SHAWN, ST. DENIS APPEAR AT NEW GARRICK TONIGHT

Will Depict Other Countries in "Dance of the World;" Under Auspices of Union

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with their troupe of dancers, will give their Madison performance at 8:15 tonight at the Garrick theater. They are being brought here under the auspices of the Wisconsin Union.

Tickets for the entertainment have been sold out for some time, according to Harold Konnak, who is arranging the event. The expediency of holding a matinee performance was discussed, but was discarded.

Come From Chicago

Presenting their famous Oriental ballet, featuring dances and tableaux inspired during the recent 18 months tour of the Orient, the Denishawns are making a tour of the United States. They are coming here directly from Chicago where their initial performance was so successful that it was repeated at two additional performances. Chicago reviewers, in speaking of their program, have expressed the opinion that it is one of the most strikingly effective dance dramas which has been presented on the American stage for some time.

The dances of the company are announced as "Dances of the World," and are interpretations of the dances and customs of the various countries and peoples. The majority of these dances are influenced by the Oriental races and depict Oriental moods. They are designed and arranged by Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, who carry them out with a great degree of beauty and artistic effect.

Carry Special Scenery

Special scenery, carrying out some of the most recent ideas of backgrounds and unique lighting effects create the impressions and illusions to augment the effectiveness of the dance numbers.

The first Matrix Table of the Wisconsin chapter of Theta Sigma Phi was held last year. At that time Mrs. Sophie Kerr Underwood was the principal speaker.

Mrs. Margaret Cullin Banning, well known short story writer and novelist, will be the principal speaker this year. Miss Zona Gale, famous Wisconsin author and a regent of the university, will also speak. Mrs. Banning is a member of Theta Sigma Phi from the University of Minnesota while Miss Gale is a member of the local chapter.

Day By Day With The News

By C. O. S.

From Shanghai, China, to Lisbon, Portugal, and back to Washington, D. C., where the political leaders await with bated breath President Coolidge's action on the McNary-Haugen bill runs the thread of the day's news. Nicaragua for the time being is forgotten while the door of China swings in the face of the imperialistic lion.

The Liberals Come into Power

No less than three distinct struggles of so-called liberal revolutionary parties to gain governmental control are now taking place in this uneasy world. The newest outbreak of the revolutionaries in chronicle in Portugal where Col. Mendes Reis is leading his countrymen against the forces of General Carmona who assumed the role of the dictator last May. Return to old parliamentary and political party form of government is demanded.

A second liberal movement which the world looks upon with interest is, of course, in Nicaragua, and to all appearances it is a losing fight.

In China, a third liberal force, the Cantonese party, is waging long and sporadic battle against the Pekingese government. The Cantonese government in spite of its rather misguided program is recognized to possess a program of vitality for China that is lacking in the Pekingese policy.

What Will Coolidge Do?

The agriculture situation now reaches a climax in congress. The early passage of the much revised McNary-Haugen farm relief bill is almost assured. The question is, however will Coolidge sign the bill? Along with Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, Coolidge isn't overly favorable towards the measure, but Coolidge as a shrewd politician knows that in order to save his political head he will need to affix his O. K. Farmers throughout the Middle West see in the bill a kind of cure-all for farm ills and they declare that the patience of Job is exhausted and Frank O. Lowden will ride triumphant into the presidency should Coolidge sign the bill. Political leaders will fathom in Coolidge's action a sure indication of his aspiration towards a third term. Although the problem of agriculture is a basic one that must be solved by basic trends in agricultural system and not be legislative oil poured on troubled waters, the defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill would be looked upon as a real tragedy in the Middle West.

Wisconsin's Legislature

The Wisconsin legislature finds itself in a tangle of tax and highway questions with a proposed probe of the highway situation and the questioned appointments of Governor Zimmerman keeping them busy during the day and furnishing a topic for conversation over the card table and hotel chair at night.

History Repeats Itself in China

Shades of the Boxer Rebellion! History is repeating itself in China today except that the forces are more divided than they were in 1900 when the Empress Dowager hated the foreigners much as they are hated today. China is stronger today but the strength is divided between two rivals camps, the Cantonese and the Pekingese. The foreign powers are less aggressive than they were previous to the Boxer war and are more afraid of shedding blood. Against the proposal to create a safety zone at Shanghai is arrayed the tenacious hatred of the two rival governments toward each other and the fear of jeopardizing their respective positions and the insidious propaganda of Russia hoping to entrench herself in Russia when the foreign powers lose their imperialistic grip. Bolshevism is but a nom de plume for Russian imperialism.

