Wisconsin Players Hold Comedy Night Friday at Lathrop

Comedy night, the annual affair when the Wisconsin players present a series of plays, will be held Friday, May 16, at Lathrop concert hall, according to James Hemingway '25, business manager of comedy night.

The plays selected to be given at this year's performance are comedies by well known American American playwrights.

"The Trysting Place" by Booth Tarkington, "The Constant Lover" by St. John Harkin, and "The Crimson Cocoon" by Ian Hay are the vehicles chosen.

Mathews Says Plan to Increase Auto Gas Mileage Good

A chemical plan to double an auto's mileage on gas was announced by the petroleum division of American Chemical society and is declared to be possible by Prof. J. H. Mathews of the chemistry department.

Research has proven that by adding a small amount of tetra-ethyl lead, approximately one-tenth of one per cent to gasoline, the motor knock, which an engine experiences when it is laboring up hill with the throttle wide open, is entirely eliminated.

"Much more power could be obtained from gasoline by the addition of this substance, but the engine of the present car does not permit this for it does not afford high enough compression," Professor Mathews said, "Gasoline containing this compound is already on the market in Illinois. It is colored red to prevent its being confused with ordinary gasoline and is sold at a slightly higher price."

Commerce School, Madison Business Men, Dine Tonight

A jubilee dinner to mark the twenty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the course in commerce will be held at 6 o'clock tonight in Lathrop parlors. The dinner will be attended by students in the commerce course, faculty members, and Madison business men. The purpose of the joint banquet is to bring the officers and students of the course and the business men into closer contact with each other.

The course in commerce was founded 24 years ago by Dr. W. A. Scott, the present director. The idea of such a course was ridiculed at the time of its inception, but has come to be recognized as important and useful. Many other colleges and universities have founded commerce courses patterned after Wisconsin's.

The principal address of the evening will be delivered by Carl Clausen, former president of the Wisconsin Manufacturer's association, who will talk on "The State Tax Situation." Mr. Clausen will use material gathered during his work as chairman of a committee investigating tax laws in Wisconsin and other state as the basis of his talk.

Dr. Scott will tell of the reasons for the institution of the commerce course, and recount some of the history of the course. Prof. Stephen Gilman of the commerce course will also speak.

SHOWERMAN TO SPEAK AT ITALIAN CLUB MEET

Prof. Grant Showerman will give an illustrated lecture in the auditorium of the Engineering building, at 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday, under the auspices of the Italian club.

Professor Showerman is qualified to speak on the Fascisti, having recently returned from a two year stay in Rome where he was annual professor at the American academy. During that time he followed the movements of the Fascisti party under Mussolini and was an eye witness of the march on Rome.

The last meeting of the Italian club was held April 8. The club adopted the name of Ausonia which was suggested by Professor Ros-tovtseff who spoke at the meeting.

First in Meet Concluded
Yesterday

Madison Central and East Side high schools won first place in the Wis. state high school contest held here yesterday and Thursday by the School of Music. The combined organization representing the two local schools received 23 points, and Washington high school, Milwaukee was the nearest competitor with 18 points.

Announcement of the winners and awarding of the championship trophy and prizes followed a banquet given to the contestants by Madison men's clubs in the Luther Memorial church.

Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music, gave the address of welcome at the banquet, and Prof. P. W. Dykema acted as toastmaster. W. Norris Wentworth '24, Lois Jacobs '24, and Aagot Borge, of the School of Music faculty represented campus musical societies.

Roland Meehman won second place in the boys' vocal event for the Madison group, the orchestra received second place, and the band honorable mention.

Other winning contestants are as follows:

Washington High school, Milwaukee, first in piano solo event, Ethel Silver, violinist, first in girl's vocal solo, Lillian Wordell, and first

LIGHT BALLOTING MARKS ELECTIONS

Sophomore Union Board Candidates Run Close, Other
Results Scattered

In a colorless election, marked by clean but light balloting, 15 candidates were elected to five boards which govern student activities yesterday. Eight men were elected by default two weeks ago when the petitions for office were filed. As the editor-in-chief and business manager of the 1926 Badger were not voted upon, not much interest was displayed in the election.

The closest race was that for for Union board in which James R. Flickinger polled 129 votes and Carl O. Klath 125. Candidates for other offices ran far apart.

Only 968 votes were cast for the three students running for the one board of control in comparison with year position on The Cardinal approximately 1068 votes cast a year ago when one candidate was running for the board. The lightest voting was in the junior class candidates for the Union board, in which five men polled a total of 475 votes. The voting for other boards ran light in proportion.

New senate regulations for voting were put into operation for the first time at a general election yesterday. Clerks initialed each ballot as it was handed to the vote, and another clerk initialed the ballot again before placing it in the box. No conversation was allowed among students who were marking the ballots.

