In an election which drew the heaviest poll in the last seven years and which was characterized by landslides and tight squeezes, the campus voters yesterday selected their representatives on Union board, Forensic board, and Athletic board for the year 1928-29.

Rolling up a total of 424 votes, 178 more than his closest competitor, Ted Thelander '29 won the Union board junior membership-at-large, the most hotly campaigned-for position in the spring election. Wallace Jensen ran second, Robert DeHaven third, and Walter Fitzgerald fourth.

Cardinal Election Cancelled

In addition to the heavy voting, the election was marked by the last minute cancellation of the election of Cardinal board members. Shortly after the polls opened it was discovered that the names of one candidate had been omitted from the Cardinal ballot.

Fifty Freshmen Get Cash Award

Regents Give $100 Scholarships to First Year Students

Fifty Wisconsin cash scholarships of $100 each were awarded yesterday to members of the freshman class by the board of regents. Out of 133 applicants, the 50 freshmen having the highest scholastic averages for the first semester of this year were awarded the scholarships.

The Committee on Loans on Scholarships, of which Prof. Julius E. Olson, head of the department of Scandinavian languages, is chairman, made the recommendations for the awards.

No one with an average of below 88 was recommended. Alexander Cowie had the highest average, it being 95.60.

"The Scientific Suitor"

The story of how a psychological lover who picked his fiancee by a chart and is saved in the nick of time by eloping with a Wisconsin prom queen—that is the story of "The Scientific Suitor," the student-written fiction story which the Cardinal magazine section will print tomorrow. The story is by Hamilton Beatty '28.

The magazine will also contain a discussion of fraternity rushing by J. Alden Behnke '27; an analysis of college life by Glenn Frank; and columns by the deans.

All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't possibly squeeze in another spectator at the Central-Neenah basketball game last night in the semi-finals of the state tournament at the little Badger gymnasium. Literally hundreds of spectators were turned away when they attempted to get into the game. The crowd had already assembled as early as 7 p.m. and the gymnasium was practically full at 7:30. Several persons were somewhat discomfited in the first scramble to get into the gym, but nobody was reported as injured.

A mother of one of the basketball players tried her best to get into the Central-Neenah game, but all the tears she could shed, and all the pleading she could offer had no effect on the hard-hearted doorman at the side entrance; so she had to content herself with listening to the cheers.

Graduate Club to Hear Neal at Last Meeting

The Graduate club will hold its last meeting of the year on Monday, April 2, at Wittwer's restaurant at 6 o'clock.

Norman P. Neal, a graduate student of the Genetics department, will talk on New Zealand. Mr. Neal is from New Zealand, and his lecture will be on the customs and geographic points of interest. It will be illustrated with lantern slides.

All graduate students are invited to attend. Reservations may be made by calling R. G. Shands at B. 2472.

Seniors at Princeton

Cut as They Please

Seniors at Princeton university are now allowed unlimited cuts from classes, by virtue of a new ruling set down by the faculty. The faculty contends that if a man cannot distinguish the wheat from the chaff, and is not able to dispose of his time to his best advantage unhampered by a routine schedule after three years in the university, he has not acquired the first rudiments of an education.

Meiklejohn Plans Program of Study for Test Students

Methods of final examination in the Experimental college and the program of study for the remainder of the semester were released by Alexander Meiklejohn, director, in an interview yesterday.

The scholastic rating of the students will be determined by work done in two papers, one a review of Dickinson's "Greek View of Life," and the other a month's thesis on some special phase of Athenian life and thought. In addition, each student will be asked to meet a group of advisers to explain and defend the two papers he has written.

Immediately after returning from the spring vacation, experimental students will be required to prepare a chronological chart of fifth century Athens. An examination covering this work will be given not later than April 21.

Zionists to Criticize Bertrand Russell Book

"Effective Intolerance," by Bertrand Russell, will be the center of discussion at the meeting of Ayukah, American student Zionist federation, Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in Lathrop parlors. Harold Spitzer '29, will open the discussion with a critical review of the book. Current events and musical numbers will augment the program.

Kappa Lot Goes to Regent Board for Library Site

University Pays $58,000 for Park Street Building Location

The regents of the University of Wisconsin today purchased the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house at 425 North Park street for a consideration of $58,000. The purchase was the first of a series which must be completed before land is available for the new library, plans for which were approved by the regents early in March.

The transaction took place between the executive committee of the regents, which held its regular meeting yesterday, and the Kappa Kappa Gamma Building corporation, of which Mrs. P. H. Rehfeld, 480 North Baldwin street, is president.

Kappas Purchase Site

The sorority has purchased the house at present occupied by the Delta Chi fraternity, on the corner of Langdon and North Henry streets. The members of the Kappa building committee will meet some time next week to discuss building plans.

Until such time as the university will tear down the Kappa house to make way for the library, the structure will be used for practice rooms for the School of Music. M. E. McCaffrey, secretary of the regents, declared yesterday. The Kappas will probably be in their new location next fall.

Establish Fellowship

The regents at their meeting yesterday also accepted a gift of $500 from John Uri Lloyd, Cincinnati, Ohio, to be used for a Lloyd fellowship in plant chemistry in 1928-29. Prof. Edward Kramers of the pharmacy department reported to the regents that Mr. Lloyd had given his department the extract from 100 pounds of echinacea, an American medicinal plant.

The fellow to receive this scholarship has not been appointed.

The remainder of the meeting was occupied with minor adjustments of salaries and revenues. No discussion was held on the withholding of funds for the library which the regents requested released at their meeting March 7.

400 Colorful Couples Dance at 16th Annual Military Prom

By FRANKLIN PORTER

Military figures, resplendent in tailored uniforms . . . civilians, sleek and dinner-jacketed . . . gay co-eds, softly beautiful under the diffused lighting . . .

That's the picture of the 16th Annual Military ball which was held in the Capitol last night. The music and marching of military feet celebrated the last great university function to be held in the marble state house.

It was a happy night for the 400 couples who attended and danced to the music of Thompson's special orchestra. The canopy over the band accentuated the tones of the tremulous trombone and diffused the chuckles of the cackling trumpet.

