1922 BADGER STARTS DRIVE AT 12 TODAY

Co-eds on Toes for 5,000
Sale—Books Sell for $4.50 Cash

Twelve strokes from Music hall tower today and the whirlwind campaign for the 1922 Badger is on.

Co-ed solicitors will receive their booklets of subscription blanks through their team captains and at high noon are free to launch their attacks on every fraternity, dormitory, rooming and boarding house.

The blanks will be ready for distribution by 11:50 at the Badger office in the Union building. Only captains are asked to report in order that the distribution may be carried out with the most expedition and thus enable the teams to start on time and on an equal basis.

An entirely new system of payment has been instituted by the business department for this year's campaign. The annual may be paid for at once, at a cost of $4.50 or a deposit of $1 made and a balance of $4.00 paid upon delivery. If the first method is taken advantage of students will pay only 25 cents more than they did for the book last year. It is thought that a large portion of the sales will be made in this manner due to the convenience and saving.

Returns are expected to come in rapidly when the army of campaigners gets its sales talk in working order and charges upon the prospective purchaser with blanks and pencils. Circulation officials figure that the greatest number of sales will be reported within the first few hours of solicitation.

Rules for the contest have been laid down by the drive managers, and presented to the participants who voted on and accepted them. They are as follows:

1. Campaign will start at 12 o'clock, Tuesday noon, October 5, at which time the blanks will be issued to the contestants.
2. Contest closes at midnight Friday, October 15, after which time no subscriptions will be received to apply on contest.
3. Subscriptions to be turned in daily between 3:30 and 5:30 at the Badger office, Union building. All blanks turned in to be accompanied by cash or check. No charge subscriptions accepted. Make checks payable to 1922 Badger.
4. The 1922 Badger reserves the right to call in all unfilled books at any time.
5. No organization will be given credit for other organizations' work.
6. Each organization will be held responsible for all books and money in their possession.
7. No subscription blanks are to be turned over to men for the purpose of securing subscriptions.
8. Contestants cannot receive verbal or written promises for subscriptions before the campaign opens.
9. Any violation of these rules will disqualify the contestants.

ALL FRESHMAN WOMEN TO MEET

S. G. A. Calls Compulsory Meeting of Newcomers at Lathrop Hall

Nearly 1,000 freshmen and new upperclasswomen will crowd the concert room of Lathrop hall at a compulsory meeting to be held tonight at 7 o'clock. Attendance will be taken by getting the names of all present and checking them up with the complete list in the Dean's office. The names of those who do not come will be sent to the Dean of women.

Each girl is requested by the S. G. A. committee in charge to bring 25 cents for class dues and to have her name and classification written on a piece of paper which will be collected at the door. Freshmen are also to bring pencil and paper and 5 cents for green buttons.

The principal purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the new girls with the various opportunities in activities offered by the university. Nomination of officers for Green Button will be made at this time.

The program will open with the singing of Varsity. Next will come short talks by Dean F. Louise Nardin and Mrs. Dorothy B. Mendenhall. The different activities will be introduced by representatives, and the girls will be given cards to fill out and indicate what lines of work appeal to them. Activities include the Self-Government association,

ENGINEERS PUT ON MINSTREL SHOW AS HOMECOMING EVENT

Date of Slide-Rulers' Entertainment Shifted From St. Patrick's Day

Under the direction of Foster Strong, general chairman, plans are rapidly developing for the production of the first Engineers' Minstrels since the spring of 1916. In old times the Minstrel was a recognized varsity event, coming each second year on St. Patrick's Day. This year, however, it was thought best to change the date, and so the two performances will be given in the university gym November 12 and 13, as a part of the 1920 Homecoming.

The show is to be an old fashioned minstrel, patterned after the best in the footlight world. Disguised under layers of burnt cork and clothed in darktown's gaudiest, sixty sons of St. Patrick will swell the gym with coonland's sweetest and jazziest melodies. Jokes and novel specialty acts will be interspersed to spice the program. The final act and climax will consist in a white-face comic opera.

Exhaustive effort has been spent by the committee in charge to secure the very best possible material for the production. Latest song hits not only of New York, but also of Paris and Copenhagen will be featured. Professionals have been secured to train the soloists and the chorus in the catchiest steps of terpsichorean art.

NOTICE
A mass meeting of all engineering students for the purpose of discussing the Minstrel will be held today at 11:30 a. m., in the Engineering auditorium. All Technical classes will be dismissed at that time.

