS HERE

A veteran line and several members of last year's backfield will trot on to the field for Lawrence to battle against Wisconsin on Saturday afternoon at Camp Randall. Nearly every man on the team played with the collegians in 1920 and rushed them to the top of the Little Five Wisconsin intercollegiate conference standings.

The line, which was said to have been the strongest in the conference last year, will be strengthened by the return of "Lizz" Blackburn, who starred at Appleton during the S. A. T. C. "Bill" Smith, Wisconsin Rapids, is captain of the squad. As center, he ranks above anything else in the Little Five. Doering is an experienced end who can be counted on to spear passes any time he gets free of the scrimmage line.

The Lawrence fort against Wisconsin will be its backfield, upon which Coach Harlan McChesney is pinning his hopes for a creditable showing. Ziebell at quarterback is the only new member of the ball carriers. Hubit and Beeder, halfbacks, and Basing, fullback, have stacked up against the best in Wisconsin.

After the Wisconsin struggle here, Lawrence takes on Stevens Point normal, Oshkosh normal, and Beloit, all at Appleton on successive Saturdays. Northwestern college meets Lawrence on October 29 at Watertown, and the big game of the season will be played against Ripon on November 12. Carroll closes the Appleton team's schedule.

PATCHED-UP TEAM MEETS TWO
RESERVE ELEVENS AT RANDALLPresenting--
G. E. NELSON

"Quick as a cat, particularly brilliant in sizing up the break in the line and getting to it by the time the runner reaches it, power, aggressiveness, and ability to diagnose plays," are the qualifications for guard outlined by Walter Camp when he chose the 1920 All-American football team.

Gordon F. Nelson '22, who has been stationed at right guard on the Varsity eleven during the scrimmages, seems to approximate these qualifications more closely than any other candidate for the Badger right guard position. It is evident that Coach Richards also believes Nelson is the right man for the job, as the big coach, after many changes, has regularly assigned Nelson to a place on the first team.

No position in the forward wall is strange to Nelson. He has played end, tackle, and guard, and has shown Varsity form in each position. Nelson broke into three Big Ten football games last year. Against Northwestern, he played guard, relieving Margoles. In two other contests, the big lineman played end. He held down a flank job in the memorable 13-7 game with Ohio last year, and although he did not play the entire contest, he made a creditable showing as a substitute for Tebell. Again in the Minnesota struggle which Wisconsin won, 3 to 0, Nelson played an end position.

This year at guard, he is expected to show the best football in his career, and critics are counting upon him to hold well against any opponent in the conference.

Richards Tries Irish at Problematical End
Position

A patched-up Varsity lineup engaged two reserve elevens in a grueling scrimmage on the Camp Randall practice field yesterday afternoon. The purpose of the changes was to give first string men a rest, and several of the regulars got into the game for only a few downs.

Tebell refrained from doing any strenuous work. His efforts were confined to booting place-kicks over the goal posts. The Badger end is becoming adept in the kicking game, and when tight situations arise near the enemy's goal, it is entirely probable that "Gus" will be called upon to exercise his ability.

Irish Shows Up Well

When the scrimmage started after blocking and charging practice, Russell Irish, 1920 frosh basketball star, was stationed at the problematical left end position. Although it was the second day of practice for the Madison lad, he showed up in good condition and handled his part of defense and offense well. Irish took a nice pass from Captain Sundt for a substantial gain during the scrimmage.

The Varsity lined up like this at the beginning of the workout:

Quarterback—Gibson.
Halfbacks—Collins, Elliott.
Fullback—Sundt.

Before the battle ended, Brumm, Elliott, and Williams were sent in.
Varsity Scores Twice

Early in the scrimmage, Varsity scored two touchdowns after it had been given the ball. Elliott worked nicely, going through the line and around end for long gains, and carrying the ball over the line by a powerful plunge. Hohlfeldt continued his scrappy play at tackle, breaking through the line several times, and never failing to down the runner after he had made the tackle. Sundt increased the impression that he will be one of the best fullbacks in the country and a candidate for honorary team selection if he maintains the pace that he has been setting in early practice.

When Varsity had stampeded the second team, Coach John Richards assigned "Shorty" Barr and his All-American cohorts to mix with the regulars. Barr led his team in the same, old snappy style, but lack of teamwork due to new shift formations which have not been thoroughly learned, prevented his eleven from showing as much power as in previous attempts.

