FIVE CENTS

KAHLENBERG HITS AT EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM OF DAY

Professor Talks to Y. M. C. A.
Campaign Workers; Report $1,673 Raised

Prof. Louis Kahlenberg, addressing Y. M. C. A. campaigners at a luncheon in the association building yesterday, emphasized the need which all worthy institutions feel for funds to carry on their work and leveled sharp criticism at our existing system of education.

Ellis G. Fulton '25 announced that a total of $1,673.10 had been collected so far in the campaign. The apparent distance from the $5,000 goal explained Fulton, was due in a large measure to the number of fraternities unreported, to unsolicited short course students, who arrive next week, and to the fact that campaign machinery has just begun to operate smoothly.

Six Honor Men

Honor men, those who have solicited over $50 worth of subscriptions, are Fred Ahrbecker '28, Martin Bliese '26, Robert Snyder '27, Ralph Rosenheimer '26, Edward Prien '26 and Kenneth Powers '26.

Should Stay Together

"You students are farmed out to certain classes, and the courses you take are largely determined by chance," said Professor Kahlenberg, who then elaborated upon the superiorities of the continental system, whereby students could not only choose their courses, but also their professors and instructors. Professor Kahlenberg urged the students to fight any system which forced them into specified molds.

"A university ought to be a place where teachers and students study together," he said. "Don't study with teachers who are no good. They have to be frozen out just like the poor students. It's about time we stopped farming out diplomas by the thousand in the stock pavilion."

ELY TO ADDRESS LAND GRANT COLLEGE GROUP

"Land Valuations and Our Agricultural Future," is the subject of the address to be given by Prof. R. T. Ely of the department of economics, before the convention of the American land grant colleges and experiment stations in Washington, D. C., Wednesday.

ELMAN WILL GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

Famed Violinist to Appear at Christ Presbyterian Church

Mischa Elman, famed violin artist, will appear at the Christ Presbyterian church at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Elman, an American citizen of Russian parentage, has appeared in Madison before on concert tour, and his programs have always won him the highest regard of his audiences. He has made 12 tours of the United States and a number of Europe.

Very good seats are still left, according to information received yesterday from Hook's music store, where the tickets are on sale.

The program that will be presented tonight follows:

- (a) Sonata in D major, Nardini; (b) Adagio; (c) Allegro con fuoco; (d) Larghetto; (e) Allegretto grazioso.
- (a) Fantasia Rhapsodique; (b) Allegro tempo giusto; (c) Lentotres expressif, allegro scherzo; (d) Allegretto.
- (a) Adagio, Mozart-Friedberg; (b) Minuet, Haydn-Hartman; (c) A la Valse, Victor Hercoert; (d) Nocturne, Chopin Wilhtlmj; (e) California, Arthur Noesser.
- (a) The Blue Lagoon, Winternitz; (b) The Dew is Sparkling, Rubenstein-Elman; (c) Polonaise in D major, Weinawski.

Octy Out Tomorrow; Famous Cartoonist Among Contributors

The Homecoming number of the Octopus which is to appear tomorrow morning, is featuring some of the best cartoonists of the country in its second number this fall. Sels Bostwick, cartoonist of the Chicago Tribune, has contributed "Heroes of a College Week."

Lewis Pradt '19, former law student, offers a few pointers for Saturday's game in his article "How to Watch a Football Game," illustrated with double-page spread cartoons. The cover design, a Homecoming scene in yellow, red, brown and black, was drawn by Hank Lathers '26.

Twenty-seven students, besides the regular staff, have contributed to this number.

DARROW ADDRESS TO COVER CRIME

Famous Lawyer is Harsh Critic of Penal Laws

"Crime and Punishment" will be the subject of the lecture to be given by Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, at the stock pavilion Thursday evening under the auspices of the Forensic board.

Mr. Darrow has been identified with some of the most prominent legal cases in recent years, according to William Blake '26, secretary of the Forensic board.

He was chief counsel for the anthracite miners in the anthracite coal arbitration at Scranton and counsel in the Debs strike case. He has been an attorney in many labor injunction and labor conspiracy cases on the side of organized labor.

Mr. Darrow has devoted almost his entire life to the task of lessening the severity of the law in regard to the punishment of crime. "Most of our penal laws are founded on the doctrine of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," he declares. "Punishments have never depended upon the act done, but upon the man who saw the act done and the mind possessed by the ruling power."

Among the books written by Darrow are "The Persian Pearl," "An Eye for an Eye," and "Crime, Its Causes and Treatment."

Tickets are on sale at 50 and 75 cents and may be obtained from Fergus Chandler, 432 West Mifflin street or at the Hook music store.

