BASEBALL NINE OPENS SEASON ON WEDNESDAY

Meets Northwestern College Tomorrow at Camp Randall

With the first preliminary baseball game of the season scheduled against Northwestern college of Watertown, at Camp Randall, Wednesday afternoon, Coach Guy S. Lowman devoted the practice held yesterday to a stiff batting and fielding drill.

In the first game of the year between two picked teams, the pitching staff displayed excellent form, and Williams showed that he is ready for regular mound work. Coach Lowman has not decided upon the lineup that will start the Northwestern contest, but if the Badgers obtain an early lead numerous shifts will be made and the entire squad will get a chance against the collegians.

Prospects for a winning baseball nine look fairly bright for the coming season. The small squad of hurlers which will bear the brunt of the pitching work for Wisconsin rates with the best in the conference, and competition for both infield and outfield positions will develop a strong inner and outer defense. The Badgers are handicapped by a short training season which may work to their disadvantage under the strain of a heavy Big Ten schedule.

Of the conference teams which have already gone into action, Illinois and Michigan seem to be the most potent contenders for the title. Illinois recently returned from its southern training trip in which the team won four out of six games. Michigan has been weakened by the loss of Captain "Slicker" Parks, who was ruled ineligible because he played professional baseball on the coast last summer. The Wolverines also are in danger of losing Coach Derrill Pratt, former major league player, who has asked that he be released from his contract so that he may rejoin the Boston Red Sox. The athletic board is acting on Pratt's demand, but no decision has been reached.

FROST AND MAIER IN RUN FOR UNION BOARD POSITIONS

Two new candidates for the sophomore positions on the Union board have appeared in the field. Karl Maier '23 and Morton C. Frost '23 have announced their candidacies.

Frost was on the freshman football squad and the golf team. He was treasurer of the freshman class and is now serving on the utilities committee of the University Exposition. He is a member of Skull and Crescent and of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Maier was on the staff of The Daily Cardinal last year and is on the publicity committee of the Exposition. He is a member of Skull and Crescent and of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Speaks at Exposition Convocation

FRANCES ELLEN TUCKER
—Courtesy De Longe

"What You Can Do," will be the subject of Frances Ellen Tucker's speech at the all-Wisconsin convocation, which is to be a pep meeting for the Exposition, on Thursday, April 7, at 4:30.

She will take up the students' side of the Exposition, telling what will be their special work in supporting it. A particular way of helping will be by advertising the Exposition when they go home for vacation, and bringing their parents back with them. Miss Tucker will explain this plan fully. She will also stress the importance of interesting high school students.

Miss Tucker is vice-president of Mortar board, member of Pi Epsilon Delta, Alpha Chi Omega, Phi Kappa Phi, Keystone, Crucible, and Twelfth Night. Among her other activities during college are: Social chairman Green Button and Yellow Tassel; vaudeville 2, 3; University circus 3; Dance Drama 1, 2, 3; dancing trips 3; joint production 3; Junior Prom committee; speaker at all-university convocation 3; lead in "Gammer Gorton's Needle" 2; Twelfth Night production manager 3.

COPY ASKED FOR APRIL OCTOPUS

Material for the next number of the Octopus is now in demand. It must all be in by April 9 and can be mailed to the editor at the Union building, or put in one of the boxes about the campus.

Good jokes, short poetry or limericks, sketches of about 150 words, and pointed paragraphs are all welcome this month, as long as they are original and clever.

"Y" HAS MANY ODD JOBS FOR STUDENTS

A large number of calls for students to do odd jobs have been received by the employment department of the University Y. M. C. A. The work includes garden spading, window washing, porch cleaning, painting, and other odd jobs. There are also several opportunities to work during vacation.

PROPRIETY

No Chance for One-way Crowd to Go Wrong at Expo

"You can't go wrong at the Exposition. We are determined. We have made plans to prevent just such a thing," said Jack Bigler '21, chairman of the admissions committee, in a private conference with the Student Volunteer Band for the Protection of Exposition Morals this afternoon at the Grand theater where a notorious foreign photograph is now showing.