"Red" Weston again aided the corps of assistants with their job of whipping the first team into shape. The crimson-haired Weston paid much attention to the ends, and especially to the weak left wing which he vacated last year.

TICKETS GO ON SALE
FOR LAWRENCE GAME

The ticket sale for Wisconsin's opening game with Lawrence starts this morning at the gym and closes Saturday noon. The student rate is 50 cents, and the price of the tickets on open sale will be $1. In order to take advantage of the reduced rate, students must present their fee cards at the gymnasium, as there will be no sale at student rates at Camp Randall.

JEWISH NEW YEAR SERVICES TO OPEN AT 7:30 TONIGHT

"U" Students of Jewish Faith Invited to Attend Meetings

Modern Jewish services for the new year, which occurs this year on October 3, beginning Sunday evening, Oct. 2, at sundown, will be held for the first time in Madison at the Woman's building, 240 West Gilman street, at 7:30.

Jewish students attending the university will be especially welcome. The service of prayer will be conducted in English. The prayer book of the Union of American Hebrew congregation for the New Year and the Day of Atonement will be used by the new organization which is to become the modern Jewish congregation of Madison.

A group of well-known Madison business and professional men have initiated this movement during the past week. Prof. L. B. Wolfenson, chairman of the department of Semitic languages and Hellenistic Greek, has consented to officiate at the services for the present.

Besides the evening service at 7:30 p. m., on Sunday, Oct. 2, there will be a service at the Woman's building likewise, on Monday morning, Oct. 3. These are the regular modern services for the new year. Any person interested in modern Jewish service is invited to attend.

The Day of Atonement, the other most solemn holy day of the Jewish calendar, will occur on October 12. As with all dates of the Jewish reckoning, this holiday will begin with sundown of October 11 at 7 p. m. There will be a longer musical and prayer program for the Day of Atonement. Likewise on Wednesday, Oct. 12, there is not only a morning but an afternoon service, which will begin at 9 a. m. The afternoon service will open at 4 o'clock.

The Jewish prayer service has many unusually fine sentiments, and the music of the Day of Atonement is especially solemn and touching. It opens with the widely known Kol Nidrei song, which has been used as a concert selection for instrumental solos by the world's greatest artists. The services for the Day of Atonement will also be held at the Woman's building.

A TIP

Doc Yak Gets the Dope on the Home-Ecs

"Got a tip the other day from a friend of mine who was registering home-ecs out in Ag hall and Say boy! If you knew what he told me about that crowd he helped sign up you'd sure be at that Ag-Homec party at Lathrop gym, Saturday night. The old boy has got sort of a weak heart anyway when it comes to wimmen, and he confided to me that just about nine out of every ten of those home-ecs made his heart reproduce a noise like a peg-legged man stumbling over a cobblestone pavement, when they asked with a shy little smile, 'Do we register here?'"

"But the big tip he gave me was this, 'Say Yak, from what I know of statistics after having taken it for the third time, I'd wager that the bunch would run about 99 and 44/100 per cent, and none of them are floaters. They are guaranteed to be able to wash anything from cobblestone pavement, when they cate fabrics without wearing down the label on the soap. After they get through you can even see the word 'Ivory.' That's where they get the economy in home-ec y'see' Now I'm telling you straight, don't miss that party Saturday night of this week. It only costs two-bits." DOC YAK.

Four times as many men students use the gymnasium as were enrolled when it was built—it is crowded.

NEW PRIZES ANNOUNCED IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

The Harris political science prizes offered for the year 1921-22, to the authors of the best essays in any department of political science, will amount to $250—a first prize of $150 and a second prize of $100. Undergraduates of all universities and colleges in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa, may enter the contest. The prizes were established by N. W. Harris, Chicago, and are the gift of Prof. N. D. Harris, Evanston, Ill.

Some of the subjects to be written on are: "Freedom of Speech, Press, and Assembly;" "Congressional Control of National Elections;" "American Policy in the Caribbean;" "Political Reconstruction in India;" and many others.

Prof. F. A. Ogg, of the political science department of the university, is one of the members of the committee in charge of the contest. Last year, the second prize was awarded to Clarence E. Fugina, Arcadia, senior, his subject being "Budgetary Reform in the National Government of the United States."

