VOL. XXXIV. NO. 78

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON, FRIDAY, JAN. 9, 1925

FIVE CENTS

CRITICISM MADE BY 100 STUDENTS DEEMED AS HOAX

All Inquiries Fail to Reveal Authors of Rebuke to Goodnight

All inquiries made by the Daily Cardinal yesterday to find out who the 100 student leaders were who were reported to have signed the communication, published in the State Journal and the Capital Times, rebuking Dean Scott H. Goodnight for statements credited to him at a meeting of the sophomore's union club last month, proved fruitless. Not only did the Daily Cardinal fail to find any student who had signed the communication but it was unable to find anyone who knew of its being circulated for signatures.

It seems that the two papers were completely hoaxed by the person who presented the communication to them, according to the opinion of students interviewed. They stated that the communication probably was presented with the words "A Hundred Wisconsin Men and Women" appended as a signature but that the actual signatures were not attached.

"The city papers would certainly have thought that the student was acting in good faith with them, but evidently they were led to believe that 100 students had actually signed the letter," one student said when asked if the communication had been presented to him. "I believe that the 'one hundred men and women' was a creation of his imagination," he added.

The same communication had been presented to the Daily Cardinal several days before but was too long for publication in the "Readers Say So" column of this paper. When submitted to the editors it bore only the signature of one man and was taken to be his writing.

The communication was headed "In Defense of Wisconsin" and described the situation in eastern cities where the public was said to be holding the university up to ridicule as the champion "cake eaters" of the country. The communication attributed the unfavorable publicity that had been stirred up to "various interpretations of Dean Goodnight's address."

TIME TABLES MAY BE OBTAINED AT BASCOM

The copies of the new time table have been printed and may be obtained from 101, 151, or 153 Bascom hall. The students are urged to get these time tables as soon as possible. The general directions for registration for the second semester were sent out yesterday but further instructions may be secured from the time tables.

FESTIVE PRE-PROM DANCE IS PLANNED

Music Will Be Furnished By Benson-Emanuel's Ten
Piece Orchestra

Special lighting effects, and drooping palms lending a festive tone to the occasion are among the decorations for the pre-Prom dance the last event of the semester's social season, to be given at Lathrop gymnasium Saturday night, word from the stage decorator of the Parkway theater, who has charge of decorating the gym, revealed today. The decorations committee, consists of James Flickinger and Florence McCabe.

Benson-Emanuel's orchestra will furnish the music for the dance, and three acts from Union Vodyll will be given as specialty numbers of the program. The committee in charge of special features are John Hobbins, Clara Eberly, and Arthur Wiggin.

In order that the floor may be in the best condition for the dance, the committee in charge, Gordon Aller and Lyman Dana, are having it waxed.

Cardinal Has 7,000 Samples of Glo-Co For Campus Shieks

Despairing hot papas who are searching for the mysterious something with which to attract the female of the species might try brushing up on their hair. Seven thousand bottles of polish, popularly known as "Glo-Co," were received at the business office of the Daily Cardinal shortly before the holidays for distribution among the campus fashion plates.

The advertising manager has sent out a frantic call for help from beneath the deluge. He says he will give a bottle to any one who applies. Nor are women barred entirely; any who wish to drop a hint to their sterner friends by dropping a bottle into their overcoat pockets slyly may have the necessary for the asking.

CHEMISTRY FEATS TOLD BY SLOSSON

Wonders of Age of Science
Shown By Lecturer in Talk at Lathrop

The chemist, not satisfied to supply the conveniences of life in which he ever attempts to surpass nature, may very probably control life itself and the morals and character of the nation, according to Edwin E. Slosson, former professor of chemistry, and present director of the Science Survey at Washington, D. C., in his popularized lecture on "Creative Chemistry," delivered and broadcast last night from Lathrop gymnasium.

Professor Slosson, who has done much to make the great problems of science comprehensible to the general public, gave an account of the various processes whereby chemistry has exceeded nature in the production of all sorts of synthetic processes, making artificial wool and artificial silk from cotton, and combining carboxylic acid and formaldehyde to obtain a hard, insoluble substance for making beads, radio parts and boxes. Through the use of insulin man can remove the glucose from the system, and by removing too much, can cause a feeling of fear. Also by sucking a lolly-pop and thereby adding glucose to the system a man may be changed from a coward to a medaled hero.

The discovery of ultra-violet rays and rays from the sun in the treatment of rickets and other diseases has been so successful and strengthening that in the near future "eggs from radiated hens and milk from sun-kissed cows" will be used entirely, he declared.

"A chemist is essentially a good cook, successfully using left over goods," Mr. Slosson claimed. As an example he exhibited some violet perfume made by combining phosgene, one of the most deadly of the poison gases used in the war, with the well-known remedy, castor oil.

But the chemist can never give man artificial food to any great extent, as he will always remain dependent upon plant and animal life rather than upon the direct heat of the solar system. "Man is a parasite who gets his pearls from a diseased oyster, who obtains his perfume from a diseased whale, who robs the unborn bee of his honey and who robs the musk deer of its last scent," Mr. Slosson asserted.

