TUHTAR SELECTS WATER CARNIVAL COMMITTEE HEADS

Makes Clifford Nolte Assistant General Chairman For Event of July 19

Committee chairman for the water carnival which is to be held the afternoon of Saturday, July 19, in front of the university boat house have been chosen, said Gene Tuhtar '25, general chairman. Entries for the events are being made daily even at this early date.

Clifford S. Nolte '25 has been selected as Tuhtar's assistant general chairman and will work directly with him, and over the committee chairman.

The committee chairman are as follows:

Prizes — Isaac Brader '26; La Verne Morrison '25, assistant chairman.

No Entrance Fee
Swimming and diving — Hawley Porter '25.

Canoe races — Lawrence Christianson '26.

Marathon swimming races — Maurice Johnson '27.

Sail boat races — Andrew Leith '26.

Entries — James Vallee '27.

Judges — M. Harry Simpson '27.

All entries should be made with Vallee at B. 197 or B. 3597. There is no entrance fee, according to Tuhtar who urges every one interested to enter as soon as possible in order that the committees may be able the better to lay their plans.

Practical prizes will be awarded in each event and The Cardinal will give a silver loving cup for the best all-around performance.

Revive Regatta

The various events have been arranged for the most part, but the time of their occurrence has not been set definitely as yet. It is planned to hold the sail boat races either in the morning, or else in the afternoon in the east end of the lake so that they may be seen and at the same time will not interfere with the other events.

Since the Madison Yacht club has been organized recently, it is expected that there will be a large number of boats entered in this race. No regatta has been held in Madison since the Yacht club went to pieces, and it is the hope of the committees to make the sail boat event resemble the old time regatta's, according to Tuhtar.

LOCAL OBSERVATORY OPEN TO STUDENTS

The moon may be a devil jester, who makes himself too free on the drive, but out at the Washburn observatory he is just an object for astronomical speculation.

On the first Monday and Wednesday of every month the observatory is open to summer school students. Professor Stebbins will be there and will allow students to star gaze to their heart's content through telescopes, it was said.

The best time to go is about eight o'clock in the evening. Just at present the moon and Jupiter are the most interesting bodies to study, according to Professor Stebbins.

EDITORIAL STAFF

An important meeting of the summer editorial staff will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the Cardinal office, Union building. All staff members must be present.

Picnics Found To Be Ideal Social Event For Summer

GLICKSMAN TO GIVE READINGS TOMORROW

Dean Harry Glickson will give the second of a series of readings from English poetry at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon in the lecture room of the Law building. The readings will be short poems representing successive periods in English poetry. These poems will include ballads, renaissance poems, seventeenth century lyrics, and poems typical of later periods of English literature down to and including the poems of the World War. In addition to the shorter poems, Dr. Glickson will read two scenes from Shakespeare, one from "Othello" and one from "As You Like it."

INDUSTRIAL FILM WILL BE SHOWN

"A Trip Through Film Land" Is on Tomorrow's Program

"A Trip Through Film Land," the first in a series of moving pictures illustrating chemical industries, will be shown at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the Chemistry building. This film is being shown instead of "The Story of Steel" as announced previously. This film, according to Dr. George Kemmerer, of the chemistry department, is sent out by the Eastman Kodak company and shows in detail the methods used in the manufacture of films, both motion picture and kodak films. While it is of special interest to photographers and chemists, it will appeal to a popular audience, as nothing technical is introduced.

The New York Globe said it, "A Trip Through Film Land," at the Rialto this week is a genuine novelty and will appeal to every movie fan."

The same film was shown here during the winter session and attracted favorable interest among its audiences.

The movie next week will be "The Story of Petroleum."

PROGRAMS ARRANGED BY CERCLE FRANCAIS

Cercle Francais, the summer school French organization, will hold its second regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the French House. At the first meeting a week ago John Irwin was elected president, Ruth Conklin, vice president, and Irma Firut, secretary-treasurer.

Meetings will be held weekly at Lathrop parlors and membership is open to any student who can speak and understand French.

The plans for the summer include weekly programs consisting of games, songs, short French sketches, and talks by faculty members, according to Irwin. In all probability a short play will be given near the close of the summer session, Irwin said.

