HEAR PAULDING

SHAKESPEAREAN ACTOR AT LIBRARY HALL SATURDAY.

Will Read From Shakespeare and Modern Writers—Has Had Remarkable Stage Career.

Mr. Frederick Paulding, of Milwaukee, Shakespearean actor, student of literature and playwright, will give a reading at Library Hall next Saturday evening before the students, under the auspices of the Oratorical Association.

Mr. Paulding has had a remarkable history, having probably been associated with more great actors than any living modern actor. He has played almost every great part in modern plays—tragic and comic—but has engaged exceptional advantages for the study of Shakespeare and classic dramatic art, having begun his career under the wonderful direction of Sir Henry Irving at the historic Lyceum in London. He has at different periods of his life been associated professionally with Edwin Booth, John McCulough, James E. Murdock, Fanny Davenport, Lester Wallack, Joseph Jefferson, William J. Florence, and Mrs. John Drew. Long association with the great lights of the stage has given Mr. Paulding a knowledge and appreciation of the traditions of Shakespearean verse not frequently if ever found among platform readers.

His Many Shakespearean Roles.

In his career as actor, Frederick Paulding has played an exceptional number of Shakespearean roles. Among them are, "Hamlet" over 200 times, besides the characters of "King Claudius," "Laertes," "The Ghost," and "Horatio" in the same tragedy; "Macbeth," "Macduff" and "Malcolm" in Macbeth; "Iago" and "Cassio" in Othello; "Cassius" in Julius Caesar, "Romeo" in Romeo and Juliet (over twelve hundred times), "Richard III.," "King Henry VI.," "Shylock," "Bassanio" and "Gratiano" in Merchant of Venice; "Orlando" and "Jacques" in As You Like It; "Duke Orsino" and "Malvolio" in Twelfth Night, and "Benedict" in Much Ado About Nothing. He has also played "Mephisto" in Goethe's Faust and "Captain Abso-lute" in Sheridan's "The Rivals." Mr. Paulding will read from Hamlet, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, and from The Rivals, besides a number of lighter selections from modern authors.

Mr. Collins' Funeral.

The funeral services of the late Charles Graham Collins will be held from the Phi Kappa Psi house, 625 Francis St., to-morrow morning at 11:30.

As a tribute of respect to their deceased classmate, the senior class in civil engineering will be relieved of all college duties to-morrow. All members of the junior and senior classes, also in the College of Engineering, in all courses, will be relieved of college duties between the hours of 11 and 1.

The burial will be in Milwaukee to-morrow at Forest home cemetery. The majority of the chapter will accompany the remains. It was expected that Rev. Mr. Stiers, of Grace Episcopal church, Chicago, and national president of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, would conduct the services, but as he is unable to be present, his first assistant Rev. Mr. A. M. Ericson, will officiate. Rev. Ericson is also a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Senior Class Takes Action.

The class of 1901 met at 4 this afternoon and drew up the following resolutions relative to the death of Mr. Collins:

"We, the class of 1901, recognizing the loss sustained in the death of our classmate, Charles Graham Collins, in a special meeting take this means of expressing our sorrow for the sad event, and of extending our sympathy to his mother in her deep bereavement."

Committee—Clarence J. White, May Foley, Ralph Plumb.

From President Adams.

One of the members of the faculty has just received a letter from President Adams who is in Italy. Mr. Adams says that his party has abandoned its Egyptian trip, and will remain at San Remo, Italy. In the

PHIL KING RETURNS

FROM A MONTH'S TRIP THROUGH EAST.

Crew Fund Started Among Eastern Alumni—Baseball and Football Plans—Minnesota Here Nov. 16th.

Coach Phil King returned this noon after a month's trip to various eastern cities. While absent, a portion of his time was spent in organizing a crew fund among the alumni in the East. Although no definite returns have been received, the prospects for material assistance are especially good. Arrangements were made with various alumni associations at New York, Washington, Boston and Baltimore to start subscription papers spring President Adams will visit Athens and Sicily. Since leaving Battle Creek, Michigan, the president has gained thirty-five pounds in weight. Dr. Farnsworth, his physician, considers his state of health so good, that he does not believe that the President needs his attention any longer. The doctor will consequently return to New York soon.

