OKLAHOMA TO MEET BADGER TENNIS CHAMPS

Three Matches Against Southerners Opens Season Today

The tennis season at Wisconsin will be formally opened with the first intercollegiate match of the year at 3:30 this afternoon. The Badger team's opponents will be the squad from the University of Oklahoma, which is touring the middle west and playing many schools and colleges.

Coach Linden yesterday definitely picked the men who will represent Wisconsin in the match, after watching them in action for the last two weeks. Harold B. Taylor, captain, and Melvin Brorby will battle the southerners in the singles matches, which will be played at the same time on adjacent courts. After these two matches, the doubles will be played, with Roy C. Gotfredson and Willis M. Fanning composing the Badger team.

Although the late spring and the cold and rainy weather have hampered the varsity men in their practice, they have made as favorable progress as could be expected under the circumstances and will give the seasoned Oklahoman a good battle.

Since tennis has not been very well supported as far as attendance is concerned in the past few years, the athletic department is anxious to see a larger crowd than usual at the varsity courts at Camp Randall, where the matches will be played. Bleachers will be erected in order to accommodate the fans, and a small admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Coupon No. 32 will admit the owner to the matches.

The Badger team has a hard schedule of conference games ahead of it, with the first to be played at Chicago Saturday of this week. The schedule contains matches with Michigan, Northwestern, Chicago, and perhaps Minnesota.

BIRGE SPEAKS AT EDUCATORS' MEET

President E. A. Birge will speak on "The University and Its Functions" at the 1820-1920 Centennial Educational conference to be held at Indiana university for three days starting today. As part of his trip he will also address the Wisconsin Alumni association of Indianapolis.

Speakers at the session and dinner on Wednesday, May 5, which will be held at Indianapolis, include: Prof. Aldred S. Warthin, of the University of Michigan; Dean Elias P. Lyon, of the University of Minnesota, and Col. Percy M. Ashburn, of the Surgeon General's office.

Dr. David Kinley, acting president of the University of Illinois, will preside at the Thursday session, to be held in Bloomington. Speakers scheduled are: Samuel M. Ralston, former governor in Indiana; Evans Woollen, president Fletcher Savings and Trust company of Indianapolis; President Birge; Prof. Paul Shorey, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. James R. Angell, of the national research council.

Speakers for the Friday session include: President Thomas C. Howe, of Butler college, presiding; Dean Roscoe Pound, Harvard University law school; President Henry C. King, Oberlin college; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, resident bishop of Denver area of the Methodist Episcopal church; and President Robert A. Falconer, University of Toronto.

Upholds Wisconsin in N. O. L. Contest

GLADYS BORCHERS

Gladys Borchers, a junior in the college of Letters and Science, will represent Wisconsin in the thirtieth annual Northern Oratorical league contest at Music hall Friday night at 8:00. In more than forty years of competition in inter-collegiate oratory this is the first time that a woman will carry the Badger colors. Although this is her first year at Wisconsin, Miss Borchers has established herself in forensics. She won the state normal oratorical contest for Whitewater in 1918 and later won the inter-state contest in competition against four other states. Her victory in this latter contest was the first one won by Wisconsin in an inter-state normal school oratorical contest. She is now president of Pythia. Her oration entitled "The Unfinished Task" is said, by members of the public speaking department, to rank with the best that have ever been submitted to the league.

AG TRIANGLE WINS IN DEBATE DECISION

The Agric Triangle won a 2 to 1 decision over the Agricultural Literary society last night in a debate on the question, "Resolved, that the county agent should be supported wholly by public funds rather than wholly by private contributions." The Triangle team, which supported the affirmative, was composed of Voltz, Wileden, and Daniels; the Ag. Lit. team, of Pinney Koeler, and Allin. The judges were Professors W. H. Wright, W. D. Frost, and W. A. Somner.

NEW HOOVER CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The All-University Hoover club, organized at a massmeeting last week, has called a meeting for Thursday night at 7:30 in 165 University hall.

