R. NETHERCUT '25 SUBMITS WINNER OF PROM SLOGANS

"The Prom to Remember" is Given Award of Ten Dollars

Robert Nethercut '25, was announced winner of the prom slogan contest last night. The slogan he submitted for "The Prom to Remember," which will be used to characterize the 1926 prom. The reward for the winning suggestion is $10, given by the Chocolate Shop and the Co-op.

Mautz '26

"The committee was pleased with the number of suggestions sent in," said Louise Mautz '26, chairman. "The final decision was between Nethercut's 'The Prom to Remember' and 'The Perfect Prom.' 'The Prom to Remember' was also considered. However, we thought that 'The Prom to Remember' was the most effective and pleasing."

In picking the winning slogan, the committee did not know who wrote them. Each suggestion was given to the committee without the name of the author so that there would be no favoritism shown. The judges were members of the slogan committee which included Miss Mautz and Kathleen Ballard '26, Martha Cowan '26, Harold Weiland '26, and Kenneth Hamlin '26.

Senior Woman is Fined For Copying Notes of Another

"No student should give his notes to anyone but his instructor because he can't be sure what is going to be done with them. If a student lends his notes knowing that they are to be copied and handed in the committee deals with him just as it does with the one who copies the notes."

So said Prof. Ray S. Owen, chairman of the disciplinary committee which Wednesday night at a meeting in South hall fined a senior Letters and Science woman student five credits for copying notes and handing them in as her own work. She will be unable to graduate next spring because of the extra credits she must earn. The woman who lent her the notes proved that she did not know they were to be copied and was discharged with a reprimand and a warning.

An article in the Atlantic Monthly was copied extensively by a sophomore man for a theme in English 2A. He was fined three credits and placed on probation for a semester.

A freshman agricultural student took weights worth $25 from a laboratory and hid them in a drawer in another laboratory. By means of a master key the instructor found out who had taken them. The student became suspicious that his theft was known and placed the weights behind a pillar in a corridor. Wednesday night he confessed to the committee but no decision was reached in the case.

BURLEIGH HERE AFTER PLAYING IN THE EAST

Prof. C. Burleigh has returned from a trip east, where he played before the Bohemian club, a semi-private musical organization in New York City.

Professor Burleigh played the St. Paul Sonata, a violin selection of his own composition. The program included for the most part his own compositions, all of which were encored several times. Many of his numbers received as many as ten encores before the audience would let him go.

On his return to Wisconsin, Professor Burleigh stopped at Oxford Woman's college in Miami and delivered a concert there.

WHOOPEE—SLIDE, SLIP, OUCH! PROFS TELL WHY YOU LIKE IT

Why do people like to slide—on ice, snow, or even—on a banana peel? There's a reason, according to the psychology department. Several of their theories are stated here:

Freud, that radical over whom the whole world argues, says that an adult's sliding is caused by a reversion to childish impulses—that is a momentary breaking away from the restraint of natural impulses imposed by the laws of a dignified behavior that is expected of the "grown-ups."

R. J. Van Tassel, assistant in psychology,—"Freud is right in that respect. Sliding on sidewalks is an impulse of childhood; children indulge freely, but the adults are afraid of being censured so they slide one step and walk three. On the other hand, I have another theory. It is that this impulse dates back to the time when we were arboreal—tree life—and we got into the habit of sliding down the trunks of trees. Anyway it isn't the fall that hurts, it's the fact of being seen.

Professor M. C. Otto—I don't believe in Freud, and I don't believe in reporters.

E. B. Phillips, instructor in philosophy and psychology—Sliding is the child in a man cropping out. He is instinctively trying to live over the days of his youth.

A. T. Haentzschel, assistant in philosophy—Children like to slide because of the freedom of motion. It is the nearest they can come to flying. This feeling of moving without effort is as strong in the man as it is in the child.

The Gentleman In The Duster, from "Seven Ages"—Freud is the man of one idea, and that a nasty one.

The Practical-Minded Man—Why, a person slides to get there faster, of course. (To get where, we ask?) The One Who Slips—OUCH!

Student Should Be Aware Of The World Around Him

—BIRGE

Use Environment For Development, President Says in Message

How the Christmas conception of a child on being the center of the universe has a two-fold significance to university students was pointed out by President Birge at the first Christmas party at Agricultural hall Thursday morning.

"A child grows and develops with the world around him, gradually and surely reaching out for new things as he progresses. He often becomes critical of his surroundings in this progression, more so when he becomes a student. In that stage he is apt to treat his home town as a narrower world, but it is well for him to remember that he will reach the most satisfactory development by accepting and utilizing the best in his environment and adding to that the advantages he has gained from the outside world."

"A student cannot consider himself an outsider, either in his home town or here at the university. He should be an integral part of any community, remembering that he is a part of the structure and that his surest progress will come by accepting and using what is most desirable and by taking a part in the development of the whole."

President Birge spoke at the Christmas party held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock for agricultural and home economics students. It is planned to make this party an annual affair. Prof. F. B. Morrison, acting dean of the College of Agriculture, presided. The program consisted of community singing of Christmas carols, led by Prof. T. L. Bewick; violin solo by Arlene B. Kinkaid '27; President Birge's message; a vocal selection by Mary Eldridge '26; and the distribution of presents by Prof. W. McNeel, who took the part of Santa Claus.

Convention of Phi Kappa to Convene Here December 29

The thirty-eighth annual convention of Phi Kappa is to be held at Madison with Lambda chapter, December 29, 30, and 31. All of the various chapters throughout the United States will be represented by delegates.

Business sessions will be held in the afternoon and forenoon of the three days. On the evening of December 30 the annual banquet will be held. The closing function will be a formal dance in the Elizabethan room of the Park hotel, New Year's eve.

Robert Morris '25, Carl Meyer '25, Gordon Joyce '26, John Cavanaugh '26 and William O'Malley '26, of the local chapter are in charge of arrangements.

CO-ED CAROLERS GIVE SERENADE

50 Women in Busses Brave Weather to Sing Carols

Fifty women, all of whom are members of Professor Gordon's public school music class, serenaded the Latin quarter and the Heights district last night. The repertoire included the old Christmas hymns.

In spite of the severe cold and the rush of packing for home these Wisconsin women followed the old English custom and serenaded the campus. W. S. G. A. sponsored the caroling and provided two large busses accommodating twenty-five women each who were granted special permission by the W. S. G. A. president to stay out after hours.

The busses left from the Gordon residence on the Heights about nine o'clock and each followed a special route. All points on the campus were touched including the State hospital and the infirmary. The one group sang at Prexy's home, down Langdon and caroled at all the large rooming houses and fraternity and sorority houses.

HUGE INCREASE NOTED IN LIBRARY'S VOLUMES

Thirteen thousand, one hundred and fifteen volumes have been added to the university libraries' quota since January 1, 1924, bringing the grand total to 330,000 volumes.

"There will be skating when the students return after Christmas vacation," Cap Isabel, veteran guardian of Lake Mendota, says. "I don't think they will permit anyone on the ice before the holidays, because I am anxious to see that all the students get home to see the folks for Christmas."

Plans are being made for a skating rink at Camp Randall. It is expected that the practice field will be flooded and fixed up as a skating rink by the athletic department. This is not definitely settled, Cap stated, but, even if the Camp Randall rink is used he expects to have a rink in use on the lake near the gymnasium, which will doubtless be used considerably because of its proximity to the Latin quarter.