"This was the most orderly election in years. The election officials were not forced to take any ballots away from the voters on account of conversing with others, and the cooperation of candidates and enforcement of regulations was very simple," said Wilbur W. Wittenberg '24, chairman of the elections committee of the Student senate, last night.

SOPHOMORE STUDENT INVENTS NEW BRUSH

Mildred S. Berning '26, 2210 West Lawn avenue, has been granted a patent on a new kind of hairbrush. She is a student in the home economics school.

When asked where she got the idea for the hairbrush Miss Berning said: "Why I just thought I'd like a brush like that myself, so I went ahead and invented it."

The brush consists of a set of bristles in a movable frame. Thus when one owns an expensive ivory hairbrush and the bristles wear out all one has to do is to buy a new frame.

Her home is in Reedsburg. She plans to arrange for the manufacture and sale of the brush herself, she declares.

PHILLIPS PROBES 'ISABEL'S' DELAY IN MAKING CALL

Life Boat, Slow Getting Start ed Yesterday Morning; Investigate Causes

Investigation into the circumstances which delayed the life boat "Isabel" several minutes in responding to a call for help from University bay yesterday morning, will receive prompt attention, according to statements made last night by J. D. Phillips, business manager of the university.

Because the person who reported the trouble furnished very meagre information, the search for the scene of the reported accident was made more difficult, thereby hindering the work of the rescue boat when it reached the bay.

Shortly before 10 o'clock a call was received at the pumping station reporting persons in need of help just off Picnic point, on the east side. The distress signal for University bay, one long blast followed by four short notes, was sounded immediately.

Signal Code Missing

At the boat house, where the Isabel lay quietly in its berth, activity began with the raising of the old wooden gate, a clumsy task that consumed several valuable minutes, according to testimony of students who had hurried to the shore when the whistle was blown. The first men to arrive made inquiry of Captain Isabel, pilot of the boat regarding the location of the persons in distress.

"It was one long and four short blasts, wasn't it? Well, that's the signal for University bay," was the captain's reply. No copy of the signal code could be found in the boat house, and the telephone, out of order since Thursday morning, was useless for verifying the call.

The Isabel backed out slowly and faced about, heading well over toward the end of the point, but in crossing the breakwater of rocks, submerged stones that have caused accidents to many canoes raised the stern of the boat out of the water, bending the rudder and injuring the propeller slightly.

Thought False Alarm

Unable to control his craft, Captain Isabel stopped the engine and after repairing the damage as best he could, headed again for Picnic point.

Government Needs Economists' Advice Says Ely Speaker

Prof. Frank A. Setter, of Princeton university, speaking on "The Influence of the Economist in Business and Government" at the exercises preliminary to the unveiling of the Richard T. Ely portrait at Agricultural hall last night declared that "the most pressing need of the nation is more wisdom in the art of using wealth, so as to make industry of service to mankind." This can be accomplished, he asserted, by providing well trained economists for every governmental department dealing with economic issues.

President Birge, who spoke on "The Contribution of Richard T. Ely to Economics," said His distinctive service as an economist arises from his large freedom of thought and his investigations leading to truth which evolved from a permanent youth and a mind which has never reached its limits."

Dr. Ely, in a short talk at the conclusion of the exercises, assigned his good health, unfailing cooperation, and the working out of a group system of study in economics as causes leading to the results he has obtained in his field. He explained his group system in which students of economics study in laboratories much the same as students of chemistry and physics.

Preceding the unveiling ceremonies a banquet in honor of Dr. Ely was held at the Woman's building. Talks were given by Prof. John R. Commons, toastmaster; Dr. W. A. Scott, Prof. E. A. Ross and Dr. Ely.

TEN GIRLS PLAY WITH GREEN BAY HIGH BAND

Ten little girls in jaunty green uniforms and trim-looking caps contribute a bit of feminine charm in addition to real music to the Green Bay high school's band which played at Music hall yesterday.

Four of the girls play clarinets, three flutes, one the piccolo, one the cornet, and one the bells. The band was organized a year and a half ago by E. C. Moore, director. It is now composed of 19 boys and 10 girls, most of them freshmen and sophomores in the high school.

One girl played in the Washington high school band of Milwaukee and one in the Waupun high school band.

BARRY, SHATTUCK WIN SLOGAN PRIZE

"On Wisconsin Women" to Characterize Co-ed's Spring Activities on Campus

"On Wisconsin Women" has been selected as the prize slogan for field day, the dance drama, and senior swingout.

Lois Barry '25 and Kathryn Shattuck '25, are the joint winners of the W. A. A. prize which is offered annually for the slogan which characterizes the spirit of these three events.

