I, a wandering student, seeking knowledge, came knocking at the gates of the great University of Wisconsin, and it took me in, filled me with inspiration, and when I left its doors the kindly people of the state stretched out welcoming hands and gave me a man's work to do.—An Alumnus.

FIFTY YEARS AFTER

By PHILIP STEIN, '65

HAVE been asked to record my impressions upon returning to the University fifty years after graduating therefrom. While my entire stay of two days was a continuous source of pleasure, yet the most pleasing feature was meeting after many years my classmate, Dr. Charles H. Vilas, and spending in his company the greater part of the time. He is still the same genial, wholesouled fellow he was when we were college chums and under his leadership played pranks on poor Pat. Apparently he has discovered the secret of remaining young both in body and spirit. The years roll over him without leaving a trace. I have it on good authority, but in strict confidence, that he is about to publish a treatise on the Elixir of Life.

The development of the University during the half century has been truly marvelous. The progress from 1865 to 1915 was vividly presented in concrete shape, when on

Commencement Day two weeks ago, I beheld the Faculty and invited guests closely crowded on a platform

PHILIP STEIN, '65

of immense dimensions, and some seven or eight hundred young men and women marching upon the platform to the strains of music and receiving their degrees from the President as proof of the vastly varied courses of study to which they had devoted themselves. Another almost spectacular evidence of growth was in the nature and diversity of the themes treated by the graduating students as subjects for their theses.

CHARLES H. VILAS, '65

What also impressed and moved me greatly was the physical expansion and the loveliness of the campus and the numerous and costly buildings erected and used for the cultivation of the arts and sciences. As a matter of eager but natural interest, I attempted to visit the room I had occupied during my student days on the third floor of the then north dormitory (there were only three buildings altogether in those days), but alas, while the space was still there, the room was not. The partitions had been taken down, and the old building turned into lecture and recitation halls.

REUNION OF LAW CLASS 1875

By J. B. WINSLOW

SO far as the writer has been able to ascertain, the hill class of '75 held no reunion on their fortieth anniversary but the law class of that year amply made up for the omission.

The Law Class of '75 has always been remarkable for its class spirit. Beginning with 1895 it has held a reunion at the end of every five year period besides an extra one held in 1896.

There were present this year seven of the thirty-six who received their diplomas in 1875 viz:

E. W. Chafin, Tucson, Arizona
 W. C. McLean, Menominee, Wisconsin
 J. C. Kerwin, Neenah, Wisconsin
 A. J. Schmitz, Milwaukee, Wisconsin
 Mills Tourtellotte, La Crosse, Wisconsin
 George Underwood, Ames, Iowa
 J. B. Winslow, Madison, Wisconsin

Besides these there were present as guests

Mrs. E. W. Chafin
 Mrs. A. J. Schmitz

Mrs. J. B. Winslow
Mrs. C. V. Bardeen

The activities of the reunion opened with the general alumni luncheon. The class yell had not taken its place as a necessary part of a liberal education in 1875 and so the class had none. Nothing is easier to make, however, than a class yell and one was made on the spot running like this:

"We're alive, We're alive!
How we thrive, How we thrive!
Eighteen hundred and seventy-five."

After listening in respectful silence to the more or less perfunctory yells of the more recent classes the mighty seven of '75 arose and gave their newly constructed yell with a vim which brought from the great audience an enthusiastic encore. Time and again the yell was given and was greeted each time with applause. Not only this but they improvised a yell of greeting to the two survivors of the class of '65 who were present (Dr. Chas. H. Vilas of Madison and Judge Philip Stein of Chicago) which brought the whole body of alumni to their feet in enthusiastic acclaim. This yell ran as follows:

Two are alive, Two are alive!
Good old boys of sixty-five!

At the conclusion of the luncheon the survivors of '75 and their guests embarked on a launch and took a ride of an hour around Lake Mendota. The weather was perfect and every moment enjoyable. The ride ended at Maple Bluff where the party landed and strolled over to the Golf Club House where the letters from classmates who were unable to attend were read and the old stories retold until evening dinner on the porch of the Club House was announced. Here again the old days were lived over with that happy abandon which only comes to old grads when they meet after many years.

At last the time came to return to the city and the goodbyes were reluctantly said with the firm resolve that at the end of the five year period another reunion should be held.

Of the thirty-six members of the Law Class of '75 who graduated in that year, thirteen are known to be dead viz:

Charles V. Bardeen
Ezra R. Carr
Thomas Coleman
Benjamin F. Dunwiddie
Charles S. Fuller
Ansley Gray
Levi E. Haynes.
Edward G. Hursh
Thomas Lynch
Arthur J. O'Keefe
Edmund H. Smalley
William Street
Edward P. Vilas

The whereabouts of two are unknown viz:

Atlee D. Pratt
Henry B. Rosenberg

The remainder are accounted for as follows:

Lemuel J. Arthur is in the real estate business in Los Angeles, California.

John H. Bottensek is engaged in the active practice of law at Appleton, Wisconsin.

Charles W. Bunn is general counsel of the Northern Pacific Railroad at St. Paul, Minnesota.

Walter H. Butler is secretary of the California Eucalyptus Timber Company at Kansas City, Missouri.

LAW CLASS, '75

Eugene W. Chafin is now and for years has been one of the most successful and earnest leaders of the prohibition movement and devotes his entire time to that work as a lecturer and writer. He has been twice the presidential candidate of the party and resides at Tucson, Arizona.

Wm. A. Franklyn is a physician practising in Chicago.

James C. Kerwin is a Justice of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, residing at Neenah, Wisconsin.

Wm. C. McLean is a banker and real estate dealer at Menomonie, Wisconsin.

John McMahon resides at Plum City, Wisconsin.

Edward B. Manwaring is a fruit grower at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Duane Mowry is a practising lawyer at Milwaukee.

Adolph J. Schmitz is a practising lawyer at Milwaukee, the head of the firm of Schmitz, Wild and Gross.

John C. Sherwin, for twelve years a Justice of the Supreme Court of Iowa, is now retired and resides at Mason City in that state.

Charles A. Starbird is a lawyer at Alma, Arkansas.

Mills Tourtellotte is a lawyer practising at La Crosse, Wisconsin.

Volney Underhill is, and has been for many years, principal of the Carpenter School at Chicago.

George A. Underwood is practising law at Ames, Story County, Iowa.

Hemstead Washburne is a capitalist and banker at Chicago.

Elbert M. Webster is practising law at Glenwood, Minnesota.

Edward R. Woodle is practising law at Chicago.

John B. Winslow is Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin residing at Madison.

THE THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF '85

By MRS. GRACE C. CONOVER

THE Class of 1885 held its sixth quinquennial reunion this year and while no special effort was made to round up the class as was made at its 25th anniversary, yet enough members responded to the informal call to give assurance that the old spirit of university loyalty and class unity not only survived but seemed to be steadily growing. This assurance was emphasized by this year's volume of class letters, the issuing of which has always occurred simultaneously with the reunions. The response to the historian's call for letters was so cordial and wholehearted, and the atmosphere of the reunion so joyous and friendly that, as one member expressed it, it seemed more like the gathering of a big family who had been separated a short time than a reunion and thirtieth anniversary of college acquaintances.

Mr. Thomas E. Lyons, a member of the Wisconsin Tax Commission, entertained his classmates at dinner at the University Club at 6:30 Monday evening, June 14th and also opened his apartment at the Club for a gathering place for the class during all of Commencement week. Those who were present at the banquet were:

George Waldo, lawyer, Chicago

George A. Buckstaff, and wife, manufacturer, Oshkosh

O. D. Brandenburg, wife and daughter, editor, Madison

Elizabeth Waters, University Regent, Fond du Lac

Mrs. F. K. Conover, and daughter, Madison

Frederic A. Pike, lawyer, St. Paul, Minnesota.