"Cap" predicts this to be a mild

BADGER MAN MAY GET O. HENRY PRIZE

Story By T. J. Moseley, Forest Product Editor, is Being Considered

The O. Henry prize that is awarded to the writer of the best short story of the year may come to a Wisconsin man. T. Jefferson Moseley, editor of the research publication of the Forest Products laboratory, was notified that his story, "The Secret of the Cross Roads," which appeared in the November issue of the Forum as the winner of the $1000 prize was being considered for the 1924 O. Henry award.

Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the Forum, describes "The Secret of the Cross Roads" as a vivid social light on the race problem. Mr. Moseley, who is a native of Texas, has felt the pressure of racial difficulties and has seen the precarious situations created by white and colored association.

The hero was suggested to the author by an acquaintance who was of that southern type that condescends to help the negro but who will not under any conditions admit his social equality.

"In addition to being a study of the social problem, 'The Secret of the Cross Roads' is also a kind of a puzzle. The hero of the story is delineated in such a way that his identity appears perfectly plain. It is extremely doubtful if any reader will design the true secret of his personality until the end of the story is reached," commented Mr. Moseley in a recent interview.

"The Secret at the Cross Roads" is colored with incidents that increase the timely interest of the story. It arouses again the question, "Is the southerner who will help the negro going to suffer? And does it pay to help the negro?"

HARESFOOT ADDS 4 CITIES TO ITS SPRING ITINERARY

Minneapolis, Cleveland, Davenport and Detroit Included; Play 20 Performances

Eleven cities are included in the itinerary for the Haresfoot club's 1925 production, "Ivan Hol!" The club will go on tour during the spring vacation. Four new cities were added for this year's trip and several of the Wisconsin cities dropped. Minneapolis, Davenport, Ia., Cleveland and Detroit are the new cities to be visited.

A special five-car train will carry the club on the tour, Sidney R. Thorson '25, manager, stated. Two baggage cars, two sleeping cars, and a diner will be provided to take care of the company's needs. Meals will be served in the cars at all points on the trip, doing away with the necessity for hotel accommodations.

Twenty performances will be played in all, six of them to be in Madison, with matinees in Appleton, Peoria, Racine, and Milwaukee. The complete itinerary is as follows:

Appleton, April 4, matinee and night; Minneapolis, April 6; Davenport, April 7; Peoria, April 8, matinee and night; Indianapolis, April 9; Detroit, April 10; Cleveland, April 11; Chicago, April 13; Racine, April 14, matinee and night; Milwaukee, April 15, matinee and night; Madison, April 17, 18, 24, and 25.

The first weekend in Madison will be especially for students with a matinee Saturday, and the second weekend will be "Madison week." It is scheduled for the benefit of Madison people who have not always been able to get tickets in former years because of the heavy student demand.

Regular rehearsals for cast and chorus will begin February 7 when E. Mortimer Shuter, coach, now with the Michigan Mimes show, arrives in Madison. Shuter will be here for a day or two early in January to pick men for the chorus, but will not take up intensive work until February.

S. WOFSY WRITES PLAY FOR THE SPANISH CLUB

A Spanish play, written by Samuel Wofsy, instructor in Romance languages, will be presented after vacation by the members of the Spanish club. The title is "El Idilio de Lolita en Nueva York." Only students will take the parts. The entire play will be given in Spanish. With the play two other acts will be presented. An eight piece orchestra will play Spanish numbers, and a chorus of seven girls will present Spanish vaudeville stunts, entitled "El Soldadito." There will be only one performance and that will be in the Lathrop concert room.

LAST INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE TRYOUTS SET

The final tryouts to select the intercollegiate debating team are definitely set for January 8, according to an announcement made by Prof. J. M. O'Neill of the speech department yesterday. "The questions concerning the supreme court and the 15th amendment will be the subjects for the trials," Professor O'Neill declared. "The teams will tryout on the questions and in the order that they have been assigned."

MRS. J. S. EVANS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

After an illness of several months from heart trouble, Mrs. Joseph S. Evans, wife of Prof. J. S. Evans of the university department of clinical medicine, died Thursday morning at her residence, 524 N. Frances street. Mrs. Evans is survived by her husband and one daughter, Clara.

1924 SEES HOME BUILDINGS FINISHED

New Hospital, Enlarging of Service Building Among University Projects

A new hospital, doubling of the size of the Service building, remodeling of South hall and of the old clinic building, and other minor building projects have marked the year 1924. The extent of building in the next year cannot be determined definitely until it is known how much money the legislature will appropriate.

This afternoon bids will be opened for the construction of an elevator in the central pit of Science hall, a project which has been discussed for the last 20 years, but now, says A. F. Gallistel, superintendent of buildings and grounds, "We feel sure we will have it by the beginning of next semester."

This week also witnessed the beginning of the remodeling of Music hall, incidental to the installation of a $20,000 pipe organ, money for which was appropriated several legislatures ago. The organ is to be installed behind the stage in the main auditorium.

Balances out of the soldiers bonus fund were used to build the State of Wisconsin General hospital, which opened September 1 for student medical examinations, and October 15 for patients, 300 of whom can be accommodated. The nurses training course is given by the university in connection with the hospital and some medical students serve their internships there. The hospital has been erected at a cost of a million dollars.

All the corridors and stairways of South hall have been remodeled at a cost of $20,000 so that they are fire-proof. The third floor court room in the Law building has been equipped with stacks and is being used as an annex to the second floor library. Room 3 will be used as a court room.

Both men's and women's rest rooms in Bascom hall have been completely modernized. Between $500 and $600 was the cost of remodeling the old clinic building so as to accommodate ticket sales, Union memorial committee, alumni recorder, history department, and psychology department.

The roadways, called the Agricultural Mall, in front of Agricultural hall, have been laid out and when spring comes the surrounding parkways will be seeded and landscaped. A concrete road from the back of North hall to Charter street has been constructed and the road from Biology building to Bascom hall widened.

At Lathrop hall a filtering and sterilizing apparatus has been installed in the tank room and the number of showers and dressing rooms has been doubled.

The regents' room in the Administration building has been divided into business offices. In the future the regents will meet in the president's office.

MORE THAN 40 ATTEND BANQUET OF ART CLUB

More than 40 students attended the annual Christmas banquet of the Arts and Crafts club held in the Crystal room of the Loraine hotel, Wednesday evening. Prof. A. M. Colt of the Applied Arts department was the toastmaster. Adelaide Schallert '28 sang during the program and Ralph Meade '27, as "Pola", with Frederick Buerki '27, as "Rudolph" danced the Spanish tango. A dance followed the banquet.

HOOT GIBSON IN "THE RIDIN' KID FROM POWDER RIVER" A UNIVERSAL GIBSON PRODUCTION

Uncle Sam Wastes Enough Fags to Pay for 80 Union Buildings

Fags, fags and more fags, think of it, 50,000,000,000 of them manufactured by American companies in one year. The consumers pay $375,000,000 at 15 cents a package for the yearly production. Approximately one fourth of every cigarette is wasted, making a corresponding waste of $94,000,000, or money enough to pay for about 80 Memorial Union buildings.