The purpose of the chemist in the future will be to further utilize the force of nature and to distribute nature's gifts in a democratic manner, he concluded.

GEOGRAPHERS ELECT WHITBECK PRESIDENT

At the meetings of the American Society of Geographers which was held in Washington, D. C., during the Christmas holidays, Prof. R. H. Whitbeck of the geography department was elected president of the society.

Prof. V. C. Finch, also of the geography department, was elected secretary of the organization.

Glenn T. Thewartha, instructor in the geography department gave a paper, "The adjustment of the dairy industry of Wisconsin to the natural environment."

Mysterious Piles of Brush Cause Campus Comment and Conjecture

That mysterious, bristling line of brush on the upper campus—the object of so much deep discussion and bright conjectures as to its purpose and excuse for being in such a conspicuous place—why—wherefore? ?

"That brush? Why that's to protect the steam pipes which supply the buildings with heat, from the chilly blasts of January. The branches collect the snow and keep the heat purveyors from excessive loss of warmth," is one of the suggestions offered.

Other theories are that the obtrusive mass of branches is to serve as a sort of a barricade for the lawyers when they have their annual battle with the engineers, or vice versa. It is also supposed to be the domicile of certain experimental rabbits belonging to the zoology department. Nothing like the natural environment for the wild beasts, to get best results, so 'tis said.

Here is the explanation: Now that a temporary thaw has set in, it seems an invitation for the students to cut across the lawn in going from one building to another, and this is not good for the soft ground underneath. Therefore, it has been found necessary to place bundles of sticks in the center of the campus to keep students off, according to Albert F. Gallistel, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

"If we did not do something," said Mr. Gallistel, "to keep the students from tramping across the grounds, there would be nothing left of them in the spring. This is the best system we have found as yet to keep them off."

For Co-eds Only:--Have You Got That Prom Gown Yet?

DEAN NARDIN MAKES EXAM SUGGESTIONS

"Organize small outlines into large units and mobilize your material," is the advice of Dean Nardin to students who are worried about the coming examinations.

"Do not encourage yourself to be afraid," said Miss Nardin, dean of women. "The best plan is to stabilize your material, get plenty of sleep, and go to your examination with a clear head. Sleep, and organization of work cannot be stressed enough.

"Few students," stated Miss Nardin, "seem to realize the value of sleep during the time of examinations, which are not as cruel as they seem but a real part of the educational scheme."

Strict Fines Are Meted Frosh Woman For Plagiarizing

Besides a fine of five credits for plagiarizing, five for prevarication to the disciplinary committee and probation to the end of the school year, a freshman woman who had the habit of copying her themes was advised to withdraw from the university by the committee which met Wednesday night in South hall.

Letters advising that their son or daughter has been convicted by the disciplinary committee were sent both to the parents of the woman and to those of a first year pharmacy man, who was fined two credits for copying a quarter of a question in a quiz. His fine was light because he confessed immediately. Letters to parents are always sent by the committee when the students convicted are minors.

Lack of sufficient evidence freed a sophomore man who was thought to have taken books from the library by checking them out on other people's names.

PRESS CLUB INITIATES 29 MEMBERS TUESDAY

Press club will hold its initiation ceremonies at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the cabinet room at the Y. M. C. A. Twenty-nine new members will be initiated.

John E. Davis '25, president of the club, will explain plans for the next semester. Special music, furnished by the Delta Pi Delta orchestra, will be a feature of the evening.

Each new member is required to compose a short original poem, or prose skit which must be presented in typewritten form. These contributions will be read before the club.

PHARMACY PROFESSOR TO SPEAK IN CHICAGO

Dr. W. O. Richtmann, assistant professor of pharmacognosy, will give an address on "Camphor" before the Chicago branch of the American Pharmacy association at Chicago today.

What to Wear to Prom Functions is Big Question Now

Have you got your Prom dress yet? This question has displaced "Happy New Year" and most other post-holiday greetings on the lips of returning co-eds. The Madison shops, too, are repeating the query, but they put dress in the plural and come nearer to the truth.

"What do you wear to Prom? How many dresses shall I write home for?" demands the bewildered freshman. Chicago stores are sending "intriguing" advertisements to boarding and sorority houses where the Wisconsin women live.

There are a number of Prom week functions to which, as one co-ed expressed it, "you can wear anything but a sweater and skirt." One of these functions is the pre-Prom play. To the post-Prom dance "you wear your second best," another co-ed averred. Saturday afternoon your range may include your skating costume or your Sunday dinner frock.

For Prom itself, on Friday night you "do yourself proud" in everything from your silver slippers to your long white gloves. You must have long white gloves for the grand march; it has been rumored that they are going out, in Madison as in other places; but they have not gone as yet. And co-eds, lay in an extra pair of silver or gold hose; this continuous dancing is ruinous to them, and the marble floor of the capitol is very hard.