FIRST SECRET GRID PRACTICE HELD BY COACH

Richards Orders Spectators to Grandstand—Grills Men for Next Game

Coach John R. Richards held his first secret football practice of the season yesterday afternoon and from now on, their occurrence will probably be more frequent in order to shield the progress of the team from the eyes of possible conference scouts.

Representatives from other institutions have already made their appearance, have watched the team in action and quietly departed with a few ideas in their head. The presence of "Chic" Harley of Ohio state, where he is now assisting on the coaching staff, caused not a little comment among the spectators in the grand stand where he was sitting during the Lawrence game.

As soon as the entire squad had reported on the field yesterday afternoon the spectators were ordered from the side lines to the grand stand. The coach then talked to the men on various phases of the Lawrence game, pointing out the errors and giving instructions on how to overcome them. Scrimmage followed the talk after the first and second teams had warmed up with a little signal practice.

Michigan Aggies Next

Practice this week and next will be carried on in preparation for the final contest of the preliminary season with the Michigan Aggies next Saturday and the first conference game with Northwestern in two weeks.

The schedule this year calls for three periods of training, the first of which ends with Northwestern, the second will consist in getting ready for Ohio state and Minnesota and the third in preparation for Illinois and Chicago.

The Michigan Aggies should not give the Badgers a great deal of worry. They have not shown up very well in their first games, losing to Kalamazoo, the team which was beaten by Notre Dame by a score of 39 to 0. Saturday, however, the Michigan team defeated Albion 16 to 0.

Purple Not So Strong

Uorthwestern is not credited with an unusually strong team. The Purple huskies won over Knox last year 14 to 0, but their real test will come next Saturday when they go up against Minnesota at Evanston. If McDeavitt's men succeed in holding the Gophers it will mean a hard fight for Wisconsin in two weeks.

After the game with the Methodists the hard work of the season will have just begun. From then on the Badgers will buck up against four teams in the "Big Ten," which are considered as among the strongest in the race for the title.

To meet these teams properly will mean a different method of attack in each game, for the strong and weak points of each squad will be different. In order to prevent an opponent from meeting foreseen Badger plays demands that a change of tactics be made from time to time. It means hard work and many grueling scrimmages.

Did you ever stop to consider just how many cows become widows every time this col goes to press?

"THETA equals anything," said Benny Snow in one of his lectures, and everybody but a few girls scattered through the room agreed.

FAIR play! Perhaps the rush wasn't run that way but we are glad to announce that there still is hope for Wisconsin. Dan O'Neil bought a shine for his lady fair after stepping on her feet all evening at a dance.

THAT? Concentrated awfulness, dear love.

Swim! Swam! Sunk!

Dear Ed—

I took my swimming test yesterday. How am I? Well the Doc says I'll be out in 18 months—if the bones set properly. Yes, I set the world's record—for endurance, anyway. I swam around the pool using the famous stroke of the Australian Widgets, but somebody towed me out by the back of the neck. The instructor said he thought I was drowning. But he was so pleased he asked me to go it all over again as it looked just like the famous picture, "A Storm at Sea," that he had seen last week. By this time I couldn't see, my right side was paralyzed, and my heart action had stopped, but otherwise I was all right. Then they sent three men down in diver's suits to see that I didn't walk on the bottom, but I camouflaged my feet as water lilies, and got away with it. Just as I was ready to give up the instructor cried, "All in!" I was all in all right, but when he told me that NOW I could go ahead with the test—well the Milky Way looks like a Moke in a Moke in a Dark Alley compared with the Constellations I saw. But I am doing nicely, thank you, and have developed a beautiful set of scales.

I. SPY.

WE'VE another good one but we save it for tomorrow.

THINKS FOOD TOO HIGH

Editor of The Cardinal:

The editorial entitled "The next investigation" contains the statement, "They (the students) realize that food prices the country over are coming down, and yet their meal checks show no decreases." In order to make this statement complete may I add, ".....Their meal checks show no decrease, but instead an outrageous increase."

The fact that prices remain unchanged in the face of decreasing cost of staples is bad enough. But behold the spectacle of rising prices on almost all dishes comprising the menu. The affair leads to a very interesting conclusion, viz., either the owners of cafeterias last year were philanthropists, or the present owners are playing a "get-rich-quick" game.

To give the above contentions added weight, I have compiled a few statistics on this interesting subject of prices. They have been gleaned from the most frequented cafeterias in this district and are the prices prevalent during the last few weeks. Some of the prices have been lowered within the last days, but in very few instances.

Market Price

Potatoes—25 per cent decrease.

