FIVE CENTS

BURGLARS ACTIVE AGAIN, TWO MORE HOUSES LOOTED

Thieves Enter Students' Rooms at 301 N. Lake and 707 W. Johnson

Encouraged by the apparent success of their venture in entering and looting the Square and Compass house on Monday evening, thieves repeated their long-fingered efforts early yesterday morning by entering two rooming houses, one at 301 North Lake street, and the other at 707 West Johnson street, and made their getaway with two very valuable watches, besides $39 in currency.

Valuable Watch Taken

According to the statement of Mrs. Mary Watson, who conducts the men's rooming house at 301 North Lake street, the robbery must have been done between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning. Students on the third floor were awake and about until 2 o'clock, and heard nobody moving around on that floor. On the second floor, however, the men retired about 1 o'clock.

Ransom Taylor, '28, was the heaviest loser. He was minus a $75 watch when he awoke. Harry Goldberg, '28, his roommate, took inventory of his belongings, and found that he was $8 short. Tyler lost only $1 in actual currency. Andrew Decker, '27, who also has a room on the second floor, reported the loss of $3 in change, the amount being taken from his pocketbook, which he had left lying upon the chiffonier.

Flee In Auto

The job at 707 West Johnson street, was done later in the morning, and bears evidence of having been more carefully planned. Considerably more audacity, too, was displayed by those implicated in the robbery.

Two men entered the house, one planning to loot the second floor while the other entered the rooms on the third floor. The second-floor man, however, stuck his head into the wrong room, that of the house lady, who immediately awoke.

Seeing that he had aroused her, the thief fled down the stairs, followed a moment later by his accomplice from the third floor. A waiting automobile was started and driven away before anybody in the house could get another good look at its occupants.

Miss Katherine Soderberg, whose room was entered, claims to have obtained a very clear description of the man who poked his head into her room, for it was exactly 6:10 o'clock, when he did it, she said.

FIRST JUNIOR TEA TO BE HELD TODAY

Plan to Hold Series of Nine Meetings During Year

Junior advisory teas will start with the Chadbourne district tea from 4:30 to 6 o'clock this afternoon, at Dean F. Louise Nardin's apartment.

Miss Hunt, mistress of Chadbourne hall, Miss Miller, dean of freshman women, and Mary Schneider, '26, district chairman, will act as hostesses.

Every junior in this district will bring her freshman advisee who was assigned to her earley in the year. All the girls who were formerly in the hall and members of the junior class are invited to come, according to Miss Schneider.

This is the first of a series of nine teas which will be held for each junior advisory district every Tuesday and Thursday as a part of the plan to continue the system throughout the year. This is the second year that this plan has been used and it was found to be very successful last year.

The committee which will serve at this tea is: Mary Schneider, '26, chairman; Lilian Piehl, '26, Livia Schaette, '26, Margaret Penn, '26, and Alice Conony, '26, publicity.

BOY HURT BY CAR EARLY LAST NIGHT

Lloyd Mapes, 16, Struck As He Steps From Between Parked Machines

Lloyd Mapes, 16, newsboy for a local paper, received minor injuries when a car driven by H. R. Mirick, 237 Langdon street, struck him as he started across the street at the corner of North Francis and State, shortly before 6 o'clock last night.

Just after delivering a paper, the boy ran between two cars parked along the curb into the path of the oncoming car. He was dragged for a distance of 40 or 50 feet on the running board of the car.

Members of Triangle fraternity who saw the accident picked the boy up and placed him in a passing car which rushed him to the Madison General hospital before Mr. Mirick had time to ascertain what had happened.

An examination by Dr. M. J. Coluccy showed that several abrasions and minor bruises were all that resulted from the accident.

Lloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mapes and delivers papers for a local paper.

INJURED EQUESTRIENNE IS GREATLY IMPROVED

The condition of Miss Kathryn Butler, '26, who was injured Sunday, is reported by the Madison General Hospital as steadily improving. Miss Butler was riding on the Middleton road when her horse became unmanageable and was struck by an automobile. Although her condition was at first feared to be serious, Miss Butler is now very much improved.

Theta Sigs Will Write of Books In Local Papers

Writing book reviews that will appear weekly in Madison papers was one of the plans for the coming year discussed by members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary women's journalism sorority, at its first regular meeting last night. "Inside the Covers" will be the name of the column.

Sixteen publishers have already agreed to send the organization their books to be reviewed. Twenty-seven books are here and fifteen more are on the way. Six reviews will be written a week, three for each paper. Dorothy Zimmerman, '25 was appointed editor.

A library owned and operated by Theta Sigma Phi will be established through these books coming in. It will be located in South hall, and journalism and other students may use the books for a small fee.

Announcement of Sophomore Honors To Be Made Oct. 29

Sophomore honors and high honors will not be announced before October 29, according to information received yesterday from Dean Roe's office. The list of students to receive these honors will first be submitted to the next meeting of the faculty of the College of Letters and Science which will be held October 15.

Students to receive these honors must have a minimum of two years' work in residence at the university and not less than 60 credits.

A student securing during these two years 135 grade points plus one and a half grade points for each credit above 60 required in his course will be awarded sophomore honors; a student securing during these two years 165 grade points, plus two grade points for each credit above 60 will be awarded sophomore high honors.

HAREFOOT DANCE CLASSES TO OPEN

Instruction Starts Tuesday in Lathrop Hall Concert Room

Dancing classes for training in Haresfoot productions will open next Tuesday and will continue twice each week until the cast for the 1925 show is picked. The classes will be held in Lathrop hall concert room and will be conducted much the same as they were last year, according to Thomas Morony '25, president of the club.

The first meeting of the candidates for the classes will be at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday. Registration of applicants and organization of the class will be the only work done at this meeting. Regular exercises and instruction in the fundamentals of stage and chorus dancing will begin at the second meeting of the class a week from today.

"The class will be open to all men in last year's show, all who intend to try out for the 1925 production, and freshmen who expect to go out for future productions. Dancers for the Haresfoot Follies will be picked from this class. It is possible that an act for Union vodvil may be chosen from the class membership also," Morony said.

"We hope that as many men will take advantage of the opportunity to learn stage dancing as did last year," Morony stated. "The success of the dancing in 'Twinkle Twinkle' was due in large part to the early training the men had in the classes last fall and winter. It is much easier to pick a chorus of dancers from a group that has had systematic training in fundamentals than it is to try to train a new chorus by intensive work," he said.

Amphibious Ford Embarks on Water From Lake Street Shore

The amphibious Ford, a new and ferocious looking animal, made its appearance at the foot of Lake street yesterday.

