"OUTWARD BOUND" OPENS BASCOM THEATER TONIGHT

JANESVILLE MAN RECOMMENDED AS REGISTRAR HERE

Board of Regents Acts Today on Officials Named by Pres. Frank

Recommendation to the board of regents that Frank O. Holt, superintendent of schools at Janesville, become registrar and executive director of the bureau of educational records and guidance at the university and that Prof. V. A. C. Henmon, now connected with the philosophy department of Yale university, become professor of psychology and scientific director of the bureau of educational records and guidance, was made to the committee of the board of regents yesterday by Pres. Glenn Frank.

If approved by the board of regents in its meeting today, the two new heads of newly created bureaus would probably take their positions at the opening of the fall semester.

Bureau Guide to Students

Pres. Frank has been working on the idea of a bureau of educational records and guidance for some time, such a bureau to act as a counsel and guide to students. It would not only assemble grades but also other information respecting the life and activities of the student.

No registrar has been named since the death of William D. Heistand two years ago. If appointed to the position, Mr. Holt would take on the duties of the registrar along with new development in the service of that office, President Frank has declared.

Formerly Professor Here

Prof. Henmon who has been recommended for the position of scientific director of the bureau of educational records and guidance left his position as professor of philosophy at the university a year ago to go to Yale university.

PHONETICIAN TO SPEAK NEXT WEEK

Dr. T. N. Tomas Here From Spain on Extended Lecture Tour

Dr. Tomas Navarro Tomas, the most outstanding phonetician in Spain today and teacher of many of the Spanish instructors of this university will give a series of two lectures, on May 23 and 24 in 165 Bascom hall.

The subject of the first lecture is "La Espana de Hoy" which will be illustrated with interesting slides that bring out vividly the essential features of modern Spain.

In his second lecture, Dr. Navarro Tomas will deal with the "Rasgos Esenciales de la Fonetica Espanola," those characteristics of Spanish pronunciation that may be regarded as the principal factors in the phonetic structure of the language.

In his official capacity as Professor in the Centro de Estudios Historicos de Madrid, and as director of the phonetic laboratory of the same institution, Dr. Navarro Tomas has done more than any other individual in establishing scientifically the facts of Spanish pronunciation.

Dr. Navarro Tomas is also known for his work as editor of the "Revista de Filologia Espanola," the official scientific organ of the Centro. His "Manual de Pronunciacion Espanola" is a standard and universal used text on Spanish phonetics. In addition, Dr. Tomas has written many well-known works on the language and literature of Spain.

During his stay in Madison, May 23, 24, Dr. Navarro Tomas will be the guest of the Department of Romance Languages. Professor Solalinde of the same department, was formerly a colleague of the distinguished visitor in Madrid.

Frosh to Burn Caps on Eve of Homecoming, Senate Rules

New Plan Aims to Preserve
Class Spirit and Old Tradition

Action taken at the meeting of the Student Senate yesterday noon resulted in discontinuing the wearing of green caps by freshmen in the spring and in changing the time of "Cap Night" from Varsity Night in May to the eve of homecoming game in fall. This new rule will mean that freshmen will wear their caps only during the first six or eight weeks preceding homecoming.

In making the change, the senate felt that the present farcical situation which surrounds the wearing of freshman caps would be abolished, while at the same time, the element of tradition and class loyalty would be retained.

Clyde Kluckhohn, senate representative of the Union board, opposed this policy on the ground that although it would do away with the mockery of spring, it would still continue during the first part of the school year. He contended that since every attempt to make freshmen uphold the so-called tradition has failed utterly the logical thing to do would be to discontinue the wearing of caps entirely.

Senate members, however, felt that such action was not warranted. It was shown that almost the entire freshman class purchases the headgear in fall for the varsity welcome and the football season and wears it quite consistently during the first six weeks of the semester. Spirit is at its height during the football season and by bringing the "Cap Night" ceremony to a close the night before homecoming, the senate believes that bet-

DEAN CLAMPS LID ON TARDY ENGAGEMENTS

That 11 o'clock has been set as the deadline for Friday and Saturday night engagements, beginning next week, is the announcement from the office of the Dean of Women. This rule will be in effect until the end of the examination period. The 12 and 1 o'clock parties this weekend are the last to be held this semester. The familiar 10:30 rule applies to all other nights.

Senior Class Play Candidates to Get Stage Test Friday

Tryouts for the Senior play "Dulcie," will be held at 7 o'clock Friday night in 2 Law building.

Seniors will be given preference in the final casting of the play, according to Aline Zeibell '27 who is in charge of the tryouts. However, all students carrying a full time schedule who have a weighted average of fair and are not first semester freshmen may try out for the play.

All the roles in Dulcie, in which there are three women's parts and seven men's parts are staright type requiring no character acting. There are a few copies of the play in the now and it is expected that there will be more added shortly.

The play will be presented in the new Bascom hall theater Thursday and Friday night of Commencement week, June 17 and 18. W. C. Troutman is the director of the play.

CARDINAL WORKERS

There will be a meeting of all persons who are members of the Daily Cardinal or who have worked for the staff during the year at 4:30 o'clock Thursday o'clock Thursday in the editorial office. All staff members are required to come and all others are asked to be present. String books will be handed in for semester grading.