Ham—15 per cent decrease.

Pork roast—No change.

Ice cream—25 per cent increase.

Apple sauce—decrease.

Pie—decrease.

Sugar—80 per cent decrease.

Lard—30 per cent decrease.

Flour—15 per cent increase.

Price Charged by Cafeterias

Potatoes—30 per cent increase.

Ham—35 per cent increase.

Pork roast—50 per cent increase.

Ice cream—60 per cent increase.

Apple sauce—80 per cent increase.

Pie—20 per cent increase.

The increase and decrease is based on the difference in price between the fall of 1919, and the fall of 1920.

From the above table it can be seen that most commodities have decreased in price even as high as 80 per cent. Ice cream, while it costs 25 per cent more to the cafeterias, advanced 60 per cent on the menu.

If there are any excuses for the present seemingly excessive prices, I am sure that the student body would be glad to consider them. Surely the cost of operating a cafeteria has not increased so much in a year to warrant such an increase in prices as enumerated above.

UPHOLDS MILD HAZING

I was surprised to note the attitude of Mr. Wright, '21, in his recent communication to the Cardinal. I believe that the great majority of upperclassmen realize that the milder type of hazing now in vogue is entertaining to the school in general, and beneficial to the frosh. Even Mr. Wright was sufficiently interested to follow a hazing party around and to witness this "obvious bullying." Doubtless he did this to study the philosophical truths that might be gleaned from the occasion.

I take it as a premise that a normal man appreciates most the thing that he suffers most to get. A frosh who goes through the customary course in etiquette learns to appreciate the traditions of the school, and to value his later position as an upperclassman. The old-timers will admit that there is less school spirit now than there was a few years hence. The abolishment of hazing I take to be the chief cause. The dear frosh are still exposed to the inclement weather in the region of the ankles by the bullies of the school, but I haven't noticed any of them dying off.

Suppose hazing IS "kid-stuff"? What of it? I don't feel that even a senior has outgrown a liking for some of the less artificial amusement. And if you are superior to natural fun, why, have a heart and let the children play!

GUN AND BLADE HOLD ELECTION

Officers Chosen for Coming Year at First Meeting of Season

A large turnout and the old time army pep characterized the first regular meeting of Gun and Blade—the Federal board students' organization. At this meeting the following officers were elected:

Edison M. Boerke, president; Rene Pinto, vice-president; Maynard W. Brown, secretary; Robert Thomas, treasurer; Herman Dusterhoff, sergeant-at-arms; Adrian H. Scolten, publicity; E. H. Myrlan, social chairman.

As a token of appreciation for the untiring efforts in the interests of the disabled men, M. H. Tiege and Dean Phillips were elected honorary members by unanimous vote of all the Federal Board men present.

Through the efforts of E. M. Boerke the Federal Board students have secured a library of two hundred volumes of fiction and general reading matter, and to this in a few days will be added a number of newspapers and magazines.

Gun and Blade possesses considerable dramatic talent, and plans were made to give a play some time this winter, under the general direction of Professor O'Neil.

E. H. Myrlan, chairman of the social committee reviewed the social activities of last year, and promised a varied social program for the coming school year. In this will be included banquets, smokers, picnics, and a pool tournament.

SEE RECORD YEAR FOR COUNTRY "MAG"

The Country "Mag" is to have a record year if subscription lists are indicative. An extensive "sub" campaign is on and captains of the teams are Marie Metz, Hike Murray, B. W. Allen, and H. L. Edwards. Members of the team securing the most subscriptions are to be given free tickets to the Home-coming game. Already a large number of subscriptions have been secured.

BADGER NOW DIRECTS INDIANA PRESS SCHOOL

Prof. Norman J. Radder, Sheboygan, recent graduate of the Course in Journalism of the University of Wisconsin, has just become the new head of the journalism department of Indiana university, during the absence of Prof. J. W. Piercy.

Before that time, he was in charge of the journalism department of the press service of the University of Arkansas. He has also worked on the Kansas City Star, on the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and on the copy desk of the New York Times. He has contributed many articles to magazines and trade publications.

28 WOMEN ENROLL IN LIBRARY SCHOOL

Twenty-eight women who are preparing to be librarians have registered in the Library school at the University of Wisconsin this fall. Although this number is about the average, it is smaller than last year's total of 35.

Eleven of the women are from Wisconsin towns, 3 are from Minnesota, 3 from Indiana, 4 from Illinois, 2 from Michigan, one each from Iowa, New York, North Dakota, Kansas and Norway.