James Douglas, '25, and W. Fabera, '25, are its owners. The idea is a novel one, and the object of the inventors is to make the machine run on either land or water.

In order to make the Ford float, parts of the machine were taken off and heavy canvass placed under the entire frame, making it more or less boat-like in appearance. Paddles have been attached to the rear wheels, and these supply the propelling power while the car is in the water. The front wheels are covered with steel discs, and these wheels are used as rudders to steer the machine.

Quite a crowd gathered to see the launching of the strange craft, and many were in doubt as to the success of the contrivance. The inventor, however, had great confidence in his invention. He donned a swimming suit, started the motor, climbed with his mechanic into the amphibious Ford, and rolled down the embankment into the water. The Ford sank slowly into the water, steadied itself and gradually gained momentum, while the crowd cheered from the banks.

The craft had not gone far when the water forced its way into the exhaust pipe, and the motor calmed down. As the floating flivver had no self-starter, the two occupants were forced to brave the waves and pull their car to shore. This mishap did not dampen the spirits of the two inventors, and they will try again.

"I know that it will work," said Douglas after the trial, "and after I have patched up a few minor leaks and changed the exhaust pipe we will try again. If it works as well as I expect, we will put wings on it next."

Douglas is from Milwaukee, and is the inventor of the world's smallest electric motor, and Fabera is from Manitowoc.

SOPHS CAPTURE FRESHMEN AFTER MEETING IN GYM

Police Captains Announced For Class Rush at 12:45 Saturday

Following a meeting in the gym last night to arrange for the rush at 12:45 o'clock Saturday, more than 150 members of the sophomore class broke up a freshman gathering at Camp Randall, captured ten first year men and put them through the annual stunts.

In connection with the rush also, Byron Barwig '25, president of the athletic council, announced that the chief of police for the annual clash would be Erwin C. Gerber '25.

Parade Down State

The 15 police captains as announced at the meeting in the gym by Gerber are Bert M. Hilberts '25, George Piper '25, Paul Eschweiler '25, Lincoln B. Frazier '26, Byron P. Barwig '25, Kendall A. Elsom '25, Lloyd M. Valley '25, Herb W. Schmidt '25, Eugene W. Tuhtar '25, Russell L. Perry '25, John Gilbrath, Les L. Kissel '25, James Demameid, Clayton G. Cassidy '26, and Marshall Diebold '25.

Marching down State street, Park street and University avenue toward Camp Randall after their meeting the second year men gathered numbers. Surrounding the stadium, they rounded out three freshmen from the inside of the bowl. These they marched up University after one of them had made an attempt to escape.

Invade Sorority Alley

The night's doings began. A howling mob, surrounding its freshman prey, gathered all other freshmen in its path. "On to Barnard hall" was the call that brought not only the mob, but a host of interested spectators. Windows opened and a burst of feminine encouragement greeted the freshmen victims, as they fervently sang of this "Sweet Land of Liberty."

At Chadbourne hall, much the same scene was staged, but it was not until "sorority alley" was reached that anything to embarrass the victims occurred. Bedlam broke loose on the Alpha Phi porch, when one rather flushed yearling had to propose.

Down State street as far as the square, freshmen were picked up.

The Campus Soda grill was invaded and used as an auditorium.

After a considerable amount of

TO BUILD ORGAN FOR MUSIC HALL

Dr. C. H. Mills Will Complete Design So That Bids May Be Let

An organ being designed by Dr. C. H. Mills will be installed in Music hall when the contractors finish the chamber in which it is to start. Dr. Mills hopes to complete the design for the organ early next week, so that specifications may be sent out for bids.

"No definite date for completion of plans can be set, for all depends on the length of time consumed in building the organ chamber. However, it is hoped to have the organ installed the early part of next year," Dr. Mills said.

Music hall was formerly used as a commencement room, and then as a library. It is now to house an organ so that students of that instrument will be able to play a complete organ instead of the little reed instruments which are now in use. Organ recitals will be conducted there from time to time.

The project has been under way for about ten years, but was never settled until five years ago when the state appropriated the money. However, Governor Blaine refrained from granting his approval until recently because of conditions resulting from the war.

BIG INCREASE IN ROOM CONGESTION

Overflow Meetings Necessitate
Changes in Room Assignments

"The problem of adjusting rooms to classes is perhaps even more difficult this year than formerly," said George C. Chandler, secretary of the faculty, yesterday.

Many students have gone to rooms assigned, only to find that the class has been changed to another room. The reason for this condition is, of course, the impossibility of estimating how many students will be taking a course until the class cards are actually turned in.

We base our estimates on last year's enrollment, and advance correspondence indicating the probable increase, but even then some classes prove to be smaller and others much larger than our best guess indicates," continued Mr. Chandler.

Among the largest courses being given on the hill are Professor Oskar Hagen's Renaissance Art, Masters of German Art, and Rembrandt, Fine Arts 143, 144, and 145, respectively. These courses, first offered in 112 Bascom hall, drew so many students that they have been removed to the Biology auditorium.

Prof. Carl Russell Fish has been obliged to give up his familiar lecture room, the auditorium of Music hall. "Too much competition—history and symphony concerts don't get on well in the same building," Mr. Fish admitted. His course is being given at 11 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday in 165 Bascom hall, and an overflow section has been formed at 2:30 the same days, to take care of the hundred students that could not be accommodated at the morning hour.

Professor Rostovzeff's course in ancient history also overcrowded 165 Bascom hall, and about 50 students from that course are transferring to history 6, the commerce history course. Prof. W. T. Root's course in English history, history 5, also was overcrowded, and required transfers and readjustments on the part of the many students taking it.

The traffic conditions at Bascom hall are, of course, aggravated by these large classes, using room 165 almost every hour of the day, and definite orders have been issued to every instructor using the room to require students to leave the room by the exit at the front of the room, and to dismiss classes promptly at the first bell, so as to give the incoming classes immediate access to the room.

Enroll 44 Men and 132 Women For
Music Appreciation

In the course of musical appreciation, given by Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music, 44 men and 132 women are enrolled this semester. The course extends throughout the year. Students need not take the final examinations, but unless they do so they receive their credits without accompanying grade points.

"Musical appreciation has always been a popular elective among men and women outside of the School of Music as well as among music students. It is intended as a general educational or cultural course for those who wish a knowledge of music and composers," Dr. Mills said.

The first semester is devoted to a historical survey of the development of music with concentrated study of the great masters. In the second semester, the opera is taken up in a similar manner, the professor stated. Throughout the year selections are played on the victrola and the piano. Pupils of the school some times play before the class.

