HOLD ANNUAL JAMBOREE IN LATHROP GYM

Prizes Are Offered For Individuals, Groups and Couples

FOR STUDENTS ONLY

The annual spring Jamboree mask ball, organized and directed by the Student Senate, will take place on Saturday evening, April 1, from 8 until 12 o'clock in the gymnasium of Lathrop hall.

The dance is open only to bona fide students of the university and tickets can be bought only with the presentation of fee cards. Walter Frautschi '24, who is in charge of the tickets, will make an announcement within the next day or two as to where the paste boards will be on sale. The music will be provided by "Jess" Cohen's eight-piece orchestra.

Prizes Are Offered

Numerous prizes have been offered for individuals, groups, and couples. A silver cup is to be awarded to the best men's group and a silver service set will be given to the best women's group. Press club and three sororities, Delta Zeta, Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Gamma Delta, are planning to compete for the silver cup which will be awarded for the best stunt. It has been rumored that the best men's group only would be given a cup. This story is not authentic, however, and the cups will be awarded as stated above.

Prizes have been offered by a number of Madison merchants, among whom are: Albert Smith, Hook Brothers, Forbes Meagher and the University Music shop, six phonograph records; Chocolate shop, pecan roll; Morgan Brothers, a box of cigars. The man with the best fancy dress costume will be given a $15 Premo kodak by the Photoart shop, and second best costumed man will get a leather belt from Rupp's Haberdashery shop. The best fox trotting couple will also receive a prize.

A committee of seniors made up of "Bill" Purnell '22, Marjorie Boesch '22, and George Bunge '22, will select the prize dancers of the evening, and Prof. and Mrs. Carl Russell Fish, Prof. and Mrs. G. H. Stuart and Miss Gertrude Johnson will choose the winners of the other prizes.

He was treasurer of the Commerce club last semester and is a member of Chi Phi fraternity.

Relief Fund Drive Postponed Because of Homecoming Last Fall

A tag day for the Public Welfare association relief fund will be held Saturday, April 1, for the purpose of completing a budget of approximately $18,000 used in community house work, sick relief, and unemployment service.

A similar project planned last fall for Homecoming day was postponed at the request of the university athletic authorities, and the Welfare association urgently requests that the student body stand behind its efforts at this time.

The work of the association, though not directly felt by the judgment of his own. Political judgment in making Madison a better place to live in and a more fitting location for the state university, was the opinion of Mrs. E. B. Steensland, president of the organization.

Kiekhofer Exams Prove Successful

Results of the recent "plus and minus" exam in the economics 1b course, made public yesterday, are considered very satisfactory, according to Prof. W. H. Kiekhofer, of the economics department.

"The highest number of correct answers to the 50 propositions was 47; while one half of the class answered 36 or more correctly," said Professor Kiekhofer. "I consider this a very good showing; and while the system will not be continued, its real value will be tested by comparison with the essay examination to be given during the remainder of the semester."

"It is not, and never has been the intention to substitute this type of examination for the essay type. The activities are centered in the brain and not in the pencil point."

DRAMA CLUB TO PRESENT PLAYS

Variety Program is Offered in Edwin Booth Production March 31

Varying from tragedy in verse to historical burlesque, a program of three one-act plays will be presented by Edwin Booth dramatic club in the concert room of Lathrop hall on Friday evening, March 31, at 7:30 o'clock.

The plays are "A Night of the Trojan War," a tragedy by John Drinkwater, "In a Work-House Ward," an Irish comedy by Lady Gregory, and "Pokey," a somewhat historical play by Philip Moeller.

The episode from the epic conflict by the author of "Abraham Lincoln," and "Mary Stuart," is a powerful presentation of the waste of civilization in war. The theme is simple—a Greek poet, longing for peace and home; a Trojan sculptor, yearning for chisel and mallet; two midnight murders. In passages of tremendous verse, the dramatist pours forth all his pent-up indignation at the world's waste of manhood.

The heroic setting, with white tunics, flaring torches, and dark curtains, presents great opportunities for visual effect. This has been the subject of considerable study by members of the club since last fall, when the play was presented by the pledges at the initiation banquet. By using only tall men in his cast, the coach, Ralph Scheinpflug, '23, sustains the tragic dignity of the theme.

In direct contrast to this play is "Pokey," a travesty on the Pocahontas-John Rolfe story. Feminism was nothing new, even then, it would seem; for old Mrs. Pocahontas is an ardent advocate of "the happy hunting grounds for women;" and Pokey, herself, doesn't hesitate to propose to John, while she holds him in a precarious position on the edge of a cliff. John, straight from the Strand, isn't very keen about the match; but discretion conquers; and having

TOLERANCE IS CONDUCIVE TO CIVIC WORTH

—MERRIAM

Political Judgments Are Often Based on Biased Thinking

DILIGENCE IS ESSENTIAL

The best citizen is one who has an eye for essential facts, the ability to form judgment, a spirit of tolerance, a sense of responsibility, a feeling of democratic fellowship, and intelligence, was the statement made by Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science at Chicago university, in an address yesterday afternoon in the Biology building.