This slogan will be used on 200 posters which are now being made by the publicity committee. The dance drama and senior swingout will be held on Thursday, May 29. In case of rain these two events will be shifted to May 31.

Women's field day and track will be held at Camp Randall on Saturday, May 31. At this time the final class games in base ball, tennis, track, archery and golf will be played. The all-year class championship will be decided as a result of these contests.

Gay Colors Give Aesthetic Dance Room in Lathrop

A dainty and graceful background is effected through the new decorations of the aesthetic dancing room on the fifth floor of Lathrop hall. The psychological effect of a light, airy, and pleasant environment is apparent on entering the room. A pleasing combination of pale blue and gray is carried out in the tints on the walls and ceilings, and in the gray drapes which cover the end walls of the room.

To aid in producing a softened effect, rose shades with black peacocks, cover the lights.

A new innovation is the introduction of statues, one of the Winged Victory and of Hebe, and of prints of Greek statues. The classes are studying the prints of David de Bernini, Rome, Perseo, Vatican, Discubola, Vatican, Apollo de Belvedere, Rome, Frieze of Luca de Robbia, La Faciulla d'Anzio, Rome, two archaic Greek statues, museum at Rome, Cupid and Psyche, Vatican, Bernini's "Proserpine," Borghese gallery, Rome, Bernini's Apollo and Daphne, Rome.

The whole atmosphere of the room is conducive to a greater sense of beauty and rhythm which are the ideals of aesthetic dancing.

MISS JENSEN TALKS ON DECORATIONS

Miss Evelyn Jensen, of the home economics department of the Extension division, gave three series of lectures on house furnishing and interior decorations under the auspices of furniture companies in Milwaukee and Sheboygan recently.

Miss Jensen gave eight talks to the patrons of a Milwaukee store, and four talks at a Sheboygan store. This was the first time such lectures have been given to patrons, although Miss Jensen has addressed employees of furniture companies before.

Because of the death of Prof. I. S. Griffith the Sketch-pad revue which the art class had arranged to give this month will not be held, it has been announced. Professor Griffiths was chairman of the art department. If it is possible the vaudeville will be given next semester, Samuel Himmelfarb '27, chairman for the revue said yesterday.

He acted as sales manager of the southern territory of the company prior to his transfer to the China branch.

He will remain in Shanghai for three years.

HOME ECS MAY RETURN FROM TRIP TOMORROW

Members of the classes in textiles and bacteriology in the department of home economics, who have been in Milwaukee on field trip since Wednesday are expected to return to Madison tomorrow or Monday morning.

The expedition is in charge of Miss Alice Kinslow, Miss Dorothy Wood, and Miss Frieda Bachman, all of the department. The purpose of the trip is to make tours of investigation through various factories and mills to see practical demonstrations of the work and theories that have been taught in the classes during the semester.

This field trip is an annual occurrence, and is a regular part of the courses.

Engineers Combat Knicker Menace; Seniors Like Them

To wear or not to wear knicker—that is the question that is confronting our campus Apollos these fine spring days. They sit gloomily at the feet of Lincoln on upper campus and ponder upon it, when their thoughts should be on more important matters, such as their next dates, the first swim, and finals.

The Law school and the College of Engineering have harshly and unmistakably voiced their unanimous opinions on the matter, much to the discomfort of the wearers of knickers as came within the vision of their restless eyes.

But comments of prominent upperclassmen indicate a disposition to be rather lenient in the matter.

"I don't wear 'em for the simple reason that I haven't any," confessed Ellis Fulton '25, editor of the 1925 Badger. "They're all right, but some persons I could mention who wear them ought to see themselves as others see them."

"They are the most practical things that were ever invented," said Howard Lyman '24. "They save clothing and pressing bills—and as for $12 hose—well, you don't have to go to the most expensive place in town, you know."

"I don't mind them," was the nonchalant comment of Esther Bilstad '24. "They were intended for use on the golf links and are better there than on the street or campus. Men ought to use discretion in wearing them."

"It's up to the individual," said Margaret Callsen '24. "There are so many new ideas and customs constantly coming before us, and it would be foolish to condemn them just because we are not used to them. I think knickers are wonderful for women when they are worn on proper occasions."

At the Phi Alpha Delta, law fraternity, a student who termed himself "just a small boy" acted as spokesman for the fraternity and for the law school at large.

"A law student wore a pair the other day, but he hasn't been seen since. I think, though, if a large and well developed individual with an undershot jaw were to appear in a pair, the lawyers and engineers would 'razz' him, but if same large muscular individual were to approach with a pugnacious look in his eyes, the doors of the Law and Engineering buildings, respectively would be taken off in the grand rush for the entrance," the lawyer said.

"It hurts us to have to be in agreement with the Law school on this thing," said a senior engineering student at the Triangle house. "However, in a case like this, where a menace to the school is to be combated, we are willing to sacrifice anything."