ROBERT G. PAGE HEADS HARVARD LAW REVIEW

Robert G. Page, who took the B.A. degree at Yale in 1922, has been made president of the Harvard Law Review, for the year 1924-25. Men with the highest standing in the Harvard Law school have charge of the Law Review and write all the editorials. These editorials deal with current decisions of the courts and legislative policies of current interest. Page was a resident of Madison, being the son of Prof. William H. Page, 515 North Carroll street.

AUSTIN, Texas.—The entire yell-leading staff of the University of Texas are members of the Law school as a result of the recent election for cheer leaders.

Letters Reveal Enthusiastic Reception to Father's Day

"The idea of a Fathers' day is meeting general approval wherever word of it has gone," said Dr. H. C. Bradley, chairman of the joint faculty-student committee, yesterday. "This letter is typical of a number that are reaching my office from fathers," he said.

Richland Center, Wis.
September 24, 1924.

Dr. H. C. Bradley,
Madison, Wisconsin.
Dear Sir:

Just opened my Cardinal and I find that you are again going to have a Fathers' day.

Good for you.

No finer thing could happen. We fathers should be better acquainted with the Varsity, its buildings, campus, and traditions. The fathers and sons should be brought closer together.

Our boys' fathers should meet our boys' chums' fathers, and at many a house, a real time could be had.

I am today writing the president of my son's fraternity, to have his men write a special letter to their fathers and have them all come here for this one day.

For any help that I can be to old Wisconsin, in this matter, just call on me.

Respectfully,
B. C. DAVIS.

Changes in South Hall Affect Even Campus Icemen

"Wet paint, use other stairway" greets the student entering South hall. Costumes with white specks seem to be in vogue. They are usually worn by people who do not believe in signs.

Was it accident or intent that left the offices of the dean of the College of Letters and Science the only ones intact during the recent ambuscade upon South hall? For a while even that was barred by, "Wet paint, use other stairs."

The effect of the recent changes in this building was widespread. Even the icemen are struggling under the inconveniences occasioned. During a recent lecture in journalism 110, two of these individuals appeared at the door with chunks of ice on their shoulders. Perhaps their appearance was intentional and should have suggested the policy to "Keep Cool."

Some tired student may think to spend a quiet hour in the newspaper reading room, but when he gets inside, two doors confront him, one with "Political Science General Office" and the other "Journalism Seminary" and the poor chap wonders, "Where in the dickens am I?"

RUSHING DELAYED
NOW AT MINNESOTA U.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Fraternity rushing, strenuous at this time in former years, is notably quiet this fall, in contrast to the concentrated rushing activities among sororities. This change was brought about by the new inter-fraternity regulations which went into effect this year and which prohibit all rushing and pledging of men who are freshmen or otherwise just entering the university until such students have been in one quarter.

UNIVERSITY PRINTS MANY PAMPHLETS

Material Includes History, Social Sciences, Language, and Literature

The university publishes intermittently three series of pamphlets balanced between general discussions of critical matter and minute investigations conducted by members of the faculty. These bulletins are called "University of Wisconsin Studies in the Social Sciences and History, in Science and in Language and Literature." Favorable comments on these bulletins have been made by both foreign and domestic newspapers and journals.

The English department is most copious in volume of production. Its recent bulletin was distributed Monday, and among the articles were "A Little Sermon on Life and Literature" by W. E. Leonard, "The Historical Interpretations of the Parliament of Foules" by Miss Mary E. Reid, "Caxton and the English Sentence" by R. R. Aurner, "Character and Action in Shakespeare; a Consideration of Some Skeptical Views" by Miss Julia Grace Wales, "Samuel Johnson on Shakespeare; One Aspect" by Prof.

PLAYING THE GAME

The communication which appears in "The Reader's Say-So" column this morning should be brought to the attention of campus politicians with a footnote appended to it here.

True enough, the fall elections of last year brought a stain and a blot against the undergraduate student body by the actions of a few petty ambitious students, actions which, if repeated this year, may result in rather serious catastrophe.

But it is also true that the spring elections last year, while not so vital in their outcome on the whole, were conducted and participated in with splendid spirit and with no catastrophe resulting from them which might bring a bad name to the students.

This fall, if the same system is carried out as was enforced last year and as it doubtless will be, the elections should be run off without a hitch. And all that can be said is that it seems entirely unfortunate that students must be ruled so strictly and watched so carefully as they have proved they must be ruled and watched.

WATCH OUT

Now the horse has been stolen. A fraternity house has been entered in the night and pilfered by sneak thieves. Perhaps that particular organization will be more careful in the future of its properties. It, along with other fraternities, has been warned time and time again, not only through these columns but by the experience of other organizations which have been robbed.

Evidently, however, fraternity men are empiricists, for they, along with the sage, Berkley, will not profit by the experience of others and must find out for themselves the fruits of leaving their doors open to robbers.

But the robbing of fraternity houses is not the only kind of pilfering that has been carried on this year. At the Union Board mixer held Saturday night in the gymnasium not a small amount of wearing apparel was stolen during the course of the evening, among which were three overcoats.

One engineering student lost a brand new topcoat which, since he is not in the straits of the plenty, he can ill-afford to replace. If the thieves would confine their activities to those who are in more or less comfortable circumstances, the case would not be so bad. But as it is, they are not particularly concerned from whom they steal so long as they secure the goods which they seek.

At any rate, those students are wise who keep their coats and hats on them or in their hands. Lock hooks are of no avail, for they are easily bent or broken, and last year the rascals took wearing apparel from the library cloak rooms at will.

The only protection which counts is self-protection. "God helps them who help themselves." If you wish to keep your belongings, keep them with you and you shall have your wish granted unless you are a subject for an insane asylum.

Notes From a Dean's Clinic

By G. C. SELLERY

3. GETTING STARTED

"Well begun is half done." This maxim, as Mark Twain said of the report that he was dead, is a slight exaggeration; but it errs on the right side when applied to the beginning of the semester. When the semester is almost over the poor starter must fall back on other forms of aphoristic encouragement. How often, when the first half year is almost gone, do we hear the self-pitying words, "I got a bad start." There is a large element of self-deception in these words. They seem to say, "I didn't do it; it was circumstances, over which I had no control." A more truthful and a more helpful form of statement is this: "I made a bad start."

Bad starts can almost always be avoided if one is in earnest in one's desire to be a successful student. The simple way of starting right is to follow the guidance of the instructor, as bicycle racers follow the pace-making motorcycle. Get the lesson that is assigned and get it before, not after, the recitation upon it. Do not let the pace-maker get more than a few feet ahead of you. If the class discussion or the text-book or the assigned reading does not clear up your difficulty, ask the teacher, in class or out of class, to explain it. Pay no attention to the jester who says you are trying to get a stand-in. Teachers like to help students who want to learn.