And there was a colorful grand march in which sparkling couples passed beneath an arch of flashing sabres. Eight chandeliers shot shafts of brilliant light on the dancers as they listened to Governor Zimmerman's address of welcome and posed for the great flashlight picture.

Then Thompson's band beneath the khaki canvas awning, designed to amplify the music, began the real business of the evening. The human whirlpool, a glowing, living, mass of rhythm and color, spun and dipped around beneath the mighty dome.

Method Changed in Honor Award

Sigma Delta Chi to Grant Scholarship Key on New Basis

Journalism students showing marked scholastic ability will be awarded the Sigma Delta Chi scholarship key, according to information received recently by Prof. Grant M. Hyde, advisor of the Wisconsin chapter.

Four members of the senior journalism class last year, Arthur Senske, Helen Liebman, Daisy Grenzow, and Elmer Beth, were awarded they key under the old basis of selection, which required a scholastic average of 92.

This year the basis of award has been changed in order to take account for the differences in standards of marking which exist in other universities.

The new rules for awarding the key will be as follows:

1. Awards will be made to all graduating journalism students who stand in the highest 10 per cent of their graduating class.

2. In order to qualify as a student of journalism, the candidate must have earned journalism credits to an amount equaling 20 per cent of the total number of his credits.

3. The candidate may be either a man or a woman, and may be either a member of a non-member of Sigma Delta Chi.

4. The candidate's grades must be averaged for all his university subjects, journalistic and non-journalistic, during the first three years of attendance.

The scholarship award was instituted by Sigma Delta Chi in an effort to promote better work among students preparing for the journalism profession. It consists of a gold key, incorporating the symbols of Sigma Delta Chi with the words "Award for Scholarship" across the face. A scholarship award certificate is also given.

Winners of the award will be announced on May 1 by a national committee, the head of which is Roy L. French, a graduate of Wisconsin in the class of 1913, and at present professor of journalism in the University of Southern California.

Oldest Living Grad Dies; Last Member In Class of 1860

William F. Powers, last survivor of the class of 1860, and oldest living graduate of the University of Wisconsin, died Thursday in Los Angeles, California.

Mr. Powers, who graduated with a B.A. degree in 1860, has been living in California in recent years. Three or four years ago he came to Madison to attend a class reunion, of which he and the late John B. Parkinson, who died last April, were the only remaining members.

He was born on November 8, 1842 at Whitewater, Wis., and recently gave a library to that city in memory of his father.

Former Governor Succumbs While Addressing Audience in Home State

According to a report received from the Chicago Tribune last night, Frank B. Willis, Ohio's favorite son candidate for the presidency, died of heart failure last night while addressing a meeting at Delaware, Ohio. He was 57 years old.

Mr. Willis, Republican senator of Ohio, sprang into the national political limelight a little less than a month ago when he violently opposed Herbert Hoover's entrance into the Ohio state presidential primary.

Broke 1920 Deadlock

Senator Willis was the man who, in 1920, broke the deadlock in the Republican convention by rising to his feet and saying simply, "Say, boys and girls, let's nominate Harding."

He was noted for his friendly and informal manner of addressing his audience, and, possessing a large stature and voice, was recognized as a strenuous campaigner.

Entered Politics in 1910

His first entrance into national politics was in 1910 when he was elected to the House of Representatives, where he served until 1915 when he resigned to become governor of Ohio.

Since he was elected to the United States senate he has served on the foreign relations and commerce committees and was chairman of the committee on insular affairs. He was active on all of these boards at the time of his death.

Politics His Vocation

Early in his life politics became his vocation, and as senator from Ohio he became known among his colleagues as an indefatigable worker.

"I have no other business than that of being senator, and I work at it all the time," he used to say.

He was an unbending dry and an enthusiastic supporter of the McNary-Haugen farm relief program.

Born on Farm

He himself was a product of the farm. His parents were of old New England stock, but they moved to Ohio towards the middle of the last (Continued on Page 12)

State Debaters Here Next Week

High School Forensic Teams Hold Annual Contest in Capitol Monday

The second annual state debate of the Wisconsin High School Forensic association will be held in the state capitol, Monday evening, April 2, at 8 o'clock. The three winning teams of the northern, central, and southern sections of the state will debate the problem of "The Compulsory Automobile Liability Insurance."

The Chippewa Falls High school team will represent the northern section of the state, Sturgeon Bay High school the central section, and Portage High school the southern section.

Awards will be given in the assembly room after the debate. The president of the association, Principal Ballez of Washington High school, Milwaukee, will award the medals. M. E. Olbrich, representing the board of regents of the university, will award the traveling trophy cup. This cup becomes the property of the school that wins three debates. New Richmond High school won the trophy last year.

These debates are open to the public, and no admission will be charged. They will be held in the assembly, senate, and hearing rooms of the capitol with Gov. Zimmerman, Super-charge of the voting to write the name of the candidate on the ballot, but when it was found that a second name had also been omitted, this order was countermanded and the election of Cardinal representatives stopped.

Special Election Monday

At a meeting of the elections committee held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon it was decided that new ballots would be printed and a special election held Monday to fill the vacancies on the Cardinal board.

The race for the newly-created post of Union member-at-large drew the most votes; almost a thousand ballots were cast for the four contestants. Interest was at its lowest ebb in the election of a junior Union board member where the low total of 95 votes was enough to win for Lowell Bushnell.

Five Sophomores Elected

Among the sophomores running for Union board, five of whom were elected, Jerome Sperling and Ted Otjen clearly led the field with almost equal totals. Robert Calkins and Newman Halvorson ranked third and fourth respectively, while George Burridge took the fifth position by the slim margin of three ballots. Four candidates were grouped close on Burridge's heels with only one vote separating them.

Cornelia Fleith '29, Walter Ela '30, and Thomas Stone '30, winners in the Forensic board election all had clear pluralities.

Michell Wins

Donald Mitchell, president of Athletic board, won that position from Diderich Lunde by 29 votes. Among the non-“W” sophomores, Robert D. Evans was elected by a landslide of 402 votes. Helmut von Maltitz won the other sophomore post with a total of 283.