"TIMOTHY'S QUEST" IS TONIGHT'S FREE MOVIE

"Timothy's Quest," a seven part film adapted from the story of Kate Douglas Wiggin, will be shown tonight in the auditorium of Music hall, the second in the series of moving picture demonstrations given under the direction of the bureau of visual instruction. The picture will be shown twice, at 7 and at 8:45. As for the previous picture, fee cards must be presented at the door for admittance so that all summer school students will have an opportunity to see the picture. There will also be a comedy and a scientific reel.

What is so rare as a picnic during the summer session? "Nothing!" is the enthusiastic ejaculation of members of the Dixie club, of the Y. W. C. A., of the Menorah society, and even of the cow-boy and cow-girl Westerners who have arranged picnic events for this week.

And they are wise. A picnic is the ideal get-acquainted function for the summer social season. There is something decidedly informal about the very term itself. A little of the spirit of adventure, of romance creeps into the atmosphere of a twilight bonfire.

A picnic is a guaranteed cure for every affliction from homesickness to bashful-itis. A feller just can't help getting into the swing of things when he is on a merry jaunt along the drive. Some capable "mixer" with a born capacity for keeping things moving is certain to be in charge of the affair, and presto, like magic, even the shyest finds himself chattering along at a merry clip, or chuckling audaciously at the "wise cracks" of a enticing feminine sprite at his side.

Alas for the unfortunate souls, young or old, who feel that a picnic is an encroachment upon their austere dignity or an insult to their social position. There is nothing more genuinely exhilarating or more refreshingly worth while from a thousand standpoints than going pick-nickin'. And, say feller, after your first experiment, you'll agree!

"It is wonderful how this walking through the country of a fine summer's day lightens the heart!" Charles Dickens once said.

NEXT VESPER SERVICE TO BE LED BY SOLDAN

The third of the series of vesper services, which are to be held in the Open Air theater during the summer session, will be conducted at 7 o'clock Sunday night by Rev. A. J. Soldan of the Lutheran cathedral.

These services are held every summer, and much interest is manifested in them, according to E. W. Blakeman, chairman of the Campus Religious council. A different speaker is to be selected each Sunday night, and talks on various subjects will be presented.

Dr. E. L. Eaton will conduct the service on July 20, and Dr. A. G. Haydon, pastor of the Unitarian church, will speak July 27. The speaker for August 3 has not yet been selected.

SPANIARDS CELEBRATE ARGENTINE FREEDOM

Celebration of the 108th anniversary of the independence of Argentina will be held at 7:15 o'clock tonight in Lathrop parlors. The celebration will be the second meeting of the Spanish club. A patriotic program consisting of national songs, and talks regarding the life of the people given by native Argentine students will occupy the evening. Membership in this organization is open to all students who can speak and understand English.

CLARA JACOBSON, '24, DIES AFTER OPERATION

Clara Jacobson, a graduate of the class of '24, died early yesterday morning at a local hospital following an operation. She was a member of Sigma Lambda, professional art sorority.

WEATHER: FAIR

Generally fair weather is predicted for Madison and the vicinity for tonight and Thursday; somewhat cooler tonight with moderate temperature Thursday; Friday, fair and somewhat warmer.

International Club Presents Musical Program Thursday

Mystic tones of Oriental lands, haunting South sea melodies, songs from the Volga, and Bohemian love songs will feature the program of the International Club at 7:30 Thursday night in Lathrop parlors. In order to give the audience a clearer conception of the various kinds of music, a description of the music will precede each group of songs.

The western musical ear may be unaccustomed to the Oriental numbers, but knowing their tales and history will help the listener to appreciate them more fully. The musical tones may be different but the stories they tell are the same as are told in western countries it was said.

Dr. Rys of Bohemia will render a few selections on the piano.

FORD PLEADS FOR BETTER THEATERS

Dramatic Producer Makes Call For College Men For Stage

"Wrest the stage from commercialism and business men and restore it to the loving hands of artists from whence it came," was the plea of Marcus Ford, dramatic producer, in his lecture, "Actors or Artisans," Monday afternoon at Music hall. "The heart of the theatre is the stage and not the box office, and will come into its own only when artists, not artisans dominate the roles of drama," he added.

"The stage should reflect all phases of human life; it should illuminate that most interesting of all studies—human nature. It is not a pulpit or a lecture platform, neither is it an art gallery or library. It is for plays; for the spoken drama."

