THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

DETAILS OF THE NEW PLAN FOR THE SCHOOL.

MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY OF MUSIC.

Will Begin Next Fall—Organization Perfected.

At the meeting of the regents on the 15th inst. the following scheme for the organization of the school of Music was adopted:

Resolved—That the following scheme of organizing the school of music be and is hereby approved and adopted:

The school of music shall be under the control of the board of regents of the university.

The university professor of music shall be director of the school.

The name of the proposed members of the faculty shall be submitted to the board of regents for approval.

The university shall assume no responsibility for salaries of instructors.

The university shall assume no responsibility for individual or class instruction in instrumental music or vocal training.

The university professor of music shall furnish instruction as at present to classes in musical theory, in choral practice, in harmony, and in counterpoint, together with such additions in the way of musical history and kindred subjects as shall best meet the needs of the university students.

Until otherwise ordered no fees shall be charged to students for this instruction beyond the incidental fees of the university.

Students shall arrange for individual or class lessons in instrumental music or voice training with the director of the school of music, or some officer designated by him, and for such lessons special fees shall be paid.

Fees for individual or class instruction shall be fixed by the faculty of the school of music, subject to the approval of the board, and shall be paid to the secretary of the board of regents, and subject to the draft of the director on the approval of the president.

The university shall provide, as at present, but only so long as it shall be convenient so to do, rooms for the instruction of university students, together with pianos for practice, charging a special fee to be determined by the board of regents.

The school of music may furnish rooms and facilities for the instruction of others.

The school of music shall furnish two general courses, as follows:

First—A course in which the requirements for admission shall be the same as for some one of the general courses in the college of letters and science, or for adult special students, together with a corresponding degree of proficiency in music. Students completing this course will be entitled to a diploma on graduation.

Second—A course open to students not members of the university classes and to students who do not desire to enter a regular course pursuant to graduation, the requirements of which shall be fixed by the faculty of the school of music, subject to the approval of the regents. Students of this course may be admitted to the musical classes of the university on the payment of the usual incidental fees charged to students of the college of letters but will not be considered as candidates for graduation or diplomas. They may, however, be granted a certificate for excellence by the faculty of the school of music.

Recitals by members of the faculty and students, together with occasional concerts by artists from abroad may be given from time to time by the school of music.

The university shall not be responsible for advertising but may publish the general announcements in the catalogue, which may include the scheme of organization, faculty, requirements for admission, courses of study, and kindred matters.

The president of the university shall be and is hereby authorized to make due announcement in the coming catalogue of the university of the school of music, as here outlined.

The faculty of the school of music shall be and is hereby constituted, until further modification, as follows:

Charles Kendall Adams, LL. D., president; Fletcher Andrew Parker, director, musical history, harmony, counterpoint, and organ; Ada F. Bird, piano; James S. Smith, piano; William G. Sired, piano; instructor in voice culture to be supplied; Charles Nitschke, Sr., violin and other orchestral instruments; John Lueders, violin, and other orchestral instruments; Annie M. Lyon, mandolin, guitar and banjo; secretary to be supplied.

DER BUILDINGSVEREIN.

Meets in North Hall—Details of The Programme.

It seems that the German Literary Society has a hard row to hoe; at every meeting there is some inconvenience or something interfering, and great regard must be had for the members who still keep up the spirit of the society.

If all the students, who are interested in the German Language and Literature, would take some part in the exercises, the society might be as successful as any literary society in the university.

Last night the meeting was to be held in the Law Building, but the steam heat was shut off and the meeting adjourned to the North Hall, but many had gone home in the meantime; those who remained, however, were amply repaid. The programme opened with a very interesting and instructive lecture by Prof. Rosenstengel on the origin and history of the Christmas Festivities among the Teutonic people. This was followed by a reading from Schiller's "William Tell," by Geo. Kroncke. An essay was read by Mr. Spindler and a story told by Aloys Wortner; Miss H. Rosenstengel declaimed "Des Saengers Fluch"; Mr. Hein read a humorous story and the programme was closed with a declamation by Miss H. Sauthoff.

THE STATE BOARD OF CONTROL

LECTURE OF HON. CLARENCE SNYDER.