Those candidates who filed for the Cardinal board of control and who will have to run in the special election Monday are:

Madison Central and Watertown meet tonight at 8 o'clock for the Wisconsin high school basketball championship. Central had little difficulty beating Neenah last night 25 to 15, while Watertown upset Wausau 24 to 22 in the best game of the tournament to date.

La Crosse and Stevens Point play this morning at 10:00 and Wausau and Neenah at 11:00. The winners of these two games play tonight at 7:00 for third place.

Wisconsin High plays Oconto at 5 o'clock this afternoon for the consolation championship.

WATERTOWN 24;
WAUSAU 22

The battle between Wausau and Watertown was one of the best and most thrilling high school games ever played in a state tournament. At no time during the game was there more than a three point advantage either way and the lead changed from one team to the other throughout the game.

At the end of the first quarter the score was tied at 5-all and at the half Wausau was leading 14 to 12. At the third quarter Watertown was leading 21 to 19.

Wausau took the lead in the last quarter but lost it about a minute before the game was over and never was able to get back into the lead.

Maurer, Wausau star guard, was forced out of the game on personals in the last three minutes and when he left the Wausau hopes went glimmering.

The entire Watertown team was playing good basketball but the work of Mundt at center and Schwenke at forward stood out. Schwenke scored four field goals, while Mundt played a second "Stretch" Murphy, and controlled the ball most of the time.

Madison Central ran true to form to down Neenah 25 to 15. Scoring was evenly divided and the team played as a unit to show up well.

Central got away to a slow start, leading at the half 12 to 8, but spurted in the last half to take a commanding lead. Fosdick and Staab showed class at the forwards and Usilton played a bang up game at guard.

Central is the favorite in the game tonight, but Watertown shows more class with every game.

Phi Sig Kappa Wins
Greek Bowling Title

Phi Sigma Kappa finished a highly successful bowling season Friday night when they won their last three games of the season to cop the bowling cup for 1928, with a three game lead on their nearest competitor, Kappa Sigma.

Last week, Delta Sigma Tau had a chance to tie up matters a bit when they were playing against the new champions, but the Phi Sigma Kappa bowlers rose to new heights and took two out-of-three games to practically clinch the championship.

To Delta Sigma Tau, however, goes the honor of having the highest team score for one game when they smeared the alleys for 1077 pins last week.

Sigma Phi Sigma rests in third place a game behind Kappa Sigma, while Delta Tau Delta is three games in arrears, to have fourth place all to itself.

Nottleman, Hanke, Monte, V. Wegner, and Indermuelle compose the championship quintet that brought home the bacon to Phi Sigma Kappa. Of the 22 games that they have competed in this season, they have been defeated only twice, which is something to write home about, when one remembers that they have met competition which composed the team that won the Big Ten bowling championship for Wisconsin.

Tennis Squad Hope
To Start Practice

Four veterans and several promising sophomores are ready to report to Bill Winterble, Wisconsin tennis coach, as soon as the varsity courts are put into shape.

This year's tennis team will play a very difficult schedule. Starting on May 5th they must face six conference teams and compete in the Big Ten meet, all within 25 days.

The season will open with Northwestern here and close at Chicago. The other dual meets on the slate are with Minnesota, Iowa and Ohio State abroad and Michigan here. The conference meet is at Purdue.

The four old men who are likely to compose the 1928 team are Capt. Dave Freeborn, Leo Boldenweck, Bill Reeves and Bob McMillan. The first three were the mainstays of the Badger squad in 1927, while McMillan returns after an absence of a year from the courts. He played on the Card team in 1926.

Two good tennis players have been lost by ineligibility, Winston Kratz, swimming captain, and Kaner. Judkins was the only regular last spring to graduate. George LaBorde, an upper-classman from Oshkosh, has had experience at Lawrence college and is heralded as a classy raquet wielder.

The complete schedule follows:
May 5—Northwestern at Madison.
May 11—Iowa at Iowa City.
May 12—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
May 19—Michigan at Madison.

May 25-26—Conference meet at Lafayette.
May 28—Ohio State at Columbus.
May 30—Chicago at Chicago.

OCONTO MEETS
WISCONSIN

Oconto will meet Wisconsin High today to decide the consolation round championship as a result of their victories over Ashland and River Falls, respectively.

Wisconsin High will enter as the favorite because of the ease with which they disposed of River Falls by a score of 21 to 5, showing a smooth, fast working quintet. The score of the Oconto victory was 12 to 6, Oconto missing many easy shots, which may tell an entirely different story when they battle for the consolation supremacy today.

La Crosse narrowly beat out Marshfield, 24 to 22, while Stevens Point

OKAY WOMEN IN BIG TEN SPORTS

Try as you will you can't keep women out of anything. Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten athletics, rendered a surprise decision yesterday to the effect that women can compete in Western Conference athletics. This means that Miss Dorothy Page, former western women's golf champion, and a student at Wisconsin, can compete as a member of the Badger golf team if she is good enough to make it, (which she probably is.)

What's this world coming too. It won't be long now until they put members of the fair sex on the varsity football and basketball teams. Where, oh where are the he-men?

To Build Field
House at Once

Work on New Athletic Structure is to Begin Soon

Immediate building of a field house for the Wisconsin university at Randall field is now assured.

Arrangements have been practically concluded for a loan from the Wisconsin Teachers' Retirement fund of $326,000 at 4½ per cent interest for the building.

The loan is to be made to the Wisconsin Building corporation provided for by the statutes of 1927 and the security will be a 50 year lease of Randall field to the building corporation which will in return receive from the appropriations for the state a sufficient rental for the athletic field with the buildings thereon including the proposed field house to insure payment of the interest and annual payments upon the principal of the loan which is to be an amortization mortgage to insure its retirement in 30 years.

Find Lease Legal

The attorney general as stated in the State Journal Wednesday has given an opinion showing the absolute title of Randall field is vested in the state and assuring legality of the lease to the building corporation.

The Board of University Regents on March 7 passed a resolution authorizing the 50 year lease of Randall field to the University Building corporation and according to the opinion of the attorney general this action is also in accord with law.

Fund Security Ample

The trustees of the Teachers' Retirement fund have examined the security of the lease for the loan and consider it ample and all that now remains is the signing of the papers which will be consummated early this week or next to place the money at the disposal of the building corporation.