Short talks will be made by faculty members and a report will be given by M. W. Link, Wisconsin representative on the conference college Hoover clubs held at New York last Saturday.

Capable Faculty Actors Make Curtain Club Play one of Season's Best Productions

By WALTER K. SCHWINN

When one heard that certain of the best known members of the faculty had banded together in an effort to present amateur plays to the university public, one had either of two impressions: the first being that the faculty was carrying coals to Newcastle, that is, doing what was already being done too often and very well; or that the same members were merely going to enjoy themselves with a little play-acting. But whatever the impression, last

CHARACTERS FOR 1920 PRODUCTION CHOSEN TODAY

Unusual Variety of Roles Offered in Cast of "Jesters"

Senior play try-outs will be held this afternoon and Thursday at 4:30 in the concert room, Lathrop. The play which has been selected is "The Jesters," by Zamacois, and copies may be secured at the library desk.

This play gives unusual opportunities for those who are interested in trying out, because of the more than ordinary number and variety of parts. The committee feels that almost anyone who is interested in taking part may be able to find something to which he is suited. There are fifteen characters, twelve of which are men's parts. This is more than is ordinarily offered.

The plot of the play centers around the Marquis of Maupres who owns a baronial castle in which he secludes his beautiful daughter, Solange. The jesters are brought to the castle to furnish entertainment for her. The parts of the jesters include the clever jester, the handsome one, and several others. The part of Hilarious, the mournful jester, is one of the best that is offered.

The part of Chicot is the best feminine role in the production and has been played successfully by Maude Adams.

There are opportunities for members of the class to qualify for production, publicity, and property managers and anyone interested is asked to notify Ray Holcombe at the times mentioned. The play will be produced June 21 and 22 in the open-air theater.

LEGION POST TO HOLD MASS MEET

Professor Fish to Talk; Election of Officers Business of Gathering

The Wisconsin post of the American Legion will hold a massmeeting in the Engineering auditorium tomorrow night at 7:30 to elect officers and complete the organization of the present temporary post, which has been granted a charter by the state executive committee and the national committee. All ex-service men in the university, whether or not they belong to the Legion, are urged to be present.

No slate has been prepared for the election of officers; the election will be governed by the free choice of the members. All men who have joined the post up to and including tomorrow night's meeting will be eligible to vote.

A live program is being planned by the committee to make the meeting interesting. Prof. Carl Russell Fish will give a talk; and arrangements are being made for vaudeville features. A first rate jazz band has been organized for the occasion. "Red" Weston will act as temporary chairman.

BADGERS BUCK SUCKER SQUAD ON SATURDAY

37 Cinder Men Entered in First Outdoor Conference Meet

The Wisconsin track team will leave for Evanston, Ill., Saturday morning to compete in a dual track meet with Northwestern university in the afternoon. This will be the first conference outdoor meet of the season and only the second meet the Badger cinder men have taken part in since the outdoor work began.

Coach Tom Jones' men are in top condition and for the past month they have been training out at Camp Randall as much as the weather would permit.

The results of the varsity-fresh meet last Saturday afternoon show that Wisconsin has a well balanced squad which should make a good showing against the most formidable of "Big Ten" teams. Several fast races were run considering the track was loosely packed and slow.

All dope on the relative strength of the two teams is rather vague considering the fact that several changes have been made in both teams since the indoor period closed and that some of the Northwestern runners who were badly defeated by the Badgers during an indoor meet at Madison a couple of months ago came back unexpectedly in the conference meet and placed higher than the Wisconsin athletes who outran them.

De Swarte, captain of the Evanston tracksters, a distance runner, was one of the most striking actors in such a performance. In the two mile event, he did not place in the meet at Wisconsin, but won second in that race in the conference meet a week later, forcing Crump to third place.

A man to be reckoned with is Strawn who was not eligible for the indoor season but will be in the competition Saturday. Strawn is considered by many to rate next to Johnson of Michigan as an all around cinder star. His strong events are the sprints, hurdles and the high jump. Other good men are Linn in the high jump, Spray, a quarter miler, and Strong and Poliack in the dashes.