Miss M. E. Hazeltine, preceptor of the Library school, has returned to the school from a leave of absence during the last year.

CALIFORNIA REGISTERS 9,444

Prof. Starch, who was born in La Crosse, Wis., in 1883, was graduated from Morning-side college, Iowa, in 1903, did graduate work at the University of Iowa, and later at Harvard, and has been teaching psychology at the University of Wisconsin since 1908. He has written books both on psychology and on advertising. Among his associates at Harvard will be Durward E. Burchell and J. G. Calian, both recently of the University of Wisconsin.

POLITICS

HERE was a fair attendance of students at the gym Saturday night when former Senator Beveridge made an address on the issues of the presidential campaign. However, the great majority of the audience was made up of Madison residents. The meeting was poorly advertised and this fact probably accounts for the small number of students present. It would be regrettable if apathy were the cause.

No student alive to his responsibility as a future leader of public opinion can afford to ignore the present political campaign which outweighs every other one in importance since 1860. Never were the issues more far-reaching. On the outcome may hinge the careers of every student in the university. The choices to be made, either one way or the other, will give rise to problems which we, the on-coming leaders, must see through.

The student cannot excuse his indifference on the ground that the personality of none of the candidates appeals to him. This year the issues loom up as all-important and personalities are secondary. If the race were merely between Cox, Harding, Debs, and Christensen, the student might be pardoned for not caring who wins. But in a mighty struggle of principles and policies which will determine the direction of our national history for decades to come the student must take his stand on one side or the other.

There is some talk of bringing more speakers of national repute to Madison to set forth the viewpoints of the parties seeking the support of the people. They should be brought by all means. When they come they should be given earnest attention by the students.

Lastly, every student who is eligible should vote four weeks from today. It will be the first national election in which the co-eds will rub elbows with the men in the polling places. The country never needed their counsel more than today.

WISCONSIN SPIRIT IN BRONZE

A TRADITION cannot be established overnight. The accumulated force of years is required before the student body acquires the habit of observance which a tradition should be accorded.

Perhaps the statement that freshmen and sophomores must not sit on Lincoln Terrace will surprise some members of the classes. Such a ruling was incorporated in the body of university traditions by last year's Student senate. The laxness of its observance proves that time must operate as an agency in its establishment.

The Lincoln Terrace should be the most sacred spot on the campus. The highest idealism of Wisconsin is there expressed in concrete form.

But the cadence of campus life, to drop into the vernacular of the military, exceeds 120. On the double, mentally if not otherwise, students hurry by with rarely more than a glance at the noble statue and its impressive setting.

Perhaps the Lincoln Terrace is too recent an addition to the campus to be adequately appreciated. Perhaps several years must pass before the subconscious impressions of each day can deepen into a conscious admiration and reverence.

The true spirit of Wisconsin hovers around the spot. One is reminded of the mediaeval cities in which the cathedral bordered on the market place. The center of men's spiritual life was thus placed within sight of their daily toil. Trudging to their daily tasks these mediaeval workers gazed on the cathedral and imbibed something of the spirit which it embodied.

At Wisconsin our cathedral is the statue to our great president. His rugged, homely features testify to strength of soul which students gazing daily will build into their own characters. The noble utterance carved in the encircling stone epitomizes his fearless idealism; every thoughtful reading implants a fresh desire to rise to Lincoln's standards of life.

The statue personifies the Wisconsin spirit of democracy. It incarnates the worthy ambition to make the most of university opportunities. The Lincoln Terrace should therefore be reverenced as the shrine of the finest ideals of Wisconsin. Every student should gaze and reflect and dream, and let the atmosphere of the noble place saturate his inmost being.

the Young Women's Christian association, Women's Athletic association, two literary societies, dramatics, music, the Equal Suffrage league, publications, Euthenics club, and the Women's Commerce club. After the talks on activities, freshmen nominations will be made, and the meeting will close with more mass singing which will be led by Reba Hayden.

A new plan is being tried this year in the matter of Green Button nominations. S. G. A. officers have appointed a nominating committee of five freshmen who will select two names for each of the four offices of Green Button. A third nominee for each office will be chosen by a ballot of all freshmen at the meeting. Only one ballot will be taken, and but one name written on each ballot. The girl who gets the most will be the third nominee for president; the one who has the second highest number of votes will be the third nominee for vice-president, etc. Elections will be held the latter part of the week.