THE JOBLESS STUDENT

Unemployment, nowadays, is a national evil; but at present there is a local aspect of it which is of more concern than the national problem. There are many students in the university who are dependent on what they can earn to pay their way through college. Their predicament is no slight one if they cannot find work.

The situation is in a sense a reflection of the national job shortage; for there are many students who could not earn the money during the summer they had expected to, and who today are more than ever in need of work. But the present outlook is none too cheerful for these students.

The solution is easy if only the employers will recognize it. There is a prejudice against student workers because they are believed to be inefficient. But it is a well-recognized economic fact that prevalence of unemployment produces efficient labor. This fact is perfectly applicable to the local situation. And it is perfectly fair to the student worker. He is not asking for charity. He expects to give a satisfactory day's work for a satisfactory day's wages. Looked at from either side, it is a business transaction. Competition for jobs is the best assurance of efficiency; and if employers will remember this fact there will be ample demand for student labor.—Cornell Daily Sun.

Every state, all territories, and 37 foreign countries contain graduates of the university, according to the new alumni directory.

Enrollment in Wisconsin high schools has more than doubled in the last ten years.

Many Wisconsin schools are now using a traveling exhibit of Indian relics sent out by the State Historical museum.

SATURDAY IS THE DAY

SATURDAY is the beginning of the green cap regime for freshmen. The Vox Populi has spoken, in fact, shouted, and the will of the people is not to be denied.

What will be the reaction? Do the sophomores intend to make up the period of inactivity by a concentrated hazing campaign culminating in the class rush? And if, by chance, indiscriminate hazing occurs, will the upperclassmen stand by and let it run its course?

The student body, by re-establishing the green cap, re-established what they believed to be a tradition and not an excuse for a general rough house. There is an opportunity for sophomores to set a precedent that Wisconsin will be proud of. It is their privilege to prove that a tradition worthy of the name can be supported and kept alive by a spirit that does not depend for its stimulus upon lake parties and fistic encounters on the public streets.

Freshmen, too, have an opportunity to uphold their part of the game. Saturday Wisconsin plays Lawrence a game of football. It is a tradition that the freshmen go to the first home game in a body, and if they show their spirit and march en masse to Camp Randall and cheer themselves hoarse when the team walks all over Lawrence, they will show the sophomores, juniors, and seniors that they are Wisconsin heart and soul, and that is a mighty big tradition.

But don't forget those caps. It is no mark of opprobrium to appear in public with one on; it is an honor. That green cap means that the wearer is a Badger!

'25 out on the lower campus Saturday!

Winnebago county sent 155 students, including 37 women and 118 men, to the university this year.

THE CLASS RUSH

THE Athletic board has taken over the administration of the class rush. The president of the board is to serve as chief of police and he will name his assistants from the ranks of the upperclassmen.

Every possible effort should be made to conduct the rush on a decent basis of sportsmanship and order. The fiasco of last year ought not to be repeated.

The rush, when carried on with fairness to both belligerents, has for a long time been one of the best features of the school year.

At a time when students are thinking on the question of traditions it would greatly help if a model rush could be conducted.

WORTH A TRIAL

WISCONSIN is a progressive school. In truth, it is one of the most progressive universities in the country, and is true to the motto of the state, "Forward." Yet, one phase of her life dwells in the past. The proctor system of conducting examinations still prevails at Wisconsin.

Whose fault is it? Is the faculty responsible or are the students to blame? Of course, nearly every one would like to have the Honor System a part of Wisconsin's way of doing things. But for some reason or other the student body and the faculty have never introduced it.

Perhaps that reason might be termed "prudence." The average human being dislikes very much to attempt a new and untried institution until he has been given proof that this institution will be a success. He would rather wait until some one else had done the experimenting and then direct his own policy accordingly. However, the Honor System is an institution so peculiar in itself that its success in one school does not imply its equal success in another school. In other words, we cannot safely adopt a scheme because it was a success in some other school, since conditions in that school may have been entirely different than conditions here.

Must we, then, give up all hope of abolishing the present policing system because we dare not adopt an innovation for fear it will not work? Undoubtedly, we should be open to criticism if we plunged head first into the unplumbed waters of an honor system; but what is to prevent us from sounding those strange waters? What is to prevent a class from petitioning an instructor to conduct the mid-semester examinations on the honor system? Certainly not the instructor? The only inhibitive force is the lack of initiative of the class.