Manufacturing this many cigarettes a year would supply every person in the United States with 4450 of them or over 22 packages.

Maybe a conception of how many fags are produced can be made clearer by illustration of volume. If all the packages of cigarettes manufactured in one year were piled together they would make a 560-foot cube, a mass with all the three dimensions greater than the height of the Washington monument.

Supposing one segregated this huge mass of packages, tore open each package and placed each of the 50,000,000,000 fags end to end, it would give a cigarette 2,367,000 miles long and take 475,000 years to smoke. This lengthy fag could be wound around the world 100 times or make a cigarette sidewalk 33 inches wide once around.

Irving S. Cobb, Famous Humorist, Says Wearing of Golf Trousers is Not Aristocratic

"Are knickers aristocratic?" is the question that is causing considerable discussion between Irvin S. Cobb, author, humorist and newspaperman, and Prof. Charles Gray Shaw of the department of philosophy of New York university. Mr. Cobb takes the negative side of the question, according to the student daily of the New York university, which quotes him as saying, "The only reason Professor Charles Gray Shaw can possibly believe that knickers are aristocratic is because he hasn't seen me wearing a pair."

He also says, "Not only do I expect Professor Shaw to be smothered in a high and rising tide of pants discarded by the unfettered legs of democratic Americans, but I will go so far as to say that Professor Shaw, for anatomical reasons, dares not expose his underpinnings."

Professor Shaw, when stating his views, said that John W. Davis was defeated because a picture of him in knickers was widely circulated in the newspapers.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDBASKETEERS FACE A REAL BATTLE TONIGHT
IN BUTLER CONTESTButler National Amateur Champs; Martell May Be at Forward

The Wisconsin basketball team faces one of the hardest battles of the year tonight. They meet the Butler team, and will have to play a real brand of basketball to win. Last year Wisconsin sneaked away with a two point win, and now Coach Page of Butler is determined that the Badgers will not repeat last year's performance.

Dr. W. E. Meanwell, Badger cage coach, expects the Butler aggregation to be one of the strongest teams that will face Wisconsin with the exception of one or two conference teams. The Butler squad has three men back from their wonder five of last year, which won the national amateur title. Griggs, Hooker, and Middlesworth were on the team of last year.

Lineup About as Last Game

The starting lineup of the Cardinal team is the same as in the last game, with the possible change of the right forward. The two guards are certain, Captain Diebold will hold down one of them, and Barwig will start at the other. Varney is the logical choice for the center position, as his playing has greatly improved, and he seems to have struck his basket-shooting form.

The forward positions are the doubtful ones. Wackman is expected to start at left forward, with either Martell or Merkle at the other. Martell has a slight edge over Merkle at the present time, but it is far from definite which man will start.

Spooner Back

Spooner, veteran forward, who has been out due to an injured knee, has returned to practice, but Meanwell does not intend to play him before the De Pauw game, January 6, in order to be sure that the injury is entirely healed.

Grinnell Next

After the game tonight, the team will face another hard battle when they meet the Grinnell quintet, Monday night. The strength of this team is not definitely known, but since they always place high in Missouri Valley circles, they can be expected to give the Badgers some real competition.

COLLEGES TO MEET IN WORD PUZZLE CONTEST

The latest in intercollegiate sports—the crossword puzzle contest has appeared in the east.

"Block that word!" "Spell them Yale!" will perhaps be among the yells that will echo from the Hotel Roosevelt, January 4, when Yale and Harvard will meet for the first cross-word battle. Proceeds will be given to Bryn Mawr Music foundation and the City Music League.

Smith, Wellesley, and Bryn Mawr will enter a triangle contest the same day and after that an intercollegiate contest of champions will determine the grand champion.

TICKETS FOR BUTLER
GAME ON SALE TODAY

The basketball ticket sale for the Butler game is on today, and tickets for the Grinnell game which will be played Monday will be sold Monday. Tickets are sold not at the gymnasium, but at the ticket office in the old clinic building. Tickets are entirely sold out for series B and C, and only a few are left in box series A. Plenty of seats are left for the Butler and Grinnell games.

So It Seems

Butler tonight! Rumors from Indianapolis have it that though Pat Paige lost three regulars by graduation last June, he is invading Madison with the expectancy of winning.

The Chicago Herald-Examiner says that the belief of the coaches at the schedule meeting was that either Ohio or Iowa will win the championship. Looks like the Badgers will be the year's dark horse, and romp off with the championship.

With Captain Weiss out with an injured leg, things aren't so bright in the Chicago basketball camp. The only sophomore who has been showing good is Gordon, and Coach Norgren faces a real job in developing a team that can compete with the one built last year.

Northwestern opens against Notre Dame tonight. The probable lineup for the Purple is to be Greaves, center; Baker and Karstens, forwards; White and Mathews, guards.

The score of this game will give a comparison as to the strength of the Purple, and Minnesota, who defeated the Irish, 25 to 12, last Monday night.

In the East, Yale continues to show weak. Fordham playing their second team for more than half the game, defeated the Elis, 31 to 8.

The Indiana team meets the Kentucky State quintet tonight at Lexington, Kentucky. Captain Parker, Harrison, Alward, Sponsler, Logan Lorber, Kruger, Druckmiller, Border and Easton are the regulars who are making the trip.

Grinnell, although having a basket quintet composed of nearly all new men, expects to give Wisconsin a hard game, according to a letter received here yesterday from Director Huff of that college. Grinnell won the Missouri Valley conference championship last year.

BADGER CAGE MEN
TO SPEND RECESS
ON GYM COURTSEveryone in Vacation Mood;
Varsity Stays and Practices For Games

While everybody is in a tense state over the arrival of the Christmas vacation, and all on the streets wishing each other a Merry Christmas and asking to be remembered to all the friends at home, the varsity basketball team is practicing for tonight's game with the Butler five.

The team must look forward to spending the greater part of its vacation on the army court in preparation for the strenuous season that is ahead of them. "Doc" Meanwell has handed out the bad news to the men, and has told them that the only days of vacation for them will have to be squeezed in between December 23 and 31 of this month, for a longer time cannot be spared.

At Home Part Time.

The boys will be able to leave Madison on the twenty-third, and this will enable most of them to reach home in time for them to spend Christmas with their families. They will then have a week at home before starting back to the university, arriving here by the thirty-first.

Reward Later in Year.

Although the men on the squad are rather disappointed in losing a part of their holidays, they will feel rewarded for their sacrifices later on in the year when the team plays its conference games, and there is no sign of disgruntledness among them.

Track Distance Runners Turn
Eskimos As They Run Outside

If you see an Eskimo running in a track suit one of these days, don't think that he is direct from Greenland because several of the distance men on the varsity track squad are doing this very thing. Clothed, if one can call it clothed, in ear-muffs and a scarf around their necks, these men will run along the lake drive for daily workouts.

This was the customary procedure before the days of indoor track. In the old days, one could see the distance men running along the road in scanty attire. Although outdoor training of this kind makes a strong squad of distance men for the outdoor season in the spring, it is less valuable for indoor track men.