"We have arranged for the crowd to go only one way. No chance of any straying or double-crossing here. To maintain propriety the entrance will be through the front door of the gymnasium. The only exits will be at the side doors and the annex. People may as well understand right now that all other doors and windows will be barred. Co-eds need make no plans to have their fussers waiting outside the windows. Light will be the only thing permitted to go through the windows."

Mr. Bigler further explained that one can't see the Exposition in a single day. This fact should be borne in mind.

A committee of 50 has been working with Mr. Bigler to decide what means of entrance should be assigned to the thronging crowds which are expected to storm the Exposition. The original idea of a ticket was adopted. This committee will handle 20,000 tickets which will be bought at one of the three ticket-selling booths immediately in front of the gym.

These tickets will be exchanged for 75 cents in the case of an adult and for 25 cents in the case of a child. Buyers should carry them to the entrance, give them to an attendant, and then step right in. Untold glories there await the one-way crowd.

ATHLETIC REVIEW BASEBALL NUMBER ON SALE THURSDAY

Second Issue to Be Sold at All-University Convocation

The baseball number of the Wisconsin Athletic Review will make its appearance on the campus Thursday and will be sold by "W" men at the all university convocation. The price will be the same as was charged for the first issue, 25 cents for two copies.

On the cover of the Review there will be a picture of "Rowdy" Elliott '23, captain of the varsity baseball team. In the 40 pages of reading and pictures are sections devoted to crew, track, and basketball. The features of the number will be articles entitled "Studies in Athletics", "Badger Athletes of Yesterday and Today" and an article devoted to a review of the state high school basketball tournament. Fully 50 pictures of athletic interest will be printed.

Copies of the Athletic Review may also be secured from "W" men on the campus Friday. Gustav Tebell '23 is in charge of the circulation of the issue.

ROWING CREWS LAUNCH SHELLS ON MENDOTA

Coach Vail Issues Call for Heavier Men to Report

For the first time since the abolition of varsity rowing in 1914, five Wisconsin rowing crews launched their shells on Lake Mendota Monday afternoon. Forty-five candidates reported to Coach H. E. Vail for the initial outdoor workout of the year, and because of the large number of candidates, the men were divided into two varsity and two freshmen crews.

The workout, which was mainly for the purpose of accustoming new men to the shells, consisted of short pulls over the water, with few long spurts. Another crew is carded to take the water for the rest of the preliminary workouts which will be held every afternoon on Lake Mendota, and the six squads will practice regularly until the latter part of April, when "Dad" Vail will select his senior and junior varsity crews for the start of the season.

Although the men have been showing up well on the rowing machines in the annex, prospects for a successful season have lessened with the failure of big men to report for the squad.

Heavier Men Wanted

"What we need," said Coach Vail, "is men who weigh in the neighborhood of 170 pounds or more. The light oarsmen have shown excellent form, but a lack of endurance is noticeable, and this can be overcome only by the addition of large men to the squad. Big oarsmen are the best strokes in the boats. Positions on the first crew are still open and good-sized men who display the correct form will have the call for regular jobs on the Wisconsin crew."

The first meets of the year for the senior and junior varsity eights are scheduled to be held at Madison on May 28. The first Wisconsin crew will row against a Lincoln Park Boat club aggregation and the junior Badger squad will meet St. Johns. Oarsmen representing the four college divisions of Wisconsin will race to decide the inter-college rowing championship of Wisconsin on May 28. A tentative date has been arranged for a match with the first and second crews of the Duluth Boat club at Duluth on June 25.

Spring Clean-up at Phi Mu House Starts Small Con- flagration

"Gee, what a punk fire," remarked the blase small boy of ten or so, as he strutted in disgust through some charred leaves scattered about the back porch of the Phi Mu house, which the fire department visited late yesterday afternoon.

"I turned in the alarm," boasted Tom Wood, of the neighboring Chi Phi house, as he stretched forth a bloody mangled hand. "The glass on the little door cut it. You see I never turned in an alarm before—I wasn't that kind of a boy."