Saturday is Abraham Lincoln's birthday. On that day several million ems of type will be used in praise of him. During the other 51 weeks of the year, the space will be used for printing "bar spinisters" in his life.

FINAL HAREFOOT REGISTRATION TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Will be Last Chance for Aspirants to Sign Up for Positions on Revue

Final general registration for all university men who wish to work on the forthcoming Haresfoot show, "Meet The Prince," will be tonight in Lathrop concert room at 7:15 o'clock. Tryouts for the cast, chorus and specialties will start tomorrow.

New men who have not already signed up for some branch of Haresfoot work are to be present while all those who have been registered in previous meetings are also to be present. Prospective chorus men and 'girls' must be present.

Purnell to Outline Work

More major parts are offered in the cast than ever before, while an augmented chorus, large pit orchestra, and crack stage orchestra will provide room for many ambitious males.

William Purnell, director of the club, will sketch the characteristics in each part of the cast. Immediately after the first preliminary registration is gone over. This first part of the meeting will be over before 8:00 o'clock so that those going to the Denishawn dancers will be in time.

Those Haresfoot men in charge of each department who will take the names of men for their departments are:

Russell G. Winnie, '27, casts; William Schroeder, '28, production; Donald Abert, '28, art; Frank Worthington, '27, publicity; John Leigh, '28, program; Harold Himes, '27, chorus; and Herb Allen, '27, music.

The original scenario for "Meet the Prince" was written by John Moran '27, of Madison. The routine of the three acts was done under the supervision of Purnell and Winnie, president of the club.

"This is absolutely the final registration for the show, and all men who have not registered at tonight's meeting will be eliminated from consideration for the show," stated Winnie yesterday.

Mr. Villard will give the results of his observations in Washington on the way the news of the capital is gathered and written by correspondents.

The third generation of journalists in his family, Mr. Villard was president of the family paper, the New York Evening Post, for 21 years. This paper had been in the Villard family since 1881. He resigned to become editor of the Nation in 1918.

William Lloyd Garrison, the famous abolitionist, was Mr. Villard's grandfather. His father, Henry Villard, took up journalism after coming to this country from Germany, and reported the Lincoln-Douglas debates.

STAFF MEETING

NOTRE DAME SQUAD DEFEATS CARDINAL CAGEMEN BY 19-14

Organize Group Of Campus Play Writers Today

The opportunity to write plays under the faculty supervision and to see them produced on their own campus will soon be the privilege of Wisconsin students interested in dramatic writing, according to the plans of Prof. W. C. Troutman of the Speech department.

"The theatre in the new Bascom addition will give us excellent facilities for all phases of dramatic production, but the theatre cannot be complete unless it has its own playwrights and fosters the work of creative writers," said Prof. Troutman.

The organization of a playwright's club to work in cooperation with the other dramatic units of the campus will be undertaken at once.

"Such a club exists at Yale now," said Mr. Troutman, "and it is doing effective work. There is as much opportunity for dramatic writers with originality in the Middle West as there is in the east, and undoubtedly the students of this university are capable of turning out produceable plays."

The new theatre will give the student dramatists exactly the same experience as the professional playwright undergoes when his plays are produced. The manuscripts will be read before the members of the club and criticized by them. Those selected for production will be presented by the Wisconsin Players, and the stage settings and scenes will be designed by students. During rehearsals the author will work on the stage with the director, and make all the necessary changes in the manuscript himself.

It is planned to select the best plays written during the year and publish them in an annual volume of Wisconsin plays. Plays and sketches of sufficient merit will be offered to the National Collegiate Players Magazine for immediate publication, and for sale to professional producers, vaudeville agents, and various "Little Theatres" throughout the country.

Students interested in membership in the club are asked to meet in 411 Bascom hall at 4:30 today.

Faculty Musicians Please Responsive Audience in Recital

BY L. V.

A decidedly appreciative audience came to hear Louise Lockwood, pianist, and Doris Buriff Caster, contralto, in the third of the Music School faculty recitals at Music hall last night.

Masculinity and abandon characterized the playing of Miss Lockwood. In both the Liszt and Chopin groups she displayed a predilection for the brilliant and the bombastic in the choice of her numbers.

