Seniors Bow to Freshmen In Memorial Union Contest

Figures at Midnight Show $23,620 to $14,815; Complete Check-up Today

'28 beat '25.

A preliminary check-up at midnight indicated that the freshmen had subscribed $23,620 to the Memorial Union in the one play class contest yesterday, while the seniors obtained only $14,815.

The seniors were hurrying around until midnight in hopes of having more to report than the freshmen. Loose ends of the campaign will be gathered up today. Lester Kissel, chairman of the '25 campaign, will receive complete reports from so-licitors today at the offices in the old Clinic building, and further at-tempts to visit all members of the class will be made this morning.

Freshmen Hurl Defi

The original plans of the "Now -Watch '25" campaign called for a one day canvas of '25 on May 25. With the latest Union plans submitted to the board of regents, the seniors were encouraged to hold a campaign to make the class a 100 per cent for the Union before leaving the university.

A challenge was hurled by the freshmen at the seniors during Cap night celebration last Friday night lower campus, a direct outgrowth of painting a green '28 over the cardinal '25 on the Union board sign in front of the Union building.

Both classes marshalled their forces over the week end, with '25 holding the advantage of $3,000

GOODNIGHT CANCELS VENETIAN PROGRAM OFFICIAL NOTICE

Venetian Night having been postponed because of inclement weather on Saturday evening, some of the piers were inspected by the judges on Sunday evening. It was proposed by the committee to have the remainder inspected on Monday evening, but this office assumes ahe responsibility for countermanding that arrangement. By faculty vote, these last two weeks prior to examinations are to be kept free from distractions in order to encourage a period of intensive preparation. It is to be regretted, of course, that weather conditions made the fete impossible at the proper time, but that seems no good reason for prolonging the activities after the Interscholastic guests have gone and our closed season has begun,

ALL MOTHERS TO HOME RECEPTION

Will Receive Parents of Students on Saturday Afternoon

To receive true Wisconsin welcome and to meet the faculty members of their sons' and daughters' university, the mothers of both men and women students are invited to attend a reception at President Birge's home from 3 to 5:30 o'clock Saturday.

Since only a limited number of the faculty could be invited to be honor guests because of lack of room, the choice had to be given to the professors, those about to retire, and those large and well-known classes. Fifteen men and fifteen women students will act as hosts and hosteses to help the mothers meet the faculty.

DR. FRANK PRAISES TRADITIONS IN LETTER TO DAILY CARDINAL

"To The Daily Cardinal: I wish it were possible for me to say something to The Daily Cardinal that would really be worth printing, but I fear I cannot. During the last 24 hours I have almost exhausted all the ways I can devise for saying the one thing about the University of Wisconsin and my future relation to it that it seems I can say and stay within the boundaries of common sense and good judgment.

"That one thing is this, the University of Wisconsin has always, in its greatest hours, stood firmly for that freedom of investigation and courage of expression without which neither great scholarship nor good citizenship is possible. The University of Wisconsin has always, in its greatest hours, linked learning very closely with life. I could not do other than embrace the opportunity to have a part in the preservation and promotion of such a great and inspiring tradition.

"I am looking forward with the greatest eagerness to giving the best there is in me in service to the students, to the faculties, to the governing boards of the university, and to the best interests of the State in which I am to make my future home.

$10,000 Job in West

LOS ANGELES — A brass band and a coterie of co-eds greeted Wil-liam H. Spaulding when he arrived here from Minneapolis Saturday to sign a five-year contract to direct athletics at the University of California, southern branch.

Spaulding resigned as head football coach at the Minnesota university to accept a job with the California school. Authorities of the local institution withheld confirmation of the appointment until Saturday when they staged a formal celebration with Spaulding himself on hand to do the honors.

His contract, it is understood, calls- for a salary of $10,000 annually. Spaulding will take over his new job as soon as he can be released by the Gophers. He said he would probably have to return to Minnesota for the football season sending a substitute here to son, sending a substitute here to coach the Grizzlies.