The annual spring bonfire which the girls had started in their endeavor to clean up the back yard had been extinguished but persistent sparks started a small blaze under the back porch. The fire department arrived in time to prevent any serious damage.

MORGAN ADDRESSES AG TRIANGLE MEET

"The Relation of the Legal Department to the Farmer," was the topic discussed by Attorney W. P.
Morgan while addressing the Agric Triangle at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday morning.

Attorney Morgan said, "It is impossible and unjust to use the legal department for any particular class of people or enterprises alone, but that it is the duty of the office to act as legal advisor to all state departments. His decision is the highest legal advise until it is over ruled by the court."

The urgent need of an investigator to work under the direction of the Attorney General was discussed. He explained that an investigator would aid in securing quicker and better evidence, as well as to eliminate the opportunity of evading the law which is possible by the present method of court procedure.

Most of the groups that are planning dinners or dinner-dances preceding the ball are co-operating with the committees in charge in that neither flowers or cabs are to be used. Flowers will absolutely not be permitted to be worn at the function, and everything possible has been done to discourage the use of cabs. There will be no cab entrance at the capitol.

SHERIDAN'S RIVALS WELL RECEIVED AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY

That "The Rivals," the comedy to be presented on Saturday afternoon and evening in Music hall to establish another student loan fund, has a real entertaining value and will provide good, clean, wholesome amusement for young and old, is shown by its recent reception at Purdue.

"Showing the queer habits and quaint styles of another day, sparkling with wit, 'The Rivals,' played by the Coffey-Miller players last night was an unqualified success. This comedy by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, has the distinction of being with wit. 'The Rivals,' played play which has survived the present time."

That is the comment made in the Purdue Exponent, student publication of Purdue university, following the appearance of the Coffey-Miller company in Lafayette, Ind., on Monday, March 7. In another part of the same paper, the critic says:

"'The Rivals' was a relief after seeing so many of the usual slapstick comedies. The play was an auspicious beginning for a most promising dramatic season at Purdue."

ANVIL CHORUS FROM IL TROVATORE, BY VERDI (1813-1901)

This anvil chorus is sung at the beginning of the second act of the opera by a group of gypsies in their mountain home, but the music has none of the eccentricities which characterize the real gypsy themes in Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody. It is stirring Italian opera music, but it is not gypsy in character.

Giuseppe Verdi, the grand old man of opera, began life in poverty, but through hard labor soon won a place for himself in music. At 12 he was a church organist and at 17 his compositions began to attract attention. Struggling from then until he was 40, he finally established himself by producing three successful operas—Trovatore, Rigoletto, and Traviata. From that time on a continuous flow of operas and sacred works followed until almost the last day of his 88 years. His laughing, boisterous, rollicking, youthful music for Falstaff was written when he was 80 years old.

This chorus is an excellent example of the skillful manner in which Verdi could obtain big showy effects with simple means. Here is a melody so simple that opera-goers whistle it after hearing it once or twice; a chorus that, except for a few measures in which two parts are used, is unison or one-voiced throughout and yet so impressive is it made through the aid of vigorous rhythm, telling climaxes, and especially the novel accenting on anvils that every audience applauds it roundly. There are two themes; the first is a rather jerky subject made up of a sequence of three descending tones which are repeated five times, each time a little higher than before. After this has been punctuated with ringing blows on the anvil, it is sung again. Then a broad sustained melody follows which closes with an effective two-part scale passage ending with a strong climax.

The patriotic words usually sung to this tune by school children, God of the Nations contain no reference to an anvil. The original words of the chorus, however, tell of the

BOOST THE EXPOSITION

THE committees of the University Exposition are carrying on a tremendous publicity campaign to get news of the events of April 21, 22, and 23 throughout the state. Numerous attempts are being made to boost the Exposition in every high school and town. Student co-operation in the publicity campaign would help considerably in attaining success.

If every student would write his parents and friends about the Exposition, the success of the advertising would be considerably augmented. The pages of the Cardinal abound in stories of exhibits and features that will be displayed. Students should clip these articles and send them home. A few thousand students co-operating with the committees would be a telling force in advertising the Exposition.