CARDINAL SPORTS

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLD"ROLLIE" WILLIAMS UP
FOR COACHING POST
AT IOWA UNIVERSITYWould Be in Charge of Freshman Athletics All Year Around

Roland G. "Rollie" Williams, former three sport man and now athletic director and head coach at the Miliken university, Decatur, Ill., is being considered for a position as coach of freshmen athletics at the University of Iowa.

"The position, as outlined to me in our conference this week, looked pretty good and I may be at Iowa next year," Williams said yesterday morning.

It is understood from Rollie that the job is a year around one and that he would be in charge of freshman athletics if he took it, coaching the first year men in three sports—football, baseball and basketball.

Williams, known in his school days as the Edgerton flash, was one of the greatest athletes ever developed at Wisconsin. He was a nine-letter man, a star in football and basketball for three years, and captain of both the football and base ball teams his last year, in 1922-23.

Hitting the High
Spots With Ken

Let it be known to all present that the charge on which Gerber was declared definitely ineligible has been known to the athletic council ever since last summer. He submitted the facts just as they stand now and was declared ineligible.

Luke says: If it don't quit raining these frat boats will have to hang around and go to summer school in order to get all their infraternity games played off.

Did it ever occur to you that those little glass enclosed coops on the roof of the new hospital would make wonderful places for the dice-shooting squad to practice in?

What we are afraid of is that some day one of these coaches that people keep saying are whipping their teams into shape will bring one out and chase said people to warmer climates.

"Everything will be jake if the lake doesn't freeze up again before we go to Poughkeepsie," says one of the crew men. While there is sun there is hope.

The girl across the street comes in with the belated comment that the umpire at the Purdue game was the most graceful umps she had ever seen, especially with his hands.

Hi-Spots: It seems to me that the Athletic council is making a huge mistake in not sending the freshman crew to Poughkeepsie. The freshmen races there are a big part of the program and it would be a great valuable experience for our frosh to be there.

Governor Blaine
Asks Resignation of Engineer Hirst

Reports were current at the capitol today that Gov. Blaine has asked for the resignation of A. R. Hirst as state highway engineer.

Following the differences that have arisen as a result of the removal of Senator George Staudenmayer from the legislative committee of the highway commission the feud existing between the governor and Hirst has broken out anew.

It is said that the governor recently made a request orally of Mr. Hirst that he resign. Mr. Hirst replied that he would resign providing that the governor state his reasons in writing.

When questioned about the matter today Mr. Hirst refused to either affirm or deny that the governor

GOLF TEAM OFF
SUNDAY FOR PLAY

The varsity golf team will leave Sunday night for Minneapolis where they will have a match play with the Gophers on Monday. The men who will make the trip are Captain Buck, Harry Spear, A. V. Stegeman and either Robert Porter or Val Guenther. The men have put in a hard week of practice at Maple Bluff and are showing good form. The exact strength of the Gopher team is not known but Captain Buck believes the chances are good. The team will be at a disadvantage playing on a foreign field but the Gophers are also at a disadvantage because they have been slowed up by rain and cold. If the men keep up the usual form they should make it tough for the northerners.

FROSH-ILLINI WIRE
MEET POSTPONEDIllinois Runners Out of Condition, Claim; To Compete
Next Thursday

Once again the yearling tracksters were disappointed in not getting to run off their meet with the Illinois frosh. About 30 first year men gathered at Camp Randall yesterday afternoon prepared to put up a real battle against the much touted Illini frosh cinder path men, only to learn that the meet had again been postponed.

This time it was the Illini tribe that asked to have the meet run at a later date as their men were out of condition. This makes once apiece that the schools have asked to have the meet postponed.

It has been decided definitely to run the meet next Thursday, May 15, unless some unforeseen accident happens in the meantime or unless weather conditions will not permit the running of the meet.

This meet is one of the most important on the frosh schedule as the yearling squads of the two schools have not met for several years and Coaches Jones, Burke and Berg are very anxious for the Badger frosh to bring home a victory. Both the Illinois and Wisconsin first year squads are strong. That is the reason that the coaches of both institutions are waiting for a time when the conditions at both schools will be equal, as otherwise the two teams are about evenly matched and if one school should have an advantage of weather conditions or some other advantage it would mean probable defeat for the opposing team.

FROSH TENNIS MEN
TO MEET AT 1 O'CLOCK

All freshman tennis players have been asked to meet at 1 o'clock today at the varsity courts, ready for play. The schedule of games has been drawn up.

has asked him to resign. He asked to be excused from discussing the matter.

New developments in the situation regarding the state highway department and special legislative committee were in prospect today, following receipt here of information from State Senator George Staudenmayer that he contends he has not been legally removed as chairman of the special committee.