Employers Write for Men to Fill Numerous Technical Positions

Practically every senior engineer has an oportunity to secure a po-sition before graduation because of the great number of letters that are received by the College of Engineer-ing from various manufacturing and other concerns throughout the country requesting the services of young engineers in many copocities, according to G. L. Larson of the mechanical engineering department.

This year the majority of letters have asked for men for engineering sales work, but there are also many demands for men to fill positions in-volving technical work. The university does not maintain any special office for the placing of graduating engineers, but the letters re-ceived from concerns are referred to the several department heads who then post notices regarding the positions offered and it is up to the individual to take advantage of the opportunities.

Frequently communications are novel article, and he gives some valuable salesmanship pointers.

"WE CAN DO IT" NEW MOTTO OF BADGERS IN COMING MICHIGAN TILT

Optimistic in Spite of Many Obstacles on Road to Victory .

"We can do it"—that is the spirit that prevails at Camp Randall as the track squad team starts its week of practice before taking on the strong Michigan squad in the tough-est dual meet that the Cardinal team has to face this year.

It takes a lot of optimism to make such a statement but that is the stuff that makes the world progress. Every man on the team realizes that he will have to perform better than at any previous time this season, yet they are firm in the belief that they have a 50-50 chance. It is not that feeling of over confidence that ruins so many teams- it is more that calm, determined resolve to win that usually carries on to the accomplishment of the desired end, with which the men are imbued. It will be a real test of their ability. Many Obstacles

Several obstacles have thrown themselves in the path of Coach Jones. First there is the question of Herb Flueck, star quarter miler. Flueck tore a muscle in practice last week and was out of the meet with the Gophers and it is very doubtful if he will be in shape to run at Michigan. His loss will be a severe blow to the Badger hopes. Then Captain Vallely was limping around the track yesterday with a swollen knee which is very likely to keep him out of the mile race against the Wolverines Friday. With these two stars out of the competithese two stars out of the competi-

efforts on the part of the remainder of the squad to score a victory over the all powerful Michigan squad. An idea of the strength of the An idea of the strength of the Michigan team may be gained from the fact that for the first time in 27 years they scored a victory over Illinois in a dual meet and that, in a year when Coach Gill has a galaxy of stars including Kinsey, Olympic winner in the hurdles and Evans record holder in the 220 dash and also starring in the century.

Listed among the Wolverine stars
is the famous Dehart Hubard,
Maize and Blue colored wonder, who is capable of taking firsts in any of five events. He could win without any dificulty the 100, 220, broad jump, and both hordle races. It is purely a question of where he will be used to most advantage. Then there is Reinke, holder of the conference indoor half wile reconference. conference indoor half mile record who is certain to repeat again against the Badgers. In the 100 along with Hubbard there is Wittman who can turn in better than FOUR HIGH SCHOOLS dition to these outstanding stars who would be sure winners in any competition Coach-Farrell has one of the most well balanced squads that has ever represented Michigan

Where the Wolverines are weak Wisconsin is strong, that is, if the Wolverines are weak in any department. Schwarze should take a first in the shot and discus. Although defeated in last Friday's meet with Minnesota in the discus, Coach Jones expects to have his stellar man back in form in time to defeat the best that Michigan can offer. His 10 points will be needed badly in these two events.

"Mac" Lame
Another worry that Coach Jones has is caused by his dash ace, "Pat"
McAndrews. Against the Gophers 'Mac" could not go at top speed on account of a bad leg and it is still a question whether he will be in the best of shape to compete against the flock of Wolverine dash stars. When he is going at top form McAndrews can give the best of them a battle all the way and would stand a good chance to take either the 100 or 220 but with a bad leg he will be doing well to take a place. JUNIORS TRIM FROSH IN CLOSE 7-6 BALL GAME

Battle Royal Results in Pitchers' Dual; Only Ten Hits Made

In a pitchers' duel marked by few but well placed hits the juniors took the frosh into camp for a 7-6 victory in the first women's interclass baseball game last week at Camp Randall.

