INTRODUCTORY.

Since our last issue Janesville has made great strides in the way of improvements. The number of buildings erected run into the hundreds, and yet at least a hundred more will be built early next season. Recently she has become the center of the leaf tobacco business, nearly thirty firms being engaged in handling that article.

The development of new building sites has caused the addition to the Street Guide of some fifty-three new streets and avenues.

The completion of the electric street car system has been a marked improvement, and may be further extended in the near future.

Quite a number of new factories have been established and prospects for others are positive.

The population by nearly an actual count is 13,734. The estimates by school census and election returns, place the figure much higher.

The number of names contained in this book is 6,149.

Thanking our patrons for their support, we remain,

Respectfully,

W. F. CURTIS.