Y. W. C. A. DRAMATICS TRYOUTS ARE TONIGHT

The new dramatic department of the Y. W. C. A. will hold tryouts for its Christmas pageant, "An Open Hearth," at 7 o'clock tonight in the W. S. G. A. reading room. Miss Jean Hoard of the Wisconsin high school is coaching the production. According to Margaret Campbell '25, chairman of dramatics, the five principals as well as many minor characters are to be chosen.

LOVENHART LECTURES ON MEDICAL PROGRESS

"Whether new medicines and drugs should be tried first in men or in the lower animals is one of the problems of modern medicine," said Prof. A. S. Lovenhart of the Medical school in his lecture on "The Progress of Medicine in the Last Quarter Century," the first of a series of popular lectures arranged for students by the Wisconsin chapter of Phi Kappa Phi.

ORDINARY BULBS MADE RED FOR HOMECOMING

Red lights for Homecoming decorations may be obtained by taking ordinary electric light bulbs to the Madison Gas and Electric company, which will make no charge for dipping them. If lamps are taken to 100 N. Fairchild before 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening, they may be had by 8 o'clock on the following morning. The company will not be responsible for breakage.

Apple Supply Is Not Ample to Meet Great Cider Demand

"Apples and cider are the star products of the horticultural department this year, particularly cider," says R. W. Hartwell, of the department of horticulture. "We sold 150 gallons the week of Halloween and our sales are increasing so fast that we shall have to stop in two or three weeks for want of apples. We use only the fruit grown in our own orchards."

"We raise 55 varieties of apples," Mr. Hartwell continued, "even though Wisconsin isn't very well suited for them. We are always trying out new kinds, particularly those that have been successful in Canada, Minnesota and Iowa."

Mr. Hartwell explained that fall apples grow much more readily in this climate than winter apples do. Winesaps, Westfield, Jonathans and Greenings all thrive here. The Mackintosh and Northwestern Greenings are good bearers here. The Wealthy is the prettiest apple grown here, according to Mr. Hartwell.

"See this basket one of the students just packed for the fruit and flower show of the Grafters' club. Every agricultural student has to take at least one course in apples. This gives the men a great deal of practical experience, not only in raising, but also in handling fruit."

Varied Selections Will Be Feature of Music Recital

A varied musical program, which embraces piano, violin, and vocal music, will be presented by six students of the School of Music at the weekly convocation held in the auditorium of Music hall at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday. The recital is open to the public.

The vocal numbers will be given by Katherine Reid '26, Judith Dixon '27, and Viola Sachse '28.

Ruth Pierson '28, will give three violin numbers, "Romance," by Wieniawski, "Vogelassa Prophet," by Schumann Auer, and "Borcarolle," by Tchaikowsky. "Dane Rustiqua," a violin solo, by Mason, will be rendered by Margaret Keller '27. The piano selections, "Prelude No. 1," by Chopin, and "Canzonetta," by Schutt, will be the numbers Lucille Ralston '27 will play.

CITY CELEBRATES ARMISTICE TODAY

University Organizations Aid in Honoring Madison's Veterans

A fleet of airplanes from Chinook field will hover over the southeast part of Capitol park at noon today when Madison celebrates the seventh Armistice day, provided the weather is favorable. Their presence is one feature of the city's honoring of soldiers which includes a minute of silence, presentation of colors of the 32nd division, and a talk on the spirit of Armistice day by the Rev. C. Walter Smith, Baptist student pastor, who was chaplain of the second regiment of engineers during the war.

Taps will be sounded just before the Rev. Smith's talk. They will be the signal for guards bearing the colors of the 32nd division to march down the stairs of the southeast pavilion of the Capitol. After the presentation of colors and the five-minute talk, representatives of university, patriotic, and civic organizations will file past the colors and place wreaths of flowers on the ground near the flag stand.

University groups which will give floral wreaths are W. S. G. A., Scabbard and Blade, and R. O. T. C. After the placing of the wreaths, buglers will sound "To the Colors" and the guards will retire with the flag.

Collegiate League of Women Voters Initiates 30 Tonight

The Collegiate League of Women Voters, the university branch of the National League of Women Voters, will initiate 30 new members at 7:15 o'clock tonight in Lathrop parlors.

The purpose of the league is to make a study of present day politics especially in their relation to women, children, and education. Several political speakers were brought here to speak on the various presidential nominees by the organization.

Grace W. Paris '25, is president of the collegiate branch, and Mary L. Hopkins '25 is secretary.

SUFFRAGE LEADER WILL SPEAK HERE

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt,
Who Lectures Wednesday, is Highly Praised

"Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is one of America's most renowned women not only in this country but internationally," said Mrs. Margaret Hutton Abels, member of the state board of control, while reminiscing about Mrs. Catt, who is to speak at the gymnasium at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday. "For years Mrs. Catt was the president of the International Woman's Suffrage alliance, and she is the organizer of the suffrage movement in South America."

Last year a contest was held to decide by popular vote the 12 most prominent women in this country. Mrs. Catt was declared by the American people one of the most prominent. She was instrumental in getting the women's suffrage amendment passed a few years ago and has been allied with the suffrage movement for years.

