RIOT OF FUN FOR BIG CROWD AT JAMBOREE

Brilliant Costumes Vie
With Each Other for Prize Awards

A grand march of brilliantly costumed Indians, clowns, fairies, devils, policemen, convicts, butterflies, hoboes, and innumerable other characters led by Ralph Scott '22, the Lord High Chamberlain, arrayed in a lace curtain, a Greek helmet and a pair of bed room slippers started the second annual Varsity Jamboree. A spectacular lynching by some Y. M. C. A. devils, a Press club riot, a sleight-of-hand performance interspersed with dancing under falling confetti made the fancy dress party.

While terpsichorean artists scintillated on the slippery ballroom floor, a person, apparently anxious for something to happen, suddenly alarmed the crowd by vociferously picking up an argument with a person across the floor. Immediately thereafter two denizens of the wild and woolly west took sides on the bottom. One of them taking a shot at another, hit the main wire feeding the electric lights, and the ball room was filled with inky blackness and hushed anxious voices. When the lights were on again Hearst-like "extras" flooded the floor, telling all about it—and the Press club riot was over.

Hard, one upon another, terrible scenes were enacted. One honest, duty-struck guardian of the law, mixed himself up with a crowd of unlady-like inhabitants of the lower regions. His end was a bitter one.

The first group prize, a bronze cup, was given to the Acacia convicts. An independent group of Indians was given the second prize of a candy roll. The Y. M. C. A. devils took the third prize of a carton of cigarettes. The fourth, a cake, went to the Fluffy Ruffins from the Williams' house. A cave man and woman, Miss Porter and Mr. Shumaker, took the mixed couple prizes. The man received a pipe and tobacco pouch and the woman a box of candy. The prize men's couple, Lenine and Trotzky, W. T. Comstock '21, and H. L. Riordan, grad., received a box of candy.

The other prize awards were as follows: Men, first prize, McFadden, carton of cigarettes; second prize, Hessman as Kismet, a ticket for a haircut, shave and massage. Girls, first prize, Miss Georgiana toilet set; second prize, Miss McCaffrey, a box of candy.

FROSH TRACK MEN REGISTER 60 TO 43 WIN

Defeat Sophomores When,
After Spectators Leave,
Score is Corrected

That the freshmen won the annual freshman-sophomore indoor track meet yesterday was not known until after the last event had been run, when the announcement was made that Finkle, winner of the mile and two mile who had been running for '23 was virtually a second semester freshman. The correct final score, unknown to the spectators, was: Freshmen 60, Sophomores 43.

The score as first given out was 53 to 50 in the sophs favor. It was a hard fought meet throughout and according to Coaches T. E. Jones and G. T. Bresnahan the fastest soph-frosh meet in years.

H. W. Armstrong '24, was the high individual point winner with 17 points. G. H. Finkle '24 was second with first places in the mile and two mile. Both men are second semester freshmen and will be eligible for varsity next semester.

The summaries:
Shot put—H. W. Armstrong F, first; B. K. Slaughter F, second; S. R. Thomson F, third. Distance 33 feet 7 1/2 inches.

MAROONS PILE UP BIG LEAD; WIN 39 TO 27

Stagg's Men Tally 12 Points
Before Badgers Can Score

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Starting off with a rush which netted them a lead the Badgers could not overcome, the University of Chicago basketball team last night defeated Wisconsin by a score of 37 to 29.

Before Coach Meanwell's men could hit their stride the Maroon five had scored six baskets, a total of 12 points, and piled up a score of 18 to 5 early in the game. By the end of the half, however, the Badgers had cut the lead of Stagg's men down to 4 points. The period ended with the score 21 to 17 in Chicago's favor.

Knapp, Rollie Williams, and Taylor did all the scoring for Wisconsin, each man dropping in four field goals. Taylor's free throwing netted the other three points. The Badger forward missed seven out of ten free throw chances, while Birkhoff dropped in nine out of fifteen for the Maroons.

The Badger team was weakened when Ceaser and Tebell were forced to retire from the game on account of personal fouls. McIntosh replaced Ceaser at center, while Frogner took Tebell's guard position.

Wisconsin excelled in passing, but both teams were weak on defense. Rollie Williams' dribbling was sensational.

Vollmer starred for Chicago with seven field goals. Halladay dropped in six and Birkhoff two.

HARESFOOT PLAY CHOICE NARROWS DOWN TO THREE

$50 Prize to be Awarded Author of Selection Picked by Judges

Three plays have been selected from a number written by students of the university for the spring musical comedy production of the Haresfoot club, and the play committee, headed by Horace Carver '21, has turned them over to the faculty advisory committee of the club for final approval and selection.

More than usual interest has been manifested this year by students in regard to the writing of the play, as the Haresfoot club is this year using a student-written play instead of a professional show as was used last year.