The game opened with the juniors at bat when Bigelow singled to right field. Jennings followed with a pop to short and on Frazer's muff arrived safe at first with Bigelow on second. Then Shepard broke losse with a long drive to broke loose with a long drive to center, netting a triple and scoring on an overthrow to third. more that inning the juniors got on and Sherman cleaned up the bags, stealing home just before the third out was made, ringing up the sixth run.

In the frosh half Retting walked and scored on Hovswell's bingle. Then Moller and Nauts got on and with the bases full Campbell drove to center, bringing them home. Markuson struck out. Score 6-4. Many Strike Out

From then on both sides settled down, the frosh blanking the juniors until the fourth inning when Pease scored the winning run on Crochett's sacrifice to first, and the crochett's sacrifice to first, and the juniors holding the frosh to two runs garnered in the second inning. Hits were few, coming only in the first two innings, but strike-outs were many, Hoover, junior hurler, ringing up 12, and O'Malley and Petry, frosh twirlers, scoring five and three respectively.

MOVIES OF FRANK SHOWN AT STRAND

Motion pictures of Dr. Glenn Frank, president-elect of the university, were shown at the Strand at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, shortly after his arrival in Madison. The pictures were taken by M. E. Diemer, university photographer and Vinje, Wisconsin State Journal cameraman. The cameras caught the arrival of the president-elect, his welcome by President Rirgs and say welcome by President Birge and several other interesting scenes. The pictures will b shown at the Strand

HERE'S TO '28

We take our hats off to the class of 1928. It is a winner. At the present writing it has added $13,917 to the Memorial Union building fund, and it has some six or eight hours more to go before its campaign day

Few thought that '28 could do it. And why? There were plenty of reasons; the class has not been on the campus long enough to become sufficiently acquainted with the union idea and spirit, it was thought; the class wouldn't be interested enough to donate much, and so forth, and so forth.

into a tremendous unity of purpose, is near at hand. The activities of the senior and freshmen classes during the past few days are a significant sign of the new times. Nothing will do more to break up group spirit and factional division than a real, active, healthful class spirit and class unity. Finally we seem to have two classes on the campus which are real classes, and not mere academic divisions, but units with actual class consciousness. The money which has been raised in the campaign is important, but far more important is the psychological effect—the intense, vital interest which has been aroused in the Memorial Union in individual members of the classes and the campus as a whole, and, secondly, the stimulating example and spectacle of class organization, class unity, class

Much can be hoped and expected of the present freshman class. They have at least tried to do something and tried rather hard. It is to be hoped that their spirit of doing will gain momentum with each succeeding year so that as seniors they may give the university such an undergraduate leadership as it has never seen before. And such leadership will be more than usually important in 1928, for it is then that the Memorial Union will begin to function and the traditions and precedents laid down in the first year will be all-important. It is also to be hoped that the example set by 1928 will be emulated by succeeding freshman

It really looks as if the spark which has never died here has been fanned into a new and flaming spirit. There are no black clouds on the horizon, and Wisconsin has every hope for the future.

FUTURE BADGERS

Now that the 1926 Badger has practically completed its work and placed the finished copies in the hands of subscribers it might be well to consider just what a year book should be. First, of course, it should tell the graphic story of a year's happenings. That is why it is called a year book. Beyond that it may achieve a half dozen aims. But above all it should get a favorable reception from the students. If the subscribers of the book are pleased it has accomplished one of its chief efforts.

The 1926 Badger has done that admirably. The work of both the editorial and business staffs is highly creditable. They did what they set out to do: create a book that would be a fitting remembrance of their class.

But the tendency of college annuals is toward more lavish display of costlier books. Naturally all classes want to beat records of those set before them. Going still further they want to beat the records set by other colleges. That is where the difficulty of too strict competition enters. There is a limit beyond which college annuals cannot go. Perhaps we have not reached it, but we hope so.

Without any reflection on the work of the staff of the 1926 Badger or on any of those before it, we hopethat some time a Badger editor will come along who will have the courage and the nerve to put out a book with fewer pages than the one before - and at a cheaper price.

He will meet with much opposition, and probably his classmates will accuse him of throwing them down, But '28 has come across in splendid fashion. One but he will win the gratitude and admiration of the

A definite system for studying and writing examinations is being advocated by Prof. Sharp of the philosophy department.