PROM TICKETS FOR 3:30 SUPPER SHIFT WILL BE REDEEMED

Prom tickets entitling those who held supper checks for the 3:30 shift will be ready for distribution Thursday, and may be obtained from Ludlow North, 640 North Henry street. The new pasteboards will only be exchanged for those holding the 3:30 tickets.

The new tickets are for shifts at 11:30, 12:30, 1:30 and 2:30, and the supper will be served at the Garden Grill. The dining room at the Capitol is taxed to capacity with those holding regular tickets, and the Prom committee found the Garden Grill to be the next most satisfactory place.

A number of regular Prom tickets have been turned in for refunds, and those tickets may be obtained by calling North at Badger 171. The spectator seats may be obtained at the Park hotel pharmacy, at Morgan's, or at the University pharmacy. About 100 of these are still on sale.

STROPE TO EDIT COMMERCE MAG

Lloyd Strobe was elected last night by the Commerce club to succeed Walter Neisser as editor of "The Commerce Magazine" for the coming year. Walter G. Fisher was chosen as business manager, succeeding Alro J. Schmidt. Both were elected unanimously.

Strobe has been acting this year as assistant editor and Fisher as advertising manager. The circulation of the magazine has doubled and its advertising has greatly increased. Much of the credit for its success this year is due to the two men who will head the staff for next year.

Plans are being made by the Women's Commerce club to entertain the men's club at a picnic on May 21, at Monena park.

OTTO TO ADDRESS FELLOWSHIP MEET

A program of interest to many students will be offered Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. Fellowship meeting. Prof. Max Otto of the Department of Philosophy, whose course in "Man and Nature" is attracting so much attention, will talk on the "Present Religious Crisis"; and an opportunity to hear at first hand his personal views on religion is sure to be appreciated by the large turnout which is expected.

Professor Otto has made an extensive study of present religious needs and will include in his lecture some of his recent investigations. An open discussion will follow the talk and a music program will also be given.

TALKS AND SOLOS ON MENORAH PROGRAM

Menorah society will hold its last open meeting before elections at 7:30 tonight in Lathrop parlors. A varied program has been arranged with the idea of making it the best of the entire year. Among the features planned are a violin solo by "Jean" Juster, of Haresfoot fame.

The discussion of the evening will feature a review of Jewish literature and poetry.

A. E. Friedman, instructor in English, will talk on "The Place of Jewish Literature", Samuel Lepkovsky on "Jewish Poetry and Poets", Eva Berger, Bernard Monfried, and Abraham Schostak will complete the program with topics along the same line.

'BALLET INTIME' IS BOLM'S GROUP

Program for Saturday Evening Entertainment is Announced

Adolf Bolm, the leader of the Russian Ballet to be presented at the Madison High school Saturday afternoon and evening, is a real Russian despite his Scandinavian name. He is a pupil of the famous Muscovite school of ballet dancing, and was later the leading male dancer of the Imperial Ballet at Petrograd.

He first came to America several years ago with the Serge Diaghileff Ballet, which he led. When that ballet returned to Europe, Bolm remained in the United States where he starred with the Metropolitan Opera company. He is also retained by the Chicago Opera company with whom he was a sensational success in the leading role of "The Birthday of the Infanta" by Oscar Wilde.

Bolm's ballet is known as a Ballet Intime, for it is of a small, intimate character, made up of personalities and individuals, solos and duo work, rather than or choruses and mass effects. For this reason it is well suited to the small auditorium of the high school. There are only six persons in the ballet, each a first class artist.