Nearly every store in town, except the haberdasheries and the grocery shops are showing Prom dresses just now. Straight line and "bouffant" gowns, "sweet and girlish," as well as "decolette" creations are appearing in the shop windows, not to mention those which many farsighted young ladies have brought from home, Chicago, New York, San Francisco, and other cities. Black and white are favored colors, particularly if the former is velvet and the latter is satin. Shades of red, in all fabrics seem to be popular, too.

And what can the men do while the women talk fashions? Some make a desperate attempt to dodge the combination. A few try to look interested; but only succeed in becoming bewildered. Cheer up, gentlemen! Prom will be over in a little more than a month and so will mid-year's.

$100 SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN TO FRESHMEN

The regents of the university are offering to freshmen 50 scholarships, known as Wisconsin scholarships, each of the value of $100.00. Applicants must be first year students, either men or women, who are registered as residents of Wisconsin; who have shown worth and ability during the first semester and are in need of financial assistance. Application blanks may be obtained at the registrar's office after Monday. They should be filled out and returned to the registrar on February 4 or 5.

WINNERS PICKED IN CONFERENCE DEBATE TRYOUTS

Wisconsin Women to Participate in Intercollegiate Debates
For First Time

Thirteen men and three women will compose the Mid-West and Triangular debate league teams as a result of the final debate trials which were held yesterday afternoon and evening in Bascom hall. The selections were made by Professors O'Neil, Barnes, West and Weaver.

The successful contestants are Isadore Alk L1, Glen Bell '25, Ross Bennett L2, Eileen Blackley '25, George J. Fiedler '25, Harold Jordan '25, Carl Ludwig '26, Herbert Morse '25, Virginia North L1, Leslie Peard '26, Harold J. Sporer '25, John Sumner '25, Robert Sher L1, Roland Willey '26, Melvin Thomson '26, and Carol Hubbard '25.

12 Make Team
Twelve of these debaters will be given regular positions on the teams, while the other members will be designated as alternates during the rehearsals which will be held next week, according to Professor O'Neill who will coach the teams.

The Misses Blackley, Hubbard and North are the first women to represent the university on intercollegiate debating teams. Miss Blackley, who is a member of Pythia Literary society, closed for her team in the Castalia-Pythia joint debate which was held last year.

Have 5 Veterans
Five veteran debaters are among the list of contestants. This is the third consecutive year that Fiedler has represented the university on a debate team. During his sophomore year he was a member of the team which won a victory from the strong Illinois team. Last year he closed the debate against Knox college. He is also a joint debater. Bennett was a member of the team which won from Minnesota last year. Before entering the university he attended Beloit college where he was a member of two joint debate teams.

Bell, Sporer and Morse have participated on joint and intercollegiate debate teams. Jordan is a joint debater.

To Debate Michigan
That Wisconsin will send a team of veteran debaters against Michigan is assured as Coach O'Neill expects to center his attack against the Wolverine team. Michigan has proved to be Wisconsin's most formidable opponent, having won six consecutive victories from the Badgers.

The Triangular league debate with Northwestern and Minnesota will be held on March 12, while the Mid-West league contest with Michigan and Illinois is scheduled for March 20.

LORA PALMER IS MUCH IMPROVED

Doctor Holds Out Hopes For Recovery of Instructor
Shot Wednesday

The condition of Miss Lora Palmer, instructor in the French department who was shot Tuesday morning at the French house by Francis X. Bernard, last night was reported better than could be expected by Dr. James A. Jackson, attending physician.

"Miss Palmer is getting along very well," Doctor Jackson said. "The situation is encouraging and the outlook is brighter than we could have hoped for."

The authorities of the Madison general hospital where Miss Palmer was taken following the shooting, reported that she was resting comfortably and held out hopes for her recovery.

Mrs. Cora L. Palmer, mother of the injured girl, and Mrs. Kathryn Samuels, an intimate friend, after spending the night at the patient's bedside, left the hospital for a brief rest reassured as to her condition.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDATHLETIC BOARD
CHANGES FORM OF
HARRIER AWARDSSanctions New Plan of Rewarding Intramural Department Managers

Several new innovations in Wisconsin's athletic policy were sanctioned at the meeting of the athletic board yesterday noon.

An important change was made in the method of awarding numerals to freshmen hill and dale men. Previously only the class numerals had been awarded to frosh harriers but the board approved the recommendation of Coach Mead Burke and sweaters and numerals will be awarded to Captain Richard McKee, William Reeves John Payne, Louis Kelvay and Karl Johannes, also to Henry Stevens, manager.

The reasons for this change are that varsity cross country men received major "Ws" this year, that frosh harriers put in as much time and hard work as men competing in major sports, that other minor sports have been given sweaters and numerals, and that this year's yearling cross country team is the best in the history of the university and will be a great help in developing another championship varsity next fall and are therefore deserving of both sweaters and numerals.

Recommendations of George Berg, intramural sports director, were also accepted by the board with the result that the efficiency in the intramural managerial department will be materially increased.

College insignia will be awarded to four frosh managers; class numerals will be awarded to three sophomore managers; two junior managers will receive numerals and sweaters and one senior manager will be awarded a minor "W" and sweater.