"Read an examination question carefully, find out just what it asks for, organize your material, and write the facts briefly without adding unrelated material. New Regulations Require as Many Grade Points as Credits

New fraternity initiation rules have been adopted by the Commit-tee on Student Life and Interests and are effective beginning next semester

(1) Beginning with the opening of next semester, each social fra-ternity will be required to maintain a scholarship average of grade points equal to credits (1.00). A fraternity failing to reach this minimum goes on probation for a semester without penalty. A fraternity which remains on probation more than one semester in succession for-feits social privileges and privileges of initiation until it attains the prescribed average. A fraternity may appeal to the Committee on Student Life and Interests for relief from any apparent injustice caused by this regulation.

Other regulations governing pledging and initiation rule that only members of the university may be pledged or initiated, that no freshman shall lodge in a fraternity house during his first semester in the university, nor be initiated by a fraternity until he shall have completed one full semester of work, or at least 14 credits, in the univer-

No student may be initiated by a fraternity while he is on probation.

A student entering with advanced standing from another institution is eligible for initiation if he is allowed at least 30 hours of credit and is not admitted on probation.

No fraternity or sorority will be allowed to initiate a student without first obtaining a certificate of ap-proval from the dean.

(2) A new rule was adopted regarding fraternity men acompanying freshmen while they register. Freshmen are to go through the process of registration unassisted by any fraternity man. Any violation of this regulation will be treated as misconduct and dealt with accordingly.

Orph Players Go on Garter Hunt; Result

Not So Encouraging "Getting Gertie's Garter" Presented at the Orpheum by the LaVern Players

By J. F. W.

We write now for collegians, begging the pardon of all others and especially of the Dorothy La-Vern stock company. We speak, of course, of the current offering, "Getting Gertie's Garter," which is bringing down the boyes but which is bringing down the house, but which we cannot recommend to people of even the slightest intellectual en-lightenment. It's funny—if its articular type of silliness appeals

In plot it is spread rather thin. The adventures of a wandering garter are chronicled; that's about all. The action takes place in the bungalow to which Teddy and Gertie have come for their honey-moon, and incidentally to be alone. In neither do they succeed as soon as they arrive, and many relatives and friends are on the hunt for it.

None of the characters seem to enjoy their parts very much. Miss Vern appears as a young and witless female who wants to be "comprised," be the cost what it may. It's not her fault that the part isn't well suited to her kind of talent; in fact, she has often expressed her dislike for the type. Al Jackson is well cast as the object of her designs. Dorothy Cluer does especially fine work as the sympa-thetic French maid.

Undoubtedly the play will prove a sound business investment for the company. Let's hope so, because in the near future they intend to put on the fine play, "Anna Christie," on which they may lose money. Save your money and emouragement for that.

The senior class play seems to be coming along mighty well just at present under the direction or rather supervision of Margaret Campbell who is chairman of the committee, Gordie Brine, the business manager, is just at present worrying about the weather. But he'll do a lot more worrying along that line if I know anything about the job of putting on a production outdoors.

"Dear Brutus," you know, is typically Barrie, with all the charming fantasy and dreamworld of all his works at the same time being alworks at the legorically realistic.

If I remember correctly, it's about a group of people who are put into a forest and their relationships all mixed helterskelter. William Gillette played the title role in its successful run in this country some years

"Getting Gertie's Garter", which is playing at the Orpheum this week doesn't sound like high tragedy or particularly elevating, but it's good comedy well put on.

Al Jackson is always glood in comedy roles. He has a certain finesse which acts in a subtle manner to carry his lines over the foot-lights to the best advantage. Every member of the company has a good part. Jack Conley's with the com-pany again this week too, which is

The little fracas up at the Strand the other night was indeed a mis-fortune. But if the freshmen are willing to pay the damages, as they certainly should be, everything will be forgiven and forgotten-all except the usher's cut lip which probably won't be forgotten very soon.