The nominating committee consists of Katherine O'Shea, Gerelda Alton, Janet Cummings, Frances Wright, and Elizabeth Ossius. Marjorie Severance, last year president of Green Button, will act as chairman of the committee, and will also preside at the meeting in the Lathrop concert room tonight. A meeting of the nominating committee will be held at noon today in the S. G. A. office at Lathrop. Committee members have asked that any names under consideration for Button offices be handed to them at this time.

"Lit" Workers Invade Campus in Dash for Subscriptions

The big campaign of the Wisconsin Literary Magazine started with a rush yesterday when more than 200 workers opened their five day drive for subscriptions among the student body. All of the workers are meeting with unusual success, according to Horace Powell, the circulation manager, and the captains turned in splendid reports for the first day of the drive. The Kappa Delta girls in charge of the table at Bascom hall, and the Alpha Chi Omega workers in the Biology building were kept especially busy all day long filling out subscription blanks. Unusual interest is being shown in the Anniversary number which will appear in the near future. Those wishing information concerning the drive may call the circulation manager at Badger 7675.

CALLS MEN FOR DISTANCE WORK

Prospects Look Gloomy as Small Squad Works Out With Capt. Brothers

With only one veteran from last year's championship cross country team available for the varsity team this fall, Coach George Bresnahan is facing one of the gloomiest outlooks for a successful season that has confronted a Badger coach for several years. Captain Wellington Brothers, "W" man and star of last year's team, is working out daily with the smallest squad of candidates which has ever reported to try out for the cross country team.

Dayton is Ineligible

The bright hopes which were entertained last spring for a championship team this fall were blasted last week when it was learned that Dayton, Ramsay and Gumbar would not be available for the team. The former has had three years of participation in conference athletics and therefore is ineligible this fall. Ramsay is not in the university and Gumbar is in scholastic difficulty.

In anticipation of having nearly all of last year's team back, an exceptionally stiff schedule has been arranged and the new men will have to exert themselves to the utmost in order to come through successfully.

Season Opens Oct. 30

The first race of the 1920 season will be held here on October 30 against Chicago and the midway runners can be expected to give the Badgers some real competition. The following week the team will oppose Minnesota at Minneapolis, which will be the hardest race of the season. The cross country schedule will terminate on November 20 at the Conference meet in Urbana. Nearly every college in the middle west will compete for honors at this event.

Coach Bresnahan is desirous of getting out more candidates for the team and in an interview yesterday said:

"With the record that Wisconsin cross country teams have made by winning the championship in seven out of thirteen years, it is hoped that the sport will not tumble this year just because several of the stars have been lost. New men should come out to fill up the gaps and I shall be glad to give every opportunity for new candidates to make good."

THREE PROFESSORS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

All university men have been invited to the houses of Professors Daniel Mead, 120 W. Gorham, Leonard Smith, 939 University ave., and E. A. Gilmore, 143 Prospect ave., next Saturday evening at 7:30. These invitations mark the first faculty "open houses" where students get together and also meet members of the faculty, and are expected to draw a large number of men.

The "open houses" are in part due to the work of the Junior Council of the Y. M. C. A., which is working in this way to get the men acquainted with each other and with some of the faculty. The Council, under Harlin Loomer, is arranging a regular schedule of these entertainments, and hopes to extend personal invitations to the men for the later open houses. Although the lack of any directory prevents this at present, it is hoped that the men will come freely of their own accord after only the general invitation.

The programs will be under the direction of the Council men, and the refreshments will be served by the men themselves. The three houses to be opened next Saturday are in three different parts of the student quarter, and the men are expected to go to the house nearest to their own rooms. All between the university and the Square will be taken care of by Professor Mead, south of the university by Professor Smith, and west and southwest by Professor Gilmore.

DR. MILLS PRAISES CONCERT PROGRAM

condition should not prevail at Wisconsin."

Dr. Mills was particularly complimentary to the students for having taken the initiative in bringing in their first year, a series of concerts of such high order. He urged the music loving public of the city and campus to back the project whole-heartedly in order that it might presage similar events in succeeding seasons.

Dr. Mills said, "The artists engaged for the first series at Wisconsin represent the best in the concert world of today.

"May Peterson—a fine singer, with most attractive personality—has the added appeal of being a Wisconsin girl.

"Fritz Kreisler—one of the greatest violinists, and if we were to be guided by violin players' opinion—the greatest of them all."

"Benno Moiseiwitsch—a worthy companion of the other two—is a new star in the piano world. All reports seem to indicate that he is the successor of Paderewski, Busoni, Hoffmann, and the other great pianists. He has rapidly come to the front, and is the great drawing card of the present time in the concert world."