Mrs. Catt was born in Ripon. She moved to Iowa while still a child and attended the Iowa State university where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi. After teaching school in Mason City, Iowa, for several years, she moved to California where she met Susan B. Anthony, suffrage leader. She became interested in the suffrage movement and accompanied Miss Anthony on several speaking tours.

"Men, Women and Politics" is the subject of the address which Mrs. Catt will deliver here. She will speak under the joint auspices of the Dane County League of Women Voters and the lecture committee of the university.

Military Fraternity Initiates 11 Actives at Sunday Dinner

Eleven active and six associate members were initiated into Company A First Regiment of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, at initiation ceremonies which ended Sunday evening with a dinner for the new and old members. Major O. L. Brunzell spoke in behalf of the cadet corps, Prof. J. H. Walton in behalf of the faculty, Hugo A. Murray '25 for the initiates and Clifford Franseen '25 for the chapter.

The associate members initiated were Prof. J. H. Walton, Capt. Walter R. McClure, Capt. Lee S. Gerow, Capt. J. E. Hull, Capt. R. K. Learnard, and Lieut. Stewart F. Yeo.

The active members initiated were Murray G. Crosby '26, Oscar Elkins '27, Horace S. Fries '25, Chester A. Gross '26, Walter S. Hahn '28, Clarence F. Martin '25, Hugo A. Murray '25, Charles E. Nelson '26, William A. Rorison '25, Robert Salsbury '26, and George M. Schlotthauer '25.

NIGHT STAFF.

The night staff of the Daily Cardinal will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the lower editorial office of the Union building.

ASK ALUMNI TO CO-OPERATE FOR DRY HOMECOMING

Committee Makes Written Appeal Against Bringing Liquor to Madison

Appeals have been made to Wisconsin alumni through organized groups to make this a dry Homecoming, according to Norton V. Smith '26 alumni chairman.

"Men's organizations at the university and out of town have been urged to obtain alumni co-operation in making this a dry Homecoming," said Smith. "The university naturally suffers from publicity such as it received last year, even though the reports were exaggerated. We want to prevent a recurrence of that sort of thing."

Write to Grads.
The alumni committee sent letters to all organized groups last spring, asking them to invite their alumni to return for Homecoming, and, in the case of men's groups, adding the plea that they urge their alumni not to bring liquor to Madison.

"We feel that the alumni will realize the need of co-operation if they are approached through their own groups," declared Smith. "Also they will feel a more personal responsibility in protecting the university from unjust blame."

Send 20,000 Letters.
This fall about 20,000 letters of invitation were sent to alumni.

Those who could not be reached directly were invited through alumni clubs, etc., in an attempt to give every alumnus a special invitation to attend Homecoming. At the same time, a second letter was sent to all men's organizations reiterating the request for aid in making a dry 1924 Homecoming.

The alumni committee, according to Smith, is

OGG CONTRASTS ELECTION PLANS

Says 70% of English People
Exercise Voting
Privilege

"The Contrast Between the National Elections in the United States and Europe" was discussed last night in a speech by Prof. Frederick A. Ogg of the political science department, which was broadcast from the university station WHA.

Prof. Ogg spoke especially of the difference between the national elections in the United States and Great Britain. There are 15,000,000 voting men and women in Great Britain and 30,000,000 in this country. However, Prof. Ogg pointed out, that only about 50 per cent of the people in this country that have the privilege of voting do so, and in Great Britain 70 per cent vote. England has almost an absolute manhood suffrage, but women suffrage is more restricted than in the United States.

The American people have to pass judgment on candidates running for a much larger number of offices than the English people do. We have many more elective offices as distinguished from appointive ones. At the national elections in England only the members of the House of Commons are elected.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDSPORT WRITERS
COMMENT LITTLE
ON IRISH GAMEPlay By Play Write-ups Feature Sunday Papers; Harris
Recognized as Star

There was a noticeable lack of meaty comment in the Sunday articles on the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game of last Saturday. Perhaps the sport writers thought that the score and a few words would suffice. They were right. Most of the accounts of the game were mere play-by-play stories.

George F. Downer, in the Sunday Sentinel, said: "Even so, the score, large as it was, scarcely indicates the victor's superiority. Wisconsin was utterly outclassed by the marvelous Notre Dame team. The Badgers were game, as Badgers have usually been, but that was all. Wisconsin's best efforts looked amateurish in comparison with the machine-like precision and superb individual play of the South Benders. There is no glossing over the fact that Wisconsin today was completely outclassed, and only the undying gameness of the lads in cardinal kept the score anywhere within the limits of reason."

"Partisan loyalty to Wisconsin was early lost to the admiration for the wonderful football machine of Notre Dame, even while it was crushing the very spark of life out of Wisconsin's gridiron hopes for 1924. The Notre Dame offense was a revelation."

