Base Ball. Wisconsin vs. Northwestern, CAMP RANDALL, To-Morrow Afternoon

COACH O'DEA WRITES

DISCUSSES WORK OF THE VARIOUS CREWS.

Afternoon Classes Work Hardship
With Crew Men—Approves Movement for Girls' Crew.

After the rush and hurry incidental to getting the crews upon the water, and launching the "John Day," a little order is now being obtained, and with the possible exception of rough water, the crews will be enabled to work regularly from now on. The naval department is experiencing considerable difficulty this year on account of afternoon recitations which are very seriously interfering with the work of the freshman crew. If our freshman crew does not perform as well this year as last we can lay a good deal of the blame to the afternoon recitation for we have apparently as good material this year as worked for the 1903 boat, but unfortunately we have been unable to work different combinations, and the result is a great unsteadiness in the freshman boat which must be eliminated before we can expect to go fast for a distance. It is unfortunate for Wisconsin, as it undoubtedly adds another serious handicap, comparatively speaking, to the already long list which we are laboring under. The freshmen are at present working well, but the results are not quite as justifying as we could wish. There is good pace in the boat, and a good run between strokes. The pace, however, is not consistent, and the boat is very unsteady. The body form suffers by comparison with the 1903 combination even at so early a stage as this.

There are three or four positions which are not at all satisfactorily filled at present, and new combinations must be tried before we can hope to improve the crew.

Weather permitting, the freshmen will race the law school crew over a course of one mile starting from the west end of the lake and finishing at the boat house. On account of the ball game this race will be rowed, if possible, at 11 a. m. Saturday, May 4. The laws are working well, and though they do not get quite so good a run on their boat, they certainly do keep their craft much steadier, and if the freshmen do not improve, this very steadiness of the law crew will defeat them.

The Varsity order has been changed and it seems for the better. This crew is rapidly rounding into form, and the boat is rowed upon a very even keel for so early in the season. There is lots of dash and ginger in the boat, and if the endurance prove satisfactory, Wisconsin will have no reason to be ashamed of her crew this year.

The following is the order:

Bow, Trevanthen; 2, Levissee; 3, Lounsbury; 4, Jordan; 5, Gibson; 6, Stevenson; 7, Gapin; stroke, Quigley.

Jordan at 4 is an adult special taking the regular freshman work. He is a strong fellow without rowing experience but he promises well and should retain his seat. Lounsbury has been shifted from 2 to 3 and he apparently does not relish the change. He has never rowed anything but a port oar, and in consequence is a trifle awkward. He is willing and anxious, and should improve right along.

The annual race between the St. Johns Military Academy crew and the freshmen will take place on Friday, June 7 at 5 p. m., on Lake Monona over a course of two miles. Reports from St. Johns tell of a very strong crew, and a lively determination to retrieve some of the lost lengths of last year's race. So the freshmen will need all the pace that usually goes with a Wisconsin freshman crew to keep in the van this year.

There is a great deal of talk, and no little interest manifested in the revival of a girls' crew. It will be remembered that in '96 the girls inaugurated rowing as a branch of their athletics, and the energy displayed at that time deserved better results.

There is no doubt of the benefit derived from rowing and there is no reason why rowing should not be a popular and beneficent undertaking for the girls.

There are oarsmen in college who will when called upon, undoubtedly donate their services in the capacity of coaches. One of the old gigs has been found to be practically useless, the other, with some repairing, will undoubtedly serve to float the girls in their new enterprise. If there be sufficient determination to make the venture a success, outside of the novelty of the undertaking, then there is no reason why in time Wisconsin girls should not have a boat house of their own, and be as well equipped as Wellesley or Vassar. There must be pioneers in every movement, and usually the pioneers' lot is not one of the happiest.

IMPRESSIONS ABROAD

Professor F. J. Turner Addresses Today's Convocation Upon His Observations in Europe.

Professor Frederick J. Turner spoke at to-day's convocation on the impressions he received while abroad during the last year. By way of excusing himself for not preparing as well as he ought he said that he would "try and make an excellent stab."

Professor Turner said that his trip abroad was wholly one of pleasure and sightseeing and not for study.

The professor spent most of his eight months' trip in Switzerland and Italy, choosing these two countries as they are so entirely unlike America, for, as he said, one can understand his own country better when acquainted somewhat with countries vastly different. He said he was impressed by a certain naturalness and familiarity which he formed there and also by the great variety of landscape. This tremendous variety deeply impresses one used to the broad expanse of country in America. While travelling on the European continent, every hour reveals to the traveller new things. The seacoast, plains, valleys, and mountains all come into view in a few hours of travel. This great variety has its effect on life and perhaps accounts, in a way, for the independence which exists between the various communities.