John L. Erdall, and wife, railway attorney, St. Paul, Minnesota

Charles I. Brigham, Blue Mounds

Dr. F. A. Rogers, Oconomowoc

James A. Stone, and daughter, lawyer, Reedsburg

Mrs. J. H. Gabriel, Denver, Colorado

Ethel Rose Taylor, Sioux City, Iowa

Thomas E. Lyons, attorney, Madison

Letters of regret and good wishes were read from C. L. Allen, P. H. Connolly, Dr. A. J. Ochsner, Carrie Baker Oakes, Coryden T. Purdy, Edith Updegraff Simmons, Emma Goddard Marsh, Rose Schuster Taylor, Mrs. W. M. Trowbridge, Mr. Fred A. Teall, Mr. Mart Patek and wife, and others. Two Madison alumnae who for the first time in twenty years were unable to be present at the regular reunion, Mrs. Frank C. Sharp and Miss Anna Burr Moseley, also sent greetings in the shape of flowers and messages.

All attended the Alumni Luncheon on Tuesday and made up in sound what was lacking in members in its improvised yell:

U rah rah
Here we are,
'85—Still alive,
Sis Boom Bah.

Dr. Rogers was elected historian for the next five years to succeed Charles I. Brigham, with A. G. Briggs alternate, and it was planned to try to assemble the entire class in 1920.

THE SILVER JUBILEE OF MIGHTY '90

By W. N. PARKER

On reunion of the last commencement was more interesting than that of the class of '90, which celebrated the silver jubilee of its graduation from the University on alumni day.

It was the 25th of June, 1890, when eighty-one members of the class went out into the world. This number included those in the College of Letters and Science and Engineering, and one member of the course in Agriculture. Within the quarter of a century past thirteen members have died, and at the reunion the roll call showed the following named present:

Andrew William Anderson, St. Paul, Minnesota

G. A. Beebe, State College, Pennsylvania

Fred J. Bolender, wife and son, Monroe, Wisconsin

Edward E. Browne, wife and son, Wau-paca, Wisconsin

William Charles Brumder and wife, Milwaukee

From nearly all the remaining members letters of regrets were received.

The distance record was won by Major Frank Case, who came to Madison not only to see his son graduate from the father's alma mater, but to be present for the first time at a reunion of the class of Mighty '90. Major Case was granted his degree in science two years ago as of the class of 1890.

At the Alumni Dinner, including wives, husbands, and children there were fifty-seven present.

After dinner the entire class assembled at Mrs. Devine's cottage on the north shore of Lake Monona where seventy-six members of the class and their families enjoyed an evening meal. After the meal the roll was called and the responses made as above indicated. Reminiscences of days gone by were numerous.

Ex-Governor Francis E. McGovern, who ten years ago was put on a special committee to see that all members of the class were married by the time of the silver jubilee, came in for considerable censure because of his present state of bachelorhood. He survived the ordeal very well.

Congressman E. E. Brown of Wau-paca was given a hearty vote of thanks for the removal of a growth of whiskers which adorned his face in earlier years, and which at the time of the 1900 reunion were ordered removed by a unanimous vote of all members of Mighty '90 then assembled. In the course of his remarks he made the rash statement that the girls of the class were looking considerably younger than the boys.

Hans Hansen Moe, the honey king of Wisconsin, was given a most hearty vote of thanks for his contribution of his famous product to the evening banquet.

Loyal Durand, who grew up with Mighty '90 until his senior year, when sickness delayed the granting of his degree until the year following, expressed his gratefulness at the privilege of uniting with the members of his real class at the different reunions.

Dr. Frank Drake, who has just been appointed superintendent of the Mendota Hospital, was called upon for a speech and requested to state from whence he came. He frankly admitted that for the last few years he had been confined at the Wisconsin state prison at Wau-pun, as the house physician of that institution. While his life's record looked a little shady on account of these incidents, his classmates gave him every assurance of continued loyalty.

A committee of three, with Walter M. Smith as chairman, was appointed to issue a silver jubilee book containing the records of the class up to date. As indicated by all members present probably no greater volume in the country could be more valuable than this when it finally appears from the press.

After the reunion picture was taken, a general social time was indulged in when adjournment was taken until 1920.

REUNION OF '95

By JESSIE M. SHEPHERD

Did '95 have a reunion? Well did we!!! It may have been started on the last lap but with characteristic '95 momentum it fairly flew down the stretch and landed among the leaders. Those present surely did have a good time and the hospitality of our host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess, certainly contributed much to make the occasion more than memorable.

We gathered at the Burgess home on the banks of Lake Mendota at 4 o'clock, Monday afternoon. After vociferous greetings all around, we spent a goodly time telling how elusive Dame Fortune had treated us during the past twenty years. Everybody looked both happy and prosperous. Howard Cady—he is practising law in Green Bay—in an attempt to be facetious asked us “How to be happy at forty?” and there was Helen right there beaming over with happiness and Howard a perfect reflection.

Arthur Carhart, who has acquired gravity with advancing years, told us he was happy in his profession—administering to the sick. He lives in Milwaukee and has a fine wife and family.

Guy Ford dropped easily into his best oratorical style and as he talked we could fancy ourselves back on the old commencement platform. Guy is

Dean of the Graduate School at the University of Minnesota.

Julia Harris Brigance came all the way from Brazario, Texas, in response to the call. She told us how happy one could be on a ranch and gave us all a cordial invitation to come and see her.

Charlie Burgess presented a very well-prepared extemporaneous speech which was in the nature of a lament over a wasted five years—all because he felt that he had not done all he should to bring the class together for this reunion. Read what it says about him in "Who's Who in America" and you will realize how very busy Charlie has been, and maybe you will feel that you can do a little something for the silver anniversary.

When we tried to sing our old class song, our "cracked" voices gave the only sign of advancing years, although it must be admitted that Fred Foster and Nellie McGregor Ellis sang every bit as good as they used to—and that was pretty good.

At this point something approaching a big noise was created by the arrival of Vroman Mason and his bride, who were showered with congratulations. Vroman, considering that actions spoke louder than words, refused to tell us how he did it.

Mrs. Burgess took pity on Vroman and started to serve the refreshments, and all proceeded to demonstrate that twenty years had not impaired their capacity for gastronomic efforts.

Then we had a real business meeting and plans for our twenty-fifth reunion in 1920 were discussed. The following five-year officers were elected: President, Jessie M. Shepherd, vice-president, Charles Burgess and Vroman Mason; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Carhart; and Alumni Magazine correspondent, Ina Judge Hanks.

After reminiscing for a while, especially of the absent ones, we adjourned to meet again in 1920. It was unanimously agreed that every last one of the class should get together at our silver anniversary. Plan to come. Be a BOOSTER for 1920.

Many messages were received from members who could not be present.

THE JOINT REUNION OF '00 AND '01

By FLORENCE E. ALLEN, '00

THE success of the joint reunion of '00 and '01 has shown the wisdom of the new cycle plan. Neither class, at this time, felt the necessity of the big, hilarious demonstrations of their tenth anniversaries. Headquarters were opened in a modest way in Miss Mahoney's annex, leaving the main entrance for the youthful enthusiasts of '05. The green and white and purple and gold mingled before the tent, which our jubilant neighbors insisted upon deeming a side show and a place where pink lemonade should have been served. But memories of Lynn Williams' green punch of five years ago still lingered with us, and our hospitality remained strictly "dry."

The main feature of the reunion was the luncheon on Monday of Commencement Week at the Golf Club, Maple Bluff. About fifty gathered about the tables, which were gay with peonies and daisies, and did justice to an excellent repast, interspersed with songs. We tried to recall the original ditties made immortal in 1910, but, failing in this, the combined genius of the two classes produced the following gem, which is recommended to the attention of those who expect to "reune" in 1920:

"It's a long way to Old Wisconsin,
It's a long way back home,
It's a long way to Nineteen Hundred,
And to Nineteen Hundred One;
Say goodbye to all the kiddies,
And the family every one,
It's a long way back to Old Wisconsin,
But we had to come."

Under the genial presidency of W. S. Kies, '00, Law '01, strictly neutral with his badge a quartering of the four colors, the after dinner hour was most enjoyably spent listening to impromptu talks by the members present. Paul Stover, Ernst von Briesen and others had a chance to air their legal prowess in the opening of a mock trial by E. J. B. Schubring; the M. D.'s spoke of interesting experiences, and Frederic Hatton humorously sketched his evolution into a successful playwright. Nearly every profession was represented, and the affair closed with a rare spirit of comradeship prevailing.