The future of the Union Board concerts rests on the backing which the students give them. Season tickets for the three concerts are being sold at Hook Bros. Music store and on the campus. The price is $3 and $4 for the series. On the campus they are being sold under direction of Elizabeth Chandler by the following girls: Marguerite Croskey, Harriet Bartlett, Esther Haven, Winifred Titus, and Lydia Lacey.

Union Board has placed this series of concerts under the direction of William B. Florea. The first concert will be given by May Peterson, October 22, in the university gymnasium.

SOPHS WIN

Peanuts and Ear Puffs Figure in Co-eds' Scramble

There was no "jumping of guns" or ten yard handicaps in the rush held in the parlors of Chadbourne on the evening of the historic Frosh-Sophomore rush. Long before 7:15, the time set for the great fray, shouts and cheering filled the corridors of the hall. Attired in various costumes, the frosh and sophomores of the hall lined up on either side of the row of bags.

At the signal, there was a grand rush, a scramble, and much scrapping to obtain the bags, which being filled with peanuts were desirable for more than one reason. Whatever the real rush lacked in spirit, there was no lack of "pep" and good-natured rivalry in this miniature one. When time was called, it was found that the sophs had gained the victory. Cheering and yelling ensued from the rival sides, and all hastily consumed whatever peanuts they had obtained.

The only disaster which occurred was the terrible loss by one of the girls of her cherished ear puff. Although the article was found and advertised, no one stepped forth to claim the missing hair ornament.

JUNIOR STOCK EXPO WILL BE RECORD EVENT

Plans Completed by Committee for Show Here

Oct. 18-22

All plans to make a record event of the Wisconsin Junior Live Stock exposition which will be held at the university, October 18-22, under the auspices of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, have been completed, according to Walter L. Houser, president of the association.

"Wisconsin stockmen, in promoting this show," he says, "are putting into the hands of boys and girls for solution problems which challenge their ability and add untold resources in their training and skill. Agriculture," he goes on, "including animal husbandry and all expressions of the soil, is an occupation that dignifies those who follow it, and this is the means by which we interest the youth of Wisconsin in it."

Mr. Houser and the other members of the committee in charge of the exposition are putting forth every effort to make the coming show a record breaker.

A number of innovations in the line of recreation and entertainment for the exhibitors have been added to the program. Professor George C. Humphrey, chairman of the entertainment committee, reports that a daily conference for singing, business and announcements will be held every morning at 8:30 and that every exhibitor will be called upon to attend these gatherings regularly. In the program of these meetings will be included short talks by veteran Wisconsin stockmen. In the afternoon, after the judging has been concluded, trips will be made about Madison.

More than 300 boys and girls have entered a total of 640 calves, lambs, pigs and colts. The exhibitors hail from 75 towns in 28 different counties. Approximately 87 baby beefeves have entered, 230 calves, 70 lambs, 200 pigs and 10 colts.

"It will be a show of extraordinary merit and will rank high among the major events of the year in the live stock world," says Andrew W. Hopkins, secretary of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association. Visitors from all parts of the state have already signified their intention of attending and it is the wish of the committee that everyone interested in junior live stock and junior stockmen and stockwomen will feel that they are cordially invited to view the exhibits.

The committee in general charge of the exposition consists of the officers of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, and appointees from each county in the state.

TWO BADGERS WILL ENTER GOLF MEET

At a meeting of all people interested in golf held yesterday it was decided that Wisconsin would enter two men in the conference meet to be held at Chicago on October 22 and 23.

About 35 men turned out for the meeting and the organization of a University Golf association was decided upon. The following officers were elected:

President—George A. Bauman. Vice-President—Alfred M. Rogers. Secretary—Roy C. Gotfredson.

The above men, and Earl S. The above men, Earl S. Hirshheimer, and Colman E. Clague, will act as the executive committee of the organization. The main difficulty that has to be overcome is the matter of a course to play on. It is hoped that in the near future there will be such a thing as a university golf course.

Two men will represent Wisconsin at the meet, but how to decide among the 35 men just who will be the representatives of Wisconsin has not been determined as yet. It is hoped that the Madison course can be used for elimination and moulding of a good team.

There will be another meeting in the gym at 12:45 p. m. Wednesday.

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA TO BAKE OWN BREAD

From 1,200 to 1,500 loaves of bread a day, not counting rolls, pies, cakes and all kinds of pastry, are to be turned out by the new bakery now under construction at the University of Iowa. The bakery will supply all the hospitals, Currier hall dormitory for women, and the Quadrangle dormitory for men. Most of the bread and pastries used in the past have been purchased.