An American traveller can quickly observe the tremendous part which the past still plays. Old buildings erected centuries ago are still existing with the new life in them. This characteristic of the past still clinging to the present was seen in the ceremonies connected with the coronation of the pope. Professor Turner had an opportunity to see the pope in the Vatican with his guards dressed in the fashion of the Elizabethan era.

Fixed social custom is another in-

BADGER NEXT WEEK

1902 ANNUAL IN HANDS OF THE BINDER.

Pronounced by Publishers the Largest and Best of all Western College Annuals.

The 1902 Badger will be out the latter part of next week. The annual has been printed and is now in the hands of the binders. Unless something unforeseen happens the book will be placed on sale one week from to-day.

W. F. Moffatt of the 1902 Badger Board returned from Chicago last night where, together with J. Bartow Patrick, chairman of the board, he has been attending to the publishing of the Badger for the past three weeks. Mr. Patrick will not return until next week when the book will have been completed. He is recovering from his illness and is now able to give some attention to the work. The book will undoubtedly be on sale by the end of next week.

The Badger is at present in the bindery and is all off the press. Extra time has been taken with the Badger this year by the printers owing to the large size of this year's book. The book has been more difficult to print than any of the previous Badgers. Much care has been taken with the typographical part of the work. The book contains about 475 pages and the art work is especially good. It has been the most expensive work for several years.

Although it seems that the Badger is coming out rather late in the season, the Wisconsin annual will be the first of any of the western college annuals on sale this year with the exception of California. The company which is printing it, gets out fifteen other college annuals this year and as yet none of them are on sale. The firm had to move into larger quarters in order to get out so many books and this has caused some delay. Presses have been running night and day for the past few days on the Wisconsin book. The Badger is ahead of all the other annuals at present. Our book is over 100 pages larger than any of the other western college annuals. The cover has turned out entirely satisfactory. The stock for it had to be made up specially as there was not enough material of this quality on hand. There are more halftones in the book this year than ever before. Considerable time had to be spent on these in order to obtain good effects.

The book will remain in the press for sufficient time to allow the binding to season. Very artistic posters have been put up to-day announcing the coming of the Badger.

SUCCESSFUL RECITAL.

School of Music Students Present Enjoyable Program.

The twenty-eighth student recital took place last night in Library Hall and was a very successful affair. In the piano department a number of the younger students were brought forward, and some of their efforts, though not great, were very musical and deserving of praise. Mr. Fowler and Miss Wagner who have been heard at these recitals before showed, as was to be expected, particular improvement in their work.

The program opened with a pleasant selection which was very daintily played by Miss Olive Lipe. Other piano numbers deserving special mention were the solos by Miss Chynoweth and Miss Purcell. Mr. Urner, in his cello solo, showed good capabilities for playing, that with time and development of a larger tone promises to make him a good performer.

The vocal numbers were all of a high order of excellence and reflect great credit on the teacher, Miss Foresman. The pupils evinced most careful training in regard to tone, phrasing and interpretation in their songs. The singers who appeared were Miss Brand, Miss Schott and Mr. Bowen. The trio which was to have been given near the end of the program had to be given up, because one of the members, Miss Pratt, a student from Cottage Grove, missed her train.

Several other recitals will follow before the close of the college year.

HOME MEET MAY 10.

Change of Date Necessitated by Conflict With Baseball Game—Several Extra Events Planned.

The date of the home field meet has been changed to May 10 from May 11. This change was the result of a conflict with the baseball game with Chicago, the management feeling that they could not afford to give two events of such importance for a single admission. Coach Kilpatrick is making extensive preparations for the home meet. Several extra events are scheduled which will be intensely interesting for spectators. Among these will be a mile relay race between the South Side high school of Milwaukee and the Madison high school. These teams met at one of the indoor meets and the Milwaukee aggregation was badly beaten. Since then they have improved considerably and will do their best to redeem their record. The Madison boys are training hard and will put an extra good bunch into the race.

NORTHWESTERN STRONG.

Develops Unexpected Strength and Defeats Illinois.

Wisconsin will not have the easy game on Saturday that has been expected. "Doc" Hollister's colts have taken a much needed brace and yesterday signalized their new lease of life by defeating Coach Huff's band of Illinois Indians. Several changes had been made in the line-up and a marked improvement in their play was noticed. Johnson's work in the box was excellent, he holding the Champaign sluggers down to six scattered hits while the Methodists harvested eleven safe ones off two of Illinois twirlers, one of whom was Lundgren, their best pitcher.

