Reception at Chadbourn Hall.

Last evening the visitors and their Madison friends were tendered a reception at Chadbourn Hall. About 100 guests were present. Those who received were Gov. and Mrs. R. M. La Follette, Mrs. E. A. B. George, Mrs. Frankenberg, Miss Butt and Miss Loeb.

Owing to rough water Coach O'Dea was unable to pull off the race between the Varsity and freshman crews which was scheduled for this morning.

MISS LEINS WINS.

Carries Off First Honors in Interscholastic Declam.

In the third annual interscholastic declamatory contest yesterday afternoon in Library Hall, Miss Emma Leins of West Bend carried off first honors. Miss Emma Ferber of Appleton won second place and Miss Euretta Kimball of Janesville was given third place.

The contest was of an exceptionally high standard and one that was close and interesting throughout. The declamations were for the most part personification. While none of the boys in the contest succeeded in carrying off any of the first honors, they showed no little ability in oratory.

The winning declamation by Miss Leins, entitled "Dr. Carter and his Mother," was a pathetic story of a mother's devotion to an unappreciative son. The poor mother who had struggled hard for her boy, goes to visit him when he becomes successful, but he becomes heartily ashamed of her and by cruel words drives her from his palatial house. He later finds her dying in a hospital where he atones for his mistreatment of her and receives her pardon on the deathbed. Miss Leins delivered the selection in a charming manner and brought out the pathos with the full vigor of its sadness.

The judges were Hon. Breeze J. Stevens, Amos P. Wilder, Dr. E. G. Updike, John A. Aylward and Miss Florence Vernon.

The following was the program:

President—Professor D. B. Frankenberg.

Music—Ladies' Glee Club.

4. Florence Gray, Ironwood, Mich., "Pauline Pavlovna."

5. Anna Lawson, Hudson, "The Soul of the Violin."

Music—Vocal solo, W. G. Hamilton.

6. Robert Reed, River Falls, "Fight with the Aurochs."

7. Emma Leins, West Bend, "Dr. Carter and his Mother."

8. Edna Ferber, Appleton, "The Story of Patsy."

9. Florence Copeland, Broadhead, "Eugene Aram's Dream."

Music—Cello solo, H. B. Beeson.

10. Euretta Kimball, Janesville, "Helene Thamre."

11. David Jones, Bangor, "Supposed Speech of J. Adams."

12. Margery Roberts, Milwaukee, "Eruption of Vesuvius."

BADGERS WIN FROM ALBION.

Wolverines are Weak in Base Running and Head Work.

The University of Wisconsin defeated Albion College in a fine exhibition of baseball on the college athletic field Albion, Michigan, yesterday by a score of 7 to 2. The batting honors were about even both pitchers doing some first-class work. The almost perfect fielding of Wisconsin was a feature of the game. Albion was weak in base running, and lost several runs on account of poor head work. The star fielding was done by Erickson for Wisconsin and Marshall for Albion, the latter getting two phenomenal catches in center field. The score:

R. H. E.
Wisconsin 1 0 0 0 3 1 0 2 0—7 10 2
Albion ... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—2 8 6

Batteries—Richardson and Pierce, Davis and Sebastian.

Publication Needed.

It is to be hoped that the commencement exercises, and particularly the addresses can be well reported and afterwards published in some permanent form as has been done for the past ten years or so. Private enterprise has taken up this work whenever it was attempted and it is certainly the desire of many that such enterprise will not be lacking this year. Such a publication cannot but be appreciated by those who are about to complete their college life and forms a fitting remembrance of the closing days of a memorial four years in the life of each. It is probable that if some ambitious student or students take up this matter early enough there will be a sufficient financial compensation in the booklet to pay them amply for all the labor of compilation, and a record of the week's proceedings will be preserved in a lasting form.

PRINCIPALS BANQUET

UNIVERSITY FACULTY GIVES FUNCTION FOR VISITORS.

About 200 Attend—Acting-President Birge Toastmaster—Doty, Thwaites and Gregory Respond.

The principals and teachers who are visiting the university during the interscholastic season were very delightfully entertained last night by the members of the university faculty at a banquet in Keeley's dining hall. Some two hundred people partook of the elaborate dinner which was served in five courses. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with palms, cut flowers and the cardinal pennant of the 'varsity. Five long banquet tables were arranged each of which was daintily trimmed with banquet lamps, candelabra, and generous bouquets of tulips, petunias, peonies and carnations. A unique and neatly printed souvenir program card contained the menu of the dinner and the names of the speakers with the subjects to which they responded.