One common difficulty in getting a start is the tendency, carried over from the high school, to put off all the preparation for a class exercise until the night before it comes off. That plan works pretty well in the high school, where recitations are spread regularly or almost regularly over the whole week. The situation is quite different in colleges, where students have greater freedom in the use of their time and much greater responsibility for the correct use of it. College would not be college if high-school methods of control were employed. The college freshman has reached the stage where fuller responsibility must be placed upon himself. To be concrete: in college one must often if not always get very largely ready on Wednesday for Friday's quiz if the work is to be done. Indeed, if I were asked for a single rule which would insure success in college work, I should answer: "Prepare Thursday's recitation on Tuesday." For that involves planning in the wise use of one's time.

This little scheme can be applied to many other difficulties. Did you, gentle reader, ever go to the library on the night before a test or a quiz and see the milling multitude vainly seeking for the books they needed to read? Suppose you try the plan of going to the library two or three nights or afternoons before the test or quiz comes off. Will you have any difficulty in getting the books you need? You will not. This form of preparedness will not be criticized adversely.

Another difficulty, much exposed in conferences with a dean, is inability to concentrate. Now, to be frank, one has little trouble in concentrating on what one is interested in. It is a rare thing for a candidate for the team to tell the coach, "I find it hard to concentrate on the game." Or for the enamored youth to say, "I find it hard to keep my thoughts on Diana." (Yes, I know the retort, "but I'm not interested in this course. I take it only because it's required.") There is "more in this than meets the eye." But there is not enough in it to justify a real student.) The way to concentrate is to concentrate, to settle down to the job. Burrow into the preliminary motions, getting settled, getting into the mood, and all that sort of thing we all, at times, indulge in. Shut out visitors and chatters during study hours. Soon you will cease to notice noises outside, as town dwellers cease to hear the cars, as country dwellers, worse luck! cease to notice the beauty of the hills. College work requires better concentration than high school work, and the way to concentrate is to concentrate.

Wisconsin, and its staff of educators, makes possible success in the chosen lines for a large number of people that otherwise could not obtain a satisfactory education. The great service our university renders merits gratitude, and this gratitude we display when we earnestly try to eradicate the ills, and further her progress.

Before we announce that we are a new writer for Skyrockets, we feel that a great problem has come into the lives of every dweller of the Latin quarter (not a coin), and we feel that this aforesaid problem should be solved at once. The big question is asked with a tear-stained voice and runs thusly:

What are we goin' to call the Red Mill now?

Speaking of the Red Mill, we are reminded of the time that we heard one of the dwellers giving a young man a terrible razzing until he interrupted with:

"I gotta go home. I forgot sumthin."

"What did you forget", she asked.

"I forgot to stay there," came the mournful answer.

We listened in on an upper-classman consoling a poor, little, miserable, abject, weeping Frosh the other day. He patted the little boy on the back and saith,

"Cheer up, me boy, think of the mighty oak. It was once a little nut like you are."

Mule in the backyard, lazy and slick;

Boy with a pin on the end of a stick
Creeps up behind him sly as a mouse.

Crepe on the door of the little boy's house.

Speaking of little boys, one of our informants heard the following over at the Clinic:

"Stick out your tongue. Come on, farther than that."

"I can't. It's fastened on one end."

It seems to us, as we trot around the campus that the gals around this university can be divided into three classes: the intellectual, the beautiful, and the majority.

With some darn funny name
And could carry keen women

School has begun, hasn't it? Well, I'm going to be a day late and don't know the town, so will you please meet me at the train and have a cab handy. If you have classes you might use one of your cuts. Gosh, I hope I like the U of Wis. They say it's wonderful—hope so. If I'm disappointed I'll have to try a little bigger school.

Speaking of mistakes in the use of words, we are reminded of the story concerning the meek-looking, little man that came up to the desk labeled "licenses," and timidly asked:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but was that a marriage or dog license that you sold me last month?"

"Don't be silly," came the answer. "That was a marriage license. Why?"

"Well, all that know is that I've been leading a dog's life ever since."

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

The time is almost upon us for the annual political campaigns. Last year made the greatest blot on the records of political history at our institution yet seen or heard of, and steps were made to correct the evils which had grown noticeably in a few years.

There are still many opportunities to beat the system, and elect men by unfair methods. The only cure that will be a cure is a sound and sincere determination to play the game fair and square. There are some minds that are able to find ways of doing the things they want to do, whether those things are right or not, in spite of attempts to keep them from it. That condition will persist in politics this fall unless every-one is loyal to the standard of fair play, and moreover gets out and works under the standard.

When the men and women in school all come to realize that exercising the right to vote is not only a right but a solemn duty, a long stretch on the road to complete reform of crookedness will have been covered. The lack of interest in school affairs evidenced by a large number of Wisconsin students is nothing short of dishonorable lack of spirit and loyalty, which has no place at so fine an institution as we admit Wisconsin to be simply from our own presence here, to take a concealed view.

Wisconsin, and its staff of educators, makes possible success in the chosen lines for a large number of people that otherwise could not obtain a satisfactory education. The great service our university renders merits gratitude, and this gratitude we display when we earnestly try to eradicate the ills, and further her progress.

MICHIGAN ORGANIZES CHEERLEADING SQUAD

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Tryouts for the cheerleading squad will be held tonight at the University of Michigan. In order to whip the squad into shape for the conference games, this call is very urgent. A cheering section for men only has been organized through the cooperation of the Athletic association and the student council.

TO FORM PLANS FOR YEAR AT "Y" COUNCIL

Plans for the coming year will be discussed at the second meeting of the junior council of the Y. M. C. A., when the group gathers this noon at the university association. "The work of the council for the year will be suggested by C. V. Hibbard, general secretary, and the members will talk the plans over," Carl Kasper, '26, president, said yesterday.

BRAZILIAN REVOLT CAUSE NOT KNOWN

—WHITBECK

Professor Returns From Five-Month Trip in South America

Upon his return from a five months' trip in South America R. H. Whitbeck Professor of geography said yesterday that the causes of the recent uprising in Brazil are unknown. In commenting on his experiences, Professor Whitbeck stated that "the cause of the revolution is almost impossible to determine. I have not been able to find anyone who knows. There is no basis for considering it at all in the light of a labor uprising in the coffee industry."

"The disturbances now occurring elsewhere in Brazil may be considered merely as little offshoots of the general discontent. They amount to nothing. The real fighting, while it lasted, was in and near Sao Paulo, the rich coffee district south of Rio de Janeiro. At present, the Brazilian revolution seems to be practically at an end, as the administration has control of the uprising."