Many Entries Come
For Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kans., March 30—(Special)—With nine universities or colleges of the Missouri Valley conference and two of the Rocky Mountain conference already indicating that they will send relay teams and individual athletes to the Sixth Annual Kansas relays here April 21, it is certain that the track strength of the middle western section of the United States will be on hand to vie with the class of universities from other sections of the country.

Every Missouri Valley conference member except Washington University of St. Louis has sent advance notice that it will send a team to the Kansas games, and it is very likely that Washington, too, will compete. In the Western conference word of their coming already has been received from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Northwestern, and in light of experience from past years it is almost certain that other Big Ten schools will send teams to Kansas.

Coach Lowman Has Not Selected Men to Make Training Trip

By HAROLD DUBINSKY

Inasmuch as this country up here is of such a frigid nature, Wisconsin's baseball team will pull out of Madison Tuesday afternoon for a southern training trip intended to condition them for the coming Big Ten season.

As to just how many candidates Coach Guy Lowman will take along on the southern jaunt little can be ascertained. Certain veteran players are almost certain of going.

What Weather!

Meanwhile the unexpected cold weather and snow has played havoc with the training here of the Badger squad and they must face Butler university at Indianapolis, April 5. This will be the first game on the spring program, which includes games all over the south, including St. Louis and many other southern cities.

Lowman has been working the Badger men in the little gym annex in absence of a better place. It is almost certain that he has selected his men for the trip, but as yet they are unknown.

Wisconsin will at least have a good hurling staff. Such men as Clausen, Jacobson, Thelander, Ellerman, Monsen, Haggerty, Burbank, and Matthiessen give Wisconsin an almost surprising strength in this important department. These men are veterans and should be able to hold their own with the best.

Murphy Is All Set

Old "Mike" Murphy, the veteran first sacker, is back on his customary job with all the gusto and nearsightedness that has always characterized him. He seems to be swatting better this season, and if this is true he will be a real help, since his fielding is excellent.

At third base, Ambrose Massey is almost certain of a first string position. He played a spectacular game at second base last season, but the graduation of Donnegan, last year's shortstop, necessitated Massey's change to that position.

Another veteran who will be back in duty, is Johnny Decker. His ability as a fielder is beyond criticism, but he persists in being a weak hitter. This is but one of the difficulties that must be straightened out on the trip.

Burbridge Strong Batter

Burbridge, the best hitter on the Badger squad last year is back, and will probably take the spring trip as an outfields. Mansfield is also ready for duty in the outfield.

Chances are that Morry Winer, captain of last year's freshman team, will also see action this season. Cuisinier is another who will probably make the trip.

The premier catcher of the squad is Johnny Doyle of basketball fame. He will hold down the receiving job.

exhibits of work in corrective and dancing, under Miss Anderson and Miss H'Doubler, respectively. The corrective demonstration showed the various exercises used in the correcting of posture and such. In the interpretive dancing, the numbers given were called "Romance," "Captain Bing," "Moods of the River," and "Atlanta," all done in a thoroughly charming fashion.

Work in the gymnasium followed: first, Danish gymnastics under Miss Rice, then marching and drill under Miss Sherwin and Miss Mossop, combining physical and mental exercise in the way of discipline. The tumbling and apparatus demonstrations exhibited a very high degree of skill on the part of the women participating. By way of showing what could be done in the line of very simple and more complex games, exhibits were presented of some of the work coming under the classification of "plays and games," and a volleyball exhibition was given by some fifty women.

The swimming exhibit under the direction of Miss Haste included work in the beginning, intermediate, and advanced classes, besides advanced diving.

Perfectly delightful! is the verdict passed upon the women's physical education exhibit Thursday night in Lathrop by the three hundred people who attended by invitation. Starting with the dancing and corrective work on the fifth floor to the swimming in the basement, the entire performance was excellent and provided an evening of the finest entertainment.

A demonstration was given of the various fields of activity in the department, being presented by the students majoring in physical education and other women interested in the work. Miss Gladys Gorman was the general chairman for the exhibition, being assisted by members of the physical education faculty members.

A New Editorial Policy

The "On Wisconsin" Program Should Be Alive—Not a Mere Label

THE Daily Cardinal explained yesterday its reason for removing its "On Wisconsin" platform this week.

Lack of available space made it impossible to go more into detail, and some readers may still be in doubt as to the exact purposes underlying the withdrawal of the program.

The main objection which the junior editors saw in the policy was its lack of action and driving force; and, as an innovation which they believe has some foundation, they removed the four planks. As we see it, the "On Wisconsin" policy has stood below the masthead day after day, apparently waiting for realization to come from some outside source. Nothing actually progressive seemed to be involved in any of the planks except the one urging a new rushing system. Thus, the statements "Success to the Experimental College" and "Athletics for All" were much like the old-time label headlines in newspapers. They remained in their positions continuously, but like the label heads, they accomplished nothing.

Not that the present editors object to the sincerity of the planks. We do want the Experimental college to be a success, and we do want athletics for all, but so far as actual progressive policy is concerned, we can do little toward bringing these improvements about. It was this idea that caused the editors to remove the long standing labels, at least until they become pertinent.

As we see it, the real "On Wisconsin" program should involve current questions, problems which necessitate immediate action and solution. The policy should be alive. Planks should be added as they are needed, and taken away as soon as they have resulted in success or failure. In other words, they should not be long standing hopes which have no possibility of realization for a good time to come.

As it appears to us now, there are four problems facing the university. One is the need for a new rushing system, the other three, a new library, the opening of the Memorial Union, and a new grading method. Of the four, only the first has any possibility of being pertinent. The adoption of the fraternity constitution makes a new rushing system immediate and essential. That, then, is the "On Wisconsin" policy of the present, and The Daily Cardinal supports it.

As other questions become pressing issues, they will be added to the program, but when there is no immediate reason to believe that they will be considered. The Daily Cardinal does not feel that they should be included in its policy, which, by the very length of the time it serves, becomes stale and uninteresting.