Last night marked the last regular workout of the varsity squad this year. They will desert the cinderpath until January 6, at which time regular workouts will be held again. There, however, are a few

GREEK CAGE CONTESTS

Last night's results of the interfraternity basketball tournament are as follows:

Zeta Beta Tau defeated Alpha Kappa Kappa, 2 to 0, forfeit; Phi Sigma Delta defeated Beta Sigma Pi, 24 to 7; Delta Upsilon defeated Phi Beta Delta, 17 to 8; Triangle defeated Phi Delta Theta, 2 to 0, forfeit; Delta Tau Delta defeated Square and Compass, 10 to 2; Theta Delta Chi defeated Phi Pi Phi, 20 to 3.

The tournament will be continued after the Christmas holidays.

BADGER GRID CARD
IS STIFF FOR 1925Michigan Big Home Game;
Minnesota is Also Important Contest

That the 1925 football schedule of the University of Wisconsin is one of the best ever arranged for the Badgers everything taken into consideration is the belief of Coach Jack Ryan and the members of the Athletic Council.

The big attraction at Madison will be the Michigan contest coming as it does October 17th, when all highways will be in perfect condition and a record crowd may be expected.

In taking on Purdue the Badgers scheduled a team which this year proved more successful with the use of the forward pass than any institution in the conference. Purdue used more passes than any two of the other conference schools and the record shows that more than 50 per cent of these passes were completed. With a veteran team scheduled to meet the Badgers, the game should prove spectacular in the extreme.

WISCONSIN OPENS
CONFERENCE CAGE
YEAR WITH OHIOBuckeyes Rated as Likely Winners of Championship;
Show Early Power

Opening their conference basketball season against Ohio, considered as the strongest team in the Big Ten this year, Wisconsin faces a real battle. The Buckeyes will come to Madison with a veteran team led by Miner, all-conference forward of 1923, and Cunningham, second all-conference forward of the same year.

So far Ohio has played two games and have shown great scoring ability. The Buckeyes ran up 42 points against Ohio Wesleyan, and 45 against Western Reserve. The defense has not been neglected. This is shown by the Scarlet and Grey holding the two teams to a total of 27 points.

High Scorers

Besides being all-conference forward, Miner was second high scorer in the Big Ten. His teammate, Cunningham, ranked among the ten leading scorers. Around these two men the offense is built, and all the passes are fed to them so that they may shoot. Another reliable man is Tabert, running mate of Miner. He is showing remarkable ability, and like Miner has a real eye for the basket.

Coach, Wisconsin Grad

It is interesting to note that the Buckeyes are coached by a Wisconsin graduate, Harold Olson. Though his teams have not won championships, they have always finished high, and this year they are regarded as the likely winners of the Big Ten flag.

Lake Monona Is Frozen Over
Wednesday

Lake Monona closed entirely on Wednesday night for the first time this year, according to Mrs. William Wirka, of the Wirka boat landing. Up to Wednesday afternoon, a small space of open water still was to be seen in the center of the lake. This closed with the dying of the wind last evening. This is the earliest closing since 1919. The earliest closing on record was Nov. 22, 1880, and the latest Jan. 14, 1889.

Will Elect Technical
Club Officers On Jan. 5

The annual business meeting of the Technical club will be held Monday, Jan. 5, in the dining room of the Christ Presbyterian church. Officers will be elected. Retiring officers are C. M. Larson, president; G. C. Neff, vice president; Gordon F. Daggett, secretary-treasurer; and C. M. Baker and L. J. Markwardt, directors. The program will consist of the showing of a film called "Queen of the Waves."

DON'T FORGET WISCONSIN

Amid all the joys of going home and entering into the sports and activities of the season, it is well for the Wisconsin student to keep somewhere within reach of his memory a picture of his university and a few of its problems.

First and foremost among its many needs, Wisconsin needs men and women; not the ordinary, mediocre type, but students of distinction, people who could make a definite contribution if they were here. Obviously, athletes and big activities men are needed, someone to carry on in the future the many extra-curricular interests of which Wisconsin is so proud. Students with real intellectual powers are also needed, for the future of the university must necessarily be a growth toward maturity in creative scholastic attainments, a state which the older universities of the east and of Europe have probably approached more closely than Wisconsin. It is not numbers that the university wants, for it is overpopulated already; but quality is needed, and every person who can be persuaded to come here who is capable of making some distinct contribution, intellectual, physical, or moral, will be an asset.

In the high school back home there are hundreds of such students who are wondering where they will go to school next year. Some of them are considering Wisconsin, but probably they are doubtful and uncertain, discouraged by their lack of information about the university, or by their wealth of misinformation gleaned from the newspapers.

In addition to enjoying himself during the next two weeks, a student who has the interests of his opportunity to influence some of these high school seniors, and he should devote a part of his time to convincing them that Wisconsin is the best place in university at heart should remember that he has an the world for them to receive their education.

Perhaps the old Hausmann bar would be better placed in the museum in the library than in the Memorial Union building.

Today is your last chance to shop before going home.

There can't even be a good rummage sale now-a-days. One sorority last year held a rummage sale in Little Italy and was very successful. This year, however, the sale which it held in the same place met with failure. Even the inhabitants of the quarter are afraid to go out of doors.

ON GOING HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

(Reprinted by Request)

There is no other happiness known to college students quite comparable with going home for Christmas. It is, of course, an unforgettable experience to go away to college, to leave the home town with its settled and too familiar habits, its intimate acquaintances who incline to look upon you as the child you once were, its maternal and paternal solitudes. And what joy to be in college, with the long-meditated opportunity to get an education in your grasp, to look after your own affairs, and to swim with the flowing tide of cosmopolitan young folk, with all its optimism, novel contacts, sports, excitements, badges, rituals, argot, and meetings, its carefree independence and jollity. But as Christmas approaches, and the house or restaurant fare grows familiar and flat, and the novelty of college courses and diversions wears thin, then the heart begins to warm with thoughts of fireside plenty and cheer, and of the companionable town of your youth, where you know everybody and everywhere. Well may you rejoice, you who are going home for the Christmas holidays, who are about to return for a few days to the best friends you'll ever know. You're going home for Christmas!

Surely no one but a dean would intrude upon your sense of adequacy for such an occasion, and offer unsought advice upon a matter which is properly ruled by the affections. I agree; and you can quit reading at this point if you want to, and no harm done.

It is well to postpone beginning your vacation until it is scheduled to start. You will have two-thirds of a week to put into study after these words meet your eye. Make the time count. Your vacation will be all the merrier if you do. Dispense with most of the parties which entice during this short work period, for they will take the edge off your holiday.

You are going home to be refreshed, to get a change. See that you get it. Have you studied faithfully so far, done your academic duty, justified the love lavished on you and the money spent on you, often at the cost of privations, by your parents? Then don't so much as glance at a "school book" after you get home. Loaf, skate, drive, dance, play, sing, sleep, and read for pure pleasure. Do, but don't overdo. Come back to Madison refreshed, not tired or worn out. Have you largely wasted your time, hitherto, so that the three weeks after the holidays, before examinations, seem terrifyingly short? Then give up at least the first half of each day to solid work, and play the remainder of the day. Don't overdo. Come back refreshed, encouraged, resolute.

And in either case see to it that you have a talk with yourself in the peace and sincerity of your old home. Discover again the best and noblest aims of your real self, and calculate how, when you get back to Madison, you will pursue them more faithfully, more loyally, as befits a good man or a good woman.