Cohen, Freshman Pre-medic, Dead From Pneumonia

Jacob Cohen, 20, a pre-medic freshman, died early yesterday morning at the Wisconsin General hospital after a brief illness from pneumonia.

He had been selected as one of the honor students for Phi Eta Sigma, new freshman honorary fraternity and was to be initiated Monday. He was a graduate of Madison central high school where he was active in dramatic work.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cohen who live at 716 W. Main st. he is survived by six brothers and four sisters.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the home and interment was made in Forest Hill cemetery.

PLEDGE $8,000 IN UNION CAMPAIGN

Women Collect $600 More Than Men; Sperling, Jessie
Price Pleased

Last night at the close of the first day's campaign for Memorial Union pledges it was announced at the solicitor's rally banquet held at the men's dormitory refectory, that so far the freshmen had pledged something over $8,000.

The results showed that the women solicitors had collected about $600 more in promises than the men had. The leading committee, headed by Catherine Burgie, turned in a report of $700 pledged. The 35 freshmen candidates for Union board, under the direction of Jerome Sperling have so far collected $1,150.

"The returns for the first day of the campaign were not in the least bit discouraging. However they were not surprising," Allan Edgarton, general chairman of men workers said at the banquet, after the results had been announced. "What they show is hard work on the part of some and only mediocre work on the part of others."

Jessie Price, chairman of the women's committees was immensely pleased. "I was very much gratified to note that, when the records in pledges were counted up, the women's answer to the Union campaign question had been 'yes.' For the first time in the history of freshmen campaigns, there is a chance that the women may come out ahead of the men," she said.

Just before the close of the meeting, Porter Butts received the following telegram of encouragement from John Dollard, former secretary of the Union, who is now an assistant to the president at the University of Chicago: "Good luck to you and the class of '30. The executive committee of the alumni is watching with great interest what you do these days."

RED GAUNTLET HAS ELECTIONS TUESDAY

Elections for Red Gauntlet, sophomore women's organization, will be held Tuesday, May 24 in Lathrop hall, according to Helen Keeler, acting president. The nominees are Eleanor Pennington, nominated by the committee, and Margaret Schermerhorn and Catherine Howard, nominated from the floor. This office will carry over into Yellow Tassel, the junior women's organization. Officers of the three other women's class societies will also be elected at this time. Green Button nominations will be made at the Freshmen women's banquet tomorrow night. Yellow Tassel will have no election, since Chalotte Wollaeger was elected by default.

Two Early Birds Get '28 Badgers Friday Morning

To the first two students who are at the door of the Union building, 772 Langdon street, at 7:45 o'clock Friday morning, free Badgers will be given.

According to Louis Grambs, business manager, official distribution of Badgers will begin at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon in front of Langdon hall, 705 Langdon. Distribution will continue till 4 o'clock. The Badger books will also be distributed from 10 to 12 Saturday morning and Monday and Tuesday afternoons.

For the benefit of those who have not already bought Badgers, an open sale will be held Monday and Tuesday mornings in front of the north entrance on Bascom terrace. The price of Badgers at this time will be $5. This is the first year that such a low price has been offered for open sale.

It has previously been the custom for some students to wait all night in front of the Union building in order to receive a free Badger. Photographs, cushions, and candy have kept the watchers company during their vigil.

Grambs requests that all students holding $2.50 subscriptions pay the balance at the Badger office in the Union building before delivery begins, in order to facilitate distribution. After Friday noon balances will have to be paid at Langdon hall.

Banquet To Be Held Thursday

The Badger Board of Control will award gold Badger keys at the banquet for members of Badger staff to be given at 6 o'clock Thursday night, May 19, in the Pompeian room of the Lorraine hotel, to Harry Thoma '28, editor-in-chief, and Louis Grambs '28, business manager.

Silver keys will be awarded to Josephine Nelson '27, circulating manager, Edgar Fritschel '28 advertising manager, Mary Francis Byard '29, both di-managers, Elizabeth Saxton '29, and vision chiefs on the editorial board. Mr. H. H. Brockhausen of the Brock Engraving co. will be toastmaster at the banquet.

SELL TICKETS TODAY TO MOTHERS' BANQUET

Tickets for the Mothers' Day banquet to be held May 28 during Mothers' Weekend, will be on sale this morning in Bascom, Ag and Science hall. The price of the ticket is $1.25. No tickets for this banquet will be sold after this morning.

Engineer Magazine is Published for Last Time of Year

The May issue of the Wisconsin Engineer made its appearance on the campus yesterday in a simple but effective cover drawn by A. A. Cuneo '8. This is the last edition of the magazine this semester.

The book contains 40 pages of information, technical and non-technical, dear to the heart of the engineer. Perhaps the most interesting story in the issue is that written by J. H. Kulp '9 on the re-building of the small six inch telescope at Washburn observatory.

Other articles in the magazine include "The Use of Gypsum in Building Construction," by James A. Schad '16, "Radio Frequency Amplifiers," by Glenn Koehler, instructor in electrical engineering, "Formulas for Computing Losses in Various Forms of Pipe Bends," by H. T. Hartwell, instructor in hydraulics, and some interesting after-thoughts on the St. Pat parade.