One of four freshmen thought Lindbergh was the prime minister of Sweden during the 18th century. Which reminds us of the Swedish visitor who upon landing in Gotham remarked, "Mein Gott, if this is New York what will Lindsborg be!"

To the Glee Club

You Typify Wisconsin Spirit; Your Tour Will Great Good Will

BEFORE the Men's Glee club leaves Madison Sunday morning on its annual spring tour of Wisconsin and Minnesota, The Daily Cardinal desires to wish the 36 members good luck and a joyful trip. We feel that the 10-day journey will mean much in the future establishment of good will toward the university among the people of the state.

The Glee club is representative of the real spirit of Wisconsin, its joyousness, its freedom, and its serious attitude in its hours of work. Through the medium of its song, the public is able to visualize, through the difference in the quality and tone of various selections, a similar difference in the life of the university at large. In fact, the Glee club portrays in music what cannot be explained in words.

We hope that the coming 10 days will serve to clear up some of the objections to the university incited by unjustifiable publicity and notoriety during the past winter. The Men's Glee club, by winning the favor of its audience in Wisconsin, as in Madison, can help turn many of the objections to friendliness. It has this task ahead of it; we know that it can do it. May its itinerary be filled with applause from packed houses, and may favorable impressions be manifold.

The Golden Key

A Dartmouth Student Refuses Phi Beta Election; Questions Selection Standard

EVEN an Eastern college forgets its manners and allows a radical and unconventional occurrence to disturb the peace and tranquility of its ivy-covered walls. At Dartmouth college in New Hampshire recently, Charles Allen Eastman '28 caused a commotion by refusing membership in Phi Beta Kappa. This has been done before but the reasons he gave seem to us quite plausible. Some critics charge that he refused the key for self-exploitation. We cannot agree with them.

There was nothing grandstandish about Eastman's action and his reasons show a mature mind and a deep sincerity. It took a great deal of courage to maintain his position. As the New Student says, "Dartmouth has been taken aback, because for years the senior classes have without exception voted the Phi Beta Kappa key a more desirable prize than the 'D' for participation in athletics."

Eastman stated in an explanatory letter to the Dartmouth student daily, that Phi Beta Kappa is not keeping pace with changes within the college and for that reason he does not wish to be associated with it. He maintains that it gauges rote learning and is more an indication of application than intellectual ability.

There have been several cases of the refusal of the Phi Beta Kappa key within recent years. Two years ago, a case at the University of Kansas created wide comment. Back in 1925, a girl refused the same honor at Ohio State on the grounds that the society promulgated a snobbery of would-be intellectuals. Eastman's reasons are worth considering. There is no doubt but that an election based solely on grades is faulty. Eastman's letter said, in part:

"If it were true that a man's scholastic average is an accurate indication of his intellectual capacity, I could understand the reason for the present standard. It is open to doubt, however, that his grades are even the best indication of what he is intellectually capable of accomplishing. They may show, to be sure, what he knows at the particular moment when information is called for on a quiz or examination. High grades depend almost entirely on diligent preparation and review."

"I do not wish that the high scholarship qualification be done away with, but isn't it possible to establish some other qualification, as well, which would give an indication of a man's intellectual curiosity and the range and development of his intellectual interests? Isn't the present method of acquiring new members unnecessarily mechanical? Why this complete reliance on the judgment of grades?

Election to Phi Beta Kappa is an honor—the highest undergraduate honor a college can bestow—and it has been a mark of achievement and distinction for over a century and a half, but has election to it matched strides with the changes that have been taking place in our universities; changes in the number of students in attendance; changes in instruction; changes in examination; and changes in grading? We do not believe Eastman's refusal was justified, but his criticisms are just. There should be another standard of selection and thereby hangs a problem. The Dartmouth student criticised but offered no remedy. There should be another qualification, he maintained, and we chime in with him, but how can you determine a person's "intellectual curiosity" and "the range and development of his intellectual interests"? That's why election to Phi Beta Kappa is still based on grades and probably always will be. But the situation can be improved by getting at the root of the evil—by a more accurate, more truly indicative, and therefore better, method of grading.

Aimed at the higher things of life.

"Who said you could cut your classes?"

"I have been authorized."

"Oh, I'm so sorry. Are you still in pain?"

The military battle last night was declared a draw. The extra platoon of trained marines rushed to the scene by orders of president Coolidge failed to preserve order.

The Wisconsin General hospital, established principally for the care of generals, was forced to open its doors in a most hospitable manner in order to admit the mangled corps, and even some second-year privs who had been shot.

Dead soldiers were lined up along the sides of the dressing rooms. Innocent civilians treacherously invited to the battle to make it a financial success were piled up like corpses, dead . . . drunk. Even many weeks of target practice by the freshmen failed to hold them under discipline after tasting fire for the first time.

In view of the tragic outcome of this event, Little Boy Blue, co-king of Skyrockets prom, announced in an interview this morning after first reports of the battle had reached civilization that he would not depend on the depleted ranks of the local R. O. T. C. for order but would call on several campaign managers from the elections just past to do the dirty work.

"There will be no drinking at prom exclamation point," is our slogan, he naively reminded us. —GEELD.

Ohio Students Lack Proper Politeness

Students should be polite.

This is the edict that has gone forth to students at Western Reserve university, at Cleveland, O., following the denunciations of alleged impoliteness and lack of etiquette by students on the campus. The chastisement came from the student council itself.

A goal of better manners was the result of the heated meeting. So earnest was the feeling stirred up over the matter that the council resolved itself into a committee to lead a movement for refinement.

Charges of disrespect toward faculty members, irreverence and misconduct in chapel, and total lack of classroom etiquette, constituted the indictments framed by the student council.

"Several complaints of gross impoliteness have come before the council from faculty members. It is undeniable that a large class of students are behaving like boors," the council president stated.

Commenting further on the rudeness of students, he declared, "Collegiate ethics have always stipulated that a student remove his hat on entering a classroom, or when in private conversation with a member of the faculty."

BAPTIST STUDENTS

Prof. D. W. Mead will speak at the Young Peoples meeting Sunday on some engineering experiences. Luncheon will be served at 5:45 o'clock and the meeting proper will begin at 6:30 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the First Baptist church, corner of Carroll and West Dayton streets.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EXAMS

All freshman and sophomore women who have not yet taken physical examinations must do so on Friday, March 31 or Monday, April 2. Failure to do so will give an incomplete in the course.