GILLEN GETS OFFICE IN SOCIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

Prof. J. L. Gillin of sociology was elected first vice president of the American Sociological society at the yearly meeting of the organization in Chicago during the Christmas recess. He gave a paper, "The Social Workers' Policy." The Sociological society is an organization of the professors of sociology and the social workers of the United States.

Having nothing to do I dropped into see Mr. Joe Steinauer the other day.

"There ain't nothing to da," he says, surmising immediately from the threadbare appearance of my coat and the wayward crease in my trousers that I was a newspaper man, probably with some new rumor to have verified.

"There ain't nothing to what," I came back by way of snappy retort. "There ain't nothing to the report that the swimming team will be ineligible this season," he murmured, flecking a salty tear from his cheek into the gaboon nearby.

They tell me that I woke up three hours later just in time to save myself from being drowned by Mr. Steinauer, who was weeping over my motionless body. He always did love newspaper men so.

The shock was great but I lived long enough to pry from Joe some more facts regarding this startling exposure.

"No dates, no shows, no parties (stag or otherwise), no sleep, no eats, nothing but classes, study and swimming practice for my team this season," says he.

Mr. Steinauer says that he is even going to cut out swimming practice if he finds that more study is needed to keep the team eligible.

Even though the squad would probably make a better cross-word puzzle team than a fish outfit, Mr. Steinauer says several swimming meets have been scheduled with the Big Ten teams and though his squad probably will be more likely to win in a spell down, he is going through with the fish chasing contests.

Mr. Steinauer is out to educate the swimming team and says, "If

New Coach Determined to Make
Hockey Major Sport in Two Years

"What we want are puck chasers, not girl chasers," said the new hockey coach, Kay Iverson. "If the men from last year will get out and do something, hockey will be a major sport within two years."

Out of about 15 varsity men from last year only two men have shown up for practice so far. The fault lies not only with the varsity men but also with a lot of the freshmen from last year who seem too busy doing something or other to come out and give Wisconsin the benefit of their skill and knowledge of the sport, is the opinion of Iverson.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the first meet of the season with the Janesville Hockey club, Thursday and Friday nights, January 15 and 16. This team is exceptionally strong this year and promise the Badgers a tougher scrap for honors than last year when they held Wisconsin 3 to 1. This meet is being held in connection with a carnival put on by the Lions club who have just given Janesville a new skating rink.

The two varsity men, Moran and McLean, who are out for practice are doing exceptional work. McLean, playing goal tender, is doing very good work. Last night, out of about 40 shots for goal, only nine of them got past him.

Coach Iverson is spending most of the practice time in dribbling, passing, and defensive work.

you can't be a dual threat man, swim and study, let the swimming go. We will get through the season somehow."

Vaccination Lasts
Only Three Years,
Mowry Declares

Three years is the safe period for vaccinations, and after this length of time has elapsed new inoculations should be made, according to Dr. W. A. Mowry of the student health department at the clinic. "No cases of smallpox have been reported in Madison, but I still strenuously urge inoculation. Students have just returned from their homes in adjoining states and in the northern part of the state where the disease is prevalent, and there is still danger of an epidemic," Dr. Mowry stated yesterday.

LACK OF WEIGHT
MEN IS CAUSING
COACH TO WORRYReturn of Fluech and Krieger Increase Chances For Winning Team

Slowly the varsity track candidates are wearing off the effects of too much turkey dinner and other holiday dissipation and are getting back into shape for a heavy indoor track season under the able hand of Coach Jones.

As yet no weight men have turned out in answer to the call for track men. This dearth of material is causing the coaches no end of worry. At present Schwarze and Bonini are the only men working at the heaving jobs but these two are far from being enough to uphold the Cardinal in the shotput, discus, hammer and other weight events.

Hopes for a winning team were greatly increased when it was learned this week that Krieger and Fluech, two old "W" men in track, would be back in school the second semester. Krieger is a pole vaulter and his return will materially aid the track team in this department.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDFROSH RUNNERS
TRAIN FOR MEETS,
TO ELECT CAPTAIN

Distance Men Will Form Backbone of First Year Team

A squad of 40 yearling track men is spending every afternoon in the annex going through a stiff workout in preparation for the intramural meets this month and for the telegraphic meets in February.

Judging from what they have done thus far this year's frosh cinderpath squad compares favorably with frosh teams of the past. With all of the men from the championship yearling interclass hill and dale team working out daily on the track the distance runs will be well taken care of for the first year men. Such men as McKee, captain of the frosh harrier team; Ellison, Ripon miler; Klevay, Paine, Johannes and Reeves will give all the competition a hard battle all the way.

The shorter runs will be well cared for by Carruthers, Ramlow, Kanalz and Mattison, all of whom are good 440 men. In addition to being a distance runner Reeves, of the frosh cross country team, can show his heels to most anyone in the half mile.