Miss Lockwood, however, carried off her difficult program with sureness and ease. A bravura, well in hand, for the scintillating passages of the broken arpeggio melody in Chopin's C sharp minor Scherzo; a well balance sustained tone for the Berceuse, a precision of touch in the exacting Mephisto Valse of Chopin proved Miss Lockwood an artist of commendable parts.

Mrs. Caster displayed a knowledge and insight into the technique of her singing in the two groups for contralto which she presented. The True Love song by Burdock, for instance, the melody of which follows through in the same monotonous pitch, was handled skillfully by Mrs. Caster in the contrasting of tone colors. In the "Night Wind" a bit of coloratura music, Mrs. Caster's interpretations easily stamped the song as her best of the evening.

Score Tied 10-10 at Half; Badgers Falter in Second Period

By Harold Lamboley

As far as Wisconsin is concerned, Notre Dame is still western basketball champs. The South Benders succeeded in snatching a slow, listless game from Dr. Meanwell's Badger cage tossers last night 19 to 14 thus winning the only basketball game the Irish have played with Wisconsin.

Notre Dame stalled practically through the entire second half after they had jumped into the lead shortly after the start of the second period. If the large crowd journeyed to the gymnasium expecting to see a flashy powerful offensive drive on the part of the Irish, they were disappointed. Coach Keogan's outfit played just the opposite sort of basketball. They seemed to care little for the offensive end of the game and concentrated entirely on their defense. They refused to give up the ball and when they couldn't see an opening they simply stood in the center of the floor waiting for something to happen. As a consequence the Badgers were given little opportunity to show their short pass.

New Lineup

Coach Meanwell started a revamped lineup, inserting Miller at the guard post left vacant by the graduation of Ralph Merkle. The LaCrosse boy played the center position after the tip-off and Kowalczyk then dropped back to standing guard. This combination seemed to work smoothly enough in the first half and throughout this entire period hopes were high for a Badger victory.

The Irish early displayed just what kind of a game they were going to play against the Badgers and took numerous long shots at the basket with little effort in attempting to break through the Badger five man defense. The Badgers on the other hand were working their short pass to perfection and it looked like the Irish were going to be easy baites for Wisconsin's pet attacks. Andrews went like a house a fire in the early part of the game (Continued on Page Three)

ENGLISH QUARTET HERE TOMORROW

London Organization to Make Fourth Bow to Madison in Music Hall

After a year or more or less extended rambling among the world's musical places, The London String Quartet comes again on tomorrow night to Music Hall to make its fourth bow before a Madison audience.

The season of 1927 marks the nineteenth year of the organization's existence. It was founded in 1908 by H. Waldo Warner, viola, now one of England's leading composers. At the time, Mr. Warner felt the need of a distinctive national group, characteristic of the English people.

Chamber music organizations have grown to be extremely popular in England. Every town has its amateur string quartet, every school its organization for string instruments. The marked popularity that the London String Quartet has won for itself in its 150 concerts in London, however, has been won in foreign concerts also.

Men known in all England comprise the group. Besides H. Waldo Warner, the famous composer who holds the Cobbett prize for chamber music composition in England, C. Warwick Evans, cello; James Levey, first violin; and Thomas Petre second violin; have played with the London String Quartet since its founding and have helped to maintain the longevity and unity of the group.

Big Ten Track Season to Open at Iowa Saturday With Champions

Iowa Has Many Lettermen of Last Year's Title Team
Left

IOWA CITY, Ia., Feb. 9.—The long line of track and field champions developed at the University of Iowa by Coach Geo. T. Bresnahan may have notable additions before the Hawkeye spikes are hung up next June.

For the Iowa coach, who has brought forth nine Western Conference champions, four Olympic team members and two National Collegiate title-holders since 1921, start work January 4 with 120 eligible athletes. Fourteen of these were letter men and forty-eight had at some time won numerals.

Boyles Foremost in Pole
In the van of the "T" wearers stands Captain Jack Boyles, joint Big Ten indoor and outdoor champion in the pole vault, and Frank (Bab) Cahel, winner of the 220-yard low hurdles in the championship meet and fleet anchor-man of the record-breaking one mile relay team. These men are credited with the finest marks in their specialties of any conference athlete last spring.