The majority remained for the later events of the week, and '00 felt a just glow of pride when our own von Briesen mounted the rostrum to preside with so much tact over the big Alumni Dinner in the gym.

Arrangements were made for systematic news gathering, and suggestions looking toward the next reunion were made. Judging from the remarks heard on all sides, a rousing event may be prophesied for 1920.

1905 REUNION

By LILLIAN E. TAYLOR

IF THE object of a reunion be to knit closer the bonds of friendship with one's classmates, and to solidify one's affection for Wisconsin, we nineteen-fivers who came back last month feel content. Ten years out of college, we met to find our classmates delightfully the same—friendly, congenial, earnest men and women.

Up to February of this year no steps had been taken to get the class together, but about that time inspiration began to be felt in three separate places. Max Loeb, Samuel Elmore, David Crawford and others, started things moving in the Chicago group; Edwin Bartlett, Herbert Inbusch, Donald Willison, "Tubs," and other mysterious personalities began meeting for lunch at the Hotel Charlotte in Milwaukee, while a dozen or so of the Madison people foregathered every now and then in one of the lecture rooms of the Public Library. The printed matter, circulars and so on were issued under the direction of the Chicago group. Interest, at first somewhat formal, grew into enthusiasm as the letters flew back and forth and we came to realize that an exceedingly good time was impending.

We took the Mahoney house, hired a band, and bought beautiful red and green uniforms as concessions to the conventionalities, but just at that point we stopped, and the rest of the reunion wound itself out independently of tradition. Monday morning found us at Mahoneys, with Walter Inbusch presiding over the uniforms. Cecil Schreiber had brought his old Badger, and ever and anon we conned them to find out who was who, as people came in to sign the register. Here were Berton Braley, "Mike" in the old days, back from New York, and ready to toss off something neat in the way of a poem at a minute's notice; George Swan from far off Japan; H. B. Gates, here from New York to take his C. E.; Isabel Holden from her drug business in Claremont, California—from the ends of the earth they came, and some of the lucky ones brought wives or husbands and children. With our band playing gaily we marched to the Wayside Inn at the Woman's Building for lunch. After this pleasing interlude we held a short business meeting, and then in the gently falling rain we went to the University pier and embarked for Bernard's Park. Mere rain could not stop us—we danced furiously at the Park, ate lavishly of weiners, and on the way home Max Loeb's much-heralded moon made its appearance, according to agreement.

On Tuesday the Nineteen-fivers danced with ease and grace in the parade, lunched with the Alumni, sang, cheered, and made its appearance at the ball in the evening. The recital of events tells nothing of the real spirit of our meeting. "Stunts" electd chairman of the class with Lillian Taylor as secretary. The prime object of this meeting was to consider plans for an Alumni Memorial Fund. John Lord (1904) explained the matter, told what had been accomplished by 1904, which had raised $1,000 with little difficulty, and asked the cooperation of 1905. As a result of the meeting 1905 pledged $1,500. Chairman Hoan appointed the following are excellent things, of course. They bring us together and make us forget that ten years have gone by, but counting for much more toward a successful reunion are the meetings of old friends, the quiet chats between times, the singing of old songs, and the hundred and one intimate and delightful happenings of two days spent together.

At our business meeting held at the Woman's Building Monday afternoon, Daniel Hoan was unanimously committee to take up the matter: Reuben J. Neckerman, chairman, Harold L. Geisse and John F. Baker. At this meeting Mr. Hoan also appointed standing committee to continue the class organization, this committee to be made up of the following members: Edwin B. Bartlett, chairman, Samuel E. Elmore, treasurer, David S. Crawford, Cecil Schreiber, Leta M. Wilson, Cornelia L. Cooper.

The following summarizes the Register for June 14 and 15.

THAT NYNTEENTEN REUNION

By WILLIAM J. MEUER

THE most sintilating phenomenon known to man is a class reunion—if it is a Nynteenten class reunion. So great a furore did that class set up in June at its five-year-get-together-fest that great numbers of requests have been made to join by members of other classes. All, however, have been turned down gently but fervently for be it known for all time that we, the Nynteenten class, after having made a diligent selection of our members back in 1910, will not now, since great success and renown have overtaken us, allow the personnel of the class to be changed. The only solace we can offer is: watch us closely and imitate where possible. We humbly admit that we are original yet we are not patented nor copy-writed.

SUNDAY—AWFUL!

As to our “doings” during those eventful four days we shall not go much into detail. Our program opened on Saturday afternoon with a general reception and coralling of members. On Sunday morning we pee-raded the city and environs in thirteen autos, all owned by members of the class (we all attended church twice the previous Sunday). We dined en masse at Lathrop “Caf” and during the afternoon and evening we pulled more stunts, too numerous and awful to lay bare to the light, winding up, after a forced march, in the storming of a down town ice cream parlor.

MONDAY—MORE AWFUL!

Starting Monday noon each with a '10 lunch baskets in hand, we marched to Wirka's landing on Lake Monona and took boats for Edward's Park on second lake. We were there well. This rain, however, had been carefully planned long in advance by the floor and ending with a regular dance. And then we took boats for Madison riding home in the moonlight, the moon, with the consent of the chaperones, being dispensed with for the occasion.

TUESDAY—MOST AWFUL!

Tuesday morning came the great All Alumni "pee-rade" with the soft peddle on the "All." Nineteen-five committee on arrangements, which fact was fully proven when its chair-comed by a rain, which existed and lasted during the whole afternoon. man appeared possessed of the key to the big dance hall at the park. Incited by our own inimitable Mary McKee, the afternoon passed too suddenly for anyone to grab a full breath. Indoor baseball, basketball, potato races, pop races, bag races and a million other games were staged, punctuated by a basket lunch on the and Nynteenten were loaned the Exposition Band for our march up State Street and around the square, while the rest of our fellow alumni pulled off the business meeting an hour ahead of what we supposed to be the time scheduled and were all through when we got back. But we "ain't sore at nobody." We pulled off a bunch of rump meetings that none of them got in on and, no doubt, envy overcame their better judgment.

At the dinner in the gym everybody knew where the hundred-and-herd; vice-presidents, Charles Burthen-some Nynteenteners were seated. An Alumni Dinner without Nynteenteners present must be an awful bore.

And then for the benefit of ye who wist not, we want to announce here

Tuesday evening the alumni reception and ball took place at Lathrop. This was given in honor of Nynteenten. One corner of the hall was set aside for the Nynteenten booth which was erected by Marg H'Doubler and her committee. This is a secret and should be kept dark, we having pilthat after a five-year fight to place our now famous academic freedom memorial tablet, we came to an agreement to dedicate it. The tablet was set in the loggia of Main Hall, the dedicatory address being made by President Van Hise. There you may see the tablet to the left of the main entrance on the outside of building—an inspiration to generations to come.

ferred the space and decorations without having communed with the powers that be and are.. We had it noised around that it was put up by mistake.

And thus ended the greatest reunion Wisconsin ever had. The only one to eclipse it will be the Nynteenten reunion in 1920.

THE CLASS OF 1915

By WILLIAM A. FOSTER, PRESIDENT

THE Commencement of 1915 differed from all previous Commencements in three ways: first, it was the largest class that has ever graduated from Wisconsin; second, for the first time "W" certificates were awarded on class day to those who had won this honor in major and minor sports; third, for the first time in the history of alumni reunions, the graduating class was given a place in the alumni parade. A new exercise was added to the class day program in the presentation of the Conference Medal, which in the future will be awarded annually to the senior athlete who has the highest scholastic standing for his whole college work, to M. T. Kennedy.

Dean E. A. Birge delivered the baccalaureate address to the class. He treated of the changes which have taken place in education during his forty years of service on the faculty of the University.

With the customary exercises, the class of 1915 paid the usual tribute to the Campus and the buildings by the planting of the ivy beneath the window of the President's office.

On Tuesday morning the senior class was given the privilege of bringing up in the rear of the Alumni parade. Chaperoned by the classes of 1905 and 1910, the baby alumni marched seventy-five strong. This showing proved that this custom is one that is well worth continuing. The second performance of the senior play was given before a large and appreciative audience on Tuesday evening. Immediately after this performance the Calumet pipe and peace ceremony, which was postponed from Monday evening, was given by the juniors and seniors before a big bonfire on the Lower Campus.