Sappenfield Broad Jumper

Hansen, Delliker, Murphy and Minogue have been showing the best form to date in running over the barriers. In the broad jump Sappenfield has been showing up better than frosh leaper that has been on a frosh team for a number of years and should be a real asset to next year's varsity. Thomas is another good man in this event.

No exceptional material has reported so far for the high jump or pole vault. Heckendorn, Braatz and Barnes have been doing the best to date in clearing the bar while Taylor, Albright and Stewart are the best bets in the pole vault.

No Weight Men

Weight men, or rather the lack of them, is causing the frosh tracksters the same trouble as is being experienced on the varsity squad. It seems as though this year is to be a weightless year as far as Badger track teams are concerned unless some of the huskies around school in either the upper or frosh classes come out for the shot put, discus and other weight events.

After the interclass meet January 17 the frosh will elect a captain to lead their team in the dual meet with the varsity January 24 and in all of the other events that are to come.

It is an interesting fact that three of the best men on this season's frosh team have traveled clear up here to this northern university from the sunny cottonfields of the South. Thomas, Carruthers and Sappenfield are the sons of Dixie that will participate as members of the 1928 track team.

Meet Iowa

The first competition outside of the university for the freshmen will come sometime in February when

Cage Jottings

Wisconsin opens her conference cage season tomorrow night at Minneapolis when she meets the Minnesota team at the armory. The score of this game will go a long way in showing the power of the Badgers as compared to other teams.

Minnesota has already lost a game to Iowa, but Coach Taylor has made numerous changes in his lineup in order to put a more powerful team on the floor.

Iowa, it looks like, will finish her schedule before the other teams get started. Already Minnesota has been defeated, and tonight Purdue will be met at Iowa City. The dope favors the Hawkeyes on account of the win over the Gophers.

Our guess on the score tonight is that Iowa will defeat Purdue. It will be close though.

The Chicago-Illinois game should be interesting. These two along with Wisconsin ended last season in a tie for first honors in the Big Ten race.

Ohio-State-Indiana game should be one full of thrills. Ohio is doped as a likely inner, and Indiana has a veteran team back. These two squads finished the season in a tie last year for second place.

the annual telegraphic dual meet with the Iowa frosh is run. This will be the sixth meet of his kind to be staged and Coach Mead Burke is anxious to have his young charges hang up a win over the Hawks as the Badger frosh have always won in the previous meets. Several other telegraphic meets are planned with the frosh of other Big Ten universities when the outdoor season opens.

Grapplers Leave For Chicago to Test Strength of Maroons

Chicagoans Likely Winners on Account of Many Veterans on Squad

With the squad fit and eager for its first conference competition on the mats this season, the Badger wrestlers leave this morning at 7:45 o'clock for the dual meet with Chicago at the Bartlett gymnasium tonight.

"We are competing against a team which has four experienced wrestlers in comparison to our three and I am none too confident of the outcome," declared Coach George Hitchcock yesterday. "Only three of the seven men who wrestle for Wisconsin tonight have been entered in Big Ten meets before, while three of the four experienced Maroon grapplers are wrestling for the third season."

Zodtner Best

The Badger captain, Lyle Zodtner '26 has had more experience than the other men on the squad having won three dual meets last year and fourth place in the conference. Charles Whitworth '26 won his "W" in varsity wrestling during his sophomore year and Charles Chada '26 wrestled in the conference meet last season when Adolph Bieberstein '25 was injured.

Only a light workout was ordered by Coach Hitchcock yesterday in order to guard against possible injuries to the men. David Minkow '27, bantamweight wrestler, will be handicapped in his match because of a sprained thumb.

Chicago Lineup

The Chicago lineup, while not as yet definitely decided, will probably include H. Takaki, 115-pounds; Capt. Herbert Bail, 125-pounds; George Graham, 135-pounds; Louis Schimberg, 145-pounds; H. Hamilton, 158-pounds; S. Hibben, 175-

LOWMAN WARNS
BALL CANDIDATES
TO KEEP ELIGIBLEBatteries Will Be Weakest
Spot Unless New Pitchers Try Out

Eligibility is the main interest of the baseball squad until the end of this semester. This point was stressed by Guy S. Lowman, baseball coach, before a meeting of the candidates for the pitching and catching positions on the baseball squad. At the present time no workouts will be held to interfere with academic work.

Fifteen pitchers and catchers reported to Coach Lowman yesterday afternoon at the baseball meeting held in Doctor Elsom's office in the men's gymnasium. Lowman faces a hard task to develop several competent hurlers and men to work behind the bat.

Lack Twirlers

There are no pitchers back from last year's varsity squad, and Lamboley and Schmitt, substitutes of the squad, are the only catchers back.

Equipment has been issued the men and they will start working out Monday afternoon. Practices will be held daily from 2 to 4, at which time only light work will be indulged in. The rest of the team will report immediately at the beginning of the second semester.

The men working out for battery positions are Larson, Bergholz, Schrenk, Lustig, Edwards, Lamboley, Goodlad, Jehle, Baechler, Galle, Baer, Reynolds, Schmitt and Freck.

