

The daily cardinal. Vol. XXXIX, No. 12 October 6, 1929

Madison, Wisconsin: University of Wisconsin, October 6, 1929

<https://digital.library.wisc.edu/1711.dl/YSX6ORO7MD6K38E>

<http://rightsstatements.org/vocab/InC/1.0/>

The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

The Daily Cardinal

"Complete Campus Coverage"

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 12

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1929

PRICE 5 CENTS

Colgate Falls Before Badgers, 13 to 6

Ideas on Penal Outbreaks Put Forth by Gillin

Believes Underground Information Channels Cause of Recent Mutinies

"Underground" information spread throughout the prisons in the country may be responsible for the recent outbreak of prison mutinies, in the opinion of Prof. J. L. Gillin of the sociology department.

Professor Gillin has been active in reform measures in the prisons, and has devoted years of research to the problems of criminology.

Believes Prisons Overcrowded

"It is practically impossible to block communications between prisoners and the outside world, even when mail is censored. Men who are discharged can always carry messages out with them, and men coming in can always bring answers," he stated.

Tremendous overcrowding of institutions, is at the root of the trouble, he believes. There is consequently not enough work to keep the prisoners busy. The crowds of prisoners in institutions at the present time, with plenty of time to think about themselves and plan methods of escape, make for an ominous situation.

Approves Wisconsin Prisons

"Add to this condition a crooked, unfair guard and there is a dangerous situation," Prof. Gillin stated emphatically. "Moreover the psychological feeling stirred up by these recent outbreaks may lead toward further riots. In Wisconsin, the prisons are in comparatively good shape and outbreaks here are possible but not probable."

"The pledge of Pres. Hoover promising an improvement in prison facilities soon has been given. When the present conditions are relieved, we shall have fewer prison riots," he concluded.

Fathers' Day Invitations Sent

Oct. 26 Date for Function; Extensive Program Planned

More than 7,000 invitations have been mailed to the fathers of the students of the university, asking them to attend the Father's day functions on Oct. 26, according to Bob Hurd '30, a member of the committee.

Acceptances of the invitations should be in the hands of the committee by Oct. 19 so that permits to purchase seats in the special father's section in the stadium may be secured from the bureau of graduate records, 321 Memorial Union in ample time. Students will be informed by postcard of the receipt by the Father's day chairman of their father's acceptances.

Fathers, Sons Only Admitted

Tickets in the special section will be issued only for fathers and their sons and daughters in the university. Tickets for the Father's banquet, to which only fathers and faculty men are invited and for the play to be given in Bascom theater, and room lists, may be procured by the students at 321 Memorial Union.

On this occasion a special effort is being made to entertain the fathers of students. The university will be host to the mothers on the annual Mothers' week-end next spring.

Special rates, from Friday until Monday inclusive, will be available from all railroad stations in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, northern Michigan, and southern Minnesota.

Give Complete Program

The program for Father's day is as follows:

- 2 p. m. The stadium: Football game, Iowa vs. Wisconsin.
- 5-6 p. m. Memorial Union: The President's reception for fathers and families.
- 6-8 p. m. Memorial Union: Father-Faculty dinner.
- 8:30 p. m. Bascom theater: University theater production.

Education's Trend Toward Simplicity, Says Pres. Frank

"The next step in education will be in the direction of simplicity and informality," Pres. Glenn Frank declares in an article in today's Milwaukee Sentinel, in which he quotes frequently from his speech at Varsity Welcome, Sept. 27.

"The problem supreme in modern education is to keep organization, formalization, and institutionalization the servant rather than the master of learning," he affirms.

Amplifying his statement in the speech that Jesus would have difficulty in getting an $1,800 instructorship in a modern university, Pres. Frank avers that "there is no education like self-education, whether the scene of learning be a Palestinian hillside or a palatial library or laboratory, and that the primary job of the teacher is to be a guide in the learning process, not a mere merchant of information.

"What a man learns in college will not get him far," Pres. Frank says, explaining the difficulty of corraling a curriculum adapted to needs of all students and the rapid change and growth of knowledge.

"Today there are a thousand ways of learning information that are less expensive and more efficient than going to college. The main business of schools is to help men achieve the temper and the technique of an explorer," Pres. Frank avers in other paragraphs of the article.

Engineers Seek Suggestions in Organizing Local Glider Club

Dr. Ruthven New President of University of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven was elected president of the University of Michigan by the university board of regents Friday. He will succeed Dr. Clarence C. Little, who resigned last year. The eight regents were unanimous in their choice of Dr. Ruthven, who has been dean of administration for the past year.

John Brown Takes Title Role in Play

John Brown '31 will play the role of "Kempy" in the comedy of that name to be presented by the Wisconsin players on October 25 and 26.

Other members in the cast include Mercedes Jelsma '30, Junior Lane, Helen Berg '30, Roselyn Silver '31, Gilbert Williams '30, and Gordon Swarthout '31.

The play is one which was chosen particularly to please the dads. It is a small town comedy. The plot centers around Kempy James, a bashful plumber who is married by the artistically ambitious daughter in a fit of pique. The circumstances arising from this marriage color the play with a rare humor. The comedy is a rich character study, and offers opportunity for clever acting.

Rehearsals will start immediately. The first performance will be given Friday night, October 25 at 8 p. m. in Bascom theater.

Entire University Faculty to Meet Monday at 4:30

The first meeting of the entire University of Wisconsin faculty will take place Monday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. Committee reports and discussion of new business will constitute the order of the meeting.

Fraternity Pledges Number 304, in Incomplete Returns

With incomplete figures from 30 of the Wisconsin Greek letter fraternities, 304 freshmen had pledged groups under the new deferred rushing system. Under the new rules, pledging began Friday night.

It was impossible to reach many of the fraternities last night with the result that the figures do not indicate all the men pledged.

Rushing began Tuesday noon, Oct. 1, under the new rushing rules laid down by the interfraternity council this year. From now on, rushing and pledging of freshmen is allowed at any time.

The men pledged by the various fraternities are as follows:

Alpha Chi Rho—William Rafter, Neenah; John O'Connor, Milwaukee; Kenneth Garry, Oak Park, Ill.; John Nitchie, Milwaukee; Willard Klemme, Kenosha; Ray Meyer, Manitowoc; Robert Johns, La Crosse; Roger Stevens, Walter Knoening, Milwaukee;

Charles Collins, Kenosha; re-pledged—Ralph Lemmer, Spooner; Henry Justisen, Chicago, Ill.

Alpha Delta Phi: David Davies, Racine; Herbert Keith, Racine; Eugene Powers, Winnetka; Robert Hertel, Winnetka; Phillip Bennett, Rockford, Ill.; George Evans, Baraboo; John Lee, Oak Park, Ill.; Fred Hovey, Oak Park, Ill.; Robert Morley, Nashotah.

Alpha Gamma Rho: Howard Gattesell, Paul Ames, and Frank Ammon, Madison.

Alpha Kappa Lambda—Raymond McCreary, Beloit; Donovan Morton, Reedsburg; Arthur Anderson, John Drow, and Elmer McMurray, Madison.

Alpha Tau Omega—Mortimer Madig, Salt Lake City, Utah; Edward Elliott, Long Island, N. Y.; Fred Doern, Milwaukee; Grant Lewis, Robert Dickenson, Edgerton; Blaire Morse, Chicago, Ill.; George Glover, Wil-

(Continued on Page 2)

Eastern Grid Jinx Broken in Victory

Cuisinier Gives Opinions on Badgers' Win Over Colgate

By BO CUISINIER

(1928 All-Conference Quarter-back; Varsity Backfield Coach) (Written for The Daily Cardinal)

Before telling about some of the things that happened at Camp Randall yesterday, I wish to state that this is not a story derived from a confidential report for the coaching staff. These are merely my own interpretations of the contest told in my own crude way.

I saw Wisconsin play a good game of football but I left the field with one thought uppermost in my mind: the modern game no longer requires that frenzied outburst of so-called superhuman effort, but calls for a steady constant drive which results only from cool, determined, and intelligent fighting.

For the first few minutes, the Badgers were back on their heels and consequently watched Colgate run through a snappy signal drill which resulted in a touchdown. Those six points did not impress me so much as the thought that there would be many more following if Wisconsin decided to fold up right then and there. In my opinion, the scoring of that touchdown was the best thing that

(Continued on Page 12)

Local Rho Chi Admits Eight New Members

Eight new members have been admitted to the Wisconsin Eta of Rho Chi, honorary pharmaceutical society, it was announced Saturday.

Those admitted to membership are: Gladys Bauer '30, Milwaukee; Ralph Fendig, Rensselaer, Ind.; Robert Gunderson '30, Madison; Ruben Krohn '31, Sullivan; Paul Schermerhorn '30, Madison; Carl Wulff, Grafton; Samuel Chechik, grad., Madison; Harold Popp '31, Hutchinson, Minn.

The announcement followed an entertainment given in the Memorial Union by Rho Chi to the students and faculty of the pharmaceutical department.

Three Telephones to Serve Cardinal Editorial Offices

Three telephones now serve The Daily Cardinal editorial offices on the third floor of the Memorial Union.

The telephone to the news editor, executive editor, and chief editorial writer is Badger 250. A second telephone line, Badger 4414 connects directly with the news room.

The third telephone installed this week, Badger 1545, is for use in calling the sports, society, and magazine departments.

At night, all calls should be directed on Badger 250 which also has a connection in the editorial rooms of the Cardinal publishing plant in the basement of the University Y. M. C. A.

Geology Group Has Special Train for Cross Plains Trip

A special train took the students of the Geology 1 class for an all day field trip to Cross Plains Saturday where they were divided into four groups under the leadership of their instructors. All students were required to take notes from which they will later write a theme. The next all day field trip will be held in two weeks if weather permits.

Ideal Conditions Prevail as 30,000 See One of Best Badger Games

By BILL McILRATH

Wisconsin's record of never having defeated an Eastern football foe on the local gridiron was erased from the books Saturday afternoon, when the Badgers whipped a powerful and stubborn Colgate eleven, 13 to 6.

A crowd of nearly 30,000 watched one of the best games ever played in

"B" TEAM WINS 33-0

The Wisconsin "B" team was victorious in its first game of the season, downing the Stevens Point Teachers 33-0 in the preliminary to the Colgate game Saturday afternoon. Details will be found on the sports page.

Camp Randall, as a dry field and cool, clear weather made the conditions almost ideal.

Colgate Rated High

All through the East, the Colgate eleven was a long favorite to win the game, and for the first few minutes of the contest, it looked like the toothpaste boys would certainly romp off with an easy win.

Three consecutive first downs, made in long strides, gave Colgate a touchdown before three minutes had elapsed, but following this performance, both teams were on nearly equal terms, and the rest of the game was a real intersectional battle. Gantenbein and Behr scored for Wisconsin in the third and fourth periods.

Badgers Are Outplayed

The Badgers were considerably outplayed in the first half of the game, as Colgate made 102 yards from scrimmage, as in contrast to 46 for Wisconsin. The second half of the game brought a turn of affairs, however, and in this period the Badgers exactly doubled the scrimmage gains of the Colgate machine, getting 204 yards.

The Rebholz brothers, Russ and Hal, and Sammy Behr, Rockford quarter, were the individual highlights for Wisconsin in victory. Hart, Colgate quarter, and Dowler, right half, were Wisconsin big worries on both offense and defense.

Rebholz Smashes Line

H. Rebholz, fullback, smashed his way through the line for a total of

(Continued on Page 12)

15,500 Guests See Cards Win

Athletic Association Host to State High School Groups

Over 15,500 high school boys and girls were guests of the University of Wisconsin Athletic association at the Colgate-Wisconsin football game Saturday afternoon, making the event a "kid day."

Delegations from high schools all over the state, accompanied by their principals, numbered 10,000. Most of them were members of high school football squads.

The number of Boy Scouts was estimated at 3,000, and of Girl Reserves, at 2,500. Many Camp Fire girls were in the crowd. Under the leadership of Harold V. Pace, assistant state Scout executive, a program was conducted by the Boy Scouts on the lower campus before the game.

The Scouts assembled there at 12 m. and competed in flag racing at 12:02 p. m. The Scout oath was given at 12:25, and lunch followed.

The Scouts entered the football stadium at 1 p. m., parading in formation to Camp Randall.

All Daily Cardinal reporters are required to be present at a meeting in the editorial office Monday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. Candidates for the staff should be present.

NEWS EDITOR

Pledge Lists Are Compiled

Fraternities Enroll 304 in First Year Under Deferred
Rushing

(Continued from Page 1)
mette; Robert Kraeger, Pekin, Ill.;
Bud Julien, Milwaukee.

Alpha Sigma Phi—Francis Buell,
Sun Prairie; Marlin Jordan, Robert
Jackson, Madison; Walter Smith, Portland, Ore.; Carleton Boulay, Fond du Lac; Emil Pagel and Herman Vetter, Stevens Point; Henry Hardt, Maywood, Ill.; Richard Kade, Sheboygan.

Beta Theta Pi—Arnold Duffield,
Watertown, N. Y.; Robert Johnston,
Wauwatosa; George Haire, Port
Dodge, Ia.; Harry Pike, Portage; William Joyce, Chicago, Ill.; Philipp
Reese, Dodgeville, David Rittenhouse,
Pontiac, Ill.; Milo Wilson, Grand Forks, N. D.; Robert Davis, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Augustine Pyre, Madison; Joseph Fiedler, Mineral Point;
Henry Wilcox, Seyman, Mich.

Chi Phi—Harrison Roddick, Platteville; Joseph Klinger, Elgin, Ill.; Allen Thompson, Richland Center;
Kenneth Brown, Kenosha; William
Kachel, Shorewood; James Cowan, Kenosha; Kendall Clark, La Grange.

Delta Chi—John Byers, Chicago, Ill.; Irving Gordon, Stevens Point;
Ed Alstad, Milwaukee; Fred Herman,
Chicago, Ill.; George Riley, Athens;
Roy Wagner, Hartford, Conn.; James
Allan, St. Louis, Mo.; Gordon Fortney, Viroqua; Donald Chamberlin, Green Bay; Edwin Brey, Manitowoc;
Ethan Philip, Chicago.

Delta Kappa Epsilon—George Redick,
Omaha, Neb.; George Vetter, Kansas City, Mo.; Larry Chambers, Milwaukee; Herman Strasberger, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; William Baling, Des Moines, Ia.; Larry Wright, Detroit, Mich.; Ted Buerck, Louisville, Ky.; Tom Bar-deen, Madison; Fred Peters, LaCrosse; repledged—Vernon Jones, Hoplin, Mo.;
Carl Bateman, Elgin, Ill.; William Powers, Madison.

Delta Sigma Pi—Robert Erickson,
Madison; Lloyd Bierbauer and Wilbur
Wieland, Wausau; Harold Elton, Madison; Everett Evanson, Stetsonville; William Bennett, Bub Bennett, and Francis Bennett, St. Louis, Mo.; Theodore Grebe, Waupun; and Norman Schuette, Sheboygan.

Delta Theta Sigma—George Staneck,
Two Rivers; Theodore Ahlgren, Frederick; Charles Herman, Packwaukee; Julius Moy, Mondovi; Joseph Pierre,
Belmont, Ark.; Henry Nieman, Fish Creek; and Leslie Gandloch, Livingston.

Kappa Sigma—Claude Lynais, John
Ross, Whitefish Bay; Bret Bennett,
Winnetka; Loren Bohannon, Shorewood;
Frank Benson, Spooner; Potter Hutchinson, Charles Robertson, Charlottesville, Va.; Marvin Stean, Bowling Green, O.; Ebert Earl, Chester Inman, Oak Park, Ill.; William Harley, Milwaukee.

Phi Delta Theta—John H. Forgraves,
Robert Kleene, Seth W. Gordon, John Terras, and Kimball Johnston, Evanston, Ill.; Chester Hitchcock, and Ned Neustadt, Milwaukee; Manuel Giffin, Rochester, Minn.; Whitley Austin, Emporia, Kans.; Meredith Jelsma, Des Moines, Ia.; William Newman, and William P. Dusenberry, Chicago, Ill.

Phi Epsilon Pi—Marshall Steifel,
Memphis, Tenn.; Herbert Menasfa,
Las Cruces, N. M.; Mel Caplin, St.
Louis, Mo.; Leo Finsky, Lake Geneva;
Herbert Marcus, Gary, Ind.; Hi Kanes,
Chicago, Ill.

Phi Gamma Delta—Robert Adair,
Senia, O.; Richard Jensen, Menasha;
Jenkins Jones, Tulsa, Okla.; Andy
Sundene, Chicago, Ill.; Judd Little,
Madison; Buell Quain, Bismarck; Milton Gasber, Enid, Okla.; Marshall
Chapman and Wally Davis, Madison;
Vincent Garvey, Chicago, Ill.; Bud
Wenban, Williamette, Ill.; John Sinclair, Winter Park, Fla.; Fred Williams, Salt Lake City, Utah; Gene Weary, Racine; Norman Greening, Kenosha; Fred Maytag, Jr., Newton, Ia.

Phi Kappa—C. Hahn, Cedar Rapids,
Ia.; Roger Knake, Washburn, Robert
Docery, South Milwaukee; Claude
Willibe, Milwaukee; Richard Carroll,
Racine; Marvin Stricker, Middleton;
Charles Novotny, Madison.

Phi Kappa Psi—Ralph Wetstein,
Milwaukee; Paul Kelly, Clinton, Ia.;
John Van Slyke, Maywood; Russell
Luce, Madison; Edward Cole, Madison; Jack Blakeslee, Cleveland, O.;
Joe MacBriar, Oconomowoc; Joe

Bricker, Willis Giddings, Chicago, Ill.; Charles Jahr, Elkhorn; John Vary, Elgin, Ill.; Len Miller, Madison; Roland Ramsay, Honolulu; Jessie Bradley, Duluth, Minn.

Phi Kappa Tau—Robert Morse and Mark Shiel, Madison; Fred Hewes, Beloit; Ray Shebaste, Manitowoc;
Claude Musolf, Fond du Lac; Alden
Anderson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Frank Horton, Janesville.

Psi Upsilon—Robert Fringer, Rockford, Ill.; Robert Leffingwell, Chicago, Ill.; Clayton Ewing, Merrill; John
Green, Milwaukee; Philip A. Taylor,
San Francisco, Cal.; William Pollock,
Philadelphia, Pa.; Roy E. Knauer,
Chicago, Ill.; George A. Whiting, Jr.,
Neenah; Frederick Swanson, Des Moines, Ia.; Warren Lucar, Madison;
John Gillett, Madison; Harold Cool-ey, Wheaton, Ill.; Eliot Wolcott, Milwaukee; and Walter Normington, Stevens Point.

Pi Kappa Alpha—Douglas Wood,
Herbert Roth, Donald Sharp, Orrin Brunner, Philip Hansen, Thomas Instrup, Martin Fouts, Arthur Cuisinier, Walter Anderson, Wilfred Burgess, Philip Fromm, Thomas Shimaitis and Paul Boots.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Earl Angeving, Frank Biersoch, James Dunbar, Evanston, Ill.; Fred Hirsch, Kenneth Itschner, Carl Kurtenacher, Madison;
John McGuire, Madison; Roland
Metz, Madison; Ray Persbocher, Robert Ritchie, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Fred
Wiperman, New Orleans, La.; Louis
Schweiger, Jefferson; Robert Wright.