Mr. Frederick Paulding as "Cassius."

New York Alumni Banquet.

The Cardinal has received notice of the second annual dinner of the University of Wisconsin Alumni Club of New York which will be held on the evening of Friday, Jan. 25th.

The officers of the club are E. F. Dwight, '87, president; W. T. Arndt, '96, treasurer, and Philip L. Allen, '99, secretary.

at once. In New York this paper will be under the charge of W. T. Arndt, '96. While in Washington, T. S. Brolaney and Geo. B. Nelson, '97, will conduct the canvass. It is hoped that quite a sum may be raised in this manner as it seems no more than logical that a portion of the expenses of the crew should be met by the eastern supporters of the University since all the great races are held there.

As yet but two games are arranged for this year's football schedule; one with Minnesota at Madison Nov. 16th, and with Chicago at Chicago on Thanksgiving day. Although a game with Michigan was hoped for, negotiations have thus far proved of no avail.

Several changes will probably be made in the baseball schedule but as yet nothing definite has been done.

Practice will begin about the first of March.

There will be no eastern games either in baseball or football.

SUMMER SESSION.

Courses in the School of Commerce by Professor Emory R. Johnson of the Isthmian Commission.

The University has just concluded a contract with Professor Emory R. Johnson, of the Isthmian Canal Commission, for two courses of lectures in general field of Commerce to be given during our summer session. One of these courses will be in the subject of Transportation, and will include an analysis of the transportation service and of its relation to commerce, industry and social conditions, a discussion of theories regarding costs of service, monopoly and competition, rates and fares, public aid, governmental regulations, etc., and a special account of the evolution of the railroad question in the United States. The second course will be on the Foreign Commerce of the United States, and will include a discussion of the typical industrial resources of different sections of our country and of the commerce which those industries occasion with the more important foreign countries, the inland and ocean routes by which this commerce is carried on, and in particular the effects which an Isthmian canal would have on the industries and commerce of the United States. Both of these courses will extend throughout the entire summer session, will be of university grade, and will be accredited as are other regular courses given during the summer session.

Professor Emory R. Johnson is an authority on the subjects on which he will lecture. For many years he has been conducting courses on Transportation in the University of Pennsylvania, and during the past year, as a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission, he has had unusual opportunities for the study of the foreign commerce of the United States. He has visited the important commercial centers of South and Central America and all the great cities of the United States, and has devoted his entire attention to the study of the relations between our industries and the Isthmian Canal project. The course above described has never been given in any university before, and will present the results of Professor Johnson's recent investigations.

These courses will present to the students of the University an unusual opportunity to become acquainted with an important phase of our modern industrial life, and it is hoped that an unusual number will take advantage of it. It is not often that university students have an opportunity to receive instruction on such questions as these from a man who has such practical experience as has Professor Johnson. It will also interest students to know that Professor Johnson is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and in consequence is not unfamiliar with what is wanted here.

—The first part of the Bulletin on the Clay resources of the State is in the hands of the state press. It will be remembered that this report has been worked up by the Geological Survey department of the University.

—The administrative report by Director E. A. Birge of the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey, on "parts of Douglas and Ashland County" will soon appear before the public.

Art Exhibit.

While the general attendance at the art exhibit has been very satisfactory, still some of the lectures have been delivered to rather slim audiences. Students ought to remember that after leaving the University opportunities to hear such subjects discussed by men of high standing in their several departments.

Emory Johnson for Summer School.