On Wednesday morning the class met for its picture in front of the Lincoln Statue and directly afterwards formed for the procession which marched to the Armory where the Commencement exercises were held. Seven hundred seniors received degrees. There are nearly one hundred more who rightly consider themselves members of the class, but who were not granted degrees at this time. Most of them will receive their diplomas at the end of the summer school.

Plans are being perfected for a permanent class organization which will keep the members of the class informed as to the whereabouts and occupations of its members. With its large numbers and continued unity the class of 1915 should contribute its share to the greatness of Wisconsin.

NYNTEENTEN ORGANIZES

By WILLIAM J. MEUER, '10

WE PUT Nynteenten as an organization on a solid basis. Our purpose is to keep the class together and in touch with each other. We shall publish a pamphlet once or oftener each year, and keep an accurate card index of the members. Milton Blair, to whom goes by far the most credit for the great success of our first reunion was unanimously chosen secretary, that being the sole class office. He is to be assisted by local organizations composed of class members. Our assessment is a dollar a year. The Madison members have already fallen in with the spirit of the scheme by organizing and laying out a program of picnics and meetings.

So far as I know we are the first class to organize in this way. I do not say it for our class in egotism nor do we want to be alone in this class secretary movement which we have inaugurated. It is proving a big success in the older universities of the east and will meet with at least equal success at Wisconsin if it is carried out with proper interest. It is absolutely essential that our Alumni Association take on new energy. Our organization is a farce—in fact, we cannot say that we are organized. Barring the efforts which have been made by a few individuals nothing has been done for the university nor for ourselves. Already a movement is on foot which promises big things. We shall hear more about that shortly. For the time being, however, the members of the various classes should be thinking about their own organization and about the class secretary idea so that when the time comes to launch a movement for a bigger and more vigorous alumni organization we shall be ready with our smaller groups to help make the Alumni Association really worth while and to have it, as it should, stand as the big brother to our alma mater.

1915 MEMORIAL

The class of 1915 will leave to the University as its memorial a life saving tower which will be erected in front of the University boathouse. The tower which will rise twelve feet above the water will be built of brick with a concrete foundation. It will furnish living quarters for a life saver and will be equipped with an observation platform, signal station, field glasses, searchlight, and telephone. With the tower as an observation station from which a lookout can be maintained over the lake at all times and with the high-powered Cardinal II, equipped with life buoys and grappling hooks, at hand to render swift and efficient aid in case of need, it is expected that the number of fatal accidents on the lake will be reduced to a minimum.

The class of 1915 is to be commended for its recognition of such an urgent need of the University. The memorial will stand as the embodiment of a true Wisconsin ideal-service.

“Whatever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the TRUTH can be found.”

(Taken from a Report of the Board of Regents in 1894.)

Memorial, Class 1910.

HENRY BAIRD FAVILL

Born in Madison, Wisconsin, August 14, 1860. University of Wisconsin B. A. 1880. Rush Medical College Chicago 1883. Interne at Cook County Hospital during his senior year at Rush Medical College. Practiced medicine in Madison from 1883 to 1893. Appointed Professor of Medicine in the Chicago Polyclinic and Adjunct Professor of Medicine at Rush Medical College 1893. Appointed in 1898 Ingals Professor of Preventive Medicine and Therapeutics at Rush Medical College, which he held until the summer of 1905, when he was appointed Professor of Clinical Medicine. President of City Club of Chicago 1910 to 1912. President of Municipal Voters' League Chicago 1907 and 1909. Chairman of Council of Health and Public Instruction of the American Medical Association from 1910 to the present. President of the National Society for Mental Hygiene 1910. President of Chicago Tuberculosis Institute 1907 and 1913.

At present: Attending physician at St. Luke's Passavant Memorial and Augustana Hospitals in Chicago. Member the American Medical Association, Illinois and Wisconsin State Medical Societies, American Academy of Medicine, Chicago Society of Internal Medicine, Chicago Pathological Society, Chicago Neurological Society, and others.

Dr. Favill is deeply interested in agriculture, devoting himself particularly to the breeding of Holstein cattle.

In conferring the degree upon Doctor Favill, President Van Hise said:

Henry Baird Favill, thirty-five years ago you graduated from this University, and after having completed a course in medicine at Rush Medical College, Chicago, you returned to Madison and for a number of years practiced medicine here with distinguished success. You then went to Chicago where larger fields were open and achieved a like success in the practice of medicine there, as well as in the teaching of medicine as professor of clinical medicine at Rush Medical College and at the Chicago Polyclinic. While busily engaged as a practitioner and teacher you have nevertheless found time to render important public service in the promotion of a public understanding of the need of sanitation and preventive medicine, and have been a leader both in local and in national movements which have had as their ends the promotion of preventive medicine. In this work you have illustrated what we like to believe the true Wisconsin idea, active service for the public in appreciation of the benefits derived from public education. As a devoted alumnus, eminent physician, honored teacher, distinguished leader in the development of social welfare through the development of preventive medicine upon recommendation of the University faculty, and by the authority of the Regents, I confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

CHARLES FREDERICK LOWETH

Charles Frederick Loweth, on whom the University conferred the honorary degree of Civil Engineer, is Chief Engineer of the C., M. & St. P. Railway System. Mr. Loweth's engineering education was obtained almost wholly by home study and experience. His college training was confined to one year at Oberlin College. In spite of the lack of those advantages which are now so common, Mr. Loweth has achieved a marked success. He was for many years a Consulting Engineer at Minneapolis, but about ten years ago he was appointed Bridge Engineer of the C., M. & St. P. Railway Company and, later, was made Chief Engineer.

Mr. Loweth is a very active member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Railway Engineering Association, and the Western Society of Engineers. He is past president of the last named society. He is the type of man which the University has selected on a few occasions in the past upon whom to confer the honorary degree of Civil Engineer, as it is believed that men who have achieved such marked success in the engineering profession on a technical foundation gained by self study are well worthy of this honor.

The following were the words spoken by President Van Hise conferring the degree:

Trained in the school of experience, you have, by your great industry and good judgment won for yourself a highly honorable place in the engineering profession.

As consulting engineer and as chief engineer of one of the great railway systems, you have rendered large service. While engaged in the exacting duties of your position, you have also given liberally of your time to the profession at large and to the public in laboring to promote the adoption and use of improved standards of construction.

In recognition of your services in this field, on the recommendation of the faculty and by the authority of the regents, I confer upon you the honorary degree of Civil Engineer.

WHAT IS THE WISCONSIN EFFICIENCY BUREAU?

Many alumni have received copies of "Everybody's Business," a publication issued by the so-called "Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau," with headquarters at Madison. In view of the fact that the names of those responsible for the publication were not given, it was found desirable by the senate to make an investigation. The report is very illuminating and is printed below in full for the information of the alumni. The official report is to be found in the Wisconsin Senate Journal for Friday, June 18, 1915.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED IN PURSUANCE OF SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 12 TO INVESTIGATE MATTERS PERTAINING TO THE WISCONSIN EFFICIENCY BUREAU AND THE PUBLICATION KNOWN AS "EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS."

The undersigned committee appointed in pursuance of senate resolution No. 12, duly met at the Capitol on Monday, June 7th, 1915, and organized by selecting Senator Otto Bosshard as chairman and Senator H. A. Huber as secretary. The committee duly secured the attendance of witnesses and caused the production before it of documents, papers and various written data, securing the fullest information within the time at their disposal. The witnesses were duly sworn before testifying and the documentary evidence was all duly identified by the sworn testimony of the witnesses. The witnesses who were duly examined by the committee were the following:

William H. Allen ----Madison, Wisconsin
A. N. Farmer -----Madison, Wisconsin
C. W. Matscheck ---Madison, Wisconsin
Miss Agnes Grady----Madison, Wisconsin

The documents filed with the committee are the following:

The 25 bulletins issued by the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau and entitled "Everybody's Business."

The Constitution of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau.

The By-Laws of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau.

The Association minutes of meetings held.

