The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Join the front rank

When you march forward with the nurses and the doctors of Yale-New Haven Medical Center, you're walking among the leaders in medical progress of the Western world.

The Medical Center is an acknowledged pioneer, with many breakthroughs in many fields to its credit. Among them • the first practical heart pump • pioneer studies in hormone, virus, and transplantation in cancer causation • first child cardiac diagnostic center in Connecticut • first successful psycho-surgery • development of electro-cardiography of unborn child • first use of penicillin on human patient in North America • first successful heart bypass operation in United States • discovery of chloromycetin • first isolation of highly purified A.C.T.H. preparation.

Medical progress is at the heart of everything we do — within the Hippocratic trinity of healing, teaching and research.

What does this mean to you — as a professional nurse, looking forward to a creative career in your chosen field?

It means that you will be working right alongside the new generation of medical pioneers. It means that you will be able to achieve a professional fulfillment which only a teaching medical center can provide for you. It means that your skills, your experience, your professional insights will be constantly honed to their finest edge, not just abreast of good hospital practice but ahead of it.

Far more than just a job, a nursing career at Yale-New Haven is a matter of pioneering, at the forefront of patient care.