You are going home for Christmas. Sound the loud timbrel! Do I hear some one say, "But I can't get home this time"? Well, courage, my friend. There are quite a few of us, who live in Madison, that will have to stay here too, never again to climb aboard the special and go home from college for Christmas.

Well, this is the last until after we have made all our good resolutions, broken them and started over again, because Christmas is coming.

We have broken up with all of the fair sex, and have given our steady the air, because Christmas is coming.

We have written home for extra money, and we are going to write for more money, because Christmas is coming.

We have quit dating, quit smoking, quit drinking, quit swearing, quit necking and quit other things, because Christmas is coming.

We went to class this morning and did the unheard of and gave Professor Sharp a good A. G. & P. skyrocket, because Christmas is coming.

We have written letters to the lucky girl at home (notice this, Hard Hearted Hannah) and made some few dates, because Christmas is coming.

We have purchased six loud ties, one loud scarf, one collegiate hat, an extra pair of extra wide trousers, so as to give the home folks a shock, because Christmas is coming.

We have told all the home folks how cheap and serviceable racoon coats are, because Christmas is coming.

We have had one of the boys who is going to drive his car home to the same town in which we reside over for dinner three times, because Christmas is coming.

We have jerked the tiny gold wrist watch that mother gave us when we graduated from high school from Hard Hearted Hannah's wrist so we will have it when we meet mother again, because Christmas is coming.

And finally, we have bought ourselves a tooth brush, and have taken a bath, because Christmas is coming.

Yuletide here again, with all its sweetness and jovial times. Mercy Me! What could be sweeter? We all feel that we need the vacation for the two weeks will give us a chance to recuperate from our strenuous work. There seems to be a lack of Christmas spirit around here, but we hear plenty of talk about New Year's spirits already. We have so often been told that now is the time to give till it hurts, and we wish to state that we are all in pain at the present time. We will go home and buy Dad his yearly tie and charge it to his account. But before we go home, we must hock our clothes and buy Professor Scott some sort of a remembrance, for he has a faculty of dishing out gifts in the marks he hands out. So, felices pasce de Navidad.

Alice Corl Gives Talk on Industrial Women in College

"Bringing the Working Girl to College" was the subject of an address broadcasted recently from radio station WHA, by Alice Corl '25, president of W. S. G. A.

A year ago, at a student industrial banquet, it was decided to equalize opportunity, to give all women a chance to learn to be broader and more useful. Last summer, eight girls from the factories of Madison entered the university summer school classes. These eight girls were chosen on the basis of capacity to learn, interest, health, character, and previous record of living.

"Industrial girls deplored the limited opportunity of the industrial girl to learn to be useful in her community, to help those immediately about her, and to understand her relation as a worker to the great world of industry, politics, and human welfare," explained Miss Corl.

"Next summer we are planning

GESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS:

1. This beautiful pair of real Japanese silk pajamas we suggest as a good gift for our own From chairman, Clifford, for he has always struck us as though he were asleep most of the time anyway, and now he needs them because he is sick in bed as a result of his strenuous struggle in carrying out his platform, by choosing a queen from one of the NEWER or SMALLER SORORITIES. OH SURE!!!

We consider that this ultra collegiate shirt and tie is an ideal gift suggestion for Wisconsin's own poet, Professor "Sammy" Leonard because we think he typifies the standard of clothes for collegiate men.

3. And now for our little boy friend, Bud Smith. What could be more appropriate than this toy engine and the rest of these toys, for we all know that Bud does love to play.

Last, but not least, we suggest to all the dear readers of daily attempt that they might give us a girl along these lines. It is true, that we have Hard Hearted Hannah, Lula Lou and Prudence of the Parsonage, but we want to be just like the Sainted Devil and have more. So do your stuff, and with this we wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and may prosperity and fortune ever come your way.

YOURS TILL METHUSELAH AND SANTA CLAUS SHAVE, SAMPSON.

Southern Club to Hold Christmas Dance on Dec. 24

For the benefit of the students who will remain in Madison during the holidays, the Southern club will sponsor a dance on Wednesday evening, December 24. The affair is not primarily a couple dance, but is open to all desiring student recreation on Christmas eve. Jess Cohen's first orchestra has been secured to furnish the music, and the dance will be given at the studio over the Candy Shop.

A New Year's Eve dance is also planned but no definite announcement can yet be made.

Last year the Southern club sponsored two dances during the holiday period which provides the only student social affairs open to all. Both dances were of the mixer type.

Eight university students in the music school were initiated into Phi Mu Alpha, or Symphonia, national honorary musical fraternity, last Saturday. They are, Adolph Kammer '26, Leon Metcalf '27, Wardwell Montgomery '26, Eugene Leonardson '26, Carl Kasper '26, Paul G. Jones '28, P. Klerner Knoefel '28, William E. Ross, grad.

University Carrier Takes 400 Letters on Each Delivery

Approximately 400 letters per delivery is the number of messages carried by Harry Griffiths, the university messenger, as he journeys by motorcycle three times a day to the 27 buildings on his campus mail route.

All university bulletins, faculty notices, lecture announcements, and communications from one member of the faculty to another are included in this interuniversity mail service.

The letters are enclosed in a regular form envelope containing the name and address of the one to whom the message is to be carried. The messenger deposits these letters in the faculty letter boxes in the buildings on his route and at the same time collects those letters which have been deposited in the university mail box in that building.

The university messenger has his "post office" in the Administration building. His deliveries start at 7:45, 10, and 1:45 o'clock.

DR. C. H. MILLS TO GO TO ST. LOUIS MEETING

Dr. C. H. Mills is leaving during the Christmas vacation to attend a meeting of the National Music Teacher's association at St. Louis, Missouri, December 29-31. Professor Mills is president of the Association of Presidents of the State University Music schools, which always meets at this time. Prof. Peter W. Dykema, now on leave of absence, is chairman of the community music committee of this organization.

"ALBERTUS MAGNUS" IS OLDEST LIBRARY BOOK

Among the rarest and oldest volumes in the State Historical library are the "Book of Hours," a manuscript worked by monks in 1386, the "Albertus Magnus" which was printed in 1477 and which is the oldest printed book owned by the library, and the "Nuremburg Chronicle," illustrated with interesting engravings. These volumes are priceless, according to Miss Foster, a member of the library staff.

STUDENT DRINKING IS LESS POPULAR —GOODNIGHT

Dean Does Not Dub Wisconsin Students as Cake-Eaters

That drinking is somewhat less popular at the university than last year, that homecoming was on the whole drier than any one since the war, were the opinions expressed by Dean S. H. Goodnight yesterday when asked as to his views on the trend of Wisconsin during the past year.

"Tendencies are complicated and slow among 4,600 young men so that it is not easy to determine gain or loss in a given year before intervening time has given perspective," he went on to say.

"Widely spread publicity during the past week has heralded the report that I dub Wisconsin students cake-eaters. The fact is, I set forth in my talk that people outside of Madison are so characterizing us, but I went on to say that I did not believe this to be true; that I saw no evidences of fatty degeneration of the virile tissues here. I can only express regret for the unfavorable publicity caused by not telling the whole story, and shoulder such responsibility as may be mine," was Dean Goodnight's statement in regard to the Associated Press dispatches that have been spreading throughout the state and the country during the past week.

The opinion that students are dancing too much and too extravagantly he reaffirmed, but as to Wisconsin men showing any signs of deterioration he emphatically denied.