If one class can do this, and classes have done it, why cannot a number of classes petition? If enough classes take their mid-semester examinations on their own honor, we can tell fairly accurately how successful a universal honor system will be. If a third or even a fourth of the students are so examined and the experiment is successful, we would have a definite basis to work on to make Wisconsin an honor school. But if, on the other hand, the scheme shows signs of inherent weaknesses we shall at least know where we stand, and our future policy may be based upon something more satisfying than the reluctance in trying something new.

Will Enforce New Badger Education Act

Issue Ruling in Case of Boy Who Left School at Age of 17

Children in Wisconsin who have stopped school at the age of 17, and have not yet attained the age of 18, must return to their classes under the new state part time compulsory education law, E. E. Brossard, assistant attorney general, holds in an opinion today.

The case concerned a boy working in a butcher shop at Wausau learning a trade, who had left school when he became 17. It was asked whether or not he had to return to school, inasmuch as he had not yet become 18 years of age.

"The statute is far from clear," the opinion reads, "but after careful reading of the parts quoted and other portions of the statute, we have come to the conclusion that your question should be answered in the affirmative."

"The boy who quit school on attaining the age of 17, under the law, which prior to 1921 required attendance between 14 and 16, is in the same position as children who had quit school before the passage of any compulsory educational attendance law."

"He must go back to school just as they were required to. Furthermore, as we read the phrase, 'or who has not completed the school term in which he is 18 years of age,'

Dangerous Bridge Closed After Blaine Car Wreck

Gov. Blaine is foregoing the use of an automobile since his new sedan was wrecked last week when coming from Milwaukee. He expressed himself as satisfied with the present status, because the accident resulted in the closing of a dangerous bridge, the scene of numerous automobile disasters during this year.

Only a miracle saved the governor's car, with its occupants from crashing over the bridge when another automobile forced them to either turn to the ditch or take a head on collision, according to Sanford Reque, the chauffeur.

The night of the accident, thieves are said to have taken three spare tires from the machine, and to have carried off the governor's riding coat, gloves and goggles.

Blaine Urges Quick Repeal of Esch Law

Urges Repeal of Act in Reply to Invitation to Conference of Governors

If the conference of governors of Northwest states suggested by Gov. N. E. Kendall of Iowa, to consider the freight rate situation, is called for the purpose of looking toward the repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, Gov. John J. Blaine of Wisconsin will be glad to attend, he advises the Iowa executive today in a letter.

The Wisconsin governor says that the conference would be absolutely futile so far as freight rate legislation is concerned, adding that the Esch-Cummins law "is in full swing, and governors and states are powerless to change that law until the states change their representatives in Congress."

"Permit me to suggest," he says, "that Iowa and Wisconsin each elect a U. S. senator who declared the Esch-Cummins law to be the most progressive piece of legislation ever enacted, and of course their conception might have been that it is a very progressive law, but it progresses backward."

"If the conference you suggest could persuade enough of the U. S. senators who voted for the Esch-Cummins law to resign, we might be able to get a senate that would repeal the vicious legislation. That law distresses the farmers and burdens the consumer."

"The employment question is quite another problem," Gov. Blaine declares. "There is a national conference to consider that question. We have had state and local conferences considering the question, and we are making some progress to relieve unemployment in some of the crafts."

"The great pinch is with the industrial workers. Our industries are crippled to a very large degree by reason of the extreme freight rates on both the raw and the finished product. I suggest that the questions I submit be seriously considered at such conference."

Late Methods Cut Overhead Says Macklin

Professor Talks On Business at Meeting of Roxana Club Tuesday

By using up-to-date methods, small retailers of Madison could cut down their overhead expense and sell more cheaply, Theodore Macklin, professor in the college of agriculture at the university, told members of the Roxana club, Tuesday night at its regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. He declared efficiency to be one of the greatest needs of the small dealer, and that in every community there is the inefficient retailer.

The only reason why the mail order house can come into a town like Madison, he said, is that it is organized with so much efficiency that it can sell cheaper. The larger merchant in Madison, said Mr. Macklin, makes more profit than the small one for comparatively his overhead is less. R. L. Fenwick, assistant director of the Jackson clinic, talked on the uses of radium.