"The art theatre which we need must depend on a cultural background for its success. This could be obtained through the universities and through a universal university theatre, Mr. Ford, declared. "The stage needs the broader vision of life which the university student can bring it. It needs the university to broadcast its ideals. Let the university use the stage for the molding of thought and the cultivation of public taste," he said.

"The theatre is in need of a school of acting. Dramatic art has been subjected to too much experimentation. There is no one thing that our stage depends on more than to be able to call on young recruits properly trained. Good looks and personality have been over emphasized," he added.

Play Music Of Big Ten Universities At Varsity Dance

A grand march featuring all the marching songs of the big ten schools will open the first all-university get-acquainted dance to be held at 8:30 Friday evening in Lathrop hall gymnasium.

The march will be led by the chairman, the guests, and the chaperons. Thompson's Best orchestra has been secured for the evening. Harold Seering, '24, is in charge of the floor committees. It is the plan of these committees to introduce as many people as possible during the dance. The members of the committees will wear badges.

Tickets will be on sale at the doors for only the men students. All women must buy their tickets at the W. A. A. office in Lathrop hall before the dance. Only students may buy tickets for this affair.

ISABELL RESCUES SIX AS STUDENTS' BOAT TURNS OVER

Ford Hits Touring Car on Langdon Street, Smashing Fenders

Thomas "Cap" Isabell, university life-saver, rescued six summer school students from the cold waters of Lake Mendota at 4 o'clock this afternoon when the Chi Psi class A sail boat capsized south of Maple Bluff.

The boat had been sailing along in the stiff breeze running out from shore until it hit an unusually heavy squall, was caught by it and turned over.

The six occupants of the boat, three men and three women were in the water only a short time, for the life-saving station was watching the sail boats on the lake carefully and saw the Chi Psi boat tip over and was on the scene in less than five minutes.

No Other Accidents

Two of the girls, it was reported, were exhausted, but the party was brought to shore immediately and no serious harm was incurred.

The "Isabell" went back to the scene of the accident to right the boat and tow it back to shore.

Isabell reports that no other accidents have occurred on the lake of any moment during the last few days.

Autos Crash

Shortly after the sail boat capsized, a Ford touring car, driven by H. F. Foster, 635 State street, student in the summer session, hit the touring car belonging to C. R. Bardeen, dean of the Medical school, which was parked on Langdon street below Frances.

The front right fender of the Ford was demolished as was the rear left fender of the other car. Witnesses say that the Ford was going slowly down the hill. Since its steering gears were badly smashed, it may have been that the driver lost control of his car before the impact, witnesses believe.

With Foster were two girls, one of whom hurt her arm severely. The trio were planning to leave for Iowa in the morning.

ORIGINATOR OF DALTON PLAN TO SPEAK HERE

Miss Helen Parkhurst, the originator of the Dalton plan of education, will give the first of a series of lectures at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of Music hall.

Miss Parkhurst, who has recently organized two schools in New York which are based upon her principles of education, comes immediately from Japan where she has been lecturing under the auspices of the Associated press.

Her lectures in Madison will deal with the Dalton plan, its value, its functions, and its practicality.

WHA BROADCASTING STATION REMODELED

Heavy velvet curtains at the windows, a thick rug on the floor, and balsam wool covering the ceiling and walls will make the new broadcasting studio in station WHA sound-proof.

The studio is to be completed this summer and will contain much new equipment including a new microphone and amplifier.

MONDAY'S CARDINAL

The Business office will give 10 cents for each Cardinal of Monday, since it needs some for its files. The office is open every morning and in the afternoons from 3 o'clock until 6.

Launch Excursion On Lake Mendota Planned Saturday

A launch excursion will be given Saturday for the entertainments of the students of the summer session. The party will leave from the Park street pier at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

All those students wishing to go on the trip are requested to sign up at the registrars office before Friday night as the number going will be limited to 30. Each one will take his own picnic lunch. The fare for the trip will be 50 cents.

The boats will go around Lake Mendota, stopping at the places of historical interest. They will return by 4:30 o'clock. Professor Charles E. Brown will have charge of the excursion and will be assisted by Professor George Wierwein.

SEEDMEN HOLD MEET AT AGRICULTURAL HALL

At the conference of Badger seedmen, which will be held at the College of Agriculture, July 16-17, varieties of seed best suited to Wisconsin soils and climate will be discussed. The variety plots on the experiment station farm are to be visited and differences in adaptability will be pointed out.