"The first quality a good citizen must have is an eye for essential facts," said Mr. Merriam. "Everyone can obtain fundamental facts if he wants to do so. Facts count in the end. The man who knows his ground and has a reputation as such is the man who has the solid standing in his community. A person need not know all the details of a thing in order to form a judgment. It is the same with politics, the average citizen may readily acquire the elementary facts that are necessary to form a political judgment."

The ability to form judgments is the second requirement of a good citizen, according to Mr. Merriam. He pointed out that the knowledge of facts alone would amount to nothing unless one could form a judgment of his own. Political judgments are nine times out of 10 the result of prejudice, gossip, or hatred of some type.

Political Judgments

Lorentz Completes Course of Lectures At the University

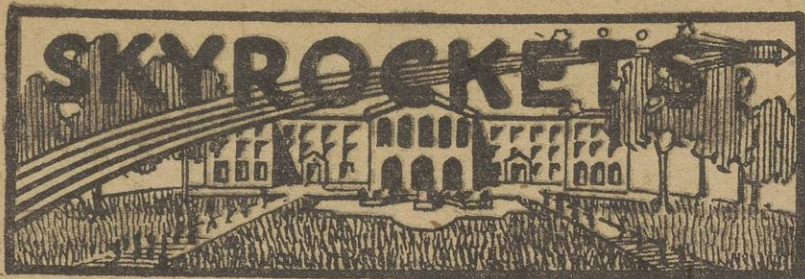

Discussing the relation of mass to the energy of matter, Dr. Lorentz, F. R. S., showed yesterday in the last of a series of four lectures in the Physics building that under the relativity theory the mass of matter is not independent of its energy, but that change in one quantity produced a corresponding change in the other.

The fact that Benjamin Franklin's theory of positive and negative electricity is now generally accepted is one of the bases upon which Dr. Lorentz rests his calculations. He showed that the positive charge was always associated with matter, whereas the negative charge or electron was the kind of electrical force which exists in a free condition.

Atoms of matter are composed of a positive electrical nucleus around which a great number of negative charges rotate in orbits not unlike those of the solar system.

With these things in mind, Dr. Lorentz explained that the chemical arrangement to which an atom belongs is determined by the number of negative charges which are found in the orbits. The problem of arrangement and motion of these negative charges has only partly been solved, according to Dr. Lorentz.

Daring not to say that all the power of nature was electrical in character, Dr. Lorentz admitted that such forces play an important part.

THE COL last week mentioned the promiscuous holding of hands which is going on among certain journalists. We are therefore sorry to note that this practice is being continued and do hereby threaten to get personal if the offense is committed again even though it may embarrass P. H. Mord Bogie was leaning against one of the cases in the Pharmacy with his cap in hand the other day when Ruth Lyon-Campbell came in with her house-mother in tow. Now Ruthie had heard a lot about Pete Burns but never met him, so looking Mord over she questioned Betty: "Is that Pete Burns?" Thereupon Mord tore the lining from his cap.

—KNOX.

The play is to be in two scenes, with conventionalized settings. "In a Work-House Ward," by Lady Gregory, the Irish dramatist, is chuckling comedy of pauper life in Ireland. Two old codgers, side by side, on the narrow pallets of the work-house, quarrel all day with a tense ferocity; but, when someone tries to separate them, it is a different matter. What's a poor old fellow going to do all day if he hasn't got anyone to fight with?

Variety is the keynote of the program. Each play is a perfectly distinct type, far from commonplace.

The casts which have been chosen, are as follows: "A Night Of The Trojan War." Promax—Lorenz Hastings, '24. Salvias—Lawrence Norem, '22.

Hus—Cyrus Minshell, '23. Capys—John Harrington, '25. Sentinel—Richard McCaffrey '24. "In A Work-House Ward." Michael Miskell — Idrys O. Hughes, '22. Honore Donohue—Olivia Fentress, '23. Birge Announces Position on Change Of Entrance Rules

Misinterpretation of Action Responsible For Cardinal Stand

In a letter to the managing editor of the Cardinal, Pres. E. A. Birge makes clear his stand on the plan of entrance rules favored by the University of Michigan. The Cardinal is sorry to have misinterpreted his point of view. The letter follows:

Editor Daily Cardinal: "A note appeared in a recent issue of the Cardinal to the effect that I had sent to the regents a statement regarding changes in terms of admission to the University of Michigan with the recommendation that similar changes be made in admitting students here.

"The fact is that I sent to the regents copies of an item stating the plans of the University of Michigan. This was sent to the regents as a matter of information on a subject in which they are interested and which they were not likely to get in any other way. I did not accompany the statement with any recommendation, nor do I intend to make any recommendations on the subject."

Turkish Motives Toward Christian Women Analyzed

Unspeakable Horrors of Far
East Told By Elizabeth
Kelly

How the starving Christian children in Turkey are shipped hundreds of miles in box cars to be fed, and how the American settlement is attempting to take care of these children was described by Miss Elizabeth Kelly, former instructor in the Home Economics department, for the benefit of the Near East Relief fund at a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet council held Monday noon in Lathrop.