"LADY EDISON" INVENTS UMBRELLA WITH A QUICK DETACHABLE COVER

Miss Evelyn Gosnell with a model of the new umbrella.

The umbrella world is hailing Miss Beulah Louise Henry as the "lady Edison"—not because she asks questions, but because she has at last invented something really new in the umbrella line, the first real improvement in years. The new umbrella is so designed that the cover may be snapped on and off the ribs, thus allowing the use of several colored umbrellas or parasols to match the owner's gowns.

SHRUBBERY

Trees on Campus Transplanted 35 Years Ago by Dean Henry

New students in the University of Wisconsin little realize when they casually gaze upon the shrubbery about them, that what they see is there for a purpose.

Thirty-five years ago Dean Emeritus W. A. Henry advocated a movement to transplant on the university campus all trees which could be grown hardily in this climate. The Russian olive was the first test. Later followed the Ginkgo, a Japanese specimen, the Kentucky Coffee tree and the Honey Locust tree. Since that time an innumerable number have been added to the collection.

$15,000 Expended on Landscape

The university campus extends from the shore line of the gymnasium to the rustic bridge at Eagle Heights, and the planting of all the trees, shrubs, and flowers, on the campus, is under the direction of the Horticultural department, headed by Prof. F. A. Aust. Each year from $1,200 to $1,500 is expended in keeping the campus beautiful.

The basis of a good landscape is a good lawn. Walking four abreast crowds the sidewalk and spoils the lawn. When you take a short cut ten thousand feet may follow. Trees form the frame work and background for a beautiful campus. Tacks and nails may shorten the life of a tree. Post your bills on a sign board. Thoughtlessness may destroy in three minutes what it has taken centuries to create.

Shrubs Are Easily Demolished

Shrubs in the landscape are harmonizing elements and contribute much to the beauty of the campus. Cutting through a shrub bed is sure to break the branches.

Shrubs are often planted for the color effects produced by the fruit as well as the flowers. Picking the flowers destroys the fruit. It requires years to produce a good massy effect in a shrub bed. Two sections of surveying students may destroy it in five minutes.

Last spring, 3,000 native phlox were planted in the woods. Twenty-four hours later 2,500 had disappeared. One flower may not be missed, but when 3,000 persons think their one will not be noticed, there will soon be none to be noticed.

"U" Class Aiding in Work
The landscape gardening class of about 40 students is progressing in the problem of keeping the campus beautiful. The gardens at Mills street and the border along the university woods is proof of their ability.

Professor Aust hopes for the cooperation of all students in this matter.

U. W. GRAD WILL INSTRUCT AT OHIO

TO CONDUCT CHOIR TRY-OUTS TONIGHT

This evening at 7 o'clock at Wesley hall, Prof. Lowell L. Townsend, of the School of Music, who has for three years been the director of the university Methodist vested student choir, will conduct a choir tryout, to which all candidates are invited.

Last year this choir, in addition to singing at the public worship each Sunday, offered at the chapel and again in the Presbyterian church before large gatherings the following cantatas: "The Holy City," Gaul; "The Seven Last Words," DuBois, and "Elijah," Mendelssohn.

At the recent elections the following officers were elected:

President, Chris. Hendra '23; secretary, Marie McKittrick '21, librarian, Earl D. Brown. Any student is eligible to the tryout this evening before Professor Townsend and a committee.

"We need a larger number of girl applicants," said Mr. Hendra this morning. "A few more men will be admitted but a number of places are open to girls." FawOSHRDLU CMF F F G FGFF

THE VARSITY BLOTTER

Wisconsin spirit is again at stake. We, as students of the university of Wisconsin, cannot attend this institution in a careless, carefree manner, unless we wish our Alma Mater to reflect the same attitude. There are circumstances and events that are happening around, and while not a fixed part of our daily routine, they are as much a portion of our school life as is our curriculum. These are the things by which the school is known and which may drag it down if turned in the wrong direction.

The Varsity Blotter is the desk blotter which is published by students of the university for university students. It made its debut last year and immediately attained great success among the student body. So much so, that each month the students began eagerly to await for its arrival, for it was furnished them gratis. But who supports the Varsity Blotter, or as a matter of fact, all the publications on the hill? Of course the student body does its share in subscribing to all such publications, but without the advertisers, very few of them could exist.