The plays that have been submitted cover varied topics. Japan, Long Island, and turbulent Mexico have been chosen by the student playwrights for the scenes of their action. "The plays are of exceptional high calibre," said Carver, "and the production will doubtless be one of the best amateur shows that Haresfoot has yet put on."

Selection of the play and the award of the $50 prize to the winning author will be made during the coming week.

TWENTY ENTERED IN FOX TROT CONTEST

Twenty contestants, only two of whom are women, have entered in the Prom Fox Trot contest, according to Margaret McDowell, chairman of the committee. Those who have signed for tryouts are:

William Tannewitz '23, Ethel Lemmer '23, William Dorward '23, George Dorsey '24, Elmer Hintz '23, Eugene Meng '24, Russell Conn '21, Eada Buckmaster '21, Nelson Fairbank '23, Hal Taylor '22, Charles Demarest '24, Lincoln Quarberg '21, Carl Maedje '21, J. W. Thompson '23, Jesse Cohen '23, and I. O. Hughes '21.

Tryouts will be held next week in Lathrop. Hours will be assigned to the contestants.

JUDGING from the present trend of short dresses, it wouldn't be at all surprising if there were an epidemic of kneemonia coming on.

JANUARY ISSUE OF "LIT" HAS MORE VARIETY THAN USUAL, SAYS CRITIC

BY EUGENE H. BYRNE

When I was asked to review the January number of the "Lit" I was puzzled. Why should an historian, pseudo and quasi, be considered qualified for such a task? Two explanations presently appeared: I was told apologetically that the issue was perhaps not up to standard, and I discovered that one of the best stories in the magazine dealt with a historical subject! My counter is that the current number of the "Lit," interesting from beginning to end, has more variety than any number I remember to have seen, and I do not propose to bring my historical criticism to bear on Mr. Dyas's story. It is too good to spoil, even were the opportunity present.

"Bronze and Steel" is a bit of what I should call romantic realism were I not afraid of being drawn into the I. B. controversy,—of a kind new to these pages, by Joseph Christie Dyas. It is a good tale well told, with color, imagination and distinct possibilities for what is called, I believe, a scenario. Some of us would break our custom and go to the movies to see it "screened." Frank Gray hasn't thrilled us as he did with "Bare Hands," but he has written the best story in the magazine, a quiet one, amusingly called "The Soul of a Freshman," wherein many of us, on whichever side of the desk we daily sit, may pleasantly spend a quarter-hour reminiscently. "The Line of Least Resistance," by Katherine Rockwell, like Gray's story, has a local atmosphere and not unlike his, has an idea in it well brought out; not a novel idea to be sure, but one underclassmen too often fail to grasp. In an entirely different tone and one quite as new to the "Lit" as that struck in "Bronze and Steel" is A. C. Hamilton's "Tenax Proposition." This is a very amusing story of small boys' games on a hot summer day, full of penetration of the imagination that underlies boys' sport more deeply than we often realize. It is not exactly Barrie, but it is mighty good. A different, slighter, not so successful approach to the mind of childhood are Margery Latimer's "Three Sketches."

The verse in the current number, with one exception, is not so good as usual. Edwin Moffatt's "Reflection" is the exception,—a good poem with a real emotion rhythmically expressed, the only piece of verse before us here that one stops to re-read at once. Frances Dummer's "Songs of the Sierras" are not so good as others we have seen over her name, and be it said this does not condemn them, but they lack the sweep we laymen want in such verse, a sweep she has often caught. The only sonnet in this issue is one in which the imagery and verse deserved a more careful working out of the thought, for in his "Duchess of Padua," Horace Gregory has failed to get his thought across. "Sails," by Henry Scott Rubel, sings along through ten four-verse stanzas an interesting character sketch of an old sailmaker, not very original but well done. Mavis McIntosh's lyric "Flight" is pleasant for a moment,—all that it pretends to be, but Dorothy Shaner's "The House on the Broad Highway" is labored. There is no free verse and, thanks be, no reference to "her wide red mouth" in the verse of this issue.

The leading editorial and the book review by the new editor, P. V. G., are excellent. He is to be congratulated on his first issue, a most interesting issue. The readers in the outer circles will be grateful for a new feature, the sketches of the contributors.

THE "LIT"

THE January number of the Wisconsin Literary Magazine will make its appearance on the campus this week. The unusual success of the "Lit" this year as a student publication is evidence that the high literary standards which the "Lit" has consistently maintained find a ready response here.

The special function of the "Lit" has ever been to reflect the thought and foster the idealism of the Wisconsin student. The "Lit" recognizes the short-comings of present day college life in the emphasis of the purely practical things and the neglect of the cultural subjects.