Fascinating accounts of the horrible economic conditions in Turkey, of the cruel treatment of the Christian women and children, and slaughter of the men by the Turks were given by Miss Kelly, who since her departure from Madison has been managing an industrial factory of Armenian women.

Turks' Motives.

In describing the terrible massacres in which the Turks attempted to wipe out the entire Christian population of the country, Miss Kelly told some of the Turks' motives.

"The Turks have always murdered the Christians. They do it for economic reasons. The Christian Armenian is active and progressive, and has the ability to govern. The ordinary Turk is lazy, suave, and gentle. He wants to be left alone. Although the Turks have a government, they have no ability to control provinces. It is for this reason that they kill off the Armenians.

"In one of the massacres during the war the entire country was combed. Every man over 11 years of age was killed. Some were made to dig their own graves. Some were thrown into the river. The old women and those who were ill were killed. The others, some of them not over 12, were taken into Turkish harems as concubines, or were made slaves.

"The little children, many of whom had become separated from their mothers in the long journeys, were taken to be raised in the Mohammedan faith. There are hundreds of thousands of them—nothing but skin and bones. They eat grass, nuts, and the leaves of trees.

Live In Fear.

"They live in constant fear and terror of the Turk. Many of them have dug caves in which they hide themselves. The only way that we could get them out was to leave food at the entrance of the cave. When they came out we got them and took care of them.

"After the Peace conference, when the British came into Turkey, the Turks were willing to do anything. The Christian women were taken from the harems. In one town alone we gathered 750 women. They have been put to work in these industrial factories

Memorial Union Issues Call For Volunteer Workers

A call for volunteer workers who can handle a typewriter, has been sent out by the Memorial Union committee.

"If each student can give two hours, it will be greatly appreciated," said "Hap" Baker, secretary of the Memorial Union. "We are anxious to save every cent possible to put into the building, and by a little assistance from the student body, many dollars can be saved."

Those students who are willing to help, either in the afternoon or evening this week or next, can report to the Memorial Union headquarters and designate their free hours and their telephone number, so that they may be available at the desired time. The call was put forth in Prof. E. H. Gardner's classes and many students signed up to "help build a home for Wisconsin spirit."

Service Men's Widows Can Take Examinations

Widows of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the World war, and wives of injured soldiers, sailors, and marines of that war who themselves are not physically qualified to hold positions in the civil service, but whose wives are qualified, will be given the same preference in examinations for postmasterships where they are making oriental rugs, and doing fine handwork on handkerchiefs, linens and laces.

"It is pitiful to see how these mothers who have been separated from their families for so long travel days on foot to find traces of their children. The American orphanages feed and keep as many of them as possible. But many of the poor starving children have to be turned away because there is not enough food for them. Their gratitude for what we have done for them is immeasurable."

There are 110,000 children now that are not getting any food. $60 will feed one child for a year. Dane county's quota of children to feed is 453. Miss Kelly urged that organized groups do their best to take one child for a year.

Young Jones is Dead

B—Is that so?
A—Yes, he was just getting nicely started, you see he only finished college last June.

B—Well, he did have a good education.

A—Yes, he spent a lot of time and money getting it.

B—I understand his folks had to make some sacrifices to send him to school.

A—That's true, I know the family well, but young Jones was a bright boy, he made the most of his opportunities.

B—How so?

A—While going to school he worked on the side to pay for a five thousand dollar policy in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company.

B—Then his education was not ALL theory.

A—Oh, no! Well you see the Northwestern Mutual maintains an office in Madison to instruct students and others in the value of life insurance.

B—Is that so? I'll have my boy call. Who is the University agency?

A—Why, they are men that every student should know:

GOLD BRICKS

Every year some unsophisticated gentlemen from the the interior of these broad and beautiful United States make a trip to Atlantic City to see what makes the waves wave and how the salt water taffy's made. Just as regularly some keen young mind from the Great White Way happens along and convinces these visitors of the advisability of buying a share in the Board walk. Dazzled by the prospects of the almost unthinkable profits he promises them, they mortgage the family Ford and buy a part ownership in the corporation of Board-walk Suckers. Too late they awake to the rather disturbing realization that they possess neither Board-walk nor Ford.

Probably by this time, you are wondering what this is all about and why it has a place in the editorial columns of the Cardinal. Here's the reason. A great many students come here to the university in much the same state of mind as that of the visitors to the sea-shore. They regard it as a great lark. They are many of them away from home alone for the first time in their lives. They probably have more money to spend than they ever had before, and they certainly have more places to spend it in. Dances, teas, parties, sports, multifarious other interests, and once in a while a little studying, make life at the university a whirl of activities, mental and physical. It is quite impossible to engage in all of them and do any of them well. The great question which the student is called upon to decide is, "which of them shall I go in for? And here we come to our gold bricks and suckers.