Spring vacation offers an especially fortunate opportunity for students to boost the Exposition. When the students return to their home towns, they can render a valuable service by talking of the Exposition to their friends—especially their friends in the high schools. The university should have at least 2,000 student salesmen throughout the state during the spring recess to boost the Exposition.

When students write home, and when they go home, they should tell what it means to "Watch Wisconsin Work." This coming Exposition will set forth more clearly than has ever been done before what the university is doing and what it stands for.

Do your share in giving publicity to the Exposition.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

TOMORROW afternoon the varsity nine opens its 1921 baseball season. Wisconsin will test her baseball prowess for the first time this year against Northwestern college.

Needless to say, the student body is looking forward to a credible showing by the team during the coming season. Wisconsin made a splendid start in basketball this winter. The same good work should be carried over into the baseball season. Wisconsin teams should perform in championship style in every branch of sport.

The game tomorrow will doubtless prove less spectacular and less hotly contested than some of the conference games. Tomorrow's game cannot, however, be neglected. The proverbial saying, "Well begun's half won," is just as true in baseball as in other lines of effort.

Tomorrow's contest offers a chance for a good beginning to both the team and the student body. Without question, the team will do its share. Will the students give the team the proper encouragement in the initial contest?

The student body should turn out in full force to support the team in its preliminary contests. Let the men who represent the university know that the students are back of them from start to finish. Help shove the team into the championship position.

McGOVERN URGES INVESTING MONEY IN BUILDING HOMES

Ex-Governor Addresses Anchor Savings, Building and Loan Association

"The primary object of every building and loan association is the establishment of homes and it is especially urgent now when we are told there is a shortage in this country of more than a million homes," Francis E. McGovern, former governor of Wisconsin, declared Saturday night at the second annual meeting of the Anchor Savings, Building and Loan association at the Y. M. C. A.

"To meet this want," he declared, "we must not turn for aid to the government, either in city, state, or nation, for by all accounts, it has troubles enough of its own. Fortunately the people themselves have money in abundance. All that is needed is to put this money or its equivalent in credit at work building homes. The underlying idea is co-operation. Building and loan associations are organized primarily for service, not for gain. The expense of operating should therefore be kept at the lowest possible level."

With an initial capitalization of $8,964 in 1919 the firm now shows a capital of $163,513.96. The membership has grown to 550 by March 31 of this year. Judge E. Ray Stevens is president, Alfred T. Rogers, vice president, and Harrison L. Garner, secretary and treasurer. H. J. Loftsgordon, W. A. Devine and Marcus E. Johnson were re-elected directors. Other directors are Judge Stevens, Mr. Rogers, Judge Hoppmann, Poul E. Stark, S. T. Walker and H. L. Russell.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS TO AID THE GEOGRAPHY SCHOLAR

Miss Dorothy Timmerman and one of her geography classes being aided by the phonograph, at extreme left of picture.

A short while ago we heard of the phonograph as first aid to stenography pupils in learning to operate the typewriter. Now it has been introduced in other branches of school work. In some of the rural schools of Illinois records of native folk songs and dances are played while the children are learning the principal facts about Spain, France, Holland and other countries in their geography classes. The photo shows Miss Dorothy Timmerman, teacher in the Kitty Corner school, near Palatine, Ill., giving her pupils a geography lesson aided by the phonograph.

ST. OLAF'S CHOIR PRESENTS PROGRAM IN GYM THURSDAY

The St. Olaf Lutheran choir, which will appear at the university gymnasium on Thursday, April 7, under the auspices of the Union Board, was booked to appear at St. Joseph, Mo., last night.

This choir was selected to be the star offering of the St. Joseph spring festival. At last night's concert, 1,200 supervisors of music, who are in convention at St. Joseph, were invited by the festival committee to be guests of honor.

The choir is composed of 50 boys and girls, all with exceptionally trained voices, and they sing their entire program from memory, without notes. The choir is under the direction of Prof. F. Melius Christiansen, the noted composer of church music.