Now there has appeared on the campus another blotter in competition with the Varsity Blotter. Competition is the spice of life and is invited eagerly by all enterprising institutions. But one knows that there are many bad forms of competition, and one of them has appeared on the campus correlative to the putting out of this competitive blotter. It was done in such a manner that the advertisers of the city of Madison, being true to spirit of good business and Wisconsin, bound themselves to two contracts through no fault of their own.

The Varsity Blotter staff was forced to return late and found the competitive blotter using all sorts of means to evade the former's copyright. It was the indefinite, indecisive manner in which they solicited their advertising, presenting a former copy of the Varsity Blotter, with the name and copyright clipped and asking the merchant if he cared for the same ad he had last year. Then no matter what the solicitor said, the advertiser had the hazy idea that either the Varsity Blotter was out of existence or that it had changed names. It was in this way that many of the advertisers, when approached with the Varsity Blotter, were dumbfounded, believing that they had already purchased one ad on this blotter.

When told of the scheme, many of them were exceedingly indignant and disgusted, and some of them went to the extent to break their contracts with the competitive blotter. But many of them are possessed with two contracts, one of which they desire to keep, that if the Varsity Blotter, and the other, which they are reluctant to break because of their close connection with the student body.

Is it right to hold the supporters of the hill publications to such a contract? Is it the policy of the student body to accept such a proposition financed in such a manner? Is such competition part of Wisconsin spirit or is this cut rate, clear and decisive infringement on the good will of another successful enterprise foreign to the university standard of morals and success in business?

"YE GREEN CAP"

Gentle reader, now that the student vote on "Ye Green Cap Question" has been cast, I assume that it is safe for an old timer to mention, in a sort of modest way, a few opinions on that noble and interesting topic.

Of course there are many who might say that this discriminating decorative headgear is today unnecessary, but that would be begging the question.

Most of the old war horses have missed the verdant top-pieces customarily worn by the supposedly awkward squad. Take the occasion of the Frosh Welcome last week for instance, I am sure that many tears were shed by the onlookers, when the ranks of the "Two Thousand" ambled up the campus green without the customary head-pieces.

It has been rumored that many of the beginners have mourned the loss of the privilege accorded their brethren of years gone by. Many local citizens have missed the new arrivals due to this loss of privilege. A state of bewilderment has ensued and many of the upperclassmen have been classed as good looking "Freshies," while the fair sex have voiced their inability to pick out the coming successful tea hounds from the motley rabble. Registration has been delayed; many of the instructors have been in doubt; in fact, a sort of near bedlam has resulted.

Let us hope that the settlement arrived at will help us out of the darkness, and that the vote cast is satisfactory to the rank and file of "Varsity Village."

Illinois Bank Robbed

After Safe is Blown

QUINCY—The New Salem State bank, was robbed early today by five bandits who blew the safe with eight charges of nitroglycerine and secured nearly $1350. The safe was shattered and a box of money inside, was blown to bits. The blast broke a bottle of formaldehyde, the fumes of which officers believe, prevented further operations by the robbers who escaped.

School Boys Strike; Parents Stop Walkout

AUGUSTA, Mich.—A "strike" of local high school boys was broken here today by parents of the youths. Forty boys "walked out" yesterday because one of their companions had received corporal punishment. "Go back to school or you will get at home what the other boy received at school," was the edict handed down in forty homes. School authorities reported every scholar in his place today.

PEP MEETING TO DISPLACE DRILL

A large pep meeting on Friday at 4:30 p. m. in the armory is to take the place of the Friday and Saturday military drill for the freshman sections of the R. O. T. C., according to the order of Maj. John S. Wood, commandant.

Preparatory to the first football game of the season the meeting of the yearlings is designed as the medium through which to spread the contagion of Wisconsin spirit, which is predominant throughout all Badger contests and which is especially manifest at such times.

As has been done in past years, the frosh will don the green cap for the first time and march out to the football field en masse to cheer for their new Alma Mater.