"The attitude of the young men and young women in charge of our campus activities is admirable, much better than in the days just after the war. No millennium has arrived upon the campus. There are always abuses and evils to be fought

"Professor" or "Mister"? Faculty Likes Mr. Better

Don't call them "Professor" but say "Mister." This seems to be the consensus among the faculty members in the matter of address. It may be that "Mister" is more friendly, or that "Professor" doesn't signify all that it once did, in this age of professors of dancing, professors of almost anything, and even, as a sign once read, "Professor of Horse-Shoeing."

"Mister" is a perfectly good title," said Mr. S. H. Goodnight, dean of men. "I prefer it any day to the more distant 'dean.' I always say 'Mister' when I am answering the telephone, it sounds more natural."

President Birge is not so particular. "I don't care what they call me," he said, "so long as I know about whom they are talking."

"For every-day conversation," said Willard G. Bleyer, of the Course in Journalism, "Mister" is much better. Of course, in print, it is better to use the titles, but I'd rather hear 'Mister' when I'm addressed."

At a meeting of the faculty, according to Mr. Bleyer, it was decided to omit all titles after the names in the catalogue. "For every professor and assistant professor just 'Mister' was substituted, with a result that six pages were saved in the printing. For many reasons, 'Mister' seems better for use around school."

As for his nickname of "Tapa" and "Daddy," Mr. Bleyer rather likes it. "I was surprised when I heard a co-ed slip up one day, and call me that, but I was flattered."

William H. Kiekhof of the economics department, doesn't mind either way except—"I don't like 'Bill,'" he said. "I have a son named 'Bill' and I don't want to be confused. Aside from that, I don't care, just so the students don't call me bad names."

against, and there always will be, but I see no reason for discouragement with the present situation and there are some causes for real pleasure in surveying it," were the dean's concluding remarks.

WISCONSIN LEADS IN TWO SPORTS IN ATHLETIC YEAR '24

Championships Won in Basketball and Cross Country; Teams Finish High

Wisconsin proved itself a strong contender in all sports in 1924, and although the only championships won were in basketball when Captain Gibson and his teammates finished in a triple tie with Chicago and Illinois, and in cross country, other teams placed high.

Notable among the year's accomplishments was the return of the Cardinal crew to the annual Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson, when the crew came in second after having been expected to place no better than last.

The football team had a disastrous season, placing last in the Big Ten and registering victories only over two preliminary teams, Ames and North Dakota, tying Coe, Minnesota, and Chicago, and losing to Michigan and Iowa.

The baseball team started in with a series of defeats, being rained out of several games. After losing to Butler and Illinois, the nine defeated Purdue, Butler, Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota. After losing to Purdue in a return game and being rained out of the Chicago game, the team defeated Northwestern and went into a tie for first. The team lost to Michigan at Ann Arbor, however, in the crucial game, and Michigan won the championship.

The tennis, golf and gym teams had fair seasons, winning and losing about an even number of meets. The swimming team, although led by Captain Hugo Czerwonky, who consistently placed first in the breaststroke and backstroke, lost to Indiana and Chicago, and won the Iowa meet. Czerwonky, in the Big Ten meet, won first place in the breaststroke and backstroke.

The rifle team had a successful season, winning nearly every meet. The hockey team had a disastrous season.

The basketball team started out slowly, then, by a series of victories, climbed up to first place. Iowa, Illinois and Ohio won over the quintet and Meanwell's team dropped to fourth place. The last of the season games showed the Badgers in top form and they came up to the top and beat Chicago, 30-14 in the last game of the season, getting a tie with Chicago and Illinois.

The track team had a fairly successful year. Jones' men started out with a victory over Iowa and followed with a victory in a quadrangular meet with Northwestern, Chicago and Ohio. The Notre Dame meet was lost. The next meet was the Illinois relays and there Captain

Year 1924 Was One of Hard Work on Memorial Union

"The year 1924 has been one of hard work on the Union," said John Dollard, secretary of the executive committee, when interviewed yesterday. Dollard continued, "This work has been done largely by the program committee and the architects, but it has been shared also by the campaign committee."

"Early in the year Architect Eschweiler presented a set of sketches to the executive committee which were not completely satisfactory, and the committee decided to have alternate plans drawn before presenting them to our friends."

"The preparation of these alternate sketches was undertaken by Mr. Peabody, state architect, working with Mr. Eschweiler. The matter stands now with the architects nearly ready to present final sketches to the executive committee."

"Both cash and subscription totals were raised during the year. Approximately $63,000 was collected by the Memorial union office during the first eleven months of the year bring the cash available for building to $365,000. Another $35,000 in pledges was added also, making the subscription total $920,000.

"The slashing campaign which was put on by the class of '24 was one of the bright spots of the year. Some $25,000 in pledges was raised, making the class total over $1,000. It was a good example for other classes," Dollard concluded.

Regents Meet Jan 2, to Discuss Building Plans

Regents of the University of Wisconsin will meet on Jan. 21 to finish discussions of the building program of the institution which will be submitted to the legislature this winter. Work on the Nurses' home at the corner of University ave. and N. Warren sts. has been started following approval of the project by the executive committee of the board. Construction of the new dormitories on the shore of Lake Mendota probably will be started as soon as a definite location is selected. Both structures have been informally approved by the legislature.

Ministerial Union Meet Postponed to Next Month

The meeting of the Madison Ministerial Union has been postponed from Tuesday, Dec. 16, to the second Tuesday in January.

W. S. G. A. ENJOYS MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR OF CAREER

1924 Sees Greater Accomplishments in Activities Than Ever Before

The year of 1924 has been one of outstanding progress in the short but crowded career of the W. S. G. A., according to the records in its office.

The object of this association is to regulate all matters pertaining to the student life of its members which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the faculty; to further in every way the spirit of unity among the women of the university.

This year the 11 o'clock rule was done away with at a constitutional mass meeting and all women allowed to stay out on weekend nights until 12:30 o'clock whether they were escorted or not. The student friendship drive was backed by W. S. G. A. and many hundred dollars raised for the relief of students in Europe. Keystone originated the women's elections precedents, which govern all women's elections and do away with all electioneering.

The policy of having W. S. G. A. board composed entirely of upperclassmen was developed in order to make this governmental body more efficient and more responsible. Two delegates were sent to the conference of self governing associations held in Missouri where Wisconsin found that she ranked among the first in efficiency in self-government. The annual Senior swingout was held under the direction of W. S. G. A.

This fall a welcome party and pageant was given by the junior advisory system which is under W. S. G. A. The association co-operated with Union board in the mixer at the opening of school and at the homecoming open house held in Lathrop following the game. Father's day was made more successful, according to the chairman, John Bergstresser '24, through the aid of W. S. G. A.

"A firm stand has been taken on scholarship by W. S. G. A.," said Miss Corl. "We are treating it as an activity. A freshmen scholarship banquet was held early this fall and the freshmen were made to feel the importance of scholarship in the university. Last year a scholarship cup was given to the freshman girl, Edith Leach '27, who received the highest average for the year."

Fog, Thick as Soup, Is Shrouding Paris Today

PARIS—The French capital last evening was drowned in a pea soup fog equal to the London variety and of an intensity never experienced before.