"The only active demonstration of the approaching Brazilian revolution I saw in Rio de Janeiro was put on by the students of the University of Brazil. A senator, elected by the people of the city, a sort of a popular hero, was the only one in office who opposed the administration. Of course, the Bernardes, a very excellent type of dictatorial leader, brought about the removal of the insurgent senator on the grounds of an alleged illegal election.

Scene from

"When the senator left the city, a great demonstration came from the students. They accompanied him with banners and flags in a parade down to the dock, shouting and cheering him onto the ship. This, of course, I think was more a personal matter than one connected with the revolutionary conflict in Sao Paulo," the professor said.

The Hotel Esplanada, at which Professor Whitbeck stayed while in Sao Paulo, was used as a hospital base for the wounded. During the conflict, more than 1700 were killed with the number of wounded not determined.

WINSLOW, GRAD, HAS SERIAL IN WEEKLY

"The King of the Campus," a story of a man who was beaten by success, which started to run as a serial story in a national weekly, was written by a graduate of the university, Horatio Winslow, son of the late Chief Justice John B. Winslow. Before his graduation in 1904, Winslow wrote short stories, feature articles, and humorous skits. As an infantry captain, he was sent in 1917, to Archangel, Russia, with his regiment, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre for gallantry in action. He is now writing articles and fiction in Morocco, having recently lived in Spain and France.

W. S. G. A. WILL START DRIVE SOON

"All Dues Paid By Thanksgiving," is Campaign Slogan

An extensive drive for the payment of W. S. G. A. dues will be launched soon according to Emily Davidson '25, district chairman.

About $400 was collected during the regular registration days but this is only a very small part of the total amount of dues.

"Every girl automatically becomes a member of W. S. G. A. when she registers in the university and as a member she is obliged to pay one dollar for dues" Alice Corl '25, president, said yesterday.

This dollar includes the dues for such as Green Button, Red Gauntlet, Yellow Tassel, and Blue Dragon, the class societies of freshman, sophomores, juniors, and seniors respectively.

The Latin section is divided into 25 districts which are represented in the W. S. G. A. board by one member from each house in these dues this year will be carried on by the district chairmen and the president of each house in the respective districts.

"All dues paid by Thanksgiving is our slogan and we hope that every every woman in school will co-operate with the committee. Graduate students and library students are the only girls excepted," Miss Davidson said.

PLAN ACTIVITIES FOR WOMEN VOTERS' GROUP

The Collegiate League of Women Voters opens this year's activities with a tea for all senior girls early in November, to enable the women to become acquainted with one another and the fundamentals of the league. Dean Nardin and Mrs. O'Shea, president of the Dane County League of Voters, after which the Collegiate league is patterned, will be present. "The program for this year," said Grace Paris, president of the league, "is to get Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Phil La Follette to speak before the league. In addition there will be other speakers to explain to the girls the history and ideals of the three parties," she said.

NEW HOSPITAL TO BE OPEN IN NEAR FUTURE

The new Wisconsin general hospital that is being completed on University Avenue will not be ready for use until October 18. The delay is due to minor changes and furnishing details.

The hospital will cost the state $1,200,000, and will accommodate 30 patients. It will be used as a free clinic for people of Wisconsin.

"Already many have come to the building expecting it would be finished," Dr. Robert VanValzhan, director of the university infirmary, said. "The Bradley Memorial hospital is crowded to capacity," he stated.

Mail ballots for seven directors for the Association of Commerce will be opened Tuesday, Oct. 7, the last day when ballots will be received. Nominations in the three groups of the association have been made by committees in the divisions.

Castalia Meets For First Time This Year On Friday Night

With its first meeting Friday night, in the S. G. A. Library at Lathrop, Castalia Literary society will begin the sixty-first year of its existence as a woman's organization at Wisconsin.

Castalia was founded in 1863 and is the oldest woman's club on the campus.

Attendance at the first meeting is compulsory for all members. The meeting will be closed to all outsiders in order that plans for the coming year and try-out arrangements may be made.

Alberta Johnson '25, president of the society announced that the election of a new vice president will take place and that several committees will be appointed to aid the Forensic Board with the Forensic dance.

"We are planning to aid Forensic Board more this year than we have before in interesting the students in literary work," explained Miss Johnson.

Edna Walter '25, treasurer will present a new financial plan for the organization.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS HOLD ANNUAL PARTY

One of the important social events of Friday evening is the annual "party" of all Lutheran students and their friends at Bethel Lutheran Church. This "party", staged early every year in the first semester, has become a favorite for all Lutheran students to get acquainted. Helen Herried, chairman of the committee on special affairs has made arrangements for an interesting program and for all kinds of games, after which refreshments will be served. The church is located at Hamilton and Butler two blocks north east of the square.

S. G. A. DANCES AGAIN ON SOCIAL CALENDAR

S. G. A. is giving their first dancing party of the year Friday night at 7 o'clock in Lathrop parlors. There will be dancing, Mah Jongg and a splendid vodvil stunt. No admission will be charged. This year is the second year that S. G. A. has had these parties to bring the girls on the campus into closer relationship. Music will be furnished by some member of the committee in charge of the party.

TO HOLD PARTY FOR PRESBYTERIAN FROSH

Presbyterian freshmen and transfers are invited to a get acquainted party at 8 o'clock Friday evening at Presbyterian student headquarters, 731 State Street.

The party which will be for new students will be attended by the old students also to help the others get acquainted. The house will be attractively decorated in fall leaves and colors. Presbyterian students and their friends are invited to attend.

Y. W. C. A. HEAD BACK FROM TRIP

Reports Airplane Travel Popular Mode of Transportation in Europe

Groups of girls gathered in the Y. W. C. A. office all day yesterday to welcome and chat with Miss Mary Anderson, director, who returned Tuesday night from a summer in Europe. Miss Anderson's party made an airplane trip from Copenhagen to Amsterdam in five and a half hours, whereas the trip by train takes 26 hours.

"However," laughed Miss Anderson, "Even five hours is too long for one's first fly. We traveled in a small plane which carried only four passengers. There is much flying in Europe, with the 12 passenger limousine planes most popular."

Miss Anderson and Miss M. Jean Hoard spent several weeks in Holland and then went to Paris, revisiting many places where Miss Anderson had been six years ago. Margaret A. Callsen '24 and Margaret Brown '24 went on to Italy.

According to Miss Anderson, Europe was so crowded with tourists this summer that many could not get train reservations to Switzerland. An English newspaper cartooned this condition by showing the Alps so crowded with people that even the tops were thronged.

"In both England and France Y. W. C. A. work is carried on extensively among industrial girls. The student Christian movement takes the place of the Y. W. C. A. among students," Miss Anderson said.