Senator Staudenmayer also denied that the special legislative committee has been called to meet here with the state highway commission next week. He said he will refuse to participate in committee meetings or to audit expense accounts of members.

Following an informal meeting of the legislative committee in Green Bay last week, announcement was made that Staudenmayer had been relieved of the chairmanship and succeeded by Senator Oscar Morris of Milwaukee.

"BIG WALT," GERMAN STUDENT,
RUNS, SLINGS A WICKED DISCUSS

Walter Pellni, otherwise known as "Big Walt", German student from the University of Dansig who is spending a few weeks at Wisconsin investigating methods of teaching mathematics, is an athlete of considerable note on the European continent.

Pellni comes from East Prussia, the section of Germany that produces most of Germany's athletes. Pellni is an expert swimmer, an excellent crew man, a good track man. He is also proficient in many other sports. For five years he was a member of Germany's crew that held the championship of the continent.

In 1920 Pellni placed second in the discus throw at the Olympic games held at Antwerp and is still capable of hurling the leaden platter a considerable distance. "Big Walt" is always in condition and last Tuesday he went out to Camp Randall to limber up a bit. His first performance was to leap over the high jump with the bar resting at 5 feet 6 inches. The next feat of this German Hercules was to jog a mile in less than 5 minutes. After this little exercise he went over with the discus throwers and tossed the old plate about the field. Then to put a final touch to his day's work he went down to the gym and gave a beautiful swimming exhibition. This would be enough for any athlete but it is exceptionally remarkable when one considers that the big German boy is now 29 years old. At this age the majority of American athletes are retired.

Pellni likes the spirit of the American athletes and greatly enjoyed his visit to Camp Randall. His one criticism of the American system is that the athletes here wear too many clothes. In Germany the athletes wear only a pair of trunks. He contends that the gym jersey interferes with the proper perspiring of the upper part of the body.

German athletics have been taken up with renewed vigor since the war and the Germans are making extensive preparations for the coming Olympics.

Pellni is by nature an engineer and the real purpose of his visit to America is to study American methods of engineering. He has spent several weeks in Pittsburg, Chicago and Milwaukee. From here he goes to Peru to study some new engineering feats there. He is greatly interested in American universities and especially the fraternity system. He has visited several fraternities while here. His one message to American college students is that we should show more appreciation for the benefits in America.

Hitchcock Scores
Big Hit in Typical American Comedy

By TORMENTOR

In a distinctly American comedy, built upon all the traditional standbys of the stage for the last 30 years plus much post-Volsteadian humor, Raymond Hitchcock at the Parkway last night displayed a remarkable dramatic feeling and understanding as the principal character, Clem Hawley, in "The Old Soak."

Although the elements of the play were hackneyed they were fitted together in admirable dramatic style so that interest even in the play itself was maintained throughout. But to Hitchcock himself goes the great share of the credit for the show's tremendous success. He has a perfect feeling for what is known as "stage business" and his asides and actions contributed as much to the humor of the play as to its successful interpretation. As Frank Bacon made a lovable character out of "Lightnin' Bill Jones", so Raymond Hitchcock has done the same with Clem Hawley, perhaps, however, with less pathos.

Except for a rather unconvincing Clem Jr., a capable cast supported Raymond Hitchcock. With this combination of a well-known star even though he be in a new field, plus a good average play, plus a good cast, plus much human interest, it was inevitable that the show would be well received. And speaking of Hitchcock's newness in the drama, having, as he said, heretofore always been associated with

PROBE ON "ISABEL"

When it was learned at the pumping station that the Isabel was heading for second bay and the far side of the point, the signal, one long blast, calling the boat back to the station, was blown until the craft could be seen returning and skirting the east shore of the point.

On the return trip, Captain Isabel circled the bay several times, finding nothing, according to his statement, but a floating cask. No trace of the man who had reported the accident could be found, and the call was judged a false alarm, in the opinion of the men in the boat.

Isabel said that he did not hear the blast calling him back, but returned to search the near bay after he had found nothing on the far side of the point.

University officials will investigate the reasons for the absence of copies of the whistle code, which should have been posted prominently on the walls of the boat house. The telephone will be ordered repaired immediately, it was stated by the business department.

Repair Damage Done

Students hearing the repeated blasts of the pumping station whistle were alarmed, and many interpreted the signal as indication of fire at Chadbourne hall. According to the University fire code, the blasts indicating fire at or near any campus buildings, are sounded only by the whistle at the heating station.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL
RULES GRID STAR
OUT OF CONTESTSBase Action of Grounds Money
Received For Officiating
at Games

The athletic career of E. C. Gerber, star Badger gridiron and tank star, under Wisconsin colors came to an end yesterday with the announcement by the athletic council that he has been declared definitely ineligible for further play in intercollegiate competition for having violated rule five of the conference code which provides that no student shall participate in any intercollegiate contest who has used, or is using, his knowledge of athletics or his athletic or gymnastic skill for gain.