The evening program is as follows:

- PART ONE
The Little Symphony
1. Iphigenie in Aulis Gluck
Dance des Esclaves (Dance of the Slaves)

COMMUNICATIONS

SENSIBLE DRESS

To the Editor of The Cardinal:
The standards of the University of Wisconsin have evidently undergone a serious change in the last few years. The question of immodest evening dress and cheek-to-cheek dancing seem to have become problems of tremendous importance, although it is an obvious fact that these are things against which the university women want to stand. Anyone with good taste knows when an evening gown is immodest. We do not need to dwell on that point, and it does seem that most of our women do dress in good taste. It is to a few who are trying to be overly fashionable that we make our plea.

This is the biggest, most representative party of the university, and its fame goes abroad. In the preceding two years we have been criticised by the state legislature and public men of importance upon our gowns. This year when low-cut gowns are more in vogue than ever, let us be doubly careful to dress tastefully and inconspicuously. The best dressed woman is most often the one whose dress is least conspicuous in style and cut. Therefore, it behooves us as women of the University of Wisconsin to dress tastefully and to represent the women as women wish to be represented and not as vagues of the latest wild creation from Paris.

WISCONSIN'S AMERICAN LEGION POST

THE present university year has witnessed the formation of an unprecedented number of organizations. Clubs have been formed among the students from many outside states. Given a group of men and women with an interest in common, be it what it may, the prediction has proved fairly safe that soon another campus organization will throw its hat into the ring.

The recently established post of the American Legion should not be included in student thinking in the bumper crop of clubs. It is a part of a nation-wide organization with a membership of two million, and a program which is everywhere commanding patriotic co-operation.

The American Legion was organized in France by officers and enlisted men representing every American division. Its underlying principles, as laid down at that time and practically demonstrated since, are Americanism and democracy. No distinction of rank is allowed in its meetings: each member, whether an officer or an enlisted man, is "comrade" to all the rest. Americanization of our foreign-born and the stimulation of more active participation in civic life are organic parts of the Legion program. In short, every movement in the direction of a deeper national spirit and better citizenship has the determined backing, and will feel the intelligent leadership of, the two million men of the Legion.

The men who were in the service believe that patriotism is no less vital to the nation in time of peace than in war. Through the American Legion, they seek to give this belief active application.

Despite its recent organization, the Wisconsin post stands on several definite planks of the finest platform timber. Its greatest objective needs but to be stated to show its importance, viz., to bring home to the people of the state a realization that the university needs more money if it is to render maximum service. A university of 7,000 students requires a greater investment than when the student body numbered only 4,000, if diminishing returns are to be avoided.

A second primary purpose of the Wisconsin post is to aid in creating a deeper loyalty to the university, and a more widespread "pulling together" for its interests. Many of its members were on the campus before the outbreak of the war. They have not forgotten the memorable spirit of those years. By loyal support of university teams and unselfish co-operation in making every university movement a success, they are to do their share in bringing a finer, deeper spirit to the campus.

At its first meeting the university post had 50 members. From this beginning an organization will develop with the power to make its principles felt. Every man who is eligible should not pass by the opportunity of membership. The university post should, and will, become a strong and good influence in the university and the state.

BACK THE TENNIS TEAM

WISCONSIN'S tennis team meets the Oklahoma net men this afternoon in the first court battle of the season.

Here's another chance to support the spring sport program, Badger student. Baseball and track and tennis should claim the attention of all loyal sport followers in these last few weeks of the university year.

The Badger tennis men deserve the support of a crowd of rooters in its first effort of the year. The team made a good record last year, and this season it is greatly strengthened by the addition of veterans who played on the varsity before the war.

Give tennis a boost along with baseball and track.

ACTION, SENIORS

THE senior's university career is drawing to a close. There are many things to think about in these last few weeks, but the first to consider are those duties still to be performed for Wisconsin.

All seniors are aware that the class has a quota to raise for the memorial chimes fund. Most prospective graduates have counted all year on making a subscription of some amount to the 1920 class memorial.

But the year's end is nearing—and the fund for the memorial chimes is doing little more than creeping forward. There has been no spontaneous response to the appeal for subscriptions, no effort of the seniors to meet their quota at once and do away with a long, drawn-out campaign.