A supporting cast for the champions is formed by twelve other athletes who have scored in Western conference competition. Leonard Hunn of Davenport won places in the two mile run both indoors and outdoors and is the joint holder of the harrier title while Emerson Nelson, the all-American tackle, scored eight points in three weight events at the outdoor conference meet last spring.

Have Many Letter Men
Other letter men who will work in the field house are J. G. Everingham of Fort Madison, senior sprinter who placed in the Big Ten 220-yard dash; D. O. Thomas of Iowa City, high jumper; W. A. Elliott of Iowa City, third in the conference mile run last May; E. J. Beatty of Washington, place-winner in both the high and low hurdles at the conference meet, and lead-off man on the mile relay team; L. D. Phelps of Iowa City, hurdles and quarter miler; J. C. Mullen of Gilmore City, pole valuter; R. R. Mann of Council Bluffs, who has high jumper 6-3; J. H. Folwell of Davenport, quarter miler; V. P. Lapp of Richmond, Mich., shot putter; and C. T. Mau of Britt, shot putter.

Those are men who have records of achievement in big meets. Many others have excellent freshman records but as yet have had no chance to prove themselves in big competition. Some of these youngsters are G. H. Baird of Mason City, quarter miler; F. H. Brady of Guthrie Center, distance runner; D. R. Morison of Traer, weight man; C. F. Fisher of Duncomb, quarter miler; J. R. Allison of Davenport, hurdler; C. Forwald of Iowa City, weight man; R. H. Moore of Clinton, broad jumper and H. N. Workhoven of Sioux City high jumper.

Won Championship Last Year
A championship of the Western Conference was won by the Iowans for the first time last winter when they scored 24 1-3 points to win the indoor title. Outdoors the team was pushed into third place by Michigan and Illinois but scored 41 19-20 points, a record for a Hawkeye team in a conference meet. Five athletes placed in the National Collegiate championships and the five mile relay team won at the Illinois indoor, Texas, Kansas and Drake relays and raced to the Big Ten indoor title.

Coach Bresnahan starting his seventh year will be assisted again by Charles R. Brookins, holder of the world record in the 220-yard low hurdles and by T. E. Martin, weight coach.

Women Here Form Teams to Compete in Swim, Pin Race

Swimming and bowling intramural teams are being organized by the women of the university. Team entries must be made with Miss Gladys Basset, of the Woman's Physical Education Department, the first part of next week. Women may play on both teams if they wish.

Coach Jones Announces Badger
Entries for Dual Meet

Wisconsin's 1927 track team will face one of its strongest opponents of the year when they go to Iowa to engage the Hawkeyes in the first conference dual meet of the season this Saturday. Last year the Hawks won the conference championship and are back again this year with a team that is calculated to retain the honors.

With this Saturday's meet the track team will swing into the middle of its competitive season. Coach Jones has suffered several bad reverses with the withdrawing of Chapman and Francis from school due to accidents and the usual toll of ineligibilities due to scholastic difficulties. As a whole, though, Coach Jones men weathered the recent exams in hardy fashion.

New Men to Have Places
This year's track season will see many new men in the Cardinal colors. New Men have been working hard to take the coveted positions left vacant by the loss of Chapman and Francis and with the open of the season Coach Jones promises some surprises in high-calibered performers.

Upon the practices this last week in the gym annex depends much of the success of the Badger showing this Saturday. All the men were given a temporary lay-off during the exam period and this week but remains to iron out any wrinkles left in the track linen.

Coach Jones while not holding out for a victory over the Hawks, expects his men to make a creditable showing. The loss of Chapman in the distance runs has greatly weakened the Badgers in this department while the loss of Francis in the sprints is equally hard to bear.

Jones Announces Entries
Wisconsin's entries in the various events of Saturday's dual meet as announced by Coach Jones today is as follows:

60 yard dash, Rose, Shaw, Smith, Stowe; Hurdles, McGinnis, Pahlmeyer, Momen, Murphy, Eisle, Zilish, Stehr; quarter mile, Stowe, Dougan, Smith, Kanalz, Chamberlain; one-half mile, Erickson, McKee, Payne, Bullamore.

Mile, Schmitt, Petaja, Zola, Bullamore, Schwenger; two mile, Zola, Gumbreck, Moe, Goldsworthy, Butz, High jump, McGinnis, Lysne, Fox, Coates, Mayer; Shot-put, Wagner, Schuette, Ahbecker; Relay, Dougan, Stowe, Smith, Konalz, Musolf, Chamberlain.