The communication in another column by Professor Scott relative to the summer school will serve to draw the attention of many students to the exceptional opportunities offered in this department of the University. The increasing number of University people who take advantage of the summer session reacts so as to bring the best obtainable lecturers into this field. The engagement of Professor Johnson is another evidence of the lead which Wisconsin is taking along the line of commercial education. This personal contact with the men who have contributed to the formation of modern policies and to the extension of modern industrial enterprises is something that has hitherto been lacking in higher education, at least here in the West. Although, of course, the great majority of students do not attend the summer session, still it is well to think of these opportunities when planning for the summer.

Representation at Inauguration.

A communication has been received at this office from Wallace Donald McLean, chairman of the inter-collegiate section of the inaugural committee at Washington inviting Wisconsin to send a delegation to participate in the inaugural parade March 4.

Owing to the heavy expense it will, of course, be impossible to accept, much as we may desire it. But our University ought to be represented in the parade and it would not be a bad idea for our alumni in Washington and vicinity to join in the celebration as representatives of their alma mater. There were enough Wisconsin men at Washington to create quite a sensation at a recent celebration, and there appears to be no reason why they should not be mustered for the national event. The Badger yell has a resonant quality peculiar to itself and, literally speaking, a little of it goes a long way. There are surely enough Wisconsin men accessible to send it through a considerable portion of the national capital and a little effort on our part should bring them out.

Should the matter be brought to their notice by any of the University authorities their pride in the success of the home institution would be sufficient to insure their taking it up and securing a good representation for Wisconsin.

Waiting for Cold Weather.

The skating rink at the foot of Francis St., is ready to be flooded as soon as cold weather sets in. The snow has been removed from a field of ice several times the size of the rink on Monona. Tickets will be placed on sale in Main Hall, at the Co-op and several downtown places as soon as the rink is ready.

Because of the expense incurred in removing the heavy snow the Board of Directors has decided to fix the price for season tickets at 25 cents and single skates at 5 cents. There is after all but a nominal charge considering that ordinarily a single skate costs from 10 to 15 cents.

Sphinx Out.

A creditable number of the Sphinx was issued to-day. The center drawing by G. S. Ishikawa entitled "A New Time" is done in his usual artistic style. Other drawings by Kraus, Van Hagen, Spooner and Sutter are well executed. The literary part of this number is rather above the ordinary. The subject of the approaching examinations is touched upon and due attention is given to small-pox. In poetry the Sphinx is improving. "A Devilish Pre-Lenten Conspiracy," is quite ingenious and, but for some liberties which the author allows himself in the matter of rhyme and meter, is well written.

Local and Personal.

—Mr. Otto Patzer was unable to meet his classes today.

—Dale C. Shockley, '04, had the misfortune to sprain his wrist in the gym yesterday.

—The quarterly meeting of the Board of Regents was held in the secretary's office today.

—Prof. Hendrickson of Albion Academy visited his son Norman Hendrickson, '03, Saturday.

—Dr. J. A. Muenich of Jefferson was an over Sunday visitor with his son, Max M. Muenich, '01.

—Mr. R. L. Race, '04, has left the University an account of ill health. He has gone to his home in Portage.

—Max M. Muenich, '01, is teaching German in the Madison High School in the absence of the regular teacher, Miss Kleinpell.

—Prof. G. C. Comstock delivered an address yesterday at Sheboygan in honor of their new high school building which has just been finished.

—A joint convention of the Wisconsin Cheese Makers association and the alumni of the Short Course school will be held in Madison, Jan. 23rd, 24th, and 25th. Excellent programs have been arranged and a number of noted speakers on dairying will be present. A number of exhibits will be made for which some valuable medals are offered.

—At the faculty meeting yesterday Mr. S. T. Miller, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was elected a fellow in physics in place of L. J. Klug, fellow in civil engineering, resigned. Mr. John W. Schuster B. S. University of Wisconsin, '99, was elected fellow in electrical engineering in place of Geo. H. Jones, fellow in electrical engineering, resigned. Both of these appointments are for the second semester. Yesterday's was the first meeting of the faculty under the new organization.

Lectures on Greek Life.