Unfortunately, the least worthy of these many divergent interests that go to make up university life, are often the ones that seem most alluring at first sight. The dance hall often appears more attractive than the library, and the fussing party glitters more than the hard work entailed in some of the really worth while activities. And there are hundreds of 'Boardwalk Suckers' waiting around to be taken in by these deceptions. They seem totally unable to choose wisely from the maze of new things that confront them. The don't know where to expend their energy to the best advantage, and many of them experience the fate of the gullible sagebusher, and awake too late to a realization that they have had their chance at an education and have bartered it away for a gold brick; a shimmering wraith that has floated out of their grasp and left them the proud possessors of—nothing.

The last few years have seen an increasing tendency to over emphasize the less worth while things of university life and exaggerate the non-essentials. Activities are judged by the immediate return in good times that they are capable of rendering while little or no attention is paid to those things that are long time investments and render a steady return all through life. Might it not be well for each of us to indulge in a few moments of introspection and make quite sure that we are not "Boardwalk Suckers," wasting our energy in the pursuit of gold bricks?

DRAMATICS

A GAIN the student body is offered a program of one-act plays by a university dramatic club. On Friday evening Edwin Booth presents its annual production in the concert room of Lathrop hall, a program which promises a most pleasing combination of the serious and the comical. It is well worth attending.

It is neither necessary nor fitting that The Cardinal should urge students to support Edwin Booth in its production. If an activity of dramatic nature is worth while, it will be supported; it will stand on its own merits. The attendance at past presentations by the dramatic clubs has shown that students enjoy them and consider them worth while; and as long as the clubs maintain their present standards, they will be supported.

But it is fitting that The Cardinal should congratulate the dramatic clubs for their work, not only for the good shows they present, but for the influence they have had on undergraduate taste. A new York producer, writing recently in The Drama, told of the attitude of the middle west toward high class theatrical entertainments. He showed in his article that in most university towns of this section, good plays are not patronized, but at Madison the house is always filled for a good play. This fact may only be explained in one way. Wisconsin undergraduates are pretty much the same as those of other Conference universities in both intelligence and pockey-money; but they have been influenced by the consistent and constructive policy maintained by the dramatic interests in the university, both faculty and student.

Edwin Booth's program for Friday night is consistent with this policy. The program is not high-brow, but it is high grade. Beginning with a sparkling comedy by a recognized master of the playlet, it comes to a climax with a powerful tragedy by a dramatic genius, and ends in a rollicking burlesque with a poignant touch of satire. The choice of play is excellent, and The Cardinal anticipates that their presentation will be of the same excellence.

Co-eds living in one of the main dormitories at Northwestern University are to receive their mail before attending 8 o'clock classes. The purpose of the change is to relieve the girls from the tension of waiting until noon for their letters from home, which has heretofore made them inattentive in class. We think the hard-hearted faculty might also serve them their breakfast in bed, but why should there be so much tension if they are only waiting for letters from home.

A large crystal hanging from the center of the dome and reflecting many colored lights directed upon it from below will be one of the main lighting effects at the 1922 Military ball which will take place at the state capitol on April 7.

Each dance will have different lighting effects, according to Robert Herriek '22, chairman of the lighting committee. It is planned to use only amber colored lights during one of the dances, and green, red, and other colors during later dances.

Various colored flags are to be draped along the walls as added decorations. About 2,000 flags belonging to the city and the Thirty-second division have been loaned for the occasion.

William de Mille's new Paramount production "After the Show," featuring Jack Holt, Lila Lee and Charles Ogle, has scored a decided hit at the Majestic theater. The story is strong and the production one of the highest class. It is well worth seeing.

Tickets for the concert will sell for 50 cents.

Mlle. Jeanne Pelisse and Alexander Fite will sing a duet entitled "Je Sais Que Vous Etes Jolie."

"College Boys" At New Haven Rough

By P. H. J.

College boys at the University of Wisconsin aren't as rough as those at New Haven and other eastern schools, according to Miss Edith Clifford, who played at the Orpheum the last half of the week and who likes Madison so well that she is going to stay over till next Thursday.

"I like Madison and Champaign boys—they treat me wonderfully," she said yesterday afternoon just after the matinee.

"Do you ever play New Haven or the other eastern college towns? What do you think of Ann Arbor?" we asked, our ears being open for some hot copy.

"New Haven boys and most eastern men are a little too rough. You see, they run around with a lot of chorus people, and when they go out with people in vaudeville—well, you know how it is," she replied slowly as she flicked some imaginary dust off of a trunk.

"Ann Arbor is a little rough, too," resumed Miss Clifford, "of course, I guess that's because they think they're rather eastern themselves. But Madison boys—they've been wonderful to me, and I wish you would tell them how much I appreciate all they have done."

"But, Miss Clifford, don't you say that in every town?" With this one we thought we had her.

"Really, that's unfair. But if you knew just how nice everyone has been, you could see that I'm sincere in my statement," she answered, looking her beautifullest. Then she brightened up.

"Do you want me to tell you a story? It's about the time I was stranded in Canada where we were playing vaudeville 10 or 12 years ago."

Here is the story. She left home after telling her mother she was going to play in Traverse City, but before Miss Clifford was aware of it, she was bound for western Canada to play over the circuit of William Morris' vaudeville houses.

