PREFACE.

We present to the business community our first Directory of the city of Madison, confident that upon candid scrutiny it will be found as nearly correct as a work of the kind can well be. The alphabetical list of names has been carefully compiled, and we think contains the name of nearly every person who should be represented in a City Directory. Errors and omissions will no doubt be found, but we have reason to believe unavoidable mistakes will be overlooked by the candid. The Business Directory has been classified with reference to the various pursuits of the business community. The Miscellaneous Directory has been gathered from official sources. The Street and Ward Directory will no doubt be of use to many.

Our thanks are due to the patrons of the work for the liberal patronage which has been extended to us.

THE GREAT AMERICAN KNITTER.

ROBERT'S FAMILY KNITTING MACHINE.

This is the most complete and rapid Knitting machine in the world. Sets up its own work. It sets up a full sized stocking in a quarter of a minute. It is POSITIVELY the only machine that can knit a WHOLE, DOUBLE heel. It will knit Plain, Ribbed or Seamed, close or open work of all sizes, with either coarse or fine yarn of woolen, cotton, linnen or silk. It will knit figure patterns. It knits with one, two or three threads, at the same time. It narrows and widens, knitting a beautiful shaped stocking. It knits an endless variety of articles. It is so simple and easily worked that a child can learn to knit with it. It is not liable to get out of order. and is the most durable machine manufactured.

Every machine is shipped ready for running, and a Pamphlet of Instructions which will enable any one to knit is sent to each purchaser. We pay a larger commission than any other company.

Agents wanted in every town in the North-west Address, WITH STAMP,
GEO. B. LEONARD, Gen. Agent.
 Office on King Street, over Park's Book Store, Madison, Wis.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, Organized in 1859.

Policies issued in all the various Plans, at rates lower than Eastern companies.

ALL its Policies are NON-FORFEITABLE.

JOHN S. DEAN,

MADISON,

Capitol of the State of Wisconsin and seat of Justice for Dane County, is pleasantly situated on an isthmus lying between Lakes Monona and Mendota, the Third and Fourth of the Four Lakes. It is also on the line of the Prairie du Chien Division of the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, equi-distant by that Road from Milwaukee and the Mississippi River. Milwaukee being 96 miles east and Prairie du Chien about the same distance west. The Madison Division of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway also has its northwest terminus here. The distance to Chicago is 138 miles by that line.

The history of the Four Lake Country extends to a period far beyond the location of the Capitol here. The beauty of the scenery and the fertility of the soil had drawn forth the encomiums of the tourist and adventurer. It was not however until the year 1836 that the site was purchased with the view of founding here a city. The Territorial Legislature which had assembled in the early part of 1837 at Belmont, in La Fayette County, passed an act locating the Capitol at this point, then an unbroken wilderness—a result of which was the laying out of a Town in February of the same year by John Catlin and Moses M. Strong.

Messrs. James D. Doty, A. A. Bird and John F. O'Neil were appointed government commissioners to build the Capitol.

Eben Peck came with his family and built a house and was consequently the first actual settler here. On the 10th of the following June A. A. Bird, acting commissioner, accompanied by 36 men arrived and immediately set about the construction of the Capitol building. Simeon Mills, now president of the Bank of Madison, arrived from Chicago the same day that the above mentioned parties arrived from Milwaukee. On the fourth of July the corner stone of the Capitol was laid.

An office for the use of the acting commissioner, a block house erected by Mr. Mills, wherein he opened the first store, and two or three dwellings constituted the buildings of Madison at this time. Four families, with their guests, constituted the population of Madison during 1837-8. In the summer of 1838 a hotel was built, and on the 8th day of the following November, J. A. Noonan, now of Milwaukee, issued the first number of the Wisconsin Enquirer. The population had increased by the winter of 1838-9 to about 100. In 1842 it had increased to 172, and in 1846 to 283. On

Feb. 3d, 1846, a village charter was obtained and a government was organized with the following officers :

President—THOMAS W. SUTHERLAND.

Clerk—JULIUS T. CLARK.

Treasurer—DARWIN CLARK.

Marshal—ANDRUS VIAL.

Trustees—ELIAB B. DEAN, jr., PETER W. MATTS, BARLOW SHACKLFORD, WM. N. SEYMOUR.

In the spring of 1849 steps were taken to improve the water power afforded by the outlet of Lake Mendota or Fourth Lake. A dam was thrown across the stream close to the lake and Yahara Canal constructed, which constitutes the water power of Madison, and upon which are built a flouring mill and woolen factory, and a brewery, all dependent on this stream for their motive power. During this year a substantial stone Court House was built and which until recently was the finest building of the kind within the State.

In 1850 some substantial improvements were commenced. The population had now reached 1,672, and at this time the growth of the town, which before had been slow, now received a forward impetus which was not checked till the financial panic of 1857 took place. Large stone and brick edifices were soon visible on every hand, and the now busy village began to wear the appearance of a city. In 1854 the population had increased to upwards of 5,000. Early in this year the Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien Railroad was extended to this place from the east. Now a new era of progress commenced. Madison was brought within a few hours of lake Michigan market, and a more rapid growth was inaugurated. The vicinity of the depot, which was covered with a thick growth of coppice wood, was soon dotted with buildings to accommodate increasing commerce. The town received another push forward, and in 1856 it was deemed expedient to have a city government, consequently a city charter was obtained and the government organized early in the spring of that year with the following officers :

Mayor—JAIRUS C. FAIRCHILD.