Under the terms of said resolution the committee was charged with an investigation of the following facts and matters:

The location and nature of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau and its objects, designs and authority;

The identity of its organizers, promoters and financial supporters and of its present and past officers, employes, agents and promoters, together with the duties performed by and the compensation paid to each;

The identity of the editor of the publication, and of the person preparing copy, supervising the printing and acting as final authority with respect to such publication;

The amount and nature of all disbursements made and expenses incurred to date, together with the source from which the same are met;

The mailing list and the number of copies of the publication printed and how the same are disposed of; the source and the reliability of the information upon which is based the statements contained in said publication; whether or not any person or former officer or employe of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has been or is now employed by the state or by any state officer or state employe, and, if so, for what length of time, at what salary and for what purpose;

Whether or not the said bureau or any officer or employe thereof is using or has in its possession any document, correspondence or other records belonging to the state or to any board, institution, department or commission thereof.

In accordance with the provisions of resolution 12 adopted by the senate, the said committee hereby makes the following findings of fact:

I

The location of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has been largely migratory. Originally, it was located in the offices of the persons who were then engaged on the university survey under the direction of Dr. W. H. Allen. Somewhat later, it seemed to be under the direction of L. M. Wilson, who, for some months, had been employed on the university survey by Dr. Allen. At the present time, and for some months past, the location of the bureau so far as it may be said to possess a location, is in the private rooming apartment of Mr. Walter Matscheck at 211 Murray St., Madison, Wisconsin. Mr. Matscheck is a university student, 24 years old, and was formerly engaged under the direction of Dr. Allen on the university survey. Mr. Matscheck testified that he is now the acting president, secretary and treasurer of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau and that he is editor in chief of the bulletins entitled, "Everybody's Business."

II

The objects and designs of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau, according to its Constitution, may be summarized as a plan for a general bureau of information on all matters relating to education and all other activities of government. The testimony of Dr. Allen shows that he approved the purposes and plans of this bureau and in one or more instances advised persons to contribute to the bureau. Mr. Farmer testified that he believed the purpose of this bureau was "to point out the strength and the weakness of the different departments of the government." The evidence clearly discloses the purpose of the bureau and its publication entitled "Everybody's Business" to be to exploit and give publicity to such facts and data in the normal school and university surveys as may be selected and agreed upon by the several persons interested in such bureau. Bulletins 5, 6 and 9 appear to have been issued solely for the purpose of setting forth the favorable idea of a bureau of information on matters of public interest. More than 15 out of the 25 bulletins relate directly and almost exclusively to the normal school and university surveys. The purposes of such a bureau of information appear clearly in numerous phrases and sentences scattered throughout the bulletins, as follows:

"Facts upon which to base intelligent judgment."

"The legislature needs the information."

"Is not the legislature entitled to the information?"

"Continuous interest in and information about public business."

"To serve as a clearing house for citizen suggestion."

"To gather, to make available, and to stimulate interest in and information about public business."

III

The organizers of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau appear to have been the following named persons:

1. L. M. Wilson, employed on the university survey now living at Richland Center, Wisconsin.

2. Walter Matscheck, university student employed on the university survey; now living at Madison, Wisconsin.

3. Miss Janette Rankin, employed on the university survey; now living at River Falls, Wisconsin; instructor in River Falls.

4. Miss Agnes Grady, employed on the university survey; now living at Madison, Wisconsin.

5. David Berg, employed on the university survey; now living at Madison, Wisconsin.

Of the foregoing named original organizers of the bureau Walter Matscheck is the only one of the five now actively connected with the bureau or its publication.

From the evidence, it appears that the organization was informal; no regular meetings of the organizers and promoters were held; one secretary of the bureau testified that she did not know when she was elected secretary and that there was no meeting of the organizers and promoters for such election. L. M. Wilson was the secretary or director at one time and at a later time Walter Matscheck was and now is the combined president, secretary and treasurer of the bureau and editor in chief of its publication. During most of the time since January 1, 1915, Miss Agnes Grady, Miss Janette Rankin and David Berg have had little or no active connection with the bureau or its publication.

The promoters of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau and its publication entitled, "Everybody's Business" were the five persons mentioned in the preceding paragraphs. According to their own testimony, their inspiration was drawn largely from Dr. Allen and A. N. Farmer and from the surveys conducted by these two investigators. The evidence shows that $1,220 out of the $1,254.75 was contributed to the Bureau through solicitation of Dr. Allen or on his suggestion. Dr. Allen testified that he had guaranteed the cost of publishing the bulletins during the first two months. He testified that near the close of the university survey that he wrote to two Milwaukee citizens and suggested that there would be found a way of giving the facts of the survey to the public and he testified that one of these citizens sent a check for $750 which made it possible for several of the workers to hold on through the month of December. He also testifies after March, 1915, he was sent a check of $100 with the request that he should issue personally a series of bulletins to business men on the survey, and that he endorsed this check to the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau. He testified that he was asked by a Milwaukee woman whether the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau would use well $200, and that he stated that he thought the money would be well invested and that he had since been informed that a check for $300 was sent by her to the Bureau. Mr. A. N. Farmer testified that he had absolutely nothing to do with the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau in any manner, except that once or twice he was asked by Mr. Matscheck to help him get out one or two bulletins.

The testimony of Dr. Allen and A. N. Farmer must be taken in connection with the foregoing facts and the fact that each and every one of the twenty-five bulletins issued by the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau relates to the surveys or to a bureau of information, is also pertinent.

IV

The following have been the contributors to the support of the bureau:

1. Walter Stern, Milwaukee. Member of Bernard Stern and Sons, Millers, proprietors of the Atlas Flour Mill of Milwaukee; prominent members of Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Milwaukee -----	$750.00
2. T. J. Neacy, Milwaukee. President of the Filer & Stowell Mfg. Co. of Milwaukee; prominent member of Merchants' & Manufacturers' Association of Milwaukee; president of the Milwaukee Tax Payers' League----	100.00
Mr. Neacy states that his contributions are not personal, but are collected from members of the Tax Payers' League and transmitted by Mr. Neacy personally to Judge Paul D. Carpenter, Counsel for the Merchants' & Manufacturers' Association who, according to Mr. Neacy, sends the money to Dr. Allen for use by the Bureau.

The evidence further shows that the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has entered into an agreement with the Madison Democrat Printing Co. for the publication of the Summary contained in the University Survey, whereby the Democrat Printing Co. is to print said Summary in book or pamphlet form, and the Bureau is to sell the same at $.30 per volume. In case this venture should result in loss, the Madison Democrat Printing Co. has agreed with the Bureau to bear one-half of all losses sustained.

The bulletin entitled "Everybody's Business" has been printed at the Print Shop on Gorham St., Madison, Wisconsin.

The testimony shows that the bulletins are sent to a mailing list, of between 1,500 to 2,000 people. Such list includes legislators, educators, investigators, large manufacturers and tax payers, chiefly in Wisconsin.

The evidence clearly shows that there has been a very close, and possibly significant connection between the operations of the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau and the surveys of the normal schools and the university. All of the seven persons connected with said Bureau, were also connected with one or both surveys. All of the five persons directly connected with such Bureau were the subordinates of Dr. Allen of the university survey. Mr. Farmer who was asked by the editor of "Everybody's Business" to write one or two bulletins, was Dr. Allen's chief assistant on the various surveys. Most of the bulletins relate directly to the surveys and set forth favorably the work of Dr. Allen and Mr. Farmer.

The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has clearly set forth the advantages of a bureau of information. Bulletins 5, 6, and 9 appear to have been issued solely for such purposes. All of the other bulletins illustrate in themselves the favorable idea of such a bureau. The testimony of Dr. Allen and Mr. Farmer shows that they both favor such a bureau. Most of the bulletins entitled "Everybody's Business" contain such phrases and sentences as the following, and suggest the value of a bureau of information:

"Facts upon which to base intelligent judgment."

"The legislature needs the information."

"Is not the legislature entitled to the information?"

"Continuous interest in and information about public business."

"To serve as a clearing house for citizen suggestion."

"To gather, to make available, and to stimulate interest in, and information about public business."

The evidence shows that while making his investigation of the normal schools, Mr. Farmer advocated some kind of a bureau of information in the office of the normal board. This idea clearly appears on pages 24-25 of his published report on the normal schools. He testified that he completed his survey of the normal schools in November, 1914, and entered the employment of the normal board in December, 1914. The published proceedings of the normal board show that on September 25, 1914, such board adopted a resolution providing for the later employment of Mr. Farmer at a salary of $4,000 for the school year.