FRANK, SLICHTER HELP DEDICATE DRAMA WORKSHOP

Completion of Hall Gives University Finest College Theater in Middle West

The physical equipment that will make possible the development of a "Little Theater" unit at the university will be used for the first time at 8 o'clock tonight when the new Bascom theater is dedicated by the Wisconsin University Players production of Sutton Vane's drama, "Outward Bound."

The formal dedication services that will precede the play will have President Glenn Frank and Dean C. S. Slichter as the principal speakers.

Once the theatre is brought into use, the lack of theatrical facilities which has formerly handicapped dramatic work at the university will be removed. Wisconsin now has the finest college theater in the Middle West.

Troutman Directs Theater

Activities of the theater will be under the direction of Prof. W. C. Troutman, who has planned a schedule of dramatic productions for next year that surpasses any program of theatricals the university has before attempted.

"Each year there will be presented in the theater a series of eight or ten major productions that will include revivals of the Greek and Shakesperian classics, the standard modern classics, the best of contemporary dramas, and original plays written on the campus or in the state," Prof. Troutman announced.

Plan Drama Lectures

The work of the theater will not be confined to the presentation of plays, but lectures on the drama and stage craft will be given by faculty members of other universities and persons connected with the professional stage.

The theater will be used as a classroom during the day and for university lecture and convocations as well as dramatic production. Courses in scene painting and stage design will be offered for the first time in the summer session this year, and will

HILL SURVIVOR IN FIRST MOVIE CUT

Sophomore One of Forty Remaining in First National Picture Contest

Announcement has just come from Los Angeles of the selection by First National pictures of 40 men from the original group of 300 screen tests made of college men. Maurice Hill '30, one of the ten men selected from Wisconsin was the only one of that group to survive the first cut. Final selections will be made next Monday, May 23.

John McCormick, general manager of First National, in a wire to the Daily Cardinal yesterday, said, "The final ten men will be selected from this forty by the executives of First National in conjunction with important newspaper syndicate men, and motion picture magazine editors. While it is not certain that Hill will be among the final ten still he has a good opportunity, and the judges are absolutely impartial."

The semi-final selections of the 40 men represents type selections, according to Mr. McCormick. The great demand for collegiate pictures has caused the producers to go to the campuses for the types the public demands. It is understood that Hill represents one of these types and that he films well.

Announcement of the ten winners will be made in the Daily Cardinal next Tuesday morning.

BASCOM THEATER TO BE OPENED TONIGHT

hereafter be a regular part of the curriculum.

Theater Open to Many

Any resident of the state who writes a drama worthy of producing can have his work tested by having it produced in the theater. The theater will, if conditions permit, sponsor an annual "Little Theater" contest for Wisconsin high schools. "The aim of the theater," said Prof. Troutman, "will be to develop in student audiences a cultural appreciation of the drama as an art, to train teachers of dramatics, and to serve as an experimental laboratory for testing new ideas of play writing and stage craft. It will not be a training school for actors for the professional stage.

Gives Students Chance

"The theater, to fill its proper place, must be a major activity of the campus, giving every student who is interested in any phase of dramatic work the opportunity to gain practical experience.

"Acting will be only one branch of the work that the theater will have. A permanent staff will be organized, and this will include workers in many departments.

Appoint Staff on Merit

"Appointments to the staff will be made on the basis of merit, and students in the lower classes can work up to become department heads in their junior and senior years."

The production staff of the theater will include scene designers and painters, interior decorators, electricians, stage managers and stage workers, costume designers, stage carpenters, publicity and advertising writers, and workers for the business office.

Formal Dedication Tonight

Tonight's performance of "Outward Bound" will be formal. The play will be presented again tomorrow night at which time the performance will be informal. Tickets for both performances are on sale at the box office on the second floor of Bascom hall.

When Prof. Plato

was teaching his famous philosophy course back in the halcyon days of Hellas, with Aristotle for a bright Sophomore, the chances are the students wore their classic draperies in a distinctly college style.

And from then on, probably, to the days of trunk hose and the time trousers came in, and ever since, college men have worn clothes that differed from those of the mere laity.

As much as ever nowadays! There's an air about today's college style that's unmistakable. But it has to be exactly right or it's all wrong.

It takes a college man (or a clever clothier) to detect the important differences. And Zeus defend the clothier who tries to purvey to his collegiate patrons any but the right thing!

We've been very fortunate that way ourselves. We have the right clothes and college men recognize them as precisely the sort they want to wear. Clothes made strictly for college by Society Brand. Drop in and see them when you're picking out your new draperies.

Wisconsin's baseball team, wearing the dignity that befits a recent entry into the first division of the Western conference race, will engage the Madison Blues for the second time this season on Brees Stevens field at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The game, half of the proceeds of which are to go to the Mississippi flood relief fund, was originally scheduled for last Wednesday but had to be postponed because of bad weather.

Badgers Hold Advantage

Since the Badgers have defeated
two Big Ten opponents in three days, and since they have already beaten the Blues once, they hold a slight edge over the Madison semi-pros today.