When they reached Winnipeg, they were informed that the theater had burned down and that there would be no playing that night. The manager of the act had spent all the money in the treasury for railroad fare—all but 98 cents. Immediately the rations were cut down to wheat cakes and coffee three times a day, and on this simple fare the stranded players subsisted until a place could be found in which to put on the show. Then they ate.

At this point in the story Miss Clifford looked at the clock.

"Oh, it's getting late. I'm afraid

One Act Playlet Pleases Orph Critic

By P. H. J.

Three acts on the Orpheum Bill for the first half of the week are well worth seeing and hearing. Edith Clifford continues to please with her clever songs which she has changed from those of the latter part of last week.

The biggest and pleasantest (meaning most pleasant) surprise on the bill is the one act playlet, "I Heard—" a sure-enough big-time offering. Although the juvenile's "gossip harangue" may have been just a little unnecessary the act is a delightful relief from previous bunk playlets which are put on as a rule by actors late of the laundry. The third feature is the offering of the "Three Aces," an act chock-full of harmony and by-play.

Rassow Midgets.

Starting out with an acrobatic tendency, this offering turned into a lively boxing match and proved quite satisfactory as an opener.

Kahn & Boone.

Not so good. Old gags, punk songs, and too much hokum.

Taylor, Macy & Hawks.

Harmony and lots of it. Nothing that will make you beat up your grandmother, but a good act just the same.

Paul Decker & Co.

From every angle this 20-minute sketch is decidedly one of the best seen here since the lake froze over. The ingenue and the juvenile look their parts, the piece is well written, and contains mirthful situations, and the setting is refreshingly new. More acts of this kind would help the one act playlet get back into public favor.

Edith Clifford.

New costumes and new songs make Miss Clifford as big a hit this week as last. Her Hebrew character piece has more jolt in it than the one of last week, and the "strait" songs are just as pleasing.

Four Roeders.

Extraordinary acrobatics, put on by two women and two men.

Legion Men Protest O'Hare Speech to Be Held in the Capitol

Demand Recall of Privileges
Granted to Social Science
Club

Kate Richards O'Hare, once socialist candidate for vice-president, jailed for 14 months on a charge of sedition during the war, and the only political prisoner to be released by the Wilson administration, will speak in the assembly chamber of the capitol Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the university Social Science club.

The American legion has laid before Governor John J. Blaine a petition demanding the recall of the permission granted to the Social Science club for the use of the assembly chamber. Governor Blaine will give an answer to the delegation of the legion this morning.

The Social Science club, denied the use of the university gymnasium for Mrs. O'Hare, secured the assembly chamber, for the address.

Introduced by Lieut. Gov. George F. Comings, Mrs. O'Hare will address the public meeting on "Crime and Criminals," giving information and points of view she picked up during her Missouri penitentiary sentence.

The effects of this lecture have already resulted in the betterment of the conditions in penitentiaries throughout the country, and especially in the Jefferson city jail where she was confined.

Karstens Store Will Operate on Policy of Friendly Service

Operating on a policy of "Friendly service," F. W. Karsten has opened a new store for men and women at 22-24 N. Carroll street. This announcement will come as a pleasant surprise to Wisconsin students.

E. J. Connor, a Wisconsin graduate of '16, is secretary and treasurer of the company. In commenting upon the store, Mr. Connor said: "Our aim is to maintain a store of high standards and to keep a spirit of friendly co-operation between the store and its customers."

A complete line of men's furnishings is carried by the store. A department devoted entirely to boys' clothing is maintained on the basement floor.

An unusual feature of the store is a department maintained for women where a complete line of shoes, hose and sport coats is carried. Karstens is the first men's store in Madison which has a department devoted to women's wear.

Karstens had their formal opening last Friday. Favors were given away during the day to approximately 12,000 visitors. The officers of the Karstens company are: F. W. Karsten, president; H. B. Dyer, vice-president, and E. J. Connor, secretary and treasurer.

NORTHERN PARK PLAN OUTLINED TO KIWANIANS

Moehlenpah Asks Support of Club; Smith Talks on Water Softening

The project of acquiring for the state 7,800 acres of virgin land adjoining Price and Sawyer counties was outlined by H. A. Moehlenpah in an address before the Kiwanis club at the city Y. M. C. A. this noon. The speakers explained that the territory, which is one of the greatest game sections of the state, would draw thousands of tourists from Chicago and states south of Wisconsin.

"If that section of land is preserved," he said, "it will be as well known in five years as Yosemite or Yellowstone parks."

"The land itself is a veritable sportsman's paradise. Not long ago an investigating committee from the state legislature went up there. They saw deer, bear, wild geese and beaver and returned with their mind entirely changed."

That this territory has been in grave danger of being denuded of all timber was forcibly shown by the speaker.

"Only the low price of logs has prevented logging companies from going in there and cutting the greater portion of the land," he said. "If we are to preserve this land to posterity we must act quickly."

"We intend to raise $300,000 and give it to the state to buy the land. Already the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs of Superior, La Crosse, Eau Claire, Sheboygan, and Chippewa Falls have subscribed to the fund."

After Moehlenpah's speech a series of lantern slides were shown to the Kiwanians illustrating many of the beauty spots of the region.