Both the university and normal school surveys are documents which have been placed before the members of the legislature by the state board of public affairs and hence they are before the committee and the Senate for examination. On pages cited, the director of the university survey has set forth in the clearest terms the plan of a bureau of information, as follows:

"That a central clearing house of information be established directly responsible to the regents through the business manager; that this activity be given some such name as the division of reference and research." p. 171.

"That under the board of regents there be created a division of reference and research which will serve as a clearing house for information." p. 183.

"The most important next step is for the regents to require an administrative procedure which will make known currently to deans, president and regents facts about the work of the individual advisers and of the advisor system as a whole." p. 909.

The use which the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has made of the university survey suggests that the form, the substance, and the methods of such survey were strongly influenced by the philosophy and plan of a great central bureau of information; that such survey contemplated a continuous investigation of the educational and other activities of the state government. The 500 pages of what is known as the Allen Report present an extraordinary mass of detail and complexity. There are thirty-six "exhibits" and hundreds of "suggestions," "recommendations" and pieces of information, with long lists of divisions and subdivisions, scattered throughout the report. These, with the direct recommendation for a continuous survey, point to a central bureau of information, with filing cases, clerks, stenographers, expert investigators, and a director, to organize and make ready for use by the board of university regents and the members of the legislature, the mass of details now in the survey. It would almost appear that a bureau of information was intended to explain the survey to the university board of regents, to the legislature and to the people of the state, and that such a bureau is the only proper agency to utilize the survey.

In this connection, it may be presumed that the state board of public affairs contemplated that the survey would show the important administrative facts about the six great departments of the university and of the university as a whole. For the $16,000 expended for the university survey, the state had the right to expect the broad, general administrative facts and policies of the Engineering College, the College of Agriculture, the Law School, the Medical School, the College of Letters and Science, the Extension Division, and of the university as a whole. The Agricultural College survey was made under the direction of Mr. Bronson. Such a survey could have been put in brief form, with supporting detail, and would have been of value to the state. Instead of such a survey, we have a report whose proper and accurate title appears to be: An investigation of details to establish a bureau of information.

From about April 7th to June 10th, 1915, the director of the university survey has been employed in the executive offices of Governor Emanuel L. Philipp. He testified that he has during this time been working principally in connection with educational matters.

On June 9, 1915, what is known as the administration bill for a central state board of education came before the Assembly for discussion. This bill provided for a Commissioner of Education with high educational qualifications and further provided for a corps of clerical, business and other assistants, and competent and practical investigators. These provisions, if enacted into law, will create a complete and continual financial and educational bureau of investigation and information.

The testimony of the directors of both the normal school and university surveys shows that both surveys were conducted on the theory of co-operation. The directors explain that this plan was necessary to enable the investigators and the investigated to agree upon what they call "a basis of fact." This theory has been made prominent in the normal school survey by having the term "co-operative survey" at the top of every right hand page and on the cover. On page 126 of such survey is printed a letter which was signed by several state officials and sent to the several normal schools. This letter is cited as evidence that the survey was co-operative. On its face, such letter appears only to give official sanction to the investigation. It would seem to be manifestly impossible for the governor, state superintendent of public instruction and other state officials named to organize the investigation of the normal schools, write the questionnaires, collect the data, tabulate the results, and write the report. The university survey is also called co-operative and on page 146 is given a list showing hundreds of co-operators. In the case of the university survey, the theory of co-operation does not appear to have enabled the investigators and the investigated to agree upon a basis of fact. The committee does not determine whether this is due to the theory of co-operation or to human nature. In the case of the normal school survey, the theory of co-operation seems to have worked better, although it is clouded by the theory of a bureau of information and the employment of the investigator at a large salary.

The committee, after a careful examination of the testimony of the several witnesses, and of the several documents submitted, have come to the following conclusions:

1. The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau is in fact an organization which issues publications designed to influence public opinion and legislation on important matters, without disclosing the names of its owners, promoters, managers or contributors. Sound public policy demands the condemnation of such a procedure.

2. The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau has for its main purpose the exploiting and making public of the normal school and university surveys and facts therein contained, and the advocacy of some kind of a bureau of information.

3. Sound public policy demands the complete separation of the work of investigation of any state institution and any form of commercializing such investigation.

The committee in its foregoing findings has adhered as strictly as possible to the matters and things directed in said resolution to be investigated. The evidence and written data in possession of the committee, together with official state records and published reports, are the basis of the findings herein made. The committee has pursued its labors with earnestness, diligence, and an eye single to strict retrenchment—duly mindful that the motto of the present administration under whom your committee has been serving is Economy and Efficiency in all affairs of state, and your committee has been prompted and actuated in all its labors by the constant inspiration of this watchword.

No expense has been incurred either in the subpoenaing of witnesses or the payment of witness fees; neither did we employ any legal counsel to assist in the work of the committee. Notwithstanding that our labors consumed the greater portion of the past legislative week and often lasted long into the night, the members of the committee make no per diem charge for their services, recognizing that personal sacrifices must now and then be made in the interests of Economy.

The foregoing report is therefore presented to the senate in the expectation that your committee has fully complied with all the duties imposed upon it by senate resolution No. 12.

A BILL CREATING A CENTRAL BOARD OF EDUCATION

THE original bill No. 262A, to abolish the Board of Regents of the University and the Board of Regents of the Normal Schools and the creating of a Central Board of Education for the government of the University of Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Normal Schools, the Wisconsin Mining School, and the Stout Institute was, as previously reported, abandoned. The committee, on the 28th of May, introduced substitute amendment No. 1A. After days of heated debate over amendments, the bill passed the assembly June 17th. Ayes 53; noes 33. The Senate Committee of the Whole held a long hearing upon this question. There appeared for the Central Board Bill, Regents G. D. Jones, '82 and James S. Trotteman, '84, Lynn S. Pease, '86, formerly a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, W. A. Titus, a member of the Board of Visitors, former Regent Thwaites, Assemblyman R. B. Dickie, '97, and others. Against the bill were Regents Hammond and Seaman, Charles B. Rogers, '93, President of the Alumni Association, President Charles R. Van Hise, '79, John Aylward, '84, and able representatives of the normal schools, including President Kieth of Oshkosh Normal, President Pearce of the Milwaukee Normal, and Mr. C. Patzer of the Legislative Committee of the Teachers' Association.

The whole movement to abolish the existing boards has been defeated by the passage of substitute amendment No. 1S, introduced by Senator Staudenmayer and amended by Senators Burke, Bennett, and Bosshard. This bill is now before the governor for his approval. The full text of the Staudenmayer bill as amended is as follows:

Sub. Amdt. No. 1, S., To Bill No. 262, A. June 28, 1915—Offered by Senator Staudenmayer.

Briesen, '00.

The necessary number of members were present to conduct the meeting.

The Recording Secretary of the Association being absent, the president appointed Paul Stover to act as temporary secretary.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved.

President von Briesen addressed the meeting stating that the incoming president would appoint a committee to revise the constitution of the Association.

The report of the treasurer was read and placed on file.

The president appointed an auditing committee consisting of Professor Elwell, Charles K. Leith, and Thomas Morris to audit the books of the secretary and treasurer and report to the Executive Committee.

Election of officers being in order, Charles B. Rogers, '93, of Fort Atkinson was nominated for the office of the president.

It was moved, seconded, and carried that the nomination be closed.

It was moved, seconded, and carried that the secretary cast the ballot of the Association for Mr. Rogers as president for the ensuing year. The secretary so cast the ballot and Mr. Rogers was declared elected president.

Mrs. Grant Showerman, '90, was thereupon nominated as vice-president.

The nominations were closed upon motion duly seconded and carried.

It was moved, seconded, and carried that the secretary cast the ballot of the Association for Mrs. Showerman for vice-president. The secretary did so and Mrs. Showerman was declared elected.

Mr. Lochner was nominated as Recording Secretary of the Association. Upon motion duly carried to that effect, the nominations were closed and the secretary cast the ballot of the Association for Mr. Lochner as Recording Secretary and he was declared elected.