Sigma Chi—Donald McKenna and Tod Jessell, Madison; William Booth,
James McGuinn, and John Wohlen-hofer, Chicago; Charles Wooley, Miami, Fla.; Edward Kinsley, Elgin, Ill.;
James Driessen, Marion; DeLonge
Quentin and George Young, Milwaukee; Dave Klausmeyer, Cincinnati, O.; Gilley Strand, Eau Claire; Junior Rahr and Paul Fisher, Watertown; William Comee, Green Bay.

Sigma Phi Sigma—James Harwood, Zion, Ill.; Ray Rlenks, William Pfleger, and Albert Johannsen, Milwaukee.
Sigma Pi—Burt Kiewig, Robert
Royle, Ralph Watson, John Conway,
Sam Davies, Edward Carey, William Kesmodel, and Gibson Moudry.

Sigma Phi Epsilon—William Lea,
Chippewa Falls; E. Julian Rockman,
Barron; Richard Evans, Rockford, Ill.; Robert Eichorst, Milwaukee;
Philip Moe, Black River Falls; George
Unlier, Chicago, Ill.

Theta Chi—Malcolm Paul, Grant
Grebel, Howard Hoge, Norbert Mc-
Greance, Sherman Bond, Andreas
Reuhl, Francis Parson, Edward Rupp,
Robert McGean, and John Graetz.

Theta Chi—Al Law, Sidney Stair,
Broadhead; Charles Widemeyer, John
Ermenace, Tom Henley, Oak Park, Ill.;
William Martins and Gordon Lowe,
Milwaukee; Kit Carson and H. Tisdale, Chicago, Ill.; William Walton, Clinton Griswold, West Dallas; Leslie Bierbaum, Roy Dulac, Henry Eiser, Chicago, Ill.; repledged—Maurice Mc-
Clantham, Rockford, Ill.; Thomas
Mills, Chippewa Falls; Edward Owens, Milwaukee; Sylvester Driesell, Slinger; Al Medved, Milwaukee; Ted Chi-melinska, Chicago, Ill.

Tau Kappa Epsilon—Myron Cock-ing, Milwaukee; Circhart Strain, Marvin, Ill.; Harvey Raskowski, Madison;

Male Glee Club Roll Completed

Tryouts Finished Saturday; 40
Will Begin Rehearsals
Immediately

The Men's Glee club membership is now complete, following the tryouts held in Music hall Saturday morning and the men will immediately begin definite rehearsing for the season's programs.

The club has already met four times, but always with vacancies in the first and second tenor parts. Prof. E. E.
Swinney, director of the organization, filled these vacancies Saturday, and the 40 members will hold rehearsals on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday noons.

Robinson Named Accompanist
The accompanist this year will be
William Robinson '31. Arthur R.
Kreutz '30 will play the violin obligatoes at all the programs. A complete list of the members of the Glee club, including both old and new follows:

First tenor, Harold Bishop '30, Homer Byrge '31, Merlin Benninger '30,
Einer Daniels, Louis Friedland '32,
Adrien McGrath '31, Arthur O'Neill
'30, Clark Radebaugh '32, Robert
Wright '32.

Second Tenors
Second tenor: Martin Berg '32,
Donald Fernholz, George Johnson, grad., Alfred Mortimer '32, Fenton
Muehl '31, Verner O'Neill '31, Lester
Patterson '31, Robert B. Smith '32,
Roy Tulane '32, Leslie Young '31.
Baritone: Stephen Brown '32, John
Dixon '30, Ernest Haugen '32, Stanley
Jennings '32, Bertel Leonardson '31,
Roland Molzahn '30, Leonard Nelson
'31, Theodore Paulin '31, Robert Schmidtell '31, Tom Steine, Kenneth Westby grad., president.
Bass: Jack Brown '31, Bryant Buckingham, John Drow '31, Harry Luer
'32, William Lumpkin '31, Harold
Popp '31, Donald Robertson '30, Fred
Van Schlichten, Gilbert Wahlberg '32,
William Young '32.

WOMEN! ATTENTION!
Any woman interested in working on the Y. W. C. A. Christmas bazaar, or the Lathrop candy table project, is invited to a meeting of the ways and means department, Monday at 12:45 p. m., in the Windsor room of Lathrop hall.

William Garrison, Baraboo; Merle
Scecles, Baraboo; Arthur Ridder, Gen-essee, Ill.; Malcolm McKenzie, Gen-essee, Ill.; Donald Wilkinson, Spring
Green; Munck Heinke, Kilbourn; Russell Stokes, Waterloo; Byrant Putney, Shorewood; George Krieger, Wisconsin Rapids; Robert Crabb, Racine.

Zeta Beta Tau—Sam Alshuler,
Charles Alshuler, James Lauer, Elmer Winter, Robert Mann, Herbert Abrahams, Bailey Ozer, William God-nick, and Dave Lebensohn.

Prof. Fish Will Address Minnesota Teachers on Fiction and Biography

That biography is eclipsing fiction in popularity partly because of the failure of the novel is one of the points which Professor Carl Russel Fish of the history department will bring up when he speaks at the Minnesota State Teachers' convention which will be held at Moorhead, Minn., and Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct.
17 and 18.

"Good gossip is good biography," Professor Fish maintains. "Just at present biography is the fashion, a fact for which the failure of the novel is partly responsible," he said. "The novel at the present time is divorced from reality and biography is taking its place for popular reading."

"Two strains are evident in the present trend of biographical writing.
One is the unwillingness to recognize greatness, a tendency to reduce great men of the past to the common level.
The other is the love for scandal."

Professor Fish will probably summarize the characteristics of a number of biographers in his addresses.
He will speak of Bradford, who, he thinks, did his best work in his Civil war portraits, because he was well versed in his subject.

Beveridge displays one of the best qualities of the amateur. He fails to do justice to contemporaries of his subject, and he speaks of Allen Novins as "a competent biographer using the scissors and paste method."

"Woodward," he says, "is a striking example of the democratic bias; like the small boy who can pull a watch to pieces without explaining what makes it go."

"Ludwig writes with intense earnestness and a tendency to over-simplify, using characters to express ideas."

AERONAUTICS UNINTERESTING
No future Lindbergs, no endurance flyers or no round the world flyers are in store for the University of Texas.
Not a single person is interested in the study of aviation, or in the operation of the heavier-than-air machines, it was disclosed after a class in aeronautics was introduced to the school for the first time this year with the result that no one registered for the course.

"VOGUE"

Again Royal Anticipates

and offers an entirely new type . . .
smart . . . modern . . . called
"vogue"

Stop in and try it yourself. See what a distinctive page you can write with it. If you like things different . . . unusual, away from the ordinary, it was made for you!

The Royal portable typewriter in various colors with any type you choose . . . complete with carrying case is $60. And, of course, you can arrange for monthly payments.

Brewington Typewriter Co.

533 State Street

Badger 222

Stepping Forth

. . . Are you getting ahead here at the university? . . . Do you feel that you have progressed since your freshman year? . . .
Or are you one of the hundreds who are still in the same discouraging old rut you started in? . . . Did you ever stop to think that YOUR APPEARANCE has a lot to do with your success? . . . Drop in our shop and get expert counsel on the matter of your dress.

"IT'S NEW WHEN WE'RE THRU"

$6 Credit for $5 Cash

10% Cash and Carry Discount

College Cleaners

526 State Street

Brown's Book Shop Guess The Score WINNERS

The first ten correct guesses registered on our consecutively numbered forms were as follows:

Guess No.	Name	Address	Prize
5—	Del Brout	203 N. Lake	$8 Wahl Pen
24—	Carl J. Zahn	1208 W. Johnson	$5 Wahl Pen
34—	Lee Mullen	801 W. Dayton	$3 Wahl Pen
97—	R. F. Morgan	601 S. Brearly	$1 in trade
120—	Theo. Bauer	407 State	$1 in trade
130—	Nathan Hovthein	315 N. Lake	$1 in trade
132—	R. Viereg	10 N. Broom	$1 in trade
138—	C. L. Masten	816 Oakland	$1 in trade
142—	Ralph Kuhlman	1110 Chandler	$1 in trade
154—	Jno. Whipple	619 W. Johnson	$1 in trade

WINNERS WILL PLEASE CALL FOR PRIZES.
BRING YOUR FEE CARD
Another contest next week
It's Free to All University Students

BROWN'S BOOK SHOP

BUS TRIP to the
NOTRE DAME GAME
Leave Madison Oct. 19—8 AM
FROM CAMPUS TO STADIUM
Call Koplowitz, 313 N. Frances
F-3563 after 8 PM

Sherman Talks on New Vitamin

Lecturer Reviews Recent Experiments at Lecture in Chemistry Building

Speaking before an exceptionally large attendance of the Wisconsin section of the American Chemical society, Prof. Sherman of Columbia university gave a lecture last evening on "Some Recent Advances in the Chemistry of Nutrition." The lecture re-sults of recent experiment in the field of vitamins and proteins, and their relation to the health of human beings.

Professor Sherman was introduced by Prof. W. E. Totttingham, who mentioned Prof. Sherman's work on texts, research, the vitamin field, and his especial success in bringing his material before the public.

Discussed Vitamins

Professor Sherman's lecture included vitamins A, B, C, D, and chiefly the newest discovery, vitamin G, which has been definitely determined to be a specific vitamin, formerly included in vitamin B.

The lecture was illustrated with slides of charts, the results of experiments on rats, and slides showing actual examples of the faulty composition of diets of children.

Compliments Wisconsin Faculty

In delivering the lecture, Prof. Sherman paid the faculty of the science colleges of the University of Wisconsin, the compliment of omitting part of his material because he said it could be gotten from among their colleagues to advantage.

A short discussion of the increased possibilities of a child's escaping infant mortality while there has been but little aid for those around 50 or 60 years of age, closed the lecture.

Lecture Bureau Plans Schedule of Engagements

With organizations in various parts of the state calling for lecturers, R. B. Duncan, chief of the bureau of lectures and short courses in the extension division, has completed the schedule of speakers.

Prof. F. A. Aust, associate professor of horticulture, will speak in Oconto on April 9 of next year. Miss Lelia Bascom of the English department will have the following engagements: Fond du Lac on Oct. 14, Wausau on Oct. 23, Manitowoc on Oct. 25 and Wausau on April 19, 1930.

Prof. R. J. Colbert, assistant professor of economics, will lecture in Milwaukee on Jan. 6. Mrs. N. K. Jones, state leader of home demonstration agents, will speak in Oshkosh on April 12, and Prof. J. L. Gillen of the sociology department will appear in Oshkosh on Oct. 26, and in Two Rivers on April 9, 1930.

Miss A. B. Ernst, associate professor of German, will speak in Wausau on Oct. 2, and in Milwaukee on Oct. 13. Prof. K. F. Wendt will fill an engagement at Portage on Nov. 18.

Teachers Discuss Work of Schools at Annual Meeting

The Northeastern convention of the Wisconsin teachers was held in Oshkosh Saturday. The main theme was development of character through public school education.

Dr. Mark A. May of Yale university spoke during the morning session on the status of character education in the United States.

Speakers on the different programs were: C. J. Anderson, director of the school of education, University of Wisconsin; Edgar G. Doydne, secretary of the normal school regents; Pres. Robert Dodge Baldwin of the Central State Teachers' college; Pres. Frank E. Baker, of the Milwaukee State Teachers' college; Dr. Carl Baker, Lawrence college; I. A. Ward, state supervisor of deaf, blind, and defective speech; and C. M. Yoder, commercial department, Whitewater.

MORTON TO ADDRESS CLUB

Prof. Walter Morton, of the university economics department, will address a meeting of the American Business club in the Loraine hotel Monday noon. The subject of his talk will be, "Is Chain Banking a Menace to the Small Business Man?" The professor will lead a discussion of the problem following his address.

Hosiery Repaired

Runs and Snags
Work Guaranteed

ALYCE HAHN

207 No. Mills B-6462

PARKWAY STARTING THURSDAY

Scene from "Gold Diggers of Broadway"—A Warner Bros Production

Baron Eberhart von Eberstein Studies American Farming Here

By LOUIS LOTSTEIN

"The methods of farming in Germany are perhaps not as good as those of the United States," said the Baron Eberhart von Eberstein, Saturday. "But this is because the conditions are a great deal different."

Coming to this country from the Munich university, the Baron has spent four weeks in studying agriculture. At the university he secured practically all his theory of agriculture and he goes on to say that though these theories are correct he will not be able to benefit by them because in his country he has to deal with different climate and soil.

Although fresh from Germany, the Baron speaks the English language in such a manner that it is at times, difficult to determine that he is a foreigner. Looking like a man of the ordinary social standing and even more modest, is how the Baron describes himself.

Perfectly familiar with out customs and habits, he claims to understand the Americans fairly well. When asked what he thought was the greatest fault of the Americans as a whole, he replied that we are too self-centered, and that in Germany the people think in terms of the continent as a whole.

On his arrival in New York he spent several days in looking over the city and then started for Chicago. To Herr von Eberstein Chicago appears to be more of a typical American city than does the larger metropolis. New York he calls the "melting pot" where all who come to this country must go first.

A few miles from Chicago the Baron found some farms whose methods he could study. Here the people did all they were able to do to be of any help to him in fulfilling his mission. San Francisco was next and after a short stay he departed by auto for Canada. After arriving in Madison five days ago, he had covered in the course of his traveling some 10,000 miles.

Before embarking on the trip, Herr von Eberstein was afraid that the propaganda against his native land would interfere with his work to a large extent. On the contrary, the German scholar has found the American people to be the most hospitable and the most willing to help any people in any part of the world.

The German method of teaching does not make it compulsory to attend classes, but one must pass a stiff examination in order to receive credit for the course. Our experimental course resembles their system to a great degree. The Baron expressed great delight on the seats we use in the class room. They are, in his opinion, very handy and can serve several different purposes.

Baron von Eberstein is at present studying for his degree of Doctor of Agriculture at Munich university. Besides having an interest in new methods of agriculture, the Baron confided to me that he is very much taken up with politics, but remarked that at present he didn't care to discuss any politics what-so-ever. He is sailing for home Oct. 26, and intends to come back to the United States soon.

Hoan Is Unable to Speak Here

Arrange Substitute Program for Disarmament Discussion Planned

Because Mayor Daniel Hoan, of Milwaukee, is unable to attend, the disarmament meeting planned for 10:30 a. m. today at the Unitarian church, Wisconsin and Dayton street, will be featured by speeches by university men, who were to take a subordinate part in the meeting.

Phillip La Follette, lecturer at law, will present a statement urging that a forward step in disarmament be taken at the coming Anglo-American conference at Washington. Signed by those in agreement with its message, the statement will be sent to Pres. Hoover.

Professor W. G. Rice, also of the law school, and Harold Groves, of the economics department, will discuss the advantages of world disarmament, expressing hope that the Washington conference may be successful.

Sponsored by the Rev. James J. Hart, pastor of the church, the meeting will be interspersed with music by Miss Margaret Snyder and Mrs. Helen Supernaw.

County Groups Convene Here

Program for Rural Dane County Is Main Issue

To determine a program for rural Dane county was the issue of the meeting of the Dane County Rural federation, which was held in the Loraine hotel Saturday.

Mrs. W. A. Hastings, president of the Madison Women's club, greeted the groups in the morning session. An outline of the services which the rural clubs could bring to the schools of Dane county was made by O. H. Pol-entsky, of the state department of education.

The president of the rural federation, S. H. Messerschmidt, presided at the morning session and outlined the hopes and plans of the club. Forty rural clubs, parent-teacher associations, mothers' clubs, and other rural groups compose the federation.

The program for the afternoon was, for the most part, speeches by Dane county rural leaders. Mrs. Wilbert Witte, vice president of the federation, outlined the requirements of a certified community club.

Frank Carpenter, De Forest, chairman of the major committees, offered new programs for the federation. Chester Wilcox, Madison, discussed the proposals of the committee on town and county relationships; Ralph E. Ammon, Madison, presented the plans of the home talent committee.

CLASSIFIED Advertising

FOR RENT

VERY desirable room, private entrance, seven minutes from campus, $16.00 month. 140 Breeze Terrace. F. 2653. 3x4

ATTRACTIVELY furnished living room, two bedrooms and bath apartment available for faculty members or graduate students. The Irving Badger 2711 for appointment. 6x3

ROOMS—Single or double. 625 Mendota Court. 6x3

FOR SALE

18 FOOT Old Town canoe. Bargain. Call F. 4236JX after 2 p. m. 3x6

1929 PONTIAC sport roadster, fully equipped. Low mileage. Must be sold at once. B. 6366. 1x6

HELP WANTED

ATTENTION Students—For self-supporting students desiring fascinating remunerative work either temporary or permanent, may I suggest that many students of both sexes have earned scholarships and cash sufficient to defray all college expenses representing national magazine publishers. If interested write or wire for details—M. A. Steele National Organizer, 5 Columbus Circle, New York, N. Y.

LOST

ELGIN wrist watch, white gold. 116 E. Gilman. B. 2078. 2x6

BROWN Collie, pup wearing tan leather collar with red lining. Please call Warren Drouet F. 2395. 3x4

ALPHA Gamma Delta pin. Jessie Loomans. Reward. B. 3147. 2x5

CONKLIN varicolored fountain pen, blue predominating, in Men's gym during registration. Name on gold band. Call F. 6752. 2x5

SERVICE

LIGHT delivery service.—F. 4514 R. 13x27

Keep Up Your Good Appearance

A well pressed suit is essential to the well dressed man. When you wear a suit that has been pressed in the modern way you will look and feel the part of a university man.

Modern Cleaners & Dyers

WE CALL AND DELIVER

$6 for $5
10% for Cash and Carry

1330 Regent Street

Badger 800

St. Nicholas Cafe

(Back of the Park Hotel)

STEAKS... CHOPS

. FISH .

Booths for parties of 3 or more

Phone Your Order

120 W. Main

Badger 922

The Daily Cardinal

"Complete Campus Coverage"

Founded April 4, 1892, as official daily newspaper of the University of Wisconsin, owned and controlled by the student body. Published every morning except Monday by The Daily Cardinal company. Printed by Cardinal Publishing company.

Entered as second class matter at the post-office, Madison, Wis.

SUBSCRIPTIONS—By carrier, $3 per year, $1.75 per semester. By mail, $350 per year, $2 per semester.

OFFICES—Business office, open 9-12, 1:30-5, B. 6066, and day Editorial office, B. 250, 3rd floor Memorial Union. Night editorial office, 740 Langdon street, B. 250. Publishing plant, G. W. Tanner, manager, 740 Langdon street, B. 1137.

BOARD OF CONTROL: David McNary, pres.; Harriette Beach, sec.; David Connolly, treas.; Sally Owen, William Fuller; William P. Steven, William E. Payne, ex-officio; faculty advisory board: Grant M. Hyde, chairman, Don R. Fellows, J. C. Gibson.