WASHINGTON (AP).—Repeal of the national origin provision of the immigration law was approved each swimming team—three advanced and three beginners. The winning team will be determined by the highest number of points which its beginners and advanced members have made together. If there are enough teams entered the competition will be conducted as a round robin tournament.

In bowling four will constitute a team. Two best games out of three games will determine the winner. The official bowling rules will be used in the tournament.

HOCKEY PLAYERS AWAIT FREEZE-UP TO RESUME WORK

Team Still Has Trips to Michigan and Minnesota on Schedule

Because the U. W. Hockey rink, as a result of the recent thaw, bears a greater resemblance to a swimming pool than it does to its normally glazed surface, Coach Rube Brandow's puck chasers are being forced to idly wait for the good will of old King Winter.

Although the hockey sextet will not play another conference game here this season they have yet to make trips to Minnesota and Michigan. Their season has hardly begun and they all agree that a thaw at this time of year will hamper not only the games but the necessary workouts and practice on the ice.

Cold Weather Still to Come
Nevertheless, twittering birds, early sunlight, and a few days of thawing weather does not proclaim the advent of spring at this early date. Hockey men unanimously agree that many days of frigid weather are yet to be expected before the days of little thought and less study.

Rube Brandow, coach, is still confronted with the old problem of ineligibility. As yet no definite results are known but it is anticipated that it will have some serious bearing on the squad.

With the return of Chamberlain, star forward, the sextet will have a powerful forward line. Chamberlain was a star player on the freshman squad of two years ago, and likewise played brilliantly last season. It is believed that he is eligible for varsity play.

Chamberlain Back for Berth
Because Drummond was ineligible during the first semester Brandow found the weak spot in his team was in the center position. Now it is expected that Chamberlain will fill that position and with Jansky and Lidicker as his two teammates in the forward line, the sextet will undoubtedly function with greater ability.

Mitchell, brilliant goalie of the Badger squad, though badly battered up during the Manitoba fray, has recovered and is in line for more play. This husky lad suffered a split eyebrow, and a banged up ear and yet he pluckily fought through to the finish of the Canadian game in his position.

There is possibility that the Badger squad will make its postponed trip to Janesville and Milwaukee for games with the Town club and Janesville Y. M. C. A.

Notre Dame Downs Meanwell's Cagemen in Second Half; 19-14

Meanwell's Men in Altered
Lineup Falter in Second Period

and dropped in two neat field goals and remained a constant menace to the two Irish guards throughout the half.

Tied at Half
The end of the first half found the count knotted, 10 to 10. To the close observer it looked like the Badgers had the edge on the highly touted Irish basketball quintet. Nyikos, to be sure, looked plenty dangerous and Dahman early showed that he knew a little something about the guarding game but the Badger's short pass was working too smoothly to give the Badger fans anything but hope for a Wisconsin victory.

A change was noticeable in the second half. McNally opened this period with a short follow in shot and from then on the Irish were never headed. It was a slow stalling game for them. When they didn't see a chance to make a basket they were content to stand in the center of the floor quietly holding the ball waiting for an opening. As a consequence the game grew listless with the Badger followers begging for a chance to get at the ball.

When Crowe sank another basket for the Irish shortly after Hotchkiss had made the score 12 to 11 when he threw in a free throw, things began to look bad. Andrews came through with a free throw after Crowe fouled him, but Nyikos evened that a few minutes later with a free throw. When Behr sneaked through and sank a basket a few minutes later making the count 15 to 14, chances for a victory looked brighter than at any time during the half.

Drawn From Basket
But at this point the Badgers made the mistake of being drawn away from the basket by the Notre Dame stalling tactics and then Nyikos made a swift break for the basketball after a clever pass from McNally and sank it after a pretty backward flip over his head. The same thing was repeated a few minutes later and the Notre Dame captain again counted with another pretty backward shot and the game was cinched.

The Badgers as a whole were off form. Their guarding was almost a perfection and although the Irish didn't make many attempts to break through the defense with any kind of a pass attack, it is doubtful if they could have done so if they desired. At times the short pass looked good, especially in the first half and then for a time in the second half the Badgers showed signs of brilliancy. However, they didn't have the ball in their possession long enough in the second half to work the ball down with any degree of regularity.