The program will embrace folk lore songs and sacred music, and will be divided into four parts with solo and ensemble numbers. The choir is being presented on tour to emphasize the culture of music in the Northwest. St. Olaf is the only college which has built up a great musical department as part of its educational system. Besides the choir, the college supports a band of 78 pieces.

Tickets for the concert are selling for $2 and $1, and can be secured and reserved at the A. E. Smith music store.

MISS FINCH GIVES NEGRO SONGS AND FOLK TALES TODAY

Noted Artists' Stories Are Founded on Mammy's Anecdotes

Negro stories and songs will make up the entire program to be given by Miss Lucine Finch in Music hall at 8:30 tonight. Her tales are all based on those told her by her colored mammy during her childhood in New Orleans. The old negro, who had been brought to this country as a slave and served three generations of the Finch family, claimed that she had been an "Alabaster Princess" in Africa.

Miss Finch has received much praise for her impersonation of the old colored woman during the 10 years she has been appearing. Arthur Brisbane of the New York Evening Journal commented as follows:

"Her art consisted of a novel interpretation of the rich and varied character of the old Southern mammy,— a type recalled so readily and so lovingly by all who know the old South. When the young woman plunged with such charming simplicity into the story of "Simon Peter", its daring mixture of humor and pathos stirred a jaded New York audience, and amazed them."

Lucine Finch is being brought to Madison under the auspices of Red Domino and Twelfth Night. Tickets can be purchased at 75 cents each from members of the clubs, in Bascom hall, and at the door tonight. The proceeds will be given to the Wisconsin Welfare association.

ITALIAN LIFE TO BE PORTRAYED BY SIGNORA AGESTI

"A Portrayal of Life on an Italian Crop-sharing Farm" will be the subject of a lecture to be given by Signora Agresti this afternoon at 4:30 in 165 Bascom hall. The lecture promises to be one of the most interesting delivered on the Hill this year.

Signora Agresti is a member of the famous Rossetti family of Italy. She has been actively interested in agricultural and industrial problems both in Italy and in the United States. She has made herself well-known in this country through her work at the International labor conference. It was here that she showed unusual ability as an executive and an interpreter by assisting in the work of the conference and by explaining it to the foreigners in their native tongues.

At Rome, Signora Agresti served for 16 years as the executive secretary and advisor to David Lubin, the American who was responsible for the establishment of the International Institute of Agriculture.

Prof. B. H. Hibbard of the College of Agriculture has been effective in bringing her to Madison. According to Professor Hibbard, Signora Rossetti is not only a remarkable woman but also a competent speaker.

Plays Lead in Haresfoot Show

MISS QUITA.

All might have gone well with the revolution in Mexico had not Earl Carpenter '21, as Larry Drake, fallen in love with the girl in the picture above, Miss Quita, the ingenue lead in the Haresfoot production, played by Philip Reed '21.

Miss Quita, as the daughter of the president of Mexico, is wooed by a leader of the revolutionists, but won by Larry, the American engineer. She sings three of the leading songs of the show with Larry, "Let's Pretend", "Love's Lullaby", and "Secrets" and the solo piece, "The Song of the Thrush" is carried by the heroine through the three acts.

The comedy will be presented in Madison for three performances Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23. Box office sale starts April 12.

At The Theaters

AT THE ORPHEUM

Headline honors are divided between two acts at the Orpheum for the first half of the week. "The Bee Hive" is a little sketch which tells of the vicissitudes of a young married couple and gives George Oliver and Miss Georgia Olp plenty of opportunity for comedy. Sebastian and the Myra sisters have an act billed "Confetti," which has artistic arrangement of music, song, and dance. Sebastian has a rich baritone voice. The Myra sisters are talented violinists as well as graceful dancers.

Charlie Wilson, "The Loose Nut from the Tree of Laughter," has a line of patter that is certain to make the most pessimistic misanthrope double up into convulsions. And as the saying goes, "He wields a wicked bow."

Very good to look at and listen to, Doris Duncan, a young woman of more than the usual amount of personality, interprets a few songs in a manner that pleases her audience. Her assistant, on the piano, Jack Carroll, does his part well.