Unless the $2,000 fund is raised within the next two weeks, a class meeting should be called and every senior signed up for the individual pledge of $4. It's time to think of action, 1920.

PHYSICS EXHIBIT DRAWS BIG CROWD

Show Off Experiments and Equipment at Open House

More than 300 students and visitors attended the open house held in the P. E. P. building last night and inspected the research work which is being done by the department of physics.

A wireless station installed in the basement has a sending radius of 1,000 miles and receives messages readily even from Europe. Weather observations are sent out over the country at 10 o'clock every morning, which is an hour earlier than they are sent by any of the other stations in the city.

The liquid air plant, which is one of only two or three in the whole country, compresses air to approximately 3,000 pounds to the inch. After being purified, the air goes into a liquefier where it finally expands to atmospheric pressure through a nozzle; the process results in a continual lowering of temperature until a large share of the air liquefies. The liquid air has a temperature of 312 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. When rubber or tin is put in it, they become brittle.

Radium was on exhibition in a dark room where Prof. Benjamin W. Snow was in charge. Upon looking through a small lens, one could see tiny flashes of light which looked like hundreds of minute bright spots. These were the alpha particles, Professor Snow explained.

A row of huge thermometers for special purposes was on display in another room. One of these will register extreme cold to 200 degrees below zero centigrade.

Experiments and exhibits were displayed in 27 different rooms, and the amount of work and apparatus represented there is almost immeasurable. Wisconsin holds a front rank among research work in physics throughout the country.

OH, THAT WE TWO WERE MAYING
By Ethelbert Nevin

Poets and musicians have long celebrated the coming of May, the month of blossoms. "Oh, that we two were Maying" unites in a pleasing song a sweet English poem and appropriate American music.

Ethelbert Nevin (1862-1901), the fourth American in our memory list, was, like Foster and Cadman, born in Pennsylvania. His writings consist almost entirely of songs and short piano pieces. He is one of the most graceful of the minor American composers. His work, expressing gentle moods, is always characterized by flowing melodies, straightforward harmonies, and swinging rhymes. Several of his pieces have attained great popularity, notably his songs, The Rosary and Mighty Like a Rose, and his piano number, Narcissus.

Nevin is only one of several who have written music for the pleasing poem by Charles Kingsley in which are recalled the days when happy children reamed the fields gathering flowers in the month of May. This duet was written for two ladies' voices, but it is frequently sung by a soprano and a baritone. Its pleasing melody, natural harmony, and sincere sentiment have won such wide approval that many of the best artists use this song either as a solo or a duet.

Burleson Asks Appropriation of $14,005,565 to Settle Debts

WASHINGTON— Operation of telegraph and telephone companies during the war cost the government $14,005,565 Postmaster Gen. Burleson informed congress today in asking immediate appropriation of that amount to liquidate the affairs of the federal wire administration.

"The deficit" wrote Mr. Burleson, "is the outcome of operations involving gross revenues of over $600,000,000 and therefore represents less than two and a half percent of the total gross revenues."

He said that when taken over by the government many of the companies were not earning operating expenses and a fair return on the investment because of increased labor and material, and added that no loss would have been suffered had the government retained operation of the lines "a few months longer" or had rate increases not been temporarily halted by court injunctions.

Funds will be needed to carry on the work. A second meeting of the commission will be held in two weeks. Among the first problems that will be taken up by the city planning commission will be the zoning of the city to indicate which sections shall be residential and which shall be available for industrial plants, extension of University avenue, and the traffic on State street.

SHAKESPERE IS LECTURE THEME

French Critic Gives Analysis of Dramatic's Technique

"Aspects of Shakespeare's Dramatic Technique" was the subject of a talk by Prof. Albert Feuillerat, University of Rennes, France, yesterday afternoon in 165 University hall. Professor Feuillerat stressed the devices which Shakespeare employed to produce the effect of unity and harmony.