This rally means that the Evanston team will come to Madison with blood in their eyes, prepared to give the home team some stiff riddles to solve.

—The Y. M. C. A. held a business meeting last night. Only routine business was transacted. The canvass among students for funds for the running expenses is not yet finished but has so far been rather disappointing. The students have not responded as well as they did last year.

—At to-day's convocation Dr. Birge announced that President Adams would resume his duties next fall.

Need of Discipline.

In these spring days when "that tired feeling" is abroad in the land it behooves the freshman, and indeed often the senior, to take an account of stock and ascertain whether he has full control of his working power. The greatest temptations are offered by nature, urging the student to leave his daily task and calling him, syren-like, to lake or woody retreat. It is at this season then that an opportunity is offered, particularly to the younger student, to become master of himself and to develop a discipline in order that a habit may result. Control of one's self when everything in one's surroundings leads away from stern duty, is one of the greatest powers that can be acquired. With it the necessary work may be done in these May days as at other times and yet a sufficient and legitimate leisure be afforded for the enjoyment of the bounties which have been lavished by nature upon Madison and its surroundings.

A Hopeful Sign.

The young ladies of the University are to be congratulated on the enthusiasm with which they have entered upon all lines of out-door exercise open to them this spring. It certainly shows a very commendable spirit when in the midst of all their other varied duties, they find time for the cultivation of these valuable modes of physical development. To see the tennis courts, the lake, the ladies' gymnasium and the golf links thronged with young women seeking health by these respective kinds of exercise, is indeed a sight that leads to optimistic thoughts. Too often charges are made that the education of women is one-sided, that they are given a smattering of the so-called polite studies and fail to grasp that a well rounded mind and body are the summum bonum to be sought after in their case as well as in the education of the stronger sex. Wisconsin has never been backward in opposing these false ideals and the conditions this spring point to a still greater advance in the future.

The Weather.

Annual Meeting of Co-op Ass'n.

This committee will meet to decide on officers at the Chi Psi house tomorrow afternoon, and there will be a meeting of the association Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Park hotel to ratify their action.

At the meeting last night it was decided to raise the membership fee from three to four dollars a year, payable in two instalments. The first assessment is due May 4.

To Publish Engineering Lectures.

Possibly during the coming summer a new book will appear edited by the professors in the engineering department. During the past winter there has been a series of lectures by the faculty of the College of Engineering on the different representative engineering men whose names adorn the outside walls of the new building. These lectures were so popular with the engineering students, and with students as well, that it is thought that this series of lectures compiled in book form would make an interesting edition. The lectures are a good review of the engineering progress during the last century and their compilation in book form would place information, not now accessible, into the hands of readers interested in engineering literature.

pression which an American, used to our democratic ways, easily notices. In Italy the offices remain in the same families generation after generation, and only change with the extinction of the family. But should the spirit of socialism, which is cropping out occasionally, ever gain a foothold this old barrier of democratic institutions will probably be broken down.

Primitive industry is still maintained in Italy. The women can still be seen spinning cloth on the streets with the same spinning wheel which was so common in our own country in the eighteenth century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting traits of Italian life is the art spirit which prevails among the common people. Throughout Italy beauty meets one on every hand. To live in this atmosphere has its natural effect on the people, an effect which causes a leaning to literature and art.

The emotional element is another trait of character of the Italian. They are very susceptible to changes and there seems to prevail among them an effort to stir every body up. On the street corners men can be seen gesticulating in such a manner that if it occurred on our own street corners would provoke a general fight.

Professor Turner said that on returning from this strange kind of civilization one always receives a new impression of his own country. One feels that we have something to learn from the old world. Of course after returning from these rather cramped up countries one is profoundly impressed with the newness of American life. One feels that in America we have such greater opportunities. One becomes impressed by the tremendous industrial power of the United States and of the great organizations spread throughout.

is a common saying of a person who exhibits low spirits, nerveless action and a failure to enjoy even the most cheery surroundings. Nine times out of ten this condition is accounted for by poor digestion, which affects the mind and nervous system, besides enfeebling the body.

Pabst Malt Extract The Best Tonic

is a complete remedy for the 'blues' and a promoter of good health and good cheer, being a pure, nourishing, concentrated food of easy digestion and soothing action.

I prescribe your "Best" Tonic in all cases where a pure and reliable malt extract is indicated. It has given me the best satisfaction. DR. W. B. PAYNE, Covington, Va.