The Chicago theaters seem to be falling down somewhat of late, but Rose-Marie and the Student Prince seem to be holding up pretty well, with White Cargo following close behind and two, or perhaps three of America's finest actresses are playing there, Grace George, Catherine Cornell and Ann Harding.

Return of Prodigal is Theme of Screen

Feature at Parkway "Old Home Week" Starring Thomas Meighan, Presented at the Parkway

By A. W. R.

The old theme of the prodigal's return to the family and the home town cloaks itself in a modern and interesting fashion in "Old Home Week." Thomas Meighan, in the role of the young man who went out to seek fortune and founded a service station arrives for a homecoming celebration to find that he has taken on the character of "one of our home town boys who has become famous in the oil business."

Inasmuch as two wildcat oil stock promoters have established them-selves in the town, the advent of an "experienced oil man" takes on particular importance, and affairs are immediately placed in his hands. Of course, the hole will never spout oil, of course the "home-comer" is shown up in his true light, and of course he finally outwits the two crooks and saves the stockholders' money, but it makes a good story.

Thomas Meighan is excellent in his characterization of Tom Clark, Most all Madison stores, retail and wholesale, will be closed all home town product. "That Devil Quemado" Featuring Fred Thompson Presented at the Maejstic. somewhat novel pre-presenta tion of a famous Yale half-back, masquerading as "Quemado", a Mexican desparado who abducts all the pretty girls west of the Rio Grande and takes them to his ranch. Fred Thompson, who seems to be a rising star, looks quite collegiate and sufficiently picturesque to give the part a good bit of punch. The rest of the caste is fair, and the scenic backgrounds help the picture considerably.

Bad, bad men and an innocent girl are naturally included in the picture. We really thought the days of the old-time western thrillers were over, but this picture is either left over from thos days or a forerunner of a revival of the pictures where "Men are Men".

Strand Feature Has Scenic Beauty; Plot

Not Very Startling
"The Great Divide" Presented at the Strand, Featuring Conway Tearle and Alice Terry

By C. G. S.

This is the old story of a marriage against the woman's will, a marriage for which the man pays gold to buy off his drunken comrades. Conway Tearle, as Stephen Ghent, takes Ruth Jordan, played by Alice Terry, away to his mountain home. There they live a strange life. He loves her, but her pride makes all thought of love revolting, after having been bought, Of course there is a happy ending.

That is the essence of the plot. A cloudburst, and a ride down a canyon with a wall of water in pursuit is quite the most exciting scene which has appeared in pictures of late. Conway Tearle and Alice Terry play their parts with an understanding and emotional quality that is very real. In some places the action tends to drag, but on the whole the entire cast dots well. The picture is well filmed, with scenes of exceptional beauty. The grandeur of the Grand Canyon and of the Arizona desert give the picture a ruggedness and beauty of the outdoors which is refreshing, and which is too often lacking.

SATURDAY LAST DAY FOR SONG

Judging in Contest Will Take Place This Weekend

This is senior class song week. Contributors to the senior class song contest are urged to get their entries in to the committee for judging before Saturday. They may be sent to Irene Norman '25, chairman of the committee at 15 E. Gilman street or left for her at the Cardinal office in the Union building.

About a dozen songs have already been submitted according to Miss Norman. The committee hopes that all who are interested in writing a song will help in making this one of the class of 1925 not only a class song but a general commencement song which can be sung each

The winning number will be selected by a committee from the English and Music departments and will probably be sung for the first time at the Senior Class Sing to be held June 3. Robert Nethercut '25 will conduct the singing. The song will follow as a response to President Birge's address to the senior

At a conference today comprised of the student committee, Dean F. Louise Nardin, H. I. E. Perry, and Prof. E. B. Gordon, final plans for the selection of the song will be

CADET REVIEW SET

The first call will be sounded at 8:15 o'clock in the morning. The men are supposed to be in their ranks, in uniform, properly armed and equipped, in battery positions, when assembly is sounded at 8:30. They are to assemble on the lower campus at this time.

The official announcement states that "In view of the sixtieth anniversary of the close of the Civil war the University Corps & Cadets will, in conjunction with other patriotic societies, participate in the Memorial day parade and other patrotic services of the day."