Nyikos was the individual man for the Irish and though his play could not be called flashy, nevertheless, he showed he understood the game. His two baskets in the last six minutes of play cinched the victory for Coach Keogan's team. Conroy, another one of the fast steppers from the Irish institution, failed to demonstrate anything flashy or outstanding.

Play by Play
Wisconsin got the tip-off and almost immediately Barnum fouled Jackym, but the latter missed the free throw. McNally fouled soon after and Miller scored for the Badgers. Jackym repeated the performance almost immediately after but this time Miller missed the free throw. Andrews fouled Nyikos, after a great deal of passing and the Notre Dame captain sank the free toss.

Miller sank a short one under the basket for the Badgers. Nyikos then sank a free throw and the count was 3-2. Barnum brought the people to their feet when he sank a long shot, but Dahman duplicated that feat soon after, Nyikos then fouled Miller and the Badger guard missed the toss. Jackym threw in a long shot for the Irish and the Irish took the lead for the first time. Miller tied the count when he scored on the free toss accorded him after Jackym fouled him. Andrews then sank one from the foul line and the Badgers resumed the lead.

Crowe relieved Jackym for Notre Dame and a few minutes after, this newcomer sank a long shot. Andrews short shot followed soon after and the Badgers were once more out in front. Nyikos missed a free throw but grabbed the rebound and sank a basket and the half ended 10 to 10.

We Demand Reform

During the period when this "sometimes chartless journal" (we quote the distinguished editor of the Wisconsin State Journal) was in its annual mid-year hibernation, Big Ten directors of athletics announced the banning of the following methods of contributing to the honor and glory of the alma mater:

1. Granting of loans or scholarships to athletes by non-university groups.
2. Correspondence by directors or coaches with high school athletes, either directly, or through students, alumni, or fraternities.
3. Attendance by coaches at interscholastic meets for the purpose of meeting star athletes.

The Daily Cardinal wishes to put its official stamp of approval on this action, but why pick on athletes? Who knows that similar sinister forces are not in operation in other departments of inter-university competition. It is high time that Big Ten powers rose up in righteous indignation and dealt severely and uncompromisingly with all the unsavory methods of acquiring good "material." Too long these menaces to our morale and reputations have been entertained in our midst uninvestigated—yea, we may venture to assert, unsuspected.

To provide a basis for discussion, the Daily Cardinal presents herewith a set of tentative rules, with the demand that they be acted upon at the next meeting of the "committee of sixty" or what have you.

It shall be illegal:

1. For any university to promise free tuition, loans, or scholarships in order to secure the enrollment of desirable high school history sharks, math wizards, or chemistry phenoms.
2. For university heads of departments, professors, or instructors to attend high school class recitations for the purpose of meeting star scholars, and inducing them to enroll in their courses at the university.
3. For Rotary or Kiwanis clubs, or alumni bodies to pay the expenses of high school valedictorians.
4. For editors of campus literary magazines to initiate correspondence with scholastic essay contest winners, or the class poets of high school graduating classes.
5. For representatives of any university to rush a child prodigy below the age of 10 years.

Only 25 Per Cent Students

Tonight the Denishawn Dancers, famous and acclaimed the world over for their excellent portrayal of the art of interpretive dancing, will appear at the Garrick theater under the auspices of the Wisconsin Union Board.

It is interesting to note just what number of students will attend. The percentage will be, taking the box office records as references, people of the city of Madison approximately seventy-five per cent with the more than eight thousand university students and faculty filling up the other twenty-five per cent. With our supposedly greater appreciation for the finer things in life, it would seem that the ratios should be turned around, but they are not.

The Wisconsin Union Board has undertaken to present the finest in music to the student body this year. It has undertaken this program at risk of great financial loss. The list of artists contains many of the outstanding names in the world of music. Yet the interest and the attendance at these concerts are half-hearted, curious, small.

It must mean that the jazz age of radios, movies, vaudeville, dances, automobiles has shown that the world of fine music cannot successfully compete with it for preference with university folks.

Protect Our Pie!

"Aw, gee whiz, Ma! Can't I have just one more little piece of mince pie?" Little Willie bewails at a Thanksgiving dinner in 1933.

"No, Wille," his mother replies, "you know its against the law, we have only one more package of mince meat left and heaven only knows when our mince meat will be able to run another order through the coast guard."