BEFORE THE CLASS IN AMERICAN CHARITIES.

Good Work by the Board—What it has Done.

The second lecture given under American Charities, was delivered by Hon. Clarence Snyder, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Snyder is a member of the present Board of Control. Among other things he said:

"The time is coming when state schools shall take up the study of pauperism and crime. In the dynamic revelations of the study of this subject there will be its accompanying reward. The life of today pulses with the needs of reform. The duty of the present Board is to direct the work of all state benevolent institutions. $17,000,000 was appropriated between '81 and '91. Each member visits one institution a week and if any reform is needed the immediate action of the Board is required. There is no chance for fraud or bribery as all appropriations are secured only through open and deliberate institutions. The work of the present Board compares favorably with the working of other state Boards.

"In inspections of jails and other institutions the present board has the power to condemn the working of any ill management and may cause a jail to be closed in one year from the date of notice. The Board may judge on specific cases of insanity and discharge or remove patients. Every three months, a visit shall be paid to asylums, also all hospitals, police systems and poor houses visited occasionally. There are in intuitions to the fact that the Board has too much to do. If changes are made they should only be introduced when there is an imperative need and all improvement show the effect of forethought and wisdom. The present outlook is favorable for continued reform.

"County asylums are under the direction of trustees governed by the Board of Supervisors, while the state Board has only the power to recommend or intrinsic their working. As to the cost of county institutions much care is taken that they should not cost too much; economy is practiced in all departments. In conclusion of the hour Mr. R. T. Ely spoke in favor of the German system of relief, and study as practiced in that country. "We are too apt to go to England for our examples of reform while we should understand that England gets them from Germany and we get them from England second hand." In Germany the students of philanthropic methods work in co-operation with state institutions and it is toward this end that our present course of study would work to accomplish the best end. Mr. Ely strongly advocated the German system for this country and to have all offices elective and not subject to competitive examinations.

MOSSES AND FERNS.

Prof. Barnes discussed mosses and ferns in his lecture yesterday. The development of mosses is as follows: First branched filaments spring from the spore algae-like and septate. These by budding form a second plant with leaves distinct from the lower part of the stem. Their leaves are closely crowded, the root leaves being very small. We find here a distinct advance in the division of labor. One is in the development of nutritive tissue. Another is the strengthening of the stem by an aggregation of firm, hard tissues on the outside. Another also is in the development of conductive tissue. Moss leaves are arrayed about an assumed center in radial symmetry.

The true fern needs no description. It is the first marked type we notice. The ferns in these regions differ from those of the tropics in having only the leaves above ground. We have no tree ferns. In the geological ages we once had them. Taking the horse tail, better known as scouring rush, we find them only about two feet high. The stems are about the size of a goose quill and very rough. The fossil species were a foot in diameter and often fifty feet high.

Another marked species is the brown pine, now growing in northern regions and very small. Nearly all our coal beds are simply fern forests carbonized. The ferns form a well marked group, being more or less isolated from plants above and those below them. Yet they probably once had a common ancestor with some other plant. As the moss they show a marked division of labor and development of tissue.

NOTICE.

No Cardinals will be delivered to any address after Saturday unless subscriptions are paid up. Leave name and address in cash boxes in Library and Science hall.

The announcement that Harry Cornish will train the University of Illinois track athletic men for the intercollegiate meet next spring is a surprise in western college athletic circles. It is in newspaper vernacular a "scoop" by Illinois for Mr. Cornish has been attached to the Chicago Athletic association since it entered its magnificent house on Michigan avenue and was supposed to be a fixture there.
The fact that U. of I. management has secured his most valuable services speaks well for its enterprise. And it also brings up the question of Wisconsin's prospect in track athletics. Of last year's team there are but five men now in college and they won but seven points, but that is no reason for discouragement if the work is gone at with the right spirit. There are a large number of men who will try for the team who should develop very well and from the way the men are turning out before the work is fairly organized there is every reason to believe that a good team can be gotten from the available material. But if the team is to be a winner it must have support and every student should feel this and interest himself in the work. This year Wisconsin has to meet stronger rivals than ever before and must be better prepared. Illinois with a majority of last year's victorious team still in college (Clark,