In a short talk preceding Moehlenpah's address Supt. L. A. Smith of the Madison waterworks presented a plan whereby Madison could soften its hard water.

"The water of Madison is satisfactory in every respect but one," said Mr. Smith. "It is too hard. If the water were treated so as to soften it the resulting saving to the city would be tremendous."

"The saving in soap alone to citizens of Madison would amount to over $80,000," said Mr. Smith. "Other savings would bring the saving up to $16.25 per family a year."

He said that it would be impossible for individuals to provide themselves with plants to soften the water as the cheapest practical plant on the market costs $300. In 1918 Mr. Smith, as a member of a committee made up of doctors and university professors, laid a plan before the city council. It was not acted upon, several of the members of the council claiming that soft water was disagreeable to the taste.

"To provide Madison with a 'soft-water' plant would require an initial outlay of $200,000," explained Mr. Smith. "The yearly upkeep would cost the city $45,000 but this expense would be well repaid in the great saving to consumers of water in this city."

Plan Changes in Junior Women's Advisory System

The advisory system for freshman women will be changed this year. The advisory committees consist of six girls, Nina Faris '24, Marian Metcalf '24, Lula Staab '24, Julia Jackson '24, and Lois Jacobs '24.

Jeannette Keenan '24, chairman of the committee, will have charge of a table in Lathrop hall where any girl who is to be a junior or senior next year will be given a chance to sign up for freshman advisees. Other girls will be asked to help later if the number signing up is not sufficient.

During the summer the registrar's office will send out, to all girls who are submitting their credits for registration, printed cards which are to be filled out and returned. By means of these cards the girls will be assigned to their advisors, each advisor getting two girls to whom she must write and whom she must meet in the fall.

The advisor will take her advisees to the Y. W. C. A. and S. G. A. parties in the fall and try her best to get them started socially as well as to help them in their school work.

The "at home day" which the committees will hold for advisors and their advisees is also a feature of the proposed plan. Other ideas not yet completely worked out and being discussed in connection with the new system.

Second Team

Sampson, Rhinelander, center.
Otis, Wisconsin high, right guard.
Brown, Fond du Lac, left guard.
Best Forward—Williams, New Richmond.
Best Center—McDermott, New Richmond.
Best Guard—Breitzman, Fond du Lac.

The first all-state mythical basketball team, as chosen by Captain Ceaser, Varsity Guard Tebell, and Guy S. Lowman, includes two Fond du Lac and three New Richmond players. The second team represents Superior, Rhinelander, and Wisconsin high, as well as Fond du Lac.

Williams, of New Richmond, was named as being the best forward in the state, and was consequently placed on the all-state five. His floor work was far above that of any other forward in the tournament. No guard was able to stop him completely, but his shooting was not quite on a par with that of some of the other forwards. Had it not been for the latter shortcoming, he would have been even more essential to his team's success.

McKinley Placed

McKinley is paired along with Williams mainly because of his dead eye for the basket. The Fondy forward knew his game, and kept playing the sides of the court in a cool, steady manner that was certain to net baskets. While many fans attributed some of his baskets to sheer luck, it must be remembered that he figured prominently in the scoring column in every game which his team played.

The center selection was almost a toss-up between Brown of Fond du Lac and McDermott of New Richmond, the decision being made in favor of the latter. Some even thought that Camp, Superior center and captain, rated the honorary pivot job, but his work was hardly on a par with the two men previously mentioned.

Breitzman, Fond du Lac guard, was easily the class of the floor in the championship clash. He was the headiest player of the tournament, and possessed a knowledge of basketball that was far superior to that of the average high school athlete. He was a wonderful dribbler, and directed the Fond du Lac attack with all the certainty of a seasoned player. In addition, he was a dangerous man to let get a shot at the basket.

Hawkins Flashy

Hawkins was the flashiest guard of the tourney. Although playing guarding position, he was the main cog in the New Richmond scoring machine, and his ability to shoot from short range made him feared by every team which played against the northerners. He was fully as fast as was his running mate, Williams, but was not the all-around player that Breitzman was.

McCreary and Wagner are granted forward positions on the second team. The former was the smallest man in the tourney, but his equal at shooting was not seen on the floor. Wagner was not the flashy type of player, but his consistent work in the final game merited him the second string job.

Five Badger Gym Squad Men Place at Northern Meet

Awards Not Determined; Team Was Hard Hit By Ineligibilities Tryouts

Five Wisconsin men placed in the twelfth annual meet of the Northwestern Gymnastic society at Minneapolis last Saturday night.

All the awards are not figured up yet, as there were over 200 entrants, and the results of all the tabulations are not yet available. However, it is certain that Stevens took first place on the side horse, and Hanson and Koch tied for third. In club swinging, Porth took second, and Rand third. It is not very likely that the Badgers took a place as a team, because the men as a whole were not going very well, and seemed to be rather stale after a season of hard work and steady training.

Bumer, one of the best acrobats that Coach Fred E. Schlatter has on his team, was hurt by a fall from the horizontal bar before the meet commenced, but went through with his exercises in spite of this handicap.

