CLASS GATHERINGS GALORE

THE SENIORS AGAIN TALK CAP AND GOWN.

COCHEMS WILL PRESIDE OVER THE SOPHOMORES.

Senior Laws Elect Bunn for President.

In accordance with the call published in last evening's Cardinal the seniors held their class meeting at 10 a. m. today. Though not over half the class turned out the meeting was an enthusiastic one. All questions pertaining to the position and duties of seniors as students was discussed. After the election of officers the question of cap and gown was brought before the meeting. For a time the debate was lively, and it seemed as if these senior regiments were to be a minus quantity, but after considering the position which sister colleges have taken on the question it was voted that the senior class of the University of Wisconsin also adopt a cap and gown. A committee was appointed to look up styles and prices and report at the next meeting.

Next the question of class cane was raised and it was voted unanimously that a class cane be adopted somewhat smaller and more artistic than the club adopted when the class were sophomores, and that at the next meeting a committee present samples from which to choose.

After discussing several minor questions the meeting adjourned to a time to be determined by the president. All seniors should be present as important questions are to be decided.

The senior law class held a large and enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: President, J. M. Bunn; vice president, C. D. Cleveland; secretary, Sawyer; treasurer, G. W. Bunge; chief justice, G. W. Kroncke; associate justices, Robt. Christianson and S. M. Field. Some minor business was transacted by the meeting.

The first meeting of the sophomore class was held yesterday afternoon at University hall. The attendance was not as large as on previous occasions but in spite of this the meeting was very enthusiastic. The principal business on hand was the election of officers for the fall term. A number of nominations were made for the presidency but at the close of the second ballot Henry F. Cochems of Sturgeon Bay received a majority and was declared elected. Mr. Cochems was escorted to the chair and after thanking the class in a brief speech proceeded to the election of the other officers. The following gentlemen were then unanimously elected to the respective offices: Vice president, E. A. Evans; secretary, H. H. Liebenberg; treasurer, J. S. Gilbertson. Miss Nash was decided upon as historian for the coming year.

An athletic committee for the supervision of general sophomore athletics was next appointed by the chair. The members are Messrs. Case, Murat and Graham. The class then voted the adoption of resolutions of respect and condolence in behalf of Mr. Simcock. There being no further business the class yell was given and the meeting adjourned.

LIBRARY TALK.

During the next few weeks the university librarian will give a series of talks upon the library and methods in library work. These talks will be elementary in character and especially designed to aid new students in an intelligent use of the book collections at Madison.

The first talk will be given three times, viz., at 7 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Sept 24, 26 and 28, in the university library. Freshmen in the classical and scientific courses will preferably attend the Monday evening lecture; those in English and civic-historical courses, the Wednesday evening lecture, and those in the engineering courses the Friday evening lecture.

The first talk will treat of the new card catalogue and classification system of the university library.

The library will be closed to general readers on the evenings above mentioned from 7 to 8 p. m. On those days reserved books may be drawn at 6 p. m., to be returned on the following mornings at the opening of the library.

GYMNASIUM NOTES.

Class attendance at the physical culture classes will be strictly marked after Monday. Therefore it is necessary that every member of the freshman and sophomore classes secure their class cards before then.

The upper classmen are doing a good deal of work in physical culture. Although no classes have been formed, Mr. Everett is giving instruction to many. Classes will be formed among these some time in the near future.

It is probable that the sophomore physical culture class hour will be changed from 4-5 o'clock Tuesdays and Thursdays to 5-6 on the same days. If the change is made notices will be posted.

NEW INSTRUCTOR IN CHEMISTRY

A. P. Saunders, Ph. D., was born at London, Canada. He afterwards moved to Ottawa, where his father holds the position of director of the experimental farms of Canada. He was educated at the university of Toronto, graduating in 1890. He then went to Johns Hopkins where he held a fellowship for one year. He received his degree of Ph. D. last spring, doing the work for the degree under the direction of Prof. Remsen.

All except three of Princeton's eleven will return to college this fall. These are Blake, full-back; Balliet, center, who has gone into business, and King, quarter-back, who will return to coach. All the men who were at the summer quarters returned to Princeton and the first practice was held on the 'Varsity grounds on Monday.

DEBATERS ARE HARD AT WORK

SOCIETIES REPORT GOOD MEETINGS LAST NIGHT.

PRESIDENT LEES INAUGURATED IN COLUMBIAN.