Eddie Lenahan, Blues manager, has announced that he will start
"Rube" Schauer, the tip-top member of his huddling staff against Wisconsin today, and this, coupled with the fact that Coach Guy Lowman will probably have to send a second-string pitcher to the mound, makes the margin between the two nines practically invisible.

Jacobsen May Pitch

Tinar Jacobsen and Theodore Thelander stand first in line to pitch for Wisconsin today. Jacobsen turned in a really good hurling performance against Northwestern Saturday, and his selection today will mean that the Blues are in for a slim afternoon at the plate. Richard Hussa and Ray Ellerman are also available for duty today, still leaving Capt. George Stoll and Stanley Clausen to rest up for the Michigan game here Saturday.

With their week-end victories over Northwestern and Illinois, the Badgers have apparently settled into their real conference pace.

Wisconsin Tennis Men in Long Drill; to Play Two Meets

Wisconsin racquetters took advantage of the first day of favorable weather to put in three hours of strenuous practice for the coming matches yesterday. Northwestern netmen will be met on Thursday,
and the strong Michigan team on Friday. The Wisconsin team is op-ed to have an even chance against Northwestern, but will enter the Michigan fray decidedly the underdogs.

These matches successfully, a high
If the Badgers come through rating in the conference will be assured. In Captain Leo Boldenweck, Wisconsin boasts one of the premier racket wielders in the conference. David Freeborn, Enoch Judkins, and Oscar Kaner have shown improvement, and may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves.

Doubles Improve

Weakness in doubles play as shown in the Minnesota meet is being given to this department of the game. Boldenweck and Freeborn particularly have shown great improvement during the past week.
Kaner and Judkins continue to play consistent tennis, although their net game is not as finished as that of the first team. Kratz and Reeves, the third doubles team, are practicing daily to bring up their game to higher standard.

Michigan's tennis team defeated
Minnesota at Ann Arbor Monday, 6-3. Since Minnesota had already defeated Wisconsin, this leaves the dope leaning rather heavily toward Michigan in the Wolverine-Badger tilt Friday.

The Quarter Has Few Better

Sixteen Fraternity Nines Start Final Drive for Intramural Title

BY TYG DAHLGREN

A way has finally been found to untangle the triple tie existing for first place in Division I of the interfraternity baseball league. Phi Delta Phi will play Theta Chi again this afternoon to determine which team will enter the final round. As Delta Sigma Tau drew a bye, the loser of this afternoon's game will meet Delta Sigma Tau to determine the other entry.

Theta Delta Chi looms out strongly as one of the leading contenders for the baseball title. The Theta Deltas easily annexed the championship of Division 2 winning five straight victories by comfortable margins. Franklin Zimmer, Theta Delt Uitcher, has pitched invincible ball. Phi Kappa Sigma is the second place team in Division 2. With the good pitching of "Scotty" Stewart, the Phi Kappa Sigs have won three out of their five games in their division. The Phi Kappa Sigs, however, were forced to play two extra games to determine their right to represent Division 2.

Alpha Deltas Strong

The Alpha Deltas, winners in Division 3, are another undefeated team with five straight victories.
Momsen has pitched great ball for the Alpha Deltas, but he has been helped by heavy hitting on the part of his team mates. Tau Kappa Epsilon, second place winner is another strong hitting team that might go far in the finals.

In division 4, Theta Xi stands as a team that will take a lot of beating. Their average thus far is .1000 per cent, compiled from five straight victories over other teams in the section. Kappa Sigma, fighting for a chance at the Badger Bowl, is in second place, having won the right to go into the championship flight
by defeating Phi Pi Phi, 10-4.

Another thousand percenter leads the fifth division. Here, Phi Kappa Tau has paddled to a comparatively easy championship. The Phi Taus are regarded as an exceedingly dangerous dark horse contender for the title. Kappa Psi defeated
S. A. E., 8-3, yesterday to make good its position in the upper flight.

Triangle and Beta Kappa are tied for the championship of division 6, and since two teams are picked anyway, the tie will not be played off.
Both nines have displayed good and bad ball during the season, but neither is expected to get further than the second round of the all-university tourney.

Delta Kappa Epsilon, winner of first place in division 7, and Farm House, winner in Division 8, are both undefeated teams. The Dekes are again fighting for the championship which they narrowly missed last season, while Farm House, from its season's record, appears to be a strong entry. Phi Kappa and Phi

Kappa Psi will represent second places in these two divisions.

BACK IN FORM

EXPLANATION

Again the Madison Blues and Wisconsin come together in friendly combat today, this time on Brees Stevens field. Is it the Blues' fault that their name rhymes with "lose?"

Wisconsin and Michigan have furnished the Western conference with its best 1927 example of reversed form on the baseball field. Both the Badgers and the Wolverines started the season playing the kind of baseball that is seldom found outside of Boston and Philadelphia.
On Saturday, Wisconsin socked
Northwestern, 5-4, and Michigan
trounced the pace-setting Illinois nine, 6-0. Monday, Wisconsin added a 1-0 defeat to Illinois' dark chapter while Michigan was drubbing Iowa, again 6-0. Michigan and Wisconsin will be fighting for a place in the first division when they meet at Camp Randall, Saturday afternoon.