ASSETS AND LIABILITIES

Much adverse criticism has been directed against fraternities and sororities for their alleged extravagance in social functions, and on the other hand they receive sympathy for the losses which many of them sustain during each Christmas vacation from fire, freezing, and theft.

Fraternities should not be sympathized with for such losses. Carelessness is the cause—wanton negligence. Why should students be excused for such lack of judgment and foresight?

For two weeks or more each Christmas several millions of dollars in fraternity houses and furnishings are left unprotected, and losses to the extent of thousands confront students when they return for classes.

Of this amount not one cent benefits anybody. True it is that a considerable share of the depredations by fire are covered by insurance and are not met by the immediate community, but nevertheless it is a loss. The portion not met by insurance comes out of the pockets of the students themselves or perhaps vicariously from the pockets of their fathers—as indeed does the cost of the parties and other social functions beforementioned.

It is apparent that in this carelessness the activity of a dean's office is more necessary than in the checking of the costs of dances. It is proved that if after receiving a severe reprimand from the authorities students will not take more precautions to safeguard their homes during vacation they should be compelled to pay officials of the university to oversee their properties for them.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE POSSIBILITIES

That crossword puzzles have an educational value seems to be well established since Dean F. Paul Anderson, of the College of Engineering at the University of Kentucky, announced that they have been put on the curriculum there. "Anything which serves to educate and develop the memory," he said, "is educational."

From this we may expect to see on our campus hectic young men in boots and corduroy breeches wildly asking, "What word of ten letters, the first letter being Q, the seventh X, and the last Z, means a Manchurian spotted angora cat?" or "What means 'How to love' in four letters, the first and last being D and T?"

Or if the faculty takes this thing up seriously and realizes all its possibilities, the crossword puzzle may be the salvation of us all. The engineers will learn their unpronounceable technical words, the chemists will learn the names of their terrible odors, the law students will learn their legal phraseology—all through the medium of the crossword puzzle.

It is even possible that we may soon dispense with boresome lectures, each professor presenting his thoughts to his class by a series of these puzzles, and examinations will be given in a like manner. The popularity and adaptability of the crossword puzzle will not stop with the university; it will, no doubt, spread even to religion. In the near future we may expect ministers to present their texts in this manner because of its superior educational value.

However, when the sub-titles of movies are written as crossword puzzles, we will all throw up our hands in horror and exclaim, "This thing has gone too far!"

American enterprise has already surpassed our prophecies! We have just learned that 5,000 crossword puzzle books in Spanish have been shipped to South America!

THE NINETY AND NINE

Yesterday local papers published an article, said to be signed by "a hundred Wisconsin men and women," which vigorously denies the "cake eating" publicity that the university has received during the past month.

The same communication was submitted to the Daily Cardinal Tuesday, signed by one person.

But we'd like to see the other 99 signatures. It is just this sort of advertising that has caused the trouble in the past.

Notes From a Dean's Clinic

By G. C. SELLERY

THE LETTER TO JACK

You ask how to get into shape for the semester finals which come in three weeks. Your present fitness, you say, is rather dubious. You haven't been in very good training, you tell me, during the most of the semester. You attended almost all the games, here and elsewhere, and you stimulated your interest in "life in general" by going to the movies and attending week-end dances, with numerous pleasant visits in between, and this stimulation weakened your interest in your college work. That's about the way of it. And now you want to get into training for the big contest at the end of the semester. It is quite clear that you must do some very stiff and systematic training, and here are my suggestions.

First—stop taking drugs. Drugs? Yes, drugs. I mean give up dances, basketball games, movies, and other exhilarating and exciting pleasures. These diversions are wholesome, taken in moderation, but you have accustomed yourself to such a dosage of them that you find life dull and drab without them. Give them up for the next month, if you really want to be fit for the real contest. Incidentally, you may regain a normal intellectual appetite.

Secondly—organize your days and your evenings in such a way that you give systematic exercise to your mind in the subjects which you are to handle in the big contest. Never mind if the instructors and many of your classmates are ahead of you and are rounding out their training. You know the work they have done and you have only partly done. Go over the exercises from the very rudiments by yourself and for yourself. You are not a baby. Work fast and with concentration and you may catch up. Work systematically, putting most of your heart into the subjects in which you are most deficient. (A football man doesn't avoid drudgery.) Concentrate and never say die! "There are no quitters at Wisconsin."

Thirdly—get regular sleep of at least seven hours (many need eight) every night and take enough physical exercise (without "drugs") to keep you fit and eager for your studies. (You'll find some day that that is the chief purpose of physical exercise.) Don't break the training rules.

Fourthly—eat good food, in a leisurely manner, and play the piano or a little game or chat with your housemates for half an hour after your evening meal, before you settle down to your study table. When you settle down, start at once and work as if the coach were watching you.

Fifthly—forget the mistakes of the past and work to win the battle from now on. You'll find that there is no greater achievement than a personal sense of mastery, the discovery of your own capacity, in the intellectual field.

We started home at Christmas time,
To take a needed rest,
We swore we'd sleep and sleep some more

And come back at our best.
We slept alright, but not at night
And hit an awful rate,
And now re're back at school again
Just to recuperate.