Writers Mention Stars

Usually the writers make some mention of the outstanding stars of the Badger play. Harris, McAndrews and McGiveran were the only players given much credit, and it seems that McAndrews did not receive his due. Maybe they couldn't see the number "3" from the press stand—the number that figured in almost half of the tackles. All the papers played up big the 60-yard run of Crowley's, but none mentioned the fact that were it not for McAndrews, Crowley would surely have crossed the Badger goal. "Pat" was the only man on the field who could possibly have overtaken Crowley.

James Crusinberry, in the Chicago Tribune, garnished his article with an odd but pleasing style, writing it as he would a battle, and speaking of the infantry, cavalry, etc. "Again the Badgers charged. Three times they tore into those horsemen, but in three attacks they made only seven yards. Then Doyle Harmon dropped back to his 14-yard line and booted over the bar for the 3 points that tied the score. It was the big moment of the day for Wisconsin. They had tied the score against Rockne's team, and they made the most of it. Tremendous cheer rolled over the field from the west stand where the cardinal rooters were massed."

Keuchle Slips Up

Horror of horrors! In his first paragraph in the Milwaukee Journal, Oliver E. Keuchle said, "No re Dame overwhelmed Wisconsin in the Badger's homecoming game Saturday." Poor Mr. Keuchle must have been misinformed. What will he say next Saturday when he finds out that the Iiwa game is homecoming? Or won't it penetrate? "Team play did it," said Red Mich in the Wisconsin State Journal. "It wasn't so much that the 'four horsemen,' fleet of foot and loose hipped, were individually brilliant, but the fact that eleven superbly drilled, blue jerseyed football players worked together on every play for the same end, that overwhelmed Wisconsin. Marvelous coordination between line and backfield and an array of clever, tricky plays had as much to do with the further humbling of the Badger underdog as did the side-stepping, pivoting, straight-arming of Don Miller, Crowley, Layden and Stuhldreyer. If the will to win could have produced a victory the Badgers might have come closer, for they didn't seem to quit trying, but their tackling was woeful for the most part, and there was that same noticeable lack of effective blocking and interference, which showed up clearer than ever against the superb elemental work of the invaders."

Here's hoping the articles won't have the same tone next week.

CAGE MEN WORK
FOR COMING YEARStar Men on Freshman Squad;
Varsity Scrimmage Against Yearlings

While the varsity football men are chasing the pigskin around on the gridiron, the varsity and freshman cagers are tossing the ball around on the basketball court. Although the beginning of the season is far distant, several scrimmages against the varsity have been held by the first year men.

The squad of twenty-five frosh was divided up into two teams, which met the first squad on two different nights. Among the first ten men chosen were Dunn of Central high, Barr, Dew and Hotchkiss, guards; Sanders, Goff, Nelson and Wagner, forwards; and Eye, Baer and Fredberg, centers. Among these men are several noted players. Nelson, Sanders and Dunn of Central high are three mighty good men. Barr was an all-state man in both basketball and football as was Dew, the Fond du Lac star. Wagner showed up in fine style on the state championship basketball team last season, and is doing good work on the frosh squad. Hotchkiss is a man who knows the art of the

Specials to Bear
Rooters to Game
Here on Saturday

The Iowa football team, which is to play here Saturday, will arrive on a special train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad at 11:35 o'clock Friday morning. The rooter's section of specials will reach Madison Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. The rooters and the team will leave on the same train at 9:40 o'clock Saturday evening. Iowa is not the only place having specials for the Iowa-Wisconsin game Saturday. Milwaukee has engaged three specials to take care of the alumni and the football fans of that town. These trains will arrive Saturday at 12:30 o'clock. There are no return special trains scheduled for Milwaukee.

game, and is making a fine record for himself on the yearling team. All of the men are real cagers and, with a little coaching under the Meanwell system, should develop into varsity men.

Harrgett, Barwig, Spooner, Diebold, Varney, Brooks, Wackman and several others of the first string men were used against the frosh. No definite combination was selected, nor will there be until after several of the first few practice games have been played.

CROSS COUNTRY
INTRAMURAL RACE
TO BE THURSDAYClassmates to Compete Against Classmates; Insignia to Be Awarded

Classmates will compete against classmates in the inter-college cross country run this Thursday. Last week the frosh, running as a unit, completely outclassed all other competition that was offered by the upperclassmen. This week the winning frosh combination will be divided against itself, as the men will run for their respective colleges.

Many of the men who failed to break into the point column last week will profit by the experience gained and are expected to make a good showing this week. Kotz and Clark, two men who had never traversed the course until last week, will undoubtedly make a strong bid for first place. Reeves, Klevay, Paine and Johansen, members of the winning frosh combination, are expected to repeat their stellar performance of last week.