The brick building which will house the bakery is being constructed at the rear of new office and store rooms occupied on Clinton street across from the campus for the first time this year. Electric ovens and modern appliances of every sort will be installed in the bakery. The cost of the building and equipment is expected to be about $15,000.

MANY NEW COLLEGE HEADS

New heads of universities and colleges this academic year are Frederick C. Hicks, University of Cincinnati; William W. Henderson, Brigham Young college; John E. Cousens, Tufts college; H. M. Gage, Coe college; Harry W. Chase, University of North Carolina; and F. W. Hixson, Allegheny college.

ANGELS ARE SOLE RIVALS OF SALVI

When Frederick Donaghey said of Alberto Salvi's work at the harp, "Only in Heaven shall I hear better playing," he successfully characterized Salvi's effect upon his audience. He did what few artists have done in Madison. He so completely captivated his listeners that they refused to go until he had added many encores to his already taxing program. Salvi is at his best in pianissimo passages. It is in them that he creates the effect of a brief glampse into heaven. When he says heavy climaxes he fails, for the simple reason that the harp cannot produce orchestral effects.

His program included among many other things some of his own arrangements and compositions among which the "Rustle of Spring" was most delightful. His reading of the Rachmaninoff Prelude was not successful because it was not the type of composition playable upon a harp. Nevertheless he profoundly impresses his hearers with his virtuosity and style. It is a style permeated with his native fire, rhythmic swing and diverse tone effects. These three qualities go far in making him known as the "wizard of the harp."

CHINESE STUDENTS MEET

The western section met at the University of California, the mid-western section at the University of Michigan, and the eastern at Princeton. ### AT THE ORPHEUM

What is perhaps the most pleasing sketch that has been at the Orpheum this season headlines the bill for the first half of the week. "The Magic Glasses" is a rhymed playlet with a finished artistry that is unique on Madison vaudeville stage.

There is no plot. The charm of the whole act relies on the singing lines and the cast's interpretation. Grace Gordon as the girl who is forced to choose between wealth and discontent and poverty and happiness and who goes to the oculist who gives her glasses to see into the future is pleasing. The poor husband, a little amateurish, is well adapted to his role. The lighting and staging are effective.

The Melody Garden with its six talented girl musicians would take second honors. The girls play saxophones, cornets, violins, and French horns.

The Ja Da Trio, three peppy jacks, get across strong with their snappy songs and jazzy steps.

Monroe Lockwood and Felix Rush as the two old rustics draw a lot of laughs with their comic patter, but they'd be appreciated more if they put the soft pedal on a couple of their attempts. Lockwood sings well and Rush is a clever yodler.

Marie Sabbott and George Brooks have a pleasing song and dance act. Marie is a girl that is more than there on the looks and she is not short on pep.

Mang and Snyder open the bill with some difficult athletic feats.

AT THE STRAND

Dorothy Dalton has the role of a New England heroine who forces a man to marry her at the point of a revolver in "Guilty of Love," her new Paramount Arclight picture, which is showing at the Strand theater for the last times today. It was adapted from Avery Hopwood's stage play, "This Woman—This Man." Harley Knoles directed and Edward Langford is the leading man. Charles Lane and Augusta Anderson are included in the cast. The story is declared to be one of intense heart appeal, as well as packed with exciting drama.

There will also be shown the latest Larry Semon comedy "The Stage Hand," and the pictures of the University Class Rush.

The World and His Wife

"The World and His Wife," with Alma Rubens and Montague Love, will open a four day engagement at the Strand theater Wednesday. As added attractions a comedy cartoon and the latest news weekly will also be shown.

phenomenon that is declared to have electrified blase audiences of the East, Marshall Neilan's latest production "Go And Get It," at the Grand theater.

"Go And Get It" is a newspaper story in which an energetic team of reporters unearth a mystery of startling nature. Back of the entire mystery plot is the pertinent question of the day: Is the substitution of new human organs practicable so far as the prolongation of life is concerned?

The audience will be mystified and thrilled by the unusual events that line the path of the reporter who is told to "Go And Get It."

The entire plot of "Go And Get It" is based on this scientific phenomenon although the story is a most truthful picture of a newspaper reporter's work.

The title is taken from a quartet of words that strike home in heart of every newspaper man—"Go And Get it."