EDITORIAL STAFF

EXECUTIVE EDITOR—WILLIAM P. STEVEN
Managing Editor—David S. Morrison
Women's Editor—Margery Hayden

NEWS—Herbert Tschudy, editor; Assistant, William Pinkerton, Bernice Tweed, Kittle Mitchell, Adrianna Orlebecke, Cecil White; Special Writers, Margaret Joslyn, Roger Shelles, Marcia Todd, Samuel Steinman; Reporters, R. Murphy, D. Lakin, H. Wood, J. Weyenberg; General News, D. Crawford, A. Cannon, J. Roberts, A. Watson, H. Somers, R. Hichens, J. Johnson, C. Lockwood, M. McGee, M. Swafford, C. Gruber.

DESK—Editors: Freeman Butts, John Dorn, Edward Marsh, Lyman Moore, Casimir Scheer, Yasuo Abiko; Assistants: W. Reeve, R. Korsan, J. Michell, W. Bradford, J. Ruenitz, S. Stowe, R. Heyda, O. Wynn, D. Teschan.

EDITORIALS—E. P. Allen, chairman, F. L. Jochem, T. Jaffe; Skyrockets, Gordon Swarthout.

SPORTS—William McIlraith, editor; Assistants, Carlos Quirino, Bernice Horton, A. Goldin, M. Zenoff, H. Belzer, M. Rose.

SOCIETY—D. Joy Griesbach, editor; assistant, Frances McKay.

MAGAZINE—J. Gunnar Back, editor; books, William Fadiman; theatres, Robert Godley; assistants, Glee Durand, Julia Carr.

BUSINESS STAFF

BUSINESS MANAGER—WILLIAM E. PAYNE
Local Advertising Manager—Jerome Bernstein
National Advertising Manager—Fred Wagner
Collection Manager—George Wessendonk
Circulation Manager—Dan Riley
Promotion Manager—Jean Sontag
Circulations Assistants—Ruth Smith, Jesse Loomis
Advertising Assistants—William Tobin, David Zubatsky, Walley Wandrey, Hilton Simon.
Office Secretary—Myrtle Campbell

DESK EDITOR—EDWARD C. MARSH

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1929

Sabbath Meditations

Sheep and Goats

A FRATERNITY FRIEND communicates with us anent the quaint Wisconsin tradition sometimes known as rushing.

"Fraternity rushing," the communique goes, "is the season's outstanding time-consumer in the daily college whirl. All the frothy frat boys are gathering the frenzied frosh with a complimentary gas attack which precedes the button bombardment."

"The gullible greenies are being rushed at, rushed about, and sport-roadstered from picnic to party, from sales-sessions to State street chin-flickers."

"It is all as false as a pumpkin face, as artificial as the ice in a frigidaire . . . and, tragically, the most that the best of us do is admit the whole farce and then subscribe to the whole system."

"We are, you see, the sheep. The Freshmen are the goats."

A Wail and a Squawk

AS THE MEDITATOR views it, fraternity men are not alone among campus sheep, although they may be the blue-ribboners. On this sabbath morning we sense a spirit of defiance which urges us to cry out against the universal commercialism of the entire gauntlet of student activities.

Nor is this wail against George Levis' athletic department any more than it is a squawk about Bill Purnell's Haresfoot club—or, let us add, such supervised business giants as The Daily Cardinal and the Wisconsin Union concert series.

Whether it is to our liking or not, each of the "activities" named is bursting with plans for a bigger and better year, evaluating its success by its income, and its achievements by its popularity.

Judge and Be Judged

HOW FALSE THIS success appears when we evaluate critically those cheering multitudes, our sole criterion for success. Judge them and be judged. Give the mob what it desires. But do not be too critical of its passions and prejudices. Your success may become empty.

Out of this analysis of achievement, of campus laurel wreaths, there arises a clearly-defined issue. It is an issue which in its decision will alter the flux and flow of modern education. And this regardless of experimenting educators or orientating administrators.

That issue is, what part are activities going to assume in the modern academic scene?

How insecure would be the position of a Cardinal head were he to declare as his platform: "I do not care whether anyone buys the paper; I do not care who advertises in the paper; as long as the paper can maintain its intellectual integrity, possesses a consciousness of its own place and part, be a sort of meager post of service where it will not interfere with thinking processes and intellectual interests, then for me it will be a success"? Why ask? The answer is self-evident.

Why They Come to College

IF THIS IS THE outlet, then it would be perfectly legitimate and relevant and logical to demand that the football team refuse to play intercollegiate games simply to alleviate the distracting features which add chaos to an already unreal autumn confusion of artificial enthusiasm. This is what faces the Cardinal, or Bill Purnell, or the Union Board. In the answer that individuals make to this problem lies an explanation of why that individual came to college.

If the conception of a college as a place sheltered from the world of bustle and buzz where the student may follow a scholastic path to learning is to prevail, then activities must play a minor role. There is no still small voice heard in the midst of rattling typewriters or shouting coaches.

If college, on the other hand, is to be a reflection of life in the world of bustle and buzz, then a good brief is available for activities. We learn from action far more quickly than from books, and but few activities on the campus possess less reality than courses or classes. It is remotely possible, too, that such behaviour will teach men and women a sort of knowledge nowhere else obtainable.

The casting of activities in our drama here depends on which viewpoint we take of the college's purpose. If one holds that the scene should reflect the world, then it would be all to the good to have bigger and better Haresfoot, so that scenery painters will become bigger and better craftsmen. Or possibly a bigger and better Union concert series, so that the manager must yearly be a bigger and better executive.

But a single casting director, we believe, cannot determine the part activities should play. There should be, and this is quite in keeping with the contemporary political trend, a board. On this board should sit both the activity hounds and the academic grinds.

Why Not Testimonials?

EXPANSION, CONTRACTION, status quo—which shall it be? Our destinies singly and collectively hang in the balance. On the one side we have the faculty, accused by activities of hampering every creative activity on the campus with every conceivable type of eligibility rule. On the other side we have the activities, accused by the faculty of attempting to circumvent the rule and rote of the eligibility game. Shall the rules be more stringent—should the activities be more free?

There can be no final, no ex-cathedra answer to this question. But there should be, the Meditator believes, expression of as many viewpoints as possible. Personal testimony would be a valuable contribution. The one-mindedness of bleating sheep must be as strenuously avoided as the cynicism of the goat-like Baa-a-a-a.

Activities are the Problem—is Eligibility the Key?

A Real College Novel?

THE COLLEGE HUMOR contest for novels written by recent graduates on their real life in college, ends on the first of next month. In a month or so after that we shall see the novel which has been chosen to represent real college life—and what will it be like?

If it is like every other college, or so-called college, book that we have chanced to read, it will be full of beautiful misrepresentations that the public like to read and in reading think they are getting the lowdown on higher education. And if this new novel from the pen of an aspiring but untried novelist is to sell, it will not, and cannot be representative of true college life.

Because college is not replete with romance, glamour, and sustained hell raising. Romance in college is really—a minimum of twenty-five dates a year with all and sundry, catch as catch can, and make the best of everything. And it's costly and worth a lot of worry. There may be a few lovers, but the sensible person marries for money and position—maybe. Glamour in college is absorbed in heartbreaking trivialities that worry, stun, and kill the soul. Hell raising is confined to week-end flirtations by the few with beer, pretzels, rubbing alcohol and Mission Orange. (Not advt.) The others fill up on soda pop, double-rich malted milks and then go out necking. Only the last generation know now what a real hangover and a big head are.

Studies take more time than college books indicate; social functions are fewer and not as elegant; professors are not prototype, some are real men, some are scholars, some are gents, some are just sorry ditch diggers out of a job. The school hero is rarely an intelligent man. The number of visibly intelligent people is small, and as a rule they are too busy to roam about the campus.

You will not want to, but you will admit it: In real college there is a constant feeling of something undone, of excuses to be made, of some ogre about to descend upon one.

And now, if this new novel is really representative of college as we know it will have much of the following told very quietly: good and bad professors, small class rooms, good people, sneak thieves, intrigue and dirty politics, too many clubs and organizations, too few things worthy of interest, groups for melting out individuality, financial care, flunking marks, wet feet, colds on the head et al. And the hero in the real story will some night sit on the beach of the lake where he will cry his heart out to the moon, because he doesn't know what to think about everything. And the moon, being a wise woman, will woo him for the time by throwing silver bullion over the top of the lake which, catching in the waves, is broken up into silver chips before it runs up to shore and into the sand.

We want so much for this new novel to be a real college novel, and we hope that College Humor knows enough about college now that it can choose a novel which is complete without the garbage that the necessary but dumb public goes for. And we will be the first to proclaim it.—Daily Northwestern.

The World's Window

E. F. A.

GASTONIA AND MECKLENBURG counties of North Carolina have been writing bloody pages in the economic history of the "new" South. The chapter is by no means closed. Briefly summarized the situation stands as follows:

1. The killing of Chief of Police Aderholt of Gastonia; 13 men and three women charged with the murder; first trial broke down when one of the jurors went violently insane under the pressure of the proceedings; new trial began Monday in Charlotte, jury now being selected, with Judge M. V. Barnhill presiding; Judge Barnhill presided during the first trial.

2. The killing of Ella May Wiggins, mother of five, who before she went on strike was receiving $9 for a 64-hour week; seven men are held, on the absurdly small bail of $1,000 each, on charge of manslaughter while an investigation is being made; little indication of immediate trial, if any.

3. The flogging of Ben Wells, organizer for the National Textile Workers union, communist fostered organization backing strikers in Gastonia area; out of 14 men arrested for this offense, seven have been bound over to the Superior court for trial; date for trial not yet set.

4. The flogging of Cleo Tesneair, also an organizer for the National Textile Workers union; although four investigations were started, no arrests have been made; prospects for detecting floggers small.

This skeleton summary of the legal aspects has the fault of all summaries—it is extremely sketchy. The situation in the textile industry is shot through with modern white slavery. The Communists are running wild with an over-abundance of dynamite, the American industrial scene never before giving them such a supply of fodder for their fires of rebellion. The New York World has been moved to say, "Here is the material at hand for another Sacco-Vanzetti case."

BACK OF THIS RED scene of murder and flogging there rises the "awakening" South. The South which within the past few years has been stealing the advertising trickery of California and Florida. The South which has spread its appeal to Northern industry in terms of "cheap labor." The South which was shattered by reverberating kuzzahs of Republican prosperity promoters. The South which has returned to slavery and has been found out.

The new slavery in the textile mills of Tennessee and the Carolinas is sometimes known as the speed-up and stretch-out system. A committee of investigation appointed by the South Carolina house of representatives characterizes it as "putting more work on the employees than they can do." In its report this committee indicated that the strikes were not caused by labor unions and were "in no sense a rebellion against improved textile machinery, for the stretch-out system is not brought into play by the introduction of any improved textile machinery. In the stretch-out system it is the employee who does the stretching. To illustrate, in a card room in one mill, five sections were employed at $23 per man per week. This force was cut to four men and the pay also cut to $17.25 per week. Still later this force was reduced to three and the pay was raised to $20.23 per man per week."

Wages average from $8 to $10 a week for women and girls. Men with families, usually the spinners and washers, average $12 a week. The 12-hour day is common throughout the mills. North Carolina still has the fourth-grade clause which invalidates the Child Labor law for children between 14 and 16. Remedial labor legislation proposals in 11 of the southern states have always been the battle-cry for powerful lobbyists—and remedial labor legislation perishes in the fray.

COMMUNIST WORKERS have brought down on their fevered brows the criticism of many liberal spokesmen who are fighting on labor's side in the Carolinas. Joseph Shaplen in the Sept. 15 number of The Survey objects that the Communist party, The Daily Worker, and the International Labor defense are likely by their propaganda to prejudice the case of the Gastonia strikers. Mr. Shaplen believes that there is no evidence that the Gastonia trial will repeat the Sacco-Vanzetti outrage, that the case can be won on its own merits. Others are more vehement in their charges, intimating that the Communist party would rather make victims of the Gastonia strikers, if it would strengthen the party's hold on the workers.

The liberals, on the other hand, are far from receiving praise from the Communists. "Their role is to try to aid the class they serve maintain the illusion of the impartiality of capitalistic justice and its whole retinue of prostituted judges, prosecuting attorneys, perjured witnesses, and bought-and-paid-for juries, and the nproceed to weep crocodile tears about the 'break-down of justice as that sniveling preacher, Norman Thomas, did in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti," shouts The Daily Worker at The New Republic and The Nation.

In the meantime, North Carolina mill barons are in a huddle with Gov. O. Max Gardner to see what can be done about anti-Communism laws.

"When I was the governor of my own state, if I appointed any man to office who did not vote for me, he was a liar because he said he did."—Senator Blease, South Carolina.

There must have been a boot-legger in charge of the Phi Psi rushing this year. All rushing was done behind locked doors which were opened a bare 10 inches and with much caution when the door bell was rung.

Fill up the glasses, boys! The family cars have gone! Pledges no longer are "mister," But Bill, and Joe, and John.

Is there any man so low or contemptible as the chap who is afraid to look convention straight in the eye and shout, "I would like to see the name of Peeping Tom changed to Peeping Joel!"

"Ever hear about the angry pocket knife?"

"No, someone make a cutting remark about it?"

"Naw! I'll-tempered steel!"

If all the cut classes and missed quizzes of this past week were laid end to end they would look strangely like a large body of newly pledged freshmen.

The Theta Xi's have a Tower That looms up far and Wide, But the tower hasn't as many Stories As some of the boys inside!

It appears that RKO is attempting to tame some of the jokes in its vaudeville acts. Most of them are pretty raw even if they are well done.

"I see they had Camels on the table last night." "My word, what prodigious strength your table must have!"

Which sounds like the Dental association convention at which a number of the delegates had old golds in their mouth. But that is rather a filling subject to take up and we were just teasing you. Still, it's quite a toothsome morsel.

I knew a girl who was a daisy, I went with a girl called Rose, But since both were slightly wilted The two of them I jilted, And as a result go cut flowers, I suppose.

WHEN DAD WAS A KID "Is 'Ginger a nice dog?" "No, Ginger snaps."

That's similar to the boy who had all sorts of dough and didn't knead it.

The last thing we'd ever do would be to commit suicide.

The Strand advertised a midnite show at 11:30 p. m.

I simply adore peanuts, Shall I tell you why? Well, me father was a kernel And I'm just a nut, his b'y.

An aged man tottered across the room and addressed the chairman in a thin quavering voice. "Sir," he said, "I am three score and ten, and alone in the world. My friends have all deserted me, yet I would like to see the name of Peeping Tom changed to Peeping Joel!"

Thank you, IRV

Enroll 30 Pupils for Unique Music Aptitude Course

Thirty students have enrolled in a unique music course in tests and measurements which is being given this semester by T. L. Torgerson, lecturer in education. It aims to teach public school music major students how to determine a pupil's aptitude for music, and to measure his progress.

Few similar courses have ever been offered in this country, according to authorities at the school of music. Through study of this subject, it is expected that prospective teachers will learn to give examinations and to ask questions in such a way as to absolutely measure the ability and later the progress of any high or grammar school music student.

The course is open only to seniors and graduates in public school music. It meets three times a week at 3:30 p. m. in 32 Music hall.

Drama League Holds Contest

National Group Sponsors Competition for Amateur,
Professional Plays

Wisconsin competitors in the national play contests of the Drama league of America will send their one-act plays to the Wisconsin players, according to an announcement recently.

The purpose of the contests is to discover new authors and the development of native American drama. Entries are in three divisions: full length play, one-act Christmas play, and religious play. The religious play is to be full length or pageant in construction.

Longman, Green and company will publish all winning plays and will arrange royalties or will pay $1,000 for the full length play, $300 for the religious play, and $200 for the Christmas play. The New York Theater guild, the Pilgrim players of Evanston, and the American academy of Dramatic Arts will produce the plays.

Comedies are especially desired. The announcement continues: "For professional purposes a play need not be limited in any particular; but for amateur purposes it must be clean, and should be adapted to one set of scenery. Should it meet both professional and amateur requirements, its chances of production will be much increased."

Announce Judges for Plays
The contest closes Dec. 31. The judges will be Hatcher Hughes and Kenyon Nicholson for the Drama league, Alexander Dean for the publishers, and the New York Theater guild for the producers. The judges of the Biblical plays will be Dr. Norman L. Richardson, Prof. Harold A. Ehrenberger, and Mrs. A. Starr Best.

Full length plays by Wisconsin authors should be submitted to the Milwaukee Drama league, Mrs. Oliver W. Anderson, 810 Humboldt boulevard, Milwaukee; Miss Marguerite M. Grosenbach, 731 Summit avenue, Milwaukee, will receive one-act plays for the Wisconsin players. Biblical plays must be sent direct to the contest chairman, at 828 Michigan avenue, Wilmette, Ill.

Rules for the contests are posted on the English department bulletin board in Bascom hall.

Meat Responsible for Food Poisoning Health Body Told

Minneapolis—Meat and meat products are responsible for most food poisoning outbreaks, Drs. Thomas G. Hull and Lloyd Arnold of the Illinois State department of health and the University of Illinois college of medicine, told members of the American Public Health association.

When much meat is eaten, the bacteria normally found in the small intestine, where meat is chiefly digested, are disturbed.

The germ-killing action normally occurring in the small intestine is interfered with for six hours after a meat meal. Thus when germs are taken into the system with a meat meal, they have a good chance to develop and cause illness.

Tripp Commons Dining Service Resumed Today

Following the success of Sunday dining service in Tripp Commons a week ago, the room will again be open to Union members and their guests today, according to the announcement of Newman Halvorsen '30, commons chairman.

Service will be from 12 m. to 1:30 p. m. and 6 to 7:30 p. m. An instrumental trio including Leonard Keller '32, violinist and Juillard scholar, Leon Persson '30, cellist, and Henry Herried '32, pianist, will furnish music during the supper hour.

Groups from dormitories and fraternities may be accommodated at large tables for the evening meal by speaking to the head waiter.

Morgan Will Conduct Tour Through Europe in 1930

A tour through Europe will be conducted in the summer of 1930 by Prof. B. Q. Morgan, of the German department, under the management of the Art Crafts guild of Chicago. The places visited will include: London, Brussels, Antwerp, Cologne, the Rhine, Berlin, Dresden, Prague, Vienna, Munich, Oberammergau (1930 is the year of the Passion play), Lucerne, Interlaken, Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome, Nice, Avignon, and Paris.

The Co-ed Shopper's Diary

SUNDAY—Comes a time in every well-worn co-ed's life when she gets completely fed up with campus personages, activities and life in general. Such a day was today and woe to him who crosses my path at this time, saith I.

I always have a GATEWOOD rented book about hither, and I go for it when the cerebrum needs relaxation, diversion and what have you? And do I keep up with new books... need you even place your rhetorical question? I do! I'll bet half you diary readers don't even know what's causing all the rumpus in contemporary literature circles at the present moment. Aha, I thot so.

Well, for your benefit, take heed now, and brush up on new conversations for the more sophisticated gatherings, such as pledge open houses, here they are: Glasgow's "They Stopped to Conquer;" Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms;" Barrington's "The Laughing Queen" (it depicts jovial Cleopatra, the little devil); Donn Byrne's last novel "Field of Honor" and "The Black Camel" by Biggers, a mystery of Charlie Chan, the Chink. Then Fannie Hurst's "Five and Ten;" Walpole's "Hans Frost," and "Dark Journey" by Julian Green.

Every new book while it's new at GATEWOOD'S.

Become popular over night, and be sure to get your education from Walt Gibson. I mean he's awful smart along literary lines. And he may be found at all hours at GATEWOOD'S. He's just the co-ed's little helper.