And when we got back we looked into the mail box and found a letter inviting us to a tea party given by Mister Sellery, and once more we say, if anybody has the secret, please tell us how to be friendly with a dean.

One: "I was going to give you a pair of socks for Christmas."

Two: "And I was going to give you a pair."

One: "Well, that would have been a tie, wouldn't it?"

Tomorrow's another big night for the common people. The pre-Prom dance. We guess that they just figure that they'll get your money whether you go to Prom or not. One consolation is that we can at least remember the pre-Prom dance, and it seems a waste of money to go to Prom and not be able to look back and remember the good time you had.

He: "That boy there is sure some gymnast."

She: "How come?"

He: "Well, he's always chinning, and last night I saw him hanging on a bar."

We feel it our duty to say something in regard to our conduct while at the old family fireside. In the first place, we behaved beautifully, and we stayed home on New Year's eve. Now of course, after reading the confessions of Macbeth and Methuselah, we wonder if maybe we should have done differently, but we saw Hard Hearted Hannah today, and she said she passed out cold, and we never did like these females who give you the cold shoulder.

"When you went riding with Jerry last night, how did you come home?"

"Road home."

"THAT'S THE BUNK," said the boy as he gazed at his double decker.

WITH APOLIGIES TO HALITOSIS!
She ran to her room immediately after the party. She had been left alone, she had been a failure. Why had Tommy excused himself right after that dance she had with him and avoided her for the rest of the evening? That was the insidious thing about it. Only a child could have told her. Not even her best friends dared speak of so tender a subject. And what was worse she was unaware of it herself. She raised her head and looked into the mirror before her, and it was then that she realized that she had forgotten to wear her false teeth that night!

We made it our plan.
To make only those.
New Year's resolutions.
That we would be sure to keep.
And the one we want.
More than anything else.
To keep up.
Was the one in which.
We swore never.
To mention to this column.
The name of our well known
Friend who hates publicity.
Dear old Paul Faust.

The way to make an Englishman happy in his old age is to tell him funny stories when he's young!
Bradstrom.

KID BIFF SAYS:
"I should think that these men would feel awfully immodest walking around the campus in their bear skins."

WE HATE TO DO THIS, BUT DUTY IS DUTY. AND WE HAVE JUST LEARNED THAT ELLIS GILES FULTON PURCHASED AN ULTRA-COLLEGIATE SUIT WHEN HE WAS AWAY. AND NOW HE'S BACK WITH US AGAIN HE IS AFRAID TO WEAR IT. IT'S ALL RIGHT, JILES, CLOTHES DON'T MAKE THE MAN, BUT THE FAIR SEX LOVE YOU JUST AS YOU ARE.

Bill Purnell has gone ack to New York after a brief vacation at the university and in his home town, and the last thing we heard him say was: "Ask Gordy Brine how he came out New Year's eve."

When you get this far, remember that it was harder for us to get any humor into this than it was for you to get some out.

Good night, Delilah,
SAMPSON.

$1,100 TO GO FOR PROM PROGRAMS

Committee Considers Variety of Samples; Will Let Contract Next Week

Approximately $1,100 will be spent for Prom programs, the contract for which will be let the early part of next week, according to Vernon Otto '26, chairman of the program committee. The individual programs will cost 75 cents.

The committee has been busy during the past week considering samples and conferring with representatives of various firms. Among the firms who are being considered to take the contract for the Prom programs are the Brachan company, the United States Leather company, Chicago and the Antioch specialty company, Milwaukee. All of these firms have a reputation for superior work, according to members of the committee.

Paul Faust '26, one of the members of the committee, has just returned from a trip to the Twin Cities, where he conferred with several firms with a view to letting a contract. Other firms in different parts of the country are being kept in touch with.

The committee of which Otto is chairman includes N. A. Peck '26, W. T. Taylor '26, Suzanne Hustling '26, Virginia Gibler '26, and Paul Faust '26.

"We are waiting to make the choice of design and other details in connection with the programs so that we may get full information on all suitable designs," Otto stated last night. "Practically all the material is in hand at present and it will be only a matter of a few days until we make our decision."

Scenery and Spirit Are Well Combined in "The Bandolero"

THE BANDOLERO
Starring Renee Adoree, Manuel
Granado and Pedro de Cordoba
Presented at the Strand

By J. E. L.

Spain of golden days and turquoise nights, of smoking cigarettes held by long tapering fingers, of flirtatious eyes beneath silky lashes, and of gay mobs flashing gaudy exhilarating shawls. The land of Madrid is displayed in all its alluring beauty—the munificent orange groves, the rocky hills, the tiny hamlets, the sumptuous and lavish country homes of white stone and iron grill work, the crowded city, the cruel coliseum. Midst this setting is told the courtship of a young Spaniard, the youngest of the Matadors, for the daughter of the captain of a band of outlaws. The story assumes tragedy in that the father of the lover had caused the death of his sweetheart's mother. Their troubles, which are unusually exciting, finally terminate in a happy marriage.