MISS MARLATT TALKS AT VESPER SERVICES

"Campus ideals should be the highest, because students are here as a privileged group which ought to give back to the groups that sent them here, the ideals of courage, faith, hope, and solidarity," said Miss Abbie Marlatt, head of the home economics department, and president of the advisory board of the Y. W. C. A., in her talk on "Playing the Game," at the Vesper service held Sunday afternoon at Lathrop hall.

Miss Marlatt defined playing the game as playing fair with one's own soul. This means playing the game in such a manner that our neighbor may not stumble on our account, and acting so that the world may be a better place for our probation here.

"Playing the game does not only include an observance of the golden rule, it means not only giving him what you would like, but what he wants. This involves an insight into the needs and personalities of

BADGER ECONOMIST SPEAKS AT OTTOWA

Prof. Doit D. Lescobier, of the department of political economy and Americanization at the University of Wisconsin, read a paper on "The Marketing of Labor" at the eighth annual meeting of the American Association of Public Employment Offices which was held at Ottawa, Canada, last week. He was also chairman of the conference on harvest laboring problems.

During the summer, Professor Lescobier has been conducting special investigations on the subject of labor for the United States department of agriculture. He went from Oklahoma to North Dakota supervising a squad of men and interviewing laborers and employers on problems which are being met in the laboring fields.

The principal discussions at the Canadian meeting were on the mobilization and distribution of labor in the American and Canadian wheat fields.

DR. MILLS PRAISES STUDENT PLAN FOR UNION BOARD CONCERT SEASON

DR. C. H. MILLS
Director of the School of Music

That Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music of the university is enthusiastic about the Union board musical concerts which will be given in the university gymnasium this season, was brought out in a recent interview in which he said, "This is the first time in the history of Wisconsin that the students have attended any such series, although students at Michigan and Illinois have done so for a long time, and last year Minnesota made a successful first attempt."

"In each of these places the concert is one of the chief events of the year, and there is a greater demand for tickets than can be supplied. There is no reason why a similar

After several years' research, Dr. F. M. Wood of Chicago has succeeded in giving the farmer a new method of doubling production on the same acreage and with the same labor as used by the old method. The doctor is producing a liquid fertilizer from cultures obtained from the nodules of leguminous plants. When applied to the soil this compound, which is extremely cheap, produces nitrates. They thus supply food for the plant, which greatly increases production.

CHICKEN WALK GOES AS CEMENT PATHS APPEAR ON SHORT CUTS

Chicken-Walk terrors are fortunately a thing of the past. No more clinging to frail railings in zero weather, while some person of too generous proportions squeezes past on the memorable icy wooden steps back of the P. P. E. building where the fierce gale sweeps past carrying away even hair-nets, to say nothing of precious notes needed at an eight o'clock!

A fine, wide, cement walk, made especially rough to accommodate at slippery times the mincing steps of French heeled young ladies, takes the place of the treacherous boards that descended at an angle of 45, and dropped half the bobbing crowd into a pit on one side and raised the other half gradually to the heights of Bascom on the other.

Students will save three and one-half minutes every time they dash down Mills street for classes on the hill, because a most convenient short cut has been provided on the north side of the biology building.

There has also been a disappearance of the exasperating "please" signs at the northeast end of the Lathrop hall, signs that used to greet the ravenous at noon when they felt in anything but an accommodating frame of mind, warning the conscientious of their duty or acting as an obstruction for bold men and unfeeling women who did walk on the "blades" of grass (when there were blades) or waded ankle-deep through mud to be a little less distant from the tail-end of Lathrop's line. Those few blocks of cement are probably more used than any other bit of concrete on the campus.

To avoid congestion, men are now at work on an 8-foot walk leading from the hill down to University avenue past the biology building. The little path rounding the corner of the latter will remain a path until the contemplated addition is built.

RICE WILL GIVE READING TONIGHT

"Pleasant Valley," a rural comedy filled with rollicking fun, will be read at 8 o'clock this evening at 165 Bascom hall by Phidelah Rice, of the faculty of the Leland Powers dramatic school of Boston, one of the largest dramatic schools in the country. This is the first attraction to be brought to the university by the forensic board this year.

This play, which was written by Edwin E. Kidder, was selected from Mr. Rice's extensive repertoire because it is humorous and because it is the one upon which his reputation has been mostly built up; he has given the reading at most of the large colleges and universities in the east. "I heard Mr. Rice read this play at Dartmouth college before an audience of more than 1,000 men," said Prof. J. M. O'Neil of the Public Speaking department yesterday. "The performance was very well received, and Mr. Rice was recalled to the platform several times by the applause."