Leibenberg Goes on Philomathia's Semi-Public.

The Columbian law society organized on Columbian day, 1892, though young in years, has materialized into one of the leading literary societies of the university. It is due to the excellent material, society spirit and membership which has succeeded in placing this society among the first of its kind. Last evening the many visitors listened with attentiveness to President Lee's eloquent address and to the question, "Is a system of cabinet government preferable to the system of government of the United States as it is at the present time?" The question was most exhaustively treated and interestingly discussed on the affirmative by Messrs. Aarons, Shinnok, Lees and Fontaine; on the negative by Messrs. Nohl, Hammond, Constance and Woolsey. The question was unanimously decided in favor of affirmative. The volunteer program was responded to by Messrs. Kelly, Ellison and Orth. The society entering into secret session, the impromptu debate was dispensed with. Visitor are always cordially invited to attend the meetings of the Columbian society in the West Moot court room, law building.

A good sized audience was present at Philomathia hall last evening and listened to an excellent program. The debating was spirited throughout and showed good preparation. The first debate on the question, "Would it be expedient to subsidize our merchant marine?" was won by the negative led by Cassels in spite of the able debate put forward by Ball. The second debate was on the question, "Are labor organizations beneficial to society?" It was led on the affirmative by Schmidt and on the negative by Norton. The jury decided in favor of the affirmative. Mr. Liebenberg, '97, was unanimously elected to fill the vacant place on the semi-public debate. A number of '98 men were initiated.

A large and enthusiastic audience was present at Hesperia last evening and listened to an exceedingly good program. In the first debate, "Resolved, that the A. R. U. was justified in calling out the members of the A. R. U. to support the Pullman strikers," was won by Amazeen, who championed the affirmative over Evans, on the negative. The second debate, "Resolved, that national prohibition is a true solution of the liquor problem," was led on the affirmative by Simons; on the negative by Kittell. The jury decided in favor of the negative.

Last night Athena held its second meeting this term. A large number of old members were present and a good number of freshmen. After the inauguration of officers the usual program was carried out. The affirmative of the first debate, Resolved that the house of lords should be abolished, was led by Mr. Leecher, the negative by Mr. Miller. The decision was for the affirmative. The second debate, Resolved that raw material should be placed on the free list, was animated, each was prepared and spoke his convictions. The decision was unanimous for the negative. A number of names were presented for membership and it appears that there will be no lack of new men.

JOHN GREIG INJURED.

Yesterday John Greig, '98, was badly hurt while playing ball on camp Randall. A fly was knocked into left field which Greig and Karel, '96, ran for. In the collision Greig was knocked down and remained senseless till late last night. It is learned this morning that he is better, but will not be able to play ball this afternoon in the game between sophomores and freshmen.

THOSE VERDANT FRESHIES.

The '98 fellows who went over to President Adams' residence to recite in Algebra, and the '98 girl who was overheard to exclaim, "I wish my ma was here," have not been heard from since.

Instructor in Mathematics—What is quantity?

Freshman—I must say I have forgotten all I ever knew about quantity.

PRESIDENT ADAMS TALKS.

Before commencing their gymnasium drill Thursday the sophomores were favored with an address by President Adams. He spoke at some length on the feeling which exists between the freshmen and sophomore classes and expressed the wish that no further unruly demonstrations might occur. The president was heartily applauded at the close of the address.

—Heffelfinger of Yale will coach the line men at Lehigh this fall.

—About 40 candidates for the Harvard eleven reported for practice at the college athletic field on Monday.

—Miss Bessie Mills, '95, entertained the Delta Gamma sorority at her home on Monona avenue, last evening.

—Walter McEachern, ex-'95, of West Superior, is spending a few days with P. A. eBrtrand, '95, at the Delta Upsilon lodge. He is on his way to Chicago, where he will enter Rush Medical college.

—Carter, the Yale champion pitcher, has kept himself in good condition. He will pitch for Yale next year, which will be his last in college and he will then take up the study of law. He will not join the national league, although he has had some excellent offers.

—The unfavorable weather prevented many of the juniors from attending the class meeting which was called for this morning and it was therefore decided to postpone the meeting until Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The election of officers and other business of importance will be transacted.