Sweeney and Fouts alone won 22 points) has secured one of the best trainers in the country, and Michigan under the care of Keene Fitzpatrick, who was trainer at Yale two years, will be but little behind them. The state university of Iowa, encouraged by their success with a few men last year, will send a full quota this time and try for the championship, and with Ed. Moulton as trainer and such a superb athlete as Crum to lead them there is no reason why they should not be very close to the top. These three institutions will probably be Wisconsin's strongest competitors, but it is by no means certain that some of the others will not be nearly as strong, and these facts show how hard the men must work. But further than the mere fact of their working energetically they must have facilities for working which will necessitate heavy expenditures. They must have a first class trainer as soon as possible, certainly at the beginning of the spring term, who can devote his time exclusively to them. Then too, there must be a regular training table all the spring term and it is to be hoped, indeed, it is indispensable to successful work, that a new cinder track be built at Randall field, for the old mile track is little better than a country road and it cannot be used after the least bit of rain. All these things are important subjects for thought to loyal students who want to see the reputation which was gained by last fall's eleven maintained on the track.

CO-EDUCATION AT BELOIT.

The Beloit college trustees have voted to admit women to college classes after this college year. This is a great change in the custom of the institution which, for fifty years, has been for men only. It is also announced that Horace White, of New York, has given $10,000 for needed library improvements.—Beloit Dispatch.

There is probably great rejoicing at Beloit over the news. We understand that this is what the Beloit boys have been wishing for some time.

THE UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE.

The current number of The American University Magazine contains the last series of articles on Lehigh, written by Dr. Hyde.

Whereas the other numbers were replete with descriptions of the university buildings and courses of study, this number is devoted to the interests of the students.

In commenting on the absence of dormitories at Lehigh, the writer sees no great disadvantage resulting therefrom. The fraternity house offers to a great extent a remedy for isolation, and these together with the eating clubs and other organizations, afford sufficient opportunity for social intercourse. In conjunction with the above appears a short discussion of the influences in general of the present Greek letter fraternity system.

Following this there are short descriptions of the various societies about college, giving the dates of their organization, together with the objects for which they were established; also a list of the college publications.

A review of the athletic history of the college shows that Lehigh has been rapidly forging to a prominent position in all branches of sport. Baseball was the first game which occupied the attention of the students; following this came football and lacrosse, both of these latter having been established in 1884. Football has always been the most popular game, although unflagging interest is taken in all athletic sports.

The Banjo and Guitar club, the Glee club, and the Mustard and Cheese also came in for well merited mention. In closing, the writer dwells on the encouragement and support which the undergraduates have received from the alumni, and on the hospitality afforded them by the residents of the Bethlehems.

The article is well illustrated by views of the campus in winter, the electrical laboratory, the chemical laboratory, the athletic grounds during the Lehigh-Princeton game of 1894, several chapter houses, and photographs of the dramatic association, lacrosse, football, baseball and track teams, and also a couple of views on the Lehigh river near Bethlehem.

—Brown and White.

JOINT DEBATER ILL.

In announcing the postponement of the joint-debate last night a slight error was made as to cause of change in date. The real reason for putting it off was the illness of Mr. Cassels, one of Philomathia's debaters. He is improving, however, and it is hoped that he will be himself again before Tuesday.

—Dr. William Osler, who was elected president of McGill university, Montreal, Canada, was professor of chemical medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, and later occupied a similar chair at Johns Hopkins University.

—The officers of the battalion received their commissions from President Adams and Col. Chynowith to-day.

—Prof. Elsom lectured to the freshman class yesterday on muscles. The young ladies of the class attended the lecture filling the room at the gym. to overflowing.

—For the last two evening the gym. has been open from 7 to 9:30. There has been about ten or a dozen on each evening who have used it. The bowling alleys are well patronized.

—W. C. Leitsch, Law '96, wishing to know something about Constitutional Law, thought he would listen to a synoptical lecture by Prof. Parkinson; not knowing the Prof. and mistaking the hour, he listened to a lecture by Prof. Smith on the Illiad and Odessey; he listened with great pains to catch the connection, but did not really see its bearing on American Constitutional Law.