"The primary function of our colleges and universities is to develop the intellect and to give the student a background of culture"—this is the contention of the "Lit" as expressed in its leading editorial this month.

"The modern desire for practicality and material results is bringing about a change that must in the end be deplored. It is, of course, undeniably important to fit men for the exigencies of modern life, but it is not wise to bend all our efforts toward turning out a man equipped for the industrial struggle and only for the industrial struggle."

To the hopelessly materialistic-minded such an influence as the "Lit" is nothing more than a voice in the wilderness. Professional and vocational training has its strong defenders. The proponents of the gospel of "learning for learning's sake" we must also have, and the raison d'être of the "Lit" is to give expression to the humanities.

ARE WE OVER ORGANIZED?

WITH the same degree of certainty that final examinations always appear the question of too many campus organizations invariably bobs up.

Students can give themselves plenty of food for thought in a careful analysis of the status of every organization at Wisconsin. What is to determine whether or not a society of some sort or other is filling a definite need, or if its existence is actually of some material benefit to its members?

It must be admitted that with a roll call of organizations exceeding the century mark some can be easily weeded out. Where to start and which to eliminate is the problem.

If it is found to be inadvisable to eliminate any organizations now in existence, it might be well for the Senate and S. G. A. to announce a plan whereby the needed curtailment can be accomplished. Something must be done. Who will fire the opening gun?

REGISTRATION FOR THE SECOND SEMESTER

Regular registration days are Thursday and Friday, February 10 and 11, but the Registrar's office will be open for registration during the entire examination period and students are urged to register early.

Students absent without excuse from their first classes at the opening of the second semester will not be permitted to enter the semester examinations in such studies. Late registration will not be a valid excuse for students who were in attendance during the first semester.

Students are requested to clip this schedule and preserve it for reference. Extra copies may be secured at the Registrar's office.

HOCKEY MEET AND BOAT RACE ARE POSTPONED

Unfinished Link Makes
Only One Event
Possible

Because the hockey rink could not be prepared soon enough to permit the scheduled games to be played, the annual inter-class hockey tournament was postponed until next Saturday afternoon.

A game was played between an All-American team composed of freshmen and juniors, and a squad of sophomores and juniors. The all-Americans captured the contest, four goals to one.

Men who worked out in the game and displayed good form are: Charles H. Fitzsimmons '23, Albert J. Scheu '23, Henry C. Jenswold '22, William Dealman '23, Rowe G. Baker '22, Robert O. Blodgett '23, Thomas A. Tredwell '22, John H. Murdock '23.

The iceboat race was also postponed because of the calm on the lake. The race will be held in connection with the inter-class hockey tournament. The athletic department may decide to hold the entire list of postponed games in connection with the Ice carnival, an annual event, to be held next month.

Hockey players will work out every afternoon next week in order to get into condition for the hard schedule which the Wisconsin team has scheduled. The Badgers play their first inter-collegiate meet with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, February 25. The Wolverines come to Madison for a series of two games on March 25 and 26. Games have also been carded with the Michigan School of Mines and a tentative date has been arranged with Northwestern university.

LIEUT. COL. FURLONG TO SPEAK ON NEAR EAST EXPERIENCES

Lieut. Col. Charles W. Furlong, artist, traveler, and lecturer, will give two illustrated talks on his recent experiences as a military observer in the Near East. The first will be given tomorrow on the subject "Dalmatia and its Hinterlands," and on Thursday, January 20, he will speak on "Turkey." Both lectures will be given in 165 Bascom hall.

Lieutenant Colonel Furlong appeared here a few years ago, and since that time, his war experiences turned his attention to other portions of the world. Enlisting as a private at the opening of the war, he soon rose in the ranks until at its close he was made a lieutenant colonel, and was detailed to accompany President Wilson to the Peace conference.

WOMAN BANKER HAS ADVICE FOR CO-EDS

Woman's Commerce club, introduced Miss Kenney.

"Women in American business have been more favorably regarded and more eagerly sought since the beginning of the war, and especially since our participation in it. Their war activities developed in them a certain sense of responsibility, which made them a distinct asset in business enterprises," declared Miss Kenney.

That it is not the brilliant person, necessarily, who makes a success of the human interest business because it does not require brilliancy to be of service to anyone, was a point stressed by Miss Kenney.

Her work as head of the woman's department of one of the 20 largest banks in the United States, was fully explained.

AT THE STRAND

Caution and love are a very poor combination.

Louis Martinot, a young Frenchman, thought he loved Susanne Bergomat, but his conventional soul hesitated at proposing to her before he knew what her family was like.

So he deputed his friend, Paul Blythe, to investigate and, if the girl was found to have worthy parentage, to propose marriage for him.

Right then and there began the complications which local playgoers will see when "Her Beloved Villain" is viewed by them at the Strand theater today.