The prefect ordered out all available policemen to guide automobiles.

Hibbard Becomes Y.M.C.A. Secretary in Spring of 1924

The position of general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., which was left vacant by the resignation of Frederick E. Wolf last spring, was filled by C. V. Hibbard. Mr. Hibbard came to the university association from the foreign service of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Wolf was married in September and is now pastor in Fort Thomas, Kentucky.

Welcoming freshmen was the first activity of the Y. M. C. A. this fall. The organization of the freshman Y. M. C. A. was accomplished about a month ago. By a joint arrangement with the Y. W. C. A., quiet hours have been arranged at the Luther Memorial church.

A Christmas party for children of Madison's south side was held December 14.

Arrangements for the annual religious conference and the Kenneth Sterling Day award are being considered by the association.

Hammann took second in the all-events class. The team made two and one-half points in the Big Ten meet. In a close meet the tracksters lost to Minnesota, 66 to 69. In the conference meet at the close of the season the Badgers finished fifth. The team took first place in the half-mile relay and 100-yard dash at the Ohio relays, and took second in the mile relay at the Kansas relays.

The cross country team, under Mead Burke, won all its meets and won a conference championship when the runners placed first in the Big Ten meet at Ann Arbor.

LOOKING AHEAD TO NEXT YEAR

SPORT PROSPECTS FOR 1925 GOOD, COACHES DECLARE

Basketball Team Improving; Gym Squad Looks Good; Wrestlers Strong

Although the teams which will participate in 1925 have not yet been in competition which test their strength, the outlook seems bright in nearly every branch of sports. The basketball team had difficulty in defeating Wabash Friday night and it will probably be some time before Meanwell's charges get into the best of form for the Hard Big Ten games coming, the quintet will be counted among the real contenders as the season goes on.

Things look bright for football next fall. The Badgers have a good, well-balanced schedule, and only four men will be lost to the squad. The material, which was more or less green this past season, has become seasoned and with the men from the frosh squad of this year Coach Ryan ought to have a team next fall that will be among the first.

Little can be told about the strength of the crew, but workouts were held this fall on the lake and the men are on the machines this winter. Coach Vail will have to work in six new men for the crew which will go to Poughkeepsie.

Coach Schlatter has good prospects for a winning gym team, and Coach Hitchcock expects to come through with a reasonable number of wins in wrestling.

Although Coach Steinauer is handicapped by ineligibility among his swimmers, he expects to have a good season. He has Bell in the breast stroke, Gilbreath in the back stroke and long distances, and Herschberger in the sprints. Simpkins and McGinnis are his mainstays in diving. Frazier, Fleuck, and Porter are other good speed men.

Cross country hopes for next year are exceptionally bright, as are the prospects in track. Coaches Jones and Burke have a number of "W" men back, and these spread around in various events. A stiff schedule has been arranged, but the team is expected to come through near the top.

Promised Land

Jews Rapidly Are Returning To Palestine; Immigration Is Restricted

"The Return of the Jews to Palestine," was the subject of a talk by A. H. McMillan at the Central high school Wednesday night.

It is because the Jews were the ones that gave us our Bible, and because God tells us that they will return to take possession of the promised land, that we are interested in them, he declared.

"In 1918 authority was granted for the Jews to return to Palestine. Since 1918 great progress has been going on in this land. The Jews are returning to their own land so fast that the immigration has had to be restricted to 2,000 a month."

Sees "Moon", Not Other Poison, In Petri Case

GREEN BAY, Wis.—Five hours of grueling cross-examination of Reuben Petri, state's witness in the trial of his 33 year old wife, Angelina Petri, charged with administering poison with intent to kill him, marked the session in Judge Monahan's courtroom here yesterday afternoon.

Atty. Hugh Minahan, defense counsel attempted to show that Petri was a regular drinker of moonshine whiskey before and during his illness of almost a year in which time ten doctors diagnosed his case. Nine of them, the witness stated, said that he was suffering with alcoholic gastritis, and that the tenth diagnosed his ailment as due to some form of poison. In previous testimony Petri charged that his illness was due to poison administered by his wife in his food.

WASHINGTON—The treasury department asked an appropriation of $50,000,000 for refunds of federal taxes illegally collected.

Rapid Completion of Union Building Plans Seen in 1925

"Looking forward on the Union means more than ever before, especially for those of us who have followed it through the past years," Prof. E. H. Gardner, speaking as a member of the Memorial Union Campaign and Program committees, said.

"The future will be a story of the rapid perfection of plans, the beginning of construction operations, the laying of a cornerstone, and the functioning of the Memorial Union in the life of Wisconsin," he declared.

"The architects are preparing to present final sketches to the executive committee in the near future, and it is the intention of the committee to begin construction at the earliest moment possible.

"The story both of the difficulties that have been encountered and the progress that has been made has not all been told, as we should like our next announcement to be the one of building action which we all want. The present state of the plans gives evidence that this will be in the spring of 1925.

"The year 1925 promises action also for the campaign committee. There is still a considerable amount of money to be raised, and it is our feeling that with the beginning of construction operations we can wind up the solicitation of funds in one final campaign. Every dollar sent in is an impetus to the program. We believe that the year 1925 will justify our waiting for the Union. It is evident that as the Memorial Union comes nearer to actuality, that the union of Wisconsin men which will use it becomes closer and finer," Professor Gardner concluded.

YEAR ADDS MANY NEW FRATERNITIES

Number of New Organizations Founded Doubles That of Any Year

Fraternalities founded during 1924 more than doubled the number organized in any other one year during the existence of the university. Eleven of these are social, one professional and one honorary.

Only four sororities were started in this last year, but in this also, 1924 stands out as a record year. Three of these are social and one professional.

Two fraternities, Phi Kappa Tau and Sigma Phi Sigma, have been on the campus for several years as local fraternities, but affiliated with national organizations during this year. Other new social fraternities are Phi Pi Phi, Beta Sigma Pi, Phi Phi Phi, Phi Beta Delta, Beta Phi Theta, Kappa Beta Lambda, Sigma Alpha Mu, Kappa Eta Kappa, and Theta Tau.

Phi Theta Epsilon, honorary civil engineering, and Beta Phi Sigma, professional pharmacy, were also organized during the last year.

Sigma Omega Sigma, Alpha Phi Epsilon, and Iota Chi Theta are the new social sororities, all of which are local. Coranto, journalism house for the last four years, was reorganized as a national professional sorority this year.

All of the new organizations, with the exception of two fraternities and one sorority, are established in their own chapter houses.

The Greek colony experienced a regular "fruit-basket upset" during the last year. Twenty fraternities and six sororities changed their place of residence, either moving into new houses or temporary residences. The following chapters moved during 1924:

Acacia, Alpha Chi Rho, Alpha Chi Sigma, Alpha Kappa Kappa, Beta Sigma Pi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Delta Sigma Pi, Gamma Eta Gamma, Kappa Sigma, Phi Beta Delta, Phi Delta Phi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Pi Phi, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Phi Sigma, Sigma Pi, Zeta Beta Tau, and Zeta Psi.

The sororities which moved during the year are Alpha Epsilon Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Coranto, Gamma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Iota, and Sigma Omega Sigma.