Says Revolution Will Characterize Twentieth Century

"Social revolution will characterize the 20th century," was the keynote of a speech given by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college at Waukesha, Wis., before a gathering in Chicago. Further, he claims that the school teacher and the schoolroom will be the dominant factors in the bringing about the change.

"I am convinced that 100 years from now will have accomplished so much in the way of social transformation, social betterment, greater social sympathy, achievement, truer understanding, finer relationships, that it will be impossible to characterize the achievements of the generation in any lesser term than a social revolt."

So far our country has passed through three periods, according to Dr. Ganfield. The first was the revolutionary period, then the civil war, and lastly the period of economic and industrial development. We are now, he says, in a growing fourth stage.

HOLD FIRST MEETING OF COMMERCE BOARD

The Commerce advisory commission held a meeting at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in Sterling hall. The commission is composed of senior and junior students in the course in commerce, who are elected by the faculty. Each member is an advisor to five freshmen in the course. These student advisors see and talk over advisees' courses and subjects, and help them during their freshman and sophomore years. The commission also works in conjunction with the Commerce club in giving in the commerce smoker.

W. A. A. Seeks $1 From All Women In the University

One dollar from every woman in the university to help swell the W. A. A. cottage fund to its final quota by the end of this week is the goal of every member of the Woman's Athletic association. That the drive has had a splendid beginning and that the association will raise the necessary amount was the opinion expressed yesterday by Esther Field, '25, president of W. A. A.

If the $1,000 is raised in money and pledges by this week Saturday, the workmen will start building the cottage on Monday. The bids from the contractors will be in the hands of the building committee when it meets on Friday. H. C. Huart, state architect, is working with this committee and will supervise the entire building of the cottage.

Provided that the cottage can be started on Monday, the work will be rushed ahead so that the cottage will be ready for use by the last of November. The cottage will be painted and decorated by members of the association under the direction of the building committee.

MICHIGAN ENROLLS 14-YEAR-OLD CO-ED

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Enrolled as a freshman in the University of Michigan before her fourteenth birthday, Cynthia Mallory, daughter of a professor in the rhetoric department yet insists that she is just an ordinary girl blessed with splendid health and given excellent home teaching by her mother.

She still enjoys dolls and reads fairy tales which she could spell out for herself at the age of four. She speaks French and inclines to specialize in the Romance of languages.

Miss Mallory's chief delight is in out of doors sports, particularly swimming and riding. She has had pets all her life, including canaries, and crows, a Shetland pony and a saddle horse, Scotch collies and a white Angora cat.

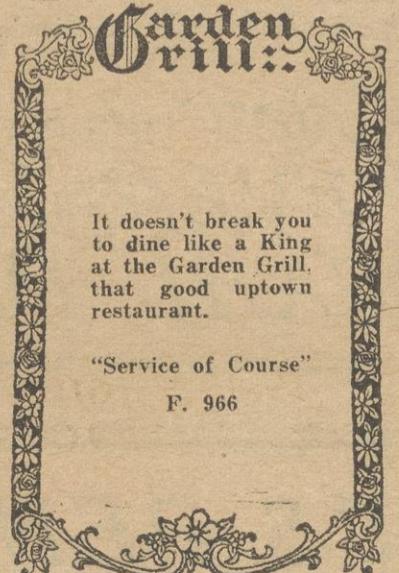

SIGN APPLICATIONS FOR LOCAL AIR SOCIETY

The people of Madison have evinced such interest in aerial activities that plans are being formed for an air society to be located here. H. R. Burr, member of the National Aeronautic society, is directing the plans. Ten local men have signed applications for a charter and 15 more, making the 25 necessary to receive the charter, are expected to sign up soon.

COMMERCE MAG TO APPEAR SOON

Editors Promise Several Articles By Prominent Business Men

The first issue of the Commerce magazine, the official publication of the course in commerce, will be out October 21. Henry Alinder, '25, the editor, says its purpose is to acquaint the students with the opportunities that exist in the various fields of business and to enable them to determine the line of business they wish to follow.

"This magazine will be of great value to commerce students," Alinder said, "as it will contain articles of general interest written by successful business men throughout the United States."

Some of the articles and their authors, which will appear in the first edition are: "The Keynote of Commerce," by Stanley C. Allyn, '13, controller of the National Cash Register Company; "Accounting as a Business Service," by G. N. Pelton, of Swift and Co., and "Good Morals in Business," by Charles Carpenter, president of E. F. Holton and Co., of Philadelphia. There will also be the usual departments, including "Up and Down Hill," and a column devoted to alumni news.

Plans for the coming year, according to Alinder, include a comprehensive questionnaire system. Questionnaires will be sent to the students in an effort to find out their aims in life and the line of business they intend to pursue. Questionnaires will also be sent to leading corporations throughout the country, demanding the officials' opinions of a college man, and how much they are willing to pay for the services of a man with a degree, in preference to a man with less education? These two questionnaires will then be combined and the whole result will be presented in the "Job" number, to be issued about next May.

MINNESOTA AND IOWA WIN AT DAIRY SHOW

Wisconsin was forced to bow to both Iowa and Minnesota as a dairy state, when the butter exhibits from Iowa carried off the silver and bronze medals, and twenty exhibits from Minnesota were placed ahead of those from the Badger state at the national dairy show at Milwaukee.

Iowa again took first place in the boys' and girls' club stock judging contests. The only place Wisconsin gained in this was a third in the Holstein judging contest.

The University of Wisconsin was placed second in the national students' cattle judging contests, while Michigan Agricultural college took first place.

PRINCETON, N. J.—That the study of Latin is advantageous to the average student is shown in the analysis of the records made by 10,000 college board candidates in nine leading college preparatory studies. The Latin students not only do better than the non-Latin students, but their records in all non-classical subjects go higher as the amount of Latin studied is greater.

BROOKHART ASKS TO OUST DAWES

General is Unfit to Run For Vice-President, Letter States

DES MOINES, Iowa—A meeting of the Iowa Republican Central committee was called today for noon tomorrow, at which the situation brought about by Sen. Smith W. Brookhart's statement of last night, demanding that Charles G. Dawes withdraw as the Republican candidate for vice president, will be discussed, it was announced by State Chairman B. B. Burnquist.

State Chairman Burnquist had telephone conversations with all members of the state committee this morning. The only subject discussed was the Brookhart letter to National Chairman Butler. The state chairman declined to discuss what action might be taken at tomorrow's meeting. He also refused to comment on the Brookhart letter.

CHICAGO—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Rep., Iowa, has demanded the resignation of Charles G. Dawes as the Republican candidate for the vice presidency. The demand was made in a letter to William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee.