Which reminds us that the game may not be played Saturday afternoon. As now scheduled, it conflicts with the state high school track meet, and for that reason it may be played in the morning.

"Chuck" McGinnis was vaulting
as only a champion can in practice at Randall field last night. He cleared 12 feet and 12 feet 6 inches in perfect form, and then topped off the evening by shooting over 13 feet 3 inches on the first attempt without even scratching the bar.
Chuck has been stale on his vaulting for some time, as was evidenced when he failed to get over 12, 6 in the quadrangular last week; but with his apparent return to form, he again looms as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, vaulter in the conference. He will get a good test against Bill Dreogemuller at Northwestern Friday.

The Daily Northwestern
brings forth a canny explanation for the yellow jerseys in which Wildcat runners are attired for their track competition. "In a close finish," says
this writer, "the judge's eye
may be caught by a bright jersey, and Northwestern is taking no chances that an opponent shall win a race on the color of his jersey." That sounds good enough to us. We still contend, however, that the best way to win a race is to stay ahead of all the rest of 'em. Wasn't she?

MORE THAN 1,000 HIGH SCHOOL MEN ENTER STATE MEET

Eighty Schools From Over
State to Compete; Kenosha Favored in Class A

BY H. D.

Entries to the 33rd annual state track and field championships, together with the ninth annual tennis meet and the third annual swimming meet, total 1,004 men representing more than 80 Wisconsin
schools, latest reports from Guy
Sundt, general manager, show.

In the track and field meets, three different classes will compete for championships. Class A composed of schools with an enrollment of more than 750 pupils has 19 schools totaling 307 athletes competing. Class B made up of schools with an enrollment of 150-750 has 34 high schools and 365 men listed. Trackmen numbering 180 from 28 high schools are entered in Class C. This latter class is open to schools with an enrollment less than 150.

Milwaukee Challenges

As usual the coveted track championship will be the aim and hope of Milwaukee high schools.
The teams from Milwaukee are accorded exceptional strength.

The favorites in class B are Fort Atkinson, Platteville, Spooner, and Wisconsin high of Madison. Spooner copped the championship in this class last year, and is generally regarded as a strong team this year.

Class C, the innovation in this 33rd annual meet, will have as favorites teams from Monticello,
Prairie du Sac, and Middleton.

Expect Close Scoring

Competition in the weight events will be especially keen. In the discus throw Henze, Fort Atkinson, is regarded as a champion. Folk, of Janesville, is another discus hurler
of ability.

Ward, Janesville, will be a powerful contestant in the javelin throw. Pitsenberger, of Wauzeka, besides being a broad jumper of

The Bascom Theater

Tonight the dedication services for Bascom theatre will be held, and a new era of theatrical influence on Wisconsin's campus and through the state will have begun.

We say this because the theatre has a dual aspect;—it will not only be a university institution, but will serve the state also. As affecting the campus, its aim, of course, will be toward a developing of students in the uses of their language by means of the drama, the presentation of literary plays, the performance of the classics in connection with the courses that will be taught in class.

The programs to be given may take the form of a course in which the so-called popular play which has only temporary value will be gotten away from. Besides the classic and standard modern authors of merit, novelties and experiments will be introduced to give a clear conception of the trend of the drama of today as well as that of yesterday.

The state will benefit by the Bascom theatre activities in that those who affiliate themselves with the theatre will become the leaders in the secondary schools and in civic communities. These leaders will be sent out to help those groups already mentioned, and to give assistance to little theatre clubs and drama study organizations.

The new Bascom theatre will become a center for the theatre movement in Wisconsin. It will endeavor to encourage new playwrights not only at the university, but throughout the state. Any citizen of Wisconsin who writes a play that is worthwhile and deserves a production will have the benefit of Bascom theatre.

Help will be given those outside organizations that need assistance in staging or in the selection of suitable plays. Bascom theatre, it is hoped, will ultimately be able to send a repertory company throughout the state a number of times a year with good plays that otherwise could not be seen.

A bureau of information, we are told, will be established where people may come for advice on festivals, pageants, and the planning of programs. A little theatre tournament between high schools, colleges, and civic groups will be encouraged.

The entire program for the Bascom theatre sounds fairly colossal in comparison with the work previously done. We sincerely hope that it is successful, that theatricals and its incidental relatives will take their rightful place in the Wisconsin sun.

Hail! the Student Opera!

Yesterday we read in the Daily Cardinal of the possibility that a student opera may be held here next fall under the auspices of the School of Music. We were a trifle surprised at first to find that there were people in the university who cherished such high hopes, but we confess freely that we are much pleased.

Evidently interest in music has been growing with leaps and bounds for some time now, because we remember the days when musical activity was classed with such superfluous activities as high school debating. And now an actual classic opera may be presented here in the near future by University of Wisconsin students.

The plans thus far are nebulous, but the opera, when chosen, will be one of the early classic forms. It is believed that students have at least a passing acquaintance with the standard modern opera, and one of the early works would be more instructive and would show the growth and evolution of the opera in its present form.