Among those who are to speak at the conference are: John D. Jones, Jr., state commissioner of agriculture; F. W. Kellogg, president of the Wholesale Grass Seed Dealers' association; R. A. Moore, agronomist; G. M. Briggs, soy bean extension specialist; L. F. Graber, alfalfa specialist; David Schmidt, worker in hard seed investigation; J. G. Dickson, plant pathologist; A. L. Stone, state seed inspector; E. B. Fred, bacteriologist in charge of legume inoculation, of the College of Agriculture; and Henry Michels, seedman and farmer of Fond du Lac county.

PROFESSOR MILLS TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL

Dr. Charles H. Mills director of the school of music will give the first of two organ recitals at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Lutheran Memorial church. Professor Cecil Burleigh will play several violin solos. Continuation of summer organ concerts has been given by Professor Mills for the past nine years. The second of these concerts will be given Wednesday, July 30.

ADVANCE TOURNEY ENTRY DEADLINE

Can Sign Up For Tennis, Horseshoe Meets Until Thursday

BY W. H. A.

Horse-shoe and tennis enthusiast attention!

Due to the unwarranted rainy weather we have been having these past days, (or weeks) the entry list for both the horse shoe and tennis tournaments of the summer school session, will be held open until Thursday noon sharp. The tournament starts Friday morning.

Director of both tournaments, George Hagan, of the university gymnasium, reports that entries have been coming fast for the tennis tournament, but that the "barnyard golfers" haven't entered according to form as yet.

According to the entry sheets in the office at the gym, the Betas seem to have a corner on the pitching tournament. Luckily the Phi Kappa Sigma throwers aren't as well represented in summer school, as it was only a few weeks ago that this Greek fraternity walked over the Beta eating club in the finals of the fraternity league.

The tennis tournament promises to be one of the best ever conducted by the university. At present there are 28 singles entries, including three women. Miss Dorothy Miller, Laura Peacock and Gladys Ryland, will battle against the best that Wisconsin has to offer during the summer session.

Some of the luminaries entered in the net tournament are Peter Sah, number two man on the Varsity last year, Proctor Wright of the freshman team, and Adam Sah, brother of Peter.

CARD GAMES FRIDAY AT LATHROP SOCIAL

Bridge, Mah Jongg, and five hundred, will constitute the program to be given at 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, in Lathrop parlors under the charge of Esther Shreve and Marian Rhode, the proceeds going toward the fund for building the W. A. A. cottage.

Each individual is to play for his own score. Prizes will be given for the high scores and the low. The partners will be changed after each hand by pivoting. In this way a great many people will be able to become acquainted.

Reservations for the tables can be made in advance by calling Evelyn Tough, at B. 4904, or Marian Rhode, at F. 1475. For those who do not play either of the games and are anxious to learn the rudiments there will be a number of instructors. Tickets for both men and women are now on sale at the W. A. A. office in Lathrop hall.

The Olympic games are the talk of all sport fans just now. The biggest surprise of the games so far happened when Bob Legrendre of the Newark A. C. broke the world's record in the broad jump with a leap of 25 feet 5 7-8 inches. Supremacy in the broad jump which has for a number of years been held by the negro race has at last been captured by a white man. Neither Ned Gourdin, former world record holder, or De Hart Hubbard of Michigan, chief title contended according to dope, were able to approach in the regular broad jump event Legrendre's mark made in the pentathlon. Hubbard and Gourdin, both colored men, were first and second in the regular broad jump, however.

The writer has often wondered why the practice of carrying a small stop watch had never been adopted by distance runners. Now it comes out that Paave Nurmi, the marvelous Finn, carried just such a watch in his heat of the 5000 meter race using it to check his pace on every lap.

There are few star athletes wearing glum faces these days. For instance, Charlie Brookins, who has been breaking world's records and winning Big Ten races with clock-like regularity for the last two years was disqualified after winning a second in the 400 meter hurdles. Charlie Paddock had to be satisfied with a fifth in the 100 meter dash also. Bad day for the Charlies!

By winning the first three places in the shot put United States broke into points that were doped to go to Finland and built up a heavier lead. There is still a chance for many upsets, but it's a safe bet at even many hat the stars and stripes will float out victorious when the games are over.