Hit By Ineligibility

The Badger gym team beat the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. twice, once here and once on their own floor. Wisconsin participated in two dual meets with conference teams. In one of these they defeated Minnesota which took third place in the All-Conference meet, and in the other one, they were defeated by Chicago, the champion of the Big Ten for the last two years.

In the All-Conference meet, the Badgers took second place, the same as last season. Coach Schlatter had hopes of defeating Chicago at the beginning of this season, but his team was hard hit at the end of the first semester. Kubosch, the best all around man on the team was declared ineligible, along with four or five other men on the squad. In spite of this setback, the Badgers came out very well in the Big Ten meet, and although they were second to Chicago, it was a close second.

There appears to be considerable question as to whether or not Sampson was the second best center of the meet. While it must be admitted that he played a good heady game, the Rhinelander boy was not on a par with the other players who placed on the team. There was, however, a noticeable lack of good centers on the various teams this season.

Prep Men Rated

Otis, the season's find on the Wisconsin high five, made a great record for himself during the past season. His close guarding was responsible, to a great extent, for the victory over Superior, but he became rattled for a few minutes in the Fond du Lac game and allowed the opposing forwards to slip in for a couple of short shots. Brown is awarded the other guarding job. The selections could hardly be made without giving the Fondy center a place somewhere, as he had as much drive as any man in the tournament. Although he was hard to excel on the defense, his offensive play was not as good as was that of McDermott, and he is therefore shifted to a guard position.

The big question since the tournament is over seems to be whether or not New Richmond could have won had it not been for the fact that they played a hard game in the morning. It does not seem that a team of the size of New Richmond could be much affected by 30 minutes of additional scrimmage during the same day, and it is certain that any team in the state would have had a hard time beating Fond du Lac when they were going the way they were on Saturday night.

Johnson is First To Complete Tests For Sigma Delta Psi

Underclassmen Outnumber Upperclassmen in Tryouts

E. W. Johnson '23, Varsity quarter miler, is the first man this year to complete the requirements for membership in Sigma Delta Psi, honorary athletic fraternity. Johnson successfully passed his last test Saturday. He has done all the events except the tumbling, for which he substituted his track "W."

Hohlfeld '23 made the required time, 12 minutes 15 seconds, in the two-mile Sigma Delta Psi tryout Saturday.

30 Men Qualify

In the tryouts held Friday afternoon in the gymnasium annex, 30 men qualified in one or more of the six events that were run off; the events being the shot put, pole vault, high jump, two mile run, broad jump and 100 yard swim.

The two mile event, in which the required time is set at 12 minutes 15 seconds, proved to be the Waterloo of a dozen or more contestants, as the only men to finish out of the 15 starters were Carer '25, Krebs '24, Wupper '23, and McArthur '23.

22 Pass Shotgun

A total of 22 successful trials were made in the shot put, showing this to be by far the easiest event. In the remaining trials, the number of successful aspirants ranged from nine in the pole vault to 16 in the high jump, the underclassmen greatly outnumbering the upperclassmen in every event.

The other nine events which go to complete the tryouts for Sigma Delta Psi, could not be held Friday because of the lack of adequate room in the annex. They will be included in the next tryout, to be held outdoors in the spring.

TRACK SQUAD TO BEGIN OUTDOOR TRAINING SOON

Merrick, Knollen, and Sundt Entered in Drake Relays

Varsity track men are resuming intensive training after a short period of rest between the indoor and outdoor track seasons. The speedsters are still working out in the gym annex, but as soon as weather conditions become favorable, they will move their equipment to Camp Randall.

The first meet that the Badger track and field men are slated to enter is the Drake college relays which will be held on April 29 at Drake college, Iowa. Coach Thomas E. Jones has entered men in every event. With Guy Sundt carded to put the shot and compete in the broad jump, Capt. "Al" Knollen running the high hurdles, and Dale Merrick in the pole vault, Wisconsin individuals will have a good opportunity to win the special events. Relay teams have been entered in the one-mile, two-mile, and four-mile races.

There is a possibility that Capt. Knollen and Merrick will be sent to the Penn relays at Penn State instead of the Drake classic. Both meets are to be held during the same week, and there is little chance that George W. Orton of Penn will postpone his meet until after the Drake competition has been run off.

Sophomores Retain Lead in Women's Baseball Series

EIGHT BADGER TANK MEN ON BIG TEN TEAM

Bennett Chosen as Captain of Mythical Squad

Wisconsin's prowess in the conference swimming world was brought out when Coach Tom Robinson, of Northwestern university, announced his first and second all-star swim teams last week. Eight places were awarded to Badger swimmers and five of these awards were for first team honors.

To "Johnnie" Bennett, Wisconsin flash, goes the title of "iron man" of the conference. Bennett earned this honor by his consistent work in all four of the dual meets held previous to the conference meet, but his real work came on the night of the big championship meet, when he won the 40- and 100-yard swims, finished second in the 220-yard swim, and took a creditable fourth in the 440-yard grind. Besides holding his own in these individual events, he made it possible to bring back the relay cup to Madison by swimming the last lap on the winning relay team. With this brilliant record behind him, the most prejudiced judge would be forced to concede the captaincy and position of "iron man" to Bennett of Wisconsin.