The university symphony orchestra would collaborate with the music classes, and the opera would be an actual all-university affair. We assure the School of Music that the presentation of a classic opera will have a welcome reception here.

Of All Things

Now that C. O. S. is so much occupied with the work and worries of a senior thesis, it is within the domain of the editorial writers to comment briefly on any bits of news about the world or campus that would otherwise fall into the recent C. O. S.'s domain. Too, it's much easier to write short paragraphs about interesting events than it is to write a long editorial on the probability of violet rays being used to subdue the heathen Nicaraguans who resent the imperialism of the United States.

We note, first, by the papers that Haresfoot is planning to put some 29 men through their paces on the library steps this afternoon. As one of the funniest affairs of the year, we think any student who misses the mock initiation is missing a chance to lose any stray case of dyspepsia or such that he may have. The men of Haresfoot usually sit up many long nights concocting stunts for their poor neophytes. We hope they won't disappoint us this afternoon.

The Daily Cardinal also informs us of the annual Mortar Board May Day supper sometime next week. As a fine affair worthy of our noble support, we put official approval on it,—but it always rains. This year we hope it doesn't, for a good orchestra will be present and the men of Haresfoot will present several singing and dance numbers. We hope a good crowd attends, because we'll enjoy watching our friends try to talk and juggle plates on an uneven lawn, all at one and the same time.

Coach Lowman's team must be mentioned, for it now looks like their feet are on the straight and narrow championship path. There's nothing quite as nice as ekeing out a 1-0 victory after an extra inning battle, and the Illinois game sent us home happy. After losing two games, the baseball nine stepped right up and won the next three, which seems to us a sign of goodly intentions. We only hope that Michigan bites the dust Saturday. We're no baseball players ourselves, Stoll, Lowman, etc., but we're always wielding a verbal bludgeon for you.

Tomorrow night, provided Eric C. Miller provides rainproof weather, we'll hear the second of the twilight concerts that we live through the whole year for. Several editorial writers have commented and extolled the qualities of these concerts. We merely hope and pray that it won't rain tomorrow.

The Mother's weekend committee tells us that hotel reservations are already getting scarce; so if your mother is planning to visit you, get a room for her now. Reduced railroad rates have been secured, and plans are now complete for what the publicity chairman terms the most successful Mother's Weekend ever held. Incidentally, the ticket sales for the banquet will be limited this year, so get your ticket today.

Yesterday some 57 freshmen were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman scholastic fraternity. These 57 men did that which most of us look upon with some measure of wonder. When a freshman obtains a 2.5 point average for his first semester in a new environment and under new teaching conditions, we feel he deserves just praise. An average of 2.5 means about one B and the rest of the grades A's;—a figure out of sight for most of us. But one thing is clear to us, anyway;—that the actives of Phi Eta Sigma will certainly have the highest scholarship average on the campus.

It might be of interest to reformers to learn that they are winning in their fight to reform the university student. The other day one of the leading student bootleggers went out of business and on the same day we saw two freshmen skipping rope. Next we'll find the students carrying milk bottles to class, and then the reformers' victory will be complete.

WE NOMINATE this week as "Elinor Glynn Week" as there are just three weeks left.

Just three weeks left! Then vacation—and quizzes! It doesn't seem to make any difference what paradise you pick, there is always a purgatory next door.

The Alumnix Offis has heard, no doubt, of the R. O. T. C. captain who became a dentist and insisted on drilling everyone's teeth.

WHAT ELSE CAN THEY SAY?
Weather man: "Rain."
Labor Union: "Strike."
Dean Sellery: "NO!!!"

Our genial friend, Don Halverson, who manages the Lathrop Cafeteria tells us that hard boiled eggs will be served there as long as they behave.

William de Spoofer points out a modern miracle: A baseball can go up a fly and come down a foul.

In Chicago they have killed people almost every known way. But the Trib has yet to report a person falling through the hole in the mattress, into the spring, and drowning.

Gent told his young lady friend that she was more fun than a five ring circus. . . one ring at a time.

One of the Psi U's went to the derby down Louisville way Saturday. Standing outside the stables, he shook the jockey's hand and said: "Pete, I'll bet every dollar I have on you."
"But," said Pete, "suppose I don't win?"
"I won't loose anything," said the Psi U.

DORM DAZE

What can a college laddie do
But all his burdens bear?
What can he do but try again
E'en though it makes him swear?

Just what the fight was all about
It was not evident
But bloody fingers and wrathful
look
Were hung about this gent.

He dashed back to his room again,
"I'll get it yet!" he cried
"No thing like that can trim me,
"I'll not quit 'till I've tried!"

"What is the plot, my friend?" I asked.
"There is no plot," he said,
"The only plot is just the trick,
"Of catching on a thread!"

And then the uproar died down,

The lad came out—he'd won!
"Oh thank the heavens!" he cried aloud,
"I've sewed this button on!"

A Harvard professor spoke here on "The Philosopher's Apology." We see that Harvard professors are not philosophers.

Lindbergh, who they say, flunked in school, is flying the Atlantic. It proves that some scholastic devils do have wings.