TO PREPARE MEN
FOR IOWA GAMEBadgers Had No Chance at Offense in Notre Dame
Game

Coach Jack Ryan this week has the biggest job of his career on his hands. Though no one expected a victory over Notre Dame Saturday, evidence was produced in the playing of the Badger team that there are still glaring weaknesses that need to be overcome before the Iowa game Saturday.

While the Notre Dame game did not give the Badgers a chance to show much on offense and was not a fair contest in which to judge defense, the experience must have shown Captain Harris and his teammates a great deal about football.

There will not be any more major changes in the personnel of the team, that is certain. The task now is to develop the men who have been tried. A more perfect completion of plays and more teamwork will be drilled into the men.

No serious injuries resulted from the Irish onslaught, and Steve Polaski ought to be in first class condition by next Saturday. This will strengthen one end position.

Although Iowa was defeated decisively by Illinois they have a strong and well-balanced team.

Practice last night was light, due to the rain. Signal drills probably will be the order for this afternoon, with work on the fundamentals as a preliminary program.

So It Seems

A damp day to begin reconstruction of damp spirits! Lessee, what shall we do now? The game Saturday was a hard one in which to determine Wisconsin's offensive weakness. The Badgers tried all their best plays, but Notre Dame's wonderful defense put the curse on all of them.

Wisconsin certainly displayed weaknesses. The tackling, except on the part of Harris and McAndrews, was—well, there just wasn't any. Interference—lacking. On one of McAndrew's runs there were six Notre Dame players around him, no Wisconsin runners.

It was a losing game after the first five minutes. The Badger followers, with the same spirit which has been prevalent since the send-off of the Michigan game, stuck with the team to the finish.

"What's wrong at Wisconsin?" everybody begins to ask. "Is it lack of good material, poor or inadequate coaching, or the failure of the heads of the athletic department to allow the coaches to do their work without interference?" These are some of the common questions that are asked.

But it must be remembered that the season is not yet over. There are Iowa and Chicago yet to conquer. Both teams appear strong, but a great deal can be done with the Badger machine before the Iowa game. Let's keep faith until it is more evident that methods are wrong.

"Who is the strongest, Notre Dame or Illinois?" I have been asked. Notre Dame is strongest, is my judgment. I have seen both Illinois and Notre Dame in play, and Notre Dame has a defense that stops 'em all. Illinois has only an average defense. That is proved by the fact that Michigan scored two touchdowns, even while being defeated, and Chicago ran up 21 points against the Illini. Illinois is an offensive team, little more. Notre Dame has an offense and a defense as well. The only scores made against them this year have been made from field goals. Teams have tried to push over a touchdown, failed, and then had to kick a field goal to play safe. Besides, Notre Dame has four Granges; Illinois has one.

A carload of Marquette rooters who were over from Milwaukee Saturday to see the game were indulging in witty criticisms of the Wisconsin

T. K. E. AND PSI U.
WINNERS IN GREEK
GRIDIRON CLASHESTekes Defeat Delta Sigs 10 to 0; Psi Us Win
18 to 0

The athletic field at Camp Randall saw a new brand of football Sunday when the Delta Sigma Phi eleven fell before the attack of the T. K. E. warriors, and the combined team of the Alpha Deltas and Dekes were unable to check the Psi U gridriders.

No moleskins, headgears, or cleats adorned the Greek battlers, no bands cheered the opposing teams on to nobler efforts and there was no spirit of win at any cost. The fraternity elevens, wearing any sort of old clothes and playing before their own small group of rooters, played the game for the pure love of the sport. There was a real spirit of friendliness between opponents that is often lacking on the gridiron.

The Delta Sigma Phi-Teke game was a gruelling one from start to finish with no spectacular plays standing out to mark the fracas. Stocum, assistant frosh coach, was largely instrumental for the 10-0 victory over the Delta Sigs. He was by far the best man on the field on account of his training all year in his work with the freshmen. Owens was the outstanding man for the losers and his work prevented the Tekes from piling up a larger score.

The Psi U.-Alpha Delta-Deke game was more thrilling. The Psi U's clearly outclassed their opponents and several pretty runs were made that enabled the Psi U outfit to run up three touchdowns on the combined team of their enemies. No goals were kicked after the touchdowns because behind one goal post there was a large pool of water that prevented the team from kicking goal, while a high fence at the other end prohibited any goal kicks. That accounts for the score being 18-0 in favor of Psi U.

team when word came over the wire that Marquette had finished on the short end of a 34-7 score with Boston College. After allowing the sad news a brief time to penetrate, one of the visitors said, "Gee, we ain't so much better than Wisconsin."

The Chicago Hockey association entertained the All-American team and the Madison Hockey club at the Women's Athletic club Saturday night.

Another stiff game is scheduled for the team at the alumni hockey meet Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Camp Randall, when they face the Winnetka Hockey club. Four of the members of the opposing team are on the All-Americans.