If as many as 20 students take out cards for it, I shall offer next semester a course of lectures on Greek Life.
The following topics, among others,
will be treated:

- I. The land and people of ancient Greece.
- II. Homeric life: (a) public; (b) private.
- III. The period of colonization.
- IV. The epoch of lyric poetry: (a) elegy; (b) personal satire; (c) melic; (d) choral lyric.
- V. The Attic period: (a) time of the Persian invasions; (b) Periclean Athens; (c) tragedy; (d) comedy; (e) history and philosophy; (f) political life; (g) private life.
- VI. Athletics and the great games.
- VII. Art, especially sculpture.
- VIII. Medicine and surgery.
- IX. Death and burial.
- X. Greek views of heaven and hades.

Topics will be suggested for private reading in connection with the lectures, which will be illustrated, and will count as a one-fifth course. The design of the course is rather to stimulate general interest in the subject than to make such a study as could be expected only of Greek students, hence it is open to those from other courses, and visitors will be welcome. Those who expect to take it should inform the undersigned, or their class officers, if possible before the Intermediate Examinations, so that it may be definitely settled that the course is to be given. The hour will be Thursdays 4 p. m.

A VISIT TO THE FARM.Many Interesting and Instructive Scenes From Rural Life.At present "the farm" presents one of the busiest scenes in the institution. The short course department with its attendance of about three hundred students is now in the midst of its work, busily engaged in various experiments relative to farm work.
With its yards of stock feeding, and its busy appearance the farm certainly has a genuine rural aspect.As it is, the only time during the year when all of the students are here, more extensive experiments are carried on now than at any other time.
Perhaps the most interesting series of experiments in operation are those which are being carried on under the instruction of the horticulturist, Prof.
Goff, in the Garden House. A sample of these is in operation in the plant life laboratory where students are conducting some exceedingly interesting experiments in the germination of clover seed. First class clover seed is examined and tested by each student in the seed testers to find what per cent. of the seed is capable of germination. This done each student plants four samples of this seed in seed pans at the depths; one-fourth inch, one and one-fourth inches, and one and three-fourths inches deep, respectively. One row is also placed on the surface of the soil. The purpose of the experiment is to find the depth through which clover seed can grow and to determine how the germination on the surface will compare with those of other depths. As clover is now one of the most important crops grown by the farmers it is of special interest to make a special study of its growth.One of the most interesting features of the Garden house is its rhubarb department. That the growth of rhubarb is forced in midwinter seems strange. But once a week a fine crop is harvested which is sold at a very high price to retail dealers.Other garden vegetables are grown.
Already one crop of lettuce and radishes is being closed and the beds are being filled with young plants for another crop. Each student has an individual bed for which he cares. The students are kept informed regarding the prices received for the produce, thus giving them a chance to compute the profits in the business. In another portion of the green house students are taught to propagate florists plants by regular green-house methods. They have a small collection of geranium, begonias and other plants which give a fresh and attractive aspect to the green-house. Two dwarf orange trees laden with ripe fruit are of special interest.In the lecture room instructions are given in the principles that underlie the growth and culture of plant life.
The exercises are to a degree conversational. In this way the student learns to express himself before his colleagues.In the department of agricultural physics, of which Prof. King is at the head, students are engaged in various experimental work.In the line of stock every possible effort is put forth to determine the most profitable breeds for the various conditions.This is but a sample of the practical work which is being carried on, and it certainly can not prove other than of the very greatest benefit to the general farming industry of the state.The institutes, which are a part of the general work of the expansion of the general knowledge of agriculture, are being well attended and are moving very smoothly. Workers from Illinois and New York are assisting the regular corps of local workers.Cut flowers, plants of all kinds, decorating for receptions and parties a place is good enough for a bicycle through the winter, so they dump it in the basement where it is damp, or into the coal shed where it is almost obliterated with coal dust, etc. Of course they don't think of the consequences until spring, then Oh! My!

they wish they had taken it to Wm. J.