After the spread had been disposed of President E. A. Birge assumed his post as toastmaster of the evening and presided throughout in a graceful and highly acceptable manner.

About sixty members of the university faculty were present at the banquet and helpful interchange of thought and opinion between university professors and the teachers in the secondary schools was the order of the evening.

F. E. Doty, principal of the high school at Sparta, opened the program of toasts, speaking upon the subject, The Teacher and the Crowd.

Secretary Reuben G. Thwaites of the State Historical society responded to the subject, The Teacher and the Library.

Miss Annie L. McLenegan of Beloit associated her remarks about the sentiment, Young America in the High School. She described in a very witty manner the peculiarities of this original species with which the teacher has so much to do.

Associate Dean Charles Noble Gregory of the university law school responded in his usual ready manner to the subject, Is the Lawyer of Use?

President McKenny of the Milwaukee normal school, responding to the subject Accretions, spoke very entertainingly upon the intimate relation existing between the various parts of our modern educational system.

Assistant Professor J. F. A. Pyre of the university faculty closed the program of responses with a well received discussion of the subject, The Thing Called Book.

The program of speeches was concluded shortly after 10 o'clock and the guests tarried for a time in the spacious parlors renewing old acquaintances and discussing the probable outcome of the big meet this afternoon.

PHI BETA KAPPA ADDRESS.

Will be Given by Dr. Bascom Thursday Evening, June 6.

Dr. John Bascom will be present at the University during next week to address the Phi Beta Kappa society. Dr. Bascom was President of the University from 1874 to 1887. His administration covered perhaps the most important years in the development of the institution—those in which it grew from a small and weak college to an institution ready to pass into the rank of universities. The development of the University during those years was in very great measure due to the personal qualities of President Bascom. He is a man of great power of mind and very unusual force of character. He was able to impress himself on the institution, and especially upon the student body to a degree quite exceptional in the history of the University. Dr. Bascom has visited Madison more than once during the fourteen years which have elapsed since his resignation, but this will be the first time when he has been here during the college session. He will speak to the University probably on Wednesday noon in the gymnasium, when all members of the University, both faculty and students, will be present to meet him and hear him. The Phi Beta Kappa address will be given on Thursday evening, June 6, in Library Hall. The subject will be the motto of the society—Philosophy, the Pilot of Life. On Friday evening a large dinner will be given in honor of Dr. Bascom, under the auspices of the Madison alumni of the University.

PLANETS ARE BRILLIANT.

A Number Visible During Evening and Morning Hours.

June astronomical data is furnished by the Washburn observatory as follows: Mercury will be very favorably situated for observation the middle portion of the month. June 15 it reaches greatest elongation east, and for some days preceding and following this date the planet may be seen as a right star in the evening twilight slanting down to the horizon in the same course with the sun and setting at the same point. June 15 the planet does not set until 9:25, so that there will be a good interval for observing it, if clouds or smoke do not obscure the low western sky too much. Venus is becoming higher each evening as the brilliant star. This planet also sets at about the same point as the sun throughout the month, but about an hour earlier than Mercury when the latter is at its highest. Mars is still the red planet of the western sky in the evening. Jupiter and Saturn appear in the southeast in the evening and form an interesting pair of planets, the former by far the more brilliant, but the latter also conspicuous, a little east and north of Jupiter.

The times of sunrise and sunset for the month are as follows:

Sunrise—June 1, 4:21; June 11, 4:18; June 21, 4:18; June 30, 4:212.

Sunset—June 1, 7:29; June 11, 7:36; June 21, 7:40; June 30, 7:40.

The time of the moon's phases are: Full moon, June 2, 3:53 a. m.; third quarter, June 9, 4:00 p. m.; new moon, June 16, 7:33 a. m.; first quarter, June 23, 2:59 p. m.

The principal fixed stars visible during the month in the evening hours are: To the west, Regulus, near the meridian, Arcturus and Spica; to the east, Antares and Vega. Visitors will be received at the observatory if the night is clear on the evenings of June 5 and June 19 from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock.