Clerk—WILLIAM N. SEYMOUR.

Treasurer—JOHNSON J. STARKS.

Police Justice—ARTHUR B. BRALEY.

Street Superintendents—(Senior Aldermen).

Marshal—FRED. MOHR.

Attorney—DAVID R. COIT.

Surveyor—PATRICK W. McCABE.

ALDERMEN.

First Ward—ABIEL E. BROOKS, THOMAS HEERAN, ADAM KRAETZ.

Second Ward—NAPOLEON B. VAN SLYKE, JOHN N. JONES, DAVID J. POWERS.

Third Ward—CHARLES GEORGE MAYERS, *PETER H. VAN BERGEN, †WILLIAM F. BAKER, ALGERNON S. WOOD.

Fourth Ward—SETH M. VAN BERGEN, JOSEPH HOBBS, TIMOTHY KINNEY.

*Resigned. †Elected Aug. 28, 1856.

During the years 1852-3-4-5 and 1856, many fine buildings were constructed, business had increased in a greatly advancing ratio, and the city was in the midst of financial prosperity. The year 1857 opened with flattering prospects—several important public buildings were commenced, most of which have since been carried to completion. Among these were the State Lunatic Asylum, the main University Hall, the City Hall, several church edifices and public school buildings.

In august of that year came the memorable financial revulsion, since known as the panic of 1857. The effect of this great financial reverse, which shook the whole country, was particularly oppressive in the northwest. Business here was at a stand, and but few improvements were made for several years. After the breaking out of the rebellion, in 1861, money became more plenty, business revived, and the city has had a constant and healthy growth, and is now one of the chief cities of Wisconsin.

In 1837 the town was first staked out and streets located. In the beginning of 1839 the population was estimated at about 100; in 1842 172 people were here; in 1846 the population was 283; in 1850, 1,672; in 1854, upwards of 5,000; in 1860, by the United States census, the number was 6,611, and in 1865 the State census returns the population at 9,191. It is now about 12,000, estimated from the number of names in this directory.

A MORE BEAUTIFUL SITE for a city could not be desired. Situated upon gently descending hills, between Lakes Monona and Mendota, Madison occupies a position which, for picturesqueness, is not excelled. From the observatory of the Vilas House the picture presented is of the most grand and exciting nature. Close by is the new State Capitol, with its beautiful park of fourteen acres, thickly covered with forest trees and shrubbery. To the southeast and almost under your feet, is the beautiful Lake Monona, dotted with white sails and tracked by the constant passing to and fro of two little pleasure steamers. To the northwest is the broad and beautiful Lake Mendota, with the State Hospital for the Insane occupying its north bank, in full view of the city. Immediately west, at the head of State Street, situated upon a mound-like hill, is the State University. Under foot is heard the bustle and rattle of vehicles. Surrounding the park are long rows of stately business blocks. On every hand private residences, enveloped with foliage, present themselves. The long avenues, bordered with shade trees, afford a most beautiful and inviting spectacle.

AS A COMMERCIAL POINT Madison occupies a position foremost among the cities of Wisconsin. Being the largest city in the western part of the State, it commands the trade of a large scope of country. Dane county, of which Madison is the capitol, is the wealthiest and most populous of the interior counties. The soil is of unsurpassed fertility, and highly cultivated farms furnish to this market immense quantities of grain.

MANUFACTURES are in their infancy, yet there are a number of establishments which turn out work of a superior quality. Among these are the extensive plow works of Firmin & Billings, an agricultural foundry, machine shops, flour and woolen mills, several breweries, besides a variety of smaller establishments.

THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS of Madison are, without exception the finest to be found in the State. Among these are the new State House, the City Hall, Hospital for the Insane, Court House, the new U. S. Custom House and Post Office, and substantial business blocks in profusion. Of elegant private residences Madison boasts a larger share than can be found anywhere in the West.

THE NEW CAPITOL BUILDING occupies a prominent position in the centre of the city. The construction of this edifice was authorized by the legislature as its session in 1857, and now the work is nearly completed. It is built in the Corinthian style of architecture, of highly colored stone, and, situated in a large park of forest trees, presents a cheerful aspect. Its dimensions are, length, from east to west, 275 feet, from north to south 250 feet, height to the top of dome, 221 feet.

THE UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin, endowed by the general government with a grant of land comprising 46,080 acres of land, is now in a prosperous condition. It is under the governmental control of a board of regents. A preparatory department was opened in 1849. The catalogue for 1867 shows an attendance of upwards of 300 students. The University buildings at present in use comprise a main hall and two dormitories, built at an expense of 101,000.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS of Madison are well attended, and the accommodations are of the first order. Two of the ward school houses are models of architecture.

THE RELIGIOUS WANTS of the community are not forgotten. There are here fourteen church societies, all but one of which have suitable houses of worship. The Catholic church, on Main street, which it is intended to complete in 1869, will have cost $80,000,