"Antithesis is to be found everywhere in his plays," said Professor Feuillerat, "and the idea of analogies was introduced by Shakespeare. Shakespeare combines his similitudes and dissimilitudes and intermingles them so that they seem to take place secretly. Of the two devices, contrary results appear—one tends to diversity and one tends to unity. He employs repetition and contrast so that they are presented as a composite to the playgoer."

Professor Feuillerat illustrated his points concretely with quotations from King Lear, Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, and Othello.

"By applying the system of contrast and repetition of motive, Professor Feuillerat continued, "Shakespeare emphasized the mass of material that characterized and pictured, and satisfied the great need of his mind for variety and pressed all the richness of his own experience into one main idea, thus preventing his plays from becoming diverted and chaotic."

"Shakespeare is truly characteristic of the period of the Renaissance. His symmetry in structure and variety in detail are characteristics which all the artists of the Renaissance period possessed."

A ten minute address on "The tradition of two teams only for American Presidency—how did it arise? is it wise to continue it?"—will be given by Clyde Emery, followed by the regular business session.

Athenae Literary society will hold its regular Friday night meeting at 7:30 o'clock, in Athenae hall, 401 University hall.

FACULTY ACTORS IN SUCCESSFUL PLAY

beginning enumeration of the fine points of the presentation. The characterizations were all first class. Mrs. Fish was easy, natural and thoroughly at home in every phase of her role. Each emotion was clearly delineated and, what is much more, completely justifiable from the audience's point of view. Mr. Byrne as the untruthful and earnest John Worthing was also excellent, being spontaneous and humorous, well in keeping with the part.

Carl Russell Fish was Carl Russell Fish; he is little different on the stage than on the platform. Consequently his reading of Algernon Moncrieff was amusingly silly and foolish, as it should have been. As the eighteen-year-old ward of Mr. Byrne, "Jerry" Ochsner was charming. "Jerry" always is; university audiences know that. Her playing of Cicely was very characteristic, artistic in the highest degree.

Miss Jane Butt was, perhaps, the most truly professional of any of those appearing. She reminds one, not at all unhappily, of the better days of Miss May Robson. Her interpretation of the distinct character part was excellent. She has stage presence and a remarkable voice which fitted her very well for the part of the domineering and rigid Lady Bracknell. Mrs. Arthur Beatty was very funny as the prim Miss Prism who lost her novel, thereby giving the play plot; Mr. Winslow, as the parish priest, did exceptional work opposite her. Mr. Small in a small part as a manservant had a large share of professional mannerisms, while Mr. Sheehan as the butler was quite satisfactory.

No small share of the club's initial success was due to the extremely artistic setting and grouping. The High school stage is hard to adapt, but the figures were never crowded nor the setting cramped. Some truly rich effects were gained in the use of small properties; item, "Jerry's" pen; item, Miss Butt's lorgnette; item, the flowers on stage. The sets were, we hear, planned by Mr. Varnum, using the new, but not the newest, ideas in stage setting and lighting. The effects of the different lights on the neutral curtains was remarkable. We hope Mr. Varnum will be available for other university productions. The women's gowns aided in making good stage pictures.

The Curtain club hopes to give Madison some of the things it would otherwise miss in a theatrical way. They will succeed, we feel, for last night's large audience gave every evidence of approval. Altogether, it was tremendously successful, extremely worthy, and ever-welcome.

What the College Editors Say

"SCOOPING" LAWRENCE

The past week brought with it a regrettable incident which has challenged student attention.

News reporters and newspaper syndicates have always been eager searchers after sensational news stories which would appeal to the public desire for thrills. It is unfortunate that the fair name of Lawrence should be implicated in an unimportant incident of student conduct which furnished news reporters with material for a "scoop". It is especially unfortunate that in the desire to cater to the public's passion for sensation such news should be colored and that more should be said by implication than by the actual presentation of facts.

The incident teaches this—that every student is a trustee of the reputation of his college. The least slip in his conduct, wilful or innocent, may reflect discredit on his Alma Mater. The moral is—remember that your college is represented by you, and govern yourself accordingly.—The Lawrentian.