The oft recurring question of library facilities has been forcibly brought to the front again by the large increase in attendance this fall. At present during the daytime it is almost impossible to find a vacant seat anywhere in the room. Why could not some arrangements be made whereby seats could be placed in the hall proper? This might prove successful at least during the warm weather. The legislature which meets next January will probably make an appropriation for a library building capable of containing both the University and Historical society's libraries. It is understood that special stress will be laid on the need of such an appropriation and that it will head the list of the university's needs.

We publish in tonight's Cardinal a communication in regard to the charges for the use of the natatorium. We agree with the writer to his statements that the charge is unjust and have heard many students express themselves in a like manner. The charges for the bowling alleys and for swimming both come under different heads. We think the charge for use of the former is all right. It is not at all a necessity while the natatorium most certainly is.

A little agitation on the part of the students might bring about a change in what seems to us, unable as we are to see any good reason for it, most unfair. We hope that we can soon give the reasons of the authorities for exacting such a fee.

The investigation of Dr. Ely suggests the question as to whether it would not be better to make the office of state superintendent of public instruction an appointive one rather than an elective one as it is at present. If there is any one thing in this country which should be from top to bottom wholly non-partisan and without the slightest air of political bossism about it, it is our public school system. And why then should the position of chief of this great sphere of our life be in the gift of any political party? A short time ago this same question arose in New York and the "Outlook" in an able editorial defended the plan of striking the office of state superintendent from the list of state elective offices. The office is too important a one to allow the slightest chance of a narrow, biased man from attempting to fill it. But as it stands now there are many chances of this thing occurring and all of us have seen within the past month what may result from such a blunder. If some method of making it an appointive office could be worked out the whole tone of the office would be at once raised and the possibility of a resurgence of the recent disgraceful farce precluded.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of the Cardinal:—In the regulations for the use of the gymnasium, published recently, there is one in regard to the charges for use of the natatorium that seems to me to be unfair to the students. The supposition is that when the gymnasium fee is paid, a person is to be given the free use of the building with all its advantages. The use of the swimming tank was generally looked upon as one of the greatest of the advantages offered and now it is proposed to make an extra charge of ten cents a bath for its use. This scheme is most decidedly wrong and something should be done by the students to have it changed. A petition might be of some use and if that should fail then we have recourse to the "boycott." It is an important "social" question and deserves the attention of all of an economical turn of mind.

It is perfectly right to exact such a fee from users who have not paid their regular gymnasium fee but to exact the same in addition to the regular fees is outrageous. To a man taking regular work of two or three hours a week in the gymnasium it would be quite a common thing to take a plunge after his exercise. Three plunges a week would bring the cost up to about twelve dollars a year or equal to the regular university fees. We claim this exaction to be most unjust and call on the authorities to defend their position.

FALL FIELD DAY.

The new arrangement for Fall Field Day is not greeted with the approval of as many as it might be. Although it would be an excellent plan to have a field day for all the classes, it seems as if it was necessary to have a freshmen and sophomore contest to draw out the new material of which we know nothing as yet. It will be almost impossible to do this if at the only meet that is given all the students of the university are eligible, for no freshmen, even though he is a fair athlete will enter into a contest against an upper class man who has an established record. And who can blame him for it? He has had little time to practice and probably in many cases little chance before coming here to see how he compares with other material. And further, there is more satisfaction for a freshman in beating a sophomore than a junior, simply because of the class enmity.

Mr. Everett says that very few of the freshmen are entering the contest and states the above objection as the cause of it. He is training the men now, and has a good chance to observe the matter. If we want a fall meet to call out the new material why not have one that will do the work and not keep them from it? If the arrangements are to be changed it ought to be done right away so as to give the freshman a chance to train.

LECTURE ON THE ENGLISH DRAMA.

Prof. Hubbard stated that the course of lectures would deal with the English drama down to the Elizabethan period. Yesterday's lecture was on the Miracle and Mystery plays. However, it did not deal entirely with the English drama. The origin of the drama was in the religious worship. The central part of the religious observance was the mass. The mass had the epic element in the narrative and the lyric element in the singing. There was also the element of dialogue in the singing. The mass was addressed to the senses and particularly the eye. So it could easily grow into the drama and spectacular plays. The language of the church was Latin and so could not be understood by the common people. The first attempt to represent the mass to the people was the building of a sepulcher and the representation of the resurrection. The dialogue was introduced by the priests singing the parts of the hymn separately. The language was at first lacking but it soon came to be represented in the language of the people. In some of them the Latin narrative was repeated in German. The representation of the crucifixion followed that of the resurrection and next the Christmas play was introduced. Then the play at Christmas was joined with the representation of the Adoration of the Magi. These were soon added to by other scenes in the early life of Christ. It was also extended in the other direction with events concerning the prophecy of the coming of Christ. The place of representation soon changed to the name of the church and then, as the audience became too large, to the church yard.