Two Places In Relay.

Out of the four places on the first relay team, Wisconsin placed two men, Bennett and Lamboley, both dangerous men in the 40-yard sprint. The same two men were awarded places in the 40-yard swim. Blinks, of Chicago, and Childs, of Northwestern, were the other two selected as members of the first quartet.

Captain "Bill" Collins, of Wisconsin, was awarded a place on the second team in the dives. Although Collins placed consistently in the dual meets, he had a bit of hard luck in the conference meet, and so lost a chance to make the first squad as he did last year.

Czerwonky, the Wisconsin sophomore, who made such a great record in all the dual meets, was forced to give up the kingpin position in the 200-yard breaststroke to Faircy of Minnesota, who defeated him in the conference meet and in the dual meet with the gofers. Czerwonky was awarded a place on the first team along with Faircy.

Although Blinks defeated Bennett in the 220-yard dash at the conference, there are many fans who will always maintain that Bennett is the better man of the two stars. However, the time made by Blinks in the furlong is a new record and to him goes the honor of heading the 220-yard men. Bennett was also placed on the first team with Blinks.

Huebner was given a place on the second team in the plunge. He managed to cop off many places in the dual meets, but met with misfortune in the big meet, and was eliminated. Wisconsin failed to place a man in the back stroke event, and the 440-yard swim.

Two Places In 100.

In the 100-yard swim, which was one of the most hotly contested events of the program, Wisconsin placed a man on the first and second teams. Bennett, who broke the standing record in this distance, was naturally conceded first place in the event. The question comes in awarding third place on the first team. Paver, of Northwestern, was the choice of Robinson, but the consensus of opinion is that Lamboley of Wisconsin should have been given this honor. As it is Lamboley was given the first place on the second team.

The teams picked by Robinson are well rounded and represent the cream of the conference swimming teams of 1922.

Grads Hold Dance In Lathrop April 8

A masquerade dance will be given by the Graduate club Saturday evening, April 8. The Graduate committee has been making elaborate plans to insure the success of this party, and it is being advertised earlier than customary to allow plenty of time to secure costumes for the evening. Special music has been provided and extra features of entertainment will lend variety to the evening.

The Graduate club has been experiencing a particularly successful year socially, in widening the acquaintance among the members of the Graduate school and furnishing a nucleus for a democratic social life by its weekly cafeteria suppers and dances and entertainments given at irregular intervals.

Extension Division Plans Radio Course

The Men's Glee club concert in Music hall Friday night was broadcasted by radiophone on the anniversary of the installation of this apparatus at the university. The weekly concerts for instruction in musical appreciation are to be resumed next Friday evening and will be sent out regularly by the radiophone.

As a result of numerous inquiries from all parts of the state in regard to the installation and operation of radiophone sets, a correspondence course is being prepared by the extension division.

third inning giving them an unapproachable majority. Dora Harris and Hazel Miller played consistently good games for the sophomores, and Hazel Weingandt, Elizabeth Tompkins, and Doris Burdick for the freshmen.

The junior and senior teams being well matched the game was a closely contested one. The seniors, however, obtained a slight lead and maintained it until the juniors' last inning when Wilma Trost '23 made a home run with all bases full at the start, which brought the juniors to a tie. The seniors piled up four more runs to their credit in their last inning, which clinched the game for them.

Merriam Outlines Citizenship Basis

a logical and practical democratic opinion but it was usually started by those before him and handed on.

"Tolerance is essential to a good citizen," said Mr. Merriam. "Theoretically we are all tolerant but in reality we all are becoming very intolerant. Democracy is impossible without tolerance. Without it churches would fight, trades would fight, and there would be chaos. The war propaganda fostered intolerance and now we must work to regain the tolerant spirit we should have."

That a sense of responsibility should be found in every citizen was a further statement made by Mr. Merriam. Too many people in a democracy are unwilling to shoulder their own load.

"In the last presidential election, 54 per cent of the voters did not vote. If only one half of the people voted for as important an office as president there would be a great minority voting at an ordinary election. This civic indifference must be cured. One part cannot cease to function without serious result upon the remaining part. A good citizen will have a sense of responsibility and vote.

Responsibility Essential

"Citizenship calls for responsibility to the world as well as the United States. The position of this country used to exclude us from many foreign affairs but this is not true any more. The world must have all parts functioning that it may function and citizenship requires the shouldering of this responsibility.

"A spirit of democratic fellowship is a requirement of a good citizenship. A person may have all other requirements but be lacking in this and he cannot be an ideal citizen. Democracy is a great human experiment in human fellowship. It is built upon the theory that all men are contributing members for a democratic result. Those who assail by thought or conduct are destroying the foundation on which this government works.

"The last essential is an eye for intelligence. Development so far, has been in the study of the attributes and the control of nature. Now, enormous advances must be made in social and political science. It must not be chemical engineering from now on out must be political engineering. The government is a work of predecessors which is to be improved."