MONDAY—Those marvelous windows in GODARD'S GIFT SHOP (512 State). They lure me always, and strange as it may seem, I never fail to be lured in and dash out, bearing the novelst, the most unique and the most gorgeous of hunk-wunks. Here let me explain to my newest of readers, that hunk-wunk is a phrase, copyrighted by Co-Edna, and meaning anything that is precious and adorable, desirable and cherishable.

Such are the hunk-wunks in GODARD'S. It is one place on campus that every co-ed and co-eddie has good reason to know. For comes a time when the house need decoration, your room needs an inspiring something to take attention away from the crack in the wall, or your roomie, your family or someone near and dear has a birthday. To say nothing of the times when you entertain informally in your room and need accessories.

For that reason I purchased a tea set. Serving tea is such a refined diversion, rah-ly, don't you think now, ah say? For the exchanging of spicy gossip, nothing is more conducive. But to continue...

You'll find everything you're looking for and a few things you're not looking for. No one in town has such a range of oddities and foreign things as GODARD'S. And that includes jewelry, too.

TUESDAY—As I patted the pillows viciously last night before I flopped into bed, I decided that since sleeping means so much to me, why not be in style? I simply mean that everybody's wearing them and they "them" stands for tuck-in pajamas. And everybody is getting them at BARON'S (on the square) and so this aft I meandered up to the square and BARON'S.

Am I in style? Well I am, but nobody excepting my sorors and my dear little cot know. So let me tell you. Of printed broadcloth, these tuck-in yoked p. j's are swanky. They've got wide bell-bottom trousers and v necks like sailors wear and cute futuristic designs. And for a mere $2.95! It's like taking candy away from a baby, you just don't feel right.

Wearing regular p. j's is like wearing nighties—completely fini. All gone and so forth. "Tuck in your little cot in tuck-ins" should be your motto and remember nobody in town's got them the way BARON'S have.

WEDNESDAY—Came to the realization after one of my sorors told me to quit playing with her typewriter forever that never more should I be so insulted by an inferior mind, and I immediately sought a source of retaliation and that source was BREWINGTON TYPEWRITING CO.

For the past two years, I never could have existed and still been in my sane mind without a typewriter. Always somebody else's but never my own. But the die is cast and I have purchased one of my very own, for nobody more than I realizes the necessity for one. History topics, notebooks, term papers and even outside preparations have been made readable by a typewriter... to say nothing of the arm muscles I have never tired by scribbling thousands of words.

Professors are my friends, because my work is typed; my family can understand when I need a check because my letters are typed. It's a gift. And even when I get out of school, friends will still be able to know I exist through the median of a legible typewritten letter.

And so... BREWINGTON'S. For every kind of typewriter that ever wrote is in their shop. And they show you how to put ribbons in and take care of "the little friend." Mine is a two-tone Blue Duo Royal Portable with new modernistic type, and now I know why no one wants to have everybody playing hunt and seek with their typewriter... it's entirely too precious.

THURSDAY—Believe it or not I'm still taking gym and after all my clinicals et c. So I decided to quit horsing around and take horseback riding. Hence I galloped down to SIMPSONS AT THE CO OP and spurred to immediate action in the way of buying a habit. Which is a habit of mine whenever I get two winks at a Simpson something.

You know there's an awful lot to be said in favor of taking riding for gym credit. It's really recreation and pleasure rather than the labor that tennis and volleyball are. And then riding is so smart especially if one has a swank habit. You always see movie stars and society women horsing about. And then what if you should go to England and be invited to a hunt and have to refuse? Horrible thought.

But anyhow, my Simpson habit (I have several good SIMPSON habits) is gray broadcloth mannish cut with black suede re-inforcements.

I hardly could choose between heringbone, tweed or broadcloth and did you know that you can get riding breeches there as low as $3.50? My word.

Came out of the Co-op to discover that Jupiter Pluvius was at it again; I mean it was raining. I dashed around the corner to LOHMAIER'S and took refuge from the storm. The haven in distress you know. Fortunately that it's so conveniently located on campus, but even if it weren't I'd be it's steadiest customer anyhow.

Lots of speculation was floating, and above the booths as to who and what will be Prom King and what will be prom queen and how many men were wearing pins on their B.V.D.'s. All to the tune of the Orthophonic and a cherry coke assisted by a test-wich. Which reminds me that I'm hungry, wonder if there's anything in the kitchen.

FRIDAY—Clothes are beginning to get out of pleat and show signs of dust and cigarette ashes and now I know I'm back at school. Called BLOCH'S to have

German House Elects Officers

Necarsulmer Chosen President; Conversation Will Be Directed by Experts

Evelyn Necarsulmer '30 was elected president of the German house at its first meeting Thursday evening. Plans for the ensuing year were discussed and other officers were elected as follows: secretary, Cordula Thurow '32; treasurer, Carol Mason '30; W. S. G. A. representative, Lois Luck '32; chairman of the music committee, Anita Laars '32.

Committees have been appointed to take charge of the various functions. They are: Menu, Evelyn Necarsulmer '30, Alice Dierker '32, Margaret Mayer '31; decoration, Miss Lena Schorlenmuer '30, Edna Yelland '30; "Kaffe Stunde," Helwig Beunewitz '30; music, Anita Laars '32; parlor, Rose Sollo-way, grad; third floor, Bertha Mueller, scholar; second floor, Anna Koglin '30.

Rooms Are Redecorated
During the summer the rooms were newly decorated and new furnishings added to the living rooms. A leather bound volume of Goethe's Works, and several mahogany bookcases have been added to the equipment of the house.

Sixteen girls reside at the German house, of which two are foreign born. Miss Ada Klett, of European descent, has resumed her position as house-mother and chaperon.

Conversation Supervised
At the house and supervising conversation, are Stephen Scholtschmacher, Bonn, Erich Thiele, Berlin, W. Shoeffel, Stuttgart, and Dr. Carl Baumann, Basel, Switzerland, who have recently come from Germany.

A "Kaffe Stundt" will be held every other week, alternating with the German club, which will hold its first meeting next Wednesday evening. The social hour called the "Kaffe Stundt," serves as a means of having German students and friends of the house becoming acquainted with the faculty of the university.

High Scholastic Average Needed at North Dakota

Fraternities and sororities of the University of North Dakota must maintain a scholastic average equal to the average of the entire student body in order to participate in social activities following a new regulation set down by the university administration.

The rule provides that whenever the average grade of the active members of any group is lower than the average of the entire student body the chapter shall be prohibited from engaging in social activities until its average is equal to that of the university average.

The new regulation goes into effect with the opening of the second semester this year.

Y.W.C.A. Formulates Plans for Christmas Bazaar Monday

Plans for the Y. W. C. A. Christmas bazaar, the outstanding public function of the organization, will be discussed at the meeting of the ways and means department under the leadership of Gertrude Buss '31, Monday at 12:45 p. m. in the Windsor room of Lathrop hall. Any university woman who is interested in working in either the candy table or the bazaar project is urged to attend this meeting.

Your Gown Radiant with Charm!

NOT a NEW gown! But a gown transformed by careful cleaning into a creation of shimmering loveliness. Heighten your success at smart functions by letting us renew your wardrobe.

Silk Dresses Cleaned Carefully

Universal Cleaners & Dyers

INCORPORATED

1226 Regent Street

Fairchild 6510

WORLD OF SOCIETY

Marie Orth '30 Enjoys Girls' Work as W.S.G.A. President

Because she likes girls—likes working with them or supervising them, meeting them formally, in a business-like manner, or informally, in a social manner—Marie Orth, '30, plans to spend her last year in the University of Wisconsin in a task which to her will be a pleasure, as president of the Women's Self Government association.

"I think one has to like girls," Miss Orth exclaimed earnestly, "to do this sort of work, and I do like girls." Her duties, which began last March, have given her plenty of opportunity to satisfy this liking.

"I was rather drawn into the work of the W. S. G. A.," she continued thoughtfully, mentally picturing her three previous active years on the campus, "by acting on all-university committees, which are chosen through the W. S. G. A. I worked in my sophomore year as one of the district chairmen who went around to the various houses on the campus, organizing them according to the rules of our organization."

At the end of that year Miss Orth was elected as president of the organization known as the Yellow Tassle. Last year she was in charge of senior swingout and worked with committees during Mother's week-end.

"I enjoyed this very much," was the reply to the question about this type of work. "It brings one in contact with the faculty, and one makes acquaintances and is connected with people whom otherwise wouldn't be met, particularly not in the informal manner of committee workers."

Miss Orth, who has been honored for her activity on the campus by election to the Crucible and Mortar Board, honorary women's societies, enthusiastically discussed the work of the W. S. G. A. for the current year.

District chairmen are again going about the campus explaining the rules of the association, but these workers are also gathering material, the president stressed, which will be invaluable to the members of the association in finding future workers.

Each girl in the university this year is filling out a card on which she states the campus activities in which she is taking part, and more important—those activities on the campus in which she is interested in doing work at some time.

This will be a great help, according to Miss Orth, in securing girls to join the association, and will also aid other group organizations desiring such information about students eager to become associated with them.

"Such data enables the W. S. G. A. to know just how much any one student is doing; to see where student activity is concentrated; whether or not just a few are doing all the work. We shall also help students who possibly are doing too much extra-curricular activity by suggesting they go in a more important activity, in place of two or three minor tasks."

Most of the W. S. G. A. workers are girls from the three upper classes, with only a few freshmen women participating. "Our workers usually have come to us through the recommendation of the Y. W. C. A. or on the recommendation of the dean of women. All are recommended only on their ability and personality," Miss Orth expressed a dislike for sororities urging their members to participate in activities, when there was no desire to do so on their part.

Miss Orth concluded her explanation of this organization with the statement that this year the W. S. G. A. is co-operating with the Men's Union in concentrating men's and women's activities in the Memorial Union. The W. S. G. A. office is now located on the third floor of the Union, and no longer in Lathrop hall.

Evelyn M. Gunn Married Saturday to Lloyd Plank '27

A wedding of interest in university circles took place Saturday morning when Miss Evelyn Mary Gunn, '27, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gunn, 1528 Vilas avenue, Madison, became the bride of Lloyd Thomsen Plank, '27, son of W. R. Plank, Fond du Lac, Wis. The ceremony took place at 11 o'clock at the parsonage of St. Patrick's church, Madison, with the Rev. C. B. Knox officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Alice Pickard, Green Bay, and Miss Florence Reynolds, Madison. Stuart Cullen and Russell Muntz, both fraternity brothers in Chi Phi attended the groom.

A gown of brown transparent velvet was worn by the bride, with a hat to match. She carried Ophelia roses. Miss Pickard wore a dress of brown velvet, while Miss Reynolds was attired in blue lace. Both carried bouquets of chrysanthemums to match their costume.

Decorations of roses carried out the color scheme of pink in the parsonage. A reception was served at 12 o'clock at the Madison club for the bridal party. The bridal party was also honored at a dinner Friday evening.

Mrs. Plank is a member of Theta Phi Alpha sorority, and Pi Lambda honorary educational sorority. She was graduated in 1927 and received her M. A. from the university in 1928.

Mr. Plank, also a graduate of 1927, is affiliated with Chi Phi fraternity, and Rho Chi, honorary pharmaceutical fraternity, and Scabbard and Blade. He was a member of the varsity crew.

The couple will be at home in Fond du Lac, after November 1. Mr. Plank is associated with his father in the W. R. Plank Drug Co., Fond du Lac.

All Tables Reserved for A.A.U.W. Luncheon

All tables for the monthly bridge luncheon of the A. A. U. W. at the College club Wednesday noon have been reserved. Hostesses for the day are Mrs. A. T. Weaver, Mrs. Walter Frautschi, and Mrs. Louis Slichter. Reservations for tables have been made by the following:

Mrs. Louis Slichter, Mrs. Walter Frautschi, Mrs. E. J. B. Schubring, Mrs. Eldon Russell, Mrs. Andrew Weaver, Mrs. Joel Stebbins, Mrs. John Kenney, Mrs. A. S. Barr, Mrs. J. R. Garver, Mrs. Robert Rieser, Mrs. Karl Kiesel, Mrs. C. Z. Luse, Mrs. Curtis Nettels, Mrs. Arthur Towell, Mrs. Willard Rundell, Mrs. Frank Holt, Mrs. Frederick Ogg, Mrs. Ralph Axley, Mrs. R. J. Neckerman, Mrs. H. H. Brockhausen, and Mrs. P. W. Wilder.

Coming to the university from her home in Milwaukee four years ago, influenced by the fact that her father is an alumnus, and her brother a student, "Orty," as she is familiarly known to her sorority sisters in Sigma Kappa, has had ample time to view university life and enjoy it. She cannot understand why students do not like this school, unless, as she remarked, "they find it not as pictured in the college movie and their disappointment is too hard to overcome, and they never really like the university."

GEM BEAUTY SHOP

905 University Ave. B-7986
All phases of beauty culture
May we aid you in retaining your beauty and charm?
University Ave. Nat'l Bank Bldg.

To You Who Appreciate Distinctive Clothes

We are making this announcement that we will be able to take care of you in your DRESSMAKING and REPAIRING LINE...

SPECIAL SERVICES

Hemstitching . . . Rhinestone Setting
Pleating . . . Button Covering

The Hetty Minch Shop

223 STATE STREET

BADGER 3029
(Over Rentschler Floral Shop)

First Graduate Club Affair Well Attended

Several hundred graduates attended the opening affair of the season held by the Graduate club in Great Hall Friday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Dean C. S. Slichter addressed the guests, commemorating the continuous existence of the Graduate club for over 30 years.

This offers an opportunity for self-expression and for amusement," he said. "Graduates have a better opportunity than any other students to socialize, and the club offers them fine opportunities."

Howard and Virginia Suenzli, small but capable artists, were a feature of the program. The children gave several solos and were accompanied by Willis Robertson.

Verne Varney, '18, directed the games which followed the program. Bridge and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. The affair was under the charge of Dale Chapman, Gertrude Beyer and Earl Hildebrand. On October 14, the graduates will again assemble, to enjoy a dinner in the Old Madison room of the Memorial Union.

Y.W.C.A. Will Greet New Staff Members

Members and friends of the Young Women's Christian association are meeting this afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Harry S. Richards, president of the board of directors of the association.

This event, which is a tea, is being held for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the new staff members, who include Misses Margaret Mack, Mabel Butler and Jean Wright.

California Scientists Discover New Twin Element of Carbon

Pasadena, Calif.—Carbon is the latest chemical element to be shown to have a twin. Last winter two California physicists showed that oxygen, long supposed to be single, was not only double, but triple.

Now Dr. Arthur S. King, of the Mt. Wilson Observatory here, and Dr. Raymond T. Birge, of the University of California, have found a kind of carbon that is heavier than the ordinary form. Carbon is one of the most essential elements in living matter.

These experimenters heated carbon in a vacuum in an electric furnace to a temperature around 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. When the light that it emitted was analyzed with a spectroscope, the usual bright bands of spectrum appeared, including a very prominent red one. Close to this, however, the photographs showed another, very faint, and previously unknown.

FRESHMAN WOMEN DIVIDED

The freshman women at the Kansas State Teachers' college at Emporia are divided into groups of their own choice, art, dancing, hiking, dramatics, music, and social divisions. The purpose of dividing the women into groups is to get the freshmen into some social activity of their own.

COLORFUL shoes brighten the Style-Ways—bright hued kids with contrasting trimmings that give a new note to feminine footwear.

$10.50

This model is Brown Kid with straps of contrasting reptile.

WALK-OVER
On Capitol Square

Lack of Money Ends Existence of New Student

The New Student, an intercollegiate magazine that circulates in every college of the country, has discontinued publication because of lack of financial support, it was announced Saturday.

The passing of The New Student marks the last of a unique venture in the publishing field. For seven years the magazine, edited by college students and recent graduates, has held a mirror to college life and the files for those years are a complete history of higher education in a changing post-war era.

"In addition to news, the magazine attempted to shape educational policy in the direction of more student freedom and initiative and against the goose step methods. It succeeded in making ardent friends and bitter enemies among professors, administrators, and alumni by its championing of progressive educational methods on every occasion," according to its editors.

VISIT IN MADISON

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wheeler are spending the week-end at the Hotel Loraine, Madison, visiting friends on their way to their home in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Wheeler will be remembered as Miss Margaret Alsop '29, whose wedding nuptials took place Sept. 14 in Fargo, South Dakota.

DAUGHTERS OF DEMETER

Many of the members of the Daughters of Demeter attended the opening meeting of the season Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. F. Wojta, 2259 West Lawn avenue. A reading was given by Miss Agatha McCaffrey Church.

Symphonic Concert on Victrola Proves Popular in Opening

The first weekly symphonic phonograph concert was held in the Assembly room of the Memorial Union Saturday night at 8 p. m. The interest shown by the group present indicated that the programs would become as popular as they were last year.

Ervin Tax had charge of the program which was as follows:

Eroica Symphony Beethoven
Concerto in E flat Mozart
Prelude and Fugue in F Bach
Les Preludes Liszt

These programs are given for those who are interested in music of the type which municipal symphonic orchestras afford.

— Phone for Appointment —

F 79

Marinello Shop

Permanent Waving . . Hair Dyeing
Finger Waving . . . Marcelling
Manicuring . . . Facials
Electrolysis . . Hair Bobbing
Chiropody

MRS. W. WENGEL
125 State St.

Novelty Nook

IN

BROWN'S BOOK SHOP BLDG.

Lingerie

Hosiery

Jewelry

Purses

Scarfs

ALL AT MODERATE PRICES

Make Our Lounging Room Your Meeting Place . . .

Open Monday, Thursday and Saturday Night.

F. 2491

637 STATE ST.

We Take Great Pleasure

in announcing the opening
.. of ..

Kennedy Manor Tea Room

Here you will find a quiet restful atmosphere where you will enjoy your meals . . .

CLUB BREAKFAST

LUNCHEON 75c

DINNER 85c and $1.00

Bring Your Date to

Kennedy Manor Tea Room

LANGDON STREET AT WISCONSIN AVENUE

Religious Body Plans Program

Congregational Students' Association Publishes Outline of Year's Activities

The year's activities of the Congregational Students' association in complete outline has been published by the association under the direction of the Rev. Donald E. Webster, the student pastor.

Special features of the booklet include the year's programs for Bradford club, the announcement of the Anonymous club which is to meet Wednesday from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. beginning October 25, and the announcement of a seminar in personal religion to be led by Mr. Webster. The sex hygiene course which was given last year will be repeated again this year starting late in the fall.

The year's program will culminate in the spring banquet to be held in March, at which Dr. Allen Stockdale of the Rogers Park (Chicago) Congregational church will be the principal speaker.

Prof. E. A. Ross will speak before the Bradford club at 5:30 p. m. Sunday at the First Congregational church. His subject will be "A look at Asia."

$17,000,000 to Be Given

Depauw After 200 Years

Students at De Pauw university 200 years hence will be hearing about a liberal gift of $17,000,000 which was left the school in an unusual will. An estate of more than $50,000,000 will be kept intact for 200 years at compound interest when it will amount to approximately $160,000,000 and then be broken up into public interests. De Pauw is to receive $17,000,000 at the end of the 200-year period.

Trade Your
Misfit Pen for a Rider Masterpen...