RUN AT MICHIGANPiper, Kubly, Perry Ran Well
Against Maroons; Prepare
For Conference

Coach Meade Burke, cross country mentor, is now busily driving his men in order to condition them for the conference meet to be held at Michigan November 22. Coach Burke feels very well satisfied after having defeated Chicago so decisively last Saturday and believes that his hill and dalers have a very excellent chance of coping the classic at Ann Arbor.

Course Record Broken.

The remarkable showing of Captain Piper, Kubly, and Perry in last Saturday's race has convinced Burke that the Badgers are strong. These three men all broke the former course record, finishing at the heels of the speedy Bouke, the Maroon captain.

Burke Pleased.
"I feel that we have as well a balanced team as there is in the conference and a good chance to win because of this balance," declared Burke last night, "with these three men, Petaja, our star who was out last Saturday, and Bergstresser, a very capable and consistent runner, we should present a team as powerful as any in the Big Ten."

At Chicago football tickets are sold to students in a coupon book which includes tickets for all fall events. The student takes his "C" book to each game. There are no student reserve seats and each student, admitted on his "C" book in which is pasted his picture, takes his pick of the seats which are left. Since a special section is reserved for the holders of the "C" book, there is room for all and it is a case of "first come, first served." For out of town games, tickets are secured by mail order.

SIX YEARS AGO—AND NOW

Bells ringing, whistles tooting, scraps of paper falling dizzily from skyscrapers; mobs parading the streets, jamming the corners, blocking traffic; girls throwing their arms around uniformed necks and kissing strange lips. Hour after hour up and down the streets. Chaos, hysteria, mad joy.

A soldier just home from overseas trying to make his way through the crowd to—where? He did not know. But anywhere—it did not matter—just so it was quiet there, just so he could get out of the jangle. His head swimming, his heart aching, his wounded shoulder smarting as though it had been cut by a whip. And nowhere to go, no one even to let him go there.

Six years ago. That was Armistice day.

And as one looks back upon that day and, more important still, upon the six years which have taken their passage since then, one can not help thinking along the lines of Alfred Noyes' "A Victory Ball":

The cymbals crash, and the dancers walk,
With long silk stockings and arms of chalk,
Butterfly skirts, and white breasts bare,
And shadows of dead men watching 'em there.

Shadows of dead men stand by the wall,
Watching the fun of the Victory Ball.
They do not reproach, because they know,
If they're forgotten, it's better so.

Under the dancing feet are the graves.
Dazzle and motley, in long bright waves,
Brushed by the palm-fronds, grapple and whirl,
Ox-eyed matron and slim white girl.

See, there is one child fresh from school,
Learning the ropes as the old hands rule.
God, how that dead boy gapes and grins
As the tom-toms bang and the shimmy begins.

"What did you think we should find," said a shade,
"When the last shot echoed and peace was made?"
"Christ," laughed the fleshless jaws of his friend,
"I thought they'd be praying for worlds to mend."

"Pish," said a statesman standing near,
"I'm glad they can busy their thoughts elsewhere!
We mustn't reproach 'em. They're young, you see."
"Ah," said the dead men, "so were we!"

Victory! Victory! On with the dance!
Back to the jungle the new beasts prance!
God, how the dead men grin by the wall,
Watching the fun of the Victory Ball.

HAWKER, ADIEU

All day Saturday Madison was infested with an obnoxious pest. He came in droves, as if called up by Moses as a curse issued forth against a new Egypt. He brought with him his wares, lots of them, and tried his best to leave them here, swarming up and down the streets and even going so far as to enter the stadium at Camp Randall.

He was the hawker. He came from outside the city and was allowed to ply his trade for a small fee. Madison authorities should never have allowed him inside the city. For he took away the trade of local merchants and made himself a general nuisance. But he will not come again. For city authorities say now that they do not want him.

Perhaps too there is another reason why he will not come again. And that is that he did a very poor business and was forced to return home with almost as many wares as he brought.

The hawker was bad enough on the streets, but why the athletic department ever admitted him to the stadium is a question the answer to which it is difficult to discover.

Anyway, we say our adieu to the hawker. If rooters want to show their colors, they will be able to do so by purchasing them at local stores.

WHERE MEN ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN THINGS

In this day of emphasis on the material, the mechanical, the practical, "Where Men Are More Important Than Things" is an excellent slogan, and an organization which attempts to live up to such a motto justifies its existence on a college campus.