Gerber, an outstanding man in the sports in which he has participated, has been the target of professionalism charges since last fall when he was first declared ineligible on the eve of the Illinois football game. He was kept out of football play for the rest of the season.

After the football season was over he was given a clean slate by the conference of coaches and Big Ten officials. The "iron man of football" then began laying plans for gridiron play this fall for Wisconsin.

He then joined Joe Steinauer's swimming team and, with Captain Czerwonky, was a big point getter until again barred from Big Ten competition because of further charges of professionalism.

The grounds for the last charge are claimed to be based on money received for officiating in high school football and basketball games while attending the La Crosse Normal, and before entering the universities. These activities had not been taken into account when he was reinstated by the conference.

SCOUT SWIMMING MEET
SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Due to the conflict with the interfraternity swimming meet, the local boy scout swimming meet, which was scheduled to be held last night has been postponed until Wednesday night, May 14, at 7 o'clock.

From the time the Isabel went out until its return, the lake shore was lined with hundreds of students, attracted by the alarm, and curious to find the source of the trouble. The damage to the life boat will be repaired at once and the craft will be in running order again today, according to the captain.

THE REASONS WHY

Prof. Richard Theodore Ely was honored last night because he was one of a group of economists who first regarded economists as an industrial problem "not of labor and capital but of laborers and capitalists," who first substituted the idea that economics was the study of the wants of men and the gratification of those wants instead of a study of wealth. Adam Smith, the father of economics, brought order and system into it. One hundred years later students of the subject, among whom was Professor Ely, turned the study into broader fields. Individually Professor Ely led in the humanizing of economics. He was one of the first economists to become acquainted personally with working men, to go to their meetings. A tireless worker and inspiring teacher he has a great following of disciples throughout the country. Professor Ely has recently celebrated his seventieth birthday. He has taught at Wisconsin since 1892, 32 years. Of late he has become especially prominent through his original work on the problem of land economics, a work to which he himself, as well as other economists, attaches the utmost importance.

KEYS—AND CHARMS

The Student senate appears to be going through unnecessary contortions to restrict the use of "key" awards by campus organizations not of the scholastic honorary sort, contortions that are quite typical of actions in the past that have lost for the senate so much respect.

In the first place, it is doubtful if the senate has the authority to dictate what the members of any campus organization may wear on their vests of watch chains, so long as no fraudulent imitations are involved. The action of the Student court last year in ruling decisively that the senate did not have the authority to require the wearing of green caps of the members of the freshmen class would seem to eliminate even the doubt, so far as the Senate's power in matters of personal adornment is concerned.

Secondly, it is rather illogical for the senate to suppose that it can protect the dignity of the honor society key by eliminating other watch chain awards when Kappa Beta Phi sports a key, innumerable fraternities and lodges display key-shaped trinkets for the traditional vest chains. If the meaning of the honor key were in danger of being lost, it would have been lost a long time ago.

The chief point against this "key" argument raised by the senate and some honorary societies is, however, that the publications and organization who have adopted a new award were not aware that they were usurping the position of the honor society award when they joined their many sister publications and organizations in other colleges in giving a watch charm award in place of the fast disappearing vest pin. If the members of honor societies are any respecters of their own societies and their own honors, they will appreciate that the recognition awards other organizations make, no matter how similar, cannot affect their own good repute or lower the dignity of their position. A professorship is awarded to the philosophy instructor and another to the football coach, but no one is deceived as to the relative values or meanings of the two professorships.

It is a sorry arraignment of honor societies if, as has been inferred, the key and the wearing of it are the only things that inspire students to respect the organization or to seek membership in it.

The publications and organizations awarding "keys" are not blameless in precipitating the action of the senate. They have over-advertised their awards as "keys" when the awards very decidedly are not "keys." They are ordinary recognition watch charms denoting membership on a certain staff or in certain organization and they consistently should be called charms. They haven't the significance nor are they intended to have the significance of a scholastic key. "Key" is a misnomer for a publication award; it is a charm.

True, charms and keys may look alike from a distance, but so also do a Ph. D. certificate and a high school diploma. They read quite differently when examined closely; and that's what counts.

It is the duty of the senate to make itself ridiculous, to rescind its action.

A NEW USE FOR GATE RECEIPTS

We have found that our beautiful library is not quite as beautiful in its utility as a casual use of it had lead us to believe. What is being done about remedying the situation? Nothing in particular. Of a necessity, red tape connected with any enterprise such as improving library conditions is bound to make for slow action. Perhaps sometime, after the athletic department has raised enough money from gate receipts to set up the necessary buildings for its use, that money may be turned into some other channel. There is a great trouble connected with trying to mix up the finances of various departments of the institution, but every department is for the one general good. The athletic department has probably the largest source of revenue at its disposal, gate receipts, and when the stadium is completed and the field house built its revenue will be even greater.