Why struggle along with a pen that is not suited to your hand? Why have an old pen lying around doing you no good? Get your money out of it! Trade it in for a good pen — a RIDER MASTERPEN today at

Rider's Pen Shop
REAL PEN SERVICE

656 STATE ST.

Live Co-Eds Tell No Secrets

—they merely drop a hint!

the Soph:

Whatever are you reading, Cecie?
You look most interested!

the Frosh:

I'm thrilled! It's a proposal...
Want to hear?

the Soph:

Wouldn't mind... Is it appealing?

Just listen, Dianne... Simpson's invite me to visit their smart college shop—at the Co-Op. They say the smartest dressed women on the Hill buy their things there... Paris styles to fit your budget... Really, I'm impressed... Shall I go?

Go? Of course... I'm going with you... I bought all my clothes there last year. That's just a reminder to me...

Dianne is just one of the smart co-eds who knows her smart styles when she sees them... Other interviews with prominent university women will follow.

SIMPSON'S COED SHOP
at the CO-OP

Literary Contributions

Not For The Squeamish

Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms" Too Deadly, Successfully Realistic for the Wowsie Mind

By WILLIAM J. FADIMAN

EDWARD ALBERT CHRISTIAN GEORGE ANDREW PATRICK DAVID is his Christian name. At least so the biographers of "H.R.H., The Prince of Wales" inform us. The life story of the equestrian-prince is to be published late this month. Americans are not the only gullible people on this rolling sphere. Simon and Schuster report that the much abused "Cradle of the Deep" is now to be translated into the Italian. . . . Donn Byrne, the "last of the traditional Irish novelists," has leaped to first place on the best-seller lists last week with his novel "Field of Honor."

I hope to have a review of this work within a week or two. . . . America once again springs to the front rank in the absurdity of censorship. "Radiant Motherhood," by Marie C. Stopes, published in England, has been refused admittance into this land of pure morals. The stupidity and childishness of the situation is aggravated by the fact that the book is published in America by Putnam and has been regularly issued from that company's presses for several years!

Despite the mechanistic mumbings of Gertrude Stein or the petulant brain storms of Elliot Paul, it is not safe to dismiss all our expatriate writers with a single glance of disdain. In Ernest Hemingway's latest work, "A Farewell To Arms" (Scribners; $2.50) He has justified his self-imposed exile from America, and produced a finely written and finely conceived novel of love in war.

"A Farewell To Arms," written in the first person, is ostensibly the love story of Lieutenant Henry, serving in the Italian army against the Austrians, and Catherine Barkley, an English nurse at the battlefield. Henry, who first thought of love as a "game like bridge, in which you said things instead of playing cards," soon found that there are exceptions to any rule. Surrounded on all sides by the scream of shells, the choking fumes of chlorine, the nauseous stench of burned flesh, he carried on his love affair in its bitter but inevitable ending. "Fight or die. That's what people do. They don't marry." And Catherine and Henry, fighting side by side, were never able to marry. After deserting to Switzerland, Catherine dies in the agony of child-birth, leaving Henry mute and wondering at the obscene jests that life could sometimes play.

Juxtaposed to the romance, and interwoven with it, is Hemingway's depiction of war, that most "bestial of madnesses," as Leonardo de Vinci once phrased it. The hard, cruel, inexorable, staccato prose carries with it something of the horrible inevitability of life in the trenches. These men, who joked and laughed as the surgeons probed their wounds for stray pieces of trench mortar, who gambled and drank, who preferred a woman to a decoration for valor are all seen in the ghastly light of exploding shells, of ghostly flares. Hemingway, using the abrupt, jerky, almost disconnected sentences he made so effective in his "Men Without Women" has caught the inhuman rhythm of these lives twisted out of natural shape. The spatter of machine gun bullets and the roar of the big guns, the face of three minute court-martials, the scaring torture of amputations performed with hasty but kindly skill, the dull, drab, weary matter-of-factness of it all is felt throughout the unfolding of the story.

Hemingway is not a social nihilist; he is not interested in reforming the world by exposing its rotting and putrefaction wounds to the public gaze. He is first and foremost an artist, a writer working with a peculiarly subtle idiom, a speech that only Hemingway has been able to handle with any sort of commendable ability.

As a novel of love carried on against the red background of modern warfare, a book of real insight and deadly realism, I heartily recommend "A Farewell To Arms." It was not written for the squeamish nor for those people who conceive of war as a playground of waving flags and nationalistic bravos.

Talking of best-sellers, as every bookdealer or publisher does now, and again makes me smile. In 1901 "Rich-

The PRIZE MARK TWAIN STORY

THE MARK TWAIN SOCIETY recently awarded its prize for the best anecdote about Mark Twain to John Dallam of Philadelphia. It follows:

Mark Twain was visiting in Washington during the time that Melville Fuller was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. A little girl saw him on the street and mistaking him for the Chief Justice, whom he resembled because of his luxuriant white hair and mustache, approached him and said, "Oh, Mr. Chief Justice Fuller, won't you please write something for me in my autograph album?"

"With pleasure," Mark replied instantly. "Taking the book she handed him, he wrote, "It's glorious to be full, but it's heavenly to be Fuller." Signing his name, he walked away without further comment, leaving her to discover later the treasure she had unknowingly obtained.

Tokyo Tussle

Ends in Great Flesh Finale

The nomad narrates the first of his Nippon experiences

"HAVE YOU ever seen anyone do a really big thing?" Sid asked me a few nights after my arrival in Tokio.

"Well," I answered, considering the question carefully, "I've seen a circus trainer wash the usual elephant and a county fair bally-hooer take five dollars from a seven foot Swede in a shell game."

"You haven't seen anything yet," said Sid. "You and I are going somewhere."

"Where?" I queried. "To a wrestling match," said Sid. We went.

Despite the fact that the national tournaments of the popular professional game sumo, are held in Tokyo during January and May, less decisive matches for the enrichment of the wrestlers and promoters take place almost daily in the various professional wrestling auditoriums, much as the business of wrestling goes on in America. It was to one of these dens of naalestral conflict that we wended our way.

Entering a large building we removed our shoes and were shown to a seat about half-way up in a bowl-like structure which rose in concentric rings of seats from a dirt arena. The arena was laid out with rice bags and strips of straw fastened to the uncovered brown earth so as to make a square approximately 14 feet on a side within which was a circle 12 feet in diameter. Rising from the four corners of the square were four pillars, one with a green band about its upper part, another red, another white, and the fourth black. These pillars, according to Sid, were supposed to represent the four seasons, although what was the basis of the color scheme he was unable to say. The pillars supported a canopy under which were electric lights illuminating the ring, and a purple curtain adorned with figures of white plum blossoms enveloped the upper portion of the posts.

Outside the ring were small wooden pails of water, some paper, and salt. "They have the ring decorated in the regular tournament fashion," said Sid. "You are lucky to see it."

"I surely am," I said, yawning politely behind my hat, "but when does the excitement start? I'm anxious to see this big thing done, which you were telling me about."

"Don't be in a hurry," advised Sid. "We had time." Upon further investigation, it appeared that the festivities had already started. Sid said they had been going all day since early morning. One certainly gets his money's worth in wrestling in Japan. It appeared that we had arrived in the interval between bouts.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business. Another gentleman, who was the announcer, stood in the middle of the ring and shouted a lot of things which Sid said were the names of the regular tournament fashion," said Sid. "You are lucky to see it."

"I surely am," I said, yawning politely behind my hat, "but when does the excitement start? I'm anxious to see this big thing done, which you were telling me about."

"Don't be in a hurry," advised Sid. "We had time." Upon further investigation, it appeared that the festivities had already started. Sid said they had been going all day since early morning. One certainly gets his money's worth in wrestling in Japan. It appeared that we had arrived in the interval between bouts.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

He Dusts Latin

"Grist for My Mill" Smiles Prof. Chase Translating Old Text Books

WITH the completion of his translation of "Martianus Capella," a Latin text book, Prof. Wayland Johnson Chase of the department of education will have thrown open one more channel of learning for students of education.

Two years previous, Prof. Chase had, to an important degree, answered the problem of making valuable Latin texts accessible to students who knew no Latin. His translation of "The Arts Minor of Donatus" was completed in 1926. The text is one which had been the leading grammar in all the elementary schools of Western Europe for over 1000 years since 500 A. D. By the time America had arrived upon a strident educational system, however, the text had already outlived its usefulness.

His second work, "The Distichs of Cato," is a history of medieval education. Its use had prevailed in the schools of Europe as early as 400 and as recently as the 18th century. Proof of the almost total disappearance of English versions of Cato was evidenced at an auction sale 30 years ago where an early edition published by Benjamin Franklin brought a price of $1500.

"Martianus Capella," which is still in the process of translation, Prof. Chase states, is possibly the most interesting of the three. It is a collection of seven sorts of subject matter, grammar, rhetoric, logic, arithmetic, geometry, astronomy, and music. These were the seven branches of learning comprising the cultural background of a liberally educated man of the Middle Ages.

"Its gist for my mill," he smiled, "Aside from any benefit to be derived from it, my absorption in it is complete."

And still smiling he refuses to have anything more to say on the subject. Here is a case of what is a Latin student's poison is Prof. Chase's meat.

business. Another gentleman, who was the announcer, stood in the middle of the ring and shouted a lot of things which Sid said were the names of the regular tournament fashion," said Sid. "You are lucky to see it."

"I surely am," I said, yawning politely behind my hat, "but when does the excitement start? I'm anxious to see this big thing done, which you were telling me about."

"Don't be in a hurry," advised Sid. "We had time." Upon further investigation, it appeared that the festivities had already started. Sid said they had been going all day since early morning. One certainly gets his money's worth in wrestling in Japan. It appeared that we had arrived in the interval between bouts.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

It was not long, however, until four gentlemen in blue kimono advanced to the ring with the gravity of bishops at an Easter Service, and majestically seated themselves, one at the foot of each pillar. These were the referees chosen from among the Toshiyori, a class of retired wrestlers interested in the management and promotion of the business.

Five Sketches From Northern Michigan

By J. GUNNAR BACK

An Oil Lamp

IT SIT at one end of a long table covered with a cotton cloth—a red and white checkered cloth. In the center a nicked lamp burns and flutters a sickly yellow. I hear the crunch of eating and smell the cabbage as they chew and swallow. There are also fried potatoes. The odor of kerosene thickens the warm room and mingles with the other odors. By my side the curtain in the window is dirty and there is dust on the sill.

A face is blinking at the other end of the red and white table. It is moving, suddenly—a sinister face eating of the cabbage. The face fills again—this time with potatoes. I watch the eyes of the face, set deeply in a brown skin and overhung with black. Above the eyes the veins stand out a faint purple. The other's are speaking in an unintelligible guttural. Some are drinking milk. The brown face laughs. In the heat of the yellow lamp, the laugh is dry and harsh. I who sit at the end of the table think it arrogantly bitter. The guttural persists. . . .

The crunching ceases, and they arise. The cabbage is taken away and thrown to the pigs. The lamp still burns and smokes while the face sits blinking in its glow. There is a child who too has eaten by the lamp. A young lad in Soo pants and harsh rubber boots, he is the offspring of the brown face.

The rubber boots walk silently across the kitchen floor. A day comes down from a nail. There is a now odor of dishwater and socks steaming by the stove. A woman pokes and pokes at the stove with an iron. The stove shows red in the dim corner. The violent eyes spurt anew with life. A voice from the face utters a forbidding command. The lad is caught with his hand on the greasy door knob; a quick cry of protest on his lips. The door slowly turns into the blackness of the hall. A second guttural from the throat of the brown one. The boots continue to move into the hall.

A scream. . . . The boy has been struck a blow from a foot. He is huddled motionless at the bottom of the stairs in the blackened hall. I grow sick from the heat of the lamp and its odor.

I am perplexed as I watch the lad, who has not gone out into the night but who pores far into the darkness over school books. When he closes the books he knows nothing. On his face, made yellow by the lamp, is hate.

After eating apples, the man and his woman, a clock in hand, have gone up to a realization of the slogan "Athletics For All" in the breaking of ground for the new field house. Wisconsin amateur actors are seated, the University theater thrown open to all with native ability and interest in dramatics.

The Wisconsin Players begin their 1929-30 season with a complete change of policy. Casts will no longer be drawn from a closed circle of experienced actors and there will be no season stars.

Instead, a large group of students are being tried out for places on a permanent casting list. Tryouts are open to all university students and with two more tryouts open next week the list contains 68 women, 34 men and 84 stage assistants. From this list all the plays of the season will be cast.

The requirements for places on the casting list place a lesser emphasis on experience and training than on interest and natural ability.

Prof. William Troutman of the speech department will, in former years, direct five productions of a semi-professional standard; of which the first will be "Kempy," to be given October 25 and 26 as part of the Dad's Day program. The other plays will probably be chosen from the following list: "The Show-Off, So This Is the Queen's Husband, The Wisdom Tooth, Holiday, The Worthy Master Pierre Patin, Enter Madam, and Saturday's Children.

In addition to these, there will be eight or ten apprentice plays, with casts drawn from the same list, and directed by Mr. Troutman's graduate assistants. These plays will be as care-repared as the larger production of Mr. Troutman will personally direct in the direction of the last of rehearsals.

The first of the apprentice plays, "Mary III," will be given early in November. Its cast and that of "Kempy" have already been chosen from the casting list and are being checked for eligibility. Rehearsals will begin on Monday.

The apprentice play has as its purpose the combination of the theory and the practice of dramatics. Both for directors and actors, and the frequent presentation to Wisconsin audiences of good plays, well acted and well directed, at popular prices.

The laboratory dramatic program is aimed to abolish the customary limited areas of college play production and open the theater to the talent of the university at large.

lours in cheer, CONNIE

ited areas of college play production and open the theater to the talent of the university at large.

lours in cheer, CONNIE

ited areas of college play production and open the theater to the talent of the university at large.

lours in cheer, CONNIE

Oh, Diary!

More Than One Co-ed in Daze Says Connie's Who Knows

MONDAY—Oh, diary! I'm all up in Bascom hall this morning! What do you think I saw? Never in all my experience as a college woman have I been so hyper-tensive! Anyway, diary, it was a bearded man—practically covered with out-growth, and I knew right away, as I saw him leering at me, that it was another prize from the Experimental college. You know as well as I do, diary, that I hate to keep bringing up the Experimental college, and I really think they have a few nice boys who got in by mistake, but really, this man was too good to pass up with a mere gesture. People were positively stopping and staring at him all over the hall, and there was a regular nigger pile by the information window caused by the traffic jam. The minute I saw him, I became utterly fossilized and stood rooted to the terrazzo for fully ten minutes.

TUESDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

WEDNESDAY—Did you hear of the uproar in Charlie Goddard's French class today? It seems that they came across the word "liaison" while translating. Charlie said, "Who will tell us what it means?" And a sweet young freshman piped up. "Well, all I know about it is that Louis Philippe had lots of them with women."

THURSDAY—The girl got out another extra this morn'g. Diary. The town papers aren't happy either. They can get out an extra constantly. The screaming headlines today read—COED FOUND WANDERING IN DAZE. Well, if they use an extra for that, they could put several out every day on the same subject.

FRIDAY—This afternoon I girded myself, this afternoon I girded myself, I went up with two of the sisters to try out for this all-college-dramatic-movement of Bill Troutman's. After imitating an old maid from Iowa in a high nasal tone, I survived the first round, and passed on into the class of the ingenues. But there was my downfall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall.

SATURDAY—Another day now and all the good looking cars will have disappeared from the campus, now that boys' rushing is over. I am positively maudlin to think that football is really beginning in earnest, but when I think of the long hard pull ahead making 8 o'clocks on sub-zero mornings, I get despondent again. Thank heaven, diary, my education is nearly complete.

SUNDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

MONDAY—Oh, diary! I'm all up in Bascom hall this morning! What do you think I saw? Never in all my experience as a college woman have I been so hyper-tensive! Anyway, diary, it was a bearded man—practically covered with out-growth, and I knew right away, as I saw him leering at me, that it was another prize from the Experimental college. You know as well as I do, diary, that I hate to keep bringing up the Experimental college, and I really think they have a few nice boys who got in by mistake, but really, this man was too good to pass up with a mere gesture. People were positively stopping and staring at him all over the hall, and there was a regular nigger pile by the information window caused by the traffic jam. The minute I saw him, I became utterly fossilized and stood rooted to the terrazzo for fully ten minutes.

TUESDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

WEDNESDAY—Did you hear of the uproar in Charlie Goddard's French class today? It seems that they came across the word "liaison" while translating. Charlie said, "Who will tell us what it means?" And a sweet young freshman piped up. "Well, all I know about it is that Louis Philippe had lots of them with women."

THURSDAY—The girl got out another extra this morn'g. Diary. The town papers aren't happy either. They can get out an extra constantly. The screaming headlines today read—COED FOUND WANDERING IN DAZE. Well, if they use an extra for that, they could put several out every day on the same subject.

FRIDAY—This afternoon I girded myself, this afternoon I girded myself, I went up with two of the sisters to try out for this all-college-dramatic-movement of Bill Troutman's. After imitating an old maid from Iowa in a high nasal tone, I survived the first round, and passed on into the class of the ingenues. But there was my downfall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall.

SATURDAY—Another day now and all the good looking cars will have disappeared from the campus, now that boys' rushing is over. I am positively maudlin to think that football is really beginning in earnest, but when I think of the long hard pull ahead making 8 o'clocks on sub-zero mornings, I get despondent again. Thank heaven, diary, my education is nearly complete.

SUNDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

MONDAY—Oh, diary! I'm all up in Bascom hall this morning! What do you think I saw? Never in all my experience as a college woman have I been so hyper-tensive! Anyway, diary, it was a bearded man—practically covered with out-growth, and I knew right away, as I saw him leering at me, that it was another prize from the Experimental college. You know as well as I do, diary, that I hate to keep bringing up the Experimental college, and I really think they have a few nice boys who got in by mistake, but really, this man was too good to pass up with a mere gesture. People were positively stopping and staring at him all over the hall, and there was a regular nigger pile by the information window caused by the traffic jam. The minute I saw him, I became utterly fossilized and stood rooted to the terrazzo for fully ten minutes.

TUESDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

WEDNESDAY—Did you hear of the uproar in Charlie Goddard's French class today? It seems that they came across the word "liaison" while translating. Charlie said, "Who will tell us what it means?" And a sweet young freshman piped up. "Well, all I know about it is that Louis Philippe had lots of them with women."

THURSDAY—The girl got out another extra this morn'g. Diary. The town papers aren't happy either. They can get out an extra constantly. The screaming headlines today read—COED FOUND WANDERING IN DAZE. Well, if they use an extra for that, they could put several out every day on the same subject.

FRIDAY—This afternoon I girded myself, this afternoon I girded myself, I went up with two of the sisters to try out for this all-college-dramatic-movement of Bill Troutman's. After imitating an old maid from Iowa in a high nasal tone, I survived the first round, and passed on into the class of the ingenues. But there was my downfall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall. A sweet young fellow looked like fall.

SATURDAY—Another day now and all the good looking cars will have disappeared from the campus, now that boys' rushing is over. I am positively maudlin to think that football is really beginning in earnest, but when I think of the long hard pull ahead making 8 o'clocks on sub-zero mornings, I get despondent again. Thank heaven, diary, my education is nearly complete.

SUNDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

SUNDAY—One of my new quiz instructors is really quite fascinating dear diary. I could expatiate for hours. He looks somewhat like an Australian Bushman, but he has a nice face, when you find it. If he would only let me cut his hair he would be handsome. I have another instructor that sounds like a steam radiator when he talks. He makes a nice soothing continuous noise up in the front of the room. And I—positively lulled away by it.

Several Short

Notes on the Modern Scene

By H. K. Rammel who is column writer of note

WHENEVER I hear a backward-looker expressing a forlorn longing for the moral standards of by-gone days, I yawn as politely as possible and wend my way elsewhere at the first opportunity. The good old days. Days when the biggest berries grew on the top of the box. Days when green peaches were cosmetized to make them look ripe. Days when leading citizens calmly and boldly insisted that cotton pants were strictly all wool. Days of gold tricks, cut glass diamonds, electric health belts and liver pads. Days when a deacon, without injury to his conscience, could sell a horse with heaves, seven-year-itch, insomnia, paranoia, and bunions as a sound animal. Days when getting drunk frequently was a civic duty and wife beating was nobody's business. Days when the public-be-lamed and all-the-traffic-will-bear characterized the ramifications of corporations. Days when even a preacher couldn't hold his job if he tried to tell the truth about truthfulness. Days when . . . please . . . please . . . please pass that plate of modern immorality over this way.

THE man who whistles at his work is both a four-flusher and a nuisance. . . . The man who is willing to starve the man who makes his ideals pay the grocer's bill commands respect. . . . The patent office in Washington is full of models of better mouse traps whose inventors died of old age while they waited for the world to beat paths to their doors.

Nothing will so quickly ruin man's faith in the institution of marriage as fried pork chops six times a week.

One of the wonders of the age is the failure of reformers to demand the suppression of books of mythology. Is it possible that they know nothing of the private lives of Jupiter, Juno, Minerva, Mars, Apollo, Venus, and the other Greek and Roman deities whose forms, in deathless and breathless marble, adorn our art galleries? These folks were murderers. They were thieves. They were immoral. even to the terrific n'th degree. Yet the only objection I have ever heard to their statues was the fact that some of the women were insufficiently silent but none the less all-around braicings. My promise to the "boss" fices—for the purpose of banishing them, eternally, from the memory of man.

I am opposed to horse racing because the horses enjoy it. I am opposed to bull fighting because the spectators enjoy it. I am opposed to prize fighting because I fear that, were I not so tremendously esthetic, I should enjoy it.

Fundamentalist though I am in my major ramifications and contacts, I steadily refuse to accept the Book of Etiquette as an inspired document, in the sense at least that the Holy Bible, the constitution of the United States and the promulgations of the Rev. Dr. Wilbur Crafts are inspired. I deny the right of any man to call me heretic because I like to crumble crackers in my soup, and chop my salad into shreds with my knife and fork, and blow upon my coffee to cool it, and pick the bones out of a fish with my fingers, and butter a whole slice of bread at one time. God created the succulent young chicken, including the bones. Days of earnest research, meditation and prayer have failed to furnish me with evidence that God created knives and forks.

Lament

I LEAVE the village where all these things are and where I am a something. I go amongst the mob where I am a nothing.

Daily Fact

The flies in Bascom libe are the most affectionate beasts yet found around these parts.

Lament

I LEAVE the village where all these things are and where I am a something. I go amongst the mob where I am a nothing.

Daily Fact

The flies in Bascom libe are the most affectionate beasts yet found around these parts.

Lament

I LEAVE the village where all these things are and where I am a something. I go amongst the mob where I am a nothing.

Daily Fact

The flies in Bascom libe are the most affectionate beasts yet found around these parts.

Lament

I LEAVE the village where all these things are and where I am a something. I go amongst the mob where I am a nothing.

Daily Fact

The flies in Bascom libe are the most affectionate beasts yet found around these parts.

Lament

I LEAVE the village where all these things are and where I am a something. I go amongst the mob where I am a nothing.

Daily Fact

The flies in Bascom libe are the most affectionate beasts yet found around these parts.

Campus Features

When There Is No Car

A Short Short Story of a Man Who Watched a Girl Through Curious Eyes

By A. C. D. HARTWIG

THE TRAIN was speeding through the snow-covered monotony of trees and field and village and small cities which constitute the landscape of the state of Wisconsin.

I chanced to look up from my volume of Cabell's "Figures of the Earth" just as a country bumpkin slumped down beside me without troubling to inquire as to the vacancy of the place. I offered him some chocolates; he took the box and without a word carried it to the rear of the

A GROWING INSTITUTION!

Each year Madison business men look more to the University for increased sales. Each year realizing that the only effective way to reach the students and faculty of the University is through the medium of The Daily Cardinal they increase their advertising budget for The Cardinal.

Surveys conducted by the Advertising Department show that money invested in Cardinal Advertising brings in returns of from 250 to 500 per cent in gross sales which can be traced directly to CARDINAL ADVERTISING.

Do You Want Student Business?

Of course you do. And you can easily bring it to your establishment by getting in touch at once with the Advertising Department of

The Daily Cardinal

Official Daily Paper of the University of Wisconsin

For Information Call Badger 6606

"Complete Campus Coverage"

Langdon Hall Plans Activities

Athletic Teams, Glee Club, Orchestra to Be Organized by Women

Plans for athletic activities, a glee club and an orchestra have been made by women of Langdon hall.

Dorothy Maercklein '30, who has just returned from France, where she studied music in a conservatory at Fontainebleau, Florence Bickle '31, Miriam Modisette, Martha and Grace Wolfe, Lotta Veazey, and Mary Fountain are prospective pianists.

Helen Downey, who has sung over three radio stations in Chicago, one at Stevens Point, and one in Madison, will be a member of the glee club.

The outlook on athletics is very promising. Theodora Wiesner, president of the Women's Athletic association, Helene Eckstein, another officer, and Louise Zinn, who has charge of all women's intramural competition, are residents of the hall. Other prospects are Verona Hardy, Helen Elliott, and Jane Campbell.

The complete list of entrants for different sports will be announced soon and dates for all tryouts will be given.

When There Is No Car

(Continued from Magazine Sec.) before replying. Then she said slowly, "Yes, and you're a newspaper man that I met coming up from Madison one night. That's when I was going to the Normal."

"Well? How about that date tonight?" I too was eager.

She hesitated. She opened her mouth to speak but hesitated. Her eyelids closed; then they slowly reopened. A dying fire seemed to glow within her gloomy pitch-black eyes. She said, "I can't. But tomorrow night..."

I laughed and walked toward the door. Here I halted for a second. Then with a half smile on my face that I took pains that she should see, I continued on my way.

Of course, she knew that I didn't have a car.

Later in the evening I saw the salesman's Chrysler drive up to the store. The two drove away.

Two days later Hazel Haiman's body was washed ashore at Light-house Point. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

I made an exclusive "scoop" on the story and sold it to a number of city papers. The checks were sufficient to make a down payment on a Chrysler.

Even now when I think of Hazel Haiman, I grow eager—as my mind recreates and dreams.

Jewish Students Welcome the New Year With Program

About 200 Jewish students of the university attended a New Year celebration at the Woman's building at 10 a. m. Saturday.

A colorful service was conducted which included the blowing of the shofar, a rite symbolic of the New Year celebrations. The services marked the second part of a ceremony ushering in the 5690 year of the Jewish calendar.

Rabbi Solomon Landman officiated and music was played by Prof. L. I. Itlis, of the university music department. Ten young women of the university participated in the choir music. Prayer books were furnished by the Hillel foundation, who sponsored the service.

Potted palms arranged along the front of the platform and the symbolic seven candle candelabra formed the decorative background.

The RAMBLER

"Complete Campus Coverage"

The department of buildings and grounds is in receipt of a letter which was addressed to the "Swine department" but for some reason delivered to the aforementioned office.

A student in this university is named Mary Sippy '33. Her mother therefore must be none other than Mrs. Sippy.

"Perhaps it's because they know better," suggested Bill Fadiman '30 when we suggested that graduate students do not assume the cocksure attitude of the undergraduates. The occasion was the Graduate mixer Friday night.

Hold everything, here's one on the Kappas. Here were the girls entertaining some of the boy friends on a very ordinary evening when the course of conversation turned to the new dwelling. The sister then began to tell of the fact that although their house was large, unlike other houses, it was also homey and cosy. While they were relating this information a taxicab driver entered walked up and down the corridor, looked around, took off his cap and scratched his head, looked blankly into the parlor, and finally summoned up enough courage to ask one of the male guests, "Say, mister, where's the office of this here building?"

At one of the sorority houses a pair of roommates are working by mutual agreement. When one has a late date the other waits up until after the house mother has gone to bed and unlocks the door for the delinquent one. They alternate on the scheme of things.

A complaint reaches our ears concerning the activities of the girls in Langdon hall. We are told that they are in the habit of spilling cups of water out of dark windows at all hours of the night.

During the recent Latin American seminar luncheon, Prof. E. A. Ross had the occasion to tell his latest and favorite golf story. First of all he explained that it was the first time he could tell it without any fear, inasmuch as the presence of Director Hubert C. Herring of the committee on cultural relations with Latin America provided him with an eye witness to the scene. It seems that while he was playing golf near Mexico City one day, Prof. Ross drove his ball quite some distance and was unable to find it for some time. When the ball was located, it was found to have been driven onto the needle of one of the cactus plants which abounded in the vicinity of the course.

In seating the students in one of his classes, Prof. Charles Dean Cool of the Spanish department filled the first five rows with men and the sixth with women, offering the comment that he liked to have men banked by women. He added, on looking at the size of the class, that he envied the football coach his privilege of cutting the squad.

"After hearing the gang next door sing," says Fritz Bolender '33, "I decided that they had put the 'harm' in harmony."

After the wearisome task of dividing the freshman English classes into appropriate divisions had been completed a group of the advanced section met in 304 Bascom hall. The instructor in charge of the class then took a good part of the period to explain the nature of the advanced section and its purpose. When he had completed his talk, a blonde young man (we know his last name is Pederson) asked, "Is this an 'A,' 'B,' 'C,' or 'D' group?"

Hope Wells '33 called up one of her new university boy friends one bright evening and showed her cultural background. We mean she sang some French chansons to him over the wire. We were unable to find out the names of the songs since the boy friend didn't know what it was all about.

For the first time in the history of the Rehwald family, Charles '31 outwrestled Richard '32, the match being the latest of a series in the Chi Phi house. On all previous occasions Rick has outwrestled Chuck, the principal reason being attributed to the difference in weight. Chuck, 145 lbs., Richard, 170 lbs. (Certified Keefe weights.)

Facts about the Memunion... there's a new hotel register at the main desk... the electric bulb in the men's room on the third floor needs replacement... since men were barred from the Great hall it has become more popular than a burlesque show... Eddie, the elevator boy, is a speed typist... phonograph records are swiped from the rathskeller as quickly as they are replaced.

He Dusts Latin

(Continued from Magazine Sec.) named Little Ruby, until by common consent they suddenly made a pause and each man took a drink of water from one of the little buckets, wiped his face with the paper provided, and sprinkled some salt in the ring, this latter to give good luck. Little Ruby's salt must have done the work because a few seconds after the resumption of hostilities, Little Ruby embraced my man around the stomach, and despite all my pleadings, raised him bodily off the floor and tossed him like a big shining sack of flour onto the ground outside the ring. I closed my eyes expecting to hear a dull bursting sound like the water melon makes when you drop it on the side walk, but nothing happened. When I opened my eyes again, Man Mountain had disappeared and Little Ruby was squatting on one side of the ring with the umpire pointing his fan at him in announcement that he was the victor.

"I guess you saw Little Ruby do a pretty big thing," remarked Sid as we left the place.

"Yes," I said, "but you didn't mention that you were bringing me to a weight-lifting contest."

Fifty-four instructors at the University of Iowa have served on the faculty of that institution for more than 20 years.

Best Place to Buy Men's Shoes

If we could make you men on the campus realize that this store is the logical place to supply your footwear needs our business would grow by leaps and bounds. Our values are without question THE BEST IN MADISON... Come in and make us prove it. STYLES APPROVED BY COLLEGE MEN PRICED AT

$5.00 and $6.00 a Pair

NEVER HIGHER

404
STATE
ST.

M AND C
SHOE STORE

404
STATE
ST.

"THE LITTLE SHOE STORE With BIG VALUES"

As Well Dressed

My four years' experience at the University has taught me where to look for the best in cleaning and pressing service. In order that you may be spared the tiresome weeding out process, I advise you to send your suits to...

10% for Cash and Carry
$5 Cash buys $6 Credit

Learn To Fly

For Pleasure... For Profit...

The Royal Airways Corporation maintains a flying school in Madison supervised by government rated instructors. A number of courses are offered which may be taken conveniently by University students. All courses are complete and practical.

SPECIAL GROUND COURSE
(Evenings) 24 lectures
PRIVATE PILOT'S COURSE

GROUND COURSE FOR PILOTS
COMMERCIAL PILOT'S COURSE

TRANSPORT PILOT'S COURSE
This course includes a Monocoupe or Monoprep Plane which becomes the property of the student

ROYAL FLYING ACADEMY

Heeb Bldg., Gorham at Broom, 1/2 block off State

B-6568

Plant:
829 E. Washington
B-6088

Javidusky's
INCORPORATED

EXCLUSIVE CLEANERS AND DYERS

Student Branch
341 State St.
F-4998

Daily Reports
of Badger Teams

CARDINAL SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

"B" Squad Tramples Teachers 33-0

Badgers Down Colgate 13-6 in Snappy Tilt

Ideal Conditions Prevail as Cardinals Break Eastern Grid Jinx

(Continued from Page 1)

69 yards from scrimmage, and Behr romped off with 22 yards in mostly line-skirting runs.

Russ Rebholz, Hal's kid brother, who spent a great deal of time filling in for Lusby at right half, fought his way to a 22-yard total gain from scrimmage. The young Rebholz is a sophomore, and shows great possibilities.

Wisconsin's punting, done by R. Rebholz and Ernie Lusby, averaged 41 yards, which was seven yards longer than those of Colgate. The average of punt returns by the Badgers was 15 yards, where the Colgate men returned punts for an average of 10 yards.

Flash Aerial Game

The contest was almost entirely aerial during the second half, as both teams found the opposing lines impregnable, and resorted to the air route. Colgate was more successful in completing passes, and attempted more of them than the Cards.

Colgate won the toss and elected to defend the south goal, with the wind at their backs. Dowler received the kickoff, and on the first play, ran 10 yards around right end, for a first down. Yablok received a long pass from Hart, and was not downed until he had reached the Badger 37-yard line. Macaluso found going pretty tough and didn't make a substantial gain, when he hit the line.

Colgate Scores First

Dowler skirted right end for five yards, and Macaluso failed, on the third down, to make substantial gain. Another pass, Hart to Yablok netted 19 yards, bringing the pigskin to Wisconsin's 10-yard stripe. Dowler raced around left end, and crossed the line on his feet, scoring the first touchdown just three minutes after the opening whistle. Stromiello failed to kick placement for point after touchdown. Score: Wisconsin 0, Colgate 6.

Cards Better on Punts

The remainder of the first quarter was without surprises. Both teams showed excellent defensive ability, but a total of three fumbles spoiled their offense showing. The punts were long and well directed, with Wisconsin showing up better than the invaders. Russ Rebholz was booting the ball for about 45 yards a kick and was placing them well.

At the start of the second quarter, the Badger team went out in active campaign for victory, and during the course of the period they made two showy threats to score.

Rebholz Punts 45 Yards

The battle was started when Russ Rebholz punted from his own 30-yard line out at the Colgate 16-yard line. The Colgate return punt, after a few plays did not go far, and a march down the field was started by the Cardinals. They lost the ball however, when Gillson intercepted one of Lusby's passes.

After Hart had punted and the ball was again Wisconsin's, Lusby sailed a pass to Behr, who took the Cardinal colors to Colgate's 12-yard line. The Badgers lost the ball on downs on this threat.

Colgate Recovers Fumble

Immediately following the Wisconsin gesture, Behr fumbled Hart's punt, and Sullivan recovered in Badger territory. The fumble and recovery precipitated a scoring march by the Maroons, which was halted just short of success, as they lost the ball on downs. The half ended as Lusby booted a 50-yard punt, sending the ball out of dangerous territory into midfield.

The Badgers kicked off in the second half, and when Ketelaar's boot came to rest on the Colgate 25-yard stripe, Hart punted to Wisconsin's 28-yard line, Lusby immediately reciprocated by booting the sphere to Colgate's 23-yard line.

Teams Exchange Punts

Yablok, Conroy, and Hart took the

Cuisiner Praises Cardinals On Cool, Intelligent Playing

(Continued from Page 1)

could have happened to Wisconsin's football team. From then on the boys became players rather than spectators. They very wisely held the ball as much as possible in an effort to punt against the wind as seldom as possible.

Defines Football Strategy

Football strategy in the minds of many, consists in stalling when one is ahead and taking chances when behind, but the situation at this point behind, but the situation at this point wind especially since the game was only a few minutes old. There was no need of throwing suicide passes or taking hazardous chances.

The Cardinals had their work cut out for them: it consisted of playing a hard conservative game at that time. The backs corrected their forward pass defense, while the men in the front trenches dug their nails into the grass and rocked and socked.

Wisconsin Is On Offense

When the second quarter got under way, Wisconsin (with the wind at its back) immediately became an offensive team and with the aid of a few sterling punts, passes, bucks and runs were soon knocking at the door of a touchdown. Wisconsin had two wonderful opportunities to score before the first half ended, but Colgate's wide-awake defense and the over-zealous efforts of the important men wearing the white rompers kept the Cardinals in check.

The second half was started with Wisconsin favored with the wind. It took less than two minutes for them to invade Colgate territory. In order to stop Wisconsin's power which at that time consisted in short bucks, Colgate was forced to play their center on the line of scrimmage, (most Eastern teams have only six men on line when on defense.)

Badgers Outsmart Colgate

Then the Badgers outfoxed their opponents and threw a 30-yard forward pass which was caught in Colgate's end zone for Wisconsin's first score.

What followed this was merely a desperate attempt of Colgate's to score, which was snuffed to such an extent that a second touchdown resulted for Wisconsin and the game ended with a few Wisconsin followers rather happy, but a bit shaky.

Wisconsin Net Squad Defeated 4-2 by Sextet of Local Players

Sidelights Roving Reporter Sees Odd Moments on Field, in Stands

Wow! What a scare Colgate threw into the Wisconsin mob. But it feels great now.

There were lots of interesting things to note before the big game was on. The senior lawyers strutting in with their canes. The "B" team rolling up touchdown after touchdown until it became monotonous. Prexy's cushioned seats. The kids entering the stadium in a mob. The arrival of the band between halves of the first game. The predominance of topcoats. Crowd slowly filtering in. WTMJ and WIBA broadcasting. The bandmen cheering through little megaphones.

The game is on. Colgate marches right down the field and scores a touchdown. They miss the kick. It is the first time Wisconsin's line has been crossed in three games. The crowd realizes that they play football in the east, too. Colgate fumbles and recovers; Wisconsin gets the ball and fumbles; Wisconsin recovers. This boy, Dowler, can do everything, it seems. Liethan is knocked out for a second time in the half but he continues, as the crowd cheers.