The boys who work the Geology areas may not be athletes, but they get lots of practice in fencing when they go cross country.

William de Spoofer is getting positively ambitious. He sends us these which he labels as "rank puns." (Bill is an R. O. T. C.):

No, Oswald, not all crimes are from Crimea.

Not all dumb waiters are run by electricity.

Even if the king and queen didn't reign all day at the Triad Jubilee, something else did.

"So the Navy shut out the Army here Friday!"

"Yes, the Army dread naughts!"

Little Boy Blue says that Prairie du chien is building a bridge across the Mississippi because they don't believe in ferries. Stan chimes in to remark that he would rather believe in ferries than have a bridge because a bridge makes him cross.

THE END

The prof glanced our way: "Mr. Prince," he said, "do you think that the metallurgical protuberiscus is equivalent to the chinadermoscius peridorus?"

But we were not stumped. "Yes," we said, "we had one too, but the cook stepped on it."

Readers' Say So

IDEALS AND SUCCESS

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

"One thing I know: never, on this earth was the relation of man to man carried on by cash payment alone."

The author of that statement was able to see into the heart of human nature. There is something in man that might be called a seed of the divine which cannot feed on material things alone. Man's relation to each other is too rich and noble to be measured in dollars and cents. That seed of the divine in man's soul is checked by his improper lust for money. It has to live on good deeds, kindly words, and brotherly love.

It is that seed of the divine or that ideal which keeps men from becoming sordid and hateful toward each other. But there is a constant warfare between this ideal and Mammon. Mammon seems at times to reign supreme in the hearts of men. He is worshipped. The "indomitable Physician" finds money the "synonym of victory," so he sets out on his victorious march. He wins his victory, but, at what a cost!

He emerges from life with a bag of gold in his hand, saying, "Here is my sole achievement." Like Aaron who cast gold in the fire and said, "There came out this calf," so Physician says, "I cast my life in the pursuit of this ideal and there came out this bag of gold."

He emerges from life, his soul warped and stunted, his perspective of life turned and narrowed by his lust for money.

Is it not for the higher institutions of learning to set the relation of ideals to life in joint and in harmony with proper living? Are they doing it? If they are, then they are fulfilling one of their purposes. As long as they are regarded by many students as canning factories through which students are run in order to increase their capacity for earning money, just that long are these institutions hampered in their work of leading the world on and upward in its march of social evolution. What a shame it is for educators to induce people to come to our schools by showing them how a university training will increase their power to grasp the dollar. There are dozens of charts, indicating such—they have it worked out to the dollar.

It is up to us to show the public that the university is not such a canning factory and that it is to train people for service, to train people to give their lives away in the best possible manner. This seems rather absurd, but if we are going to sell our lives how great is the price?—fifty thousand or a million? There are plenty of people selling their lives today, but just look at them. Is it not those who have given their lives away who have accomplished an everlasting good for humanity?

Socrates who drank his cup of hemlock, Christ who refused to sell his ideal and died on the cross, Lincoln who remained true to his ideal of emancipation, and astute the French physician dying a poor man, but recently voted by the French people as their national hero—they remained true to their ideals, and today their influence is still felt throughout the world. They didn't sell their lives, their characters, and

Stoughton Crash Victim's Condition Is Unchanged

STOUGHTON, Wis.—The condition of Louis Westby, Lake Kegonsa, former Stoughton garage owner, was reported unchanged at the hospital here this morning. Westby sustained severe injuries Sunday night when the car he was driving collided with a concrete culvert north of Stoughton.

Joseph Malecke, Stoughton shoe repair store owner, who was with Westby at the time of the accident, is somewhat better, according to hospital attaches, but will not be released or some time because of a badly broken leg.

Organdy Invades the Modes!

Sheer Loveliness is Displayed in Frocks of Pastel Shades

Reverting to the piquant mode of our grandmothers are organdies in soft pastel shades with tight fitting bodices and bouffant skirts that are the very essence of youthful charm. Plain or flowered, they may have wide collars or tiny rushings of net. A nosegay of summer flowers adds an old-fashioned beauty. $17.50-$27.50.

A filmy white organdy with a V-neckline is piquantly piped with red at neck, waist, and bottom of the skirt. A spray of gorgeous red embroidered poppies runs up one side of the skirt, giving a last touch of youthful chic. Delightful for the spring formal or for semi-formal occasions on summer evenings.

Sprays of flowers form the motif for a charming frock of orchid and white organdy. A large organdy collar forms a fishu effect at the front of the waist. A long rose streamer sets it off. The bouffant skirt has a wide band of orchid running around the bottom, which adds to the unusual beauty of the gown.

$27.50

As quaintly old-fashioned as grandmother's flower garden is a white organdy frock flowered with pink blossoms and set off by a soft, white collar. A boutonniere in bright shades is caught nonchalantly at one side of the waist.

MADISON

FIRM IN THE BELIEF that the discriminating theatre goer will visit the MADISON THEATRE once each week, providing the attractions offered are exceptional, a NEW POLICY of ONE BIG FEATURE EACH WEEK will start on THURSDAY of THIS WEEK.