Far from being disgraceful, it is splendid to have some such legitimate source of revenue as athletic gate receipts to turn back into an undertaking such as library improvement. Educators have long been ranting about the enormous amount of moneys taken in by gate receipts. Perhaps they would be happy and altogether satisfied if these gate receipts, which will assume huge proportions here before many years go by, are put to some strictly educational purpose. Impossible? And why, pray?

The Division of Social Studies which has been investigating the situation of library has devised another and probably a more practical method of financing enlargements and improvements on the library. Realizing that the provision and administration of a duplicate undergraduate library involves a heavy charge upon the university, the Division is of the opinion that this charge should, at least in part, be met by the requirements of fees from the students using the library.

"The extent to which the cost should be borne by such fees and the allocation of such fees involved will be points of principle and practice which would require discussion and wisdom," reads the report. "The Division confines itself to the recommendation of the general principle, leaving the working out of its application to further discussion."

This idea is in accordance with systems used elsewhere. At other institutions of this kind a blanket charge is made which includes library fees. True it is that the student here is now charged a library maintenance fee. But unless it is necessary to deduct fines from the fee, it is refunded to the student, at the end of his college course. A regular maintenance fee would help solve the question and make it possible to relieve congestion and inadequacies in the library by enlarging the building.

The joy of the drive and the north end of Park street has probably been spoiled for a good many people as a result—would you say?—of the power of the press.

"Rollo's Wild Oat." What in the world can that mean?

It is reported that the United States murder rate is climbing. Perhaps that's because of the fact that Congress—at least the lower house—is enlarging.

An all-weather road between Madison and La Crosse is promised. So is—well, a lot of things.

Now that the crew is going to Poughkeepsie, probably we can look for a revival of athletic fame that will compare with the early Badger football-history, and Dr. W. E. Meanwell's basketball record. Prospects look rather bright for football, and outdoor track promises to bring some medals back to Madison from the conference meet at Chicago next month.

Writing Skyrockets is like driving a car. If you go too fast your pinched for speeding and if you go too slow the whole street bawls you out.

Katowitz '25 and Richard Rynders '25. Charles Greco '24, and R. H. Benet '25, represented the defendant. The purpose of the annual meeting this year is to encourage the establishment of a chapter in that state. At present the organization exists only in Wisconsin and Illinois.

Only Two Co-eds Have Dared Invade Engineering School

The College of Engineering has so far shown the most successful stand against the invasion of the co-ed. Into that school of skyrockets and cement, only two women have dared to venture.

In spite of the fierce way in which the lawyers answer the challenges from across the campus, they have had to allow eight women to enter their ranks.

Even though there is so much propaganda against the modern woman, the home economics department with its 327 women, ranks next to the College of Letters and Science in popularity.

If figures reveal facts, 132 women as compared to the 25 men enrolled in physical education, indicate a generation of feminine athletes.

The ags and doctors seem to vie with each other for favor as there are 17 co-eds in each school.

One man is enrolled in the library school in spite of the 37 women, and in the School of Music only 11 men balance the 116 women.

Eighty girls expect to become business women, so enrolled in the course in commerce.

In the school of journalism, there is a close race with the co-eds two points in the lead, the ratio stands 163 to 161.

The College of Letters and Science in which the majority of the students are enrolled numbers 1693 men and 1552 women.

BABSON GIVES PRIZES FOR ECONOMICS ESSAY

Dixie Punch and Southern Moss Are Features of Revue

The Southern club party tonight is probably the most unusual on the calendar for this week end. It will be a spring revue and the decorating and entertainment promises to be unusual. It is not to be exclusively southern, however, as northerners are cordially invited to attend and partake of Dixie hospitality. Besides this party there are a large number of formals and one or two informals, there are only two week ends after this one when parties can be held, so there is the usual last minute rush to get all the spring formals in and all the engagements announced before the ban is on.

An informal spring revue is being given this evening by members of the Southern club. Southern moss will be used for the decorations to give the Dixie effect. Old time Southern punch will be served. The specialty program will include several banjo numbers by negro impersonators, and an Argentine tango done by John and Janet McCausland '26. The programs will be decorated with cotton balls. The patrons and patronesses will include Dean and Mrs. Goodnight, Dean F. Louise Nardin, Prof. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Cooksie, Prof. and Mrs. Smiley Blanton, Prof. and Mrs. Twenhofel, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Stovall, Miss Abbid Marlott, Miss Blanche Trilling, Miss R. M. Nichols, Miss Helen Brockhausen, Miss Bertha Elbel, Miss Mary Scanlon and Helen Baldauf '25.