Plays representing deeds in the life of the saints next arose and these were usually representations of some miracle in his life. These plays were separated from the church at a very early date. As each guild had its patron saint, the production of the life of its own saint was undertaken by them. Thus the distinction between mysteries and miracles began. The mysteries were representations of gospel events only, while the miracles showed any event in the history of the church or in the lives of its saints. In England, however, there was no distinction between the two. As the plays ceased to be under the control of the church they became more popular in their character. The characters became conventional. This caused irreverence and a part of the clergy began to oppose them. A great impulse was given to the plays by the institution of the feast of Corpus Christi in 1264. There was a procession of the guilds in this feast and in the 15th century guilds of Corpus Christi were formed.

Forms of mystery plays were introduced. These were at first pantomime but later spoken drama took the place of the mute plays. The performance of these plays by the guild flourished in the 14th and 15th centuries in many of the towns of England. The expense of these plays was very large and the expense accounts of these guilds are very interesting. The plays were assigned to the different guilds with regard to their connection with the trade of the guild. Interludes referring to the local guilds were soon introduced.

TOLMAN'S CHANGE CAUSES REGRET.

The announcement of the change of his religious belief by the Rev. Herbert Cushing Tolman, Ph. D., was heard with astonishment and regret by his Congregational friends, although it has been known for months to those high in authority in the Episcopal church. According to the dignitaries of the Episcopal church the Rev. Mr. Tolman experienced the change of heart while at the University of Wisconsin some eighteen months ago. He had been dissatisfied with Congregationalism for some time previous, but at that time he met Bishop Nicholson during one of his visits to Madison. The meeting was at the request of Prof. Tolman, at that time assistant professor of Sanscrit at the university. He talked about his religious convictions to the bishop, giving him to understand that he was dissatisfied with Congregationalism and that he wanted to embrace a faith which had an historical foundation. The bishop was pleased, and, after several talks on the subject, Prof. Tolman concluded to join the Anglican church. He was instructed by Bishop Nicholson, and while in the east last summer was confirmed an Episcopalian by the bishop of Vermont at Hanover, Mass. The Rev. Mr. Tolman is from old Puritan stock. His father was a Congregational minister at Hanover, Mass. He is about 33 years of age and has the reputation of being one of the most learned men in this country in the dead languages. He left the University of Wisconsin to accept the position of Sanscrit at the University of North Carolina. This year he is Professor of Greek at the Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn. He is a graduate of Yale and also of a German university, has spent some time in Oriental countries, and has made several important translations of Syriac inscriptions. He is a deeply religious man and when he changed his faith desired to enter the ministry of the Episcopal church. He is now studying for that station and will be ordained in about a year. He will not do any parish work, but will continue in his scholastic work, officiating and preaching Sundays.—Chicago Tribune.

LITERARY NOTE.

"The Reform of our State Governments" is the subject of a recent monograph by Gamaliel Bradford, Esq., published by the American Academy of Political and Social Science. In view of the present sitting of the New York Constitutional Convention at Albany, Mr. Godkin takes the New York Constitution as the basis for his discussion and in pointing out the places where it should be changed, shows at the same time the weak points in all of our state governments. The chief point which he dwells on is the need of very largely limiting the powers of the legislature and the giving over into the hands of the executive a large share in the guidance and conduct of legislation.

FEATURES OF THE ANCIENT CLASSICAL COURSE.

The work in the ancient classical course has opened very auspiciously. The freshman class is much larger than in previous years and the elective courses in Greek are proving exceedingly popular. Two new electives are offered during the coming year, Sophocles with Prof. Smith and Plato with Prof. Kerr. In the near future Prof. Smith intends to offer a class in sight reading for students who have completed the freshman work in Greek. The text will undoubtedly be some play of Euripides. Such a course will be a great aid to students in acquiring an extensive vocabulary and a thorough reading knowledge of the Greek language.

A few printed copies of the Class Pageant as acted by the senior class last spring, may be obtained of W. W. Allen, 228 Langdon street, for twenty cents each.