Renee Adoree, Manuel Granado and Pedro de Cordoba assume proper relations with their characters but due to the thoughtless editing of the film their portrayals are apt to seem a little unfinished. Thankfully, the long views of the setting were not shortened in the picture and one may enjoy the variable landscapes and the odd, intriguing towns for which Spain is noted. The peasant life built around the wealthy countryman is vividly shown in this Spanish production. But if this Cook's tour is apt to be boring, interest may be held by the theme, which is all very unusual. The Bandolero can well hold its own among those pictures where atmosphere is considered as important as the work of the characters.

An uproarious comedy in which ingenious mechanical tricks are introduced quite effectively, follows the feature picture.

Pretty Damsels Entrance Bill at Orph This Week

The show at the Orp this week has more speed and sparkle than usual. The acts are balanced, smooth, and contain several beautiful damsels who seem to be able to entertain as well as attract. Music was well represented, and the humor was funny and repeatable.

MANUEL VEGA, "the man with original ideas" leads off. His original ideas consist mostly of antics with a dummy, and of clog dancing on his hands.

DE JARI speeds up the bill with classical and lyrical vocalism. His voice is not powerful, but it is melodious, and his Latin personality makes his act attractive.

LANE and HARPER are back this year with a new act which is funny and gives our friend Pearl opportunity to exhibit herself and her new costumes. The act has punch.

THE LORRAINE SISTERS are unusually good dancers, and their costumes are very striking. There is a vocal solo by Mr. Taylor which well deserved the applause it received.

YORKE and KING present an act which gains most of its effectiveness from a clever use of old-time songs and styles. The idea is not entirely new, but it is effectively done. The best act on the bill.

ROY and ARTHUR do funny stunts with plates. Some of the balancing and catch-work is really clever, and the occasional crashes appeal to something in the heart of everyone who would like to smash things. Altogether the bill is well representative of what people like and students whistle for.

Mask and Wig

By CHATTY

The Madison theaters gave us a hand-out during the vacation and as a result we were enabled to have some bit of diversion during the holidays outside of that which we got at the library.

The stock company at the Majestic put on some of the best plays they have given all year. "It Pays to Advertise" and "Captain Applejack" were done in excellent fashion. Decidedly entertaining and humorous in themselves, the company handled them with a niceness which spoke well for it.

You can take our word for it that the stock company is doing some real work and that you will enjoy seeing it. And we weren't bribed to say this either, our statement is sincere.

The report that the Hesselberg company would not put on any more serious dramas seems to be more or less contradicted by the fact that the players will stage A. A. Milne's "Dover Road," one of the best works of that Scotchman.

The show at the Madison is one of the best, much better than its running mate, "The Covered Wagon," for one thing, because its cast does not include J. Warren.

The Strand is going to have some real pictures in the near future, what with "The Thief of Bagdad," long awaited by an eager group of fans, coming a week from Sunday, and "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" following close upon its heels.

"NORTH OF 36"

Starring Ernest Torrence
Presented at The Madison

"North of 36" is set in the days immediately following the Civil War, when cattle markets were being sought by southern states, particularly Texas, and when titles to land were mere scraps of paper. Outstanding is the acting of Ernest Torrence as Jim Nabours, self-appointed guardian of Lois Wilson, who takes the leading feminine role as a young orphan managing a big ranch. Noah Beery again acts the villain and tries to get the land title from the defenseless girl. Jack Holt plays the hero, but his acting is not as good as usual. Gunfights, cattle stampedes, and robberies lend action to the play.

"MEDDLING WOMEN"

Starring Lionel Barrymore
Presented at the Parkway

Here is Lionel Barrymore as the talented playwright-husband of an opera singer, who has given up her career. The story begins when she obtains the consent of her husband to return to the stage, upon which the meddlers, one of whom is the mother, begin to get in their work. A series of wrong interpretations soon result in unpleasantness for all, ending only after the husband has taught the meddlers a strong object lesson, through the medium of his latest play. In the latter part of the picture Mr. Barrymore plays a double identity role of playwright, and of John Wells, bootlegger. Dagmar Godowsky does good work in one of the feminine roles.

Thirty-eight men are appearing regularly for practice from 12 to 1 o'clock each day. The club as a whole is better prepared to give a concert this early in the year than it has ever been in former years, according to Prof. E. E. Swinney, who conducts the club.

The concert, which will be given next week is given as one of the numbers of a Lycoum course sponsored by the Baptist church. The regular Madison performance of the club will be given at the usual time, early in March.

DAYTON, Ohio—Two employees of Wilbur Wright Flying Field near here were killed this morning when a truck in which they were riding was struck and demolished by an airplane flying over the speed course at the field. The dead: Leon C. Harness, field inspector and Paul Long, truck driver.

Lieut. E. C. Barksdale of Mc-

Cook Field, was piloting the ship. He was accompanied by an observer. Both aviators escaped without a scratch. The accident is believed to be the first on record in which a ground vehicle was struck by a flying plane, resulting in fatalities.