The big athletic event during summer school, the water carnival, which is to be held on July 19 should bring about some keen competition among swimmers, divers, canoeists, and the sailors. The marathon swim from Picnic Point to the gym will give some of the

35 REGISTER FOR SWIMMING CLASS

Joe Steinauer, Mentor of Human Fish, Now in His Glory

BY ORIE

"Joe" StSeinauer, varsity swimming mentor, is in his glory these days. Of course that's only natural, because his favorite sports are in full bloom now, and he has a chance to "knock off" some mean glances toward both sexes when they're in the course of their exercise in the lake.

"Joe" states that his swimming classes are coming along in fine shape. More than 35 hopefuls have entered the daily swimming classes conducted by this great authority.

Quoting Mr. Steinauer on the ease of learning the aquatic endeavors he says, "We have classes from 5 A. M. until 6 P. M. It makes no difference whether there's a high water mark on their necks or not; we guarantee to teach them the art of swimming in six lessons, or they can have 66 lessons free of charge."

The old phrase "Five dollars is so little for so much" is heard plenty around the crew pier where the swimming classes hold forth each day—rain or shine.

If you can't swim, or even if you can, take a chance on visiting "Joe" sometime and get an earful of the "hottest" line of chatter you have ever heard—not harrasing some of the boys who are endeavoring to make a "killing" on the sorority porches these afternoons.

"water shieks" a chance to... "show their oil" to the fair damsels. Don't crowd men, line forms to the right; just send in your entries to Jim Vallee at the Sigma Nu house.

We notice that the Yale crew, United States' entry in the Olympics, is taking secret work outs in preparation for the big pull. Too bad Washington and Wisconsin cannot enter and cinch three places for us in this event.

SPEECH IMPEDIMENTS

A lecture held Monday afternoon in Music hall was accompanied by a deal of noise which did not issue from the lips of the speaker. Mr. Marcus Ford had no sooner launched into his words of wisdom than—bang, bang, bang; work set in hot and heavy on the scaffolding which is being erected on the tower of the hall.

The hammering kept up throughout the major part of the address. Then, crash! A load of construction material or something of that order was dumped just outside of one of the windows. The lecturer went merrily on. Fortunately he had a voice which it would be difficult to drown out with any number of hammers or rattling trucks.

Nevertheless, the noise disturbed the audience immeasurably if it did not seem to disturb the speaker. One more noise crashed in to interrupt the discourse, the clock bell. It struck once, it struck twice, it struck thrice. And then some sensible person turned it off before it was able to complete its five beats.

When the Memorial Union building is a reality, we will have an auditorium without the disadvantages of our present ones. But until it is a reality, let us have mercy on our speakers and our audiences. If the bell of the tower clock in Music hall can be stopped, it should be stopped altogether during each lecture given in Music hall. Workmen could also lay off duty for a lecture. The pumping station 9:30 whistle might be shut off when a concert is being given on the campus.

But if workmen can not be cajoled into quitting work an hour or so before the regular whistle blows, if the Music hall clock can not be turned off, it might be a good idea to hold lectures elsewhere until the work on the tower at least is completed. Room 165 Bascom hall, for instance, would have held the audience of Monday afternoon very nicely.

Helen Parkhurst is coming tomorrow from New York for a series of lectures on Dalton. How about giving her 165 or the Engineering building auditorium? New York is a noisy place, but we imagine that she will not appreciate having truck loads of building materials dumped outside the window, hammers pounding and bells ringing during the course of her addresses.

MARCHING ALONG

Hail to the library officials. They have provided sufficient study room for students hungry after knowledge.

During the past few years students have crowded into the reading room, occupying every nook and corner, filled the halls during the busy hours, sitting on the few available benches on the stairways, trying to study but finding it difficult to absorb much knowledge in such cramped quarters. Plans have been worked out for remedying the situation. Suggestions have poured in by the hundreds. One person suggested making some of the offices study rooms, another advised placing tables in the corridors, others have advocated turning the museum into a reading room and the library committee itself has been trying to push through a large project to build an addition to the present building in order to relieve conditions.

But now the situation has been faced and remedied, and in good order, too. Armed chairs have been placed in the corridors for students to use during the rush hours at the library. No more do they need to seek out some bench or stairway upon which to incline the while they turn the pages of a heavy tome.

Congratulations to the library.

There is just one question which still worries some people about the hill in regard to the library, however. And that is not a very important one. It is this: Why are the front and back doors of the building locked so early in the evening and so long before closing hours? Frequently it is more convenient and quicker to enter by one of these doors. It would seem to be more trouble rather than less to lock them at some hour other than closing hour.