NO ARDEN CLUB MEETING

There will be no fireside talk and supper at the Arden club Sunday.

SOCK 'EM GETS $100!

Bill and Jack were typical college boys, — always broke! To make their expenses, they had to run everything from a ham-burger stand to a near-beer factory,—somehow these plans never worked.

"Bill, we've got to sell something that is good and at bargain prices."

"Jack, I've beat you to it."

"The same wonderful idea struck me the other day when I was looking at a hole in my sock, so I wrote the Superwear Hosiery Company of 705 First Avenue North, Minneapolis, Minn., who cater to college men's furnishings, and who are the largest advertisers in the country selling men's hosiery exclusively, direct and just received their complete selling outfit FREE, and Jack, it's a knockout! Every color, fabric, and fancy style a fellow could want! 39 different styles,—and say —they've also got a line of the snappiest men's silk rayon undergarments—one and two piece suits.

"Jack, I'll have every fellow on the campus outfitted with a supply of spring and summer socks and undergarments!"

"Jack, send for it yourself, there's room for several fellows on this campus with 5300 men buyers.

Write them today for their complete free selling outfit."

Ambassador Urges Students to Enter Diplomatic Service

New ideas in the management of the United States diplomatic service and new opportunity for would-be American diplomats of the future were suggested by Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France, just before he sailed to resume his service in Paris.

"College men of the future in American schools will come more and more to realize the appeal of the diplomatic service as a life work," said the ambassador.

"They will know that the United States government is encouraging them in their efforts to serve the country in diplomatic and consular posts. Even yet it is difficult for young men to maintain their positions in the service as they should, due to the financial problem. But the United States government has made great strides forward in this matter and it is quite possible that in the future a man of even limited resources may go high in the work of our embassies and consulates."

"The importance of the foreign diplomatic service of the United States," said the ambassador, "should be realized by every patriotic citizen. It is through our diplomatic representatives that we employ systematically and continually, that is, in the only effective way, the resources of peace."

"I am glad to say that in recent years there has been a new spirit in our foreign service. This is due to the fact that the service has been better organized and equipped."

Take This Walk!

to get Spring Suits,
Topcoats, and furnishings of quality
NOW at August prices.

ONE of the most profitable walks you can take when you buy your Spring Suit, Topcoat or furnishings is out of the university district and down to The Crescent — next to the new Belmont Hotel on The Square.

Here are the Reasons:

The Crescent holds no startling sales. Accordingly, we can't mark prices up now in order to be able to knock them down 50% just before school closes. Prices on new Spring clothes in campus styles are at rock bottom at this store right now — and will be next week — and next month.

If you are willing to be convinced, and would be interested in saving a substantial sum on your Spring purchases, come in and let Roy Homewood fit you out in a fine Michaels-Stern & Adler Suit or Topcoat.

That's the way our business has grown every year since our No Sale Policy was started in 1925—by Wisconsin men coming in to be shown. The fact that we have done business with 23 of the same clothing and furnishings manufacturers continually for 20 years speaks pretty well for the quality of their merchandise and the authority of their styles.

Come in this week-end but don't buy until we convince you there is meat in what we have to say!

We have no long park up's — neither do we have any drastic mark down's.

Enrollments Show Great Student Gain; California Largest

The enrollment of fulltime students in American universities and colleges has increased 81,859 in the five years between November 1, 1922, and November 1, 1927, according to tabulations received by Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore college from 221 institutions on the approved list of the Association of American Universities. The average enrollment has expanded 25 per cent.

The University of California, with 17,311 full time students, holds the highest rank in the country, in point of attendance, while Columbia university whose enrollment is 13,275, follows second. The University of Chicago stands twelfth with 5,178 students enrolled full time.

Regular semester examinations are being eliminated at Drake university, Des Moines, Ia., and in their place will be substituted short quizzes at frequent intervals. Dean Holmes Cowper believes that the new plan will be a more fair and adequate test of student intelligent.

Intelligence Test Results Said to Be Untrue Indications

One student out of every nine tested recently in a class in vocational education at Iowa State university, fell below the standard for a high school freshman in his ability to detect and correct language errors. This class was made up mainly of juniors in college. One in every eleven made a score better than a senior in high school.

Errors which many of the students passed by without correction included: "John, he," "Me and Dorothy," "If I were him, "If I was sure," "It is him," "He could learn me," "I begun," "The line was made good."

One student changed the sentence "He enjoyed the dinner and ate heartily," to "He enjoyed the dinner and eat heartily." Another objected to the expression "set the table," and substituted for "set" the more elegant "sat." "If I were him" was corrected in one paper by changing it to "If I was him."

Tobacco Sales High at Brown University

Providence, R. I.—According to the Brown Daily Herald, the revenue derived from sales at the Brown university union is greater from smoking materials than from any other luxury or commodity which the undergraduates purchase from the organization. About $250 a week is spent by students for tobacco, while a slightly less amount is spent for candy.

Cigarettes lead the list of smudges sold, while pipe tobacco and cigars follow in order. Not enough chewing tobacco is disposed of among the undergraduates to make it worth mentioning, the Herald says.

Absent-Minded Professors? Students Are Much Worse

Lost and Found Bureau Declares Women More Careless Than Men

The professor is not so absent-minded after all—the Lost and Found bureau of the university would indicate—in comparison, at least, with the student.

Of the professors "on the hill," only one, of psychology, (an ironical fact,) can be classed as absent-minded. Even now, the venerable professor's textbooks, which he usually carries with him, repose peacefully in the found collection, waiting his asking for them.

But the student—in the fall it is rubbers and umbrella, in the winter it is gloves, in the spring it is hat and coat—all the time it is books, books, books that he loses. Even as the seasons, so the things he loses.

And what a variety of things—keys, bathing caps, rings, glasses, scarfs, compacts, brooches, fountain pens, purses. But, a peculiar thing about the purchases, most of them are empty!