"Gee whiz! This is a fine country! Can't even have some mince pie. I wish I was dead."

"Say, Millie, did you see John Brown and his wife at the Epworth League meeting last night?"—Willie's mother asks Aunt Etta, guest at dinner. "They looked positively bored—looks like a divorce to me. And their son, that inane looking creature, had better leave the country before the cops pick him up for not marrying. You know he's over thirty years old now."

Ho, hum. This will certainly be a fine country before long if the senators and congressmen at Washington, humorously called solons by headline writers in search of short words that will fit all to small columns, get some of their legislation through the present session. The above skit is nothing but a bit of our imagination at present, of course, but six years from now it may not be either funny or imaginary. All the items listed there—mince pies, gossip, bachelorhood will all be criminally punishable then unless some divine power can remove the congressmen who propose to make them so from their seats in congress and attach them as attendants at day nurseries or humor columns of daily papers—where they will be receiving legitimate pay for their motherly tendencies and unknowing humor.

Congress will soon be asked to pass just such a law as will prevent Willie from having any mince pie with his Thanksgiving dinner, except, of course, that much as the smuggler baker can spirit into the kitchen under the cover of night. Imagine a Christmas dinner without mince pie just because some congressman finds that it does not agree with his own gastronomic machinery and would, therefore, make it illegal, immoral and un-Godly to think of eating said pie. Too bad either Charles A. Dana or some old-time New England farmer isn't up and about to tell the world just what place pie—any variety, any shape, takes in the life of these United States of America.

Is it possible to think of any two members of the female sex, age, color, creed, or size notwithstanding, gathering together any place, any time and finding it possible to obey the legal gag against gossip? This legislator must have been brought up on a ranch with entire male personnel.

We certainly hope that the legislators who are to present these bills are not serious in their endeavor. Perhaps it was just an off day in the national congress and something had to be done to fill up the gap before time for adjournment.

Pie and gossip are interesting institutions. We hope Willie will not be deprived of his mince pie—because we want some too.

We neither expect nor desire to compete with the column in the upper right hand corner of this page, but its staff of reporters finds it quite impossible to gather all the humor which arises in connection with this business of getting an education. The other day we ran across the undergraduate pedant who selected his courses for the second semester by looking up in the examination schedule to see when the finals came. He had to sail for Europe on a certain day—and not even an education must interfere with that.

The time of year is just about ripe for those scribes to start prognosticating as to how many days before the lake opens up. They can't fool us on this Wisconsin winter business—it's going to snow on Memorial day to make up for this oversight on the part of Jack Frost.

Good Morning!
No, this isn't Mae Tinee speaking. It's non other than Garibaldi and Benito. We're sorry we slipped up on our last column. Regular pair of slippers.

That's an awful way to start the column, but here goes—

They're beginning to call the Villa Maria Valentino's Tent. All the sheiks go there.

Met a delightful girl the other day. She had dated out every night for seven weeks. 'Yup,' she says "I was out with 40 and 8."

"WHaddyamean, 40 and 8," queries I. And quoth she: "40 men and 8 horses necks."

"Well," says the cynical blonde, that's a very high average at that, and she certainly was in luck. The proportion I'd expect to find would be 8 men and 40 horses' necks."

Oh, these cynical frosh!

Fragment from an unpublished diary: Outside the cold, silent night, and the infinite. Within—warmth, the odour of roses, lilies-of-the-valley, violets, narcissi. Dim lights—soft strains of music through the half opened door. A girl—languid and world-weary. "There is something about you which I shall always remember, always love," she said. "For you, of all men I know, laugh when you kiss. The others are so serious—so ridiculous." I bowed and laughed again!

ROCKETEERS NOTICE
All Rocketeers—come to the meeting at 4:30 this afternoon. Very serious, essential, and otherwise important business.

"Avec quelle femme avez-vous etc ce soir?"

"The one I call the Queen of Spades."

"Mon dieu! Elle est noire?"

"No, but some digger."

Gigolo saw a girl the other day who, he says, is as blonde as hell. That's literally true—she's red headed.

Prof. Stebbins of the art dept. is having a display of his paintings at the Woman's building. He always did know his oil.

Readers' Say-So

WANTS PRO-CHRISTIAN COURSE

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

Recently three students were discussing the policy of the philosophy department in this university. It was noted that the department permits the exposition of agnostic and atheistic views (noted especially in Mr. Otto's course in Man and Nature) but has no cause which advocates a God-believing doctrine.