Snoozer, is a big white bull dog that has almost human intelligence, in fact, he shows more brains than do many individuals. To the commands of his master, Meredith, he yawns, counts and does a variety canine tricks.

Legerdemainists de luxe, John and Nellie Olms open the bill by deceiving the audience with an infinite number of sleight-of-hand feats.

COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

Telegraphic information reached Manager Hugh Flannery of the Orpheum theater today, that Martin Beck, head of the Orpheum circuit of theaters, leaves New York this week for a European trip in search for vaudeville novelties. The message received at the local theater office is as follows:

"Martin Beck leaves tomorrow on Aquitania for European trip in search of vaudeville novelties for the Orpheum circuit accompanied by Mrs. Beck and Earl P. Saunders of Orpheum general booking offices. Itinerary will include London, Paris, Rome, in addition to canvassing leading English and Continental acts with eye to desirability for Orpheum vaudeville. Mr. Beck also plans to enlarge number and scope of European offices of circuit."

The above will be welcome news to local vaudeville fans, for it assures Madison patrons of many new and novelty acts for the coming season. The present season has brought to the local stage the best turns offered in vaudeville today and with the new acts which Mr. Beck is sure to secure in Europe, vaudeville of the highest class can be seen at the popular Monona avenue theater.

AT THE STRAND

Wanda Hawley in "The Snob," a Prom football picture which was adapted from a Saturday evening Post story will be the attraction at the Strand theater for the last times today. At first sight you wouldn't have suspected that there was anything the matter with Kathryn's pretty little nose. But there was. It tipped itself up and sniffed at folks who worked for a living! Right here in America, too. Imagine! Well, presently she fell in love. And later discovered that he was a waiter! Whoopee! But circumstances united to cure her nose and her mind of that awful disease, snobbishness.

The added features are the latest News Weekly and "Thrills," a short sport review.

Mack Sennett's greatest success, a six reel comedy drama, entitled "A Small Town Idol," will be shown at the Strand theater for four days, Wednesday to Saturday.

AT THE GRAND

It would seem that the unexpected can happen in screenland as well as in the other and older realms of the amusement world. Movie producers in this country are known to look coldly upon costume dramas, doubly so upon those of foreign make. In the face of this, First National had imported a picture from Europe dealing with the life of the Countess Du Barry and the picture is taking this country by storm.

One point should be made clear: It is as romance and not as history that "Passion" triumphs. Its historical background has great interest of its own and adds materially to the picture, but it is the love story of Jeanne and Armand and the part of the King of France played in the destiny of these two beings of humble birth that wins most of the photodrama's popularity. This and the acting of Pola Negri as the woman known as Du Barry. As a pictorial record of the life of Du Barry "Passion" will undoubtedly take its place as a screen classic.

ROAD MACHINES ARE SHOWN IN EXPO EXHIBIT

Devices for Testing Durability and Soundness to Be Displayed

In order that the "Man on the street" may know on what he is walking, how it is constructed, and how long it will last, the engineers are exhibiting in their roads and pavements booth at the Exposition, small models of road making machinery, machines testing the soundness, hardness, and durability of the rocks, and miniature models of pavements in various stages of completion, including viaduct roads.

"Plaster models demonstrating the advantages of new road location by showing a road before and after re-location, is another interesting feature of this exhibit," declared L. E. Chase chairman of the exhibit on roads and pavements.

The mining exhibit is necessarily small as it is impossible to produce on a small scale the enormous mining machinery.

Blue prints of a blast furnace together with samples of the new product before it goes into the furnace and the finished products as it comes out will be art of this exhibit, in which will also be shown a by-products coke furnace and a model of a Southwest Wisconsin zinc mill. M. W. Link is in charge of this exhibit.

New Color Tan Russian Calf Oxfords is now taking the place of the mahogany

$11.50

THESE GOOD LOOKING new shade tan SHOES and OXFORDS add to a man's appearance—snappy new style lasts with narrow blunt toes and plenty of performance in the uppers for young men.

Also new round comfortable toe last for the conservative dresser.