We would like to call your attention to the half ton of peanuts consumed by the customers. The real cheering that came from the kids in the northeast part of the stands. The construction work on the field house which continued through the afternoon. The similarity of Colgate's colors to Chicago's. The difference in playing power. The number of trips Bill Fallon made with his first aid kit.

The second quarter is on. Our attention is called to the three men warming up. Jensen, Lusby, and Tobias. There numbers are 29, 39, 59. end in 9. And the total of the first number of the first two equals the first number of the third. All of which means nothing. They spread resin powder all over themselves before entering the skirmish. And they were wearing nicely laundered uniforms at the outset. Colgate is giving its old Co-o-all-gate yell. One of the most famous of all college cheers. Lusby to Behr spells one sweet passing combination. Wisconsin loses the ball. Pass over the goal-line is incomplete. The Badgers don't seem to be able to catch the punts. Colgate

(Continued on Page 13)

Good Line and Shifty Backs Down Teachers With Impressive Win

The Gridiron Battle Lists

STARTING LINE-UPS
WISCONSIN (13)	COLGATE (6)
Gantenbein.....LE.....	Stromiello
Lubratovich.....LT.....	Huntington
Leithan.....IG.....	Doyle
Krueger.....C.....	Cox (Capt.)
Parks (Capt.).....RG.....	Gillson
H. Smith.....RT.....	Haines
Casey.....RE.....	Orsi
Behr.....QB.....	Yablok
Pacetti.....IH.....	Hart
R. Rebholz.....RH.....	Dowler
H. Rebholz.....FB.....	Macaluso

Officials: Referee—Birch (Earlham), Umpire—Schommer (Chicago), Field Judge—Hewitt (Michigan), Head Linesman—Huston (Parsons).

Substitutions

Colgate—Lister for Macaluso, Abruzzino for Orsi, Sullivan for Stromiello, Lockwood for Gillson, Conroy for Dowler, Reynolds for Yablok, Sullivan for Stromiello, Lockwood for Gillson, Rice for Cox, Franklin for Doyle, Schiebel for Virglen, Abruzzino for Orsi, Macaluso for Lister.

Wisconsin—Lusby for R. Rebholz, Tobias for Leithan, Jensen for Casey, Ketelaar for H. Smith, L. Smith for Jensen, Leithan for Tobias, H. Smith for Ketelaar, Shomaker for H. Smith, R. Rebholz for Lusby, Casey for Gantenbein, Linden for Pacetti, Gnabeh for H. Rebholz, Baer for Leithan, Warren for L. Smith, Witte for Lubratovich, Graebner for Behr, Miller for Krueger.

Wisconsin "B" (33) Stevens Point (0)

Kiessling.....IE.....	Chesrow
M. Lubratovich.....LT.M. Smith (Cap.)
Frisch.....LG.....	Chevala
Hansen.....C.....	Block
Backus.....RG.....	Mainland
Forster.....RT.....	Kolka
Catlin.....RE.....	Kitowski
Czerwinski.....QB.....	Schriber
Gustavel.....LH.....	Alberts
Anderson.....RH.....	Miller
Neupert.....FB.....	Marshall

Officials: Referee—Hewitt (Michigan), Umpire—Schomer (Chicago), Field Judge—Birch (Earlham), Head Linesman—Huston (Parsons).

Substitutions

Wisconsin—Oberndorfer for Czerwinski, Hake for Anderson, Swenson for Ferris, Peters for Lubratovich, Merritt for Catlin, Schuck for Neupert, Rottman for Swenson, Backus for Forster, Slaven for Hansen, Lutz for Neupert, Medved for Hake, Schuck for Lutz, Catlin for Peters, Czerwinski for Oberndorfer.

Stevens Point—Aldrich for Chesrow, Kitowski for Smith.

Rabbis Approve Quarterbacks in Colgate Tussle

To the Rabbis of Madison, Wis., and Hamilton, N. Y., should go the credit for providing quarterbacks for the opposing teams in the Wisconsin-Colgate game here yesterday. The day was the first of the two day observance of Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, upon which occasion members of the faith are required to abstain from all but religious activities. According to the ancient precepts, consent of the rabbi must be obtained before deviation from this rule may occur. As a consequence, it was necessary for Sam Behr and Jacob "Indian" Yablok, both of whom are Jewish, to obtain official sanction from the local religious authority.

that they never relinquished when Oscar Kaner, former Wisconsin tennis player, pounded out a hasty victory over Howie Siegal 6-3, 6-4. The victor, a prominent player in Minnesota circles, had little trouble in holding the upper hand by virtue of an accurate and steady driving game, that time and again broke through the defense of Siegal. The latter,

(Continued on Page 13)

Reserves Show Power in Launching Tough Six Game Schedule

By MORRY ZENOFF

The Badger "B" eleven ran roughshod over the Stevens Point teachers in the preliminary to the Colgate-Wisconsin tilt Saturday, and succeeded in chalking up a 33-0 score to take their first win of a tough six game schedule.

A superior Badger line backed up by a shifty and much heavier backfield proved too much for the Northern eleven and throughout the contest they succeeded in gaining but one first down, this on a 15 yard penalty against the Cardinal team.

Neupert Big Aid

Led by the 188 pound fullback, Larry Neupert, the B's kept tearing at the State Teachers' college line until in the latter part of the game, gain after gain was being made through the center of the opposing line. At the start of the game the Badger power became evident when in the fourth play Neupert broke through tackle for a brilliant 30 yard run to open the scoring spree. He missed in his try for the extra point.

Anderson and Lynaugh, Badger backs finished up the first period by dashing around the Pointers' ends consistently only to be stopped when the goal posts were in sight. The Badgers opened up a passing offense late in the quarter but failed to make any gain.

Badgers Scoring Starts

Early in the second stanza, Oberndorfer and Gustavel were injected into the backfield for the Card eleven and the scoring spree started. Gustavel returned a punt through perfect interference 35 yards and on the next play, Hake, speedy Badger half, tore through the line for eight yards and first down. Schuck, who replaced Neupert, on the following play made another first down and was immediately followed by Hake with another.

Two more plays brought the oval to the five yard stripe and Schuck carried it over for the second touchdown. A long pass Oberndorfer to Peters added the extra point. Just before the end of the first half, Oberndorfer returned a punt 50 yards to close the first part of the fray.

Pointers' Line Weak

With the opening of the final half, the Badgers found hole after hole in the Pointers' defence and in the third quarter scored three touchdowns. Neupert, Gustavel and Anderson featured the play in this part of the tilt when they continued to run off long rambles of 10 and 15 yards. Neupert opened the scoring of the half after the ball was worked down to the five yard line. Backus added the extra point with a perfect kick.

Wisconsin kicked to a Stevens Point man who was downed on his own 30 yard line. After two tries at the line, the teachers tried a punt only to have it blocked by Mark Catlin, end, who downed the pigskin on the one yard line. Neupert hopped over the Point line for an easy counter. Backus again booted the ball between the goal posts to bring the score to 27-0.

Score Third Goal

Backus kicked over the goal line to bring the ball back to the 20 yard line for the State college group. They advanced three yards through the line but on the next play fumbled. Lynaugh took the ball for the Badger's and plowed through the line for first down on the Stevens Point five yard line. Lutz, replaced Neupert at full and took the ball over the line for the third touchdown of the period. Backus failed at his try for the extra point as the quarter closed.

The final quarter found the Badgers in possession of the ball for the majority of the time but a series of fumbles at critical times kept them from crossing the goal line. During this period, practically all the candidates on the "B" team roster were given their chance at the Pointers and all played a steady game.

Score 14 First Downs

Throughout the entire tilt Stevens

(Continued on Page 13)

Locals Gain Lead

The local stars went into a lead

Daily Reports of Badger Teams

CARDINAL SPORTS

Athletics in the Collegiate World

Home Grid Edge Lacking at Ohio

Hawks Win All Buckeye Games on Columbus Field

Iowa City—Little of the home grid-iron advantage, so highly regarded by football teams, is apparent in the Iowa-Ohio State series, the records indicate as the Hawkeyes and Buckeyes begin drill for the encounter at Columbus Saturday.

Iowa holds the series edge with four victories, two defeats, and one tie. Each of the Hawkeye triumphs was registered in the Buckeye stadium, while Ohio State won one game and tied the other played on Iowa field.

Iowa Has Edge
Before Ohio State could halt the successive wins of Old Gold teams in their stadium, the Iowans annexed three games, two of them by shut-out scores.

It all started when Gordon Locke, all-American quarterback, piloted his 1922 team to a 12 to 9 victory, one of the five which enabled Iowa to share the Big Ten title with Michigan.

In 1923, the score was 20 to 0, and in 1925, 15 to 0, both results regarded as upsets. The Buckeyes managed to escape with a tie at Iowa City in 1924, and in 1927, their second appearance at the Hawkeyes' home, won a close 13 to 7 victory.

Bucks Win One at Home

The only chance for Buckeye rejoicing in the Columbus stadium came in 1926, when forward passes brought a 23 to 6 whipping down upon the Hawkeyes.

Memories galling to Ohioans were revived last November for an Iowa team at the zenith of its power cracked through to win, 14 to 7—the first 1928 defeat of the Buckeye title-contenders. Willis Glassgow, Iowa half-back, gained 150 yards from scrimmage, just half of the team's total yardage. He will lead the attack again Saturday.

Net Squad Drops Match With Locals

(Continued from Page 12)

however, also showed good form considering the little practice he has had of late.

In the final match of the morning, Harry Goodstitt, a squad member of the Cardinals of two years ago, played with the town aggregation and gained an easy victory over Paul Bauhs. Goodstitt, a southpaw, possessing driving power on either his back or forehead, as well as a good control of a chopping game, proved too strong for his opponent.

Yesterday's match was the first fall match that Wisconsin has ever had in her court history, and its success will probably cause it to be an annual event. For the next few weeks, until bad weather makes playing impossible, the varsity candidates will work out against each other daily.

New Postoffice to Be Erected to Serve University District

A building permit for a new postoffice building to serve the university district was issued yesterday by Commissioner G. E. Nelson. The new postoffice will be located at 327 North Randall avenue. Oscar Rennebohm will build the building at a cost of $13,000. The plans have been prepared by Phil Homer which calls for a structure two stories in height with an area of 28 by 114 feet. The Vogel brothers have been awarded the contract.

Follow the
BADGER WARRIORS
in the
DAILY CARDINAL
Sports Pages

Saturday's Games

Wisconsin 13; Colgate 6.
Wisconsin "B" 33; Stevens Pt. 0.
Notre Dame 14; Indiana 0.
Minnesota 39; Coe 0.
Michigan 17; Mich. State 0.
Illinois 25; Kansas 0.
Purdue 26; Kansas Aggies 14.
Northwestern 14; Beloit 0.
Ohio State 19; Wittenberg 0.
Chicago 27; Beloit 0.
Iowa 46; Monmouth 0.
Marquette 40; Lawrence 0.
N. Y. U. 26; West Va. Wesleyan 0.
Columbia 33; Union 0.
Fordham 33; St. Bonaventure 0.
Pittsburg 52; Duke 7.
St. Xavier 25; Georgetown 13.
Detroit 18; Dayton 0.
Carnegie Tech. 26; Thiel 0.
Drake 18; Okla. A & M 0.
W & L 27; N. Carolina State 0.
Akron 25; Kent 0.
Miami 18; Western Reserve 0.
Ohio University 26; West Liberty 0.
Villanova 14; Loyola (Balt.) 7.
Boston College 42; Maine 0.
Princeton 7; Amherst 0.
Dartmouth 68; Hobart 0.
Yale 89; Vermont 0.
Susquehanna 20; Wash. college 0.
Cornell 22; Niagara 6.
Nebraska 0; So. Methodist 0.
West Va. 7; Duquesne 7.
Mt. Union 20; Defiance 6.
Springfield 0; E. Stroudsburg 0.
Conn. Aggies 13; Wesleyan 0.
Denison 20; Muskogum 0.
John Carroll 33; Adrian 0.

Some Sidelights on the Victories

(Continued from Page 12)
loses the pigskin near the zero marker. . . . Phew!

Between halves . . . The Boy Scout fife and drum corps does a little entertaining . . . Heads are bared as the color guard passes by . . . This particular troop hails from Racine . . . Tod Williston leads the Badger band out . . . They play the Colgate anthem amid the cheers of the handful of "toothpaste" rooters . . . Free pop is offered the gentlemen of the press . . . The water bubler near the dressing room entrance has a waiting line . . . The only place in the stadium where a free drink is obtainable . . . By the way, are they economizing on blank cets? . . . They haven't fired a pistol yet as an indication of the end of the halves . . . Major Morphy chats pleasantly on the Colgate side of the field . . . The band plays "On Wisconsin" . . . There come the teams . . . Cheers, rah-rah, etc.

A badger rooster makes a suggestion . . . "They ought to do a Jim Thorpe" . . . "What's that?" . . . "Put the ball under your jersey and run for a touchdown." . . . Wisconsin's nice flaming red jerseys are almost as dull as the Maroon of Colgate now . . . More business for the laundry . . . One of the girls has suggested that the new suits are of a futuristic design . . . The sun gleaming on the white and red helmets has an awfully attractive effect . . . What's the name of that song the band plays during every time out? . . . Dowler leaves the game on account of injuries . . . Jensen is kayoed but is okay . . . WOW! BEHR PASSES TO GANTENBEIN FOR A TOUCHDOWN . . . A LEFTHANDED PASS . . . LISTEN TO THOSE MANIACS IN THE STANDS . . . LUSBY KICKS IT OVER . . . WISCONSIN LEADS, 7-6 . . . Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, maintains a poker face . . . Hastily manufactured confetti is still coming down . . . The referee starts to carry the ball down the field . . . The crowd hollers . . . But it's the end of the quarter, not a penalty . . . The pistol is not working, you know.

Last quarter . . . Some of them are getting ready to leave . . . We hear some boos . . . The stands didn't like one of the decisions . . . A skyrocket follows . . . The original "sss" that starts it off sounds like a continuation of the boing . . . Pacetti breaks through . . . For the best broken field run of the game . . . Andy Kerr takes some of his players out . . . He pats each on the back as he comes out . . . There are advertisements on the peanut boys' aprons this week . . . The same plane has been flying over the field all afternoon . . . BEHR TAKES IT OVER . . . SCORE, 13-6 . . . Kick is no good . . . Colgate resorts to passing . . . Wisconsin just misses nailing a Colgate man back of the line for a safety . . . It might have been a touchdown, too . . . The crowd is leaving . . . It's all over . . . 13-6, in favor of Wisconsin . . . The band plays "Varsity."

Officers Elected at First Meeting of Hodsey Club

At the annual elections of the Madison Field Hockey club Mrs. Kent Tenney, Mrs. Harold Marsh, and Miss Katherine Cronin were elected president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. At this meeting, the first of the year, over 40 members attended. A picnic supper preceded the business meeting.

Regular practices will be held Wednesdays and Fridays at 12 M. Mondays and Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., and Saturdays at 11 a. m.

The club has already entered the Mid-western tournament to be held on November 15 and 16 at Winnetka, Ill. Miss Wesson, a member of the Madison club, is a member of the selection committee which will pick the Mid-west team at the Winnetka tourney.

It is hoped that games will be scheduled with the Milwaukee club and Rockford college. The traditional game with the Wisconsin varsity will wind up the season.

Badgers Repulse Eastern Invasion

(Continued from Page 12)
ball 15 yards in four plays, but Hart punted. Lusby punted back deep into Colgate territory, and Conroy attempted a return, was downed on his own 12-yard line. Two Colgate plunges fell short, and Hart again punted. It was Wisconsin's ball on the Colgate 35-yard line.

After Lusby failed to gain through the line, he completed a pass to Gantenbein, bringing the ball to Colgate's 18-yard line. Lusby again failed to gain through the line, and a pass, Lusby to Behr, was knocked down. Lusby took five yards round end.

Gantenbein Scores Touchdown
On the next play Lusby sailed the oval to Gantenbein, who was standing alone behind the Maroon goal. Lusby kicked goal. Score: Wisconsin 7, Colgate 6.

The remainder of the quarter was marked only by long punts by both Hart and Lusby, and by two intercepted passes by Lusby. After he had intercepted the second pass, Lusby heaved the oval to Behr, who dropped it. Another pass and a plunge failed, and Lusby punted out on Colgate's five-yard line, as the quarter ended.

Lines Tighten Up
Colgate punted the ball out of the dangerous territory, at the start of the final period, and the Maroon line tightened up, forcing both elevens to an aerial attack.

Lusby intercepted a pass, near the middle of the fourth quarter, which ultimately resulted in the final Badger touchdown. After Lusby brought the ball to Wisconsin, H. Rebholz smashed through from his own 48-yard line to the Maroon 23-yard stripe. The younger Rebholz made 10 yards and first down in two tries, and Colgate was penalized five yards for being offside.

Behr Scores Another
H. Rebholz gained two yards through the line, advancing the ball to Colgate's five-yard line. Sammy Behr leaped over the line for the touchdown. A pass, Lusby to Casey, failed to bring the point after touchdown.

From this point on, Colgate continually took the ball, resorted to long passes and lost the ball on first downs. Lusby and R. Rebholz, who later replaced him punted into Colgate territory each time they received the ball. The Badgers' game was purely defensive, and Colgate was resorting to strenuous measures, as numerous substitutes were sent in, just before the game ended.

Wisconsin Bees in Tophagey Victory

(Continued from Page 12)

Point made but one first down to the Badgers' 14. Neupert lead the scoring for the Badgers with three touchdowns while Schuck and Lutz follow with one each. Backus scored two of the extra points and Peters one.

Next Saturday, The Bees journey over to Ann Arbor to meet a much harder aggregation, the Wolverine seconds. This game should go farther in allowing the candidates to show their wares. Coaches Wagner and Uteritz have made brilliant progress with their men as could be seen in the brilliant showing they made in the Saturday game.

Professor Returns to Music School After Study in France

Mrs. Louise L. Carpenter Works Under Isidor Philipp

After studying all summer under one of the finest of living piano teachers, Isidor Philipp, at the American Conservatory of Music at Fontainebleau, France, Prof. Louise Lockwood Carpenter has returned to the university to continue her work in the music school.

Early last spring Prof. Carpenter received a letter from Philipp himself granting her a scholarship at the Fontainebleau conservatory for this summer session from June 25 to Sept. 25. She had studied under Philipp before, winning the first prize in a piano competition held there at the end of the summer of 1928, so she readily accepted the invitation.

Takes Companion

With her, Prof. Carpenter took Miss Dorothy Maercklein, of Ashley, N. Dak., who is a pupil of hers here at the university and a senior in the Music school. Both of them spent the entire three months studying under Philipp, practicing four, five, and even six hours a day.

Prof. Carpenter appeared in one of the outstanding events of the summer at Fontainebleau, a concert of Gabriel Faure's music which was given in memory of Jacques Durand, leading French music publisher and a founder and benefactor of the school who died last year. She assisted in the playing of Faure's first quartette in C minor, which was the first number on the program.

School Founded in 1921

The Fontainebleau conservatory was founded in 1921 through the combined efforts of American and French musicians, and is open exclusively to American students. Every summer since it was organized some 250 outstanding musicians in all branches have attended its sessions.