In accord with this new policy the first four of these new and exceptional productions have already been booked for which the MADISON THEATRE will pay a sum greatly in excess of ANY AMOUNT EVER PAID for any photoplay productions ever exhibited in this city.

Even though these same productions are being shown in other cities at greatly increased prices of admission, the MADISON THEATRE'S highest priced ticket will be but 40c. Other prices will be 30c and 15c.

The MADISON THEATRE is cozy and comfortable; every seat commands a direct and uninterrupted view of the perfect screen; the projection is as good as modern equipment can possibly make it; and a costly Barton organ played by capable organists furnishes pleasing musical accompaniment to the pictures.

Starting on THURSDAY a visit to the MADISON THEATRE will afford the theatre goer ONCE EACH WEEK an opportunity to see the screen's greatest productions at minimum cost—first run in this city.

OFFER RICH PRIZE FOR BEST ESSAYS

Young Men and Women Compete in Contest Centered Around Wilson

Possibly the greatest inducement ever offered to the young men and women of America is the recent announcement of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation that an award of $50,000 dollars is being offered to them for the best articles on the subject, "What Woodrow Wilson Means to Me."

The purpose of these awards is to bring more fully to the people of the United States the ideals and principles for which Woodrow Wilson fought; those ideas which, in all his work and public utterances, he sought to bring before the citizens of his country and the world. It is especially urged by the Wilson Foundation committee, that the type of essay wanted is one which sets down these ideals and standards, appraising from the personal standpoint of the writer, rather than devoting the entire essay to fulsome praise or analytical criticism.

The total length of the article must not exceed 2,500 words and the writer must not be less than 20 years or more than 35 years of age. To the young man whose article is judged the best will be given the first prize of $25,000 and the same amount to the young lady whose article is considered first. Additional supplementary prizes will also be awarded, the number and amounts of these will be announced later.

The committee further states that

Vivas and Rabe Win Vilas Essay Contest Prizes

Eliseo Vivas '29, and Naomi Rabe '29, won first and second place respectively, in the Vilas essay contest, according to Paul M. Fulcher, chairman of this year's committee. The first prize is $50 and the second $25 in the annual contest which is open to all undergraduate students.

Mr. Vivas is a Zona Gale scholar and contributes articles to "The Nation" on Spanish literature. Both winners are students in the College of Letters and Science.

This year's contestants for the prize were unusually good, Prof. Fulcher said in announcing the winners. Thirteen essays were submitted in the competition.

The faculty committee that awarded the prizes included besides Prof. Fulcher, Prof. W. Ellery Leonard and Prof. R. E. N. Dodge all of the English department.

The articles submitted, will be judged more for the ideas contained rather than for their literary style, which should be natural to the writer and of an easy, readable, informal character.

All the articles submitted in the contest must be received at the office of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, in New York City, on or before October 1, 1927. No articles received after that date will be eligible. They will be judged by a competent and impartial special committee appointed by the trustees of the foundation which will send the most meritorious articles, to a jury of award, whose decision will be final in the selection of the winners.

SENATE PASSES ON FROSH CAP CUSTOM

ter results will be forthcoming. In regard to enforcement, no change from the present method was made. While certain members felt that wearing should again be Goodnight emphasized that this made obligatory, Dean Scott H. would create a return of hazing, an evil which would undoubtedly result if sophomores were instructed to force freshmen to don their caps. Freshmen will merely be urged, as before to live up to the regular policy.

An erroneous report made last week that the freshman-sophomore bag rush has been definitely changed was corrected yesterday by the organization. The plan submitted by the Athletic board and approved by the two senate representatives, of having ropes tied to each of the 15 bags and holding a tug of war in place of the rough and tumble rush, will be considered by the senate at its next meeting. George Little will be asked by the senate to attend and to give his views on the suggested new class struggle.

During the coming summer, the senate will appoint certain members to revise and bring the Student Senate constitution up to date and to do away with any obsolete or ambiguous clauses which at the present time, are causing considerable trouble.

Jacob Mintz Held For Breaking Quarantine

Jacob Mintz, Sprague st., was charged in superior court today with breaking quarantine.

Dr. Alex M. Carr, city health officer, claimed that Mintz had per-mited a child infected with whooping cough to leave the home while it was under quarantine. Mr. Mintz, however, claimed that an error had been made and that the child that left the house had not been ill.

"We've had two deaths in Madison from whooping cough this year and we don't want any more," Dr. Carr told Judge S. B. Schein. Judge Schein held the case open in order to secure testimony.

A Chicago husband, shot by his wife, says he had been expecting it for 11 years. Sanguinity rewarded.

"For Sport and Otherwise"

"That's why I bought this two-piece dress at Kruse's today. Figured crepe is so summery and . . . a pleated skirt, too . . . fine for tennis, golf, and walking up the Hill.

"You never saw so many darling dresses . . . figured chiffons with pleated tiers . . . two-piece georgettes with embroidered eyelets in the blouse . . . a knockout three-piece black and white crepe suit. I almost got that, too. Never did I have such a time deciding.

"And any color you wanted . . . rose in degrade shades, pale pink that everyone is wearing . . . lots of blue, green, and yellows . . . darker colors, too, navy blue and black which are especially good this spring.