Announcements were made to the meeting by the President.

Mr. Fred Silber, President of the Wisconsin Club of Chicago, addressed the meeting urging the Association to be more active in University affairs. Mr. Silber ended by moving that the incoming president appoint a conference committee of not less than ten members and not greater than thirty, to meet with the Executive Committee for development of the Association. Motion seconded and carried.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Lord:

"It is hereby resolved by the Alumni Association of the University of Wisconsin that Mr. Charles K. Leith be appointed as a representative of the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association to act as a member of a committee, two other members of which have been selected by the Classes of 1904 and 1905, to perfect plans for administering what has been designated as the "Decennial Class Reunion Fund" and for the purpose of raising additional funds."

At the Annual Business Meeting, President Ernst von Briesen stated that the Alumni Association had outgrown its constitution and that there was need of immediate reorganization in order that the alumni may do more effective work. The Executive Committee voted at its meeting Monday night, June 14th, to prepare a tentative constitution and submit it to the members of the Association for criticisms and suggestions. These recommendations will be printed in the Alumni Magazine early in the year.

CHARLES B. ROGERS, '93

President of Alumni Association

CHARLES B. ROGERS, President of the Alumni Association, has had splendid preparation for the responsibility which he has undertaken. He graduated from the Fort Atkinson High School in 1889, in the first class to graduate under that forceful man, J. Q. Emery. Four years later he received his degree from the University of Wisconsin. After a year in the law offices of his father, William H. Rogers of Fort Atkinson, he returned to the Wisconsin Law School and graduated therefrom in 1895. Mr. Rogers ran for District Attorney of Jefferson County in 1896 but was defeated in the republican "landslide" of that year. He ran again and was elected in 1898 and again in 1900. In 1906 he was appointed County Judge of Jefferson County and was elected in 1907 for the unexpired term of Judge Grimm. Mr. Rogers was re-elected County Judge in 1909. After seven years of service he declined to become a candidate for re-election and resumed the practice of law in his home town, Fort Atkinson, where he now resides.

Mr. Rogers is a member of the Legislative Committee of the Alumni Association. He appeared several times before the committee of the legislature particularly in opposition to the bill to abolish the Board of Regents of the University and the Board of Regents of the Normal Schools and to substitute for these boards one Central Board of Education. He appeared also in opposition to the bill to take the President from the Board of Regents. Mr. Rogers has always taken an active interest in University affairs. He served two terms upon the University Board of Visitors and has been an active member of the Alumni Association for many years.

The Alumni may look forward to a vigorous administration.

DEATHS

ELBERT OSBORNE HAND, '59.

In the death of Judge Hand, Wisconsin lost one of its oldest and most loyal alumni. Judge Hand was a distinct product of the pioneer days of Wisconsin. He was born in New Lebanon, Columbia County, New York, in 1830, but when he was eleven years old his father moved west and settled in what is now the village of Lyons, Wisconsin. At the time of the California gold rush in 1848, Mr. Hand left his father's farm and crossed the plains to Placerville, where he mined successively for three years. Upon his return to the East, Mr. Hand prepared for college at Leoni, Michigan. He entered the University as a sophomore and after his graduation with the class of 1859, he entered the Albany Law School. Upon the completion of his law course, Judge Hand opened an office in Racine where in a short time he became a leading citizen and attorney. As a recognition of his legal talents, he received an appointment as county judge from Governor Fairchild in 1868. This position he held for thirteen years, a record which has never been equalled in Racine County. Upon his retirement from the bench in 1881, Judge Hand formed a partnership with David H. Flett, '80, which lasted until 1897 when, upon the appointment of Mr. Flett to the municipal judgeship, E. B. Hand, '92, the judge's son, became associated with his father. In 1890 Judge Hand was elected district attorney of Racine.

Judge Hand was for years an officer and director of the First National Bank of Racine, a member of the city school board, of which he was president at one time, a member of the University Board of Visitors, president of the Winship Manufacturing Company, and for over fifty years an elder of the Presbyterian Church.

The family of Judge Hand has had perhaps the largest representation of any one family at the University of Wisconsin. Four children, Mrs. John D. Rowland (Lizzie M. Hand), '84 (deceased), Mrs. Charles R. Carpenter (Imogene F. Hand), '87, E. B. Hand, '92, Mrs. W. F. MacGregor (Jessie L. Hand), '95, and three grandchildren, Russell H. Carpenter, '14, Margaret Rowland, Ex '13, and Elbert H. Carpenter, '16, have studied at the alma mater of the father and grandfather. A fourth grandchild, Charles Carpenter, will enter the University as a freshman next September.

Hutchison, '79, the late principal of the Madison High School, who died in 1912.

Mrs. Edgren died there on January 3, 1899, leaving a daughter, Mae, 12 days old. Returning to the states in the spring of 1900, Mr. Edgren started in business in Milwaukee in October, 1909. He married Mrs. Myrtle Buck of Milwaukee, who survives him. He also leaves a daughter, Mae, and a stepdaughter, Florence Buck. Mr. Edgren was a prominent member of the Philomathia Society during his college life and was much loved. He was buried in Madison June 4 from the home of the first Mrs. Edgren's sister, Mrs. J. E. Mr. Wallace was first employed, in the practice of law, with Messrs. Holt, Wheeler and Sidley of Chicago, and next with Messrs. Moses, Rosenthal, and Kennedy, into which firm he was admitted as a junior member in January, 1913. His prospects appeared to be of the brightest when he was stricken in October following with cerebro spinal meningitis. This crisis was passed successfully, and in the following summer he seemed fairly on the road to complete recovery; but in the autumn a decline set in which developed serious symptoms and ended in his death.

Mr. Wallace was married at Madison June 22, 1912, to Miss Helen Flint, a graduate of the College of Letters and Science in 1908, and daughter of Professor and Mrs. Albert S. Flint of the University. He is survived by his wife and one child, Anne Dorsey Wallace, two years of age.

THE CLASSES

John M. Dodson of Chicago sent the following note of regret to the Alumni Association in reply to an invitation to return to the Commencement: "When I wrote that I would attend the Alumni banquet on June 15, it quite slipped my mind that my son graduates in Chicago on that day. Of course I can not miss that. I fear I shall be unable to go to Madison for this Commencement season, which is a sharp blow to my second childhood pride in my record. Counting the exercises I attended as a student, this would have been my thirty-ninth, with but one miss. I always enjoy the few hours on the Campus and the renewing of old friendships of college days—the truest and best that can come to us—and I shall be very sorry to miss it this year." Surely few alumni can equal such a record as this.

FROM THE CAMPUS

In recognition of the excellent work which has been accomplished by the military department of the University during the past year, Wisconsin has been placed in the "distinguished class" of military schools. This honor comes only after two years of hard work on the part of the officers and men of the cadet corps. Every year the private and public institutions of the country, which offer military instruction, are inspected by detailed officers of the United States Army. After the completion of these annual inspections, the War Department selects the ten schools that have made the best showing and gives them the above classification. The ranking officer of each of these ten institutions is eligible for a second lieutenancy in the regular army without examination, provided there are the necessary vacancies. Colonel F. L. Conover, '15, of Madison, is the ranking officer of the University of Wisconsin. Much credit is due to Commandant Wrightson, whose untiring efforts to raise the standard of military drill at the University, during his two years of service here, have been directed towards bringing this distinction to Wisconsin.

The Coburn Players performed for the benefit of the Summer School students in the open theatre on July 5 and 6. They presented "The Yellow Jacket," "La Malade Imaginaire," and "Macbeth."

The team representing the College of Agriculture won the championship in the Inter college Baseball League this year with an unusually high percentage of 875. The one game that they lost went to the Commerce team which finished third in the race. Letters and Science was second and the Law School was last.

The total registration of the Summer School for this year is 2712, an increase of 110 over the enrollment of last year.

In order to refute the statement that a college course generally takes a boy away from the farm forever, the Wisconsin Country Magazine interviewed eighty members of this year's senior class in agriculture and of this number, thirty-seven, or forty per cent, signified their intentions of returning to the farm.

Alpha Sigma Phi won the championship of the Interfraternity Baseball League this year.