"In days gone by, false hair was found, now and then," Miss Ann Nunn, assistant superintendent of the State Historical society, testified. "Now-a-days, with bobbed hair, that has become obsolete. A suit of pajamas and a pair of shoes were found in the library the other day, though."

The female of the species is more losing than the male. Everything that she carries loosely, compacts, rings, brooches, scarfs, suit coats, (for propriety's sake, clothes will have to be excepted), she loses. If the feminine lost casualties were compared to that of the masculine, the ratio would be about four to one.

Careless is not the word with which to describe the student—absent-minded might do—by far, the best term would be nonchalant. He seems absolutely unconcerned when he loses something—only about a third of the articles lost are even as much as inquired after, let alone recovered.

Some of the articles that are found are picked up in the hallways, most of them, though, are found in the classrooms. The articles found are taken to the bureau in the particular building in which they are discovered. After a few days, if uncalled for, they are sent to the bursar's office.

At the bursar's office, to which the flotsam and jetsam of lost things finally flow, a multitude of articles have piled up. Some of them have been there for years, waiting for someone to call for them. Some of these articles have a bit of intrinsic value, but to Glenn L. Gilbert, bursar, to whom they finally revert, they are "junk, just plain junk!"

Union Files Articles For New Organization

By ERWIN SCHUBERT

An organization of university men students, which is to care for the business of the Memorial Union building, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. It is known as the Wisconsin Men's union. All men students of the university are to become members of the organization upon registration.

Its purposes, as outlined in the articles of incorporation, are to be social and educational, and to promote the welfare of men students.

Editorial Lauds Student Pickets

Catholic Citizen Commands Sympathy With the Under Dog

The Catholic Citizen, in its 58th year as a Milwaukee family religious paper, printed the following editorial in its issue of March 31 regarding the 13 University of Wisconsin students who recently went to Kenosha to do picket duty about the Allen A company:

"A strike was in progress, and the factory procured an injunction prohibiting picketing by the strikers. Thereupon some students from the state university, young men and young ladies, continued the picketing for the strikers. We presume they kept within the law, for injunctions, nowadays, allow for an orderly and not too riotous method of labor manifestation. But this matter aside, and without passing on the merits of the dispute, we have to remain on the spirit of the student sympathizers.

"It is to be commended. It gives us some assurance against the development here of class prejudice and want of social sympathy. The masses are our fellow-Americans. We identify ourselves with them. We are for the greatest good of the greatest number.

"These students may graduate and take positions with the great utility companies, or with the great monopolies, but they will never sell their souls. They have shown that they believe in giving the under dog a show."

491 Students Flunk Out at Washington

Four hundred and ninety-one students of the University of Washington, about six and one-half per cent of the entire student body, flunked out at the end of the fall term, according to recent reports. Petitions for reinstatement of about half of those dropped are being considered by the deans.

Engineers Will Learn to Build With Concrete

Cement Association Offers Short Night Course in April

An evening course in design of concrete mixtures and field control of concrete is offered to engineers and other concrete men of Madison and vicinity through the courtesy of the Portland Cement association cooperating with the Engineering college, according to an announcement made today by Prof. M. O. Withey. No charge of any sort will be made for instruction, nor for the necessary text books.

The course consists of three sessions, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings, the class meeting on the following dates: April 10, 11 and 12. Sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Engineering building and will begin promptly at 7:30, continuing for about three hours each evening.

Lectures and demonstrations will be in charge of Mr. Kelley, an experienced field representative of the Research laboratory in Chicago.

The course is intended not only to give a clearer understanding of the factors which affect the strength and quality of concrete but also to provide practical exercises in the actual design and proportioning of concrete mixtures to meet given strength specifications. It is purely educational, having as its aim the presentation of the latest approved methods in the proportioning of concrete mixes.

Instruction will be given in the standard methods of taking samples, making the necessary measurements and tests, and of controlling the quality of concrete in the field. In addition, lectures will be given on general phases of concrete work of interest to all engineers. Design problems will be worked out, using aggregates available here, in which the correct proportions of cement, water, sand and coarse aggregate will be determined for the desired strength and quality.

The schedule classes, with topics to be covered each night, follows:

Tuesday, April 10—Requirements of good concrete. Fundamental water-cement ration law. Elements of design of concrete mixtures. Water-cement ratio specifications. Trial method of designing mixtures. Bulking of aggregate.

Wednesday, April 11—Design of mixtures by the cauculation method. Interrelation of mix, grading, workability, and strength (problems); control of concrete in the field. (Begin).

Thursday, April 12—Control of concrete in the field. (Continued). Effect of factors other than proportioning on quality of concrete in structures. High-early strength concrete. Display of available publications.

Ragsdale Talks on Psychology

Athletic Games Can Be Substituted for War Says Professor

That athletic games can be made a substitute for war was the belief advanced by Prof. C. E. Ragsdale, in a talk on "Psychology in Athletics" before the Psychology club in Bascom hall Wednesday night.

Prof. Ragsdale, who is a member of the faculty in the department of psychology, pointed out that during the last war athletes made the best officers and soldiers. He explained that this was due in part to the difference in thinking on and off the athletic field. On the athletic field, movement thinking is substituted for verbal thinking.

"In playing games, especially football, little parlor tricks of psychology can be used," he said. "Muscle reading is one of these little tricks, with which to outguess an opponent. An athlete must be good at reading the other fellow's muscles and yet disguise his own, in order to become good himself."

"The common belief in learning by doing is false," said Prof. Ragsdale. "If one means that by repeating the same act we learn by it, one should say that only by repeating the act a little differently do we learn it. When the repeating is identical, learning has stopped.

Prof. Ragsdale discussed his problem in four aspects: results gained by the individual in physical education; problems that arise in the course of a game; further light thrown on the problem of learning; and changes that are brought about in psychological theories.

The claim that fair play and respect for the right of individuals is a result of athletic participation is not always true, he said. The question of how much good the athlete transfers to his business life afterward is not solved yet.

Prof. Ragsdale illustrated some of the most common illusions under which athletes suffer. The pole vaulter, although reaching a certain height easily, will fail when the standards are set farther apart, or brought nearer together. The trackmen, indoors, make poorer records than outdoors, the only difference being the inclosure over his head.