The university Y. M. C. A. has a great deal of competition in the rather complex life and interests of this university, but it serves and serves well the student body in many ways. Did you know that the $450 expended by the Y. M. C. A. was the means of turning in more than $50,000 into the hands of Wisconsin students? The other phases of its work are equally effective. It is now enlarging the scope of its service in an effort to as large an extent as its facilities will permit serve the place of the Memorial Union building until that can be built. University life is better because the Y. M. C. A. is here, and it is deserving of more general support and cooperation than it has been receiving.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT

"Keep to the right" is a practical principle which, if better observed in these parts, would eliminate much confusion, irritation, and loss of time. While hurrying to a class through the crowded corridors of Bascom hall, it is annoying to run into another person hurrying in the opposite direction along the same side of the hall. Those whom someone has ironically called the "fair" sex are the most conspicuous violators of this principle. Be it also said that they have several other exceedingly irritating habits which do not tend toward efficient traffic movement. One of these is a pronounced inclination to slip in waiting lines toward the head instead of observing the rule of priority of arrival. Another is that of forming four abreast and marching up the sidewalk sweeping all before them.

THE VISITOR GETS TAGGED

Among the many other drains on the purse of the visiting football fans Saturday was the tag day of the local volunteers of America. They were raising funds to carry on their local charities.

Nobody can deny that it was a good business stroke to have a tag day at such a time. Plenty of funds were raised undoubtedly, but why, we ask, should the outsider be forced to help Madison charities when he has enough charity duties in the place where he lives.

Such a practice cannot help but bring resentment if not outright indignation to the visitors. They are justifiably piqued.

FOR THEY'RE HANGING MEN AND WOMEN FOR THE WEARING OF THE GREEN.

Mr. Rockne, who has had some connection with the Notre Dame school, says that one of his boys that misbehaved is going to have to stand in a corner for a week. He says he doesn't know where the little dickens picked up that stunt, and the only abili is that he was DUMB. The band has a couple of MUTES but they don't make faces like that. Notre Dame probably has that exercise in their Daily Dozen or something.

HULL'S TRIP TO MENDOTA:—and in the next ward we have 147 University students who failed on the State Journal Cross-word Puzzle.

ASWOLD—Saw you rubbering around at Sousa's concert the other night. Hot band, huh!

OJAX—You bet. Pretty snappy.

HALF SHOT.

The first Sight of you thrilled me. Your Steely Coldness, your Slender beauty Fired me with a new sensation and I Aimed to master you. Then the day when we walked out near the Ski-Jump, when I Saressed you lovingly and Pressed you to me, I took a chance, but my first effort was wild, as it is said they always are, and then after a brief struggle, another try,—a bulls eye. Hurray for the Rifle club.

"The Acacias have a beautiful house, haven't they?"
"Well they ought to have. They're all MASONS." (Which may be a reason that the Dekes should have bought Hausmann's instead of the place they are in now).

IT MUST BE AN AWFUL let-down for these Freshmen this year, who have come, all expectancy, to see the wild parties (and Norma Talmadge hasn't been here in years, and not a house has lost its privileges so far), the Great Strat Corbett (no disrespect to the departed), galoshes, and Fuss Thompson, only to have seen nothing but auto-wrecks, the Chicago rush, Boscoe, and John Cassoday. It must be awful.

TO A CO-ED.

The cold wind lingered in the grass,
The cold moon shivered in the skies,

Observatory stood alone
Where last I looked deep in your eyes.

The parting had been very sad
And I had guessed the reason,
My rival had a new FUR COAT,
And mine was out of season.

It does sort of lift the embargo on the old language when you and another fellow walk home with your girls, and just before 10:30 some snake scrapes his balloon tires out in front and stalks in a la Raccoon.

One of the leading clubs had burst forth in favor of delayed rushing. They have misjudged several boys cruelly. But really, how can one tell in September what kind of a coat a man will wear in December?

YEA, BOYS!!

ARE THESE FEW WORDS ENOUGH? The D. G. pledges are having to study in the Stacks at the library and walk home alone!!

FOR THIS WE HAVE THEM.
ME (sigh)—I was deeply stirred tonight.

ROOMIE—You talk like a cup of hot coffee. You've been spooning again!

Dear Editor—As I was walking down the street the other night, I happened to glance in a window. The light was on and after a while a man whom I knew took a bottle from another man and gave him two dollars. I never was so embarrassed.
MARGIE.
Dear Margie—The man was charging too much for the milk. Send me in the address of this terrible place and I will tell the Dean.

GET US STRAIGHT! The only connection THE NIGHTHAWKS have with Iowa is a right to the jaw. We're all for the execution of these other Hawks. A large amount of extra time is being spent this week on the perfecting of some very difficult and interesting formations and stunts which the band will perform next Saturday, according to Major Morphy.

Director Morphy has conferred with the Iowa university band association, and plans are under way for presenting a combined band entertainment between halves. It is expected that Iowa will bring a band of 75 men.

Its handsome black-tipped lacquer-red barrel makes this a hard pen to lose.

Vodvil, Drama and CinemaHere's Harold in
"Hot Water" From
Start to FinishFeaturing Harold Lloyd,
Presented at the Strand,
By I. N.