In order to give practical work in farm management, the College of Agriculture is offering a special field course in that subject. The students live in tents and board at farm houses or neighboring hotels. Two camps are maintained, one near Waukesha and one near Rosendale, Fond du Lac County.

The third annual conference of the American Association of Agricultural Editors was held in Madison on June 24 and 25.

The Committee on Student Life and Interests have recently published a pamphlet on "Honors and Prizes for Students," which will be of interest to alumni as well as students, since it devotes considerable space to prizes, fellowships, and honors, open to graduates. Copies of the pamphlet may be had upon application to the University registrar.

The graduation class of this year contained some of Wisconsin's finest athletes whose absence from the Badger teams next year will be sorely felt. Among those who have worn the Cardinal for the last time are "Tubby" Keeler, captain of the football team and an all-western linesman for two years, and a consistent performer in the weights for the track team; Frank Bellows, varsity quarterback for two years and one of the best drop kickers in the Conference; Tom Kennedy, center for three years on the football team, freshman and varsity crew man, and a member of the track team; Herb Taylor, varsity halfback, captain of the swimming team and the holder of several of the Conference aquatic records; "Ernie" Lange, captain of the basketball team, and a member of the championship team of 1913-14; Captain Herzog, Paul Roach, Joe Matchotka, and Carl Neupert of the baseball team, and Al Booth and Barney Knudsen, two of the stars of the 1915 Conference championship track team.

John R. Commons, professor of political economy in the University and an alumnus of Oberlin, was honored by his alma mater with the degree of doctor of laws in June.

BOOK REVIEWS

Montgomery's Manual of Federal Procedure by Charles C. Montgomery, B. A. '97, LL. B. '00, instructor in equity jurisprudence, equity pleading and federal procedure in the College of Law, University of California, formerly professor of constitutional law at Creighton University, and member of the Los Angeles bar. 1057pp. Bancroft-Whitney Company, San Francisco.

It is seldom that such a mass of valuable and constantly needed material can be compiled into a volume of such convenient size as Professor Montgomery's manual, which as a guide to federal procedure is a decided contribution to our library of legal reference works. It contains "verbatim all the Federal statutes and court rules (except district courts) relating to the practice and procedure of the ordinary law, equity, criminal case in the Federal courts, with many forms and suggestions as to the steps to be taken in such cases." Explanation in detail is made of the organization, jurisdiction, rules and procedure of all the courts in the federal system. Threefold, and in many cases fourfold, references are given to other works. The efficient arrangement of the manual makes it possible to take the present law and trace out its changes and similarities with the least expenditure of time. The appendix contains the judicial code in effect January 1, 1912, the rules of the United States Supreme Court amended up to June 10, 1912, with index, the rules of the United States circuit courts of appeals, and the equity rules in force up to February 1, 1913, with index. The whole work is fully indexed under sections which makes it of inestimable value as a reference work, not only to the practitioner but to the layman who is called upon from time to time to deal with legal matters.

The Indian Stream Republic and Luther Parker by Grant Showerman, '96. New Hampshire State Historical Society Collections Vol. XI. Concord.

This work by Professor Showerman of the Latin department of the University is a worthy contribution to the history of Wisconsin and New Hampshire. Luther Parker was the first permanent white settler in Muskego Township, Waukesha County, Wisconsin, and a member of the territorial legislature. Before coming to Wisconsin he was a prominent member of the Indian Stream community, a settlement in the extreme northern part of New Hampshire which was disputed territory until the Ashburton Treaty awarded it to the United States. In 1833 the inhabitants of Indian Stream organized themselves into a republic which led an independent existence until 1835, when a dispute with Canada and the armed intervention of New Hampshire brought the beginnings of the international settlement finally accomplished in 1842. In preparing this work, Professor Showerman had access to a number of original documents which heretofore had not been utilized. In addition to the history of the Indian Stream Republic, the present volume contains the constitution and the laws of the Republic, the report of the Canadian and American Indian Stream Commissioners, an account of Luther Parker's Wisconsin activities, and the diary of his daughter, Ellen Parker, covering the period between 1852 and 1859.

The Dean of Women by Lois Kimball Mathews, dean of women and associate professor of history in the University of Wisconsin. 274 pp. $1.50 Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

In the belief of President Van Hise who has contributed the "foreword" to Mrs. Mathews' work, "this book upon the position of the dean of women is * * * the first to appear upon this phase of educational work. With the multitude of books upon almost every aspect of education, this fact is significant. The position of dean of women is a new one; the duties relating to the post have not been defined; they are in rapid flux; they are not the same in one institution as they are in another. Dean Lois Kimball Mathews clearly analyzes the qualifications for the position, the opportunities offered by it, and what may be accomplished through it."

Dean Mathews speaks as an authority, whose treatment of such phases of coeducation as "the problem of living conditions, and their relations to social conditions," "the problem of student employment," "vocational guidance," "self-government associations," "problems of student discipline," and "the intellectual life of students" shows the valuable influence of several years of experience as the dean of women of an institution having an enrollment of over twelve hundred women. Although the book is meant primarily for those who are directly connected with coeducation in an official capacity, or who expect to take up such work as a profession, yet it should prove of interest to all who are in any way interested in this growing problem, men as well as women.

The New Nation by Frederic L. Paxson, professor of history in the University of Wisconsin. pp. 342. $1.25. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

This, the fourth volume of the Riverside History of the United States, edited by William E. Dodd, covers the period since the close of the Civil War with special emphasis upon the great problems and issues that have confronted us since "the restoration of home rule in the South," a period upon which Professor Paxson is an authority. It opens with a chapter dealing with the internal changes effected during the four years of this war "which carried the United States over a period of social and economic transition and left it well started on the new course" and closes with one on the development of the "new nationalism." Bibliographical notes are given at the end of every chapter which deserve attention for their fullness and choice discrimination in selection.

The Coconut by Edwin Bingham Copeland, Ex '95, Professor of Plant Physiology and Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of the Philippines. 212 pp. 10s net. Macmillan and Company.

Dr. Copeland's book has been written in correlation with courses of instruction on the subject, given by the author in the University of the Philippines, and has been amplified and substantiated by experiments and observations of the students in successive classes. It is a book in which agricultural practice is considered in the light of scientific inquiry and business considerations in the light of common sense. The author treats of the physiology of the organs of the coconut plant, suitable soils and situations, diseases and pests of the plant, selection and treatment of the seed, directions for nursery work, field culture, and the nature and preparation of coconut products.

From a fuller review in the Agricultural News, Barbados, January 2, 1915.

The All-Year Car—Motor Twelve Months Instead of Seven

The Kissel All-Year Car is adaptable to all kinds of weather. As a fair weather touring car this combination tonneau is the thing—the best designed automobile on the market—two doors, one compartment, individual forward seats—an original Kissel design and now widely imitated.

In the fall the Detachable Sedan Top can be replaced as easily as it was removed, thus providing comfortable winter use of the same car.

KisselKars are quality cars throughout, upholding the Kissel reputation for giving great value.

SILK FACING Over the Invisible Cotton Body

The New Holeproof Hose for Men and Women

Here, now, is the hosiery for men and women that combines long wear with the style of silk hosiery, and it sells at the same price as good cotton hose—50 cents a pair for men's and 75 cents a pair for women's.

Holeproof Hosiery
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Holeproof, Silk-Faced Hosiery is made of the finest Japanese Silk, ingeniously knit over a strong, sheer, invisible body of Sea Island Cotton. This gives the appearance of pure silk and much longer wearing quality than is possible in pure silk hose. Three pairs are guaranteed to wear without holes for three months. If any of the three pairs fail in that time we will replace them with new hose free.

The Silk-Faced are light in weight and cool, and they fit every inch of the foot and ankle. Hose of better style never have been produced.

OTHER PRICES

$1.50 per box and up for six pairs of men's cotton Holeproofs; $2.00 per box and up for six pairs of women's or children's in cotton. $1.00 per box for four pairs of infants' in cotton. Above boxes guaranteed six months. $1.00 per box for three pairs of children's cotton Holeproofs, guarantee three months. $2.00 per box for three pairs of men's silk Holeproof socks; $3.00 per box for three pairs of women's silk Holeproof stockings.