The letter, made public Tuesday, charged that Dawes had wrecked the Republican campaign throughout the country, especially in the northwest. La Follette-Wheeler supporters saw the letter as a prelude to an open declaration for their ticket by the Iowa senator.

Sen. Brookhart requested that the Republican party choose, as a substitute, "a farm bloc candidate, not an imitation farm blocker." He suggested Sen. Norris, Neb.

Exceeds Worst Fears

The silence of the Iowa senator since the inception of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign had led Republican leaders to hope that he would ostensibly support the Republican ticket. The bombshell which Mr. Brookhart tossed at the feet of Chairman Butler Tuesday, however, surpassed their worst fears.

Sen. Brookhart's attack on the Republican candidate for vice president exceeds in bitterness even those of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler.

"Dawes started out like a bold faced 'plutogog,'" declared the Iowa senator, "but his courtesy and ungentlemanly language quickly reduced him in his vocabulary to a mere 'peewit plutogog.'"

Mr. Brookhart attacked Mr. Dawes' bank record where Sen. Wheeler left off, saying: "His sulphurated-hydrogen bank record, as established by the supreme court of Illinois the day he was nominated, renders him unfit for service. He should be removed as the candidate for his party as Denby and Daugherty were removed from office."

Ability Called Bluff

"His official defense in this transaction by a noted Democratic lawyer only makes this conclusion more emphatic. The claim that he was ignorant of the import of this act and only regarded it as a friendly favor adds color to the general claim that his own advertised financial ability is only a bluff and that he acts as the agent of international banking powers. The further defense that all bankers are doing the same thing is resented even by the bankers themselves.

"Under the false pretense of loyalty he has organized a disloyal group to conduct an illegal defense of the constitution of the United States with the secret purpose of destroying the constitutional rights of union labor, while the Pure Oil Co., in which he is interested is being sued by the government for violation of the criminal laws.

"Gen. Charles G. Dawes is an insult to the whole laboring world, and his sinister designs are so well known that he will certainly lose the entire labor vote."

Sen. Brookhart arrived in Chicago Tuesday and spent the greater part of the day with Newton Jenkins, the Republican candidate for United States senator from Illinois, who is endorsed by the La Follette-Wheeler forces. Mr. Brookhart will return to Iowa Wednesday where he will open his campaign Friday.

$300,000 Tobacco Sales Made By Wisconsin Pool

Sale of more than $300,000 worth of tobacco of the 1922 and 1923 crops was announced by Emerson Ela, business director of the Wisconsin pool. The sale represents transactions for the past week. The sales included the entire packing of one leaf department including both 1923 binders and "B's," several hundred pounds of low grades and the entire balance of table rags in the hands of the pool. Final payments to farmers will total approximately $21,000.

LEAGUE GETS NEW PEACE PLAN OFFER

Protocol to Settle Disputes Between Nations in Pacific Manner

GENEVA—The amended draft protocol on arbitration and security was presented to the assembly of the League of Nations for its approval today, accompanied by a general report by M. Politis of Greece, and Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia, official reporters for the two commissions which framed the document.

Special chapters are devoted to condemnation of aggressive war, compulsory or pacific methods of procedure of armaments, all of which form features of the protocol.

"Our purpose," says the report, "was to make war impossible—to kill it, to annihilate it. The plan drawn up leaves no loopholes, it prohibits its war of every description and lays down the role that all disputes shall be settled by pacific means."

If the smallest opening were left for any measure of force the whole system would collapse, it adds, and to this end arbitration is provided for every kind of dispute. Aggression is defined in such a way as to give no cause for hesitation when the council of the league has to make a decision.

Reports declare that these reasons led the framers of the protocol to fill in the gaps in the league covenant and definite sanctions in such a way that no possible means could be found for evading them.

"The peace of the world is at stake," continues the report. "The fifth assembly has undertaken a world-wide importance. If we succeed the League of Nations will have rendered inestimable service to the whole modern world."

The report ends by begging the assembly to examine the proposals with care and to recommend them to the various governments for acceptance.

The problem of the domestic jurisdiction of states raised by the Japanese delegation is treated at great length. Insistence is made that the protocol in no way derogates the rule of article XV of the covenant which protects national sovereignty but that "in order that no doubt may exist it appears advisable to say so expressly."

MADISON'S PIONEER SETTLER SUCCUMBS

Saw City Grow From Village of Tepees and Log Houses

Edward Deards, oldest resident of Madison, passed away Wednesday morning at his home, 335 W. Wilson st., of pneumonia. He was past 93 years old. Mr. Deards has been a continuous resident of Madison since 1848—the year Wisconsin became a state.

Mr. Deards, for years retired from the contracting business, was born in London, England, on March 17, 1831. He grew up in an atmosphere of adventure, but a few short years after the War of 1812, and when he was 17 he set out for America himself.

He came directly to Wisconsin and settled in the town of Windsor, Dane county, in 1846. There his father took up a government claim and worked it. Young Deards, however, remained there for two years, then set out for Madison—a village of whites and Indians set in a wilderness.

The family followed him here and in 1849 built themselves a little home on the shore of Lake Monona—a home constructed from virgin timber which still stands just a little ways back from Wilson st.

Built Many Homes

Mr. Deards not only watched Madison expand from a village of Indian tepees and log houses to a thriving metropolis, but he aided materially in its growth. Shortly after he had helped his father complete their own home, he began work here as a contractor, and in the years that followed, he built many of the pioneer residences here, some of which are still standing.

Only One Man Older

There is but one man in Madison who is older than was Mr. Deards. He is Andrew Krum, 29 W. Doty st., who celebrated his 97th birthday anniversary last Aug. 9. Mr. Krum, though older in years, has not been a resident of Madison as long as had Mr. Deards.

Mr. Deards residence in Madison spanned more than three quarters of a century.

In spite of his advanced years, Mr. Deards was unusually spry. Recently a member of The Capital Times editorial staff called upon him and was surprised to find him a man of such great activity.

Garden Was Hobby

His garden and his rose bushes were his hobbies. Each spring would find this little old man of well past 80 summers out in his garden plot working the soil, sowing the seed, and all summer he cultivated and weeded his patch with all the care of an expert nurseryman.

He was a man of kindly eye, firm convictions, and charitable nature.

Trip Around World

It was interesting to sit by while he worked among his flowers and hear him relate some of the experiences of his life—how in his young manhood he made a trip around the world in search of gold.

It was in 1853 with the gold rush to Australia when young Deards started out to make his fortune.

He crossed the Pacific with a group of gold-seekers in an old wooden tramp vessel, and it was with a twinkle in his eyes, that he told of the many storms, mutinies and troubles which they experienced during their many days at sea.