But the library has made one step for which we thank its officials earnestly. Just as the athletic department has made a step toward a university bath house by erecting a university pier, so has the library made a step toward better accommodating the students by placing chairs in the corridors on the reading room floor.

No organization can keep forever marching ahead. Sometimes it must stand at rest or mark time. But it is good to see it marching ahead now and then.

OUR SPEEDWAYS

The poor pedestrian is an old subject in this column. He goes hand in hand with the Langdon street and University avenue speeder. This column has been almost as full of these two types of persons as it has of the fool canoeists.

But every now and then an outburst must be made. Speed mounts even higher and higher until the pedestrian is actually in a serious position. There is a great temptation to speed on Langdon, especially since the myriad bumps between Lake and Park streets have been smoothed out in asphalt.

Some people drive along this thoroughfare as they they wished that the university or city would bank the curve just west of Howard court. They drive like Barney Oldfield. And the poor defenceless pedestrian shivers in his boots when he attempts to cross the street.

Have mercy, motorist, have mercy on the pedestrians. There are few of them left if it is true, but that makes them all the more miserable.

And if you will not have mercy, remember your own selfish self. For you'll be caught as sure as you live. The police will get you if the hospital or undertaker does not. For the police are out for blood. Every summer they launch a drive in the Latin quarter and make a general clean up.

Beware, motorists, if you don't catch some pedestrian, you may end by getting caught yourself.

WEATHER: FAIR?

The good ol' weather man, he ain't what he used to be. But some people still like him. For instance, this morning one of the teachers in the Extension Division was admiring the rain which was coming down in sheets—as you doubtless remember, calling the others in the same room to the window to admire it too, the torrents pouring down through the trees, beating on the windowpanes.

And so, later on in the morning, a colleague sent the admirer of the rain the following note:

JUPITER PLUVIUS, INCORPORATED

Rain.

Madison, Wis

Dear Madam:

We are delivering today a car-load lot in bargain rains in order to reduce our heavily over-loaded stock. Although "dumping" is not a regular policy of this company, we feel in the present instance that you will appreciate the remarkable offer and can successfully dispose of it in your locality.

Owing to the previous introduction of our wares during the past winter and spring, we feel confident that the community—which your society so honorably represents—will have no difficulty in absorbing this extraordinary bargain in our finest grade of rains.

Cordially and dew-vially yours,

J. PLUVIUS.

Weather Report

Furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau

The highest temperature yesterday was 82 at 3 p. m. and the lowest last night was 65 at 7 a. m. Rainfall was .74. The sun sets at 7:39. A trough of low barometer, the lowest part of which is over Lake Superior, is attended by showers and thunder storms and warmer weather in the lake regions, Mississippi valley, and southern plains. High barometer with clear and cooler weather follows in the Rocky Mountains and on the northern plain. Showers are falling on the north Atlantic slope, but it is generally fair in the southeastern states. Fair and warmer has set in on the Pacific slope.

A LIGHT OCCUPATION

Watching Jim Davis hunt street numbers with the aid of matches in La Grange Illinois.

He Finally found the one he wanted and then was afraid to go in.

"You Will miss that class if you don't hurry," said a young co-ed to us, this morning and she didn't seem a bit flattered.

IF I WERE

If I could be a prof upon the hill.

And hand out rems of wisdom to the youths:

You bet, I'd do my best for each poor frosh.

And never say a thing except the truth.

If I were but a Prof upon the hill.

I'd live the part in dress, and, face, and look:

I'd be as popular as a movie star.

For I'd never have the students buy a book.

If I were but a prof upon the hill.

I'd build myself an envious reputation:

I'd never give an oral or written quiz.

Or flunk a man upon a poor examination.

The Rains which we have been having are responsible for the small number of co-eds sitting on the grass in front of Bascom. Probably some of them are afraid of making an impression.

Sigh—"He is an actor."

You—"That so."

Sigh—"Yes, hes playing Macbeth."

Recent Reports are to the effect that Cap Isabell has rescued only sixteen people this summer.

Whats Wrong with this summer school anyway.

PRACTICING ECONOMY

1st. Landlady—"I have found a new way to save money."

2nd. Landlady—"What is it?"

1st. Landlady—"I roughen the bottom of the cups and the boarders think its sugar."

For The Benefit of those who do not know, America (My Country 'Tis of Thee) is not the national anthem. It is not necessary to unloosen like a jack knife and stand at attention when it is being played.