The body has certain mechanical limits, dependent upon the bones and muscles, he said. However, very few people ever reach the limit of their efficiencies.

A good example of low lift is the graduate who comes back during final exams and wears that know-all smile.

Countries to be included are France, Switzerland, Belgium, Italy, England, Soviet Russia, Germany, Japan, China, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

Presence of Western Students Help Unity

That western students attend eastern colleges as a means of insuring national unification is the plea of Prof. G. Fennypacker, Harvard registration officer. He stated that the East wishes to nationalize its universities, but that it requires the presence of men and women from all sections of the country. He believed that this plan would draw the colleges of the United States into a closer understanding.

Scene from "Faust" to be Played Here Monday Night

Mephisto (center), played by Werner Neuse of the German department, is about to produce four kinds of wine from an ordinary wooden table. The drinkers are highly impressed, but Faust (left), played by Prof. O. F. L.

Hagen, of the art history department, is disgusted with the whole proceeding. This is one of the picturesque scenes in "Faust" which will be given for the third time in Bascom theater Monday night. Other outstanding performers are Mrs. Thyra Hagen, as Margarete, Mrs. B. Q. Morgan, as Martha, and Prof. Morgan as one of the revelers.

Woman's Invention Blends Light, Music

A basic patent for an invention to blend light with music has been granted to Mrs. Mary Hallock Greenwalt, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Greenwalt has been conducting experiments in the blending of light and sound for 27 years.

While music is being rendered by the singer, violinist, pianist or orchestra, Mrs. Greenwalt's apparatus floods the performer with lights of varying intensity. The fluctuations in light are intended to enhance the emotional and intellectual appeal of the music. The apparatus is operated with a key-board.

Dinosaur's Kin to Be Reconstructed

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Reconstruction of a giant phytosaur, said to represent an entirely new genus of this extinct family, somewhat akin to dinosaurs and rhyncocephalons, is now in progress in the laboratory of vertebrate paleontology at the University of Michigan.

The work is being conducted by Prof. Ermine C. Case, of the geology department, who discovered the fragments of the phytosaur last summer in the upper Triassic beds near Big Springs, Texas.

The fragments unearthed by Prof. Case belong to the skull, which must have been four feet from the front to back, half of which was a long snout filled with huge pointed teeth toward the front, and powerful leaf-shaped bone-crushing teeth in the rear. The entire animal, with the long tail characteristic of phytosaurs, must have been between 35 and 40 feet in length, according to Prof. Case.

One thing about this state tournament — there is very little crabbing about referee's decisions. And that is, after all, something to be satisfied about.

hardly a proposition from rules for use of the comma to character training in literature upon which more than a quarter of all English teachers will agree.

Writing in the "English Journal," University of Chicago publication, Miles deplored what he called "practitioners of the classroom all striking out for varied goals. He said that a review of teachers to find out what objects they were attempting to attain in the classroom had revealed astounding divergence of opinion.

English authorities are writing upon a multitude of English rules in a thousand different veins, he said, not only in such number that it is impossible to read them all, but with such widely varying opinions that nothing but confusion is the result.

As a gesture of their willingness to start a movement into a general summary from which further progressive action can be taken toward uniting authorities' opinions, he suggested a demand on the national council for action. "The council is competent to produce such a summary," he said, "and it should gather together and make available the results of these numerous writings."

Pants Creased at Sides May Be Style in London

LONDON—Trousers creased at the sides, after the manner of King George, will be introduced as an experiment by clothiers this spring, but there is little hope of they're becoming popular even though the king has worn them that way for many years.

Suits will be slightly more loose fitting to allow more freedom for exercise.

Plus fours will remain in style; if their popularity increases they may become plus five, or sixes.

Light grey and light brown will be predominant suit colors; there is rumor that the pig pants and coat men are going to spring something new in color, something extremely gay. Remembering the complete rout of the "brighter clothes for men" maneuver in 1925-26-27, the arbiters of fashion—if they have such an idea—are keeping it a closely guarded secret.

Neanderthals Were No Relation to Us, Says Englishman

LONDON—Neanderthal man, whose low-browed skulls and crude stone implements have been found in a number of caves and other sites in Europe, was a separate species of the human genus, quite distinct from modern man, declares G. Elliot Smith, well-known British anthropologist, writing in Nature, one of the leading English scientific periodicals. He cites the recently published investigations of a compatriot, G. M. Morant, in support of his views.

The opinion is at variance with the views of Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, famous American student of the development of the human race, as expressed in his recent Huxley Lecture in England.

where he received the award of the Huxley medal the highest honor within the gift of British anthropologists. Doctor Hrdlicka who spoke here this week advanced evidence to sustain his contention that Neanderthal man was a part of the main line of human family descent.

Michigan Adopts Junior College

Plan Approved After Two Years Work of Faculty Officials

After two years of work, university officials and the faculty of the University of Michigan, a university college project has been unanimously adopted by the general committee.

The plan as adopted, finally ratified, spells the end of the present system of freshman and sophomore education at Michigan, and imposes between all high school graduates and the professional schools of the University a two year preparatory course.

The college of literature, science and the arts, under its provisions, becomes a professional school, and only through successful completion of two years work in the university college will students be admitted to its classes.

The courses in medicine, law, and engineering will not be substantially changed, nevertheless, since bachelor of arts degrees will remain as a requirement for admission to the law school and the medical school, while the engineering course will still be regularly four years, with two of preparation in the university college and two of completion in the regular engineering college.

The plan will be presented for final ratification to the faculties of the various schools and colleges now on the campus, it has been announced, and ultimately to the regents, probably in their March meeting. It is unlikely that any opposition will develop among the faculties since all have had a part in its framing, according to university officials, and quite inconceivable that the regents will oppose the step, since they have been aware of its promotion since its earliest stages.

The faculty of the new unit will not be independent of existing units, but will be an integral part of the various departments of instruction now existing.

This faculty will define requirements for admission to the university college, and shall have the power of recommending certificates to be granted to students who have successfully completed the first two years of work.

Then, still happy, although a trifle weary, the revelers departed, always to carry in their hearts the colorful picture of a brilliant evening.