Faculty members and upperclassmen will speak to the freshmen at their meeting on Friday. "Larry" Hall '20 will lead the yells, and a representative of the Student Senate will inform the frosh regarding traditions in general and the significance of the green cap. T. E. Jones, head of the physical education department; Guy Sundt, captain of the football team, and Major Wood will be the chief speakers, and Prof. Peter W. Dykema will lead the singing.

dates, also under Coach Meade Burke, are turning out in surprisingly large numbers. About 25 men are now in the first year squad. They are being put through practically the same training stunts as the Varsity material and give promise of showing some real stuff in their meets this year. Frevert, a track man from Ames college, Iowa, is helping Coach Burke work out the frosh candidates.

Other class track men should get out their spikes and trim them up, for Coach Burke announces that the first inter-class track and field meet of the year will be held at Camp Randall on October 15, the day that the Varsity eleven tackles Northwestern at Evanston. It is expected that some keen competition will result from this meeting of the four classes.

AT THE ORPHEUM

AT THE ORPHEUM
Syncopation it seems had a very large family. All over the musical world are to be found children of syncopation. Every family however, has one particularly gifted child. There is usually a prodigy in every home. Syncopation having a larger family than is usual, there are more prodigies. One of these is undoubtedly "Dolly" Kay, who describes herself as "Syncopation's Clever Exponent." Even a professional heckler couldn't possibly dispute this statement. Miss Kay is as pert and rhythmic as her name, and will be one of the feature offerings on the new vaudeville program which opens at the Orpheum tonight.

AT THE STRAND
Thomas H. Ince's drama of today "Mother O'Mine" is now being shown at the Strand theater. The plot, briefly, deals with the involved situations arising from the desires of Robert Sheldon, the only son of his mother, to seek the opportunities that the city has to offer over his native small town. His mother gives him a letter of introduction to a prominent wizard of finance, who is, unknown to the boy, his own father who has deserted his family years before under the drunken supposition that his wife's infidelity has made the boy the son of another. The boy is given a position in the financier's office, and unknowingly becomes the cat's paw of some doubtful business transactions. Discovering his situation, he accuses the financier, who, enraged because the boy has prevented the consummation of a big deal, vigorously attacks his mother's name. A fight results in which the wizard is accidentally killed by his own revolver. The only witness to the affray, the slain man's mistress, perjures herself on the witness stand to secure the boy's conviction and sentence to the electric chair. From that point onward the mother moves into prominence, her unselfish sacrifice and determination constituting the basis of many suspensive situations.

Urges Naming Armistice Day Body Members

Mayor Sends Word to Local Organizations; Asks Co-operation

Mayor I. M. Kittleson today sent a letter to each of the various civic organizations in the city asking them to elect a delegate to serve on a committee, which will prepare for the Armistice Day celebration in Madison. The mayor asks that all names be sent to him not later than Oct. 5.

"It is possible that I may have overlooked some organizations in the city," Mayor Kittleson said. "There are so many of them. In the event that I have I request that all organizations, whether they receive a letter or not, to elect their delegates and send the names and addresses to me."

The letter follows:

"It has been suggested that a committee, representing all of Madison, be selected to organize a fitting observance of Armistice Day, Nov. 11, next.

"In my opinion the suggestion is timely and I respectfully request your organization to designate one of its members to act on this general committee.

"I further request that you select your representative at once, and get the name and address to me at my office in the city hall not later than Wednesday Oct. 5, next."

real genius in interpreting these great works.

All accounts indicate that the promise of Vecsey's youthful days has been more than fulfilled. Wherever he appeared in Europe last year he was the sensation of the season. He must undoubtedly be ranked with Kreisler, Heifitz, and the other leading violinists. Some authorities believe that the mantle of these men will fall on Vecsey's shoulders."

"Josef Lhevinne and Pablo Casals are acknowledged to be in the very front rank of their branches of the musical profession and too well known by the American public to need any commendation," said Dr. Mills, when asked to say something about these two men. "To praise them would be like gilding the lily."

The artists included in the Union board series of this year are such that there is little doubt that those who delay buying a season ticket will be unable to secure preferred seats, and those who rely on single admission tickets to gain entrance may be seriously disappointed, just as was the case last year when hundreds of people were unable to hear Fritz Kreisler when he played here.

Fritz Kreisler says concerning Casals, the Spanish cellist who will close the series here in February: "He is the greatest musician that has ever drawn a bow."