From Australia, Mr. Deards continued his voyage, though many of the group turned back, and in due time he completed a trip around the globe.

Has Seven Children

Mr. Deards is survived by his widow who is now 84 years old, and seven children, only one of whom lives in Madison. A daughter, Mrs. W. W. Gilman resides at 206 S. Hamilton st. The other children surviving are:

Became Ill Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Deards made their home with Mr. and Mrs. James D. McShane. Mrs. McShane is a daughter of Mr. Deards.

Mr. Deards became seriously ill on Sunday. He had contracted a slight cold last week and it affected his sister of Mrs. Deards.

"Ghost Books" Exit From Shelves For Reference Volumes

Trudging to an empty library shelf on which there are supposed to be innumerable reference books, all of which have been confiscated by the more honorable members of our student body, is an indoor sport in which all have participated. "Do you believe in the honor system," a senior asked a freshman.

"Sure," replied the freshman, "I voted for it three times."

This is the same observance of the honor system which the students of Wisconsin show in the use of library books.

University men and women, even though majoring in ethics, seem to conclude that the use of library books is exempt from all the laws of decency. Placing books on the wrong shelf for future accessibility, is a habit common to many.

Instead of the road hog of universal repute; we have the book hog of university repute.

Regarding a book as a friend may be too scholastic a conception to prevent the marking and defacing of books; but the thought that one might want to use the same book again at some future date should appeal even to students.

Davis Begins Final Drive With Attack On Treasury Head

FREDERICK, Md. — John W. Davis, in beginning his final drive for the presidency made a direct attack here today on Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and his defense of the Aluminum Co. of America.

Addressing the federated women's clubs, the Democratic standard-bearer said that to justify the unwarranted increase by his party friends and associates of tariff rates on maluminum and aluminum manufacturers Mr. Mellon had quoted a letter from Bernard M. Baruch commanding the patriotic services of Mr. Mellon and his company during the war.

"I had not supposed," he said, "that patriotism during the war had any relations to personal favors when the war was closed. Indeed Mr. Mellon was foremost among those who denied that even military service gave veterans any claims to adjusted compensation."

Hear Arguments Today In U. W. Land Case

Arguments before a board of appraisers were heard Wednesday afternoon on the value of three pieces of land owned by L. H. Kleinheinz on University ave., and which the university is seeking for a site for an addition to the new Wisconsin General hospital.

The appraisers who have been appointed by Judge E. Ray Stevens are: F. W. Hoyt, L. L. Oeland and W. Way. Mr. Kleinheinz is represented by Frank Gilbert and Roman Heilman, attorneys.

Bank Commission Must Inspect Loan Companies

It is mandatory upon the state bank commissioner to make an annual examination of building and loan associations in the state and he may use any funds at his command to make such examinations, Deputy Atty. Gen. Erikson today informed Dwight T. Parker, bank commissioner. Commissioner Parker informed the legal department that the legislature failed to make an appropriation for the purpose and to provide methods for assessing fees. The cost of making the annual examination of building and loan associations in the state, numbering about 150, is approximately $20,000, it is estimated.

26,505 ENROLL IN EXTENSION DIVISION

English Leads in Number of Registrants; Mathematics Stands Second

Wisconsin has another student body more than three times larger than the one which is seen on the hill every day. Morning, noon, or night, in the home, in the workshop, in the mines, in the lumber camps, in practically every state in the union, may be seen one or more of these students studying sincerely and earnestly one of the various courses offered by the Extension division.

Registration figures for this year show that a total of 26,505 active students are now enrolled in the correspondence study department of the Extension division. More than two-thirds of this number are men students but the percentage of women students is constantly increasing.

Of the many and varied courses offered by correspondence, the social sciences, such as education, economics, history, sociology, are the most popular, with the engineering and industrial subjects a close second. A great many students also enroll in the business and vocational courses but the majority of these courses do not offer credit toward a degree.

English is the subject which has more registrants than any other. Mathematics is second.

Registration in correspondence study courses was very high during the summer. Many teachers chose to study at home rather than go away to summer school and a few students enrolled either to meet university entrance requirements or to make up courses which could not be taken with a full schedule.

TRAINED ANIMALS DIE IN HORSE CAR FIRE

CHICO, Calif.—Thirty six trained dancing horses of the Al G. Barnes circus, valued at $100,000, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the car in which they were being transplanted from Chico to Willows, Calif., early this morning. The fire was discovered four miles north of this city.

The horses killed in the fire were seen in Madison several years ago when the Barnes' circus appeared here.

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS HOLD "FORD CLINIC"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Automobiles registered in the United States during the first six months of 1924 amounted to 15,552,077, an increase of 20 per cent over the corresponding period of a year ago, the American Automobile Association announced today on the basis of the semi-annual count made by the U. S. bureau of public roads.

There were registered during the first six months of the year 13,645,726 passenger cars, 1,831,405 motor trucks and 74,946 taxis, busses and cars for hire.

BANKERS ATTACK "BOB'S" VIEWS

Head of Manufacturers' Body Says He is a National Liability

CHICAGO—The political views of Sen. Robert M. La Follette, were sharply attacked at today's session of the American Bankers' association convention.

Previous sessions had confined themselves to condemnation of the principal planks in the platform of the independent candidate whose name was not mentioned, but today he was specifically named as "the nation's chief liability," in an address prepared for delivery by John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mr. Edgerton declared "the elements of distrust and suspicion, prejudice and hatred, discontent and vengeance have been multiplied and are being brought together into a dangerous power by an enterprising genius from Wisconsin who is never happy except when conspicuous as either a destructionist or a constructionist."

Except for the human element of responsiveness of the egotistic to the appeal of the demagogue, he declared, "that arch demagogue, La Follette, and all other demagogues would be compelled to find some useful employment for their misplaced talents."

"If there is anything against which the citizenry of our country should hurl its resistance," he continued, "it is the impudently recurring attempts of charlatans in various disguises to weaken the arm of our courts by cunningly devised statutes and amendments to the constitution. It has become a fad, or rather a disease, to amend our constitution and by amending it to render inoperative the wisest provisions of its original architects."

"One of the proposals which embody the evidence of these fatal tendencies is the so-called child labor amendment. It is meant to restrict production and compel un-economic advances in wages and to expend the powers of the federal government as to require the creation of more public offices and a further excuse for raising the cost of government."

President Coolidge, in a congratulatory message received by the association late yesterday spoke of multiplied evidences of improving conditions throughout the business structures of the world. Credit for the improvement, the president stated, was due to American leadership, its faith and ready helpfulness.