The conservatory occupies the entire right wing of the beautiful palace at Fontainebleau. The historic significance of this building dates back to the time of Francis I, Henry IV, and their successors, and it was this palace in which Napoleon signed his abdication of the throne of France.

Has Prominent Teachers

The school is sponsored by the French government, and the faculty includes all of the best known teachers of the Paris conservatory. There were 10 scholarships awarded this last year, one of which was the one that Prof. Carpenter received.

Prof. Carpenter has been in the university music school for the past six years, coming here in 1923. Previous to this time she had spent two years studying piano in Paris, and one in Berlin on a scholarship which she won at Yale as an undergraduate.

Columbia Freshman Is Unhazable; Must Wear Black Neckwear and Caps

New York—Twenty years of reform-minded under-graduate effort bore fruit for decorum at Columbia college when the Sophomore Cap and Rules committee announced abolition of freshman hazing. Peanut-rolling, penny-pushing and toothpick-rowing, it was proclaimed, are henceforth not only unworthy but illegal, and passe besides.

Emancipation day brought comment from pros and cons. It was admitted by members of both blocs that the campus will lose in color what it is gaining in dignity. No more frosh painted up like wild Indians on a lust, the committee strictly enjoins; no more forced poetizing to Madame Goldberg, the gilt lady who sits as alma mater on the library steps; no more Greek dancing on south field. No more anything, said one stand-patting sophomore disgustedly.

Frosh won't have to Charleston and cavort on demand any more and row imaginary shells to victory over imaginary opponents on an imaginary river. The crew is bound to suffer, it was said in some quarters with a worried shake of the head.

Responsible conservative opinion asserted that the whole affair is an incidental upshot of recent pacifistic propaganda. Some, more daring, put the responsibility squarely on the shoulders of Pres. Nicholas Murray Butler.

It was admitted in all fairness, however, that he could hardly have anticipated this repercussion. What Columbia ought to have hereafter, one student suggested, is an observer at disarmament conferences.

Prof. Rogers is right, muttered irate students, the whole country's going sissy. Might as well give up and put on Buster Brown collars and pink bows.

As a concession for anti-abolitionists, the committee will still require frosh to wear cute black longshoremen's caps with white buttons and to forego all but black neckwear.

Follow Your Team In The Cardinal

Francis Xavier "Bo" Cuisinier is beginning the first of a series of articles by himself, written exclusively for the Daily Cardinal in today's paper.

Cuisinier, who was nominated to several all-conference positions in 1928, for his showing at quarterback on the Wisconsin football team, receives confidential information during each football tilt and he augments these reports with his own opinions, to make out a report for the coaching staff.

From this excellent viewpoint of the game Cuisinier is able to write a technical view of each contest which cannot be rivalled.

Episcopalians Hold Program to Observe St. Francis Week

National Luminaries, University People Outline Commemoration Activities

A series of special activities in observance of St. Francis week will begin this morning in the St. Francis house, headquarters of the Episcopalian students in the university.

The most important of these is the laying of the cornerstone of the new Rev. Stanley M. Cleveland Episcopal Memorial chapel, 1001 University avenue, at a non-service on Wednesday. Prof. Carl Russell Fish of the history department, senior warden of the Grace Episcopal church, will be the principal speaker at the ceremony, while the stone will be laid by the Right Rev. Mr. W. W. Webb, bishop of the diocese of Milwaukee.

Frank Addresses Group

Pres. Glenn Frank will be present and is expected to speak a few words of greeting. Gov. Walter J. Kohler will be there also unless unexpectedly called from the city, but will not speak.

Among the other guests will be the Right Rev. Mr. B. F. P. Ivins, bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Milwaukee; the Right Rev. Mr. R. H. Weller, bishop of the diocese of Fond du Lac and all the clergy of the diocese of Milwaukee of which Madison is a part. About 200 laymen in the city for the annual diocesan laymen's conference will also be present.

House Has Program

This morning special services are to be held in the St. Francis house chapel. Holy communion will be held at 8:15 a. m. and will be followed by the longer communion at 10 a. m. The Rev. Mr. Norman C. Kimball, student chaplain, will speak on the life of St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of the Episcopal chapel.

Closing the activities on Friday night will be a reception and dance in Lathrop parlors from 8:30 p. m. until 12 midnight, new student churchmen to be the guests of honor. Members of the committee and others prominent on the campus will be in the receiving line and will welcome the students from 8:30 until 9 a. m. when the dancing will commence.

Those in charge of the week's program are Robert Calkins '30, chairman, Ruth Burdick '31, Katherine Roddis '32, Tom Kirmse, grad, and Selby Mills '30. Music during the week will be furnished by the vested choirs of the Grace church, St. Andrew's church, St. Francis chapel and by the St. Francis student choir under the direction of Norman Behrens.

Halverson, Dudley to Speak at Annual Teachers' Meeting

L. H. Halverson of the geography department and W. H. Dudley, chief of the bureau of visual education will be among the Madison teachers to speak at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Teachers' association which will be held in Milwaukee, Nov. 7-9, according to the announcement from B. H. McCormick, secretary of the association. Other speakers will be Miss Pauline Camp of the Madison schools and F. S. Randle, principal of the East Side high school.

Prof. Fish Uses Airplane to Keep Speaking Dates

Professor Carl Russell Fish, professor in American history at the university, reserved an airplane from the Royal Airways to transport him to Minneapolis, where he will deliver a lecture Oct. 17.

Professor Fish promised two sections of the Minnesota Teachers' association that he would lecture to them on Oct. 17 and 18, at Morehead and Thief River Falls, Minn. Discovering that he could not keep the appointment if he went by train he struck upon the idea of traveling by air.

The plane will be piloted by Capt. Howard Morey, chief pilot at the Royal Airways.

Have Your Old Permanent Wave REWAVED

so it is like a new wave
By our special process for Rewaving the new grown out hair

ROSEMARY BEAUTY SHOP

B. 6211 521 State

Baird, Pianist, Appears Dec. 3

Union Board Brings Outstanding Musician for Great Hall Recital

The appearance in Madison of Miss Martha Baird, pianist, in the Great hall of the Memorial Union on Dec. 3, under the auspices of the Men's Union, will be of especial interest to Madisonians. Miss Baird attracted attention in Madison in a private recital at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Slaughter last season. A reception was accorded her, at that time, by a group which included many of Madison's best amateur musicians.

Since Miss Baird's debut in Boston some years ago, she has appeared in almost every musical center of America and the continent and with many of the best orchestras.

Observer Praises Work

The London Observer, in its comments on her work under the direction of Sir Henry Wood, marked the "exquisite quality and freshness" of her work. Other continental cities, hearing her during the course of the same season, have referred to her as "a young pianist who fully justifies her inclusion in the ranks of musical celebrities," and a "genius of the first order possessing all the qualities necessary to a great pianist, superb technique, artistic insight and intelligent grasp."

The music editor of the London Daily Express credited her with an excellent performance of Mozart's Pianoforte Concerto in "G" which he had ever heard.

Announce Complete Program

A concert will be presented by the Barrere Little Symphony under the direction of Georges Barrere, March 12. The Barrere group, numbering 14, has been heard frequently in radio concerts over WHBC. They appeared in Madison some years ago through the efforts of Prof. E. H. Byrne.

The artists who will be presented in the Great hall series include:
Nov. 5—Efrem Zimbalist, violinist.
Nov. 25—The English Singers.
Dec. 3—Martha Baird, pianist.
Feb. 18—Andres Segovia, guitarist.
March 12—The Barrere Little Symphony.
March 25—Vladimir Horowitz, pianist.

INTERESTED IN ARTS

The finer arts claim a greater interest from the freshmen of Northwestern university, Boston, than athletics. Of all students, 115 are interested in dramatics, 107 are studying music, and 106 show an interest in publications. A total of 106 have been

Celebrated Pianist

MISS MARTHA BAIRD

attracted by basketball, 96 by football, and 84 by baseball.

WALK-OVER

MAIN SPRING ARCH

SOMETHING you will appreciate—this sitting-down comfort when you are walking. Normal, active feet will go just so far and then tired muscles will remonstrate. It is here that the Main Spring Arch proves its friendliness.

Built upon an entirely new principle, it acts as a shock absorber with every step. Let weary muscles sag and it is ready to relieve them with its gentle support.

It does more than rest tired muscles; it does much to prevent their tiring.

*Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

WALK-OVER
On Capitol Square

Reserve Cars for RUSHING

Oftentimes during the rushing season . . . when all of the house cars are in use . . . there is a demand for extra automotive equipment.

On such occasions call KOCH Rent-A-Car and in a few moments a brand new car will be delivered to your door . . . or may we suggest that you take out a car and keep it at your house for an extra.

Call BADGER - 1200

. . . and choose from . . .

New Fords . . . Chevrolets . . . Pontiacs
Oaklands . . . Graham-Paiges . . . Chryslers

KOCH
RENT A CAR
DRIVE IT YOURSELF

NOW PLAYING
To Record
Breaking Crowds!

CAPITOL
MADISON'S FINEST THEATRE

GLAMOROUS! GORGEOUS! HEART BREAKING! TALKING!

Singing! Dancing! Brilliant with Color! Flashing with Romance! The supreme achievement of the talkies!

HAL SKELLY

—AND—

NANCY CARROLL

—IN—

"The DANCE OF LIFE"

Ziegfeld Beauty Chorus of 100—Orchestra of 150—Gorgeous 'Follies' Ballet Unquestionably the Finest Musical - Romance - Drama Ever Presented in MADISON !!!

After the Show

the glorious glamorous breathtaking entertainment. With new songs, original dances, ravishing chorus beauties, brilliant Broadway revue scenes in TECHNICOLOR. You into the intimate lives and loves of these laughing, entertaining jesters! Into the heartbreaking romance which thrilled the world in the stage-hit sensation, "BURLESQUE." You laugh and thrill with these real-life people of the show world. In this glorious epic of the TALKING screen.

Go Backstage

Here's Theater News... Garbled

New Shows at Parkway, Orph and Garrick, Supposed to Be Good....

By BOB GODLEY

We saw a non-talking movie the other day and to be frank it was sort of silly because we sat expectantly every time the comedian opened his mouth waiting to hear his voice. All we got was a subtitle. The picture was one of those pie throwing comedies with a lot of wise-crack subtitles. Sic Transit Gloria Mundi.

But a comedy like those which Chaplin makes doesn't need talking. We have seen Chaplin comedies which need but one or two titles to explain the action and Charles never needed a dialogue title. He did everything with pantomime. The titles which were used were usually of one word such as "Despair," "Remorse," "Lonely," etc.

In "City Lights" Chaplin's new comedy, no one talks, but there is a scene which has jerked the tears from the hardest and toughest of the pre-view reviewers. Chaplin, a bum, has befriended a blind girl who idealizes him. He fixes it so that her eyes are operated upon and she is able to see. On her way out of the hospital she meets Charlie, her unknown benefactor, whom she thinks is a collar ad. She laughs in his face and the picture ends with Charles shuffling down the street.

New Shows

The Garrick will open to-day with "Meet the Wife," Mary Boland's Broadway smash. This enjoyed tremendous popularity in the Beeg Town. The Orpheum will have a new Vaude bill, and the picture, "Sailor's Holiday."

"Fast Life," one of the better flaming youth pictures, will open at the Parkway.

Staying Single

Staying Single is a tough racket for gents who are out of college. Here's why:

The recent grad gallops off to the big town and the new job and decides he'll make his pile and settle down when he's 45.

Then he gets homesick and decides to get married when he is 30.

Comes a moonlight night and he feels awfully sentimental and thinks that he will get married as soon as he is making $200 a month.

Then one night he sees a Greta Garbo movie and wonders if it wouldn't be a better idea to save up $1,000 and get married then.

Then one night he is very lonely and decides that as soon as he gets any kind of a raise he will get married.

And in January he gets a touch of flu or something and as he lies in bed in his room, with no parents or fraternity brothers to pity him, he decides that he needs someone to sew on buttons for him.

So there is a June wedding.

Other Reasons

And three other reasons for getting married:

1. Blondes.
2. Brunettes
3. Red Heads.

Biography

Here's a Jazz Biography of Glenn Frank, master of sixth pop art. He was born in Queen City, Mo., 1887.

At the age of 16 he was The Boy Angelist.

He worked his way through school, attending Kirksville Normal and Northwestern university.

He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and a dozen other organizations.

And he was a member of Delta Tau Delta.

When he graduated he was made vice prexy of Northwestern.

After a stretch in Boston he became cultured and took up the editorship of Century Mag.

Then he came here as official Varsity Welcomer.

He likes to dance.

He likes fine conservative clothes.

He is more famous as the man who brought spats to Madison than he is for his books.

He has entertained visiting geniuses and local celebrities, including E. H. Sothern and Roundy.

He rejects over 100 lecture engagements every year.

He is a total abstainer.

But he smoked cigars.

He keeps a box of 3 for 50's in his desk which he never offers to anyone except regents. (And legislators).

He writes for over 200 newspapers. He does his writing in his shirtsleeves she ever liked was one in Chi which had been closed by the Health Department before she got back to it.

Hoofer

Broadwayites will tell you that the best hoofer they know is Billy Pierce, who never danced on a stage in his life.

Teaches routines to some of the best, and reported originator of Zella O'Neil's "Varsity Drag."

Crack

Maestro Jack White is responsible for this one, "The poorhouse wasn't tough enough so they had to put a hill in front of it."

Nother Fact

The Marx Bros. (not the clothing firm) sign all their contracts in green ink. Don't ask us.

Al

We hear that Al Jolson's favorite word is "Baby."

It wouldn't take a poisonous acquaintance to dope that one out.

Bennett

Richard Bennett refuses to wear a wig but has his hair dyed to suit his part. So far it's been red, brown, gray, yellow, and brown. Anything to suggest.

Trio

Margery Williams, Doris McPherson, and Al Jackson motored thru the East this summer. Al is looking hale and hearty.

More Al

Jackson is subbing for office manager at the Garrick in absence of Maurice Burgeson.

Wet Stuff

Tide is turning from Canada Dry to Mission Orange. Girls like it better. (Ad.)

Show 'Em

Critics of "Broadway" said the night club set used was much too large. Carl Laemmle took it to heart and is making ditto set for White-man's "King of Jazz" seven times as big.

Pharm

Pharmacy recently sprouted a new awning. Won't know the place.

Rushing

Head usher at Strand being rushed by couple of eating clubs. Ha, free tickets in the offing.

GET THIS

PARKWAY—Doug Fairbanks Jr. in "Fast Life" ... starts today.

CAPITOL—Hal Skelly and Nancy Carroll in "Dance of Life" ... best of the backstage stories.

STRAND—Lowe and McLaglen in "The Cockeyed World" ... laugh hit of the season.

ORPHEUM—Allan Hale in "Sailor's Holiday" ... starts today.

GARRICK—Al Jackson Players in "Meet the Wife" ... starts today.

and has his material copied by a steno.

He is a member of The Players Club in N'Yoick which was founded by Edwin Booth.

And he is a very nice guy but he doesn't remember that the old skipper of this column once ate dinner with him and gave him a cigar. (Maybe the cigar was no good)

Queer

Helen Westley of the Theatre Guild carries a bottle of milk under her arm when she goes for a walk and feeds all the stray cats she sees.

She envies Heywood Brown the way he dresses and the only restaurant

The Home of the Original Spoken Drama

GARRICK THEATRE

The Only Theatre in Madison Where You Can Reserve Seats in Advance. Get into the Habit of Calling BADGER 4900

Beginning With a Matinee TODAY

The Al Jackson Players

—offer—

THE SPICIEST HILARIOUS COMEDY OF THE YEAR

MEET THE WIFE

IT'S A HIT

MATINEE TODAY at 3:00 P.M. 50c - 35c and 25c

EVERY NIGHT at 8:00 P.M.—OVER by 10:15 P.M.

Take Your Rushees to the GARRICK for a Theatre Party—

ASK THE MGR. ABOUT RATES

Now Showing

Presented on FOX MOVIE TONE

all talking - all laughing
SENSATION OF THE YEAR

"THE COCK EYED WORLD"

WITH VICTOR McLAGLEN
EDMUND LOWE
LILY DAMITA

Midnite Show On Saturday Nite Too

FOX MIDWEST CO STRAND

PARKWAY Starts TODAY

Fast Workers ... Loose Morals

Young America Trying to Get Away with Murder

DOUG. FAIRBANKS, Jr. ... LORETTA YOUNG CHESTER MORRIS — Star of "Alibi"

... in ...

"Fast Life"

All Talking - Singing - Dancing

—COMING THURSDAY—

WARNER BROS.

GOLD DIGGERS of Broadway

100% NATURAL COLOR
SINGING & DANCING PICTURE

AN R-KO THEATRE

ORPHEUM

R-KO VAUDEVILLE & FINEST TALKING PICTURES

STARTING TODAY — ON THE STAGE
BROADWAY'S POPULAR JUVENILE COMEDIAN
DON SANTOS with EXIE BUTLER
AND THEIR GANG in 'HOTTEST THING EVER'

—featuring—
THE SEVEN RYTHMANIACS—Ruth Roberts and Sam Stone
ROBINS & JEWETT — E. & JAY McCREA

100% Talking!
100% Laughing!
100% Thrilling!

300% Entertaining!

Pathe presents

SAILORS' HOLIDAY

with ALAN HALE AND SALLY EILERS

Pathe Picture

A Joy Fest Every Man, Woman and Child Will Rave Over for Weeks—Don't Miss Seeing This Hilarious Comedy.

ALL ABOARD for the Big Joy Cruise! — There's a Laugh Every Second with ALAN HALE as Your Guide —OH, WHAT FUN!

— STARTING WEDNESDAY —
A SUPREME EVENT OF THE SEASON
The World-Renowned Celebrity—In Person
LITA GREY CHAPLIN
(FORMERLY MRS. CHARLES CHAPLIN)

Do They Say This About You?

"I'm tired of telling people he's nicer than he looks"

ALL OF US KNOW PEOPLE WHOSE KIND FRIENDS APOLO-GIZE FOR THEM...

Apology No. 1

"He's awfully nice to the children—once you get to know him you forget how he looks."

Apology No. 2

"Say—listen—you're wrong if you judge that fellow by his clothes. He's be a big money maker if the right person would show him how to dress."

Apology No. 3

"Smart—you bet he's smart—he's got real brains. When you've known him as long as I have you don't think about his clothes any more."

Apology No. 4

"Who? Bill? Don't kid yourself—Bill's nobodys fool even though he does dress sort of sloppy. Give him a chance and you'll see he's got real stuff."

Dress Well and Succeed

Let The Co-op Help You Keep This as a Slogan

Come to any salesman at the Co-Op . . . Here are
"Joe" Ripp, "Ed" Olsen, Frank Powers, "Ches" Kretchman, and "Ed" Stephenson ("Steve") . . . all of whom are ever alert on what is new and correct in wearing apparel at Wisconsin

. . . Through tireless effort they have secured just that . . . KNOWLEDGE. Come in the store and look around . . . Feel free to ask questions . . . Or if you know of something new, tell the boys, they'll thank you for it . . . Get acquainted with the salesmen and the store . . .

The UNIVERSITY CO-OP

E. J. GRADY, Manager

STATE at LAKE