Assuming that religious conceptions fall within one of them three large groups, i.e. God-believing, agnostic, and atheistic, isn't it grossly unfair to students that proponents of two doctrines should be permitted to air their views and attack the third doctrine without the third having any means of regress or refutation? Such is the case here. There is no course in the Philosophy department (according to the philosophy students) which is pro-Christian or pro-God-believing.

Surely it is possible to give a course in christianity which would not offend or promote any creed and also keep within the law.

It was suggested that an explanation of this unfair situation be asked of Prof. McGilvary.

MAIL PROM BILLS TO DEAN, ANDERSON ASKS

Creditors of the recent 1928 Junior Prom are asked to mail all bills, with requisitions attached, to the office of Dean Scott H. Goodnight in a statement issued yesterday by Art C. Anderson, finance chairman. Anderson notified all chairmen of prom committees who have incurred any expense for the Prom without first securing a re-

Phone conversation: "Barechild 710. . . hello, Constantia? . . . This is Archie. . . Oh, hello, Archie. . . say Connie, want to go tobogganning tonight with us? . . . Oh, delighted, sure thing. . . well, say, can you bring another girl along? . . . Of course, what type? . . . Never mind the type as long as she's good and heavy so we can go down hill faster."

Well, after being around here for two and a half years, we have at last found out that a seminar is nothing more than another name for a high class bull session.

Several days ago a man was buried in a 600 lb. coffin. Although no sentiments were expressed regarding the 18th amendment, it is understood that the pall-bearers are in favor of light biers.

That isn't our own, but it seems that in the good old days there was a brand of chewin tobacco named Battle-Axe. One man heard another call his dog—"Here Battle-Axe."

"What's the idea of that name?" he was asked.

"Well," he said. "It's my dog, and I calls him what I choose."

After that we'd like to say that we may be bad eggs, but like George's busted drum, we're hard to beat.

(Which reminds Acon of the Rug Salesman who sold "Rugs that can't be beat.")

When we run into a well-turned phrase, we like to pass it on. Here's one we found in Mencken's "Prejudices." . . . "It may be, as they say, that we Americans lie in the gutter of civilization, but all the while our eyes steal cautious glances at the stars." So, too, with our Skyrockets, dear readers. Look through the street dust of banality for the gleams of starlight beyond.

We hope you bought the last Lit, for one present and one past Rocketeer were contributors. Moreover, Ye Ed owes me $1.80, and I want to collect.

F. L. L.: "I can't live on promises."

GARIBALDI AND BENITO.

Ogg Writes Report on Social Research for Scientific Body

Prof. F. A. Ogg, of the Political Science department, who is directing a survey of the research in the humanistic and social sciences for the American Council of Learned Societies, submitted a report of the study to that body at their recent meeting in New York City.

The report, which covers all phases of the research done by the different departments of the council, will be submitted in its final form to the Carnegie corporation which is financing the project, and will be printed in book form during the summer.

At the last meeting of the council which was held at the Columbia University club in New York, on Jan. 29 and 30, the Medieval Academy of America, the History of Science society, and the Linguistic Society of America were admitted to membership in the council which is now composed of 15 different learned societies.

A proposal has been made in New Mexico to change the name of that state Coolidge. Thus far we haven't heard of any wide-spread movement in the Gopher state towards changing Minnesota to Kellogg.

Maryland avenue, N. E., Washington, D. C. Further information may be obtained at the office of the Dean of Men in South hall.

Over the Rim of Grand Canyon

He Threw This Pen and It Struck Unharmd on the Jagged Rocks a Half Mile Below

Non-breakable Pen Barrel? Dr. F. C. Morse of the National Park-to-Park Highway Association was unconvinced.

So recently to test the new Parker Duofold barrel, he stood on the rim of Grand Canyon and threw this pen into the rock-lined chasm.

When the pen was recovered amid the jagged rocks a half mile below the canyon's edge, it was scratched a bit, but quite unbroken.

When the cap was removed the point was as good as ever—a point guaranteed for 25 years, not only for mechanical perfection but for wear!

You cannot get Duofold quality in any pen save that stamped "Geo. S. Parker." Look carefully for this. Any good pen counter would like you to try this classic.