A laugh-a-minute comedy of newlyweds and meddling relatives is Harold Lloyd's latest contribution to the screen. Funnier than "Girl Shy" and almost as full of startling and precarious situations as "Safety Last," in "Hot Water" Harold Lloyd is a scream. There is little that is new in the comedy, but everything happens so unexpectedly and suddenly that things get hopelessly involved. And Lloyd's genius changes the whole with a sparkling originality unequalled by any other cinema comedian today.

Poor Harold's troubles begin when he falls for a pair of soft eyes and acquires a mother-in-law. And what a mother-in-law! She walks in her sleep and talks the rest of the time. Upon the advice of a neighbor, our hero sets out to subdue the arch enemy—and thereby hangs the tale. From that moment on Harold is doomed to be "in hot water" with everyone from his relatives to traffic cops.

Not a dull moment enters the play. It rides along with top-speed rollicking humor and ends with a bang—on poor Harold's head. Jobyna Ralston plays the part of the sweet young wife. She looks a little more efficient but just as sweet as she did in "Girl Shy" and "Why Worry."

Majestic Thriller is Dangerous to
Those of Weak Heart

"The Seventh Guest,"

By TED.

If you have a weak heart, stay away from the Majestic this week. On the other hand, if you like slow death from terror, or if you enjoy carrying out those who faint, or if you just naturally like mystery plays, the "Seventh Guest" gives you ample opportunity to have a good time. As a play, it is better than "The Last Warning." Its plot holds more tightly together; its mysteries, of which there are several two major and several minor ones, are cleared up and not left hanging loose. There are plenty of thrills scattered here and there throughout the whole play, and at least six screams, regular ones. The plot centers around a murder which happened some years ago, and culminates in another right before your eyes. But we'll bet you don't accuse the right person even then.

Special mention as to acting goes to Frank Gallagher as the host, and to Mr. Hesselberg and Miss Myra McKinney as two of the guests. Honorable mention should also go to Ed Russell, who took the smaller part of the officer in the third act. Mr. Oscar O'Shea was to have played the part, but was taken suddenly ill and Mr. Russell stepped in on short notice. Mr. O'Shea will resume the part later in the week, if he is able. The "comic relief" is furnished by Ralph Bellamy and Madlyn Eswood.

If you are anything like us about half of your entertainment at such a play comes from the audience, especially in seeing people straighten up and look brave between acts, but shrink down into their seats again as the house darkens. The girl behind us had two scratches on her arm from her roommate's finger nails by the end of the first act. However, speaking of the play alone, we'd say it was worth a grade of 92.

Misha Elman Says
He Likes to Play to Audiences HereMischa Elman, world famous violinist who is to play this evening at Christ Presbyterian church, came to Madison this morning.

Militaristic in stature and extremely expressive in voice and action, Elman presented a distinguished appearance as he came into the Lorraine hotel with his accompanist, Joseph Bohnaime.

"I like to play to Madison audiences," he said in an interview, "because the people are so enthusiastic."

"Are my motions when playing 'stage business' to help out?" He laughed hilariously and was evidently much amused.

"No, no, I do not know whether I move or not. Some of my friends have spoken of it to me at various times, so I suppose I do move and sway and all the rest; but any movements of the sort must be unconscious for I myself know nothing of them."

"What do I understand by violin mastery?"

"Well, it seems to me that the artist who can present anything he plays as a distinct picture in every detail framing the composer's idea with absolute truth of color and proportion, he is the artist who deserves to be called a master."

Elman is not only a master violinist but is an accomplished pianist and sings well.

Excellency Jinx
Hits Orpheum For
Anniversary Week

By H. J. B.

A jinx of excellency has come over the Orpheum for its Thirteenth Anniversary Week. Each act is splendid entertainment, and several are of the exceptional brand. The snap of the program is great. Never once in the whole presentation is the audience conscious of a lull in action—not even between acts.

A pleasant musical innovation. Aristocratic in costume and setting. Operatic excerpts in our native tongue (thank you).

Gordon-Knowlton.

More "jackassical" than classical. So silly. So senseless. The audience claps for more.

"The Rest Cure."

Comedy in a playlet that depicts a bedlam scene rather than a quiet hospital rest cure. More noise than the Fourth of July.

Movie Snapshot

"The Silent Command,"
At the Madison.

This story of the navy is a treat when compared with the worn-out plot schedule. A young captain, devoted husband, and father of two precious curlyheads is forced through his official connection with the U. S. navy to do despicable things, leading even to court martial—all for his flag. He is a big enough man to see the thing through, and his re-instatement is the more effective for his sacrifices.

"The Arab,"

At the Parkway,

Featuring Ramon Navarro.

The Sheik in a sheik-less picture. There is plenty of pathos in the struggle of Christianity vs. Paganism but the audience expects more heart throbs, judging from Navarro's past performances. J. Warren Kerrigan in person daws the curious as may be expected. Real novelty in this feature.