A WRONG IMPRESSION

Co-Eddy—"I love you, won't you go canoeing with me?"

Co-Ed—"If you loved me you wouldn't ask me to go canoeing."

THEN (1923)

They sailed the waters of the lake.

Not a cloud obscured the sky;

No angry waves played o'er the deep.

For 'twas the middle of July.

NOW (1924)

They sailed the faters of the lake.

Dark clouds obscured the sky,

They sailed the waters of the peaks.

For 'twas the middle of July.

Madison Barbers are complaining about the way we make them pay for ads in this paper. when the Gath Inn barbers get theirs free of charge.

WOMAN

He—"We will paddle out to that buoy in the lake."

She—"But I thought three were a crowd."

He Stepped on the gas and the car roared down Langdon street at fifty miles an hour. A policeman stepped out from a corner and stopped him. A pedestrian on the sidewalk fainted at the unusual sight, but recovered when he heard the policeman pinch the driver for obstructing traffic.

She Was good looking but her hair was bobbed.

John Johnson was arrested for crossing an arterial highway. He saw Kappas crossing the street and he looked at the wrong sign.

The Pi Phi's open house party was a great success. Everyman who went there was tagged one way or another and the punch wasn't even tampered with. Whats wrong with this summer school anyway?

THOSE OPEN HOUSE PARTIES

Jack—"Did any one pay any attention to you at the party?"

George—"Yes, one girl sat in the corner and made faces at me."

If you will marry me he said,

I'll give my soul to you,

Your very kind mv dear said she.

I've just worn out mv shoe.

Book and Book Mark

BY NIT WIT

I, the original nit-wit, hereby coin two new words to be used in place of those over-worked terms, "sordid" and "realism." My additions to critical phrasing are "muddy" and "essence of life," respectively speaking. For the past three or four years all that the critics have been able to say of any modern novel has been expressed in the terms first named. Regardless of the fact that my own words sound a bit out of tone I make a solemn vow to use those two and no others.

While dabbling all around I notice that "So Big" continues as the best seller in these parts. It is worth reading but it's not worth rereading, which after all estimates a book as well as columns of critical thought.

Lois Seyester Montross, co-author with her husband, Lynn Montross, of those wretchedly written though eminently discussible tales of college life, "Town and Gown," has brought forth a volume of poetry, "The Crimson Cloawff." The over-conscious "essence of life" in "Town and Gown" has entirely evaporated in this volume, leaving these poems lyrical and full of sharp, emotional quality, likable to some of the emotional gems in that recent volume, "King of the Black Isles."

Galsworthys new novel, "The White Monkey," now a serial in Scribner's, carries on with Soames Forsyte of the "Forsyte Saga," in my mind the greatest character creation of modern fiction, and his daughter Fleur. The title originates from a Chinese picture of a white monkey holding a squeezed fruit, and looking upon life with a perplexed gaze. With all my intolerance of maddening serials I cannot resist the Galsworthian art and the familiar characters enough to refrain from reading this novel piecemeal.

With the completion of the third volume of the "Outline of Literature" our famous outline rage will wane I hope. Now all that aspiring litterateurs need do is thumb these volumes well and their literary background is complete from Homer down through the moderns. Wonderful, isn't it? Personally the books savour overmuch of dusty volumes of World History that I recall far back in the corner of the family bookcases. The estimations are readable—some are fresh and penetrating, others hark back to "English Literature" by Halleck for high schools.

The condition of all gre stations in the city will be investigated by the city property committee Thursday afternoon.

PROF. WRITES TEXT ON OPTICAL MINERALOGY

A textbook on "Optical Mineralogy" and several scientific articles on mineralogy are the latest works by Prof. A. N. Winchell of the geology department of the university. The book which is 400 pages long deals with the results of the study of minerals by means of a microscope.

One article, "Petrographic Studies of Bingham Rock, contains the results of a study of 1400 minerals and rock samples which Professor Winchell collected a few years ago in Utah in connection with a lawsuit between several mining companies. This article may be presented as a paper before the meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in New York next February.

Scholarship is the major requirement for students who desire to take advantage of the Student Loan fund, of which Prof. Julius Olson is in charge. Very little work is being done along this line now, however, according to Professor Olson, but statistics are being prepared on the work done by the loan fund last year. They will be ready for publication soon.
