The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

There was an old lady that was called Ani'taskut (Good Skunk) and she became very angry when she went to the store in Seymour. There was another woman with her when they were there. She wanted to buy some cloth. The clerk showed her different kinds of cloth. He would say, "That's good." She misheard and thought he was saying Ani'taskut. So then she went right out and saw the woman she was with. She said, "It was you that told him what to call me."