Stresemann Fails to Form German Cabinet

BERLIN — President Ebert, this morning consulted again with Chancellor Marx and authorized him to make a thorough and final survey of the parliamentary situation in a last attempt to form a ministry. The summons followed the failure of Foreign Minister Stresemann, leader of the German People's party, to construct a straight non-Socialist cabinet.

W. S. G. A. PLANS INCREASE IN CO-ED ACTIVITIES IN '25

Firmer Scholarship Stand and Enforcement of Point System Promised

Next year W. S. G. A. plans to take an even firmer stand on scholarship, according to Miss Alice Corl, president. A greater effort is going to be made to get more girls in activities. The point system, under which a woman can carry only a limited number of activities, will be strictly enforced.

There will be a general mass meeting called and a complete revision of the constitution made. A definite stand will be taken to kill the idle rumor which exists at all times on the campus not only about the football situation but about many other subjects. A mother's weekend during the time of swing-out and the dance drama is being planned at which time the men as well as the women will be able to show Wisconsin as it is to their mothers.

"W. S. G. A. is going to try to bring about a better co-operation than ever with the men on the campus. If we can pull shoulder to shoulder with Union board and other men's organizations we ought

Y. M. C. A. Expects to Enlarge Use of Its Building in '25

"The widest possible use of the present Y. M. C. A. building is proposed for 1925. Common rooms will be refitted and used not only for association purposes but for university organizations. If needed, rooms now used for dormitories will be made available," C. V. Hibbard, general secretary, said.

Efforts will be made to assist the present and new freshman class during the process of adjustment to university life. The freshman Y. M. C. A. through its own officers will undertake to conduct discussion groups, to carry on a social program, to assist students who need special encouragement and to help build up class spirit and university ideals.

The student church representatives will find that the association will support them in every way during the coming year.

to be able to do wonders for Wisconsin," Miss Corl said.

"W. S. G. A. looks forward to an ever better Wisconsin as a student governed community, which in every way exemplifies the ideal of its members, a Wisconsin which is a credit to the home from which we come; because we have done our part, and a Wisconsin which is a promise to the greater world outside which we are going to help make after graduation."

Vodvil, Drama and CinemaOrpheum Bill is in Fair Contrast
With Last Program

By J. F. W.

It's a comedown from the augmented bill the first half of the week, but just the same the current offering at the Orpheum isn't at all bad.

M. E. G. Trio.

Excellent opener, Contortionist and two nuts offering "The Gollywog." Emil Solbrig is the star.

Pitzer & Dane

Once again the gay old boy who can't stop chasin' the wimmen around and the young thing who kids him along. Not so hot.

Greenwald & Anderson

"The Golden Gate Revue." Harmony singers, dancing, and some music, all fairly good.

Sampsel & Leonhard

"The Woman Hater's Club." Seasoned musical comedy stars offer a clever line, some singing, and kindred hokum, and it gets by very well.

Billy Glason

Clever and original songs well sung by a genial chap. Also interspersed with a line not half bad.

Leah.

"Maid O'Mist." It may not mystify you, but at any rate you'll have quite a time figuring it out.

Madison Picture is Hardly Remarkable,
Says Movie Critic

By Leo John

The great American home again provides the inspired scenario writer with raw material to tell the old story of the tired business man who gets tired of his faithful wife and turns to the pretty face and empty head of a younger woman, only to return repentant to his first spouse when the new wife proves unfaithful.

So there is nothing remarkable about the story. And the acting is hardly inspirational, consisting mainly of work with the hands, which are either clenched into fists or folded over the heart as the emotion depicted may require.

The photography is mediocre, and the film seems to have been tampered with, for there are great lapses in the continuity, and the timing seems poor. The clothes worn by the women indicates that the film is a relic dug out from the vaults of yesteryear.

All in all, "Does It Pay?" isn't so hot, but since it comes at a time when student patrons are out of town, it doesn't make much difference.

Theaters Offer Varied Shows
for Those Who Will Stay Here

By H. E. R.

Realizing that most of us are hardly interested in the productions that will be shown here next week, we are going to try to make this short and snappy.

The Strand is starting the week with a take-off on "The Ten Commandments," and which is said to be better. The name is—"After Six Days," and the scenario was not written by Elinor Glynn. An all-star cast carries the burden of enactment. Then Rin Tin Tin, the wonder dog, that really is a wonder, will be shown in "The Lighthouse by the Sea," a picture that had just been signed up before we called, so we have no press "dope" on it.

"Cheap Kisses," in which are shown such things as—moonlight on the beach—glistening—fig bodies—secret meetings and "cheap kisses" will start the week at the Parkway. Cullen Landis and Lilian Rich are the stars, and the preview caused nothing but favorable comment. Then "The Story Without a Name," an action picture with plenty of action, will be shown. The feature characters are portrayed by Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno. As the report goes, any lover of action will be hugely delighted with it.

The showing again of the time-old comedy that has always been good, "It Pays to Advertise," will be done at the Majestic next week. If you have never seen it, the time spent in taking it in will be worth while, and if you have seen it, it will get away just as big as it ever did.

At the "Orph" Harry Webb, his orchestra and entertainers will start the week off with a bang. The last part of the week will feature Cunningham and Bennett with their company in a musical skit of college life called "Alma Mater Mary."

"Cornered," a crook play, will start the week at the Madison. Marie Prevost and Rockliffe Fells are the leading personages in this. Then comes a western film, "Thundering Hoofs," featuring Fred Thompson, whom we are told, is "a" athlete.

But as we said before, few of us are interested anyway; so Merry Christmas, folks.

Mask and Wig

By CHATTY

Those who are going to be in Chicago during any part of the Christmas vacation will have on opportunity to see a lot of fine shows.

Probably the first thing on the program is Shaw's "Saint John." The Chicago company hasn't the New York leading lady, but we understand that there is little real difference between the two stars. After you see this play, read Mark Twain's book on the Maid of Orleans. It's altogether different and therefore interesting by contrast.

Then there's "Seventh Heaven" which is real funny comedy, and "Apple Sauce" which was rated as being even funnier comedy—in fact it is pretty difficult to get tickets for "Apple Sauce" at the box office except sometime in advance.

Of course you can see "Abie's Irish Rose" (which is comedy) a second time, if you care to. For we can't imagine any one's not having seen that play. It may have made a million or so for the authoress, but—

Mr. Hesseberg is out of town this week, we have discovered at last. But because of the fact that the Majestic was very well filled

"THE RIDIN' KID FROM POWDER RIVER" PRE-SENTED AT THE STRAND

"The Ridin' Kid from Powder River" at the Strand provides good entertainment of the Western type of picture. Hoot Gibson, in the role of cowboy hero, rides, shoots, and in general does his stuff well, and the supporting cast is good. The plot is not unusual and the usual array of western fixtures are present, including sheriff, dance hall owner, saloon, and background of desert and cactus. There is plenty of gun fighting, wild riding, and hairbreadth escapes to keep the picture moving fast and of interest throughout. The Mack Sennett comedy rates a mention.

every night that "The Servant in the House" was run there, we suspect that the player-manager will stage more serious drama with his stock company.

No. No, Pauline, we should say not. But thanks for them kind words. You and Hank must have gotten together. Do you call yourself that because it is the first name of one of America's greatest addresses? By the way, she's made another hit in New York with a play called "They know what they wanted." It's much the same type of play as her last vehicle, "Anna Christie."