Colored lights will be used to decorate the Phi Delta Theta house for their informal party this evening. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. ## SPANISH COMEDY IS WITTY PIECE

"Parque Si" to Be Given By Spaniards on Tuesday Night

Facetious repartee characterizes "Porque Si", a one-act comedy which six members of the Spanish club will give following a business meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening in Lathrop parlors. S. A. Wofsy, who is coaching the play says all who have a fair understanding of Spanish will appreciate it and he invites them to come. Admission is free.

The cast consists of Richard Crosse '24, Arturo, heroine's father, Bernice McCullough '24, Baulima, heroine's mother, Winston Callender '24, Patricio, the villain, Enoch Judkins '27, Gonzalo, the hero, Ethel Gould '26, Piebad, the heroine, and Florence Gelbsban '27, the maid.

The story deals with the way in which a girl accepts a proposal. If she says "yes" she is sincere and anxious. If she says "all right," she is indifferent and is accepting only warm heartedly. In the play the heroine accepts her lover by saying "porque si," which to those who understand Spanish shows that she really wants him. Limaris Rives, one of the foremost modern Spanish authors, wrote the play.

COLD WEATHER BOOMS BUSINESS AT CLINIC

The damp, cold weather may have decreased activities on the lake and drive, but it has increased business at the clinic. There have been more colds and slight illnesses than usual this month. Sunshine and May flowers have not yet displaced slickers and umbrellas.

As a cure for colds, chlorine inhalations have not proven very successful, partly due to the fact that too few students submitted themselves to take the test.

From a bacteriological point of view, the treatment is useless, according to Prof. Paul F. Clark, for the chlorine gas was found to have no effect upon the bacteria of the throat and nose membranes. This use of the gas was first instituted in the army, but has never been extensively used.

Mrs. Stone is the wife of Homer Stone, former assemblyman. She told how to get along with country people, what the outside duties of the rural teacher are, and why the country teacher should live in the district in which she teaches.

BULLETINS REVEAL PERSONAL TYPES

Many Interesting Things Are Revealed By Notices on Boards

Scraps of paper collected by birds for a nest is the impression given by some of the bulletin boards in Bascom, but if you glance closely at them you will make some interesting disclosures. Bulletin boards, like people, have different personalities.

Here is the orderly, dignified bulletin board of the graduate school. Doesn't it suggest a complacent, well-ordered grad?

And the bulletin boards of the language departments! Flamboyant posters proclaim French and Spanish plays. Many are the announcements of fellowships in foreign lands. Teachers' office hours are written in a hand which gives away the owners' nationality.

Back to the bulletin boards in the main corridor, with the cluttered, confusing array of notices. A colorful poster advises men to attend the Citizens' Military Training camp this summer. It pictures the good times to be had with swimming and other sports, but quite neglects to present visions of men washing dishes in tubs of greasy water.

Twenty-seven people are advertising that they lost their fountain pens, while only four admit that they found one. Two persons are requesting the return of compacts, watches, purses, and notebooks. One man would be grateful if his cane were returned to him. There is one ad each for the return of gloves, bracelets, scarfs, combs, and keys. Three persons lost their glasses.

The outcome might be romantic if the following ads, put up by different parties, happen to bring just the right combination of results. "For sale, a formal dress, used once." "For sale, a tuxedo." "For sale, a leather davenport."

Lately a most colorful group of posters with offers to do typing has appeared. One is a Halloween water color, which makes one wonder what the connection is between a pleading yellow and black dog and an offer to type. Another of the same group seems to be a futuristic waterfall in black and blue. In another, "deliver" is spelled "di-liver" and some wit has asked on the poster if the terms include spelling.

That university students are superstitious is suggested by the number of hairpins that have been picked up and hung on any handy nail. Conscientious persons also fasten gloves, belts, buttons, and hairnets on the bulletin boards.

Some 530 persons including high schools musicians and members of Gyro, Rotary, Optimists, Knights of Columbus, Kiwanis, and Lions clubs attended the banquet.

MONROE, Wis.—A 20 foot fall from a telephone pole probably saved the life of Tom Slowley, lineman here today, after receiving a 66,000 volt shock. The fall revived Slowley after the shock and he was taken to the hospital.

STATE DIETITIAN WILL ASSUME DUTIES SOON

Miss Laura Faville of Lake Mills, has been selected as state dietitian for institutions under the board of control, members of the state board stated today. The dietitian will take up her work next week. The appointment was made under a plan adopted by the board of control for closer supervision of food supplies for inmates of the state institutions. That diet has an important part in the reclamation of the state's unfortunates is the reason for the creation of the new position.
